the Free Will Baptist

AYDEN, NORTH CAROLINA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1956

JAN 5 1956

DURHAM, N. C.

*The cross that He gave may be heavy,
But it ne'er outweighs His grace;
The storm that I feared may surround me,
But it ne'er excludes His face.*

*His will I have joy in fulfilling,
As I'm walking in His sight;
My all to the blood I am bringing,
It alone can keep me right.*

A NEW BEGINNING

You are perhaps acquainted with the elementary school pupil who, during a writing lesson in which he was using pen and ink for the first time, spoiled his copy and asked the teacher for a new sheet. You were probably impressed, as we were, with the emotional upheaval which must have shaken the little fellow when, in fear and remorse, he asked the stern schoolmaster to let him begin again. But had you ever wondered what type of individual this boy might have become if he had not had the courage to face his failure, and the determination to start over again? What happened to those other pupils who let their fear get the better of them, together with those who cared too little about turning in a good copy to even make a second effort.

This little story reveals certain personality types which are already beginning to shape the behavior patterns of the individuals concerned. Those mannerisms tend to become more and more fixed as the individuals grow older.

At this point in your reading, will you pause to ask yourself what type of behavior you are following? A careful analysis of your own reactions may open your eyes to some grave imperfections in your personality.

There is immeasurable value in making New Year's resolutions. We dare make this assertion in the face of the current popular opinion against making resolutions. Realism says, "Why make resolutions only to see them broken ere many days or weeks have past?" Experience reminds us of all the good resolutions which we have broken in the past. Then, add to this the fact that breaking resolutions has become the trade goat of joke makers during this time of the year. On the other hand, despite this realistic trend, one must admit that making resolutions reveals some exceedingly noble traits of character in the persons making them. Let us note:

1. Those who make resolutions admit that they are not satisfied with life on the level at which they are living. Their actions indicate that they have sat down with themselves and done some serious thinking. They have looked at themselves in relation to life, and they have not liked what they saw. Their reaction is somewhat like that of the man, lying in bed with a hang-over from a drunken brawl, whose wife showed him his picture in the morning paper alongside a picture of himself taken while he was sober, decent and respectable. He resolved, then and there, that he would never again degrade himself with the curse of strong drink.

2. Those who make resolutions are reaching out to that which is higher and better in life. They have made a serious evaluation of life and are determined to put forth effort to attain that which is better. Paul enjoins Christians, "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things" (Philippians 4:8).

3. They are exhibiting the hope which dwells within their hearts. The most pathetic persons in all the world are those who have lost hope. In their despair they cannot see any means by which they can become any better than they are, receive any better than they have, or make any greater contribution to society than they are making. They have developed a tragically fatalistic attitude toward life and all it affords. On the other hand, those people who make resolutions believe firmly that, if they reach out after something better than that which they are experiencing, they will improve their lot in the world and help to make life more peaceful and joyful for all whose lives their influence touches. Furthermore, they indicate a willingness to put forth effort to scale the barriers which stand between them and a higher goal.

God stands ready to help those who reach out in hope toward that which is better. The cries of the Israelites in Egyptian bondage ascended to the ears of God in heaven and He sent Moses to lead them to the promised land. When during the period of the kingdom of Judah, God's people repented of their sins and cried out to God for help against their enemies, God never failed to deliver them. He would even display miraculous power in their behalf. And it was not until the people filled up the measure of God's patience by their continual sinning that He permitted them to go into slavery to the Babylonians for seventy years. But even in this black era of God's judgment upon them for their sins He sent the prophet, Ezekiel, with the message, "And I will multiply upon you man and beast; and they shall increase and bring fruit: and I will settle you after your old estates, and will do better unto you than at your beginnings; and ye shall know that I am the LORD" (Ezekiel 36:11).

God has also honored the resolutions and determination for good on the part of individuals in every age. Abraham "... when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went" (Hebrews 11:8), and when his faith was further tried through his offering of his son, Isaac, on the altar, God said, "That in blessing I will bless thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy seed as the stars of the heaven, and as the sand which is upon the sea shore; ... And in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; because thou hast obeyed my voice" (Genesis 22:17, 18). Moses became the greatest Old Testament character because he "... refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter; Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season" (Hebrews 11:24, 25). These are but a few of the individuals who by firm resolution, persevering faith and unswerving obedience to God, reached out and attained enviable heights in this world and life everlasting in that which is to come. The New Testament is equally rich in examples of devout souls whose firm resolution of heart and committal of life to Christ made them more than conquerors through Him who loved them.

Resolutions are a means toward an end. The individual who has faced the facts concerning life, himself, and his relationships toward God and right, has made a good start. Furthermore, he has brought his thoughts into concrete form when he has set down the goals which he desires to reach. However, this is not the end. He must determine that, by constantly calling upon God for strength, he will use every means at his disposal to keep these resolutions.

If one's resolutions are all that they ought to be, they will represent the high ideals set by the New Testament for Christian living. They should challenge the very best that is in him and, if he should break one of them, he should not give up and quit trying to keep them. He does not discard Christ when he fails to be all that Christ wants him to be; neither should he discard his resolutions which are his interpretation of what Christ wants him to be. He should not be that person whom James describes, "For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was" (James 1:24).

One Year to Live

IF YOU HAD A YEAR TO LIVE AND $10,000, HOW WOULD YOU SPEND IT?

THIS was the sensational eight-column headline a newspaper in one of our large midwestern cities carried some time ago. This query was rather ambiguous, for it didn't say whether it was a question of spending the year or the $10,000, or both. However, the story which followed made the idea clear.

Specialists told a wealthy widow that she would probably die of a heart ailment within the next twelve months. As a result of this statement, the widow sold her business, gave part of her money to charity and part to her daughter. She still had $10,000 left. "I want to know how to spend it to get the most pleasure out of it," the newspapers quoted the woman as saying. One paper offered $200 in prizes for the best letters of advice. Thousands of responses from all over North America were received, telephones were kept busy, and so great and disturbing was the response, that the distraught widow sought refuge in a friend's apartment.

The letters of advice were many and varied—gambling, sightseeing, traveling, drinking. However, no less than forty per cent advised this woman to seek comfort in God. These letters seemed concerned that the woman would spend her last year wisely, not so much about how to spend her money. They seemed to reason that a year spent without God was a year badly spent. Every year presents a spiritual question. A year is a year to live. God does not give 365 days for just personal pleasure. Each diamond minute is a gem in the ring of God's engagement with us. The passing days are days in which to seek God. "... behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation" (2 Corinthians 6:2).

Mankind is made in God's likeness. Therefore, man must have communion with God. Years spent without the Creator lead to eternal death. "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" (Mark 8:36).

The Bible constantly warns against procrastination. If we could draw back the veil from hell, our eyes would see thousands forever lost because time slipped by so quickly that they had not made peace with God. "... To day if ye will hear his (God's) voice, Harden not your heart, ..." (Psalm 95:7, 8).

If this is a year to live, live it for God. You may not be warned as the widow was. Therefore, "... prepare to meet thy God, ..." (Amos 4:12).

It is not known if this widow was told how to make her last year a righteous one. However, a study of the Bible clearly reveals the way. Consider John 14:6, in which Christ said, "... I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." Christ clearly states that He is the way to God, that He is the truth which men seek for, that He is the life which truly makes a year A YEAR TO LIVE!

Is this Saviour your Saviour? "... as many as received him (Christ), to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name" (John 1:12).—American Tract Society.

The Fleeting Years

James H. Hunter

THE hurrying years set their seal upon us all, and one would like sometimes to step aside from the hurry of things, evaluate his years and see what he has made of life. Perhaps we all intend to do that some day, but the rushing tide of life has caught us, and the wish dies too often unrealized. One knows, of course, that we only get ideas like these after we have turned forty. Up until that time the "long, long thoughts" attributed to youth have never troubled us. "No young man believes he shall ever die" someone has said, and Charles Lamb wrote: "Not childhood alone, but the young man till thirty never feels practically that he is mortal."

But there do come hours and days such as birthdays and the end of the year and the beginning of the new when every thinking man and woman is terribly conscious of his or her mortality, even though we all console ourselves with the thought that for us the end is still far off. And yet as I write these words I see out of my window the wind whirling leaves by the thousand to the ground, reminding one again of the melancholy fact that we are all fading like the leaves of the tree, and at the best "brief life is here our portion." But is it not true, as some sage has said, that we live in deeds not years, in feelings not in figures on a dial? Perhaps we can take comfort in that thought as we look out over the horizon of life and consider some work of love begun, some deed of kindness done for the Lord who has done so much for us.

"Gather up the fragments that nothing be lost" is a word that rings in one's ear today. It is a command exquisitely applicable to the gleanings as the results of a life of service to and for God through Christ Jesus, the Lord.

But what of the man or woman whose life has been spent entirely for self and for the world? What sort of harvest can be reaped there? The New Year reminds us there is yet time. If the heart be truly turned to Him at last it will not be turned in vain. A broken and contrite heart He will not despise. Better to give the harvest than only the gleanings, but is it not true that even the gleanings are better than nothing? No matter if the years you have left to live are few or many, God still wants you to turn to Him and find the salvation which is offered only through acceptance of Jesus Christ, His Son. When you are born again of the Holy Spirit, your new life will bring peace and comfort for your years on earth, and an everlasting life in heaven.

Christ pleads with you, no matter how wasted your life may have been,

Free Will Baptists of Tomorrow

Rev. C. L. Patrick
Walstonburg, North Carolina

ONE Sunday night I visited a certain Free Will Baptist church where the Holy Communion was to be observed at the close of the regular evening services. There was a brief interlude between the two services during which a number of people left, especially young people. After the remainder had been served bread and wine and while some were retiring to the Sunday school rooms to wash one another's feet, another large group left, leaving only a very few to observe the ordinance of Washing the Saints' Feet. I wondered about tomorrow. Would Free Will Baptists join a host of others in omitting this sacred ordinance?

Sometime later I attended a quarterly meeting of a certain Free Will Baptist church. Only a few people, mostly middle-aged or above, were present. I wondered how the business of the church would be transacted tomorrow.

I have attended Sunday school at many full-time churches, and at the close of Sunday school so many people left that it must certainly have appeared to a stranger that all services for the day were over. Again I wondered, will the Free Will Baptist church of tomorrow have worship services after Sunday school, or will there be a large Sunday school and a little church?

As I thought about Free Will Baptists of tomorrow, what changes might take place, and about the foundation and head of our church, the words of our Lord called my attention to our present calling to prepare for an even greater work tomorrow, "I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work" (John 9:4).

What can we do today as we labor to pass on to the next generation an even greater heritage than that which we received? The answer comes to us from the Word of God, "... earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints" (Jude 3). No people have a better "rule of faith and practice" than Free Will Baptists. Our church covenant reads, "Having adopted the Word of God as our rule of faith and practice, ..." Neither do we need to be ashamed when we contend that the Bible is the Word of God. We are traveling in pretty good company. The great apostle, Paul, said, "... I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; ..." (Romans 1:16). He also said, "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (2 Timothy 2:15). Again he said, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness" (2 Timothy 3:16). Also our Lord's repeated reference to the law and the prophets is ample proof of the value He placed upon the Scriptures. In John 5:39 He said, "Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me." So when the modernists and the skeptics begin to stumble and fall amidst their own doubts and uncertainties, when they begin to discover their foundations are faulty, rest assured, O Free Will Baptists, "... the foundation of God standeth sure, ..." (2 Timothy 2:19), and "... the word of God, ... liveth and abideth for ever" (1 Peter 1:23).

But as we work toward a better tomorrow let us not forget the warnings from God's Word against departing from the faith: "... keep that which is committed to thy trust, avoiding profane and vain babblings, and oppositions of science falsely so called: Which some professing have erred concerning the faith. ..." (1 Timothy 6:20, 21). "...

they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows" (1 Timothy 6:10). "... If any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed" (Galatians 1:9). "If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed: For he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds" (2 John 1:10, 11).

In this day when so many are neglecting the study of God's Word and so many are attacking the Bible, our schools, Mount Olive College and The Free Will Baptist Bible College, become vital in a program under God to keep us as a denomination believing, practicing and teaching "His Word as our rule of faith and practice." This is especially true when many of the colleges which were built by Bible believers have now turned to the task of tearing up the Bible. And in state supported schools often the Bible is ridiculed.

In September 1954, during the opening week of our school at Mount Olive, North Carolina, I sat up late one night discussing the college and its prospects with its president, the Rev. Burkette Raper. The school was so small, the facilities so inadequate and not even accredited, that I asked Brother Raper, "If you had a child ready to enter college, would you enroll him at Mount Olive?" His answer was an emphatic "Yes." Had that question been put to me, I could not have answered that night. Now, I think I have the answer. With all the things our schools need and do not have, I still prefer for my children to be taught by Christian teachers instead of Bible critics. But as we think of the Free Will Baptists of tomorrow, let us ask ourselves these questions today: "How long must Free Will Baptists students attend poorly equipped and unaccredited schools? How long are we going to so seriously handicap those who loyally cling to us? How long are we going to keep on losing thousands of young people as they go away to other schools and never return to us?"

Again, as I think of tomorrow, I wonder, will there be Free Will Baptists tomorrow? Will our church be still unheard of in many places, or will Free Will Baptists be known for their faithfulness to the ends of the earth? I remember that Jesus, in speaking of the Christian field of service, said, "The field is the world; ..." (Matthew 13:38). Now listen to Him as He gives us our commission, "... Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest" (John 4:35). Too long we've looked at our own feet and been contented with the local work. That is a good beginning point, but let's read the whole commission, "... ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth" (Acts 1:8). Jesus described the condition of the field as being "white already to harvest." We have used different words to describe the same condition when we have talked of a world filled with fear and unrest, insecurity, wondering when will the "H-bomb" fall, will our way of life survive, or death, and then what? In Jesus we have the answer to the cry of a fearful world: "... be not afraid" (Matthew 14:27), "... Peace be unto you" (Luke 24:36), "... Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid" (John 14:27), "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest" (Matthew 11:28).

On every side there is evidence that "the field is white unto harvest." The reports from our churches show unparalleled progress and growth. Not only is church membership increasing, but a vast number of building programs indicate our churches are going forward. There has been a steady increase in the enrollment at our schools and a gradual increase in the number of missionaries both at home and abroad.

The field for Christian service is before us. But the question remains, "Will Free Will Baptists proceed to harvest now?" Every farmer knows that the time to harvest a crop is when it is ready. He knows that neglect or delay can cause the loss of the crop as surely as hurricanes or fires or floods. In the work of the Lord, it isn't perishable grains or some other crop at stake; it's the destiny of immortal souls.

Who is to do the work? Again listen to the Master as He speaks to His disciples, "... pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest" (Luke 10:2). And in the next verse He said, "Go your ways: ..." His message then to His disciples, the Church, is "pray and go." But tarry a moment and "... ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: ..." (Acts 1:8). And as we "go and teach," we do not work alone, "... lo, I am with you alway, ..." (Matthew 28:20). The apostle, Paul, described believers as being the body of Christ, and Christ Himself as being the head of that body. The Church then is a living, growing, working organism. In the first century, it turned the world upside down for God. Our forefathers passed on to us a great heritage. It becomes our responsibility to carry on the work so nobly begun.

Undoubtedly, the greatest danger to the work of the church in our day is indifference on the part of the membership. Someone has described the church as "A dry-eyed church in a hell bound world." When church members live beside unbelievers and never witness to them of the saving grace of our Lord, is it little wonder so many continue in sin? When outsiders observe how careless and unconcerned church members are, is it hard to understand that the world has lost respect for a passionless church?

In one of his books S. D. Gordon pictures Gabriel as engaging in a dialogue with Christ, shortly after the ascension, as to His plans for extending the gospel in the world. Jesus is supposed to have replied, "I have asked Peter, James, John, Andrew, and a few others to make it the business of their lives to tell others, and those others, others, until the whole world has heard the story and felt the power of it." And Gabriel asked, "But suppose they do not tell others—what then?" And Jesus answered quietly, "I have no other plans. I am counting on them." I like to think of Jesus counting on Free Will Baptists to faithfully tell others.

With the "Word of God as our rule of faith and practice," and the whole world as our field in which to "earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints," and with the blessings and presence of the very Spirit of Christ to undergird us, may we be used of Him to build a glorious Free Will Baptist church of tomorrow. Amen.

A New Year's Message

Edwin R. Anderson

THE world has a song called, "Time On My Hands," but how wrong they are! The swift seconds, the moving minutes, the hurrying hours are not in man's hands, but in God's. "Time marches on," unhindered in its appointed course, and how conscious we are of that solemn truth at the junction of the years!

Time is in far better hands than man's, for David, in Psalm 31:15, says: "My times are in thy hands: ..."—in care of God Himself.

Although we cannot tamper with time, we can tamper with things which are given to us in the course of that time which has been allotted to our life. What have we done with that which has been given unto us, to "... shew forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvelous light"? (1 Peter 2:9). And what are we going to do with that which lies directly ahead, should He tarry?

Things such as these: ...

Talents, they are in our hands. How have we used those gifts which have been granted to us for service and witness? Perhaps we shall have to confess in the words of one who tragically failed, "And I ... went and hid thy talent in the earth: ..." (Matthew 25:25). What of the coming days? Shall there be repetition, or reconsecration unto the Lord?

Testimony, that is in our hands. We have a story to tell not only to the nations, but also to the man next door! How much has he seen and heard during these past twelve months? I recall a picture of the Egyptian Sphinx with this wording beneath, "What secrets she could tell if she could only speak!" Perhaps you have been a spiritual descendant of the Sphinx!

Treasury, that, too, is in our hands. Money is a troublesome subject, and perhaps you need to be troubled over the way you have allowed it to become frozen assets. Isn't it very significant that the Apostle Paul, directly after scaling the heights of resurrection, immediately "descends" to the subject of "collection for the saints"? (1 Corinthians 16). Surely this suggests the need of a vital new year resurrection of dormant tithes and offerings!

These things and many others are in our hands, committed to our charge. Have we done all that could or should have been done during this closing year?

But the past is past; let us leave it there with the Lord, for "... the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7). The story is told of an old Chinaman walking down a narrow way with a pole betwixt his shoulders, a pot of hot soup on one end. Rounding a corner, the pot struck a wall and broke, the shivered bits swimming in the soup on the dusty ground. But he never looked back, nor paused; he slowly wended his way. A bystander rushed up to admonish, but he gently replied, "Why look back? The pot is broke, the soup is spilled, why, indeed, look back?"

"... this one thing I do, forgetting

Cost of Funeral Flowers Sent to Orphanages

R. C. Baggette of Manning, South Carolina, gives a suggestion to persons who buy flowers for the graves of loved ones and friends. He suggests that the money which would be spent for flowers might be sent to the orphanages and children's homes of the denomination.

Mr. Baggette says, "These numerous contributions might be transplanted into living monuments instead of being invested in flowers which fade and are of no benefit to anyone except the florist who sold them. I know of one funeral in a sister denomination which, I am told, brought in more than $1,700 to its denominational children's home. Their people responded and I am sure ours will."

He suggests that the blank given below be used by our people in making such contributions:

Church Finance Association Meets January 10, 1956

The 1956 annual meeting of the members of the Church Finance Association, Inc. will be held on Tuesday, January 10, 1956, at Mount Olive College in Mount Olive, North Carolina. The official meeting will open at 10:30; however, everyone is invited to attend the college chapel service at 10:00 a. m., in the college auditorium.

Notices have been mailed to all members of the association. In case any members should fail to receive the notice, they are hereby requested to be represented at the above mentioned meeting. Any member who cannot attend in person or by regular delegate, should represent by proxy. Proxy blanks may be had by writing the secretary-treasurer, M. L. Johnson, Sims, North Carolina.

Lunch will be served at 12:00 in the college cafeteria at the regular price of 60c per person, according to Rev. M. L. Johnson.

Christ is Our Life

Rev. R. P. Harris
Rocky Mount, North Carolina

"When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory" (Colossians 3:4).

JESUS is the giver of life, both physical and spiritual. It is impossible for anyone or anything to live without Christ. Animation and growth are altogether dependent upon Christ. We had nothing to do with the beginning of our physical life. We did not choose to be born into this world and therefore had nothing to do with our initial existence. There are fatalists who assume that they are victims of life and have nothing to do with its outcome. They hold that "what is to be will be" in spite of anything they may desire. The Lord did not casually order the planets and stars into place, nor did this great feat of creation take place without great concern on the part of the Creator; He had a just and purposeful reason for creating them and assigning them their orbits.

Human life is not without consequence. God has a just reason for our existence. Our lives are extremely purposeful. God did not create us simply as ornaments to decorate the earth, nor did He intend that we should become a liability to His creation. God made a beautiful earth, providing everything necessary for man's comfort, joy and contentment. All sorrow and grief, disappointments and disasters came as a result of man's transgression of God's law pertaining to his life here on earth. Man's wrong deeds and misappropriations of life have brought death and decay upon everything material.

Christ is the source of our life. Christ is the source of our physical and our spiritual life. We did not choose physical life, but God has made it possible for us to choose spiritual life. We may accept His plan for eternal life and live forever, or we may reject His plan for eternal life and be separated from Him forever. Life depends upon the presence of Christ with us. Death is separation from Him forever. In either case, conscious existence prevails. It is impossible for our conscious existence to come to a close. We can accept Christ and live in great joy and peace forever. We can reject Christ and be tormented and miserable forever. The choice is with the individual. He must choose for himself, "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name" (John 1:12).

Men, in their right minds, do not desire to perish from this earth, especially, if there is no hope for the future. There are feeble-minded and depraved people who lose their sense of reasoning and destroy themselves in the sense that they take their own physical lives, committing suicide. But men do not usually choose to die. Men with the proper outlook on life, and men who have been properly informed, do not choose to die. There may be a few people who will make a wild statement that they want to go to hell when they die, but few of his small number really desire it. Should there be any who do sincerely believe that they do desire going to hell when they die they have been misinformed and do not realize the terrible consequences. Most people, when properly informed of what they may expect by choosing life in Christ and what they may expect by rejecting Him, will accept Christ and live. They must understand and appreciate the fact that Christ is the source of life.

Christ is the support of our life. While man may work and gather to himself the necessary physical elements to sustain life, he must realize that it is God who provides his necessities, and that it is Christ who gives him the understanding and knowledge to seek for and obtain such essentials to his physical existence. God is the provider of man's food. Man cannot make food himself. He must depend upon God for the sprouting of seeds, the conception and birth of animals and other methods for providing food essential to his physical existence. God also supplies man with the essential knowledge to properly prepare the food for consumption. This knowledge is supplied with no respect to persons. All normal people may acquire it.

God made the earth and all things in it for our use and support. Man is the object of God's affections. He made all things of earth and heaven for the glory of man. Christ is our support in spiritual things. Paul said, "I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me" (Galatians 2:20). Without Christ there could be no foundation for our support. Our fleshly existence and our spiritual life depend altogether and completely upon Christ. He is the true foundation. He is the one person capable of supplying our every need.

Christ is the rule of our life. Man is altogether responsible to Christ for every deed committed on earth by him. All must answer to Christ, and Christ alone will reward us for our good deeds and our bad deeds while here on earth. Since He is the only one who can give life or take life, and, since He is the only one qualified to send us to heaven or hell, we should love Him with all our hearts and serve Him with all our strength. It is Christ who is in heaven preparing a place for us. He will provide a place according to our lives here on earth. There will definitely be degrees in heaven. God declares that every man shall be rewarded according to his deeds done in the flesh whether they be good or whether they be bad. Some have entertained the idea that, if the good in their lives outweighs the bad, they will go to heaven when they die. That is not true. It is impossible for man to save himself. He must give himself to Christ and accept His plan of salvation before he can be saved. (Read 2 Corinthians 5:10.) Men attempt to rule over us. God does allow men in responsible positions to rule over the affairs of men for the sake of society and the preservation of human life. From the beginning, God allowed the man to rule with his wife. Man is the head of the family. God, however, is ruler over all. Man must learn to look to God for the final rule of faith and practice.

Christ is the motive for our life. "For the love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge, that if one died for all, then were all dead" (2 Corinthians 5:14). Christ is our motive and the motive is that propelling force which moves us along. All who become Christians have this dynamic, propelling force in operation in their lives. The motive is essential for our spiritual progress and achievement. Our love for Christ, because of what He is to us, constrains us in all decency and rational standards, to live honestly, justly and spiritually for Him. We do not live for ourselves but for Christ. We do not live for money, for loved ones, or for earthly desires, but for Christ. He is the object of our affections, our love and our devotion. He is the end of our faith.

Christ is the aim of our life. "For to me to live is Christ and to die is gain" (Philippians 1:21). With this thought before us, I am sure that we can assume that all our earthly existence has no real meaning except that we live or die for Christ. This does not mean that we are not to respect and love the things in the world to some degree. It simply means that we shall not allow any earthly thing to come between us and Christ. We shall not worship any earthly thing. Christ is the only worthy object for our worship. We will want to worship and praise Him with all our hearts because He is worthy. Praise His holy name!

There Is A Mighty God!

Mrs. Venie M. Carney

In spring I watch new life begin,
When nature from her soil doth send
The blooming flowers and budding trees,
Thus calling forth the honey bees.
I watch the blue bird build her nest,
A job well done, she did her best;
I saw her teach her young to fly,
Till on its own it soared on high.
There is a mighty God!

Then autumn comes with chilly breeze,
And nature works to tint the leaves
All golden yellow, red and brown,
Then blows them gently to the ground.
Jack Frost comes in with biting sting,
And on his way kills everything.
The trees spread forth their naked arms,
As if to say, "I fear no harm."
There is a mighty God!

Winter comes with pouring rain,
Beating hard 'gainst my windowpane.
Icicles are kissed by the sun,
Melting them ere the day is done.
I watch the snowflakes slowly fall,
Most glorious beauty of them all;
Its glittering crystals, dazzling white,
Sparkling in the noonday light.
There is a mighty God!

I've seen the icy hands of death
Grip those I love and snatch their breath.
I've seen my dear ones lowered in earth
And would that there had been no birth
For me. But Jesus saw my pain,
He healed and gave me joy again;
Assuring me that life o'er there
Is sweeter far and still more fair.
There is a mighty God!

There is a mighty God! Ah, yes,
This every tongue shall soon confess.
He's in the rain, the cold and heat,
Among the bitter and the sweet;
He's on the earth, He's in the skies,
He's everywhere you cast your eyes.
He's everywhere your feet have trod,
Ah, yes—there is a mighty God!

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: In what way should a Christian spend Christmas day? If any at all, what kind of a program should a church and its members sponsor? Is it wrong to have and make a great deal over a Christmas tree? Could Jeremiah 10:3, 4, be a prophecy concerning a Christmas tree? Is it right for Christians to teach children to look for Santa Claus as if he were a real person? Should a church have a Santa Claus and Christmas tree in its sanctuary? Where did the idea of Santa Claus come from?—K. Phipps, Missouri.

Answer: If Christians wish to observe a day in commemoration of the birth of Christ it should be a most sacred occasion in which praise and gratitude to God for His unspeakable gift, His only begotten Son. Our Christmas day activities should in no wise be tainted with the commercialism and hilarity of the world's Christmas. If there is any reason for a Christian in a home to think things may get out of hand and Christmas be so conducted, he should call a halt to the whole affair, if he has the authority to do so. If he does not have such authority he should be absent on the occasion.

If a church is to observe Christ's birthday as a special occasion it should be one of the most solemn occasions of the year, so far as worldliness or unscriptural practices are concerned. A short message on the birth of Christ and what was promised with it in prophecy, what benefit it has been to the world, what Christians have gained by it, and what Christians owe to God and to the world because of the incarnation. The fact that God gave His Son and the Son gave His life should be emphasized, but most of all we should stress the fact that Christ said: "... freely ye have received, freely give" (Matthew 10:8), and that Paul said, "... It is more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts 20:35). John says in 1 John 3:16, "Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren."

Whatever giving of presents to other people that one does should be made in the spirit of Christ and not with the hope of receiving something in return for the gift. Jesus said, "Give to every man that asketh of thee; . . . if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again. . . . Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, . . ." (Luke 6: 30-38).

I believe one might have a Christmas tree without hurt if he would make its purpose clear to children. However, there is no question in my mind, but that the whole idea of Christmas trees, elaborate ornaments, costly decorations, etc., have been misused and have brought great damage to the purpose for which Christmas should be observed and therefore to the cause of Christ. No born again Christian should pay the unreasonably high prices for trees that some people pay, nor for their ornaments, while millions of souls are going down to an endless hell without even once being warned of its horrors or told the precious story of salvation through Christ's redeeming love. So far as symbolism is concerned there may be a remote connection between the Christmas tree of today and the tree mentioned in Jeremiah 10:3, 4: "For the customs of the people are vain: for one cutteth a tree out of the forest, the work of the hands of the workman, with the ax. They deck it with silver and with gold; they fasten it with nails and with hammers, that it move not."

I have heard and also read in history the fact that there has been much more of our modern Christmas, such as the spirit dominating our giving, the Christmas tree and Santa Claus, taken from heathenism rather than from either the Bible or Christianity. At present I cannot give the source of this authority. I do know, however, that Christmas activities, as observed by the world, are completely out of line with the whole teaching of Scripture. I would never teach a child to look forward to having Santa Claus come down the chimney, nor to drive reindeer. I would take him to several stores or other places where Santa Claus is displayed in a living person and explain to him, as well as I know how, the whole myth, showing him that many people are dressed in Santa Claus suits, beard, etc.

The Encyclopedia Americana, 1946 edition, has the following to say about Santa Claus:

"Saint Nicholas belongs to the 4th century of the Christian era. The accounts of his life are purely legendary. According to tradition he was a native of the city of Patara, in Lycia, Asia Minor, was devoted in early youth and entered the monastery of Sion near Myra.

"Perhaps no saint enjoys so great a popularity as Saint Nicholas. He is the patron saint of Russia. He is regarded as the special guardian of virgins, of children and of sailors. Scholars were also under his protection; and he ever came to be regarded as the patron of robbers.

"The celebration of Saint Nicholas Day has long been general in the Low countries and Rhine provinces; but the growing concentration of the winter festival on Christmas Day and the rise in importance of the Christmas tree during the last 200 years has caused the Saint Nicholas customs to be absorbed into the Christmas celebration. In Belgium and Holland Saint Nicholas Day is still the day of joy and not Christmas. 'On the eve of his festival day,' writes an authority, 'Saint Nicholas makes his tour, visiting palace and cottage. Frequently in the early evening he makes a preliminary visit in his bishop's robes, with pastoral staff and mitre, at each house, making inquiries concerning the conduct of the children, giving appropriate praise or warning, and promising on the following morning to give substantial reward. When he is gone, the children place receptacles for the gifts which Saint Nicholas is expected to let fall down the chimney. The receptacle varies in different places. Sometimes shoes are neatly polished for the purpose, at other time plates, or baskets, or stockings, or specially made shoes of porcelain are set on the bed, in the open chimney, before the door of a room or merely in the corner of a room. Saint Nicholas' steed variously conceived of as a gray horse or a white ass, is not forgotten. For him the children put water and hay, or carrots, or potato peelings, or a piece of bread in the shoe, or basket, or stocking. In the morning from the tipped-over chairs and general disarray in the room it is evident that Saint Nicholas has been present. Replacing the oats, or hay, or carrots are found sweets and playthings for children that have been good, obedient and studious during the year. It

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom" (Psalm 90:12).

Last Sunday was New Year's Day. When you read this the year will be only a few days old. It is still a new year. I suppose that most of us made many resolutions—good resolutions. Some of us have already broken part or all those good resolutions. We have just kept on with the same old way of living and doing things. And we will continue doing so until we are willing to let God teach us and direct us in His ways and wisdom. No prayer is more needful for the child of God than this one. Since we know not the number of our days here on the earth, we should let God teach us to number them so that each one may be spent in His service and to His glory. The story is told of an English scientist who never willingly wasted any time as having said, "He who wastes so much as an hour of time has no proper sense of the value of life."

I once read of a king who, unlike most kings, was distinguished for his philosophic view of life. He is reported to have said, "I count that day lost in which I have done no good thing." May we not count that day as a lost day in which we do not seek to add to our knowledge the things of God and of His Word.

When Joshua took over the leadership of the children of Israel from Moses, the Lord spoke unto him and said, "... ye have not passed this way heretofore" (Joshua 3:4). That which was to follow was a new experience for Joshua and for the people he was leading. So much so that he said unto the people, "... Sanctify yourselves: for to morrow the LORD will do wonders among you" (Joshua 3:5). There is no knowing the wonders that would be wrought by God among His people if we would consecrate ourselves wholly to Him. Think how differently the world would be at the end of the year if all professing Christians were truly dedicated to the task of making it a better world.

I hope it will be the firm purpose of everyone who reads this message, and of all Christians, to make this year better than any of the past ones. You have, no doubt, read the little poem of the teacher and the pupil, but does it not teach us lessons we ought to know?

"He came to my desk with a quivering lip—

The lesson was done.

'Dear teacher, I want a new leaf,' he said,

'I have spoiled this one.'

In the place of the leaf so stained and blotted

I gave him a new one all unspotted,
And into his sad eyes smiled,

'Do better now, my child.'"

So God is giving a new start—new opportunities to be better servants—to keep the new leaves He gives us clean by doing better now. To do this, we need only to live well the days as they come to us, one by one.

Every day of this year ought to find us living consecrated Christian lives. We should live for Him wherever we are and whatever we are doing. This year ought to find us rendering consecrated service to our Master in whatever vocation of life we are engaged. God has honored us in making us His co-workers. May we as Christians be worthy, to some small degree, of that honor. Then let us give to Him a well-pleasing sacrifice in the form of a truly consecrated Christian life.

THE CONSTITUENTS OF THE CHURCH

Ephesians 3

This is the fourth in a series of messages on the book of Ephesians delivered in the chapel of the Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tennessee, the week of December 4, 1955.

Here Paul deliberately binds the Jew and the gentile together and produces by the grace of God a third class—the church. Let us note each of these.

I. THE JEWS (Vv. 7-9)

Who is the Jew? Paul tells us in Romans 9:4, 5: "To whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the law, and the service of God and the promises: Whose are the fathers and of whom as concerning the flesh, Christ came, who is over all, God blessed forever."

A. The Jew was the Lord's own by election. Read Genesis, Chapters 11 and 12.

B. The Jew's generation was God's household. They were His own. Jesus reminded them of that fact when they rejected Him by saying of himself, "He came unto his own, and his own received him not."

C. The grace of God came to the Jew by covenant and promise. But after the Jews had rejected Christ, God sent his messengers to the gentiles.

II. THE GENTILES (Vv. 1-6)

A. The gentiles were the children of the world.

B. They had also been the subjects of the adversary.

The process by which Jews and gentiles alike are saved and become the Church of God is described in Chapter 2 of this book of Ephesians.

III. THE CHURCH OF GOD (Vv. 10-21).

A. The Church of God is the blood bought from among Jews and gentiles.

B. Christ is the cornerstone of that Church.

C. The Church is the earthly temple of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

CONCLUSION

As a closing thought on this third chapter of Ephesians, we direct your attention for a moment to Verse 20:

He is able to do all that we ask or even think.

He is able to do above all that we ask or think.

He is able to do abundantly above all that we think.

He is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we think.

“The Word of God is sufficient for every possible condition. Acquaintance with it is the one way of being fortified against every insidious effort of the enemy. May God in His mercy cause us to direct our attention to it more and more with unceasing prayer. Let it be the subject of meditation day and night while, with unremitting desire and patience, we study and search the sacred page. It is the diligent soul that is made fat.”—Sel.

It Might Have Been $83,500!

L. E. Ballard

ON Tuesday morning, December 13, 1955, the Raleigh News and Observer and many other newspapers carried the information that the Ford Foundation had distributed $210,000,000 among all the regionally accredited, privately supported colleges and universities in the United States, 615 of them. The smallest amount recorded as having been given to any one of them was $83,500.

Neither the Free Will Baptist Bible College of Nashville, Tennessee, nor the Mount Olive College of Mount Olive, North Carolina, received one cent of this money. Why? Was it because our colleges are church schools? No, the biggest part of the money went to church owned and operated schools. Was it because our colleges are “Free Will Baptist”? No, there is not one bit of evidence that any denominational partiality was shown in the distribution of this fund. It was given to colleges of Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and even other divisions of churches.

There is just one reason why our colleges did not share in this gigantic gift. It is just because we Free Will Baptists have been too close and stingy to give sufficiently to the cause of Christian education for our schools to reach the status of “accredited” colleges. That’s the one and only reason we are not richer today by $83,500 or more. We have failed to give, and now we have failed to receive.

Maybe we are better off without this money. Maybe we don’t need accredited colleges. Oh, well, we can think of a lot of “maybes,” but maybe if we will not try to hide behind maybes, it is just possible that, when somebody else starts distributing the millions, we may be ready to receive our part.

We cannot truly love others until we first believe God loves us.—L. L. K.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

FAITH

HAVING faith is an assent of the mind to the fundamental truths of revelation, an acceptance of the gospel, through the influence of the Holy spirit, and a firm confidence and trust in Christ. The fruit of faith is obedience to the gospel. The power to believe is the gift of God, but believing is an act of the creature, which is required as a condition of pardon, and without which the sinner cannot obtain salvation. All men are required to believe in Christ, and those who yield obedience to this requirement become the children of God by faith.—Treatise.

This belief is substantiated by the following Scripture: "... he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him" (Hebrews 11:6); "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebrews 11:1); "For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?" (John 5:46, 47); "... The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach; That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation" (Romans 10:8-10).

These Scriptures make it plain, and certainly furnish all the instruction necessary to let us know what faith is. When it is understood, it means, just taking God at His word. It means accepting divine truth. Belief, coupled with obedience, fits us for the fellowship with God the Father and His Son Jesus Christ. That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ" (1 John 1:3). We believe that the only way to have fellowship with God is to be saved. And the only way to be saved is to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ. "For God sent not his Son in the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God" (John 3:17, 18). And again, "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John 3:36). Religion without faith in the Lord Jesus Christ as the Son of God, is worthless. The devil stands back of all religions that deny that the Lord Jesus Christ is the Son of God.

The Apostle Peter preached that there is no salvation except that which is in Christ Jesus. "This is the stone which was set at nought of you builders, which is become the head of the corner. Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:11, 12).

Some people join a denomination sometimes by "joining the church." By joining they think that they have salvation. And there are those who seem to think by their actions that belonging to some organization which claims to be Christian that they are saved, safe and licensed to sin. It appears that way from the way they live. "How do you know?" you may ask. Well, they curse, take God's name in vain, after they are received into the organic body, just like they did before; they drink the same brand of whiskey; they dance to music made by the devil just as they did before; they run out after women, and the women run after the men. Jesus said, "By their fruits, ye shall know them." So, by what we see and hear, we know the tree. But real salvation is by an unfeigned faith in Jesus Christ which completely changes a man's life. Old ways, old habits of sin, old associates, all are set in the background and a new way of life begins. Why? Because we are created anew. "For we are his workmanship created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them" (Ephesians 2:10).

When the Philippian jailer said to Paul and Silas, "... Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" (Acts 16:30), they did not make a long speech in the message of salvation. They did not say, "You will be obliged to unite with our church, for we are the best and fastest growing church in the city. Nor did they tell him what mode of baptism he would have to submit to. They did not tell him that he would have to tithe to be a full-fledged Christian. All they said was, "... Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house. And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and all that were in his house" (Acts 16:31, 32). That was all that was necessary. The word of the Lord did the work. Let us notice, "And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and his, straightway. And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and rejoiced, believing in God with all his house" (Acts 16:33, 34).

Now, Free Will Baptists believe in church membership. They believe in baptism, the Bible way, the way of immersion. We believe in the ordinances of the church. But we do not believe that these things save us from the penalty of sin and death. It is not lawful to receive a person into our fellowship until after baptism by immersion, but we believe that, before a person is a fit subject for water baptism, he or she should be baptized into Christ by that degree of faith which makes the individual a new creature. This new birth is the result of saving faith in the Lord Jesus. However, we believe that a saved person will take pleasure in work, the work of Jesus Christ. "Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works. Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble. But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?" (James 2:18-20).

Himself

Christ Himself is better than any of His blessings; better than the power, or the victory, or the service, that He grants. Christ creates spiritual power; but Christ is better than that power. He is God's best; He is God; and we may have this best; we may have Christ, yielding to Him in such completeness and abandonment of self that it is no longer we that live, but Christ liveth in us. Will you thus take Him?—Charles G. Trumbull.

NELLIE MAE'S RESOLVE

Kathleen Hay

NELLIE MAE sat quietly in the deep window seat. Near by Aunt Janie knitted in silence, also, for a while, as she wondered what the little girl was thinking about.

"A penny for your thoughts, dearie! Why so grave on New Year's?"

Nellie Mae looked up quickly—"I don't know what res—res—" she paused and Aunt Janie detected the quiver of two red lips.

"Res-o-lu-tion, Nellie Mae—it's a big word with a big meaning; no wonder you find it hard to pronounce!"

Nellie Mae smiled her thanks, though her face still wore a puzzled expression.

"Res-o-lu-tion—Thank you, Auntie—I think I can say it now."

Aunt Janie smiled, too, "Well, Nellie Mae, you make resolutions on New Year's. Some people promise to live better and to give up bad habits."

Nellie Mae smiled again, and now there was no trace of worry on her face.

"Auntie," she said softly, "I'm going to make one, too."

"Could you whisper it to me, dearie?"

Nellie Mae nodded. "Every day, I'm going to thank God for being so good to everybody!"

"That's a big, beautiful resolution, for a Happy New Year!" Aunt Janie replied quickly.

Let us make a good resolution, too!—Olive Plants.

Willie Whistled for Jesus

Willie wasn't very big and he wasn't very important. He was only a newsboy on a city street corner. But something very big and very important had happened to Willie recently. At a mission Sunday School he had accepted Jesus as his personal Saviour. Now he wanted to tell others about Jesus too.

Willie couldn't preach, but he could whistle. Every evening, on the busy corner, he whistled "Jesus Loves Me," which was his favorite hymn. One stormy night, a drunkard staggered out of a filthy saloon and stopped to listen. "What are you whistling, boy?" he asked.

"I'm whistling a hymn—'Jesus Loves Me.'"

"Well, Jesus doesn't love an old drunk like me," the man muttered thickly.

"Oh, yes, He does love you, mister!" Willie insisted. "Come with me, and I'll prove it to you."

Willie led the man to the mission, where he was given food, a warm bath, and a clean bed to sleep in—all in the Name of Jesus. He was greatly impressed, gave up his sinful life, accepted Jesus, and became a Christian evangelist. Later hundreds of souls were saved, all because little Willie whistled for the

Won't you, too, whistle or sing a song for Jesus?—Seth Harmon, Christian Trails.

Happy New Year

Grace Noll Crowell

The New Year is a happy time,

When we begin again
And climb a little farther up

The hills of life, and when Another New Year comes along

We can look back and say,
That we have found so many things
That helped us on our way.

And if we learn to be more kind,

More loving and more true,
If we can make our playmates glad
By little things we do,

If we can keep our happy hearts
And work and love and pray,

We will have climbed a long way up
Before next New Year's Day.

How William Won One

JUST as the clock struck two, the door opened and William Ratcliff hurried through the hall carrying his violin.

At the age of seven William had shown such marked taste for music that his parents had sacrificed to give him lessons on his violin, now at the age of twelve, he was earning money to pay for them himself.

A few months before this story opened a great violinist, Mr. Frederick Van Fossen, had made a wonderful offer to the boys under thirteen. A valuable Stradivarius was to be given to the one who on the first day of January played most skillfully and pleasing to him.

Knowing the old musician's eccentricity, William was working hard on an especially difficult piece, hoping that he would be the fortunate boy to win the violin.

William belonged to a Sunday school class which had for its motto, "Win One." He had never tried to do this for he, himself, had not yet been won for King Jesus. But on this New Year's Day as he listened to the earnest words of his teacher, a new light entered his soul and he resolved that not only would he take Jesus as his Captain but that he would "Win One" for Him.

That afternoon he was to play before Mr. Van Fossen. As he was walking toward the studio, a great conflict was raging in his soul. Knowing the old gentleman to be an infidel, William felt sure that here was his opportunity to "Win One" for Jesus. But what could he do or say? If he asked Mr. Van Fossen to take Jesus as his Saviour from sin the old man might become very angry and refuse to listen to his playing.

Then suddenly, as he stood in the presence of the noted musician, a great resolve formed in his mind. Quickly lest he should become fainthearted, he drew his bow across the strings. Then softly and tenderly he played the strains of the old, familiar hymn—"Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken."

As he finished playing, Mr. Van Fossen arose and led him to the door. "My chance to win the violin is gone, Mother," said William a little later as he told her the story. "I did not play the piece which I had practiced, for I wanted to win him for King Jesus, and now I have lost everything."

But just as the sun was touching with golden fingers the peaks of the distant hills and painting the sky with myriads of wonderful colors, a note was delivered ed to William. The words of the message were: "Come and see me at once. Frederick Van Fossen."

Breathlessly William entered for the second time the beautiful studio of the tired infidel. Would he be angry with me?

"My boy," said the old gentleman, "why did you play that hymn for me today?" As William told of his resolution to start the New Year by taking Jesus as his Captain and explained his desire to win one for Him, the tears trickled down the man's cheeks.

"That was my mother's favorite hymn," he said. "When you played it this afternoon, I fancied I heard her voice calling me to take Jesus for my Saviour from sin. My boy, your Captain is my Captain. This New Year's day begins a new life for me. Here is the violin. You have not only won it, but you have 'Won One' for King Jesus."—Unknown.

Portsmouth, Va., Auxiliary Meets

On Friday night, October 14, 1955, the Woman's Auxiliary, of the Portsmouth, Virginia, Free Will Baptist Church met with Mrs. W. B. Brett for its regular business meeting.

The Scripture was read by the president, followed with prayer by Mrs. J. L. Alexander. After much consideration and prayer, the auxiliary voted to divide into three circles. We have three wonderful women who love the Lord, and love His work as our leaders: Mrs. Leslie Ward, leader of No. 1; Mrs. Bill Suggs, leader of No. 2; Mrs. Eva Martin, leader of No. 3.

Each circle meets once each month to conduct its business; then all the circles meet at the church the last Friday night in the month for the regular program. Each circle gives a report on what they have been doing during the past month.

We also have the G. T. A., headed by Mrs. Jessie Hurley and Mrs. Bill Suggs, and the Light Reflector's Band led by Mrs. Frank Williamson. Both of these groups are doing a lot of good work and are led by very capable leaders.

With thankful hearts we are looking forward to a happy and prosperous year in the work of our Lord.

Mrs. Van Welton, President

Auxiliary Observes Pre- Christmas Week of Prayer

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Ebenezer Free Will Baptist Church, Glennville, Georgia, observed its pre-Christmas week of prayer, December 12-16, 1955, with the meetings being held in the homes of the members. The meetings were as follows:

Monday night, the home of Mrs. Nolan Purcell, with Mrs. Purcell in charge; Tuesday night, the home of Mrs. M. D. Bacon Jr., with Mrs. Bacon in charge; Wednesday night, the home of Mrs. Early Bland, with Mrs. Bland in charge; Thursday night, the home of Mrs. Grady Kennedy, with Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Lizzie Broadham in charge; Friday night, the home of Mrs. Cleff Anderson, with Mrs. Anderson in charge.

The attendance was good throughout the week and many blessings were received by this season of prayer.

Patmos Church Host to Midway Auxiliary Convention

The Woman's Auxiliary Convention of the Midway Association of Georgia met with the Patmos Free Will Baptist Church, Leary, Georgia, December 2, for its regular session.

The convention was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. W. Clower. There were only two ministers present: Rev. H. L. Knighton and C. W. Downey, and only four auxiliaries represented: Albany, Mt. Zion, Live Oak and Patmos.

The theme for the day was "Now Is the Hour to Train," and the program was as follows:

The congregation sang "Jesus Saves," followed with prayer by Rev. H. L. Knighton. Mrs. Sallie Woodard gave the devotional and welcome address. For her Scripture she read Proverbs 22:6 and 1 Peter 2:21. Mrs. J. W. Clower responded to the welcome. Topic No. 1, "Why Train Up a Child," was openly discussed, and Topic No. 2, "The Place of the Home, Church and School in Preparing to be Christian Citizens," was discussed by Mrs. Martha Everson. An inspirational message was delivered by Rev. H. L. Knighton.

Following lunch, the convention reassembled with the congregation singing "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah." Mrs. C. C. Sheffield taught a lesson from the auxiliary manual, followed by an open discussion.

A brief business session was held, bringing to a close the convention.

Norfolk, Virginia, Auxiliary Elects Officers

A very impressive service was observed Tuesday night, December 13, 1955, at the Fairmount Park Free Will Baptist Church, Norfolk, Virginia. The installation of new officers for the woman's auxiliary was held by the retiring president, Mrs. Earl Jones.

The new officers are as follows: Mrs. Nancy Crockett, president; Mrs. Pearl Dockory, vice-president; Mrs. Gertie Whitehurst, treasurer; Mrs. Marjorie Ovhem." A Christmas poem was given by chairmen; Mrs. Ruby Brickle, study course chairman; Mrs. Lillian Jaegar, program-prayer chairman; Mrs. Lola Tillman, personal service chairman; Mrs. Marjorie Dush, corresponding secretary.

The following circles elected their chairmen as follows: Judy Caro Circle—Mrs. Gertie Whitehurst; Laura Bell Barnard Circle—Mrs. Kathryn Tippet; Dorcas Circle—Mrs. Lola Tillman; Zalene Lloyd Circle—Mrs. Daisy Dail.

Please remember in daily prayer not only these officers, but new officers everywhere, that God may pilot them through their course of the new year, 1956. By His leadership may this be a red letter year for the women's work; may Christ be exalted as He has never been before.

Visas Denied Missionaries To India

We are publishing herewith a letter which we received from Rev. Raymond Riggs, national promotional secretary for foreign missions. We are also giving a copy of a letter which the Rev. Riggs received from the Evangelical authorities through whom he was working to secure the visas. Although we are discouraged by this news, we must not despair. Will you join us in prayer that God's will may be done with reference to the fields to which these missionaries should go?

December 22, 1955

Free Will Baptist Press
Ayden, N. C.

Dear Editor:

Please find enclosed copy of letter recently received from Evangelical Foreign Missions Association regarding refusal of visas to enter India.

This certainly comes as a disappointment to us all and we appeal to our people to pray that the will of the Lord might be done in regards to India's masses who need to hear the gospel.

It seems that Communism is making a high bid for this great country, but perhaps if enough of us would pray aright yet others could get into India.

As far as Mr. and Mrs. Hersey and Miss Ruehle are concerned, we are praying the Lord to open other doors that they may utilize their service in reaching lost souls with the gospel of Jesus Christ and ministering to human needs as per their ability.

Please inform our people regarding this and your personal prayers will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
Raymond Riggs

December 16, 1955

Dear Brother Riggs:

Again I have come to you with another story of disappointment, because the following official notice has come from the Embassy of India:

"Please refer to the applications for visas for India submitted in respect of Mr. Fred Wrede Hersey and his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Hersey.

"The government of India has informed us that they regret that they are unable to authorize the grant of visas for India to Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Hersey, as they do not qualify for admission into India under existing regulations."

As I said in my letter regarding the visa rejection of Miss Ruehle, it is impossible for me to understand the reason why practically all applications are being refused. During the past 12 months, we have not had over a dozen visas approved and granted, yet we hear the claim that the government has allowed over 300 missionaries into India.

We hope to investigate this situation, but may not get very far. New applications will not be accepted by the India Embassy for a period of six months, but we can try again at that time. In the meantime, your representative in India should attempt to appeal the decision in India, but it is best if he could do it through the Evangelical Fellowship of India.

May this Christmas be a joyous one to you all, and rich with the blessings of our Saviour and Lord.

Cordially yours in Christ,

The Calverys Write

Tokyo, Japan
December 3, 1955

Dear Brother Riggs:

Another month has gone and we are still busy with the language, but it is making more sense to us now. At least, we can tell that we are improving along. But we still have a long way to go.

Rev. Wesley Calvery and part of the Sunday school in Tokyo, Japan. The young man standing on your right is one of the teachers, Wsuri-San.

The Lord has answered our prayer. We now have a place to hold our Sunday evening meetings. The cold evenings in the garage were getting almost unbearable. One of the ladies, who has become a Christian through our meetings, opened her house to the meeting. She wanted to let us have our service there, starting about a month ago, but her husband objected. However, last week he decided to let us use his house. He does not attend, even though it is held in his own house.

It was a real answer to prayer. As you know, the Japanese have very little furniture in their houses, and the floors are made of mats called "tatami." They sit on the floor. So a "tatami" room is a good place to hold services. We don't have to worry about chairs. Her room will take care of almost 30 people. We praise the Lord that He has given us this place for worship. I could have rented a room with my own money, but I wanted them to feel that it was their own. I even encouraged them to find a place on their own. I even told them that the meeting would have to stop if they didn't provide something for themselves. I think they feel better when they do things for themselves. Christmas will soon be here and we want to have a special program. Please continue to pray for us.

In Christ,
Wesley Calvery

The Pastor Says

One of the first things in the Bible that we note new Christians doing is winning souls. When Andrew was saved, he wanted Peter saved, so he went and found him and brought him to Jesus. When Christ saved Philip, he went and found Nathanael and brought him to Jesus (John 1). I believe, sincerely, if we are saved, one of the most paramount desires of our hearts is to see others saved. If you are saved, Jesus Christ wants you to win souls, also, do all you can to get sinners under the sound of the gospel, because faith comes by hearing the Word of God (Romans 10:17). Men are saved by faith, and faith is produced by hearing the Word of God. Use your car to bring people under the sound of the gospel. If you do bring a person who in turn is saved, you will be responsible for his salvation. Remember the Lord's command in Luke 14:23.

Need for Repentance Today

(Lesson for January 15)

Lesson: Luke 13:1-9, 31-35.

Golden Text: Luke 13:5.

I. INTRODUCTION

"There were present at that season some who told him of the Galilaeans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices" (Vs. 1).

Do tragic experiences not come upon people as judgment for their sins? This is the substance of a question which some of the people asked Jesus. They gave the example of some Galilaeans whom Pilate, the Roman governor of Judaea, had slain while they were making a sacrifice to God in the temple. Our sources state that the specific crimes or acts of these Galilaeans, which incurred the wrath of Pilate, are not known. They say that Pilate may have had these men killed on some pretext to further aggravate his quarrel with Herod, the ruler of Galilee.

The importance of this question to us is that tragedies do not always come because we have sinned. Some fires are designated to burn up the trash and rid the ground of litter; other fires are used to burn out the dross and render the metal pure. So, God may permit some tragedies to come upon us as judgments, but He also permits other fiery trials to beset us that we may be purified and tempered for greater service in His Kingdom.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.)

Job's three friends stoutly advanced the idea that his calamities were a punishment for some secret sins. Even some of Jesus' disciples believed this false teaching. See John 9:2. The destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah was an act of divine judgment, but if a small child was killed in an auto accident no one would claim the child died because it was a great sinner.

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. Wicked rulers have shed much innocent blood, but the Herods and the Hitlers must face God.

2. Men who are free sometimes deserve to die as much as those who pay the supreme price (Vv. 2, 4).

3. Repentance is the only door of escape for those who would miss that awful day (Vv. 3, 5).

4. Sooner or later all fruitless trees will be hewn down and cast into eternal fire (Vv. 6, 7).

5. The patience of Christ often grants another chance, but finally the hand of judgment will strike (Vv. 8, 9).

6. There are always some who would feel less cramp if the forces of Christ would move their camp (Vs. 31).

7. Like Christ, His servants should fear no man, for no one can stop them until their work is done (Vv. 32, 33).

8. Desolation is sure to come to all who continue to spurn God's mercy and love (Vv. 34, 35).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.)

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." The meaning of the Greek word that is translated repentance, is to change one's mind, and to change the moral direction of one's life. We usually think of repentance as being an emotional experience of sorrow, regret and remorse. And true repentance is accompanied by sorrow and regret. But repentance is primarily an intellectual experience. It means that one has received certain truth, that he has accepted it, acted upon it, and changed the course and manner of his life.

Jesus gave His idea of repentance in Matthew 21:28-32. Godly sorrow results in real repentance.

2. Observe the difference between these two incidents: (1) The first was death inflicted by the cruelty of man. Those slain by Pilate were killed with a sword by the hands of Pilate's soldiers. (2) The second was death by an accident. The tower of Siloam, for one reason or another, toppled over, fell on eighteen, killing them. (3) The death by cruelty was inflicted upon Galileans, while the death by accident took place in Jerusalem. The Galileans were a despised people, while the inhabitants of Jerusalem were honored people. It was a great honor and distinction to dwell in Jerusalem, the honored city of the kings. Our Lord undoubtedly called attention to this incident because the fullness of God's wrath was to be poured out upon Jerusalem in case of impenitence. The honored city was to feel the hand of judgment most heavily.—W. S. Hottel, D. D.

3. False Friendships (Luke 13:31-33). It seems that Jesus was in the trans-Jordanic country of Perea at this time, where the Jewish authorities did not have much power.

The Pharisees were never the friends of the Lord Jesus, and it hardly seems possible that they were sincere in warning Him to escape from that country for His own safety, although some expositors seem to think so. It seems more natural to believe that they had been enraged by what He had said in the previous verses about being shut out from the Kingdom of God while gentile nations from all directions were allowed to enter. So they wished Him to leave Herod's domain and go where He would be likely to fall into the hands of Jewish rulers.—The Bible Illustrator.

4. The mercy and patience of God in giving all sinners a chance is taught in the analogy of the fruitless fig tree. The owner of the tree had noticed that it was fruitless, and had ordered the dresser to cut it down. This reminds us that the sin of omission, which includes the sin of passively rejecting Christ, may result in eternal death. But on the request of the dresser, the owner allows an extension of the life of the tree which was to be cultivated and fertilized. We are not told how the issue ended, but we get the warning and the gracious lesson for all unconverted people.—Higley's Commentary.

5. One of the great travesties of human nature is that it will always seek to hide its own guilt behind the judgment of another. The very men who inferred the guilt of the Galileans and the Siloamites were themselves in danger of judgment. The rich and the poor, the lowly and the mighty, the good and the bad, the fortunate and the unfortunate, all were under the condemnation of sin and in need of God's grace. Jesus expressed this when He revealed the personal requisite in the words, "Except ye repent." The living need repentance as well as the dead victims had needed it. Every man must repent or be lost. "... God ... now commandeth all men every where to repent" (Acts 17:30). The self-righteous moralist needs repentance as much as the condemned criminal.

It was the self-styled Holiness people of Jesus' day who were most anxious to have Him crucified.—Selected.

monsville, South Carolina, held its meeting Tuesday night, December 13, at the home of Mrs. Grace Lewis, with Mrs. Ellen Tedder serving as co-hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Sarah Granger. The program chairman, Mrs. Elizabeth Tedder, took charge and presented a Christmas program.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Ellen Tedder, and the evening prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. W. L. Jernigan. A reading, "The Perfect Gift," was given by Mrs. Nellie Kirby. The circle quartet sang, "Silent Night." Mrs. Fannie Mae Rhinehart gave a reading. The group sang, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." A Christmas poem was given by Mrs. Nobie Sims and a reading by Mrs. Elizabeth Tedder.

Following the program, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. After the business, Mrs. Ruby Vause gave the benediction.

Christmas gifts were exchanged by the members. The hostess served delicious refreshments to the 28 members and three visitors present. The visitors included the president of the auxiliary as a whole, Mrs. Ruby Lee Severance, and the pastor.

Sarecta Auxiliary Holds December Meeting

The Woman's Auxiliary of Sarecta Free Will Baptist Church, Kenansville, North Carolina, held its December meeting at the church on Monday night, December 19, 1955, at 7:00 p. m. Having been called to order by the president, everyone joined in singing the hymn, "Jesus Saves." Mrs. Walter Futrelle took charge of the devotional, using as her Scripture portions of Jeremiah 2 and Matthew 23.

During the business session the auxiliary voted to send each of our missionaries a Christmas card. We also remembered our aged minister with a gift as a small token of our love. The treasurer reported that we had sent a Christmas gift of $10 to our adopted boy, Le Roy Miller, at the Middlesex Orphanage.

Our program for the month was taken from "Declaring His Glory Now in Europe," which was written by Mrs. Wesley Calvery, our missionary in Japan. Since we do not have a missionary in Europe each member was asked to pray for this special need so that we may spread the Gospel to those who have never heard its message. Only through prayer can the door be opened to the many thousands of lost souls in Europe.

Having heard the varied monthly reports, the meeting was adjourned after the benediction.

"Saint Nicholas' robe—his 'tabard'—enables him to travel from place to place instantly. In Holland he is supposed to use a horse for his journey at night over the roofs of the houses. Belgium and Holland have special cakes and sweets for the Saint Nicholas season. Life-sized figures of Saint Nicholas are frequent in front of shop windows and in some places a man dressed like the saint goes about the streets on a white horse with presents. The Dutch settlers brought the Saint Nicholas customs to New York, whence they spread to other parts of the United States and became amalgamated with the Christmas customs from other countries. The American 'Santa Claus,' writes McKnight, 'the name derived from Saint Nicholas through the familiar use of children in Teutonic countries, crossed to America. The exact route followed by him is somewhat open to question. On the way he traded his gray horse or ass for a reindeer and made changes in his appearance. In America he has made himself very much at home; and according to the explanation most generally accepted, from America he recrossed the Atlantic to England, whence he has journeyed to the most distant parts of the British Empire, to India and to Australia, where he is as familiarly known as in America.' ## DOING RIGHT

Have you found it difficult to keep the resolutions we urged you to make last week? Perhaps you have already broken some of them, and you may be discouraged about the whole thing now. We are sure you have found that your resolutions do not cover the whole scope of Christian living. You have been called upon to make decisions and take action which were outside the limits of the rules you have set down to govern your conduct. This is necessarily so because it would be impossible and impractical to set down what your reaction should be in every situation. Therefore we devote our columns this week to a discussion of doing right. If we can always do right we shall be able to keep all good resolutions.

A person who would do right must first know what is right. Upon casual consideration one would conclude that it is easy to tell right from wrong, and we must admit that most of us know more about what is right than we are willing to put in practice in our lives. However, did you ever stop to think how much money, time and effort are spent placing truth before people and urging them to apply it in their lives? All the educational systems of the world are, or should be, dedicated to impartation of truth so that people may know how to make right decisions. The Christian Church is founded upon revealed spiritual truth, and all its efforts are directed toward helping people to know and do right. Social, fraternal and civic organizations use various methods and symbolisms to impress truth and right upon their adherents. In fact, our whole economy is geared up to reach out for this goal. Therefore, one can readily see that it is not always easy to know just what is the right thing to do.

We heartily recommend the Bible as the very essence of truth and right. But we cannot dismiss the matter by purchasing a Bible. If we would be benefitted by the truth it contains, we must devote a lifetime to the study of its pages, and we must avail ourselves of all the explanation and help we can get from those who have gained more information than we. Christ designed the Church, with its program of preaching, teaching and training, to meet this need.

God has further equipped man for knowing and doing right by giving him a mind with which he can grasp the truth and a conscience which motivates him to act upon it. However, man's experience has proven that his mind can become corrupted with error and his conscience influenced by his environment so that he may believe a lie and conscientiously act in error.

Again, God has moved so that man may know the truth and be led to act rightly upon it. He has made possible the New Birth whereby man may have his mind renewed and his heart purged of corruption. His conscience will then be directed by the indwelling Holy Spirit so that he may know the truth and act rightly upon it.

The person who would do right must know his own self. The person who has experienced regeneration must know that, although he has been made partaker of the divine nature, the fleshly nature has not been eradicated. He has now become the possessor of two natures which oppose each other. His will now becomes the deciding factor in all his actions.

Paul gives a summary of the moral nature of man in Romans 7:14-25. Bible scholars disagree upon the interpretation of this passage. Some think Paul is describing the struggles which are felt in a convinced soul that is yet in a state of sin who knows the Lord's will but does not do it. Others maintain that the apostle is describing the fleshly nature which remains with a person after he has been regenerated.

Matthew Henry says: "It seems rather to be understood of the struggles that are maintained between grace and corruption in sanctified souls. That there are remainders of indwelling corruption, even where there is a living principle of grace, is past dispute; that this corruption is daily breaking forth in sins of infirmity (such as are consistent with a state of grace) is no less certain, . . . That true grace strives against these sins and corruptions, does not allow them, hates them, mourns over them, groans under them as a burden, is likewise certain (Galatians 5:17): The flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; and these are contrary one to the other, so that you cannot do the things that you would. These are the truths which, I think, are contained in this discourse of the apostle."

Let us notice what the apostle says about himself:

1. He gives an analysis, ". . . I am carnal, sold under sin" (Vs. 14); ". . . for what I would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I" (Vs. 15).

2. He reaches some conclusions, ". . . in me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: . . ." (Vs. 18); ". . . where I would do good, evil is present with me" (Vs. 21); "For I delight in the law of God after the inward man" (Vs. 22); "But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members" (Vs. 23).

3. He asks a vital question, "O wretched man that I am who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" (Vs. 24).

4. He finds the answer, "I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord . . ." (Vs. 25).

The person who would do right must constantly find strength in Jesus Christ. Paul had an imperfection of some kind which he called a thorn in the flesh. He set aside three periods of special prayer that God might remove the imperfection, but the thorn was not removed. However, he did receive an answer to his prayer in that he heard the voice of Jesus saying to him, ". . . My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. . . ." (2 Corinthians 12:9). Christ can sustain us even if we do have weaknesses and imperfections.

Again, Christ can sustain us in times of temptations. "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it" (1 Corinthians 10:13).

Let us urge you to lean upon Christ for help and rely upon the Holy Spirit for leadership, comfort, encouragement and strength to do the will of God. If you experience what you consider to be a failure, do not be discouraged; for who knows but that may be one of the greatest victories you have ever experienced? You may have needed it to humble you so that Christ might work more fully in some great undertaking which He is planning for you.

Above all things, please do not relinquish your determination to strive to experience the fullness of the stature of Christ in your own life. "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28).

Hypocrites

Naaman Borders

THERE has been much said about hypocrites, and much abuse heaped upon them. Jesus Himself condemned them very severely, and justly so. What what is a hypocrite? He is a wolf in sheep's clothing, wearing the garb of a Christian to hide his meanness in order to deceive others.

Many sinners will use the argument of the hypocrite when asked to come to Christ. They usually say, "Oh, there are so many hypocrites in the church." This is only an alibi to stay away from the church and continue in their sins. There are not nearly so many hypocrites as people suppose. There are thousands of weak Christians, who, in their unguarded moments, will say or do things they should not; afterwards they are heartily sorry and repent and ask God for forgiveness. The worldly people will cry, "Hypocrite!" Often many brothers and sisters will do the same. When someone, through envy, will prefer charges against them in the church, leaving them disheartened. Many times they give up the struggle and return to the world.

The Bible is very clear on such a case. In Galatians 6:1, 2 we find, "Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted. Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." Therefore we should be very careful to withhold ridicule and abuse, so that we may help a fellow Christian instead of hindering him, consequently driving him from the narrow way.

In Matthew 18:12, 13, we have an incident of the shepherd who safely housed the ninety and nine, but left all of them to search diligently for one lost sheep. When he found it he rejoiced and brought it safely home. Some people would prefer revenge by killing the sheep, but not Jesus. He always had compassion instead of censure; pity instead of abuse.

There is also the story of the adulterous woman who was brought to Jesus. The carnally minded, jealous Jews were trying to trap Jesus in His doctrine. They were not so much interested in the morals of the people as they were in trying to find a fault in Jesus. "So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her" (John 8:7). Being shocked, the accusers sneaked away one by one until they were all gone. "When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee? She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more" (John 8:10, 11).

Another incident concerning this subject is found in John 4:5-29. Jesus knew the woman of Samaria was of bad character for she had had five husbands, but was living with neither of them. Instead she was living with a sixth man, who was not her husband. Nevertheless Jesus told her of the water of life that He could give her if she would only ask for it.

Mary Magdalene, who was possessed with seven devils, came to Jesus with a heavy heart, ragged dress and disheveled hair. She cried at His feet until the compassionate heart of the Lord was moved with pity and love. After Jesus cast the seven devils out she was one of His most devout followers. She gave very liberally of her substance to Jesus and the apostles, knowing that someday she would be rewarded for following her Master.

So we should be very careful whom we call hypocrites. Sometimes people are branded as hypocrites when in truth they are weak and just babes in Christ who have stumbled or fallen. They can easily be led back to Christ if we follow His teachings. Liars have often misrepresented people as hypocrites, thus ruining their lives. So investigate very carefully before you air an accusation in public. There are some people who, through envy and strife, degrade their brother's name just for revenge. But did you know that envy and strife will sink a man in hell just as quickly as if he were a murderer? Doesn't the Bible say that he that hateth his brother is the same as a murderer? Let us love one another for love is of God and everyone that loveth is born of God. "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins" (1 John 4:10).

A Sweet Voice

"Oh, Father, I wish I could sing! It is so nice to give pleasure to people. Florence sang at the club today, and we all enjoyed it so much. She sings every night to her father too. I'd give anything if I could. But there's no use wishing; there isn't any music in me."

"Is that so?" asked the father, taking her wistful face between his hands. "Well, perhaps you can't sing. But don't tell me your voice has no music in it. To me it is full of music."

"Why, Father, how can you say so?"

"Almost every evening," answered the father, "when I come home, the first thing I hear is a merry laugh; and it rests me, no matter how tired I am. Yesterday I heard that voice saying: 'Don't cry, Buddie; sister'll mend it for you.' Sometimes I hear it reading to grandmother. Last week I heard it telling Mary: 'I'm sorry your head aches. I'll do the dishes tonight.' That is the kind of music I like best. Don't tell me my little daughter hasn't a sweet voice." —Herald and Presbyterian.

"We may not all be called to do great things, but we may all be mighty in prayer, and prayer life is the greatest life. It touches the eternal throne." —Selected.

The Gospel Believed and Explained

Elder Ambrose J. Jenkins
Albany, Ohio

WE shall deal, in these articles, with God and His revelation of Himself to man. He has chosen to reveal Himself to man in various ways throughout the ages. That seekers might get a firsthand introduction to Him through His Son, Jesus Christ, He opens His revelation with instruction on the fact that people have a right to approach Him and accept His offer of salvation on the terms, "... for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him" (Hebrews 11:6).

God is, and receivers must believe in Him. In Genesis 1:1 we have His first revelation, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." All who accept and believe this have made a good start in knowing God. This and the remainder of the Scriptures reveal all that is to be believed about God. He is the supreme being who created the world and all in it, including both plant and animal life. His crowning work of creation was that of bringing man into existence. Nothing exists which is not the work of His creative hand.

God orders and sustains every action for good in us. The Bible declares this to be true; reason demands it; faith affirms it; experience proves it, "For in him we live, and move, and have our being; ..." (Acts 17:28). God is the only spiritual help for mankind.

God is the rewarder of them who diligently seek Him. Through the Holy Spirit He not only rewards worthy effort but He also supplies every Christian need. Through Jesus Christ, His Son, He knows us, feels for us, speaks to us, listens to us and loves us. Through the Son and the Holy Spirit we can talk to Him in prayer, worship Him in loving devotion, thank Him for His blessings, serve and obey Him, and proclaim Him to others.

Knowing God experimentally through revelation is the greatest privilege to be attained in this world; for then we can say with the apostle, "Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us" (Romans 8:37). It is the very nature of God to disclose Himself to Christians and manifest an interest in them. Furthermore, it is man's highest privilege, in response to God, to familiarize himself with God's interests. He may humble himself, ask God's forgiveness for his sins and seek to know God's will more perfectly for his life.

Let us not forget that there is in every man that which makes him capable of receiving revelation from God and distinguishing the true God from all so-called false gods. This self-disclosure of God is a part of our social heritage and a part of our personal experience.

God has not left Himself without witnesses. Life brings to us evidences that He is. There is much in the world, in history and in life which may seem to deny God but, "Nevertheless he left not himself without witness, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness" (Acts 14:17). Again, Romans 1:20 reminds us, "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse." Even so, we of today are without excuse.

1. The universe witnesses to God. Everywhere in nature one can find God. The universe did not cause itself; it is the creative act of God. Let us console ourselves with the truth of Genesis 1:1. In theology this is called the cosmological argument for the existence of God, the argument from the cause of the cosmos or universe.

2. Design and orderly purpose witness to God. We see everything in the world moving in orderly fashion. God was not only in the beginning of the world, but

His hand continues to be seen in the governing of it. The mountains still stand; the valleys are not filled up; rivers still run to the sea; the heavens have not fallen; the sun still comes up in the morning and sets in the evening; seasons still come and go with regularity. "... Surely the LORD is in this place; ..." (Genesis 28:16). "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge" (Psalm 19:1, 2).

Jesus pointed out the hand of God in nature when He said, "... Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin; And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these" (Matthew 6:28, 29). Again He said, "Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. ..." (Matthew 6:26).

3. Spiritual ideals and values witness to Him. Although evil, spite and hate in the world seem to be leading it to moral and spiritual chaos, the laws operating in the moral and spiritual universe are as immutable and dependable as those which operate in the material realm. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap" (Galatians 6:7) is truer in morals than it is in agriculture. Holiness or right is still stronger than sin or wrong; truth will outlive error; love will be marching on and winning, long after the forces of hate have spent themselves and gone back to the pit from whence they came.

God will save in the day of adversity if one will trust Him for victory. But the same loving God will bring judgment on hate and haters. What will save the day and bring victory is more active faith in God's power. To trust that He is all powerful will make His Word come to pass in the language, "... Fear not: for they that be with us are more than they that be with them" (2 Kings 6:16). All this means that if we are to see the power of God operate in an unusual way, we must go along with what His Word says He will do for those who trust Him.

If these moral and spiritual forces of God are to be loosed in human lives, he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.

Sowing and Reaping

Mrs. R. B. Pyle
Blakely, Georgia

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting" (Galatians 6:7, 8).

IF the Bible were to be blotted out of existence the words I have just quoted would be true just the same. We might as well try to blot the sun out of the heavens as to try to blot this truth out of God's Word. Didn't God make Adam reap before he left Eden when he made himself clothes of fig leaves and hid himself in the garden? It may be a king on his throne like David, or a priest like Eli—social standing does not alter the fact that God's Word remains the same throughout the ages. Priest, prophet, king, preacher, or hearer—every man—must reap what he sows. It is true when applied to nations as well as to individuals regarding sowing to the flesh or to the Spirit.

The evil harvest of sin and the good harvest of righteousness are as sure to follow the sowing as is the harvest of wheat and barley. In the book of Proverbs we find, "The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but to him that soweth righteousness shall be a sure reward" (Proverbs 11:18). Hosea prophesied regarding Israel, "For they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind: . . ." (Hosea 8:7). Sow for yourselves righteousness; reap in mercy. Life is to be regarded as seedtime. Everyone has his seed to sow and his harvest to reap. We cannot see the seed as they grow and develop, but time will reveal it. We cannot reap a good harvest unless we have sown good seed, therefore we cannot reap eternal life unless we have sown to the Spirit.

What would become of a little child if it were left to itself—no training nor education? In spite of all that is done for him, evil often gets the upper hand. The good seed must be planted and cared for, often with toil and trouble, but the harvest will be sure to be a good one. Then we must not sow to the flesh, for it always yields a harvest of corruption. Paul says, "Now the works of the flesh are . . . these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, Idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, . . ." (Galatians 5:19, 20). Yet it must not be thought that indulgence in these vices is the only way of sowing to the flesh. Every desire, every action that has not God for its end and object, is seed sown to the flesh.

Now let us notice sowing to the Spirit. It implies self-denial, resistance of evil, obedience to the Spirit and guidance by the Spirit. We sow to the Spirit when we use our abilities and means to advance spiritual things, when we support and encourage those who are influenced by the Spirit. Then we cultivate the fruits of the Spirit which are ". . . love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, Meekness, temperance: . . ." (Galatians 5:22, 23). Let us notice the Text, Be not deceived. Many times we are deceived by our so-called friends, and sometimes, even by our loved ones; but we have been deceived by our own hearts most of all. Jeremiah said, "The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?" (Jeremiah 17:9). We need to pray the prayer of David, "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me" (Psalm 51:10).

Bear in mind that God has never deceived anyone and that we cannot deceive Him. Adam and Eve tried it in the garden (Genesis 3:8-13); Saul tried it when he spared the best of the sheep and oxen (1 Samuel 15:14, 15); Ananias and Sapphira tried it when they kept back part of the price of the land they sold (Acts 5:1-10). Men and women, boys and girls try it every day. Because they can deceive their pastor, their employer and their friends, they cannot deceive God.

Now let us think about sowing. He who sets his heart upon money is sowing to the flesh, and shall reap corruption; for the Text says whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. "For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live" (Romans 8:13). My friends, what kind of seed are you sowing? good seed or bad ones? There will surely be a harvest, and you are bound to reap whether you want to or not. What will the harvest be? Will it be a black one or are you going to have a joyous harvest?

I beg you to choose carefully your sowing and you will surely reap the best of harvests. On one side there is Christ, and on the other the devil; between the two you must choose. Let me plead with you to choose Christ. "No man can serve two masters: for he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other . . ." (Matthew 6:24). Take heed that no man deceive you.

Life's Most Amazing Fact!

Waldo Yeager

A PROMINENT business and civic leader once invited me to take five minutes to tell his club what I felt was the most important fact in the Bible.

I hesitated at first, but then a startling thought struck me. Yes, it could be done in five minutes' time!

"I'll be glad to," I told him, "and just to be sure you still want to go through with the deal after knowing what I would tell them, I'd like to tell you right now just what I believe to be the most important, as well as the most amazing, fact in the Bible."

The civic leader smiled. "It's a deal," he said.

"Okay," I began. "By way of introduction, let me remind you that perhaps you think I'm a pretty good sort of a fellow, an average businessman, at least; a good husband and father. But you don't really know me.

"My wife and my two boys," I continued, "know me a little better than you do, and they are quite charitable with me and consider me a decent kind of a husband and Dad. But, you know, even they don't really know me.

"There's only one Person who really does know me," I said, "and that's God Himself. He knows all about me, my weaknesses, the myriads of things that I would not dare to expose even to my own family. Yes, He knows all about me—and here's the amazing fact—He still loves me!

"Can you imagine that?" I asked. "The Lord knows all about me, from the in-

NEWS NOTES

Beaufort, N. C., Church Reports Good Year

The Beaufort, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church has closed its 1955 year with a good record and has even brighter visions for the new year.

According to Mrs. Don Eubanks, the church is now on a full-time schedule. The church received nearly fifty members during the year, paid final payments on the church furniture and all are working on the new educational building which is partly finished, under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. James E. Howard of Newport, North Carolina. Rev. Howard has been very patient and has helped the church along with the problems of many individuals.

The Sunday school, league, brotherhood and woman's auxiliary are all active and showing much progress in the various activities.

The church desires the prayers of all churches for its continued progress in doing great things for the Lord in 1956.

St. Mary's, Lucama, N. C. Has a Progressive Year

The St. Mary's Free Will Baptist Church of Lucama, North Carolina, has reported a very successful year for 1955.

The Sunday school had set a goal for 1955 of 250 but an all time high attendance of 286 was attained under the leadership of Mr. Odell Howell, superintendent. The Sunday school has set 300 as its goal for 1956, and the church is expecting to reach that figure by Easter Sunday.

Rev. B. L. Shook, pastor of the church states, "The Sunday school here has broken an all-time record in the history of the church, the finances of the church have almost doubled for the previous year and the church is surging forward to greater heights for our Lord."

Rev. Shook also states, "The church recently voted to build 16 new Sunday school rooms which will eventually provide for 4 new Sunday school assembly rooms in the project. This project if contracted will cost over $25,000 but with the excellent leaders we have and the faith of such a group as this church, we are inclined to believe the wonderful words of our Lord, "The gates of hell shall not prevail against it" in 1956. We ask all Christians everywhere to pray for this work that the wonderful name of Jesus Christ may be glorified through the efforts of our people."

Moody Founders Day Will Draw Thousands

Chicago—Chicago's Moody Bible Institute will convene its 50th annual Founder's Week Conference January 30—February 5. The event marks the 119th anniversary of the birth of the Institute's founder Dwight L. Moody.

Some fifteen outstanding speakers from all parts of the continent will be heard during this golden anniversary week. These include: Dr. Frank E. Gaebelein, Stony Brook School, Long Island, New York; Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, California; Dr. William Fitch, Knox Presbyterian Church, Toronto, Canada; Dr. Robert G. Lee, Bellevue Baptist Church, Memphis, Tennessee; Dr. Joseph Free, Wheaton College, Wheaton, Illinois; and Dr. Kenneth S. Wuest, well-known Greek New Testament authority, author, and lecturer at Moody Bible Institute.

More than 3,000 alumni are expected to attend the homecoming celebrations on Tuesday, January 31, slated as Alumni Day. A missionary symposium is scheduled for Thursday afternoon, February 2.—United Evangelical Action.

Installation Service At Reedy Branch Church

The Reedy Branch Church near Winterville, North Carolina, installed its newly elected Sunday school and woman's auxiliary officers and teachers Sunday night, January 1, 1956, at 7:30 p. m., with the pastor, Rev. Henry Melvin, officiating.

According to the reporter, Miss Joan Averette, the service, which was held in the usual fashion, was one of the first of its kind to be held at the church during a regular church session. She states, "Each of the installed persons was informed by the pastor as to what his immediate duties would be and was challenged to assume his duties as best he could, realizing the fact that his new tasks were God-given opportunities to utilize his talents for the glory of the Lord."

"Everyone present was quite impressed by the unique service," she further states, "and as each departed an atmosphere of gratitude was evident. The effecting of the service served its purpose well, and the Sunday school and auxiliaries are anticipating a fruitful new year under the leadership of the pastor and the newly installed persons."

River Turn Church Holds Dedication Service

River Turn Free Will Baptist Church of Donalsonville, Georgia, held its dedication service for the church on December 11, 1955, with Rev. Edward Sheffield delivering the dedication message.

Mrs. Edward Sheffield, church clerk, reports, "Brother Scottie Driggers rendered a solo which was followed with a duet sung by his daughters. After Brother Gus Ivey conducted devotions, the church clerk called the roll and read the church history. The River Turn Quartet then rendered a lovely hymn."

"Rev. Edward Sheffield, a former pastor, delivered the message, using as his text Luke 18:28."

She further states, "Everyone enjoyed the fine lunch. During the afternoon song service many of the members rededicated their lives to our Maker and Saviour."

"The congregation," she adds, "was then dismissed until 7:30 p. m. for the regular church service."

Our Requirements Of the Rector

If the preacher is young, he lacks experience; if his hair is gray, he is too old. If he has several children, he has too many; if not, he is setting a bad example. If his wife sings in the choir, he is forward; if she doesn't, she isn't interested in his work.

If he speaks from notes, he has canned sermons and is dry; if he is extemporaneous, he doesn't come prepared. If he spends much time in his study, he neglects his people; if he visits he is a gad-about. If he is attentive to the poor, he is playing to the grandstand; if to the wealthy, he is trying to be an aristocrat.

If he suggests improvement for the church, he is a dictator. If not, he is a figurehead. If he uses too many illustrations he neglects the Bible; if not enough, he is not clear. If he condemns wrong, he is cranky; if he does not, he is a compromiser.

If he preaches an hour, he is windy; if less, he is lazy. If he preaches the truth, he is offensive; if he does not, he is a hypocrite. If he preaches tithing, he is a money-grabber; if he doesn't, he is failing to develop his people. If he preaches all the time, the people get tired of hearing him; if he invites guest preachers in, he is neglecting his own responsibility.

If he fails to please everyone, he is hurting the church; if he does please everybody he has no convictions. If he receives a large salary, he is overpaid; if his salary is small, he can't be worth very much.

Yet they say the preacher has an easy time.—The Churchman.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Please explain "When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest; and finding none, he saith, I will return unto my house whence I came out. And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished. Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits more wicked than himself; and they enter in, and dwell there: and the last state of that man is worse than the first" (Luke 11:24-26).

Answer: Scholars are closer together as to what they think Jesus was teaching in this parable or illustration than what they think the words He used might teach concerning His attitude to some of the claims of the Jews of His day. The Jews claimed that demons inhabited dry desert places in waste lands when they were not allowed to inhabit human hearts or lives. They also believed that they inhabited destroyed cities, especially those destroyed by wars and other places once occupied by human beings, such as houses, caves and fields, but now vacated and not occupied by any kind of people at all. They thought Isaiah had this in mind when he said, "The wild beasts of the desert shall also meet with the wild beasts of the island, and the satyr shall cry to his fellow; the screech owl also shall rest there, and find for herself a place of rest" (Isaiah 34:14). This seems to hold the same meaning as Revelation 18:2, "And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." With this in mind one might recall that it was in the dry wasteland and away from the baptismal scene that the Spirit led Jesus to be tempted of the devil (demon), "Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil" (Matthew 4:1). For further light on this view compare "When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest, and finding none. Then he saith, I will return into my house from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept and garnished. Then goeth he, and taketh with himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there: and the last state of that man is worse than the first. Even so shall it be also unto this wicked generation" (Matthew 12:43-45). Matthew 4:1-13 gives one bit of information in the parable which Luke omits, viz., that the demon or evil spirit finds the house "standing empty," which literally means "at leisure."

Now to the interpretation: the Jews, or perhaps better, Israel, constituted the house of God. It was swept and garnished in a sense when God brought it up out of Egypt, causing the people of Israel to abandon idolatry, the worship of the golden calf as allowed by Aaron. See Exodus 32:4-35; Exodus 20:4. Then they went back into idolatry, for which practice God controlled the affairs of the nations in such a way as to let Assyria take the ten northern tribes of Israel into captivity; then, a little over a hundred years later, Judah or the two southern tribes began walking in the footsteps of Israel. As a result of this idolatrous practice, God allowed Babylon to carry Judah into captivity. During this time of captivity a remnant of these captive people learned to abhor idols. They were brought back to their homeland under Ezra and Nehemiah during the time of Cyrus' reign and during the world domination of Medo-Persia. Whatever other faults God's chosen people may have had since then, they have not been a polytheistic people.

John the Baptist had come before Jesus spoke these words, preaching his gospel of repentance and baptism as a sign of sins remitted, but many had taken the sign without having exhibited a change of life. As God has always proved Himself to do, Jesus hates profession without possession. The Pharisees would have died before they would have stooped to worship an idol. In this way they swept their houses individually while serving as captives in Babylonia, but seven times as many bad habits or evil practices had come between them and true worship. For even though outwardly they would not dare worship a false god, they held to the teaching of the rabbis and other Jewish leaders as being more binding than the Law of Moses or the Law of God. "Then came to Jesus scribes and Pharisees, which were of Jerusalem, saying, Why do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread. But he answered and said unto them, Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition?" (Matthew 15:1-3). See Mark 7:1-13 and Matthew 15:1-9. They also used the temple for economic gain in the sale of animals for sacrifice and in changing foreign currency into the shekel, the Hebrew coin used as offering money. See John 2:13-16. One may get quite a well-rounded view of Jesus' attitude toward these Pharisees by reading the 23rd chapter of Matthew. In Verse 16 He accuses them of being too religious to swear by the temple, but not so pious but that they swear by the gold of the temple. In Verse 18 He accuses them of being too religious to swear by the gift on the altar, but saying that it was nothing to swear by the altar. In Verse 24 He calls them blind guides that strain at a gnat and swallow a camel. By these Scriptures one may readily see that even though they did not worship or cleave to the idol gods of other nations as they did before the captivity, they were far from worshipping God in an acceptable way, and that even in their form of godliness they disobeyed God and His power that Jesus demonstrated before them constantly.

The following quotation from Page 99 in Erdman's Commentary on Matthew is short, simple and well said:

"To illustrate the unbelief of His people Jesus tells the story of the unclean spirit, who for a time left the man he had been tormenting, but returned with seven other demons 'more evil than himself.' So Israel, possessed by unbelief, had been cured for a time and turned from idolatry, but God had not been admitted to the empty heart of the nation, and now their attitude toward Christ showed that unbelief possessed them more cruelly and completely than ever before.

"It is a parable, too, of many modern experiences. Men turn from sin and find temporary freedom; but unless Christ is admitted to the citadel of the soul as Lord and Master, defeat and failure and more bitter captivity are sure to follow; reformation is not regeneration; resolution is not conversion; repentance may not be united with faith; morality is not religion."

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you" (John 5:42).

Of all the words spoken by Christ while He was in the world among sinful and self-righteous men none are sadder or strike deeper than these, "But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you." This is true because of whom they were spoken. Jesus had done some of His greatest deeds of helpfulness to those who could not help themselves. The Jews, the chosen of God, but rejecters of Christ as the Son of God, had taken these things as excuses to criticize Him, even seeking "the more to kill him." He, after establishing Himself even to His severest critics, blistered them with the words, "But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you."

God made this world and all the things there are in it, and yet it is full of rational creatures, very few of whom have any love for Him. Most people love other objects. We love our fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, friends and relatives, but for the God who made us we have never expressed one emotion of affection. We love worldly honor, wealth and pleasure, but we do not love the Supreme Excellence. We even love sin, infinitely odious as it is, but the incomparable perfection of the divine character excites within us no admiration. Alas! how this lack of love for God clothes our world with disgrace, and makes it bear a striking resemblance to hell itself.

Paul, writing to the Romans, says, "And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient; Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, Without understanding, covenantbreakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful: Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them"

(Romans 1:28-32). It is still true that those who are not truly born again do not like to know God or think about Him. How is it to be accounted for that multitudes spend days, weeks, months, years, and even lifetimes without any serious thoughts of God?

The way the great majority treat the Word of God indicates that they have not the love of God in them. Many ridicule the Bible. Many modern teachers and preachers deny the parts of it they do not want to believe. Perhaps it is true that the majority of the people in our country respect the Bible. But how few acquaint themselves with the teachings of its pages! Many of its most important truths they neither believe, love nor obey. They do not believe that they are depraved and vile as the Bible declares them to be. They do not love the humbling doctrine of salvation by grace. Too many rather read almost any other book than the Bible. Is it not evident, then, that those people do not love the Author of the Bible?

In closing I ask you to consider carefully the following:

The man who lives in disobedience to God is under the dominion of the carnal mind, and the carnal mind is at enmity against God. This enmity is the germ of all disobedience and rebellion, while love, its opposite, secures a conscientious observance of the divine commands.

But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you.

CONDUCT OF A CHRISTIAN

Ephesians 4, 5, 6

This is the fifth in a series of messages on the book of Ephesians delivered at the Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tennessee, on the week of December 4, 1955. Each of these chapters should have made a separate message but, because of the number of days in the week, all three were included in this one message.

I. THE WALK OF A CHRISTIAN

Chapter 4 discusses the new man "in Christ" and how he should walk.

A. How the Christian Walks (4:1-3)

- (1) Humbly—with all lowliness and meekness.
- (2) Lovingly—with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love.
- (3) Peacefully—giving diligence to keeping the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

B. The Walk Described

- (1) Walk in Love (5:1, 2)
- (2) Walk in Light (5:8)
- (3) Walk Carefully (5:15, 16)

C. Christian Social Walk

- (1) As a Wife (5:22)

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Mrs. Spicy Baker

On November 1, 1955, God in His infinite mercy saw fit to call our beloved sister and friend, Mrs. Spicy Baker, to her heavenly reward. Though she had been sick a long time her faith was great.

Mrs. Baker was born September 20, 1874, and was a faithful member of Marlboro Free Will Baptist Church, Farmville, North Carolina, for many many years. Her funeral was conducted by her pastor, Rev. L. B. Manning of Fountain, North Carolina.

She was very active in her church duties until declining health prohibited her.

She is survived by five children: three boys, Woodrow W. Baker, Arthur L. Baker, George K. Baker; 2 girls, Mrs. Mervin Tugwell and Mrs. Lester Gay. May God bless her family and all those who loved her.

We miss her, but may our loss be her eternal gain, may she find peace of rest in heaven which we hope to find one day.

May her loved ones look to God for strength in all their sorrow and may they gain that faith that she possessed.

Written by
Mrs. Clyde Brooks

Mr. Henry Morris

On Monday, December 19, 1955, God in His infinite mercy called our beloved brother and friend, Mr. Henry Morris of Vanceboro, North Carolina, to his eternal rest. Though he had been sick for months, his faith in God grew stronger daily.

Brother Morris was always a blessing to those who visited him, bearing his afflictions with patience. He was loved by all who knew him, and faithfully attended Juniper Chapel Free Will Baptist Church in Craven County, North Carolina, until his health declined. He will be greatly missed by all, but may our loss be his gain.

The funeral was conducted at his home church by the Reverends D. W. Cleve, Henry Armstrong and John Grimesley.

Brother Morris is survived by his wife, five daughters, three sons, two brothers and several grandchildren. May his loved ones look to God for strength and wisdom in their hours of sorrow, and may they also gain that faith that he possessed.

II. THE WORK OF A CHRISTIAN

- A. Motivated by Love
- B. Guided by the Spirit
- C. To the Glory of God

III. THE WARFARE OF A CHRISTIAN

- A. Girdle of Truth
- B. The Breastplate of Righteousness
- C. Shoes of Readiness to Hear the Gospel
- D. Shield of Faith
- E. Helmet of Salvation
- F. Sword of the Word
- G. Prayer

We must come to Calvary for each piece of this wonderful armor. When we come and take it for ourselves, we can see that our whole body is covered. This armor is for defensive, not offensive, warfare. We are to "be able to stand against" the enemy. Stand, Christian, in the victory Christ wrought on Calvary. But we notice there is no armor for the back. The Christian is never supposed to run from his enemies but fight the good fight of faith, praying always.

The Pay for Profanity

Several young fellows were conversing with each other at a party and one of them insisted upon using a great deal of profanity, or as we often say, "cuss words." Another of the young men was a Christian, and after a while he mildly asked the profane youth, "Who pays you to swear?" He promptly replied, "Why nobody." "Well," said the Christian youth, "you surely do work cheap—to sacrifice the character of a gentleman, to offend your friends, to disgrace the good name of your family, and risk the wrath of God. You surely do work cheap." The profane boy didn't know the answer to that one. Here is a good definition of profanity you may wish to use sometime: "Profanity is the effort of a feeble mind to express itself forcibly."—General Baptist Messenger.

"Looking longingly at the top of the ladder will avail nothing; it's the climb that counts."—Selected.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

FAITH (continued)

IN our last issue of the Free Will Baptist, we discussed the all important subject—Faith. We are continuing the study in this issue. May we say, as we have said before, we are not saved because we do something, but because we believe something; that something which we believe is the works of God. “Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God? Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent” (John 6:28, 29). Faith in the Lord Jesus is the work. If it is really faith, it will manifest itself in works; for as the Scripture saith, “Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone” (James 2:17). Paul says that it is “. . . faith which worketh by love” (Galatians 5:6). Again Paul says, “For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them” (Ephesians 2:10).

Then, in Ephesians 2:8, it is said, “For by grace are ye saved through faith; . . .” There is no way to be saved except through faith in the Son of God. The Bible says, “He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him” (John 3:36).

Justification Is by Faith in Christ

“Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ” (Romans 5:1). Then our faith in Christ produces peace in our soul. Without faith in Christ there is no peace. The angels sang at the birth of the Lord Jesus, “. . . on earth peace, good will toward men” (Luke 2:14). But the world rejected that peace and cried, “away with him” and the angels’ song was left to the believers in Christ. Jesus said, “Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid” (John 14:27). Faith in Christ as our personal Saviour drives away fear of God’s wrath. Are you afraid to meet God? If so, accept the Lord Jesus Christ as your personal Saviour and see how quickly that fear will go away and a sweet, deep, settled peace will spring up in your heart.

“Simon Peter, a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained like precious faith with us through the righteousness of God and our Saviour Jesus Christ” (2 Peter 1:1). Notice that Peter says he is an apostle and also a servant. Peter never claimed to be a pope anywhere in the Bible record.

“He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned” (Mark 16:16). Without faith in Jesus Christ as a personal Saviour, man is damned. Already condemnation is hanging over the unbeliever. The unbeliever is already sentenced to everlasting separation from God. He is assigned to the flames of eternal hell fire. The only thing that keeps man out of hell is faith in the Son of God that brings eternal life.

REGENERATION

“As man is a fallen and sinful being, he must be regenerated, in order to obtain Salvation.”—Treatise.

“. . . Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God” (John 3:3). Jesus said, “. . . verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God” (John 3:5). So it is definitely stated that man must be made a new creature. This new birth is the work of God, by the power of the Holy Spirit, thus we refer you to Ephesians 2:10, which says, “For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them.” “Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust” (2 Peter 1:4).

“This change is an instantaneous renewal of the heart by the Holy Spirit, whereby the penitent sinner receives new life, becomes a child of God, and is disposed to serve Him. This is called in Scripture being born again.”—Treatise.

“. . . Except a man be born . . . of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God” (John 3:5). “He came unto his own, and his own received him not. But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name: Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God” (John 1:11-13).

“Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost” (Titus 3:5). “And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life because of righteousness. But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you. Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh. For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God” (Romans 8:10-14).

“That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again” (John 3:6, 7).

How Are We Born of God?

The question of being born again has been asked over and over. It is a simple matter, not simple in its beginning because, in its beginning, it is as great as God. But to us poor human beings it is made simple, so that we may grasp it and know of its power. Here it is in a nutshell, “Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God: and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him. By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments” (1 John 5:1, 2).

—FOR OUR—

BOYS and GIRLS

HAROLD AND HIS PREACHER FRIEND

John H. Greening

IT seemed such a long time since Father went away, although it was really less than a week. Every morning Harold had manfully done the chores. Rising earlier than was his custom, he had gone out to the barn, watered and fed the stock, helped with the milking, and done everything he could think of, so that Mother might have it as easy as possible until Daddy returned. He was fond of the two brown horses and of the cows which stood patiently as he milked them.

Breakfast over, Harold sat quietly while Mother read a chapter out of the Bible, and then they knelt in prayer. He was eleven years old and knew no other life than that of the farm, and had few other friends besides the country boys and girls who attended the village school—and some, the Sunday school.

He was healthy in body and bright in mind, and after worship was over, he gathered up his books, took his lunch box and with a kiss for his mother, set out for school. The farm was about a mile from the village where the school was situated.

Harold usually remained for lunch at the school, although occasionally Father drove the car and brought him home for dinner. Today he must stay at school, Mother would have to attend to the chickens and then when he got home he would have to fill Father's place again.

During the morning he worked steadily at his lessons and time passed quickly until the noon bell rang, when the scholars were free again. Dinner hour was a happy time for the boys and girls who might play to their heart's content, and usually the village was very quiet, and strangers were few. But today something happened. When the children went out at noon some of them discovered something unusual had come along. It was only a very little time before all the children were gathered around.

A great big automobile had come into the village and was standing parked on the street but away from the traffic. It was freshly painted, shiny and looked very neat and trim. It was like a house on wheels for there were windows at each side, but almost everywhere, all over the big automobile, texts of Scripture were painted in large plain letters. They were such as these:

"Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

"It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment."

"The Blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin."

"Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

At the rear of the car was a covered platform with a light railing around it, and on the top, the funnel of a rather large, loud speaker. Harold was greatly interested in this new arrival, and especially because he knew that the words painted were from the Bible.

As the group of children were standing around, a man came out of the door on the rear platform and, instead of driving the children away, smiled pleasantly and began to talk to them. Then he invited some of the older boys, and Harold among them, to come inside and look at his wonderful house. And it was a wonderful house! There were two beds which folded away, a washstand with water, a table, a microphone, and everything so comfortable and clean—it was just a lovely traveling caravan.

The man explained about it all and told the boys what he was traveling for. He and his helper went about to tell the story of Jesus and to lead sinners to Him so that He might save them. He said that they were going to have a meeting that night right there in the street and he invited them all to come and bring their parents. Harold felt as if the man was a real brother, and how he wished he could stay longer,—but very soon school would begin and he must not be late.

He had a glowing story to tell Mother when he got home in the evening, and he was full of the praises of his new "friend." So they hurried and got the farm work done as quickly as possible, because Mother thought that here was just the right sort of a "friend" for Harold, and she decided that they would walk into the village for this novel outdoor meeting.

Quite a lot of people came around the big car and there was Harold's friend, and his helper. They had a little organ and an accordion and they played and sang, and asked the people to sing with them. Then they preached and even the children could understand. Harold and his mother did not go away until they had asked the preacher friend to come out to the farm and see them, because Father would be home again on the morrow.

Tomorrow was Saturday. The automobile was to remain for a few days and so the men came out to the farm. Harold showed them the cows and the horses and the two calves, and then just before dinner, Father came in from the city. What a jolly time they did have!

Father and the two preacher friends talked and talked about Jesus, how He had saved them, and about working for Him and about how He is soon coming back to the earth again. Harold was just as much interested as anyone. They read from the Bible and prayed together and Father promised to help them in their services on the Sunday.

When at last they had to go back to their "house" to prepare for their evening meeting, Harold's "friend" said to him that he hoped that he would be ready to preach the Gospel some day, and Harold said that that was what he wanted to do. I think Father and Mother were very glad.—Juvenile Pleasure.

Why the Jew Wouldn't Sign

A certain fashionable family whose residence was near a church whose members worshiped God with great enthusiasm, drew up a petition to present to the city council, stating that the church was a disturber of the peace. Thinking, of course, that a Jew would be quick to sign it, they took it to him first. But he said, "Gentlemen, I cannot sign it. If I believed as do these Christians, that my Messiah had come, I would shout it from every housetop and on every street in this city with all the enthusiasm I could command—and nobody could stop me."—First Free Will Baptist Church Bulletin, Florence, South Carolina.

Hector, Ark., Auxiliary Meets

There were fifteen members present for the December 21 session of the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Free Will Baptist Church in Hector, Arkansas, which was held at the church.

The group sang "Silent Night," "Joy to the World," and "Tell Me The Story of Jesus," with Miss Clytie Coffman directing and Mrs. A. H. Athey at the piano.

The program subject was, "Declaring His Glory Now in Europe." Mrs. W. A. Crouch presided, read the Scripture and gave the introduction to the program. Prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. Homer Akin.

Topics were reviewed by Mrs. Jake Garrigus, Mrs. E. H. Langford, Mrs. Bert Webb and Miss Clytie Coffman. Miss Coffman sang as a special, "Wonderful Story of Love," and also dismissed the group with prayer, after Brother Akin made a short talk along with two visitors.

Mrs. Holland Entertains Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Free Will Baptist Church, Tarboro, North Carolina, met on Tuesday night, December 20, in the home of Mrs. Frank Holland.

The meeting opened with the group singing "Joy to the World." The Scripture was taken from Jeremiah 2:29, 30 and Matthew 23:13, after which we were led in prayer by Mrs. Hubert Williamson.

The program for the evening was, "Declaring His Glory Now in Europe." Those taking part on the program were, Mrs. Hubert Williamson, Mrs. Jean Polard and Mrs. Homer Webb.

There were eleven members present and they reported the following activities: 2 daily Bible readers, 9 trays, 80 sick visits made and 715 chapters of Scripture read.

We sang the closing song which was "Silent Night," then we were dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Homer Webb. We were then served refreshments by the hostess.

Installation of New Officers

The Greenville, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church, Woman's Auxiliary held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening, December 27 at the church. The meeting was opened with a short business and devotional period after which the installation of new officers for the coming year followed. Mrs. R. B. Crawford opened the installation by reading Scriptures from Matthew 5:13-16 and Ephesians 5:13-16.

The new officers installed are: president, Mrs. Bill Taylor; vice-president, Mrs. H. L. Brewer; recording secretary, Mrs. Paul Taylor; treasurer, Mrs. Buck Hawkins; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Robert Padgett; youth chairman, Mrs. John Langley; study course chairman, Mrs. Alfred Cates; program prayer chairman, Mrs. Bob Peel; personal service chairman, Mrs. W. L. Davenport; orphanage chairman, Mrs. Fronnie Hawkins.

Circle chairmen were: The Lillie Smith Circle, Mrs. Marvin James; The Laura Belle Barnard Circle, Mrs. William Cayton; The Josephine Stevens Circle, Mrs. John Langley; The Afternoon Circle, Mrs. Quennie Clark.

The new officers formed a semi-circle at the front of the church. As the president accepted her duties she lighted a candle, and as each officer accepted her duties she lighted her candle from the president's, which was connected to each with a white ribbon. When all had read their vows and lighted their candles, our pastor, Rev. R. B. Crawford, closed with a prayer of dedication.

Sarecta Auxiliary Holds Installation

The Woman's Auxiliary of Sarecta Free Will Baptist Church of Kenansville, North Carolina, held their installation service for the new officers for 1956 at the church Sunday night, January 1, at 7:00 p. m., with the pastor, Mr. Carol Hansley of Newport, North Carolina, as the installing officer.

The curtains were drawn with the old officers sitting on the stage holding white candles. Each was challenged by the pastor to trim away the part that had burned black this past year and turn up their lights if they had been burning low, keeping them ever burning bright. The old officers then receded from the stage, singing together the familiar hymn, "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning."

As the new officers entered to accept their responsibilities fresh candles were presented to them, which were lighted from a single big white candle representing the Word of God, which is a light to all His children. They too, were challenged to accept their new duties with God as their Captain, always putting their trust and faith in Him to carry them safely through the storms of life.

The ceremony was very impressive and uplifting, since we are faced with greater tasks this year than ever before in the work of our woman's auxiliary.

In Taipei, Formosa, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek and her Women's Prayer Group are co-sponsors with the united churches of Taipei for the Billy Graham evangelistic meeting to be held in the Armed Forces Stadium on February 17. Seating approximately 8,000 people, this is the largest stadium in all of Free China.

Billy Graham has asked ORIENT CRUSADES to coordinate and set up two meetings during his two-day visit to the island. The first meeting will be for all Christian workers, both national and foreign. The second will be the great evangelistic rally. The meeting will be broadcast and relayed to churches all over the city for the benefit of the thousands who will not be able to get into the stadium.

Sponsored by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek and her Women's Prayer Group, a medical clinic is being established to meet the needs of the poor people of Formosa. Stating that the purpose of the clinic is two-fold, physical and spiritual, Madame Chiang remarked that to meet only the physical needs without meeting the spiritual needs would not accomplish the purpose of the medical clinic.

The Women's Prayer Group has pledged thousands of dollars for the maintenance of the clinic. WORLD VISION has agreed to supply all the medicine needed and ORIENT CRUSADES will provide an outstanding evangelist. Madame Chiang has requested prayer for the provision of a completely Christian medical team of a foreign Christian doctor and two nurses.

BOLIVIA

Evangelical mission property in La Paz, Bolivia, housing the studios of the Southern Cross Radio Station, the Bolivia Bible Seminary, and the Seminary

Press, was stoned on the evening of December 1st. The attack occurred following the closing of a three-day pastors' conference. Some of the stones were aimed at an American missionary, Gladys Smith, as she stood talking with a Bolivian doctor in front of the building.

Local police, located a block away from the mission property, failed to respond to two telephone calls for help. When two of the missionaries went personally to the police station they were told that the police had no one to send to help them. The American Embassy was then contacted. Within a half hour two carloads of police arrived, and guards were posted for the night. It was discovered that many windows had been broken during the attack.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that the life of a former Roman Catholic priest, now residing at the mission, had been threatened. Following the threat last October he left town and had returned to take up residence at the mission just three days prior to the attack.

COLOMBIA

At midnight on December 13, 1955, a group of fanatics burned a Protestant chapel in the country district of Palmira, province of Magdalena. The chapel, seating 120 persons and valued at $2,000, had been built by believers connected with the ministry of Rev. Elof H. Anderson of The Evangelical Alliance Mission.

The building has been dedicated in March 1955—pews and pulpit were to have been dedicated on Christmas day.

A few days before the incident, Father Jose M. Jaramillo had visited the area of Palmira, instigating hatred against the Protestants and ordering the people to stone them. He had listed the Protestants by name, vowing that they must be driven out of that area. The priest himself had led a mob to the house of Sr. Santos Flores, shouting, "Down with the Protestants!" And a little later an unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate another Protestant, Sr. Lorenzo Llega.

The burning of this chapel brings to 46 the number of Protestant chapels and

A FAMILY ALTAR

Here are ten important reasons based upon the word of God why every Christian home should have a family altar:

1. Because it will send you forth to daily tasks with a cheerful heart, stronger for the work, truer to duty, and determined in whatever is done therein to glorify God. Read Colossians 3:17.

2. Because the family altar will give you strength to meet the discouragements, disappointments, unexpected adversities and sometimes the blind hopes that may fall your lot. Hebrews 2:18.

3. Because it will make you conscious throughout the day of the attending presence of an unseen, divine One, who will bring you through more than conqueror over every unholy thought or thing that rises up against you. Read Philippians 4:4-7.

4. Because the family altar will sweeten the home life of every Christian and will enrich the home relationships as nothing else can do. Read Ephesians 6:1-9.

5. Because it will dissolve the misunderstandings and go toward relieving the friction which sometimes intrudes into the sacred precincts of family life. Read Romans 12:9-11.

6. Because the family altar will hold, as nothing else, the boys and girls, who are now young men and women when they have gone from beneath the parental roof. The family altar very often largely determines the eternal salvation of children in Christian homes. Read 2 Timothy 3:15-17.

7. Because it will exert a helpful and hallowed influence over those who may at any time be guests within the home. Read Romans 14:7-9.

8. Because the family altar will enforce, as perhaps nothing else can do, the work of your pastor in pulpit and in pew. And it will stimulate the life of your church in its every activity. Romans 15:6, 7.

9. Because the family altar will furnish an example and a stimulus to other homes for the same kind of life and service and devotion to God. Acts 2:46, 47.

10. Because the Word of God requires the family altar; in thus obeying we honor Him who is the giver of all good and the source of all blessing. Read Romans 12:1, 2.—Midweek Reminder of Savannah, Georgia, Church

Parables on Discipleship

Lesson: Luke 14:7-11, 16-24.

Golden Text: Luke 14:11.

I. INTRODUCTION

Those Pharisees who attended the feast in the home of this ruler were vying for the places of greatest honor at the table. According to custom, the ruler sat at the head of the table and the guests were given places in keeping with their importance in the eyes of the host. The most highly honored ones sat nearest the host. However, when no places were assigned in advance, the guests might sit where they chose. Moreover, the host might rearrange the people after they were seated. He might especially honor some guest by moving him nearer the head of the table. These Pharisees thought to presume upon their lord and take the best places whether they were worthy of them or not.

Our Lord is no less displeased and grieved by a similar attitude when it is displayed in churches today. Why it is that supposedly Christian people persist in displaying the attitude of selfishness, false pride and a grasping ambition for the places of highest honor in the church, we cannot understand. It is not uncommon for a congregation to have a great disturbance because some socially prominent member is not elected to a particular office in the church. We may be sure that Christ has no part or lot in such disturbances. This reversion to the flesh is so easy that even ministers become affected by it. They become guilty of vying for positions of honor in denominational meetings, and sometimes stoop to unethical practices.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.)

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. Jesus is always alert to note the blunders of a proud and sinful heart (Vs. 7).
2. No matter how important one thinks himself to be, there are always others more important than he (Vv. 8, 9).
3. True exaltation belongs to those who humble themselves in the sight of the Lord (Vv. 10, 11).

4. When the gospel supper was ready for guests, the Jews were the first to hear the good news (Vv. 16, 17).

5. A flimsy excuse is better than none when those invited are minded not to come (Vv. 18-20).

6. Though many are indifferent towards the gospel of Christ, some are hungry for its message of life (Vs. 21).

7. There is always room in the Kingdom of God for all who repent and believe His Word (Vv. 22, 23).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.)

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. "Chief rooms" must be understood according to oriental custom. Concerning this Whedon writes, "It must never be forgotten that at their meals the ancients used not chairs, nor seats, but couches, and that they did not sit but reclined. Three tables were so placed as to form the three sides of a square, with the fourth for entrance. Upon the side opposite the open entrance was the master's place; in the middle room of the couch occupied by himself, and the positions nearest him, were the places of honor. The uppermost room (Matthew 23:6) does not, therefore, signify a high room in the house, but the most noble reclining place, and this was the uppermost room, to which their ambition aspired."—Higley's Commentary.

2. Someone has said that humility is not mentioned in the Bible as the fruit of the Spirit because it is the root of the Spirit. Pride was the basic sin of the human race, the first cause of stumbling in the Garden. Ever since the fall this human characteristic has blinded the eyes of men and hindered them from enjoying the benefits of God's love. God's blessings are on the lower shelf, but man must get down to partake of them. Man has an exalted sense of his own importance and an inflated concept of his own righteousness.

3. The disciples, thrilled with the tremendous success of their preaching and healing mission, related their experiences to Jesus. Sensing the presence and danger of pride, He warned them, "I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven." God has given His eternal Word that He will never tolerate this evil thing and He will relentlessly suppress those afflicted by it.

4. Christ was humble in His birth. He who might have rightfully claimed earth's grandest palace and greatest throne, was born in a stable and laid in a manger. Although His advent was announced by angels and noted by Oriental sages, the shepherds were directed to the meanest of abodes where they found God's Son and the world's Saviour.

Christ was humble in His death. No more shameful or horrible form of death could have been chosen. "He . . . became obedient unto death, even the death of the Cross." Even eternity will not suffice to tell the full meaning of that one word "even." In Christ's death He endured every man's hell. He was so despised, rejected, and shamed that "we hid as it were our faces from Him." He died as a criminal with criminals for, "He was numbered with the transgressors."—The Bible Expositor.

5. In the command of the parable to go out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in we have our Lord's picture of zealous preaching and soul winning. All our gifts are not the same in this connection, but in whatever line we have the qualification we should fill our place with determination and zeal, whether it be personal evangelism, the ministry of intercession or preaching to the masses. The expression, "Compel them to come in" is not to be taken literally, but it does mean we shall be in harmony with Christ's commission when we press the claims of the gospel and engage in a true, sincere variety of pressure evangelism and soul winning.

6. A Sunday school superintendent felt that he was not getting proper help from the parents, teachers, and officers of the school. He called the entire Sunday school together. He wanted each one to help in the work. He said, "Whose Sunday school is this?" For a moment there was silence. Then a tiny blue mitten was raised. Leaning down to a little girl on the front seat who had raised her little hand, the superintendent said, "All right, Penelope, you tell us!" The child raised her blue eyes, and, in a soft voice said, "It's Jesus' Sunday school!" The child's fine words put new life into the workers in that Sunday school. They gave themselves, as never before, to faithful service for Jesus.

7. Someone has said that every excuse contains some elements of falsehood. Examine the three excuses of this lesson and prove that all were not one hundred percent truthful. If a person has a genuine reason for not doing something, he will not need excuses of any kind.

for the series of study courses, is completing plans for the meetings. Each of the seven participating churches will be the scene of the services for one night, as a system of rotation is to be used.

Mrs. Ballard, vice-president of the North Carolina State Woman's Conference, will teach from the woman's national auxiliary manual and bring inspirational messages throughout the week. The climaxing service will be held Sunday night, January 22, in the Chipley Free Will Baptist Church in Chipley, Florida.

"The Woman's Place in the Free Will Baptist Church" will be the subject for discussion during the series. Special music and devotionals will be led by local women.

Mrs. Ballard is the wife of the Reverend Loy Everett Ballard, pastor of White Oak Free Will Baptist Church, Bladenboro, North Carolina, and North Carolina state Sunday school field secretary. In the past, Mrs. Ballard has been an active worker among the youth in state league and Sunday school work. She has majored, however, in woman's auxiliary work.

At present, Mrs. Ballard is serving as vice-president and assistant field worker for the North Carolina state woman's conference and director of the auxiliary conference at Cragmont Assembly, a position which she has held since its origin in 1946.

Mrs. Brown Hostess To Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Free Will Baptist Church of Darlington, South Carolina, held its Christmas meeting December 15, 1955, at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Brown with 23 members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Ruby Kirby, the circle leader, presided over the following program: Scripture, Mrs. Bernice Cook; Annie and Willie's Prayers, Mrs. Betty Lloyd; The Virgin Song, Mrs. Marie Taylor; The Meaning of Christmas, Mrs. Rufus Coffey.

Christmas carols were sung throughout the program. The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Ora Mae Lee, after which a covered dish supper was served buffet style.

Christmas gifts were then exchanged. The meeting was enjoyed by all, and each one received a blessing for having attended.

Life's Most Amazing Fact!

side out, and He still loves me! Don't you agree that this is an important as well as an amazing fact?"

My friend's face suddenly was serious. "I certainly do," he said, "and I wish you'd tell the club exactly what you've just told me."

It was my happy privilege to repeat the story to that group of businessmen, and to see a heart hunger that caused them to invite me back again. For, when all is said and done, nothing in life really matters except that God loved me enough to do something about it, by sending His only Son to die on the Cross that I—and you—might have everlasting life, simply by trusting in Him by accepting Him into our hearts and lives. Then it becomes our privilege to live for Him and witness to His saving grace and keeping power.

"If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus (Jesus as Lord), and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."

Won't you take advantage of life's most amazing fact by recognizing and believing that God knows all about you, and He loves you just the same!—American Tract Society.

The Pastor's Message

Anyone who has ever had the task of enlisting individuals in any department of the church's work will know how large a number try to excuse themselves from active duty. The excuses vary widely and most of them have no validity. We have often heard leaders in church organizations plead with certain individuals to assume specific responsibilities. We ourselves have on occasions begged and coaxed persons to take over some part in the program of

THE MAIL BOX

Change of Address

"Will you put my address in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST. I will appreciate it very much. It is Charles B. Craddock, 511 Madison Avenue, Dothan, Alabama."—Charles B. Craddock

Card of Thanks

"I take the pleasure in thanking the auxiliaries and all the people who have helped me since I have been on the retired list of ministers. I am still not able to work and I surely do appreciate all that you are doing for me and have done in the past. The pension which I receive is also very much appreciated."—Malley Rice, Route 3, Marshall, N. C.

Pews for Sale

"We, the members of Everette's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, Clayton, North Carolina, have for sale thirty-two good used church pews, priced very reasonable. If interested, please contact C. R. Boling or R. H. Joyner in Clayton, North Carolina."—Buck Smith, Clerk.

Note of Appreciation

"Will you please grant me space in your good paper, THE FREE WILL BAPTIST, to thank the kind ladies of several auxiliaries for the nice cards and gifts I received on my seventy-fifth birthday and also on Christmas. "May God bless such Christian spirit among His children is my prayer."—Mrs. E. T. Phillips, Tarboro, N. C.

the Lord's work. This I am persuaded is a very unwise thing to do unless the excuses grow out of a sense of modesty, a feeling of unworthiness or some such spiritually acceptable attitude. Usually the person who has to be wheedled and coaxed into accepting a part in the Lord's work is not worth his salt even though he may be skilled in the work which he is to do. His attitude will be so bad, if he is serving against his will, as to counteract effectively the good which he is doing. The more experience we gather in the work of our Lord, the more convinced we are that God can get along very well without the grudging services of individuals who feel that they are doing their Lord and Saviour a great favor by taking a hand in the building of His Kingdom.

What is more, persons who must be coaxed usually are very sensitive and expect constant recognition of such contributions as they may make. Life is too short and the work of the Lord too glorious to spend too much on people who must be coaxed.—Rocky Mount, North Carolina, Church Bulletin.

Friendship Church Progresses in Building Program

The Friendship Free Will Baptist Church of Flint, Michigan, is progressing rapidly under the leadership of its pastor, Rev. Harold Lucas.

Rev. Lucas gives the following account:

"The Lord is blessing our church in a great way. Friendship is only two years old and at the present time holds its meeting in the basement which was completed at the cost of $10,000 and dedicated October 30, 1955, with Rev. Charles Thigpen, of Highland Park Church, as the speaker. When completed, the auditorium will cost approximately $25,000."

He also states, "Another successful event held at our church during the month of October was our revival with Rev. G. E. Huffman, of Baltimore, Maryland, as the evangelist.

"Our church," Rev. Lucas concludes, "is anticipating a fruitful new year as the Lord continues to bless us in His many ways."

EDITORIAL

RELIGION IN NATIONAL ECONOMY

In a recent editorial on Popular Religion we made the assertion that religion was becoming extremely popular in America at the present time. We stated that much of this display was not faith in the Lord Jesus, but that some of it was genuine. We suggested, further, that this renewed interest placed a heavy responsibility upon the Church of interpreting Christ properly to those who are turning to religion. It seems that this interest in religion and practical ethics is penetrating the economy of our nation, according to reports coming to our desk. This is a healthy sign and can be a great boon to our people if the principles of Christ are permitted to influence for good the daily business transactions in our country.

The results of a recent survey by the National Council of Churches among the top business, labor and farm leaders are so refreshing that we should like to pass on some of the comments to our readers.

The poll, marking Church and Economic Life Week throughout the nation, reveals in summary that many United States economic policy and opinion makers will go along with Cola G. Parker, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, in his belief that "our country is turning to God in increasing numbers in search for guidance and courage to meet the problems of economic life which come to all of us."

While some progress was noted in the past year, United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther and others agreed that the United States still has a long way to go. "Too many well-meaning people in high places still pay lip service to lofty moral and religious ideals but fail to apply them in day-to-day activities," Reuther said.

Among other leaders who commented on the year's ethical possibilities were Ezra Taft Benson, Henry J. Kaiser, Marshall Field Jr., Charles E. Wilson, George Meany and Darryl Zanuck.

Varying recommendations as to the right path economic leaders can take in 1956 are offered in the National Council's survey. Marshall Field Jr., publisher of the Chicago Sun-Times, urges a constant striving to put the golden rule into economic practice. Twentieth Century-Fox movie maker Darryl Zanuck thinks leaders "ought to set an example of tolerance in human relations" for their respective industries.

Charles E. Wilson, chairman of the board, W. R. Grace and Company, asserts that businessmen will get nowhere in their search for ethics unless they first recognize that "the blessings we Americans enjoy are unquestionably God-given. Universal dependence on the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man will reduce the selfishness which minimizes . . . the potential progress of our blessed American system."

Organized labor is devoted to improving the conditions of the nation's workers "in accordance with basic religious and ethical principles," says George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO. He cites specific tenets in his organization's constitution which attack race and creed discrimination, corruption in unions and "the undermining efforts of communist agencies," and encourage the drive for needed social legislation.

"The age of the atom and its threat of total annihilation of man makes it mandatory that we find solutions to our problems," adds Reuther. "Fortunately, we already have the know-how to make this a better world. All we need now is to know-why."

R. W. McDowell, president of D-X Sunray Oil Company in Tulsa, Oklahoma, offers a four-point program for industrial leaders: (1) conduct business on a high ethical plane, (2) recognize the employee's individual importance, (3) contribute to worthwhile campaigns which bolster religious activities, and (4) consider use of industrial chaplains.

"Farm people cherish the ideals of the Christian faith and respond readily to appeals based on justice, mutual aid, stewardship and sharing of the abundant life," says James C. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union. "Church and Economic Life Week provides an excellent opportunity for all of us—farmers or not—to submit our short-run goals to annual review in the light of long-term Christian values."

Another farm leader, Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Grange, thinks leaders in the nation's economic life "by virtue of their frequent opportunity of expressing their views publicly have a continuing responsibility to help the fellow citizens identify present-day ethical issues and to define fine possible and practical standards of ethical conduct."

"Tremendous faith is needed in the kind of world in which we are living," says industrialist Henry J. Kaiser. "Industry can never get enough men of faith. Most leaders are successful to the extent that they surround themselves with men of great faith, for the bond of faith welds men into a team and an organization to accomplish what no man alone could do."

"The problem of business ethics and labor ethics in a farm ethics is crucial to the future of Christianity in our country," declares the Rev. Cameron Hall, executive director of the Department of the Church and Economic Life. "We live in a business society, and if Christianity only operates on the fringes of this society one day a week we might as well stop giving lip service to it."

"If we sincerely want more and bigger and better comforts and gadgets in this country—if we really want the joy and assurance of inner peace, as well as lasting national achievement—we will have to face up to the difficult task of putting Christianity into daily working use."

We cannot afford to overlook this concern for the principles of Christ on the part of these and other leaders in business, industrial and agricultural economics of our nation. We have already shown previously that religion was being given added consideration in government by leaders, ranging from the president to senators and representatives.

What is the significance of this trend? It does not mean that our nation has turned to God, but it does mean that God is being given more consideration than perhaps He has been given heretofore. It is a good sign when the leaders of a nation think in terms of righteousness, "When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice; but when the wicked bear the rule, the people mourn" (Proverbs 29:2).

Let us thank God for men in authority who are not ashamed to confess the need for the power of God in the life of the nation. We cannot blind our eyes to the sin and evil in our midst. However, when business, industry, government and agriculture unite the forces of their leadership with the power of the Christian Church, much real progress may be made. "I exhort therefore, that, first of all prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made, . . . for all that are in authority . . ." (1 Timothy 2:1).

That Something

John W. Beaman
Walstonburg, North Carolina

SOME years ago, when I was a student at King's in Raleigh, Professor Layfield, who at that time was president of the school, came into our classroom one afternoon and told us to put aside the work which we were doing, that he had a story to read to us which he felt would be worth our time to hear. The title of the story was That Something. It was built about the life of a man who, when he came to middle age, was a failure, and who, because of his environment and other unfavorable conditions, seemed doomed to end his life that way. But he had profited from the experiences through which he had come and he had a great desire within himself to overcome the handicaps which weighed him down, and to make of his life something profitable to himself and others. In this he succeeded.

In developing the plot of his story, the author tried to put his finger upon that quality in the life of his hero which was responsible for his success, and to make it stand out so that each of us could grasp it and use it in our own lives.

We can read in the Bible the life story of many such people. It is our privilege to study the characters of the men and women in its pages, and to learn through their mistakes and blunders how to steer clear of the pitfalls that beset their way. Through close and prayerful study of the lives of these persons we shall find one thing that they possessed in common. The key to their success was their ability to judge between the important and the unimportant things of life; they had a supreme and discerning sense of values. Each of them had, to a superlative degree, the power to look deep into any situation of life, and to choose from among the others, that one thing that counted most in the sight of God, and to seek after it with their whole soul and mind and power.

The writer of the Proverbs puts it this way, "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life" (Proverbs 4:23).

King Saul, the first king of Israel, was a classic example of a man who liked That Something. When he came face to face with the need to make the vital decision, he chose the wrong course. When his mistake was pointed out to him, he was too stubborn and set in his way to turn back, even though the choice he had made committed him to his own destruction.

King David, on the other hand, though to our way of thinking he had committed a far more heinous wrong than Saul, had that power of discernment. It led him to repentance and a change of course. He tells us in Psalm 51:17, "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise." God was able to use the remorse and grief of David, because of his sin, to teach those who came after him to stand upon their guard. Through his dealing with David he has shown us that he is a loving and merciful Father to such as seek his face with sincerely repentant hearts.

Jacob had That Something to an outstanding degree. It was this trait of character, stamped indelibly upon his personality, that Paul had in mind in Romans 9:13 when he quoted, "... Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated." Esau could see no farther than the present. The satisfying of the desires of the body was to him the all important thing in life. That birthright, which carried with it the privilege and the responsibility of delivering God's message to the human race, was to him a light thing. Gratification of the lusts of the body meant more to him than the satisfying of the aspirations of the soul.

In early life Saul of Tarsus steered his course by earthly things; but when the scales had fallen from his eyes, That Something, which lay dormant within him, sprang to life. He did not hesitate to reverse his way and, in after years, he said of himself that he labored more abundantly than any of the other apostles, though once he had been a persecutor of the Church of Christ.

Christ was pointing to that quality when he spoke of A Pearl of Great Price, that when a man had found, he sold all that he had and bought it (Matthew 13:46).

In the time of his temptation, Christ pointed out to Satan, "... Man shall not live by bread alone, ..." (Matthew 4:4).

Peter had That Something on the day when the multitude turned away and forsook Christ, and Christ asked him if he, too, would go away. Peter's answer was, "... to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal Life" (John 6:68).

"... whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock" (Matthew 7:24).

In the years since Christ was here upon earth many a one has chosen that site to build upon, and there is no record that even one, coming to the end of the way, looked back upon that choice with regret.

Reader, let us ask ourselves the question, "Where am I building?" Do we have That Something? If we do not, let us go quickly to Him, that hath the words of eternal Life.

If I Had Known

Elder A. L. Sellers,
Quitman, Georgia

THIS is an expression which we often hear from people after they have seen a serious mistake which they have made—it is too late then; there is nothing they can do but suffer the penalty. As Pilate said, “. . . What I have written I have written” (John 19:22), the thing is done and there is no undoing it. It may be torn up but it will never be as though it had never been done. The sad part is that so many destructive things happen in this way; all we can do about them is to put up with the results, regardless of the conditions. Because of this, should we not consider well before acting? Often, if we had thought, we could have avoided a great disappointment, but we did not consider.

There are some occasions in our lives on which we have to try a problem before we can know the cost, but the most important things in life about which people are getting disappointed are things that have been tried and proven unwise. If these things had been considered, many heartbreaking disappointments would have been avoided. Failure to consider the cost causes many tear shedding bills to have to be paid with the expression, “If I had known.”

Dear reader, notice carefully the condition of the rich man about whom Christ tells us in Luke 16:19-31. He died and was buried, but in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torment. He wanted relief but could not get it. He remembered his five brothers in his father's house and wanted a message sent to warn them not to come to that place. He was reminded that they had Moses and the prophets to warn them; however, he said, “. . . Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent” (Vs. 29). Abraham's answer was, “. . . If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead” (Vs. 31). The rich man had heard but did not believe; because he did not believe he did not know; because he did not know he had to endure with the only consolation, “If I had known.” This gave him no relief whatever.

We can see the truth of Abraham's statement being manifested almost daily as we travel life's journey. We have the message of the risen Saviour, telling us of so many who did not believe and who missed the blessings of a loving Father and Saviour, both here and hereafter—they received the destruction of the unbelieving. He gives it to us in these words: “For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, And knew not until the flood came, and took all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be” (Matthew 24:38-39).

Christ is telling us in this passage that, despite all the evidence given him, man is going away to destruction not knowing until it is too late. This will happen, not because man was not warned, but because he would not believe until it was too late. His only recourse, when this happens, will be, “If I had known.” The tragedy of knowing too late is sad beyond comprehension.

The Builder

“. . . whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, . . .” (Matthew 7:24).

I built my house upon the sand:
The storm wind blew, it did not stand,
But fell before the tempest's shock:
It was not founded on The Rock.

I sought for a foundation sure:
For something strong, that would endure:

I found at last that which sufficed:
I'm building now on Jesus' Christ.

I'm building, yea, I'm digging deep:
I tarry not to rest or sleep,
And as I watch my structure rise,
Its spires point upward to the skies.

The storm may rage with sullen roar,
And beat in anger on my door,
But peace is mine, I do not fear;
The One in whom I trust is near.

—John W. Beaman.

I knew a Free Will Baptist preacher, some years ago, who lost his home by fire. During the excitement he carried out the bed on which his baby had been lying and left the baby. When he learned what he had done, the fire was so hot that he could not get the baby. What he would have given if he had known, before it was too late to save his baby, that he had left it inside, tongue cannot tell!

That was awful to have to witness as a father. But listen, dear readers and parents, that is nothing to compare with what is coming someday. The Word says, “But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness. Looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?” (2 Peter 3:10-12). The twelfth verse is just a part of the question that Peter asked concerning these things which are given us that we might know before it is too late.

This short sentence with only four short words, If I Had Known, expresses the sad experiences of multitudes of people. The time is coming when they will know, too late, that there is a heaven. Like the rich man, they will know too late to get in, and what would they give if they had known? I pray the Father that each one who reads this article will be given a greater vision of the need for their being more surrendered to the Father that He may use them in a greater way as instruments through which He may manifest Himself to those that don't know. May they come to know before it is too late, for “. . . what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?” (Matthew 16:26).

“. . . the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me” (Galatians 2:20).

“We are stewards of all that God has given us, not owners.”—Selected.

“My meditation of him shall be sweet: I will be glad in the LORD” (Psalm 104:34).

Excerpts From

"The Riddle of the Changed Calendar"

By W. H. Fitchett, B. A., LL. D.

"Christ . . . who being the holiest among the mighty, the mightiest among the holy, has lifted with His pierced hands empires off their hinges, turned the stream of centuries out of its channels, and still governs the ages."—Jean Paul Richter.

THIS is the twentieth century, and from what event are those twenty centuries counted? From the birth of a Jew who, on the skeptical theory, if He every existed, was a peasant in an obscure province in a faroff age; who wrote no book, made no discovery, invented no philosophy, built no temple; a peasant who died when, as men count years, He had scarcely reached His prime, and died the death of a criminal. And even before His death the little band of disciples He had succeeded in gathering all forsook Him and fled. This is a story written in all the characters of defeat. Yet civilized time is dated from the birth of this Jew! The centuries carry His signature, and the years of the modern world are labelled by universal consent "the years of our Lord."

To write a human signature on time itself, to put a human name on the brow of the hurrying centuries—this is a marvellous achievement! Caesar has not done it, nor Shakespeare, nor Newton. Genius is vain to accomplish such a task, the sword is vain, wealth is vain. But this Jew has done it! Plato was a teacher, and Socrates was a martyr, with elements of artistic interest and of human power which might be thought to surpass anything associated with Jesus Christ. Plato taught on a larger stage, belonged to a more imperial race, and spoke a richer language than the Carpenter of Nazareth. Socrates drank the cup of hemlock to an accompaniment of philosophic discourse such as was never heard in Galilean villages. He talked the language of Homer and Aeschylus, not the rude Aramaic of Jewish peasants. The philosophy of Plato, the dialogues of Socrates, are studied yet in all the universities of the world. But the world does not reckon its time from Plato or Socrates; from Alexander, Caesar or Marcus Aurelius; from Greek Olympiads or Roman Consulates. It dates its time from One who, as unbelief explains Him, was merely a Jewish peasant, and who died the death of a criminal.

History is strewn thick with these forgotten waymarks of time—Greek Olympiads, Roman Consulates, Babylonian Eponyms. For centuries the mystic letters "A. U. C." were a witness that the world's time was dated from the foundation of the great city on the Tiber. One calendar dates from Alexander the Great, another from Julius Caesar. Pharsalia and Actium were battles that changed the course of history, and each in its turn was taken as a starting-point for the world's almanac.

But no conqueror's sword has ever cut deeply enough on time to leave an enduring mark. The Julian era, the Alexandrian era, the era of the Seleucidae—all have had their little day and vanished. The martyrdoms of Diocletian could not burn deeply enough into the calendar to leave a lasting mark there. The Aera Martyrum is forgotten. The Indictions of all names—imperial and pontifical—have fled like shadows. There is for civilized man but one enduring, universally-recognized starting-point of civilized time. It is that which dates from the cradle of Bethlehem!

Faith, of course, sees in that deep mark on the human almanac a mysterious and, as far as human purposes are concerned, an undesigned, but all-significant, token of ownership. It corresponds to the stamp on the coin. It answers the challenge, "Whose image and superscription is this?" It is both a sign and a prophecy; a sign that the centuries belong to Christ, a prophecy of the fastcoming hour when all that time includes and represents shall bear His signature.

On the theory that Christ never lived, or that he was an impostor, in regard to whom only the visible human elements have to be computed, the change in the nomenclature of time is the very paradox of history. Here is a peasant in the darkest age of the world; He lived in a subject province; He never wrote a sentence which has been preserved; He died when He had scarcely reached manhood, and He died cast out by His own race, and abandoned by His scanty handful of followers. And yet twenty centuries after He hung on the cross His birth is accepted, by believers and unbelievers alike, at the point whence all the centuries must be counted. In Jean Paul Richter's magnificent sentences, "the crucified Jew, being the holiest among the mighty, the mightiest among the holy, has lifted with His pierced hands empires off their hinges, turned the stream of centuries out of its channel, and still governs the ages." And all our almanacs repeat in unconscious prose, and in unrhythmical numerals, that flight of stately rhetoric.

As faith with adoring eyes looks on Jesus Christ, the cause is scientifically adequate to the effect. It is fitting that He who came to transfigure human history should put the transforming touch of His hand on the very records of time. The Christian centuries ought to carry the signature of Christ's name. . . .

The incarnate Son of God, the Word made flesh, who has come into the world's history to shape it to a new pattern—it is fitting that to Him all the years should pay the unconscious homage of bearing His name. The Christianized calendar represents the seal of Christ's kingship on time itself. But to believe that a remote impostor, in a forgotten province of a perished empire, stamped himself so deeply on time as to compel all the centuries to bear his name, is to believe that a child, with its box of colors, could change the tint of all the oceans!—The Free Methodist.

Sinners, Won't You Heed?

Mary Clanton

While living in this sinful age
We cannot understand
The many things which God has wrought
With His almighty hand.

You know He sent His son to earth
To set the captives free;
To walk on earth, love's story tell
And die on Calvary.

The world is so ungodly now,
This place the saints have trod;
But Christ hath said that men would heed
Their lusts instead of God.

Oh sinner, won't you heed the call
Our Saviour bids you do?
And if you will, you'll be amazed
What God can do for you.

The sun will shine within your heart;
There's such a restful peace!
Your Saviour dear, right from the start,
Will make your life complete.

If you will do your Master's will Great joy He will bestow;
And you will never have to fear
That burning hell below.

Your friends may turn against you here
And loved ones be so cold,
But when you enter heaven's gate
You'll say, " 'Twas worth it all."

Since troubles now seem everywhere
And wars on every hand,
Anchor your faith in Jesus Christ;
He'll save you in the end.

I mean to walk the streets of gold
And see my Saviour's face;
I'll reign with Him forevermore
And sing, "Amazing Grace."

POWER

I WONDER just what thoughts go through your mind when I mention the word, power? Every person has some concept of power. To some it means the tyrannical power of a dictator. To the military man it means man power or the power. To the manufacturer it means horsepower. And now the world has become aware of even a greater power than heretofore dreamed of—atomic power. There are many other phases of power we could think of, but let's think of the greatest power in all the world: the power of God.

While it is one of the most potent powers, sad to say it is one of the most abused powers. In fact, it is to many an unknown factor. In the Bible we find many accounts that reveal the power of God. The greatest revelation was in the gift of His only Son to be the Saviour of mankind. His power was seen as Christ opened deaf ears and made blind eyes to see. His power to raise the dead was only to show His great victory when He Himself would break the bands of death that early Easter morning. It takes great machines and a staff of skilled men and women to produce atomic power, yet the power of God can be released by the prayer of even a child who in faith will call upon Him.

To know God is to come in contact personally with the greatest power this world will ever know. There are many who say they don't believe in God because they can't understand all the facts. Yet these same people will not deny the fact of the atomic bomb, even though they don't completely understand all the facts of nuclear research. Just recently the great new atomic powered submarine, "Nautilus" was launched. Amidst the cheers of 14,000 visitors the world was notified that here was a ship that could go around the world fueled with a piece of uranium no larger than a marble. It is beyond the average mind to figure out how so much power can come from such a small source. However, the scientists say it is so, and on their word we accept it. An aerodynamic research engineer told us that a little over 1/10th of an ounce of material completely transformed into energy would produce heat or power equivalent to 10,000 tons of coal—20 million pounds of coal. It's hard to understand, but on the word of an authority we accept it as an undisputed fact. It's also difficult to believe that an atom bomb could bring such great devastation and death, but we believe it because we have seen the proof in pictures and heard reports over radio and television.

Why is it then that so many either completely ignore or reject the Word of God, as we find it recorded in the Bible? Certainly there is proof that the power of God is a transforming power as we see it take a drunk from the gutter, free him from his sin, and transform him into a person with character and a new purpose to live. This power can take a thief, on the loose or in prison, and in a moment make him a new person as he puts his trust in the Son of God. It is the power of God that can take a person whose life is filled with sorrow, unrest and discontentment and instantaneously fill it with peace and satisfaction in Jesus Christ. It is the power that can take the cursing from the lips and put in its place a song which nothing in the world can bring.

The power of God is the only thing in the world that can take away sin and remove its penalty, which is death, and in its place give you freedom from sin and a new life in Christ. This power of God is revealed in Jesus Christ, the Son of God. He, Himself, prayed, just before He went to the cross for you and me. "As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to as many as thou hast given him" (John 17:2). He has the power. Whether or not you understand all the details is not the question. Just take personal inventory of yourself right now. Without Christ as your friend and Saviour you have no sure hope of life here or hereafter, but rather yours is death, sin, unrest, no peace, no song. All of this can be changed if you will try the power of God and find to your heart's delight life, peace, satisfaction, and forgiveness of sins. Then the greatest power on earth will be working for and in you. That's the power of God, released by your prayer and belief in Jesus Christ.

—American Tract Society.

There is no man so happy as the Christian. When he looks up to Heaven he thinks: "That is my Home, the God that made it and owns it is my Father." Yea, these things which are the most terrible of all to the wicked are most pleasant to him. When he hears God's thunder above his head he thinks: "That is the voice of my Father." When death comes he esteems it but as the angel sent before Paradise, which admits him to eternal joy. And (which is most of all) nothing in earth or hell can make him miserable. There is nothing in the world worth envying but a Christian.—Bishop Hall.

Just Wondering

Little Ned seemed backward in general mentality and had been doing poor work in school. His worried mother decided to have him examined.

The doctor started his examination by asking a few simple questions:

"How many ears has a dog?"

"Two," replied Ned.

"How many legs has a dog?"

"Four," the boy answered.

"And how many eyes has a dog?" asked the doctor.

"Say Doc," asked the boy, "didn't you ever see a dog?"—Our Young People.

Thankful Hearts

Young people should endeavor to cultivate thankfulness of heart to God. We are liable to take His many blessings as they come and never return the praise due to the Creator for them.

Let us think of the gift of life. We can at once see that we owe much praise to God for this valuable gift. Is it not wonderful to be alive and have a being capable of seeing and understanding many of the wonderful things God has created? How thankful we should be for the privilege of viewing the beautiful sunsets, or the glittering stars that fill the sky at night! When the warm winds blow in the springtime, and the flowers awake from their long winter's sleep, making the fields appear beautiful, our hearts should awake also and send up praise and thankfulness of God.

When the songbird which has been long silent, begins again to pour forth his tuneful melody, we should also sing in our hearts to our God, who forgets not the least of His creatures.

When we look at our pleasant home, and consider how many comforts we have to enjoy, we should remember to praise God for them. When we think of Father and Mother, brothers and sisters, friends and neighbors, we should ever remember that these come from God, "who gives us richly all things to enjoy."

But, above all, let us be thankful for the precious gift of His Son. How far we would be from God had it not been for Jesus! Without Him we could never be saved or go to Heaven. God gave His only Son to die for us. Let us consider all that Jesus has done, and all that He will yet do for us in this and in the world to come, and it will make us truly thankful.—Shining Light.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: I guess I am a Christian, but I do not seem to have the victory that I know others to have. My wife also seems to lack that satisfaction that some young wives have in the Lord. How may we regain that peace of mind and happiness that we now lack? Will you please point out helpful Scriptures?—J. O. M.

Answer: The first thing for you to do is to make sure that you and your wife have committed yourselves to Jesus for salvation, accepting Him with all He offers to you and all that He requires of you. "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation" (Romans 10:9, 10). "He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God" (John 3:18). See John 3:3-5, 36.

Having started right, one must keep right by a continued walk of obedience to God in the light of His word. "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7). "... Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams. For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry. ..." (1 Samuel 15:22, 23). A consecrated Christian life requires that one keep both the commandments of God the Father and those which Christ gave. Jesus said: "If ye love me, keep my commandments. ... He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him" (John 14:15, 21). "I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine" (John 10:14). "He that keepeth the commandment keepeth his own soul; but he that despiseth his ways shall die" (Proverbs 19:16). And again Jesus said, "... If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me" (Luke 9:23). "Who-soever therefore shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation; of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels" (Mark 8:38).

There is great joy, as well as abiding peace and continuous satisfaction, for the saint of God who dares lay his all on the altar. Paul says, "... I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation" (2 Corinthians 7:4); and James says, "My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience" (James 1:2, 3).

Many Christians of today seem to want the security with other benefits that living a Christian life affords without cutting loose from this world and sacrificing themselves unto the joyous life of love, obedience and satisfaction which the Bible lighted way offers. It is just as easy for a camel to go through the eye of a sewing needle, or a better illustration, for one to extinguish fire by pouring gasoline on it. For living an ordinary respectable worldly life is the very best way for one to stimulate the ego of the flesh, gain standing in the world, and encourage Satan in his age-long fight against a born again, holy, separated life unto God. There must be the act of crucifixion and the state of death for the old man to enter into, and the pains of death are always more terrifying and excruciating than either the pains of birth or the pains of growth, even though all of these accompany the new birth and the advancement of a Christian in a right relation to God and are all unpleasant; yet death is the most dreaded.

There are probably many reasons why you and your wife find yourselves in such a dilemma. If you were a Christian when you were married, did you marry a Christian girl? Did you date girls who were not Christians? "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?" (2 Corinthians 6:14-15). Do you or your wife, either, have fellowship in a social way with worldly people; are you doing business with worldly friends according to worldly business ethics? If you have been doing any of these you must confess, forsake, and, as nearly as possible, forget such association and such associates. "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy" (Proverbs 28:13). "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 3:13, 14).

As a husband, you must fulfill your duty. It is your responsibility to see that your wife be a helpmeet and not a dictator. She must not even be one of those cunning, subtle, nice, deari dictators that makes a man think he is acting on his own volition when actually he's working only to please her. She must obey her husband if she follow Christ. "Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord. For the husband is the head of the wife even as Christ is the head of the church, and he is the saviour of the body. Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing" (Ephesians 5:22-24). "To be discreet, chaste, keeper at home, good, obedient to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed" (Titus 2:5).

If you have children you and your wife are to act jointly in the way the Lord leads you through the Bible in teaching, correcting and training them. The Bible says, "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Proverbs 22:6). "Withhold not correction from the child: for if thou beatest him with the rod, he shall not die. Thou shalt beat him with the rod, and shalt deliver his soul from hell" (Proverbs 23:13, 14). Your children should be brought up, not necessarily in the way your wife's parents trained her, but as God directs you through His word. This requires that you obey 2 Timothy 2:15, as well as 2 Timothy 2:2.

You are the one whose duty it is to establish a family altar and to teach both the wife and your children, and to see

The Lighted Pathway

*Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).*

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"If ye love me, keep my commandments" (John 14:15).

Last week we were thinking of the words of Jesus spoken to the unbelieving Jews in which He said, "But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you" (John 5:42). In the present message I shall strive to lead to a deeper realization of the real possession of God's love. There are a number of passages of Scripture that are enlightening and encouraging on the subject. A careful study of these will strengthen and deepen love in the heart of a child of God. And no one can have the love of God in himself without obedience to God.

Of primary importance to all is the commandment to repent of sin and accept Christ as Saviour and Lord. In Acts 17:30 we are told, "And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent." Christ, in the Text, was speaking to those who had obeyed the command to repent, because no one can have the love of God in himself until he has taken Christ into his heart and life.

But the continuance of our relationship regarding the abiding presence of Christ is the keeping of the things taught in His Word. In John 15:10 Christ said to His followers, "If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love."

Another important thing we want to always keep in mind is found in John 15:14, "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." Ye are my friends, said Christ, only if, when or as long as ye do whatsoever I command you. There can be no question in the mind of anyone but that Abraham was an obedient servant of God. His faith in God compelled him to obey Him. When God commanded him to go into a strange land, he went believing. When God commanded him to offer his son, Isaac, he made every preparation to make the sacrifice. It is said of him centuries later, "Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect? And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God" (James 2:22, 23). And in the very next verse (James 2:24) he continues, "Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only." Faith must come first, but faith commands obedience to the Word and Will of God.

There are few subjects in the Bible that are discussed in more detail than that of the love of God. The Bible is crystal clear as to what the love of God is. In 1 John 5:3 is found that definition unmistakably stated, "For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous." Paul, writing to the Thessalonian Church, assures those who are submissive to the will of God that that love will continue and grow. He says, "And we have confidence in the Lord touching you, that ye both do and will do the things which we command you. And the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God, and into the patient waiting for Christ" (2 Thessalonians 3:4, 5). But we are not to understand that God forces His love upon us or forces us to continue in that love. Consider carefully, and take heed to, the admonition found in Jude 21, "Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life."

"If ye love me, keep my commandments."

ARE YOU FIT TO BE TIED?

Matthew 19:3-9

This sermon was preached at the Rose Hill Church, Pitt County, North Carolina, Sunday morning, January 8. It was the first in a series of sermons on marriage and the family.

Flossie was six years old. "Mama," she said, "if I get married will I have to have a husband like Daddy?"

"Yes," replied the mother with a smile.

"And if I don't get married will I have to be an old maid like Aunt Kate?"

"Yes."

"Mama," after a long pause, "it's a tough world for us women any way you take it, isn't it?"

This is only one view of marriage. None of us here have that view. But we do know from statistics that many marriages do not last. We believe that one reason for this is a lack of fitness on the part of those who enter into the marriage covenant. We would like to discuss four areas of fitness for marriage.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

He was a faithful member of Warden's Grove Free Will Baptist Church for twenty-four years and served as clerk and Sunday school superintendant many years. His place in the choir is still vacant.

He left to mourn their loss, four daughters, Mrs. Nelia Watson, Mrs. Iva Carawan, Mrs. Retha Sadler, and Mrs. Elva Smith, two sons Albert and Sherrill.

His funeral was preached at the church by his pastor, the Rev. Robert Edwards, assisted by Rev. A. C. Austin, with burial in the family lot near the church under a beautiful mound of flowers.

I. PHYSICAL FITNESS

- A. The basis for all marriage is physical.
  1. There are no marriages between individuals of the same sex.
  2. There are no marriages in heaven.
  3. The state recognizes this by requiring a blood test for those about to be married.
- B. The physical is not everything. There is something about a good marriage that transcends the physical.
  1. Invalids sometime have a successful marriage.
  2. Old people love each other better after the bloom of youth has faded.

II. MORAL FITNESS

- A. There is no double standard. Men have the same standard as women.
- B. Premarital immorality makes:
  1. Broken physical health
  2. Bitter memories
  3. Frustrated emotions

III. MENTAL FITNESS

Before one comes to the marriage altar, he or she should be ready to answer the following questions in the affirmative.

- A. Are you ready to settle down?
- B. Are you ready to leave your mother and father?
- C. Are you willing to share everything that you have with your mate?

IV. SPIRITUAL FITNESS

The only way to be properly prepared spiritually for marriage is to trust the Lord Jesus Christ as your Saviour and let Him be the head of the home.

"I don't see why more people don't subscribe to 'The Free Will Baptist,' as there are so many good things in the paper. There are some very good feature articles written by both men and women which are very inspiring.

A Chinaman and His God

A Chinaman believes that he can cheat his god. Usually his gods are made of wood, or stone, or even butter. And one way he cheats the god is to put a long shirt on his child. Then he prints in large letters on the back of the shirt that the child has already had the cholera. The Chinaman thinks that when the god sees the letters on the back he will conclude the child has already had the cholera and will not send the disease again.

But a Chinaman's gods aren't gods—they are only stone, wood, or some other material. The real God, the One we Christians worship, can't be fooled or cheated. You can't tell God you have done a thing when you didn't, for He will know.—Selected.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

SANCTIFICATION

"Sanctification is the continuance of God's grace by which the Christian constantly grows in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ."—Treatise.

Paul in writing to the church at Thessalonica says, "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Thessalonians 5:23). "Having therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from our filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God" (2 Corinthians 7:1). "But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. . . ." (2 Peter 3:18). "Therefore leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God" (Hebrews 6:1). "For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world; and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith" (1 John 5:4). "But the path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day" (Proverbs 4:18). "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7). "But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; Because it is written, Be ye holy; for I am holy" (1 Peter 1:15, 16). "I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me" (Galatians 2:20).

All these Scriptures teach that the child of God is to grow in grace by setting his or her life apart wholly to the service of God, so that God can perfect sanctification daily, and that the child of God may have fellowship with the Father continually.

Now we may understand what the Lord Jesus meant in speaking about His disciples when He said, "They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world. Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth. As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world. And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be sanctified through the truth. Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world believe that thou hast sent me. And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; that they may be one, even as we are one" (John 17:16-22).

Yes, Free Will Baptists believe in true holiness. We believe in sanctification, a sanctification that begins with the new birth and which is to continue until the end of this life, Christ and the Father God living in the believer.

Since God does not abide in an unholy life, and our bodies are the temple of God, we must let God keep us clean; as He will not abide in an unclean temple. "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7).

When I asked her what was sanctification, one lady said to me, "Sanctification is getting rid of all sin." Then I asked, "Sister, was Jesus a sinner?" She answered, "No." Upon hearing this emphatic no I quoted the words of Jesus as recorded in John 17:19, ". . . I sanctify myself, . . ." Sanctification means setting apart. Jesus Christ set His life apart for the salvation of lost humanity. He gave Himself, His life, without reservations. His all was laid on the altar of sacrifice. Since He gave His all for us, we must give our all to Him. We cannot withhold anything. All of it must be surrendered unto Him. He must be pre-eminent in all things. A perfectly yielded life produces perfect sanctification, and rushes in a perfect blessing.

May we notice that things other than people are sanctified:

"Sanctify ye a fast, call a solemn assembly, gather the elders and all the inhabitants of the land into the house of the LORD your God, and cry unto the LORD" (Joel 1:14). Thus a fast was sanctified—set apart.

"For every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving: For it is sanctified by the word of God and prayer" (1 Timothy 4:4, 5). Here Paul is talking about abstaining from meats. He tells us that in these days in which we live some people's religion will prevent them from eating meats. We have lived to see that day. Food is set apart to be used for the strength of the body, but it is to be sanctified by the Word of God and prayer.

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God" (Matthew 5:8). The pure heart is the heart that is cleansed from all sin and made a dwelling place for God the Father and His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. As said before, God does not dwell in unclean buildings. The building must be sanctified, set apart for the special use of the Lord. "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord" (Hebrews 12:14). So holiness gives us assurance of seeing the Lord. Also the pure heart assures us of seeing the Lord. So the pure heart is the holy heart; the holy heart is the pure heart. Both assure us of seeing the Lord in peace. The pure heart is the sanctified heart.

Free Will Baptists have always believed in sanctification. We have always taught it.

Honesty in Small Things

When Grover Cleveland was a boy, he insisted upon returning the egg that a neighbor's hen daily laid on the Cleveland side of the fence. Thus he began to give proof of the honesty that marked him as a man and as president of the United States.

Honesty in little things leads to honesty in matters of great importance. There are times when a fellow feels that it will do no harm to cheat a little. "No one will notice," he thinks. But even if no one else notices, the boy himself knows, and that compromise with dishonesty paves the way for still more crooked dealings.

The boy who has the ambition to win true success will be honest in every detail. He cannot afford to make any exception.—Pioneer.

BORED BESSIE - -

Mont Hurst

BESSIE BROWN had just about everything her heart could wish for. Her father and mother were real Christians and so was Bessie. She loved the church and its people. She lived in a beautiful home, had a cat, dog, rabbits, canary bird and any pet she wanted. She had all kinds and sizes of dolls, clothes for them, and a cute playhouse with real furniture and stove in it. She had lots of pretty dresses, shoes and hats. But she became tired of her things. She was bored. And on this cloudy day she just sat by the window in the parlor and looked out.

"What's the matter, Bessie? Are you feeling well?" her mother asked when she came into the room.

"Oh, no, Mother," replied Bessie. "I'm just tired of playing with my things. I guess I'm bored. I can't think of anything I want to do. I'm tired of playing in my house with my dolls. And I just don't want to play with my pets."

"You're not unhappy, are you?" asked her mother.

"Oh, I don't know. I suppose I am not. But, I am just tired of my things and wish there was something new I could do," Bessie replied.

"Well, I think I know of something you can do that will be new to you. I'm sorry you are so tired of your things. But, I believe you can take a little trip and see something that will make you happy and appreciate your many things a lot more," said her mother.

"Oh, what is it? I'd surely like to do something different," Bessie replied.

"Just put on your hat and coat. Then keep walking down the street until you come to the creek. Then cross the bridge and walk on down the lane until you come to a small shack painted green. It's right under a tall oak tree. You can't miss it because it's the only big tree around there," said her mother.

"Oh! I'll do it! I wonder what I'll see!" exclaimed Bessie. She got her hat and coat. Her mother just sat down and smiled as she saw Bessie leave.

Bessie walked for eight blocks until she came to the bridge. Then she walked across it and in a few minutes she saw the little shack. She looked at it awhile, wondering what she would see. She was all excited. Then she knocked on the door.

"What is it?" asked a girl her age as she opened the door. Bessie saw that the girl was dressed in dirty, ragged clothes.

"Why, I just came here to see something. What have you got inside?" asked Bessie.

"Why, I've got little twin brothers and they're sick in bed. And my mother is sick in bed, too. You want to see them?" the girl replied.

"Why, yes," replied Bessie. She was surprised and wondered why her mother had told her to come to this awful old place.

She went in. The place had only one room. There was no paper on the wall. The floor was bare. She saw two little boys on a cot. And she saw the girl's mother on an old bed. The poor woman smiled at Bessie. The boys were crying.

"Oh! I'm so sorry you are sick!" said Bessie.

"Who are you, little girl?" the woman asked.

"Why, I'm Bessie Brown. Oh—you must have someone to help you!" said Bessie. Tears were coming into her eyes.

"There is no one to help. My husband is dead, I can't work now and we have nothing. I don't know what's to become of us," the poor woman moaned.

Bessie started crying. She just couldn't help it. She thought of all of the nice things she had, of her beautiful home and her comfort. But here were these poor people. There was nothing in the room but the cot, bed, a couple of old broken chairs, a trunk and the stove. There were no playthings, no dolls, no food, no comfort.

"What is your name?" Bessie asked the girl as she cried.

"My name is Wanda Moore," the girl replied.

"Oh, Wanda!" cried Bessie. "You must have help! I'll go back and tell my mother and she will get her friend at the church to do something. We will bring you some of our food. I'll bring you some of my clothes. Oh, this is awful! I have so much and you have nothing!"

"We've still got Jesus and He will help us," replied Wanda.

Bessie turned to go. Wanda went to the door with her. Bessie put her arm around poor little Wanda and hugged her.

"Don't worry, Wanda!" said Bessie. "I'll see that you are helped!"

When Bessie got home she quickly told her mother what she had seen. And she asked her mother why she had sent her down there. Her mother smiled.

"I just wanted you to see how well off you were and how poor some people are. Now, don't worry. I have already made arrangements for help for those people. Tonight your father and I are taking them a lot of goods and clothes. And our church is going to see that they are taken care of. Well, are you still bored?"

"Oh, no!" replied Bessie. "I'm so ashamed of myself! You and daddy have spoiled me. I'm sorry. I'm so thankful for my blessings. And, I'm going to get a lot of my good dresses and give them to Wanda. And I'll take her some of my dolls and things. I can't be satisfied until they are helped. Oh, Mother—Wanda said Jesus would help them!"

"He will—through us!" replied her mother. Bessie never gets bored now.—My Pleasure.

A Prayer for Frisky

Miss Marie Davis

THERE, Frisky, here, Frisky," were the words Clifford yelled as he walked slowly down the dry, dusty path to the old creek. Frisky was a big, brown and white Collie which had been given to Clifford on his eighth birthday.

With his hands in his pockets Clifford walked on slowly, listening carefully to every sound, hoping to hear the whine of a dog. After walking and looking for a couple of hours, Clifford dropped with fatigue on a big round log. As he sat thinking, hot tears began to flow freely down his cheeks, splattering on the fallen autumn leaves. He rubbed his head and wished that he could think of something. He started to rise; but as he did, he had an idea. His preacher had once said that, if you wanted something bad enough, God would give it to you. He wondered if God would answer a prayer about Frisky. Surely, God knew where Frisky was. Clifford tried his face on his sleeve and dropped down on his knees. Laying his head on the log, he began to pray over and over again, "Dear God, please help me to find Frisky. Please, God, please!" When Clifford finished his prayer, he started to rise. As he did, he heard the soft whine of a dog. Jumping with gladness, Clifford ran to a nearby bush. There he not only discovered Frisky, but two brown and white puppies as well! Hugging the little puppies to him, he started home. This time a big smile covered his dirty, tear-drenched face.

That night as Clifford knelt by his bed to pray, he whispered his thanks to God for helping him find his dog.

the 24th chapter of Matthew. "We Need to Know God's Word for Such a Time as This" was the subject for the monthly meeting, and everyone present received a blessing from this very interesting topic. Following the program the meeting was adjourned with prayer.

Raised Funds to Help Send Cuban Children to Camp

FROM THE FIELD

Dear Mr. Riggs:

Last summer in an article in "The Free Will Baptist," I read about the children in Cuba going to camp. I took the paper with me to Sunday school, and read the article to my class at Bethlehem Free Will Baptist Church. We wanted to do something to help these children in Cuba to go to church camp next summer, so we decided to sell Christmas cards to raise money to send them. This we did.

I am sending you fifteen dollars ($15.00) we raised in our project. We want you to send this to Cuba to help children go to church camp next summer. We are praying for much good to come from church camps. I am also enclosing a picture of my class. We would like to see it in "The Free Will Baptist."

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Avery Harris

Dear Bro. Riggs:

I did enjoy the special missionary issue of Contact. I have been a subscriber for two years and look forward to it every month. Most of the women of our auxiliary take the Contact. It is my desire to see all of them get it and I know it will be a blessing to them. About two years ago I had handed to me a sticker to place on a jar. (A Penny a Meal), and every month since, I've turned in my pennies to the auxiliary. Could you send me some of those stickers that I might give one to each of our members. We have 30 or more. I believe in that way we could do more for missions. If you have other material you could send me that would help to inspire our people, I would be most grateful. I have a burning heart-felt desire for the mission work. As program-prayer chairman of our auxiliary, I am looking forward to the new year to pray more and work hard for Christ, my Saviour. Pray for us. We are a group of humble women who love the Lord.

Dear Bro. Riggs:

The Lord has laid it on our hearts, the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Free Will Baptist Church, Columbus, Mississippi, to give a per cent of our quarterly collections to foreign missions. Enclosed is a check of $6.42 for the past quarter. We know the Lord will bless this small offering, and we pray that others may be led to give also.

Sincerely,
Hazel Carter

Dear Christian Co-Worker:

The Junior Sunday school class at Bridges Chapel decided to give, instead of gifts to each other, the amount that they would have spent on gifts to some missionary worker. So enclosed please find check for $8.10. We want the Calverys in Japan to have it, along with our prayers.

Mrs. John Pace (S. S. Teacher)

Mars Hill, N. C.

Dear Bro. Riggs:

I hope that I will not take too much of your time with this letter. I received the last news letter from your office, and was glad to get it.

I thought it only fair that I notify you as to the reasons my offering has been slow in the past while. A few months ago I joined a Missionary Baptist Church. I did this because there was no Free Will Baptist Church in our local community; also it is the church where my husband has his membership.

Since we are just working people, we can hardly divide our giving between two churches and be of much use to either. However, as of the present, I have not heard foreign missions mentioned in this church of which I now attend. As I do feel that it is the Lord's will for me to support some missionary program, I'm going to continue to send a contribution to you, although it will be small in amount. I do hope you can use what little I shall be able to give.

May God Bless you,
Mrs. Clyde Wyatt

I am enclosing check for $5.00 for foreign missions from the Free Will Baptist League as a gift to honor our Saviour's Birthday.

Bro. Riggs:

Enclosed you will find check for the little Cronk baby. We want to give him this Christmas present from our G.T.A.'s. Since we didn't know James Randall's address, we are sending it to you and you can give it to his parents. We have named our auxiliary after him. We are proud to be able to give this amount even though it is small.

Yours Truly

Chattahoochee, Fla.

Dear Sir:

We pledged $2.00 per month for the year 1956. Enclosed please find check for that amount. If you would like to give the church credit for the pledges our membership is at the Christian Home Free Will Baptist Church, Blountstown, Florida.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lamb

Florence, S. C.

Dear Brother Riggs:

We asked our Sunday school folk not to exchange gifts this Christmas, but instead give Jesus a gift to be used for foreign missions. (One of our small girls giggled and said, "You can't bring Jesus a baby doll.")

There were no gifts under the tree. We showed the film, "Heathen Rage," on Christmas night. Then we placed a chair under the tree with an offering plate in it. Everyone marched by and presented his gift to Jesus. Our combined gifts amounted to $177.00, for foreign missions. We stood, sang the Doxology and went home having experienced the truth, "it is more blessed to give than to receive." The check will be sent by our treasurer.

Sincerely,
Ronald Creech

God's Concern For Sinners

(Lesson for January 29)

Lesson: Luke 15:1-10.

Golden Text: Luke 19:10.

I. INTRODUCTION

This lesson ties in with that of last Sunday in that it gives another great truth which the Christian must know if he is to serve acceptably in the Kingdom of God. Indeed, the degree of his understanding of God's concern for sinners, which now becomes his concern as a Christian, will be the measure of his zeal in Kingdom activities.

The Christian must see the aim of our Lord for His Kingdom as that of reaching every nation in the whole world and giving the gospel to every human being. God is deeply concerned about the souls of all people, He wants all to be saved. "The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance" (2 Peter 3:9).

Furthermore, the Lord has charged His Church with the responsibility of taking the gospel to all people who are in sin. They will be saved only as we, out of burning hearts, show them that God loves them and wants to save them.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. While some sincerely seek the presence of the Lord, others go along just to criticize (Vv. 1, 2).

2. Some will go the limit to find a lost sheep, but will not turn their hand to save a lost soul (Vv. 3, 4).

3. The greatest joy that some people know is that which comes from material things (Vs. 5).

4. It is only natural for those who are happy to want their friends to rejoice with them (Vs. 6).

5. No joy can compare with that which comes from faith in Christ and forgiveness of sins (Vs. 7).

6. No price is too great to pay for that on which our heart and soul are set (Vs. 8).

7. There comes great joy to the troubled soul when it finds that for which it years and groans (Vs. 9).

8. That heaven is rejoiced when a sinner is saved should cause all sinners to seek the Lord (Vs. 10).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

9. The elder brother in the third parable represents the Pharisees who were outwardly correct but who had hearts of ice.

10. This Sunday would be a good time to sing "The Ninety and Nine." It has a message for all.

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS.

This man receiveth sinners, and eateth with them" (Vs. 2). As Jesus embraced the poor, wandering, lost sinner, for whom no one else cared, the Pharisees and scribes brought the charge that He received and ate with sinners; and to them, because of their ideas of holiness through separation, this was the very lowest depth of nonacceptable conduct and sin. They were indignant, angry, bitter and they looked for every possible chance to catch Jesus where they could destroy Him. To the Jew, a holy man had to avoid sinners, and the holier one became, the more scrupulously would he avoid contact with a sinner; and they believed that the very last thing a good man would do was extend his fellowship with sinners to the point of eating with them. To them, because they were void of any compassion for the lost and because of their distorted ideas of holiness, Jesus was as bad or worse than the publicans and sinners with whom He ate; and there are men in our own day who avoid those for whom Christ died for fear of damage to their self-righteous characters. One whose character is sufficiently established in the grace of God, and who mixes with the outcasts for their own eternal good and God's glory, is doing the supreme act of holiness; for Christ taught us in words and deeds to seek those who are lost. The accusation brought against Christ, that He received sinners was the highest possible compliment that one could pay Him, though the Pharisees and scribes did not intend it as such.—The Advanced Quarterly (F. W. B.).

2. Quite often there is a big difference between holiness people and holy peo- ple. The holiness people of Jesus' day were leaders in the plot to crucify Him.

3. In this parabolic question Jesus likewise administers a sharp rebuke to the Pharisees and scribes for their neglect of the outcasts and sinners. They were false shepherds, feeding themselves and losing the flock (Ezekiel 34:7-10; Zechariah 11:16,17). The outcasts and sinners are represented by the lost sheep, and they belonged to the Jewish people, God's earthly people. The lost sheep, in spite of the fact that it is lost, still belongs to its original owner, but has gone astray.—W. S. Hottel.

4. The woman laid aside the usual duties and pleasures of life to seek her coin. The shepherd left the warmth and comfort and rest which he had well earned to go out into the wilderness for his sheep. The song-writer spoke truly—But none of the ransomed ever knew

*How deep were the waters crossed;
Nor how dark was the night that the Lord passed through*

Ere He found His sheep that was lost.

Soul winning calls for sacrifice, but if—instead of a self-seeking, comfort loving spirit—the love of Christ is constraining us we will do it gladly.—Moody Monthly.

5. It is written that one of the truly great masterpieces of the artist, Rubens, was discovered in an old shop in London. An expert wandered into the shop, saw what he knew to be the masterpiece, dusty and grimy, amid kinds of rubbish. He calmed his emotions, asked in a quiet tone how much the dealer wanted for that bit of canvas. The dealer said, "You can have it for thirty-five shillings." The money was gladly paid, and the expert took it home, cleaned it up, and that shiny picture today is worth all of two thousand pounds. What joy was his as he cleansed it! What rapture of soul was his as he beheld it cleansed, reflecting the beauties of the master artist! Today it is on display and is a constant reminder of the fact that an expert redeemed it from dust and grime; it had been lost, he found it and with joy he cleansed it. So with the sinner, and who can appraise the joy which is and will be His as the saints of God are gathered home to Himself.—The Bible Illustrator.

to it that she teaches them correctly. It is your duty to see to it that she teaches them to honor you and your relatives as well as her own and to correctly inform them concerning both families and their relation to you and to them. You cannot be an obedient Christian without constantly exhibiting a life of meditation and prayer. (1) You must meditate on God's Word day and night, Psalm 1:2, "But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night." (2) You must pray without ceasing, 1 Thessalonians 5:17, "Pray without ceasing." "... men ought always to pray, and not to faint" (Luke 18:1). (3) There are times when one must pray all night if he is to be like Christ. "... he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God" (Luke 6:12).

Jesus promised everything a person needs to those who maintain a right relation to Him if he only asks for it. "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you" (John 15:7). "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you" (Matthew 7:7).

And finally the Bible says, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee" (Isaiah 26:3), "In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths" (Proverbs 3:6).

Cokesbury Class Maps

MAKE TEACHING MORE EFFECTIVE

Accurate, detailed, colorful, these big, usable maps make Bible lessons easier to teach and understand—showing clearly the location of cities and countries of Bible lands and times.

Each map shows sufficient detail to answer all questions of students; each is of sufficient size and scope to give an adequate concept and understanding of Bible countries as a whole. The complete set covers all Bible lands from early Old Testament days through the Roman Empire period—a worthwhile, lasting investment in better teaching.

THE MAPS

- (1) NEW TESTAMENT PALESTINE
- (2) OLD TESTAMENT PALESTINE—TRIBAL DIVISIONS, CITIES OF REFUGE
- (3) EGYPT TO CANAAN—ROUTE OF THE EXODUS, VIA RED SEA AND WILDERNESS
- (4) ROMAN EMPIRE AND JOURNEYS OF PAUL
- (5) EARLY BIBLE LANDS—SCENE OF EARLY OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY

Printed in five colors on high-quality map paper, constructed to last for years of service. May be purchased singly or in sets. SIZE 22x28 INCHES.

THE IMPROVED COKEBURY CLASS MAPS—SET "B"

The convenient tripod of this redesigned set has an extension rod which can be raised as high as 70 inches from the floor—making the map clearly visible from any place in a crowded classroom. The two-piece metal bar across the top is removable; the maps are punched and can easily and quickly be moved and brought to the front as they are needed. The entire set is lightweight and sturdy, easy to handle and made for years of service. With a storage case of heavy, durable corrugated paper.

Pictured above is the Rev. J. C. Moye of Snow Hill, North Carolina, who has recently made an endowment gift to Mount Olive College library in the amount of $12,500. This gift is an expression of the great love which Mr. Moye has for the Free Will Baptist denomination and his hope for its future progress.

Mr. Moye has led an active life in civic and community betterment in addition to his faithful service to Christ in the gospel ministry. He has served in the North Carolina State Legislature, was mayor of his town for six years and has been a member of the high school board of education.

He was ordained to the gospel ministry of the Free Will Baptist Church at Hull Road in 1920, and since that time has enjoyed a fruitful ministry pastoring churches in North Carolina. He has served as moderator of both his conference and union meetings.

In our conversation with him relative to his gift to the college, he made this significant statement, "All that I have which is lasting and eternal is what I give away."

EDITORIAL

RELIGION IN SOCIAL LIFE

Having given in other editorials what appears to be a trend toward greater consideration for the principles of Christ and the Bible on the part of political and business leaders, we turn now to some facts, figures and opinions relating to the social life of our nation. We can ascertain to what extent Christianity has penetrated and is influencing the moral fiber of our people as we examine the results of their actions. Larston D. Farrar, editor and publisher of The Washington Religious Review says, "... those who watch statistics that seem important in judging the progress, or retrogression, of a society are growing increasingly restive about many trends in this society."

Some of the more prominent social problems about which we should be concerned are juvenile delinquency, crime, divorce and the consumption of beverage alcohol. A brief comparison of the incidence of each during 1955 with that of 1954 will give us some idea as to the social trend either toward the application of the principles of Christ in our everyday living or in the opposite direction.

Juvenile delinquency, according to statistics, has been increasing alarmingly over a period of years. There is no indication that this trend has been checked to any appreciable degree in 1955. Those in authority who have been striving to check this menace to our society have also been trying to find the contributory causes. We are persuaded that two important causes have been pinpointed and are receiving a great deal of attention. They are: (1) the theory in the educational philosophy of recent years which has frowned upon positive discipline of the child in his early years; (2) the exodus of wives and mothers from the home to the business world.

Let us hope that psychologists and educators are slowly moving back to the teaching of the Bible with regard to rearing of children. Let us hope that the reaction against the cruel practice of the stern schoolmaster of the past has reached the limit of its swing in the opposite direction and is now coming back to the place of restraint with reason in the training of children.

As to the exodus of women to the factory, Mr. Farrar says, "... the department of labor has released statistics here showing that 11.8 million wives now are working, most of them mothers. There are more than 20 million women employed, but the number of working wives is at the highest peak in history. Economically this contributes to the family larder and it adds to the national income which now stands at a peak, but from a sociological standpoint it might be interpreted as a disastrous trend. Without doubt, it is a factor in the widespread prevalence of juvenile delinquency..."

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in his report to the attorney general on crime in 1955, states that there were 2,255,000 major crimes in 1955, some one half of one per cent less than in 1954. He said that this minute decrease represents little cause for rejoicing for "... in 1954 more crimes were committed than in any prior year on record."

In 1955 more than four serious offenses were committed every minute, making it the fourth consecutive year in which more than 2,000,000 major crimes have been recorded, Mr. Hoover pointed out. There were increases in rape, negligent manslaughter, larceny and automobile thefts.

Statistics show that four out of every ten marriages ended in divorce in 1955. This is an indication that the problem of broken homes, dependent children, sorrow and heartache to all concerned and many broken lives has increased during the year. How long will it be until people will let Jesus help them have a happy and peaceful home life? We can be sure that the influence of Christianity has not penetrated the heart of the home life of the nation until married couples hear and obey the words of Christ, "... Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so" (Matthew 19:8). When the divorce rate of the nation begins to decrease, we can feel that Christianity is beginning to perform its work in the home life. Another effect of this decrease will be evidenced in a decrease in juvenile delinquency.

There are some indications that the consumption of alcoholic beverages was slightly down in 1955 from the high of 1954, but drunkenness is still a serious menace to our society. The Federal Bureau of Investigation said that alcohol offenses totaled 60.9% of all 1954 crime charges. However, the fact still remains that there are more outlets for the sale of intoxicating beverages in this country than there are churches. Add to this the fact that beverage alcohol is being advertised in newspapers (there are a few which refuse to accept such advertisement), radio, television and many magazines.

There are a few encouraging signs which indicate that people are beginning to revolt, at least in a measure, against this infamous curse upon our society. At the present time, popular opinion is running high against the serving of intoxicating beverages on airplanes. Another encouraging fact is that, in cases where countries, cities and other units were permitted to vote as to whether or not liquor should be sold there, more elections were won by the drys than the wets. This should spur our ministers to preach more forcefully against the sale and use of intoxicating beverages.

Reports of large crowds in attendance upon worship services throughout the land are encouraging. The fact that churches are enlarging their plants and facilities to care for increases in enrollment are also cause for rejoicing, together with the fact that new churches are being built at an accelerated rate. However, the proof of the pudding is in the eating of it. Figures will mean little unless the influence of Christ upon the nation is expressed in day-by-day living on the part of those who claim to crown Him Lord of their lives.

Let us not forget that a saving faith in Christ is one that changes the entire course of the life of the one professing it. Christ changes sinners to saints, outlaws to law abiding citizens, sots to sober men and women. Just as Christ gave life from the dead to Lazarus, He changed a maniac so that he sat at Jesus' feet clothed in his right mind. Let us thank God for every victory which has been won for Christ in our nation, but let us also pray that Christ in the hearts of people will lead to correction of the evils which plague our society.

Pray

Prayer is the greatest force we can wield. It is the greatest talent God has granted us. He has given it to every Christian. There is a democracy in this matter. We may differ as to wealth, social position, education, native ability, inherent characteristics; but in the matter of exercising the greatest force that is at work today, we are on the same footing. Therefore no man is excusable if he commits the great sin of omitting to pray. What right have we to leave unappropriated, or unapplied, the greatest force which God has ordained for the salvation and transformation of men, and for the inauguration and energizing of Christian movements?—Selected.

Endowment

For Mount Olive College

W. Burkette Raper,
President of the College

MOUNT Olive Junior College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, moved another step nearer accreditation as a liberal arts junior college this month as the result of an endowment fund for the college library made possible by the Reverend J. C. Moye Sr., Snow Hill, North Carolina. The Moye Endowment Fund will ultimately reach the sum of $12,500; already $5,000 of this amount has been invested and the remaining $7,500 will either be given by Mr. Moye during his lifetime or will come from his estate. The announcement of this endowment fund was made this week by the president of Mount Olive College, W. Burkette Raper, who is indebted to Mr. Moye for a large part of his own educational opportunities at Duke University and the Duke Divinity School.

The income from the Moye Endowment is to be used for the advancement of the college library, which is to be named, Moye Memorial Library. One of the requirements for an accredited junior college library is an expenditure of $500 annually for new books, and the $12,500 endowment fund virtually assures the college of an income for the library adequate to purchase the annual additions for the library. By endowing the library Mr. Moye will be making a contribution to the education of every student who ever studies at the college.

Mr. Moye, who was a member of the Board of Trustees of Eureka College, Ayden, North Carolina, has always been a strong advocate for the cause of Christian education. Through his endowment gift to Mount Olive College, Mr. Moye is investing in the future of men and women yet unborn. As long as Mount Olive College stands, the name of the Reverend J. C. Moye will live on. Many years after Mr. Moye's earthly life, his spirit will go marching on, and the things for which he has lived and worked will be realized in the lives of others.

In September of last year, Mount Olive College added a full-time professionally trained librarian to its faculty in the person of Mrs. Mildred Southerland Councill, a native of Mount Olive. Mrs. Councill was the first supervisor of the school libraries in Wayne County and has had a number of years experience in the field of library work. She received her training from Appalachian State Teachers College.

The Mount Olive College library has received special attention during the past year. New steel book stacks of the latest design have been placed in the library and many new books added.

During the past year, the college has made progress in other departments than the library. A new science laboratory was recently equipped at a cost of approximately $4,000. Dr. C. C. Henderson, a well-known physician in the Mount Olive community, gave the college its first endowment last spring in the amount of $5,000. New office and classroom furniture has been added. The student enrollment is almost double that of last year.

Mount Olive College, which began operation in the fall of 1954, is owned and supported by the North Carolina State Convention of Free Will Baptists, who have a membership of 50,000 in North Carolina. Mount Olive College is the only college in North Carolina supported by the Free Will Baptist denomination and is the only liberal arts college related to the denomination in the United States. The college looks forward to becoming an accredited college in the near future and believes that it will grow to become a leading college in eastern North Carolina.

The 'If' Question Answered

James E. Bennett

BEFORE sin entered into the world there was no need of any "if" because there was no question of man's complete obedience to God, but just as soon as disobedience appeared, then came the question of man's salvation, which depended upon his voluntary decision either to obey or disobey God.

So, in the record of the first conversation between God and the first man born into the world, we find the word "if" used twice in a very vital relationship. "And the LORD said unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen? If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door . . ." (Genesis 4:6, 7). Cain stood at the threshold. On one side lay sin and on the other side lay the sin offering provided by God's mercy, and between the two was the word "if." Cain's whole future depended upon which side of

Conditions of Successful Prayer

Hilda Owens
Fountain, North Carolina

(Editor's note: This article is a reproduction by Miss Owens of a talk which she made at the Youth for Christ Rally, Aspen Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Fountain, North Carolina, on December 3, 1955. Miss Owens is sixteen years old. She wishes credit to be given the Senior-Adult Free Will Baptist League Quarterly for some of the material.)

JESUS never taught much about how to preach but He had a great deal to say about prayer and how to pray. He gave us certain conditions which must be met before our prayers can be answered. He longs to hear from us and to hear of our troubles. Does God answer your prayers? If you have to answer this question by saying, "No," it is because of one of two things: it is not God's will, or you have failed to meet the conditions.

If you are a merchant you must meet the competition of other merchants in order to have a successful business. The same applies in prayer: you must meet the conditions in order to reap the results. D. L. Moody says, "If our prayers are not answered it may be that we have prayed without the right motive, or that we have not prayed according to the Scriptures." God's Word is the best place to find the true elements of prayer, so let's see what He has to say about them.

First of all, if our prayers have been unanswered we should take inventory of our sin life, because one of the conditions is that we must have forsaken sin. The only prayer that God will hear, other than this, is the prayer of a sinner for repentance. Sin has stopped many people from praying and God cannot hear this prayer. "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me" (Psalm 66:18). "Behold, the LORD'S hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear: But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear" (Isaiah 59:1, 2). A prayer from the lips of one who has not forsaken sin is usually selfish and we know it cannot be answered; so, if we want our prayers answered we must forsake sin.

Humility and confession must characterize the prayer that does not fail. Thomas Fuller says, "Man's owning his own weakness is the only stock onto which God can graft the grace of His assistance." Do you confess your sins in your prayers? In the Bible we see a number of times when people confessed sin in their prayers. Daniel, Job, David, the publican and others prayed in the spirit of humility and confession. But Pharaoh and the Pharisee prayed boastfully. Which one's prayers do you think were answered?

Restitution and forgiveness must be a part of a successful prayer. Do you make restitution whenever you have wronged others? God's Word says, "Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, . . ." (James 5:16). Do you ever ask God to forgive you when you have something in your heart against someone? If so, you couldn't have expected Him to do it. Unwillingness to forgive others has kept many people from knowing the real power of God. We were born sinners, and if we enter the door of heaven, we must enter in by forgiveness because there is no other way. "And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors" (Matthew 6:12). "And when ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have ought against any: that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses" (Mark 11:25). If we pray according to His will, we will pray in a forgiving spirit.

We must pray in faith, believing we will receive, ". . . What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them" (Mark 11:24). Mere words do not make a prayer but real prayer is words with faith. A prayer without faith is like a check without a signature. It is worthless because the value of the check comes from the signature. A prayer of faith has on it the signature of the Lord Jesus Christ, and is good for any amount when presented at the bank of heaven, "But my God shall supply all your needs according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:19).

Our prayers must be filled with thanksgiving. ". . . but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God" (Philippians 4:6). If Christians would spend more time thanking God for His goodness they would have less time to complain about what they have or don't have. Jesus Christ died for you and me. After His resurrection He went to heaven to plead the sinner's case. Every day He is pleading our cases before the heavenly court; His angels guard us, the Holy Spirit guides us and teaches us; He showers upon us the blessings of life. We have a great deal to be thankful for. Our prayers should be filled with thanksgiving and our life should be a living testimony for Him.

We must pray with perseverance. We must continue to pray regardless of what happens to us. A Christian woman once had an unconverted husband who had forbidden her to speak to him about Christ. She knew she could take it to the Lord in prayer, and she did. She said to herself, "I am going to pray for his conversion every day for twelve months." At the end of a year she saw no signs of his being under conviction. She said, "I am going to keep on six months longer." She did, and still no change. Should she give up? "No," she said, "I will pray for him as long as God gives me breath." That very day the answer came. Her husband accepted Jesus Christ as her personal Saviour. She knocked until the answer came. "Pray without ceasing" (1 Thessalonians 5:17). We must keep the connection between us and God unbroken if we will have our prayers answered and enjoy a successful Christian life. We must pray in submission. We must realize that God knows best, and we should pray in the spirit of Thy will be done. When we pray not in submission we are likely to ask for blessings not for His glory, nor for the good of others, but for selfish gratification.

In 2 Chronicles 7:14 God gives us in short His conditions: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways: then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." Have you met these conditions? Does God answer your prayers? Remember our Christian living is only as successful as our prayer life.

To make my prayer life more effective I must:

1. Set aside a few minutes each day for communion with God.

2. Talk to Him as a friend in a simple, natural manner.

3. Realize that through prayer I can seek forgiveness for my sins, get directions for my life, receive inspiration and power.

4. Take care that my prayers are not self-centered but also ask His blessings on neighbors, friends, church, nation and troubled world.

5. Keep in mind that I am seeking to learn the Master's will, and that my prayers should not sound as if I were attempting to bargain or bring Him to my point of view.

YE ASK AND HAVE NOT

Naaman Borders,
Waverly, Ohio

WE sometimes hear folk say that the Lord answers every prayer. In a sense this is right, but He does not always answer in the affirmative. Sometimes He says, "Yes." At other times He says, "No," and then again He might say "Wait a while." In 1 John 5:14 we find, "And this is the confidence that we have in him, that, if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us." But if we ask anything purely for selfish purposes, we are just wasting our breath, for the Lord always answers selfish prayers negatively. "And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight" (1 John 3:22). When we ask a favor of God that would injure another while helping us, we are asking amiss.

On an examination in school, a group of children were asked the question, "What is the capital of Illinois?" One little girl wrote down on her paper, "Chicago." Later on when she found out her mistake, she prayed for the Lord to change the capital from Springfield to Chicago in order that she might get a good grade. Many of you probably think, "What a silly prayer!" Yet, that prayer was no more ridiculous than some of the prayers we adults pray. The mother of James and John prayed that the Master would give her sons the seats on the right and left hand of God. What a selfish prayer for an adult to pray!

We all should learn how to pray, and for our pattern we should use the Lord's Prayer. It is perfectly proper for us to pray for material success, and God will help us if we only render to Him a tenth of all our substance—our time as well as money.

Now let us discuss hindrances to prayer. "From whence come wars and fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your lusts that war in your members? Ye lust, and have not: ye kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not. Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts" (James 4:1-3). It is just as sinful to lust for honor or popularity as it is for money. When we pray for something that would hurt us, the all wise God says, "No," we are praying for something that would only damn us.

Some folk pray for a revival so that their church may outshine another church. God does not hear such a selfish prayer. Or if we pray for a revival in order to have a good report to our conference we are also praying amiss. Maybe we sometimes pray that God will reward us by making us more popular with our brethren; but this too is a selfish prayer. All Christians should pray that the Kingdom of God be extended and that more lost souls may be saved. Such a prayer will always be heard and answered. When will we really learn how to pray? When will we learn to humble ourselves under the mighty hand of God? In 2 Chronicles 7:14 we find, "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." Therefore, we know that even the land will be blessed if we only humble ourselves before God and pray in such a way that we know is right.

Sometimes sick people will pray for health, and their prayer goes unanswered. God has a reason for not answering all prayers in the affirmative. God is all wise and He knows the aims behind all our prayers—He knows if they are selfish prayers. Lusts will siphon off more vitality in one day than you can pray and build up in a week's time. This is the reason so many people are cold professors. Many people are timid and cowardly and dread to be called on to pray. This is because all their spiritual strength and vitality has been drained off by lusts of some kind. We can violate the laws of the spirit just as we violate the laws of nature. If we conserve our spiritual strength and keep adding more and more to it by prayer and supplication, in a short time we would be stalwart Christians, able and eager to pray in most any congregation. Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you. God is love, and when we have love we have God. Love casteth out fear. When we are bubbling over with the love of God, it is a joy to pray and testify. In 1 Thessalonians 5:17-23 we find, "Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you. Quench not the Spirit. Despise not prophesyings. Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. Abstain from all appearance of evil. And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Cragmont News Notes

By J. E. Wooten, Manager

THE stockholders of Cragmont Assembly held their annual meeting in Ayden, January 4, 1956. The meeting was presided over by Rev. James A. Evans, president, in one of the assembly rooms of the Free Will Baptist Press. The board of directors held a business session at the same place in the afternoon. Most of the same officers were re-elected for the ensuing year, including the manager and hostess. So, here we are again greeting you from Cragmont.

We firmly believe that no institution, including Cragmont Assembly, has any justification for existence unless it can lay same reasonable claim to constructive service rendered.

Cragmont was designed for the purpose of rendering a definite service, and it is constantly endeavoring to fill a place in the life of our youth, and adults as well, that the church itself does not and cannot fill in its regular local activities. It is not our purpose to discuss here and (Continued on page sixteen)

Self-Made, Are We?

We speak of men being self-made, and in one sense perhaps many are.

In a far better sense we are God-made. How much more God has made out of us than our friends saw in us, and really more than there was in us.

If most of us had the choosing of our fortunes and misfortunes, crosses and losses, joys and sorrows, successes and failures, etc., how little we would amount to! Many of our lives would be like the desert, because all sunshine makes a desert. To build a character we must have adverse winds, cloudy days, storms and reverses. The choice of the right and holy in the face of wrong and impurity makes character.

While we do not bid for the thorns, ills and suffering, let us thank God for grace and peaceable fruits to them exercised thereby.

God gives much to the soul from which He permits much to be taken.—Selected.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: How do you reconcile "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: . . ." (Genesis 9:6), "Thou shalt not kill" (Exodus 20:13), and the expression in Matthew 5:21, ". . . Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment." Please consider also ". . . no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him" (1 John 3:15). It seems from these verses except for Genesis 9:6 that one would be in danger of God's wrathful judgment if he kills someone. How would these Scriptures apply to the man who pulls the switch in the execution of a man who is put to death in the electric chair, or the one who turns on the gas in the execution of a person who gets the death sentence in the gas chamber, or for those in a firing squad who obey orders in shooting a person that the military tribunal condemns? How would this apply to soldiers that are drafted in the army who kill people in battle?—G. E. Anderson.

Answer: Genesis 9:6 is the first passage given in the Scriptures that requires man to act in his place of God-given authority and responsibility, administering capital punishment upon all who for any reason kill any person. This is greatly modified when, upon their coming from Egypt, God commands the Israelites to set apart certain cities of refuge in which an innocent shedder of blood could flee and there have protection from the revengers of blood, Exodus 21:12-14, "He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death. And if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand; then I will appoint thee a place whither he shall flee. But if a man come presumptuously upon his neighbour, to slay him with guile; thou shalt take him from mine altar, that he may die." (Joshua 20:2-5) "Speak to the children of Israel, saying, Appoint out for you cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you by the hand of Moses: That the slayer that killeth any person unawares and unwittingly may flee thither: and they shall be your refuge from the avenger of blood. And when he that doth flee unto one of those cities shall stand at the entering of the gate of the city, and shall declare his cause in the ears of the elders of that city, they shall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place, that he may dwell among them. And if the avenger of blood pursue after him, then they shall not deliver the slayer up into his hand; because he smote his neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not beforetime."

These cities, as you can see from the foregoing Scriptures, intercepted the death penalty as it reached out for all who had been instrumental in the shedding of human blood and gave asylum to the innocent who had shed blood accidentally. No such condition is to be seen in Genesis 9:6. In the New Testament this subject is further developed when Jesus says, ". . . whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: . . ." (Matthew 5:22). Therefore it is made clear in the Old Testament that a man must plan the execution of all persons guilty of shedding human blood. It is further made clear in the New Testament that if one harbors envy and murder in his heart he is regarded as a murderer and therefore in danger of the judgment that is sure to come to all murderers. All who hate or make plans against their fellow men are potential murderers.

God has devised a system by which He controls or overrules the affairs of men in which He allows statesmen or politicians to exercise themselves in an organization we generally call a state. Men cannot hold their society together, but God does this; therefore the state that adheres most closely to the regulations found in the Bible is the state that is sure to be most successful and to operate with less friction. Even when the nations of ungodly people adhere to God's regulations for themselves they are more prosperous. Good examples of this are to be seen in the prosperity of Egypt as its leaders adhered to the advice of Joseph in preparing the land against seven years of famine which was to come upon it, in the prosperity of Babylon and Medo-Persia, as Daniel and later on Mordecai, with Esther's assistance, influenced the kings and other officials to follow God's leadership. Again, in the Church age we have Godly men such as Luther, Calvin, Knox, Wesley, etc., bringing their influence upon people in authority, counseling them to adhere to God-given principles by which the countries became prosperous. One of God's principles to be put into effect is that states are responsible to punish criminals commensurate to their crimes. In God's system He requires the death sentence for all willful murderers and the restoration of property to those who have been robbed of it.

God has provided a unified system of rules in the Bible that demand the loyalty and cooperation of every citizen in his country to the principles of the country and to the people who are in authority and are responsible to execute the laws of that country. We read in 1 Timothy 2:1, 2, "I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; For kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty." "Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves: for they watch for your souls, as they must give account, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable for you" (Hebrews 13:17). See 1 Peter 2:13; Romans 13:1-7.

A man is acting as the agent of God and may be regarded as His instrument or tool when he pulls the electric switch in the execution of a criminal who deserves to die and has had the death sentence handed down. The one who turns the gas into the gas chamber, or acts as hangman, is acting in his line of duty and is free from the guilt of murder. It is also the duty of a soldier, whose name is drawn for him to do so, to fire as a member of the firing squad when such orders are given him. It is the duty of a citizen of his country to go to battle when he is conscripted for such duty. Those killed in the battle will not be regarded by God as murdered by this conscripted man.

God had said to Saul in 1 Samuel 15:2, 3, 9, 33, "Thus saith the LORD of hosts, . . . Now go and smite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and women, infant and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and ass. . . . But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, and of the fatlings, and the lambs, and all that was good, and would not utterly destroy (Continued on page sixteen)

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOA, N. C.

"For none of us liveth to himself, . . ." (Romans 14:7).

We are not intended by our Maker to be alone. Man must have society—organization. His history proves that if he cannot command that which is good, rather than dwell alone, he will make a virtue of necessity, and turn to that which is bad. When God had made Adam He said, ". . . It is not good that man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him" (Genesis 2:18).

All the arrangements adopted by communities, all the organizations of governments, and the constitution of every church of Christ, recognize the existence of the principle of organized cooperative efforts. This principle renders every man susceptible to the influence which others exert, and enables him to exert influences over others. But we are prone to forget that we are as accountable to God for our influence as for anything else. I believe that we as ministers should, at least occasionally, make influence the subject of discourse. This is my present theme.

I doubt if there can be found any man who is destitute of the power of effecting the destiny of some other man. There is a vast difference as to the degree and extent of the influence which different persons may exercise. Ministers of the gospel should at all times be men of good influence. All Christians are constantly exerting their influence. The obscurest member of the church is not excepted. His influence, good or bad, is effecting someone. The rich and the poor, the wise and the ignorant, the proud and the humble, are all influential. All are always making impressions. Not only these, but so are the profane, the licentious, the covetous, drunkards, gamblers, liars, and all such abominable characters.

Our influence is indestructible. Every man must die, but his influence, which he has exerted upon his fellow man, will live on. Every thought, word, act, and even every feeling is something that is thrown into a kind of moral ocean, producing waves which spread through all time and reach the very shores of eternity. All the good influences originate by our acts of obedience to God. Abraham and all the other patriarchs, Isaiah and the other prophets, Paul and all the apostles, created influences for good which are still at work, as did Pharaoh, Nebuchadnezzar, and all the other early enemies of Christianity, along with their modern brethren, Voltaire, Gibbon and Paine, created influences which are still destroying those who follow them. Your influence will live on after you are dead. John Bunyan is exerting a thousand times more influence now than while he was alive, and so are many others of whom the world was not worthy.

We must not forget our responsibility to God for our influence. We must give account to God for all feelings, thoughts, words and acts. God makes it our duty to do all the good we can in the world, and to abstain from all appearance of evil.

It is pre-eminently the duty of all Christians to exert their influence in their Christian capacity. Religion should have the credit of all the good they do. Multitudes overlook this truth. All human organizations must forever stand in the rear of the Church of Jesus Christ. Every object which can properly engage the attention of a Christian, is provided for in the gospel, the charter of the church's incorporation.

You are exerting influence constantly. Is it good or bad? It will live on, and it will affect those upon whom it is exerted.

A PROPHET AND A NATION

1 KINGS 11

God rules nations as well as individuals. This truth should have a sobering effect upon the people of America. We have become strong and rich, but there is danger that the heart of our nation shall be turned away from God.

I. GOD'S JUDGMENT TO COME UPON THE NATION
(Vv. 1-8)

II. SOLOMON'S ADVERSARIES (Vv. 9-13)

III. THE RECORD OF SOLOMON'S DEATH (Vv. 14-40)

IV. REHOBOAM'S ACCESSION TO THE THRONE (Vv. 41-43)

This forms an outline of the entire chapter, but instead of dealing with this whole outline we would like to concentrate upon three things in the chapter:

I. GOD'S PROPHET (Vv. 29-32)

Solomon had brought the nation of Israel to the peak of material power and wealth. But prosperity had brought indulgence, and indulgence led to despotism. God's prophet Ahijah knew that judgment would come.

BIBLE COLLEGE COMMENDED

"I would like to commend our Free Will Baptist Bible College at Nashville, Tennessee. Having visited there recently, I found it a wonderful place for the training of our boys and girls for Christian service. We should always remember it with our prayers and our money."—Mrs. B. F. C., Route 1, Farmville, N. C.

A NOTE OF THANKS

"I wish to express my most sincere thanks to my many friends, scattered far and near, for the many beautiful birthday and Christmas cards that I received during the months of September and December of 1955. Many of these cards contained love gifts which made both my birthday and Christmas the most joyful of all my days in the past.

"I can never thank you all fully for such kindness. May the Lord bless each and all of you is my prayer."—M. A. Woodard, Winterville, N. C.

CARD OF THANKS

"I wish to thank all my friends for the flowers and many kindnesses shown to me during my illness. Please remember me in your prayers."—Mrs. H. B. Sawyer, Route 1, Box 349, Kinston, N. C.

Christ is the Word, God heard; the Light, God seen; the Life, God felt.—Selected.

The true way to overcome evil is to melt it by fiery coals of gentleness.—Selected.

II. GOD'S JUDGMENT (Vv. 33-36)

Ahijah went on to declare the reason for the impending judgment of God. The king's many pagan wives had turned away his heart after other gods.

III. GOD'S PROMISE (Vv. 37-38)

God promised that if Jereboam would hearken unto His commands and walk in His ways and keep His statutes, as David did, the divine presence would be assured to him to preserve him, and to establish his seed in ruling the Northern Kingdom of Israel. In other words, God was promising Jereboam something like this: "If you will be faithful to Me and lead the nation in the right way, I will be faithful to you and give you My care and continued blessings."

CONCLUSION

America ought to learn the lessons of history. In the history of Israel we see eternal laws at work. We hear God's spokesmen calling men to repentance, interpreting the responsibility of nations before God, and declaring God's interest in government and in every part of the life of His people.

Don't Steal

A storekeeper, looking after a young girl who had just walked out the door, said to a customer, "That girl who has just left never comes into this shop without a little stealing. She takes a peppermint drop or a chocolate, and has not an idea that she is doing wrong. Older people do the same thing, and a merchant has no way by which he can protect himself unless he can keep his goods all the time under lock and key." None of us would like to be labeled in the mind of another as a thief. Be as honest about little things as large things.—Selected.

DID YOU KNOW?

Did you know:

1. That you can be wrong in your own opinion, as well as the other fellow?
2. That it is not wrong to acknowledge your faults to your fellow man?
3. That an honest confession is good for the soul?
4. That many church members need to seek an altar of prayer?
5. That there are ministers who need to pray through to victory about that besetting sin in their life?
6. That the sin of omission is as great as the sin of commission in the sight of God?
7. That many so-called Christians are accepting the doctrine, denying the deity of Jesus Christ, the Son of God?
8. That more of God's children need to surrender their lives, to be used in God's service in this new year of 1956 in winning more lost souls to Christ?
9. That the Bible teaches us as Christians, "to study to show ourselves approved unto God"?
10. That the Bible says, "He that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin"?

—Mrs. Jack Arnold.

Did You

DORIS GILLIKIN

Did you help someone today,
As you traveled life's highway?
Did you lend someone a hand,
His trouble try to understand?

Did you offer one in need,
Food, on which, his soul may feed?
Perhaps there was one lonely, cold;
Did you bring him to the fold?

Did a smile light up some face,
Who felt down-hearted, out of place?
Or did you pass him with a frown,
And still expect to win your crown?

Did you lend someone a bed,
A place to lay his aching head:
Or did you turn him from your door,
And coldly bid him come no more?

Were the things you should have done,
Accomplished by the set of sun?
Or did you let the darkness fall,
With nothing done for Christ at all?

God supplies the need of His children according to His riches in Glory by Christ Jesus; not according to our poverty. Therefore we lack nothing when we trust Him.—Selected.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on The Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

PERSEVERANCE OF THE SAINTS

"There are strong grounds to hope that the truly regenerate will persevere unto the end, and be saved, through the power of divine grace which is pledged for their support; but their future obedience and final salvation are neither determined nor certain, since through infirmity and manifold temptations they are in danger of falling; and they ought therefore to watch and pray, lest they make shipwreck of their faith and be lost"—Treatise.

Grounds for Hope

"For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 8:38, 39). "... God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it" (1 Corinthians 10:13). "... My grace is sufficient for thee ..." (2 Corinthians 12:9). "The righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger" (Job 17:9). "And I say unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it" (Matthew 16:18). "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand" (John 10:27, 28). "Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ" (Philippians 1:6).

These Scriptures certainly are strong in the giving of the evidence that we are safely and securely fixed in Jesus Christ as our Saviour and Lord, and Free Will Baptist believe that we are safe as long as we abide in Christ. As we see it; we accept Christ upon the freedom of our will. We are free to choose Christ as our Saviour, and are saved by the acceptance of Him as God's Son who was given that we may have life, and have it more abundantly. "He came unto his own, and his own received him not. But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name" (John 1:11, 12).

Since we accept Christ at our own will, and the Word teaches that we do, we believe (most of us) that God does not take our will away from us when we choose Jesus as our Saviour. We are to serve him at our will. We are not machines, but still human beings, making our choice in the way of life.

One of the strongest reasons for believing in eternal security is, perhaps, the words of Jesus in John 10:28, "... and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand."

Let us pause that we may study a little right here as to possibilities. My wife belongs to me; she is mine morally and legally, according to the laws of God and the laws of the state. By no means can any man take her away from me legally. There is no law to pluck her out of my hand, but if she should fall in love with another man, and lose her love for me, and were to run off with that man, certainly it would be against my will, but within her will—I could not help it. Thousands are doing that very thing today, and thereby the divorce courts are fed, and the lawyers get nice checks, smeared with adultery. However, I am certain that my wife will not do this, but there is a possibility.

The Possibility of Falling

"... The LORD is with you, while ye be with him; and if ye seek him, he will be found of you; but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you" (2 Chronicles 15:2).

"And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; And to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; And to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity. For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. But he that lacketh these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins. Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall" (2 Peter 1:5-10).

"When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die thereby" (Ezekiel 33:18). "Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples. As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love. If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love" (John 15:3-10).

In Christ we are clean. To stay clean we must stay in Christ. To stay in Christ we must keep His commandments. We cannot bring forth fruit out of Christ. Branches that bring forth no fruit are withered. These branches are burned. Willful sin cuts us off.

"Moreover, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under the cloud, and all passed through the sea; And were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea; And did all eat the same spiritual meat; And did all drink the same spiritual drink: for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them: and that Rock was Christ. But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness. Now these things were our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted. ... Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and fell in one day three and twenty thousand. ... Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall" (1 Corinthians 10:1-12). (To be continued in next issue.)

When we come to the Bible, let it tell us what we should be, and let us not presume to tell the Almighty God what the Bible should have been.—Don Marty.

"The question is not knowing what we should do, but doing what we know." Selected.

—FOR OUR—

BOYS and GIRLS

Behold the Dreamer

Mrs. Bertha Chappell
Gallion, Louisiana

ASHER says, "Boys we had better be careful what we say. You know Joseph will bring to father every evil word he hears."

Dan replied, "I don't know why he comes with us to tend the flock. He never does anything except spy on us and tell father all we do and say."

"In a few days Reuben will have to take the flock to the eastern plains," says Gad. "Maybe we can get our father to keep Joseph home with him; then we won't have to listen to his dreams, and we can do as we please without fear."

Two weeks later we find, Asher, Dan Gad and Naphtali around a campfire in the eastern plains, rejoicing because Joseph was not with them.

Asher says, "Boys we've had a whole week of peace without a dreamer in our camp, I wish this could last forever."

You see, boys and girls, Joseph's eleven brothers hated him, because their father loved him more than all his other children. Their hate was so great that they could not speak peaceably unto him. Is that how you do when you hate something or someone? We should never hate our brothers or anyone else. Let's see what happened to these brothers because they nourished hatred in their hearts.

"Look yonder to the west! can you see something afar off, moving this way?" says Dan.

Asher answered, "Who do you think it is, Gad?"

Gad replies, "I think it is father's pet, the sissy."

Asher says, "Who do you think it is, Naphtali?"

Naphtali answers, "I think it is that hated dreamer, I wish we could do away with him without getting his blood on our hands."

"He surely wouldn't be missed here," says Dan.

Joseph walks up to Dan, Gad, Naphtali and Asher. He salutes them with a smile and a happy good morning.

Joseph says, "Father has sent me to see if all is well with you and the flocks. I must take him word again."

Long ago, the Father in heaven sent His Son to the earth to see just how it was with His children here on earth. To this day, when we tell the Lord about our troubles, I am sure He talks to His Father in our behalf.

Gad replies, "All was well with us until you came to disturb our peace. Boys, I can see it in his sly smile that he's had another dream."

Asher groans, "Have we got to go through that again?"

Joseph answers, "Yes, I've had a dream, another dream. But where is Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun? I want them to hear the dream also."

Gad replies, "So do we." He calls, "Ye ho!"

"Come to the camp boys, the dreamer is here. Maybe we should send a runner to fetch them. Naphtali has long legs and is swift on foot, peradventure we don't want to delay your honor. Who knows? You may try to interpret, this time."

As the other seven brothers walk up, Joseph says, "Hi, Reuben, father has sent me to see if all is well with his sons and the flocks. I went to Shechem, a man found me wandering in the field and sent me this way. I am glad I found you in Dothan."

Asher says, "Be seated boys and let him get it over with, he's had two dreams this time."

Joseph says, Here I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed: Behold we were binding sheaves in the field, and, lo, my sheaf arose and also stood upright: and behold your sheaves stood around about and made obeisance to my sheaf."

Dan asks, "Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us? Boys let us do away with him."

Joseph says, "Behold I have dreamed a dream more; and behold, the sun and moon and the eleven stars made obeisance to me."

Gad says, "Boys, I guess by the sun and moon he means father and mother. And of course the eleven stars are we."

Naphtali jumps to his feet and says, "I can't stand this dreamer any longer. Let us slay him and cast him into some pit and we will say some evil beast hath devoured him; we will see what will become of his dreams."

All the time, they plotted against Joseph. Reuben, Joseph's oldest brother was trying to think of some way he could deliver him out of their hands that he might return him to his father again. Reuben says, "No! Shed no blood, but cast him into this pit that is in the wilderness."

Boys and girls, if you could look into this pit, what would it make you think of? It makes me think of the grave. When it comes our time to be lowered into a big pit, if we are Christians, our spirit has already been carried to heaven on the wings of the Holy Spirit. Christ shed His blood for the resurrection of our body. When He calls us our body will arise out of the grave and be united with our soul and go to be an honored guest in the King's palace.

Gad says, "Grab him, boys, and strip him out of his beautiful coat of many colors, and cast him into this empty pit where he can get no food or water."

As they sat down to eat bread, they lifted up their eyes and looked. Behold, a company of Ishmaelites came from Gilead with their camels, bearing balm and myrrh, going to carry it down to Egypt.

Judah says, "What profit is it if we slay our brother and conceal his blood? Let us sell him to the Ishmaelites, and let not our hands be upon him; for he is our brother."

And they lifted Joseph out of the pit and sold him to the Ishmaelites for twenty pieces of silver. Thus Joseph was carried into Egypt.

When Reuben returned to the pit and found Joseph gone, he rent his clothes and wrung his hands and cried, "Whether shall I go; this will break father's heart and Joseph's blood will be on our hands."

Naphtali, Asher, Dan and Gad dipped Joseph's coat of many colors in the blood of a kid of the goats which they had killed. They sent it to their father and said, "This have we found. Do you know whether it be thy son's coat or no?"

Jacob says, "It is my son's coat; an evil beast hath devoured him; Joseph is without doubt rent in pieces."

Jacob mourned for Joseph many days.

he wept for Joseph so that all his sons and daughters could not comfort him. When Joseph's eleven brothers saw their father's grief, they knew they had committed a great sin. When they closed their eyes to sleep, they could hear the dreamer say, "You will have neither peace nor rest until you bow before me in Egypt. Why, did you dip your coat in blood. It had contained a color for every race on earth, and is now stained with blood.

They tossed and turned. They would look at each other with eyes of sorrow, and all cry together, "Oh! if I could bring my brother back, I would be happy to take second place in father's love."

It was terrible to have to live with their guilt, day and night, and see their father's sorrow. What a price to pay because they hated their brother!

Zebulun says, "Sometimes I am sure father knows our secret; his mercy is all that has saved us."

Asher says, "I'm glad that Rachel, Joseph's mother, has gone to her rest. I don't think I could stand it if she were here to reproach me every time she looked at me."

The others say together, "Neither could I."

You see, boys and girls, Joseph was their half brother.

Simeon says, "I would be glad to be bound before you all, to restore Joseph back into my father's house."

Judah says, "Why don't we go to Egypt and find Joseph. I am sure he will forgive us."

Issachar begins to bounce up and down and says, "That's it! That's it! If this drought doesn't let up, father will send us to Egypt to get corn for bread. Then we will find Joseph and be the eleven stars that he said would do obeisance to him.

Judah says, "You know father would never trust Benjamin to go with us, so there would only be ten of us to go to Egypt. Don't you see that Joseph is already lost and we can't take Benjamin with us lest something should happen to him also?"

Zebulun says, "I hear that they have plenty of corn in Egypt and here we are with no bread to eat. I wish Dan, Gad, Asher and Naphtali had never plotted against Joseph."

Gad says, "Don't you dare lay all the blame on us. Remember you had a hand in it also."

Zebulun replies, "All I did was to stand by, watch and listen while you got us in the mess."

Dan says, "That makes you an accomplice to the sin, so you are as deep in the mud as we are in the mire."

Mrs. Lewis Hostess To Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of Mt. Zion Free Will Baptist Church, of Wilson County, North Carolina, met at the home of Mrs. Aaron Lewis for its annual Christmas party.

After the regular program the ladies exchanged gifts. Instead of drawing names each brought a gift which was numbered at the door, and the numbers were drawn out of a hat.

During the business session, the auxiliary elected new officers, who promised to fulfill their duties as best they knew how. After the meeting was adjourned Mrs. Lewis served the ladies refreshments.

The auxiliary requests your prayers that its members may serve the Lord in greater ways in 1956. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Annas Johnson. All visitors are welcome.

Gratitude, a Christian Essential

(Lesson for February 5)

Lesson: Luke 17:11-19.

Golden Text: Psalm 92:1.

I. INTRODUCTION

"And they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us" (Vs. 13).

The lepers cried out to Jesus for help. The bright spots in the otherwise burdensome ministry of the Master were the instances in which someone cried out to Him for help. He always honored trusting faith and cries of confession which came to Him from those in need. It was His pleasure and joy to supply the needs of those who called upon Him, for He said, "... the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many" (Matthew 20:28). Jesus was glad when ten pitiful cries came to Him for help.

Thankful lips give glory to God. The one matter of supreme importance to this cleansed leper was that he might show his gratitude to Jesus. Therefore, he "turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God" in worship of Jesus through whom the blessing had come. The matter of being pronounced clean by the priests, although necessary, could wait until he had worshiped Jesus.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. Like Jesus, His disciples should take the course that gives them a chance to bless troubled souls (Vs. 11).

2. In every place, wherever we go, there are spiritual lepers who need our help (Vs. 12).

3. Those who expect the favor of the Lord must accept and follow the method He suggests (Vs. 13, 14).

4. The Lord will meet us with mercy and favor when we are found in the way of duty (Vs. 14).

5. It is not until a sinner sees his sins are gone that he can truly glorify the Lord (Vs. 15).

6. The deepest gratitude is sometimes shown by those from whom it is least expected (Vs. 16).

7. The biggest ingrates are sometimes those who ought to show the greatest gratitude (Vv. 17, 18).

8. Only those who believe on the Lord Jesus Christ can ever be made completely whole (Vs. 19).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Leprosy was an inveterate cutaneous disease, appearing in dry, thin, white scurfy scales or scabs, either on the whole body, or on some part of it, usually attended with violent itching, and often with great pain. The eastern leprosy was a distemper of the most loathsome kind, highly contagious, so as to infect garments, (Leviticus 13:47) and houses, (Leviticus 14:34) and was deemed incurable by any human means. Among the Jews, God alone was applied to for its removal; and the cure was ever attributed to his sovereign power.

The various symptoms of this dreadful disorder, which was a striking emblem of sin, may be seen in Leviticus 13 and 14, where also may be read the legal ordinances concerning it.—Adam Clarke.

2. They stood afar off. The leper was to rend his clothes, have his head bare, and put a covering upon his upper lip, and cry, "Unclean, unclean" (Leviticus 13:45). He was to be alone, without the camp (Vs. 46). He was shut out from society and others and could company only with lepers. These lepers possibly stood by the roadside. Nine of them were Jews and one a Samaritan. The common history no doubt drew them together and banished from their minds national prejudices (John 4:9). When men become hopeless, their pride and ill temper usually drop. It is better to humble ourselves, than to be humbled by the Lord (James 4:7, 10).—W. S. Hottel.

3. Vs. 15: "And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God." We are not told whether the Samaritan ever went to the priest. There is a catch here, for it is unlikely that an orthodox priest would have admitted him into his presence. It appears that the tenth leper wholly forgot about the priest in his ecstasy. Regarding the other nine, whom we may presume to have been Jews, we may well imagine what took place. It is not unlikely that when the priests were convinced of the miracle they hushed it up and deterred the nine, either by their influence or forcibly, from giving Christ the glory publicly. On an earlier occasion, the Jewish leaders had tried to rob Jesus of the credit for having healed a blind man (John 9).

Doubtless all of the ten were glad, but there is a difference between being glad and being grateful. Gladness may have an entirely selfish reference, whereas gratitude includes esteem for the giver.—Higley's Commentary.

4. Before the invention of electric lanterns, the coal miners used carbide lamps. Every miner's home had a quantity of this gas generating chemical. My younger brother stole a small quantity of Dad's carbide and going out into the yard, he placed it in a Mason jar, threw a few drops of water on it and then screwed the lid tightly. The expanding gas quickly exploded the jar. Through God's goodness and excellent medical care my brother's sight was saved. The carbide was meant for illumination. My brother used it as an explosive and in consequence suffered serious injury.

When man leaves His God-ordained purpose he becomes dangerous, and destructive. He who does not praise God will in words or actions curse God.

5. Walking down the corridor of a hospital on one occasion, I stopped before the door of the laboratory. Two men were frantically endeavoring to find a blood donor by telephone; they had called friends, they had telephoned the factory, they had exhausted all leads to find the type of blood needed, a type not too easily obtained. A loved one lay dying on the operating table desperately in need of blood—if it was not forthcoming it would be fatal! Sensing the situation, I offered to give blood as I had done on other occasions. I was taken to the proper room, a doctor was taken from the operating room and still with robe and mask on took the blood, and when done rushed the precious jar to the operating room. Checking later I learned that the patient had lived, but while the men knew who I was, where I was from, never once have I seen them since and not one word of thanks then or since.—The Bible Expositor.

6. "Thy faith hath made thee whole" (Vv. 17-19).

The Greek original here would be more properly translated: "Your faith has saved you." This man was not only cleansed from the defilement of leprosy; he had his sins forgiven because he had faith in the Son of God.

Questions and Answers

them: but every thing that was vile and refuse, that they destroyed utterly. . . . And Samuel said, As thy sword hath made women childless, so shall thy mother be childless among women. And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the LORD in Gilgal." Saul lost the kingdom because he did not obey God's orders that Samuel had given him. Instead he saved some back for sacrifices. Samuel obeyed God and killed that which Saul spared. Samuel had the praise and blessing of God upon him, whereas the curse of God was upon Saul and his house; Saul had the kingdom taken from him and his house. That, I believe, will be the way God will treat those who excuse themselves from the hardships of battle and blood when duty calls them in defense of the right. " . . . Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams" (1 Samuel 15:22).

Cragmont News Notes

now the nature and scope of this service, for surely most of us understand it in a general way. But we do wish to emphasize clearly that unchristian and unwholesome practices and conduct have no place here, and are not tolerated. We invite our people everywhere to visit Cragmont and get firsthand information and facts. Ask those who have been here.

In all legitimate and honest businesses, prosperity and success are enjoyed in proportion to the extent of service rendered. The same general principle is true with respect to the church and its various programs of activity. The day has come, and the need is urgent, for Cragmont to expand and enlarge its field of service. Why be satisfied and content to continue to touch and help so small a number when there is a vastly larger number longing for and seeking the same opportunities?

Many young people are brought to know Christ as their own personal Saviour while attending conferences here. They go back to their local churches with a zealous desire to work with their pastors in the churches, if given a place to serve. The inspiration received by adults who hold conferences here, particularly the woman's auxiliary conferences, encourages and strengthens them for greater efforts in Christian activities in their local work. Is Cragmont just a little retreat hid in the midst of the mountains where a few of our people come for a few days of rest, relaxation, and sightseeing? It could serve that purpose well for those who wish and need it. But it fills a much greater purpose and need. It is an institution which assists the church in winning the lost to Christ, and in preparing church members to render more efficient service in the work of the church.

The outlook is very encouraging for more and bigger conferences this year than have ever been experienced here. We need much encouragement and financial assistance within the next two months in order to prepare for the needs during the summer. Will you pray with us for the success of this work? Prepare to come or send someone, or do both, this year. Contact the director of the conference of your choice for information. May we hear from you soon? Address Cragmont Assembly, Box 178, Black Mountain, North Carolina, or Rt. 1, Cragmont Road, Black Mountain, North Carolina. Both addresses are used.

Many thanks for your many expressions of kindness and concern for us personally, and for your unmistakable concern for the work here as expressed in encouragement and support. May this year be for you a happy and prosperous one.

The "If" Question Answered

this "if" he chose to go. He chose the wrong side, killed his brother, went out from the presence of the Lord, and his whole family was completely exterminated by the flood in Noah's time.

God's statement to Cain about 6000 years ago is His plan of salvation for us today. Philip said to the Ethiopian eunuch who was seeking salvation, " . . . If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God" (Acts 8:37). He was on the sin side of the "if," but when he settled the question of his faith by an open confession, then Jesus Christ lifted him up over the "if" and placed him on the sin-sacrifice side of the "if" and "he went on his way rejoicing."

This is what Paul wrote to the Romans: " . . . if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved" (Romans 10:9). It is simply a question of which side of this "if" a person is found. He has no power in himself to change his position. As sons of Adam we are born into this world on the sin side of the "if" (Romans 5:12) and no power on earth can put us over onto the safe side. But Jesus, who alone has the power, said: "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me" (John 12:32). Once we let Christ lift us over this "if," then we are in His hands on His side of the "if" and there is no power anywhere which can separate us from Him and put us back even for a moment, on the lost side of the terrible "if" (Romans 8:35-39; John 10:28, 29).

On which side of this eternal "if" are you? God grant that you are on the sin-offering side, but IF you are on the sin side, one cry for help to Jesus and He will reach over, lift up and place you safely on His side forever. Praise His name—it is so simple, so definite, so sure!—American Tract Society.

AYDEN, NORTH CAROLINA, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1956

Pictured above is an architectural drawing of the proposed Hyde Park Free Will Baptist Church plant of Norfolk, Virginia. The building, when completed, will cost approximately $85,000. The first unit, costing $32,000, was started in October, 1955, and will be completed in time for the first service to be held in it on January 29, 1956.

The church was organized in February, 1953, with 57 charter members. The Rev. Daniel J. Merkh who, at present, is educational director of the Edgemont Church, Durham, North Carolina, was the first pastor of this Norfolk church. The Rev. E. H. Overman is the present pastor. The present membership of the church is 223. The church is supporting regularly every phase of the denominational program.

The church announces revival services to be held January 30–February 5, services each evening at 7:30. The Rev. Ronald Creech, pastor of the First Free Will Baptist Church, Florence, South Carolina, will be the evangelist.

NATIONAL BOARD REPORTS

Do you study the reports of our national boards as they appear in The Free Will Baptist? We are publishing them that you may be informed as to how each department is being supported from the field. We are receiving reports from some boards and departments monthly and publishing them as such; others, we publish as we receive them. It is our hope that all national boards and departments will send us monthly reports so that we can pass the information on to our people. We are persuaded that, when crises appear in any departments, our people will rally to fill the need if they know it. And when victories are won, our people should have the privilege of rejoicing and thanking God for making success possible. This is one of the services The Free Will Baptist hopes to render to the denomination and to its several boards and departments.

A fine example of what such reports reveal may be found in recent reports of the Foreign Mission Department. The November report showed that the department had to dip into its reserve funds in the amount of $1,277.10 to meet its monthly obligation. In other words, offerings from the field lacked that much meeting November obligations. On the other hand, the December report, published last week, shows that our people gave generously to foreign missions during December, enough to pay monthly expenses and increase the reserve from $8,567.57 to $12,246.88. This means that, during December, our people gave enough money to foreign missions to amount $3,679.31 above the expenses of the department for the month. This is indeed cause for great rejoicing and thanksgiving to God.

The December foreign mission report further shows that the following states oversubscribed their quotas for the first six months of the National Association budget period: Alabama, Arkansas, Michigan, North Carolina, Ohio and South Carolina. Congratulations and commendation are certainly in order to pastors, churches and people in these states for having done an excellent job. However, because the other states did not meet or oversubscribe their quotas, we lacked $5,903.04 meeting the total budget requirements for the six months' period.

Elsewhere in this issue you will see that during the July-December period of 1955 the Foreign Mission Department received $6,174.66 more from the field than it did for the same period in 1954. This is truly encouraging, and it is as it should be. We must continue to expand the department in obedience to the Great Commission of our Lord. New missionaries are waiting now to sail to foreign fields to join those already there, and we must give of our means to support them. Let us pray earnestly that God may call others to join the ranks of those on the fields and those already preparing to go. As we pray for laborers, let us also pray that the Lord may bless us with the means and the will to supply their material needs as they go to proclaim the truth to those who have never heard.

We are sure that you join us in expressing deep appreciation to Rev. Raymond Riggs, promotional secretary of foreign missions, together with his office help, for not only proving faithful to the cause of foreign missions but also for being so diligent in supplying material for The Free Will Baptist. You are kept informed as to our foreign missionary work because the foreign mission office is diligent in sending regularly the news from that department which we pass on to you.

We call attention also to the report of National Superannuation which appears elsewhere in this issue. This report for the first six months of the budget period reveals that offerings during the period exceeded expenses by $1.13. We feel that this is somewhat a victory in that the board, with very little funds, employed its first promotional secretary and has managed to operate this far on funds received from the field. However, in order to make possible the employment of the promotional secretary the board was forced to invoke the emergency clause in its authorization from the National Association. In this action the board is asking the church or charge of the insured minister to pay the board's half of his premium until board funds will warrant its resumption of the obligation.

Let us hope and pray that the superannuation program will be supported from the field well enough during the next six months that the superannuation board can resume payment of its half of all premiums. The future of the superannuation program depends upon the reception given it on the field. We are of the opinion that the next six months will determine whether or not the program can continue its important service.

You will notice that two states, Alabama and Florida, oversubscribed their quotas for superannuation during the six months' budget period. These are the two states in which the promotional secretary, Rev. K. V. Shutes, conducted itineraries. The pastors and churches of other states should take notice of this fact and invite the promotional secretary to come to them. He will be of great service to the program in general, and will be used of the Lord to help these states meet their quotas.

We have not received recent reports from either the Bible College or the Home Missions Department. Our last reports from these enterprises were not too encouraging. However, it is our hope and prayer that they have increased support from the field and that they are now receiving money enough to more than meet their obligations.

MARTYRED MISSIONARIES

We join with Christians everywhere in mourning the death of the five evangelical missionaries who gave their lives for Christ and the gospel in the jungles of Ecuador on January 8, 1956. They were killed by uncivilized Aucas Indians after they had landed by plane and set up quarters among the Aucas.

Reports say that one of the missionaries had established short wave radio contact with his wife on the morning of January 8. Then at 4:00 p. m. of the same day, in a radio broadcast, he said that he saw a group of Aucas approaching the building. At that point the contact was broken and the missionaries presumably killed.

On January 13 all the bodies of the missionaries were located by a United States Air Force unit. They were buried on the spot of their martyrdom at the request of their wives.

A "Five Missionary Martyrs Fund" has been set up for support of the families of the missionaries. Contributions may be sent to Five Missionary Martyrs Fund, Box 385, Washington, D. C.

Finish every day and be done with it. You have done what you could; some blunders and absurdities have crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; you shall begin it well and serenely and with too high a spirit to be encumbered with your old nonsense.—Emerson.

Pressed out of Measure

Naaman Borders
Waverly, Ohio

AT one time in the life of Saint Paul, he has so many persecutions and hardships that he said he was pressed out of measure. Let us compare some of his trials with what preachers have to undergo in this present day. If we had to suffer one half as much, I suppose we would throw up our hands and quit, saying it's not worth the price we have to pay.

Paul belonged to the upper class of Jews, the Pharisees, and had the best of education that their schools could give him. But when he was converted, this bunch of high brows ostracized him, and had nothing to do with him. Not only that, but they sought to do away with him altogether. Forty men bound themselves with an oath that they would neither eat nor drink until they had slain him. But he escaped out of their hands during the night by being let down over the wall of the city in a basket. When he sought to join the church at Jerusalem, they feared his sincerity and refused to accept him, but none of these things moved him. Paul felt that woe was unto him if he preached not the gospel. Five times he suffered forty stripes (save one) from the Jews, thrice was beaten with rods, once was stoned, thrice was shipwrecked and suffered many times in perils of the sea, perils of the wilderness, perils of robbers and perils among false brethren. Besides these things and many others, Paul labored in the care of all the churches.

THE FREE WILL BAPTIST

After these hardships Paul said, "For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory" (2 Corinthians 4:17). So Paul was saying that the glory that was to follow far outweighed all his sufferings on earth. If someone should have asked him, "Since your own countrymen are not more appreciative of your work, aren't you ready to quit and give up?" But Paul said, "... woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!" (1 Corinthians 9:16). He said, "We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; Persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed" (2 Corinthians 4:8, 9). So in every trouble, Paul only counteracted it with hope. For every negative his persecutors hurled at him, he had an answer in the affirmative. Though his outward man perished, the inward man was renewed day by day. The glory which he saw in the future outweighed all his afflictions. He said, "Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God" (2 Corinthians 3:5). Above and beyond all his troubles, Paul had a thorn in the flesh which plagued him wherever he went.

Some of the upper crust might have asked him, "Aren't you ashamed to leave all the people of your high standing and condescend to the despised and persecuted disciples of the lowly Nazarene?" But I can hear him as he said, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; ..." (Romans 1:16). Paul had his mind made up. Nothing could separate him from the love of God; nothing could move him.

Paul had no resentment against his false brethren for he said, "... forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 3:13, 14). He would not permit envy or jealousy to spoil the joy of his salvation. He knew that if he went forth weeping and sowing precious seed that he would doubtless come rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him. He never would look back and ponder over his persecutions and let resentment corrode his mind, but he always looked forward to the crown of life that awaited him. Paul said, "Therefore seeing we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we faint not" (2 Corinthians 4:1). Again he said, "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens" (2 Corinthians 5:1). I can picture Paul in his old age, while in prison bound with chains for preaching the gospel, sitting in his cold cell with his gray locks resting on his stooped shoulders and tears running down his cheeks, writing to his brethren, and saying, "Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved. For I bear them record that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge" (Romans 10:1, 2).

It seems that Paul, everywhere he preached, either had a great revival or stirred up a riot. He was not satisfied to soft pedal or soft soap the crowd. Some differed from him, yes, but when the proper time came he would pour on the oil and set them afire. When he met Elymas, the sorcerer, who tried to hinder the Word of God from being preached to the deputy of the island, Paul being full of the Holy Ghost fastened his eyes on him and said, "... O full of all subtilty and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord? And now, behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season" (Acts 13:10, 11). But remember brethren, it was the Holy Ghost who prompted Paul to speak such words, and not himself. So when you rebuke anyone, be sure that the Spirit prompts you, otherwise you will only make matters worse.

We have just barely touched on Paul's life, but to bring out his fervor and enthusiasm in preaching the gospel of Christ, we would have to do much studying together. Paul's story puts all ministers to shame who claim they have not been appreciated as they should be. Paul minimized his own sufferings and magnified his Lord, knowing that his trials and troubles were nothing compared to the glory that should follow. Thus the sweetest of all Paul's words were, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them that love his appearing" (2 Timothy 4:7, 8).

Missionary Reviews - 1955

Laura Belle Barnard

THE Old Year is ending and Christmas hastens on. I expect all of us are profitably reviewing the year. 1955 has been a year set apart in my experience. Last Christmas season had brought unusually rich blessing in fellowship with our humble Indian Christian family, and the Bible Conference and evangelistic meetings immediately following had ended with a glad harvest of souls. We were terrifically aware then that 1955 was to be a marked year.

Then came the crisis when our old school-cum-church building had to be demolished and a larger structure erected to meet government regulations (and our own conscience) for our growing school. This was a task much beyond my small range of knowledge and ability, and I know wisdom would have to be given step by step. With humble thankfulness I recall how the Lord sent along one missionary brother with wide experience of building in India, just when I was getting the plan and estimate drawn up. His wise and willing counsel in the outset was a blessing, direct from the Lord. And so, throughout the six months of demolishing, excavation and building, and the further one and one-half months of furnishing and finishing, the Lord gave the needed help. We dedicated the church on September 11, and Brother Carlisle Hanna used Psalm 127:1 as a text for his part of the service: "Except the LORD build the house they labour in vain that build it. . . ." I knew, as no one else could have known, how literally true it was that God Himself had built that house! And then the Indian brother clinched this message with John 10:22, 23, ". . . it was . . . the feast of the dedication, . . . And Jesus walked in the temple . . ." I believe it is true to say that all of us felt the presence of our Lord on our Dedication Day, walking about in our midst in the house He had built. And we felt then, as we do three months later, that it was not built in vain.

But we set out to build a school. How did we end up dedicating it as a church? This, too, is a blessing that sets this year apart. After we had gotten well under way with the building program a servant of God poured out her sweet liniment on His feet in giving us one-half acre of land with a fine school building all ready for use, even to blackboards built in the walls! A much larger building with many more conveniences than we had set out to build for ourselves, and a playground we had dreamed of but had not dared to hope for! So, by this miracle the would-have-been school building became a church! We have now a nice church building and a beautifully adequate school, one across the road in front of our residence, the other up the path at the back.

For two months, after beginning to demolish, we had the entire school in our residence, giving up space for five classes daily. Then for the entire six-month period it was necessary to continue with the church service, Sunday school, and all other meetings here. This meant even more rooms for Sunday school. It taught us a good many valuable lessons—and no doubt it was ourselves the Lord was wanting to teach, more than the school children! It was a precious experience, and the Lord tempered the noise of the children and other annoyances, so much so that we felt a little pained when outsiders asked how we could bear it? Then when God's child came along and gave the beautiful school building and campus, we felt we had given so little and He so much.

The Annual Harvest Festival was held in the new church on Saturday, the 10, preceding dedication on the 11. Although offerings from this service were smaller than last year, we were aware that during the year our people had advanced much in the grace of giving and there had been a steady increase in number of tithers. Also, a fine spirit of giving had been shown in other connections. Moreover, it was gratifying to see the men of the congregation undertake gladly and efficiently the collecting of harvest gifts, arranging them on attractive display, and afterwards conducting the auction in the open air. At the close we sent one hundred and thirty rupees to the Bible Society. A lovely detail of the festival concerns a 12 year old Hindu boy who in return for a kindness he had done, had a half-rupee as a tip. His conscience would not let him receive pay for an act of kindness, and so he brought the coin in an envelope carefully labeled, and presented it as a harvest offering to help distribute Bibles to the world.

One of our boys, Wilson-Raj, having completed a Bible training course in April, is now doing a fine pioneer work in nearby villages of his own caste and language. He has persevered with groups of jungle children untouched by a school and other civilized influences trying to teach at least a few in each village to read so that these villages may have the witness of the written Word. Also, he has tried hard to teach adults to read. All this is a tedious effort, especially when evildoers come to the villages and spread false rumors that the teacher has a political connection and aims to deceive them. More than once he has gone eight miles to meet his class to find not a child in the village. Once they had even destroyed the brush arbor school which they had built for this use. Often we find someone has frightened them in this way, and the lad has to start from scratch again and tediously rebuild, not only the arbor but attendance is near impossible at best. In one village only four boys are regular, but these are justly proud of their progress and they read and wrote their lessons before me with great satisfaction. I wondered if I would have the grace and patience to persevere against odds as this teacher-preacher has done. He is one of the blessings God has given us this year, and we feel that when our little church (the spiritual building) produces the like of him it is on a solid rock.

Then we have, over and over again, seen the Lord at work in answer to the united prayers of the church. There was the 16 year old lad who was enticed away by false teachers, and who in a spectacular way was watched over through severe testings of hunger and pain and attempts to pervert his faith, and was delivered back to his parents with a stronger faith, in answer to united prayer. A woman, demon possessed, was delivered from thralldom as the church prayed. A piece of land adjoining our church compound was critically needed to safeguard our new building and to give us a suitable access to it. Owned by a man of the Kota Tribe, an unbeliever caring for nothing but material gain, it had been a government grant to the tribe and this portion always held by one family, handed down from generation to generation. A miracle therefore was needed to break down sentiment against parting with it and also to cause the man to agree to a moderate price. A second miracle was needed to provide the money for purchasing. As in simple confidence the group prayed and expected, both miracles were performed. The owner was invited to a special business meeting of members and there he told the group he had heard they were praying God would give the land, and that he had not been able to resist those prayers. We are now asking for his soul, and those of the Kota Tribe to whom we have witnessed so long, apparently in vain.

Not least of all, the great things God has done this year is the conversion of Santham, our 12 year old girl, left on our doorstep as a one and one-half year old baby ten years ago. I quote from a recent letter written from her boarding school: "October 15 was my spiritual birthday. That day I opened my heart to Jesus and was born again. Pray for me in my school work. I am now happy with the girls in the school, and Jane and I don't quarrel any more." Keep her in your prayers for India and for God's glory.

sound like the pain of a million broken hearts wrung out in one full drop, one sob. And a horror of great darkness was upon me, for I knew what it was—the cry of the blood.

"Then thundered a Voice, the voice of the Lord, and He said, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, here am I, send me. And He said, Go and tell this people. . . . Jesus said, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature . . . and lo, I am with you always" (Isaiah 6:8; Mark 16:15; Matthew 28:20).—Prairie Book Room.

One Jungle Night

Amy W. Carmichael

THE tom-toms thumped on all night, and the darkness shuddered round me like a living, feeling thing. I could not go to sleep, so I lay awake and looked; and I saw, and it seemed like this:

That I stood on a grassy sward, and at my feet a precipice broke sheer down into infinite space. I looked, but saw no bottom, only cloud shapes, black and furiously coiled, and great shadow-shrouded hollows, and unfathomable depths. Back I drew, dizzy at the depth.

Then I saw forms of people moving single-file along the grass. They were making for the edge. There was a woman with a baby in her arms and another little child holding on to her dress. She was on the very verge. Then I saw that she was blind. She lifted her foot for the next step . . . it trod air. She was over, and the children over with her. Oh, the cry as they went over!

Then I saw more streams of people flowing from all quarters. All were blind, stone blind, all made straight for the precipice edge. There were shrieks as they suddenly knew themselves falling, and a tossing up of helpless arms, catching, clutching at empty air. But some went over quietly and fell without a sound.

Then I wondered, with a wonder that was simply agony, why no one stopped them at the edge. I could not. I was glued to the ground, and I could not call. Though I strained and tried, only a whisper would come.

Then I saw that along the edge there were sentries set at intervals. But the intervals were far too great; there were wide, unguarded gaps between. And over these gaps the people fell in their blindness, quite unwarned; and the green grass seemed blood-red to me, and the gulf yawned like the mouth of hell.

Then I saw, like the picture of peace, a group of people under some trees, with their backs turned toward the gulf. They were making daisy chains. Sometimes when a piercing shriek cut the quiet air and reached them, it disturbed them and they thought it rather a vulgar noise. And if one of their number started up and wanted to go and do something to help, then all the others would pull that one down. "Why should you get so excited about it? You must wait for a definite 'call' to go. You haven't finished your daisy chains. It would be really selfish," they said, "to leave us to finish the work alone."

There was another group. It was made up of people whose great desire was to get some sentries out, but they found that very few wanted to go, and sometimes there were no sentries for miles and miles at the edge.

Once a girl stood alone in her place, waving the people back, but her mother and other relations called, and reminded her that her furlough was due; she must not break the "rules." And, being tired and needing a change, she had to go and rest awhile; but no one was sent to guard her gap, and over and over the people fell, like a waterfall of souls.

Once a child caught at the tuft of grass that grew at the very brink of the gulf; the child clung convulsively, and it called but nobody seemed to hear. Then the roots of the grass gave way, and with a cry the child went over, its two little hands still holding tight to the torn-off bunch of grass.

And the girl who longed to be back in her gap thought she heard the little one cry, and she sprang up and wanted to go, at which her relatives reproved her, reminding her that no one is necessary anywhere—the gap would be well taken care of, they knew. And they sang a hymn.

Then through the hymn came another

The Poor Rich Banker

S. J. Grabill

ONE year, just a few weeks before Christmas, a rich banker in the West sent a large check to his brother in the East, who was a poor country preacher, telling him to come, bringing all his family with him, and spend Christmas in the West. The brothers had not seen each other since boyhood. The preacher and his family arrived on the morning of Christmas Eve. That afternoon, the two families drove in carriages over the banker's beautiful farm of a thousand acres of rich land. Coming back late in the afternoon, they passed the pasture where they saw the banker's beautiful herd of fine cattle. After a delicious supper, served in the banker's fine home, the banker's beautiful daughters gave some splendid music, and then the two families went up-stairs to sleep. The two white-haired brothers, the rich banker and the poor country preacher, remained downstairs by the fireside where they talked for hours of the years gone by; of their boyhood days, and of their country home in the East. At last there was a pause in the conversation. Finally the banker turned and said, "Brother John, if I say something to you, you will not be angry, will you?" The preacher replied, "James, you may say anything to me and I will not get angry." Then the banker said, "Brother John, when you and I were poor boys back in the old country home, we agreed to be partners for life. One day, however, you came to me and told me that you were called to preach. I told you then that you were a fool. What a fool you have been! Today, you have seen my beautiful farm, my pure-bred cattle, my fine home; you have seen how beautifully my daughters dress, and how well they sing and play. What have you? You are poor. Your daughters are dressed so shabbily that I am ashamed for my neighbors to see my children's cousins. (Continued on page sixteen)

Lee's Chapel Adds Two Deacons to the Board

Guyton Altman and Earl Godwin were ordained and commissioned in a beautiful service at Lee's Chapel Church on January 22, 1956, at the morning worship service. Rev. A. B. Bryan, pastor of the church spoke on the subject, "The Deacon, His Place and Purpose in A Free Will Baptist Church," after which the two deacons were ordained by the pastor. A pledge of support and the right hand of fellowship was then extended the entire board.

Several people in the congregation expressed the opinion that this was the most spiritual meeting the congregation had enjoyed in several months.

Rev. Bryan in his message appealed to the congregation to "respect the past with hats off and thanksgiving and accept the future with coats off and sleeves up, as there is plenty to do for all in the great commission."

Lee's Chapel has had a progressive church program, and at the present the Sunday school space, consisting of eight rooms and the auditorium, is overcrowded and the church at present is constructing a 30 by 60 foot educational building which will house the junior department of the school when completed.

Wilson N. C., League Holds Monthly Meeting

The Free Will Baptist League of the Free Will Baptist Church in Wilson, North Carolina, held its monthly meeting on Tuesday night, January 17, 1956, in the fellowship hall of the church.

The meeting was opened by the group singing, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," led by Rev. Earl H. Glenn, and followed with prayer by Mrs. H. P. Vick. Old and new business was discussed. Miss Colleen Murray was elected to succeed Mrs. Bill Jones as secretary-treasurer of the league. Plans were made to have an annual league rally and fellowship supper. As a project, the league members decided to go to the Free Will Baptist Orphanage at Middlesex, North Carolina, this summer and take ice cream to the boys and girls there.

The meeting then adjourned and Mrs. W. B. Bunn then took charge, leading the league in a social hour, during which prizes were won by Miss Colleen Murray, Mr. Henry Mitchell and Mr. Matthew Davis. Refreshments were then served by Mr. Matthew Davis and Mr. W. B. Bunn.

Cramerton Church Has High Attendance

The Cramerton Free Will Baptist Church, Cramerton, North Carolina, reports that the average attendance in its Sunday school is now 350. According to the reporter, Mrs. Marie Martin, the school has 21 classes at the present and more rooms are available for new classes if the occasion arises. The superintendent is Horace Shoemaker, and he has as his assistants, Joe Starrett and Ralph King.

Mrs. Martin reports that the following deacons were installed at a recent conference of the church: Percival Parris, Bill Martin and Horace Shoemaker, with Ben C. Pittman, serving as chairman. A Hammond organ was recently installed in the church and Mrs. Jimmy Huffman assumed the duty of organist. Mrs. Bobby Rikard serves as pianist, Ben Bailey plays an electric guitar and Don Smith plays a regular guitar. Mrs. Martin states, "On each fifth Sunday evening we have a program of just singing." Rev Roy L. Rikard is pastor of the church.

Ministers' Wives Hold Meeting

The ministers' wives of the South Carolina Conference met January 20 at the Mrs. Everette Bryan; program chairman, Oak Grove school, Florence County, South Carolina.

There were thirteen members present. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Edison Kirby. Minutes of the last meeting were read and the roll was called by Mrs. M. H. Melette. Two new members were added. The offering amounted to $5.75. Officers for the new year were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Rufus Coffey; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Eugene Waddell; prayer leader, Mrs. Juluis Vause.

Mrs. M. H. Melette was in charge of the prayer time in which many made requests and the prayers were led by Mrs. W. L. Jernigan.

Mrs. Eugene Waddell had charge of a very interesting program with everyone participating. The program consisted of a Bible quiz; topic, "Preachers' Children Can Love the Church" by Mrs. Juluis Vause; and problems met with in the local church were presented and possible solutions were given.

A lesson was brought on "The Pastor's Wife as a Homemaker" by Mrs. Ronald Creech. The meeting was dismissed in prayer by Mrs. Juluis Vause.

"You're Missing So Much"

An Incident from Life

John L. Peters

"Honestly, fellow, I don't see what you get out of life. You say, as a Christian, you're happy, but you're missing so much."

The speaker was a young man of rather pleasing personality, but dissolute habits, a college graduate and the holder of a promising position. His listener and fellow employee simply replied, "I wonder."

A month passed. The holiday season came and ended. Work was resumed but the first young man did not report for duty. When finally the locked door of his bedroom was battered down, he was found sprawled on the floor amid empty liquor bottles—dead.

The grim news came to the office. "Yes," soberly reflected the young Christian, "I'm missing a lot."—Selected.

THE great man, Solomon, was once a little baby in his mother's lap, innocent, helpless, without knowledge, without purpose, and without character—a blank to be filled, character to be moulded. Notice the life of those that had this great responsibility, his parents. His mother had let Satan use her as an instrument through which he could cause David to do that which would make him leave her husband killed. They both suffered for these two crimes. She lost her baby and her husband; David lost a friend, a baby and that sweet fellowship that he had been having with the Father these many years. Just study the fifty-first Psalm as a confession from David to God for the great crime that he had committed and it will give you some idea as to what he suffered. Then begin with the twelfth chapter of 2 Samuel and read the rest of that book; see it nearly as imagination can show you what that little bit of pleasure did cost them. Yes, they were both to blame.

I hear people wanting to excuse themselves for not being what they know they ought to be by saying, "Look at what David did! He was a man after God's own heart." I wonder if they want to pay for their little bit of pleasure as David did. There is nothing like considering the cost.

David was a great soldier, the one that slew the giant who defied the armies of Israel. He was a great warrior and a great king; but he made a great mistake that caused him a great deal of trouble, and it has had its effect in the world ever since. As a father, he let Satan use him in influencing him to have a plurality of wives, and in moulding the character of his children, that made its impression in their lives. We know about only four of them, of whom Solomon was the greatest. He came to be the wisest and the greatest of all the kings of his day, but the impression that David made in his mind with the plurality of wives, while moulding his character, had its effect and overcame all of his wisdom and greatness in later years; it caused him to let his wives and their gods get between him and his God. Therefore, we have this expression, "For it came to pass, when Solomon was old, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods: and his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father. . . . And the LORD was angry with Solomon, because his heart was turned from the LORD God of Israel, which had appeared unto him twice, And had commanded him concerning this thing, that he should not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded. Wherefore the LORD said unto Solomon, Forasmuch as this is done of thee, and thou hast not kept my covenant and my statutes, which I have commanded thee, I will surely rend the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant" (1 Kings 11:4, 9-11).

This should be a great lesson to us as parents today. The little children are not only precious to us when they enter our home, but are precious to the Father, and we are responsible to Him for them. They are blank when they come into the world, and have no knowledge, purpose, nor character; they are dependent on us as their parents for their teaching. The kind of teaching we give them determines the kind of knowledge they get; the kind of knowledge they get determines the kind of character they will have; the kind of character they have will determine the kind of life they will live; the kind of life they live will determine where they will spend eternity. This being true, there is nothing more important than for us to know what we are doing when we start teaching our children; for what we teach them is going to have its effect in their lives later.

David was a great military leader and a great king, but according to Bible record, he failed badly in his home, which is the most important place for us to succeed. I believe that if we, as parents, will get Christ in our lives and in our homes Satan will not be able to get in and do his deceptive work that has torn up so many homes and lives and made them both a failure. This is where David failed. He did not get Christ in his home and keep Him there. During Christ's absence Satan stepped in and took David and used him not only to make his home a failure, but to ruin another home.

In conclusion, let me warn you, dear reader, to be sure that you know whom you are serving, for Christ said Satan would deceive the very elect if possible. We know that he deceived the Pharisees and caused them to believe that he was God. In 1 Peter 5:8 he warned them, "Be sober, be vigilant; because your ad-

CARD OF THANKS

"I would like to thank the several auxiliaries and the individuals from which I received such nice Christmas cards and gifts. It was especially heart-warming since I am left alone in my home. It is so comforting to be remembered by friends. May God bless your Christian spirit is my prayer."—Mrs. Duffy Toler, Washington, North Carolina.

NAMES AND ADDRESSES WANTED

"I would appreciate anyone's writing me and giving me the names and addresses of Free Will Baptists in Flint, Michigan, who are not attending a Free Will Baptist Church.

"The Free Will Baptist is a fine paper. I hope soon to get about ten to twenty new subscriptions for the paper from the people who attend my church."—Henry Litteral, 1036 West 12th Street, Flint, Michigan.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: I grew up among those who believed that water baptism by immersion is essential to salvation. I accept your view that it is essential unto obedience and not to salvation, but at times I find myself in my former opinion, that is, believing that no one can be saved apart from being immersed into water. Please give Scriptures and explain your view in full.—G. C. O.

Answer: Water baptism is a symbol of that which took place in the experience of each of us when we became Christians, something that has already taken place in the life of a believer when the rite of water baptism is administered. "For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body; so also is Christ. For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have been all made to drink into one Spirit" (1 Corinthians 12:12, 13). There are a number of Scriptures which make it clear that believing in Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour is the only thing required of a sinner, in which act he becomes a saint, a Christian, a born again or saved person whichever you may call it. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16); "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John 3:36); "And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house" (Acts 16:31).

When a person, by his attitude toward Jesus, gives the correct answer to Pilate's question, "... What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? ..." (Matthew 27:22), he has met the requirement that assures him of his personal salvation. He is thereby saved from the penalty of sin because this is what Christ died on the Cross to make possible. Then each day, even each moment, yea every second that he walks obediently before Christ, he is being saved from the power of sin. Submitting to water baptism, partaking of the Lord's Supper, washing the saints' feet, reading the Bible, winning souls, doing one's share in the activities of the church, etc., are good works and required of every Christian as means of growing in grace, but are not in the initial step of salvation. When one has been obedient and met the requirements in the first two stages of salvation he is finally saved from the presence of sin as he is ushered into the presence of Christ in his new glorified body which is like unto the body that Christ now appears with on the right hand of God the Father. "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death; that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection: Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin" (Romans 6:3-6).

In Acts 8:37 Philip required that the Ethiopian eunuch believe with his whole heart. At this request the Ethiopian confessed saying, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." He was saved from the penalty of sin before he went into the water. The act of going into the water was Christian obedience or good works and a means of saving him from the power of sin. In Acts 8:12 we have both men and women baptized after they believed. In Acts 10:47 the candidates were baptized after receiving the Holy Spirit. In Acts 18:8 we are given the names of some of the many Corinthians who first believed and then were baptized.

If we heed Paul's words in the first chapter of first Corinthians we shall see that something else comes before baptism in one's salvation. "I thank God that I baptized none of you but Crispus and Gaius; Lest any should say that I had baptized in mine own name. And I baptized also the household of Stephanas: besides, I know not whether I baptized any other. For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel: ..." (1 Corinthians 1:14-17). See Galatians 3:27; Colossians 2:12.

In Christ's discourse to Nicodemus He made it clear in John 3:3-21 that the one and only essential unto salvation is believing in Jesus, the prerequisite to this new birth. Note Verse 15, "... whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life"; and in Verse 16, "... whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life"; and in Verse 18, "He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God."

When these, with many other Scriptures, are considered together with their context, it seems unreasonable to me that anyone would assume that baptism before the new birth is valid as a means to salvation. The instant one believes he is saved, so far as the initial act of salvation is concerned. Continuing to believe he walks obediently, he keeps the commandments of Christ. One of the commandments of Christ requires that all His believing creatures should be baptized.

The Sunday Stone

In some of the coal mining districts of England there is found a curious deposit that miners call the "Sunday stone." It is composed of layers of stalagmitic matter regularly superimposed on each other. The peculiarity of the stone is that there invariably will be six black layers and then one of pure white. The explanation of this remarkable formation is easy. Down in the coal mine, water, filtering through the limestone roof, becomes thick with carbonate of lime. Dropping on the floor in a continual trickle, this forms a deposit. While the miners are at work, the coal dust which fills the atmosphere mingles with the water to form a blackish hue. But when the day of rest comes round, on which the mine is quiet, the water, having nothing to soil its purity, deposits a layer of beautifully white material.

We find recurring in the course of the world's events the white marked day. Six days the dust of the world's business darkens. The Sabbath (Sunday) is the beautifully white material.—Selected.

If there were no difficulties, there would be no triumphs.

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path (PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"Wherein he hath abounded toward us in all wisdom and prudence" (Ephesians 1:8).

The wisdom of God is displayed in all the works of His hands. His wisdom is seen in the arrangement of the material universe. Every advancement in physical science makes it more conspicuous. The intellectual universe is a mirror which reflects the divine wisdom. The silent, yet sublime operations of providence show that God is wise. But the plan of redemption through Jesus Christ gives a display of the wisdom of God which eclipses all others. In this plan His grace abounds toward us in all wisdom and prudence. It seems as if the apostle had said, "All wisdom is seen here." In the seventh verse we read, "In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace." All the elements of wisdom are here brought into a wondrous combination for the redemption of us through His blood by the forgiveness of our sins.

In God's plan of redemption His wisdom is manifested in a number of ways. It is to be seen in the making of the law and justice harmonize with mercy. Man's ruin was brought upon him by violation of the law. The law, therefore, must pronounce its sentence of condemnation. Its curse hangs over the transgressor. Justice demands its infliction. The law knows nothing of mercy. The Cross makes law and justice approve the salvation of sinners through the blood of its divine Sufferer. The sacrifice of Christ does this, and therefore the exercise of mercy to the transgressors is harmonious with the honor of the law. Here we see the wisdom of God in His scheme of redemption.

God's wisdom is seen in manifesting of divine love to sinners, and His hatred of their sins. God's love to man is, in redemption, displayed in an infinitely remarkable manner. Who would have supposed that Jesus Christ would have given up all the glories of heaven for poverty, reproach and suffering? Who would have thought that the Lord of life would exchange a throne for a Cross, and become the unresisting victim of death? Could divine love go farther? Could there have been a sublimer demonstration of God's love to sinners? Here truly, "... God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). And this love to sinners was displayed in connection with infinite abhorrence of their sins. Else why was Jesus required to drink the cup of atoning sorrow? Here is boundless wisdom. Here is infinite prudence. Love and hatred reign in the divine bosom. The transactions of Calvary indicate that love to sinners and hatred of their sins are precisely equal in their energy of operation. Oh, the wisdom of God!

The wisdom of God is seen in making the Saviour's death, instigated by Satan, the means of destroying Satan's empire. The devil put it into the heart of Judas to betray the Redeemer into the hands of sinners. He prompted the Jews, with clamorous importunity, to demand His death. Under his influence Pilate, though convinced of the innocence of the "man of sorrows," pronounced sentence against Him. But Jesus was manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil. In His death He "bruised the head of the serpent." Sin was the devil's great work, and Jesus came to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself. His death on the Cross was indispensable to the overturning of Satan's empire. His triumph will grow out of His Cross. How unsearchable is the wisdom of God in redemption!

A. Revelation (Vs. 14)

God whispers the secrets of His love to His own children.

B. Rescue (Vv. 15, 16)

God may not always keep us out of the snare, but He will finally deliver us.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Ina Harding

We of the West Wayne Free Will Baptist Church of Wayne, Michigan, wish to express our deep feeling of sympathy to the family of our dear sister, Ina Harding, who passed away at her home on Grace Street, Friday, January 13, 1956, at 1:00 a. m. She was a faithful member of the West Wayne Church for a period of years and had a real testimony for Christ.

We who knew and loved her so much find it unbelievable that she won't be found in her seat in church on Sundays. Though she won't be with us here again, how wonderful it is that we can meet her again! Words and flowers seem such a small tribute at this time, but there's no other way we can express our sympathy for this hour. We again wish to say that our loss is heaven's gain, and this should give us a greater determination to see for ourselves what heaven is like.

So many times we have heard her request, "An Empty Mansion," to be sung. We know that mansion is not empty now. And we who do His will may have one there beside her someday.

Members of West Wayne Church

Mary Lou Moye

Just a year ago, though it seems like longer, we had the beautiful, smiling face of Mary Lou Moye with us. Now this is just a memory. On January 25, 1955, God saw fit to take Mary Lou. She was born in Greene County, North Carolina, on October 3, 1936. She was a member of Ormondsville Free Will Baptist Church and graduated from Maury High School in May of 1954. Mary Lou was an active member of her church, Sunday school and all respectable activities. After finishing high school, she started to college at Greenville, North Carolina, where she attended only three weeks before she was taken sick. After many tests, the doctors diagnosed the case as leukemia on September 23, 1954. Her father, mother, doctors and many friends did everything in their power for her, but to no avail. For four months she made frequent visits to the hospital for blood transfusions. Her last three weeks were spent in bed. On January 25, 1955, at General Memorial Hospital in Kinston, North Carolina, Mary Lou quietly passed away at 12:45 a. m. She left behind her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Moye of Route 1, Snow Hill, North Carolina; and three brothers, Ray of the Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tennessee; A. L. of East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina, and Robert Lee of the home.

On January 27 the body of Mary Lou was laid to rest in the Snow Hill Cemetery. The Rev. Clifton Rice and Rev. C. L. Patrick conducted the funeral at Ormondsville Free Will Baptist Church, Ormondsville, North Carolina.

Mary Lou was the kind of person to comfort you in time of trouble and to rejoice with you in times of joy. I, as well as all of her friends, loved her very much. Along with her smiling face and her friendliness, Mary Lou was a beautiful girl. I am sure that she has gone to meet her Creator. She testified to be a Christian by her everyday life, and when Rev. Rice talked to her she said, "Yes, Mr. Rice, I am sure I'm saved." Thus we know that our loss is heaven's gain.

May her loved ones and friends grow in grace as they live the kind of life

V. POWER (Vv. 17-22)

A. Restoration (Vv. 17-20)

When the darkest hour comes, He will be near to keep us through its watches and to restore us in the morning.

B. Redemption (Vv. 21, 22)

Out of every testing He will bring us triumphant.

A PENITENTIAL PRAYER

Psalm 6

I. DISTRESS (Vv. 1-5)

A. Petition (Vv. 1-3)

We are all conscious, at times, that we need to be rebuked for shortcomings. In such hours we can always appeal for mercy to the Lord and be sure that we shall have a hearing and receive forgiveness.

B. Plea (Vv. 4, 5)

A consciousness of God's presence always heals the hurts of life, and to live in the secret of His presence is to be immune from the plottings of man or the things which distress the ungodly.

II. DESPAIR (Vv. 6, 7)

A. Weary (Vs. 6)

There is no name for God in this passage, and so we have a picture of the sinner, unforgiven and unredeemed in the world.

B. Worn (Vs. 7)

So is the plight of the sinner, "without God and without hope." It is made worse by the realization that he is spent beyond recovery so far as earthly resources are concerned.

III. DELIVERANCE (Vv. 8-10)

A. Conviction (Vv. 8, 9)

We come back to the name of God again. There is no one thing to drive away gloom like a season of prayer, and nothing that will bring confidence and produce conviction in the soul like answered prayer.

B. Certainty (Vs. 10)

Here is the assurance that God is on the throne.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

PERSEVERANCE OF THE SAINTS (Continued)

"For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame" (Hebrews 6:4-6).

"Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord: Looking diligently lest any man fail of the grace of God; lest any root of bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled; Lest there be any fornicator, or profane person, as Esau, who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright. For ye know how that afterward, what he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: for he found no place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears" (Hebrews 12:14-17).

"And thou, Solomon my son, know thou the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind: for the LORD searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts: if thou seek him, he will be found of thee; but if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off forever" (1 Chronicles 28:9). "Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love. Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent" (Revelations 2:4, 5). "Holding faith, and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck: Of whom is Hymenaeus and Alexander; whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme" (1 Timothy 1:19, 20).

"While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage. For if after they have escaped the pollution of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning. For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them" (2 Peter 2:19-21). "But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved" (Matthew 24:13).

From all the foregoing Scriptures it seems that there is a possibility of falling away from the fellowship with God and making shipwreck of faith and finally being lost forever. God's grace is all sufficient. But as said in the beginning, even though God pardons our sins and gives to us a clean deliverance, or words to this effect, God still leaves us to be free to choose blessings or cursings. We can follow sinful things of life—actually commit sins that will completely separate us from the fellowship of God. We say it is possible but not very probable.

May we go back and think seriously on Hebrews 12:14, "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." Suppose one does not follow holiness, even though he has been forgiven of his sins, actually set free from the guilt of sin. Where will he go if he cannot see the Lord? Would it be possible for that man to be in heaven and not see the Lord? John says, "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7). But suppose we do not walk in the light? Our cleansing is on the condition that we walk in the light. It is dangerous to believe that we are eternally saved and at the same time walk in darkness. Our treatise, along with the Bible, shows that there is danger of falling, but as stated, we have strong grounds for believing that we are safe until the end. Do not get the idea that we believe in salvation by works as many cult religions believe. "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast. For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them" (Ephesians 2:8-10). There is sufficient proof in the Bible to substantiate the fact that there is nothing which a sinner can do to merit salvation save the accepting of the shed blood of the Lord Jesus Christ who paid our sin debt on the Cross when He died, making His soul a sacrifice for our sins.

Paul says, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saves us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; Which he shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour; That being justified by his grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life" (Titus 3:5-7). He also says in Verse 8 to "... maintain good works. . . ."

Free Will Baptists (that is, those whom I have known) believe that we are free to accept Christ, and that we are free to become carnal Christians if we so desire. We do not believe that we are saved because we do something, but because we accept something. That something is the perfect blood of the Lord Jesus Christ. Paul knew more about our salvation than blood rejecters who are so prevalent today. Paul said, "Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us. For if the blood of bulls and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh: How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?" (Hebrews 9:12-14). Thus we learn that if we accept His shed blood we will work to show our faith. Also we show to the world that we do not need a purgatory after death since we are freed by faith in Christ from the guilt of sin—our conscience is purged from dead works. But to keep under the blood is vitally necessary for us to keep being saved from the powers of sin.

Beneath His Smile

His friendship makes up for all trials, His love for the coldness of those who cared for our society in the old days, but who now turn their backs upon us; yes, and His smile is compensation enough for the ventures made for His sake; for He knows what those ventures cost, and could see how the lips trembled as they gave His message, and how loudly the heart beats. Poor, trembling heart, "He knows," never fear. "Thou shalt make me full of joy with Thy countenance."—L. A. Barter Snow.

Blind Bartimaeus - -

Miss Eva Bestley

JERICO was a beautiful city, but when Jesus lived upon earth there were a number of blind people living in it, who had never seen the beautiful flowers and trees which grew there so abundantly, and the bright sunshine filling all hearts with joy; and the fleecy white clouds as they flitted across the blue sky. These blind people earned a living by begging, and among these was Bartimaeus. What a contrast! He had been blind for many years. Every morning he would grope his way through the streets of Jericho, and there in a shady spot just outside the gate of the city, he would beg for alms.

One day the news reached Jericho that a wonderful Man was going from place to place healing sick people, and even giving the blind their sight. Bartimaeus heard people talking about this great Healer as they passed by. But Jesus was then far away, and he was too poor to go to Him to be healed. Then one morning blind Bartimaeus heard the tramp, tramp of many feet on the road. He asked someone standing by what was happening, and he was told that Jesus of Nazareth was passing by. There were many people following the Lord Jesus that day. Some were there because they wanted to hear the gracious words that fell from His lips. But some were following Him just out of idle curiosity. Blind Bartimaeus realized that here was his great opportunity. It had been a dream of his that one day the Lord Jesus would do for Him what He had done for others. Immediately he began to cry out in order that He might attract the attention of Jesus. But the crowd was so great that he felt sure the great Healer would never be able to hear him, or his cry for help. And he began to cry out again, "Jesus, Thou Son of David, have mercy upon me." "Hush! Be quiet," the people in the crowd said to him. But he would not be silenced.

Amid all the noise of the multitude the Saviour heard his cry, and He told one of His disciples to bring the blind man to Him. The crowd, so ready to brush him aside before, was ready to help him now. "Rise! Be of good cheer!" they said, "He calleth for thee." Casting aside the long robe which he wore to protect him from the sun and rain, he made his way to Jesus. "What do you want Me to do for you?" asked Jesus. "Lord, that I may receive my sight," said Bartimaeus. And Jesus touched him, and at once his sight was restored. There were the people. There was the blue sky, the grass green in the valley, and the bright sunshine. And there was the Lord Jesus looking into his face so lovingly. Oh, how grateful Bartimaeus must have been to the Lord Jesus for His loving kindness and tender mercy! —My Pleasure.

Saved By a Lamb

E. J. K. Lindvall

HOW would you like it if all your family were slaves in a foreign country? How would you feel if God sent you to the king, saying, "Set these people free," and the king said, "No." That is what happened to Moses.

All his family and friends, thousands of them, were slaves in Egypt. One day God spoke to him in words something like this: "I know what is happening to My people in Egypt. I know the Egyptians are treating them badly. Come, Moses, I will send you to Pharaoh the king. You will lead My people out of Egypt."

So Moses and his brother Aaron went to see the king. But Pharaoh said, "Who is the Lord that I should obey Him? I will not let Israel go."

Nine times the Lord sent special trouble into the land of Egypt, and nine times the king decided, "No, Moses, these people are my slaves. I will not free them."

Perhaps Moses then began to think, "What was the use in going to the king at all?" But God spoke again. "Moses, I am going to bring one more trouble upon the country of Egypt. This time Pharaoh will let My people go."

Then He told Moses what He would do. One night about twelve o'clock He would pass through Egypt, and when He did the oldest child in every house would die. In that way, God would punish sin.

But wait. God's own people were living in Egypt. How would He protect them? God had a plan.

"Speak to the people," He told Moses. "Tell them to take a perfect lamb away from the other sheep. Tell them to keep it four days." (Each family or two families would take a lamb.) "Then they shall kill the lambs in the evening."

Moses surely must have wondered then, "But how will killing lambs save God's people from death?"

When the Lord finished what He was saying, Moses understood. After the lambs were killed, the people were to take the blood and with it mark the sides and tops of their doors. "For," God said, "I will pass through the land of Egypt this night, and will smite all the firstborn . . . The blood will be a sign on the houses where you are. When I see the blood, I will pass over you."

What was God saying? There would be punishment for sin in Egypt, but those who would mark their doors with the blood of a perfect lamb would be safe from it.

All who believed God did as He had said. They kept a perfect lamb four days to make sure it was perfect. Then they killed it and marked their doors with the blood.

And midnight came. Through all the country the oldest child in every family died, and there was a great cry everywhere. Everywhere? No, not quite. For God had made a promise, and God always keeps His promises. God had promised, "When I see the blood, I will pass over you." Whenever the Lord came to a house that was marked on the door with a lamb's blood, He went over that house, and everyone inside was perfectly safe. No punishment for sin was there.

The king of Egypt, though, had not used the blood of a lamb. In the night he and his servants and all the Egyptians got up. They cried because their oldest children had died. Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron.

"Take your people and go!" he cried.

As quickly as possible Moses and Aaron led the people of Israel out of the country. At last they were free!

This story is in the Bible, and every Bible story has been written down to teach us something. What is this one saying?

One thing God is telling us is that He punishes sin. Do you think He wanted the oldest children in Egypt to die? "I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked," He once said. It never pleases God to punish, but it has to be done. Do you think God wants to shut people away from Him forever? No, but if your sins are not forgiven while you are here on earth, there is nothing else for God to do.

Another thing that He is saying is that you can be safe from the punishment for sin. God made a way, remember, for His people in Egypt to be safe. Little lambs died so Israel could be protected. Have you ever heard the Lord Jesus called the "Lamb of God?" Jesus died so you could be safe from sin's punishment.

It is like this:

What kind of a lamb did the people take? A perfect one. Jesus too, the Lamb of God, is perfect, for He is God.

What happened to the lambs in Egypt? They died. The people might have tied living lambs at their doors, but that would not have saved them from death. The blood of the lambs had to be shed. And what if Jesus had not died? We could never be safe from punishment for sin. Without shedding of blood there is no forgiveness, the Bible says. But Jesus did die for us.

Then what was done with the blood of the lambs? It did the people no good until they used it. So they put it on their doors as God had said to do. When the Lord saw that blood, He kept His promise and saved lives. Jesus Christ died for you, but unless you have accepted Him as your own Saviour, your sins are not forgiven and you are not saved.

One thing more, then, that God is trying to teach you is this: The people who did use the blood were safe. God saw the blood and passed over their houses. For the blood on the doors meant—"the oldest child here is not to die. Something has already died—a lamb."

If you trust in Jesus, God can say of you, "That one shall not die in his sin. Someone has already died in his place—the Lord Jesus."

Think—have you let Christ Jesus be your Saviour?—My Pleasure.

Goldsboro Auxiliary Officers Installed

An installation service was held at First Free Will Baptist Church of Goldsboro for incoming officers of the Woman's Auxiliary on Sunday night, January 8, 1956.

Preceding the installation service a brief devotional was conducted, during which time "Our Best" was rendered as a solo, by Miss Paulette Lambert. She was accompanied at the organ by Miss Mary Frances Johnson.

The altar was adorned with arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, where a burning white candle stood from which each incoming officer was to light her candle.

Mrs. J. R. Davidson gave the charge to the officers, as, one by one, they proceeded to the altar; each lighting her candle and audibly giving her pledge to do her best during her term of office.

The group sang, "To The Work," and Reverend J. R. Davidson, pastor, offered the dedicatory prayer.

The officers are: president, Mrs. J. R. Newton; vice-president, Mrs. W. E. Branch; secretary, Mrs. Gurney Wiggins; treasurer, Miss Gertrude Underhill; program chairman, Mrs. Raymond Howell; orphanage chairman, Mrs. Charlie Malpass; study course chairman, Mrs. Nellie; personal service chairman, Mrs. Frank Rouse; social chairman, Mrs. J. R. Price; youth chairman, Mrs. Ralph Barnes.

Pilgrims Rest Auxiliary Meets

The Woman's Auxiliary of Pilgrims Rest Free Will Baptist Church, Lola, North Carolina, met at the home of Mrs. Claud Day on January 16, 1956, for its regular monthly meeting.

The meeting was called to order by the program chairman, Mrs. Norwood Lupton. The theme for the January program was "We Need to Know God's Word for Such a Time as This." The program was opened by singing "The Haven of Rest" and the Scripture for the evening was Matthew 24. Mrs. Arthur Goodwin led the group in prayer, followed by a special number in song by Mrs. Norwood Lupton entitled, "Drifting." Those taking part on the program were: Mrs. Arthur Goodwin, Mrs. Janet Daniels, Mrs. Claud Day, Ruth Lupton.

After the closing hymn, "Near the Cross," the auxiliary was dismissed in prayer by Mrs. Norwood Lupton. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sam Stryon.

Comparative Figures

From many directions of our denomination the question comes, "How are we doing?" We have both the optimist and the pessimist viewing our denominational setup today, and it is my opinion that our people are intelligent enough to make their own conclusions when they know all the facts. This is the reason we have endeavored to keep the facts and figures of the Foreign Mission Department constantly before you.

The following figures show the income of the Foreign Mission Board during the last six (6) months of the last two years. You will note that we gained $6,174.16 during the last half of 1955 over the same period in 1954. We realize this perhaps should be more, but it could be worse, to say the least.

We are off on a new start in a new year. What your state does for foreign missions depends much upon you.

Tokyo, Japan

Greetings from Japan,

Thousands of miles from home and a wonderful Christmas! This statement sounds contradictory, doesn't it? Americans usually associate Christmas with going home to be with the folk for a few days, and without that trip home, Christmas does not seem complete. But for us, even though we were far from home we had a truly happy Christmas Day. First of all, on Christmas morning we attended English speaking services, in downtown Tokyo for missionaries in this area, but our real joy came in the afternoon and evening with our Japanese friends. In the afternoon we had a Christmas service for the children in our garage. We enjoyed singing, Bible stories and slides. Each child received a little box of candy which was brought from his own Sunday school offerings. They also each received a Scripture verse pencil as a gift from "Wsuri San and Airlin San" (Wesley and Aileen). They were really happy. You should have heard them as they said "ureshii" (I'm happy) and then all bowed together and said "Thank you very much." We trust that all of them have learned to love the Lord Jesus Christ and the true God. Some of the older ones have expressed a desire to become Christians.

In the evening there was a Christmas service for the adults. There were seven or eight Christians among the thirty who were in attendance; most of whom have become Christians as a result of our meetings. The service was held in our neighbor's living room. As you know, in a typical Japanese room everyone sits on the floor. So we did not have to worry about chairs. All of us sat on the floor for the two hour service. (I must admit that it was rather painful after the first hour.) The service was in the form of a candlelight service with each person lighting a candle from a large candle on the Bible. It was an impressive service and reminded me again of the thousands in this land who have not received the "Light of the World" into their hearts.

After Christmas we joined about fifteen other missionaries in Morioka, Japan (10 hours by train north of Tokyo) for some "dendo" (evangelism) work. This was our first experience with people away from Tokyo. We spent only two days in house-to-house visitation, but that was enough to let us know that Japan still needs the gospel. About one third of the people we contacted had never heard of the message of Christ. Another third of them knew only a little about Jesus Christ. Only a few of them were professing Christians. Some of the people seemed glad to listen to the message; others were openly opposed to the gospel. As we were telling the gospel in one house, the old lady of the house kept saying, "dame desu, dame desu" (It's no good, no good). Another man said "Kikitakunai" (I don't want to listen) and shut the door in our face. The people of Japan are not receiving the gospel with open arms, but here and there are those who after having heard, believe. How precious they must be in the eyes of the Lord. We praise God that He has sent us here to help find those who have gone astray. Most of the eighty million people of Japan do not know of the saving grace of Jesus Christ; many of them have never heard. Please pray for us that God will use us here in this great harvest field. Our success or failure may depend upon your faithfulness.

Your missionaries to Japan

Faithful Unto Death

Alice M. Brawand

During the fall of every year Friskie and his master, Ed, went hunting about 300 miles north of their hometown. Friskie was a wonderful, courageous hunting dog. Each year he looked forward to their hunting trip.

This year Master Ed, his friend, Bob, and Friskie went on the hunting trip together. All went well for three days. On the fourth day Ed caught a young rabbit with the help of Friskie. Master Ed patted Friskie for his good work. Friskie wagged all over with pride.

Master Ed leaned down and instructed Friskie: "You wait here and guard this rabbit while Bob and I go back to the car for supplies."

Friskie always obeyed his master. He guarded the rabbit just as his master had instructed.

An hour later Ed and Bob started back for Friskie. The smell of smoke was strong. The two men ran straight to their dog hoping that everything was all right. As they neared the site, they saw the ground was black and bushes had shriveled and were black as charcoal. A huge fire had swept through the area. In the distance they saw a heap on the ground. They came all out of breath to the remains of Friskie's dead body. There snuggled at Friskie's side lay the body of the rabbit he was guarding. The men bowed their heads in silent devotion. Friskie had been faithful unto death.

How faithful are you to your Master, the Lord Jesus Christ? Can he depend on you?—My Pleasure.

Guidance for Effective Praying

(Lesson for February 12)

Lesson: Luke 18:1-14.

Golden Text: James 5:16.

I. INTRODUCTION

The lesson for today is concerned with the teaching of Jesus on the subject of prayer. In this teaching He does not attempt to explain all the elements of a good prayer but, in the recital of two parables, He states the definite truths which He undertakes to emphasize. In the parable of The Importunate Widow He stresses the need for constant, persevering prayer, and shows its effect upon God. In the parable of The Pharisee and the Publican the Master emphasizes the two philosophies that underlie the kinds of prayers that men pray, and gives God's reaction to each.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. To persist in prayer and never lose heart is to hear from heaven in the Lord's own time (Vs. 1).

2. Those who have no fear of God will likely have no respect for man (Vs. 2).

3. Justice will finally be won by those who keep on pressing the claims of right (Vv. 3-5).

4. Though vengeance be delayed until forgotten by men, it is sure to come before the final end (Vv. 6, 7).

5. As in the days of Noah and of faithful Lot, there will be a few righteous when the Lord comes again (Vs. 8).

6. The worst deceived people in all the world are those who think they're right and all others wrong (Vs. 9).

7. In the church today, as in the temple then, both the good and the bad come together for prayer (Vs. 10).

8. The condition of the heart is the thing that counts when men come before the Lord in prayer (Vv. 11-14).

—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. A well-known evangelist once preached a great sermon on Luke 18:1. Why should men pray? Because God is their King, their Judge, their Friend, and their Father. Our happiness in this world and the next depends on our relationship with God.

2. In the 6th chapter of Ephesians in the 18th verse we read words which put the tremendous importance of prayer with startling and overwhelming force:

"Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints."

One reason for this constant, persistent, sleepless overcoming prayer is that those men whom God set forth as a pattern of what He expected Christians to be—the apostles—regarded prayer as the most important business of their lives.

When the multiplying responsibilities of the early church crowded in upon them, they "called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not reason that we should leave the Word of God, and serve tables. Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business. But we will give ourselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the Word."—R. A. Torrey.

3. Some years ago two ministers of the gospel in New York City realized a spiritual lack in their lives as servants of God. They went to the then-famous Northfield Conferences in Northfield, Massachusetts, hallowed and blessed by the life and ministry of Dwight L. Moody. They were refreshed, and returned to their labors in the power of the Holy Spirit. In attendance at one of their denominational minister's meetings, they recited before all that which God had done for them at Northfield. In the course of giving testimony to their lack and how God filled their need, one of the brethren thought to ask of his ministerial brethren, "How many of you have prayed one-half hour today? raise your hands, please." Not one hand was raised. Then he cried, "How many of us have prayed fifteen minutes today?" A scattering of hands showed response to this question. Again he said, "How many have prayed five minutes?" Practically every hand was raised, and one dear man came to the speaker and confessed that while he had raised his hand on five minutes, he really doubted if he had prayed this long. This is the great cause for weakness in the professing Church of God. Prayer has been exchanged for other things; Jesus said, "Men ought always to pray, and not to faint." There is no short cut to power; it comes through strong, prevailing, overcoming, sacrificial prayer.—The Bible Illustrator.

4. It is more common for most of us to pray before the great events of life than it is to pray after them, but the latter is as important as the former. If we would pray after the great achievements of life, we might go on to still greater; as it is we are often either puffed up or exhausted by the things that we do in the name of the Lord, and so we advance no further. Many and many a man in answer to prayer has been endowed with power and thus has wrought great things in the name of the Lord, and when these great things were accomplished, instead of going alone with God and humbling himself before Him, and giving Him all the glory for what was achieved, he has congratulated himself upon what has been accomplished, has become puffed up, and God has been obliged to lay him aside. The great things done were not followed by humiliation of self, and prayer to God, and so pride has come in and the mighty man has been shorn of his power.—R. A. Torrey.

5. Two of the universal requirements for victorious prayer are clean hands and a humble heart. It is a great honor to hear from heaven, to receive an answer from God. This is the honor certainly implied in Luke 18:14 where, after discussing the subject, the Master states that he that humbleth himself shall be exalted. The Scriptures abound in references to the fact that we must settle the sin question and declare the issues off between us and God, before we can be successful in prayer. It is stated in Psalm 66:18, "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me," and in 1 John 3:22 we read that we have a standing access to answered prayer, if we keep his commandments and do things that are pleasing in his sight.—Higley's Commentary.

Warning

Away over in the Alps, mountain travelers sometimes see a small black cross planted upon a rock or on the edge of a cliff, to show where men have met with sudden death, and to warn others of the danger. So God, in the Bible, has marked the sins of some of His people, that we may avoid the same mistakes.—The Round Table.

Dorcas Circle Meets

The Dorcas Circle of the Sherron Acres Free Will Baptist Church, Durham, North Carolina, met on Monday Night, January 16, at the church, for its regular business meeting.

The meeting was opened by singing, "Saviour, Like A Shepherd Lead Us." Mrs. Claude Lynn led in prayer, remembering especially the work of the auxiliary. Mrs. T. R. Register was in charge of the devotions, using for her theme, "Our Need For Such A Time As This." The Scripture reading was taken from Esther 5:1-14.

The meeting was opened for business with prayer by Mrs. Carney. Special work for the month is: to send cards to the sick and shut-ins of the church and the community, to visit the sick, having prayer services and singing with them.

We were dismissed by Mrs. Ladd. Our next meeting is to be at the parsonage.

Members present were: Mrs. C. C. Ballance, Joseph Carney, C. R. Hicks, Claude Lynn, Wayne Smith, T. R. Register, Mary Critcher, C. E. Ladd. We received one new member, Mrs. L. A. Cartner.

Youth Rally to Be at Bay Branch Church

There will be a youth rally at Bay Branch Church, Timmonsville, South Carolina, Saturday night, January 28, at 7:30. This is sponsored by the South Carolina District Woman's Auxiliary and one of the main features of the program will be a declamation contest for the G. T. A. and Y. P. A. contestants. A special feature will be the film, The Great Discovery, which has an outstanding Christian message for young people. Pastors and youth sponsors are urged to bring their young people to this service.

Also the G. T. A. and Y. P. A. Rally Day of the South Carolina District Woman's Auxiliary will be held February 18 at the First Free Will Baptist Church, Darlington, South Carolina. An interesting and inspiring program has been planned and we are looking forward to a great day. At this meeting the state declamation contest will be held. Registration will begin at 9:30.

Vernila Granger Circle Meets

The Vernila Granger Circle of the Bethany Free Will Baptist Church, Timmonsville, South Carolina, held its regular monthly meeting for January at the home of Mrs. Steve Hicks with Mrs. Tommy Granger and Mrs. Dick Granger as co-hostesses.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Dick Granger. Following the group sang a hymn, and then the program chairman, Mrs. Keith Vause, took charge, and presented a program centering around Esther. Those taking part on the program were Mrs. Morgan Tedder, Mrs. Rudolph Vause, Mrs. R. W. McClam and Mrs. Dick Granger.

After a short business period the hostesses served delicious refreshments to the 17 members present.

Look at your old worn-out suit, and your patched shoes! I will be ashamed to take you to town with me the day after tomorrow and introduce you to my business associates. You must know that you have been a fool, John."

Another silence ensued while tears trickled down the country preacher's cheeks. Finally, the preacher said, "I know, Brother James, that it looks as if I have been a fool from this end of the line; but, Brother James, we are both old men, and we must soon leave this life. Don't be angry with me, but may I ask you a question? What have you got in Heaven?"

Again there was silence which was suddenly broken by the sobbing banker, "Oh, John, I am a pauper at the judgment bar of God."—Gospel Herald.

Looking Down or Up

A certain noted saint said that a Christian is not a man who lives on earth and looks up to heaven, but one who is living in heaven and looking down upon the earth. Set your affection, your mind, your undivided heart, upon the things which are above, on Christ; and if Christ has your heart He has your all. Oh, that the Lord may keep us watching, waiting, expecting, so that when we see Him we shall not be surprised, but we will gladly say, "Welcome, Lord, we are glad to see Thee"; and if we are thus living we shall not be among the number who will be ashamed before Him at His glorious appearing for His own.—Church of God Evangel.

NEW PUBLICATIONS

In our issue of October 19, 1955, we discussed editorially the need for additional Sunday school materials for the cradle roll, nursery and beginners' departments. We also announced that plans were being made to meet this need. Now, we are happy to announce that some of these materials are already in print and ready for distribution to our Sunday schools for use during the second quarter of this year. Let us tell you what has been done and urge you to place your order for these materials along with your other literature.

For the nursery department in Sunday school we are offering the materials in the form of pupil packets, accompanied by a teachers' guide. You should order a pupil packet for each pupil on your nursery department roll, ages 2 and 3, together with several extra packets for new pupils who may enroll in the department during the quarter. With every order for pupil packets we will include a teachers' guide. In all orders for more than ten pupil packets we will include two teachers' guides. Each pupil packet will contain an Acme Picture Lesson Card for each Sunday in the quarter and one Illustrated Nursery Story for each Sunday in the quarter. Therefore the nursery department which uses these packets will have a Bible story and Bible picture for each pupil each Sunday, a present-day picture of boys and girls engaged in some activity which emphasizes the central truth of the lesson together with a word story interpreting the picture for each pupil each Sunday, and a teachers' guide for the quarter.

The teachers' guide is a 16-page publication which devotes one page to a chat with the teacher of nursery pupils relative to the importance of the position of the nursery teacher and the characteristics, interests and abilities of the children under her direction. It also devotes one page to an explanation of the supplementary materials which she may purchase to use in connection with the packet materials. The remaining pages of the guide are devoted, one page for each Sunday in the quarter, to a complete outline of suggested class activities from the time the class assembles until it ends. The teacher will also derive great benefit from the suggestions which the guide will make to her relative to preparation for each class period and to the materials which she can assemble during the week prior to the Sunday class period.

The price of the pupil packets will be 25c per packet for each pupil. The teachers' guide will be packed with the order at no extra cost. Sunday schools may still order the Acme Picture Lesson Cards as heretofore, but we urge you to try our pupil packets. We believe they will help your nursery teacher render a more efficient service for our Lord in teaching our children to love Him.

For the beginners' department in Sunday school, ages 4 and 5, we are also offering pupil packets and a teachers' guide. Each pupil packet for this department will contain a Tiny Tots folder composed of a Bible picture that may be colored by the pupil, a Bible story and suggested activities. There will be a folder for each Sunday in the quarter. The packet will also contain a workbook with a present-day picture and a story of present-day activities emphasizing the central truth of the lesson for the day. You should order one pupil packet for each pupil in your beginners' department plus several extra packets for new pupils who may enroll during the quarter. The guide for the teacher of beginners contains the same features as that for nursery pupils and will be placed in each order at no extra cost.

The price of these beginners' packets is 30c each. You may continue to order the Tiny Tots folders as heretofore, but again we urge you to try the pupil packets with the teachers' guide.

We are prepared now to receive orders for Visitors' Single Lesson folders. Because of many requests coming to us for individual lesson folders, we have prepared what we hope will adequately fill this need. These folders are designed to be given to visitors who may attend Sunday school classes of young people and adults. Each folder contains four pages of print, carrying the subject of the lesson, the memory selection, the printed text, an exposition of the Scripture portion and questions for discussion.

The price of the Visitors' Single Lesson folders is 40c per packet of five sets. Each set contains one folder for one visitor each Sunday throughout the quarter; five sets will furnish folders for five visitors each Sunday. We are offering them only in packets of five sets.

We believe you will like and appreciate the changes which will appear next quarter in The Bible Teacher, our quarterly for teachers of young people and adults. Several new features have been added which we hope will materially aid the teacher in teaching the lesson. With this beginning we hope to continue to improve it so that no teacher of young people and adults will want to be without its valuable aid.

The promised improvements in our Little Folk's Quarterly for primaries in Sunday school, ages 6-8, will have to wait until the third quarter. The writer of this periodical did not have the time to effect these improvements in time for the second quarter issue.

We have in our possession an excellent manuscript for our cradle roll packet, written by Mrs. La Verne Miley. We had hoped to have this publication ready to offer at the beginning of second quarter, but it will have to be delayed for a short time. Our illustrator, Mrs. Chester Phillips, has been loaded with other work during the last few months, so we have not submitted the art work to her as yet. We hope to have this material ready for distribution just as soon as it is humanly possible.

Let us urge those who will use these new materials, together with our ministers and others, to examine the materials closely and write us their reaction. The teachers who actually use the materials will be able to judge as to whether or not they are helpful. Teachers, feel perfectly free to tell us what you think of them. We earnestly want to supply you with what you need to do a good job, and we can know best what you need by your telling us. Point out to us what can be improved, what can be omitted, and what might be added. This little effort on your part may result in a better literature program for our Sunday schools.

Let all of our people know that we are grappling with a tremendous problem and we need the counsel and advice of all who have worthwhile contributions to make.

The Jericho Road

Raymond Riggs
Promotional Secretary for Foreign Missions

UPON our visit to Jerusalem we traveled over the Jericho Road, and our guide pointed out to us the place where the man fell among thieves and was stripped of his raiment, was wounded, and left half dead. Also, we were shown the Good Samaritan Inn, or rather the place where the inn once stood. Even though a police station is now standing on the spot, much of the remains of the old inn are still there.

As we traveled the narrow winding road from Jerusalem to Jericho it was quite obvious how dangerous this road could be. There are many places where thieves might hide, and pounce upon an unsuspecting victim.

It is twenty-three miles from Jerusalem to Jericho, and as you go, you will descend over three thousand feet. While there may be snow in Jerusalem, on the same day it would be hot in Jericho.

The wild country lying off the Jericho road is a barren, trackless wilderness in which nothing grows. It is covered with stones, completely waterless and cut into hideous and fantastic ravines and gorges with steep, overhanging cliffs, which throw back an intense heat that makes existence almost intolerable.

It is difficult to describe one's feelings when you stand on the roadside looking over that expanse of baking, shimmering, convulsed and arid land, so hostile and menacing. Off in the distance I remember seeing a lone Arab citizen as he walked along leading his camel. The poor beast looked almost starved, and actually was hardly more than a rack of bones.

This landscape reminds you of some obscene and horrid monster which would lure you into its lair and reveal horrors that would turn the brain before devouring your flesh. The yellow, sulphurous rocks seem to be twisted into a kind of agony as if they were cooling from some ghastly, devilish furnace.

Actually this is the Wilderness of Temptation, where Jesus wandered for forty days and forty nights, tempted of the devil. The Bible says He was with the wild beasts—jackals, hyenas, hungry wolves, and during the time of Christ, lions and bears.

Before visiting the Holy Land, I had more or less envisioned the Wilderness of Temptation as a dense forest with thick underbrush, etc. Imagine my surprise as we viewed the jagged rock, barren cliffs and gaping caves!

From the writings of Leslie Weatherhead comes this story that describes the hazards of this desert: "Two students discovered just how terrible this desert is. They thought they would take a short cut across it. And it is not that the desert is so vast. Actually, the distance as the crow flies would not be a distance outside the power of two normally healthy young men. But one cannot travel in a straight line across this desert. First the desert loses you in its intersecting river gorges. Then it starves you and drives you mad with thirst. Then it leaves you to the wild beasts and the pitiless sun and vultures. An Arab found one student unconscious and brought him back to Jerusalem. They never found the other. They only found a few bones and buttons in a jackal's den. Yet the students were never more than a few miles from Jerusalem."

Another story is told of the police searching for a bandit who had built a stone wall right across the narrow block-top road, stopping fourteen cars, robbed everyone, threatened to cut off a lady's fingers because her rings could not be gotten off quickly enough, and shot dead several policemen who attempted to arrest him. There is certainly nothing ancient and out of date in the Scripture that says, "... A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead" (Luke 10:30).

But, we certainly don't have to go to Jericho to find thieves. During our recent visit to Michigan we stopped over in Columbus, Ohio, for a service with our good friend and brother in Christ, Rev. Delbert Gould. Brother Gould is pastor of the Welch Avenue Free Will Baptist Church. After a very fine service in the church we went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Crum on North Washington Street. My wife, two sons and two daughters were along, and we were looking forward to the next day, December 23, when we would go on to Michigan to spend Christmas with our parents and friends of long standing. We had the station wagon well loaded with our clothes, and also our Christmas gifts for our people. We were royally entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Crum, but were certainly disappointed the next morning to find that the station wagon had been broken into and stripped of our possessions.

Fortunately, none of the foreign mission equipment was missing, even though there were a camera and missionary film inside.

We mended the broken glass in the car window as best we could, and went on our way, feeling rather empty; but as we looked toward the back of the station wagon, behold, it was empty too! We must say, however, that soon our hearts were full as we visited loved ones at home with memories of Glad Reunion Day in Heaven where thieves do not break through nor steal.

God's Witness of Himself

Elder Ambrose J. Jenkins
Albany, Ohio

(Editor's note: This is the second in the series of articles by Mr. Jenkins on the subject given.)

GUR last article closed with discussion of the witnesses of Himself which God has given to mankind. Three witnesses already named are: (1) the universe witnesses to God; (2) design and orderly purpose witness to God; (3) spiritual ideals and values witness to God. Let us continue the discussion of other witnesses.

4. History witnesses to God, especially ancient history. God's dealing with people in the world throughout the ages witnesses to the fact that He is. Old Testament history records the progress and prosperity of peoples and nations so long as they worshiped God and honored His truth. However, when they turned from God, their history became that of moral decay which was followed by tragic downfall. God has always worked for the good of mankind that He might accomplish His purpose in the race He has created.

On the other hand, all that has happened has not been done according to His will; hence the failures and defeat of men and nations. God never did sanction the work of Satan and his followers, and He never will. Neither will He approve the work of sin in any individual. God may, in some instances, be thwarted in His purpose by sinful acts of men, but He will never be defeated.

Something within the stream of life and history may cut across the stream at times, but God is at work in the stream to defeat His enemies. What He had done, and still is doing, is outstanding evidence that God intends to finish His work, even if devils have to be bound in the process.

5. Our fellow men who are worshipers of God are witnesses that He works in the lives of believers. Some preach, some pray, some sing, some support with money and some in various other ways prove the presence and power of God in their lives. The work of God in these lives gives glory to God and salvation to lost souls.

6. Your own life witnesses to God if you have been born again. As you grow in grace your life becomes filled with the abundant presence of the Holy Spirit. Your intelligence, your judgment, your will, your emotions, your conscience, your moral and spiritual nature will all witness to God and His plan for humanity. And more than all else, you may know Him by faith in a personal experience that wins a soul. One's whole being should hunger for victory through some special work of the Holy Spirit, such as winning a lost soul, praying for a sick person and witnessing his healing, or for a great revival in your church. Your soul should thirst for the fullness of the Holy Spirit which will make you a power in accomplishment. Never forget, you can have the fullness of the Holy Spirit and enjoy the blessings He will bring you.

7. Jesus Christ supremely witnesses to Himself. Jesus came into the world to reveal God the Father to us, even as He said, "... he that hath seen me hath seen the father; ..." (John 14:9). God the Holy Spirit is with all Christians, and they should recognize and follow His leadership. The Holy Spirit testifies through the Scriptures that Jesus is God, "Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us" (Matthew 1:23). God the Son was manifest in the flesh, "And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh, justified in the Spirit, seen of angels, preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory" (1 Timothy 3:16). Jesus is God's deed to all who seek salvation and to live a life of holiness.

The writer of the letter to the Hebrews makes it clear that Jesus is the reflection of God's being: "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds; Who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high" (Hebrews 1:1-3).

We finite beings cannot account for Jesus' matchless being except on the basis of God Himself, and His introduction at the baptism of Jesus. This fact must surely be believed and proclaimed and taught to others.

8. The Bible bears record of God's revelation of Himself to the world. This record begins with the dawn of creation and tells of God's revelation of Himself to the first human beings whom He created. The revelation progresses until it reaches its climax in the person of the Lord Jesus. The New Testament tells of the revelation of Jesus to the world through the Church. All that both the Old and New Testaments set forth is of supreme importance.

Concerning God's revelation of Himself, there are a number of points to consider:

(a) Revelation is progressive for good reasons. The clearest reason is that people are slow to recognize God in revelation. Jesus was introduced as a man and revealed as a man; by His works He proved Himself to be the Son of God. Even today, men know so little about God that many find it difficult to witness or write about Him. The Old Testament shows God preparing Israel as His servant to represent Him in the face of all obstacles, but Israel failed. In Old Testament worship we find many types and shadows of Christ.

(b) Jesus stands at the center of the unveiling of God. When Bible readers put Jesus Christ in the center of the Scriptures, the Bible becomes clear to their understanding because the Holy Spirit then becomes the teacher of the Word.

(c) We must believe and understand that the Bible was written by inspiration. The Holy Spirit is the real author and He guided the minds and pens of the human instruments, preserving the Word from error. The Word of God when read understandingly, is the divine quickener of man's being, enabling him to communicate with God. The Holy Spirit gives illumination to man's understanding and helps him to comprehend the knowledge, wisdom and will of God.

When we link inspiration with revelation and illumination, we must quote Paul's statement, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (1 Timothy 3:16, 17).

Let us be reminded by the Word that "... the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (2 Peter 1:21). Thus we be assured that the Bible is not the word of men, even good men, but the inspired Word of God. And furthermore, the same Spirit who inspired its writing promises to give believers a true interpretation of it. Therefore, the Bible is an undeniable witness that God is.

Grifton Auxiliary Elects Officers

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Grifton Free Will Baptist Church, Grifton, North Carolina, ended a wonderful year two months ago. The year was begun with 19 members and ended with 27, having received 8 new members during the year. The average attendance of the auxiliary for the year was 18.

The auxiliary sold different products to raise money. Including this and the collections, a sum of $653.66 was taken in during the entire year. The Collaboration Band received $12 from the auxiliary and the orphanage received $38.00. A gift of a quilt, valued at $10, was also made to the orphanage, and 700 coupons were collected. The auxiliary also made three months' payments on the church building.

During the year five study courses were conducted and a Y. P. A. was organized by the auxiliary. The auxiliary conducted one vacation Bible school, a Pre-Easter service and a Pre-Thanksgiving service.

New officers for 1956 were elected as follows: Mrs. Zelbert Cox, president; Mrs. Herman Owens, vice-president; Mrs. Percy Boyd, secretary; Mrs. James Carlyle, treasurer; Mrs. Ann Baker, enlistment chairman; Mrs. Annie Dudley, youth chairman; Mrs. Pauline Bell, study course chairman; Mrs. Sybil Harrison, program chairman; Mrs. Ivey Taylor, orphanage chairman; Mrs. B. T. Jones, benevolence chairman.

The auxiliary requests the prayers of all Christians that it may accomplish even greater works for the Master in 1956.

Mrs. Percy Boyd
Secretary

Mrs. Rice Hostess to Auxiliary

The Auxiliary Circle No. 2 of the Kinston Free Will Baptist Church, Kinston, North Carolina, met on January 16, at the home of Mrs. Clifton Rice with 13 members and 2 visitors present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Wilbur Rider, with the group singing, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations," as the opening hymn. The group was then led in prayer by Mavis Avery.

Mrs. Alton Suggs had charge of the program, using as her subject, "The Bible." Those taking part on program were: Mrs. Brooks Owens, Mrs. Linwood Taylor, Mrs. Bradford Rice, Mrs. Elizabeth Roberts, Mrs. Ronald Rice and Mrs. Clifton Rice.

Following the program the minutes were read and the roll called. After a short business session the meeting was dismissed with the auxiliary motto.

During the social hour which followed, the hostess, Mrs. Rice, served coffee and doughnuts.

Mrs. Sasser Entertains Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Free Will Baptist Church of Tarboro, North Carolina, held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night, January 17, 1956, at the home of the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Raymond T. Sasser.

The meeting opened with the group singing, "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us," followed with prayer by Mrs. Dilda. The Scripture for the evening was taken from Matthew 24. The subject for the month was, "We Need to Know God's Word for Such a Time as This." Those taking part on the program were: Mrs. Homer Webb, Mrs. Hubert Williamson, Mrs. Herbert Hathaway and Mrs. Jean Pollard.

There were 22 members present, 1 new member and 1 visitor. The following report of activities was given: 118 sick visits, 1 daily Bible reader, 738 chapters of Scripture read, 5 gifts given, 2 flowers given and 7 trays delivered.

After having sentence prayer the auxiliary was dismissed and refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Sasser.

Mrs. Nathan Eason

Sand Hill Auxiliary Meets

The Sand Hill Woman's Auxiliary of Coward, South Carolina, met Thursday night, January 19, at the Sand Hill Free Will Baptist Church, with 14 members and the pastor present.

The meeting was opened by singing the familiar hymn, "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us." Mrs. Jimmy Brown led the auxiliary in the opening prayer. The Scripture for the evening was taken from Matthew 24. "We Need to Know God's Word for Such a Time as This" was the subject for the program. Following the conclusion of the program, the meeting was adjourned with prayer and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Lamar Miles

Core Creek Auxiliary Elects Officers

The Woman's Auxiliary of Core Creek Free Will Baptist Church, Cove City, North Carolina, met January 7, 1956, at the church, for its regular meeting.

The opening hymn for the meeting was "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us." Mrs. R. B. Heath led the devotions and read the Scripture which was taken from Matthew 24. All the group then participated in sentence prayer.

NEWS NOTES

Cramerton Church Sees Rapid Growth

The Cramerton Free Will Baptist Church, Cramerton, North Carolina, reports that on January 29 there were 354 in the Sunday school and over 500 for the evening worship service, which consisted of just singing under the direction of Rev. Clyde Cox of Saratoga, with Rev. Roy Rikard, pastor, acting as moderator.

Mrs. Marie Martin says, "Our church has seen rapid growth in the past few months. Plans have been made to build a fellowship hall between the parsonage and the scout hut. The church has property at the present valued at around $100,000, which includes a chapel, parsonage, educational building and scout hut." She adds, "The Lord has wonderfully blessed us and we feel He will do many wonderful things for us in the future. We ask the continued prayers of the Christian people."

New Parsonage at St. Mary's Grove Church

St. Mary's Grove, Route 1, Benson, North Carolina, stands as a monument to its founders, having been active in the life of the community for more than a century. For eighteen years it had been under the pastoral care of the Rev. J. B. Ferrell of Elm City, North Carolina. Mr. Ferrell resigned in 1954 and the church extended a call to the Rev. A. B. Bryan and requested that he move to the community. In February of 1955 the general board of the church met and pledged $1250 in support of a parsonage program, and on the following Sunday the church voted unanimously to build at the earliest date. A finance committee, location committee and building committee were elected and went to work immediately. A site opposite the church was selected and purchased, then work began.

Much material and labor were donated, along with the foundation brick, mortar, framing, storm sheathing, sub-flooring, water pump and several other items. One bedroom was finished by a project of the young adult Sunday school class and another was completed by the teacher of the class, Victor Penny. The Sunday school furnished Venetian blinds for the new construction. After the par-

Homer E. Willis North Carolina State Missionary

Dr. Homer E. Willis of Paintsville, Kentucky, has been selected by the Board of Missions of the North Carolina Free Will Baptist Convention to serve as full-time state missionary. He will assume his duties in this capacity on March 5, 1956. He will make his home in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Mr. Willis has recently resigned the pastorate of the Southside Free Will Baptist Church of Paintsville, Kentucky, in order to accept the position offered by the North Carolina mission board. In connection with his pastorate he has been serving as moderator of the Kentucky State Association of Free Will Baptists and executive secretary for that organization. He is also recording secretary-treasurer of the National Home Mission Board of Free Will Baptists.

The nature of his new work will be that of making surveys and establishing mission points in the counties of North Carolina which do not have any Free Will Baptist churches.

Although Mr. Willis will take up residence in Greensboro immediately, his family will remain in Paintsville until June 1 so that his children will not have their school year interrupted.

sonage was dedicated in November, 1955, the church decided to equip it with a home freezer.

Mr. Bryan, the pastor, says:

"The parsonage is valued at $14,000 but was built by the congregation with a monetary saving of over $8,000. The home is a modern seven-room country home, constructed out of the best lumber available. The frame dwelling has 10-inch heart weatherboarding and rock wool insulation throughout. The floors are hardwood except those in the kitchen, dining room and utility room which are of tile, matching in color and design. The home contains plenty of closet space, tile bath, three bedrooms, hall, central heat, a large living room, pine panel kitchen and dining room combination, with utility room or den, all finished in natural color with built-in cabinets. The parsonage is modern in every respect and is on the opposite side of the road facing the regular church building."

Rev. and Mrs. Bryan, together with their four children, two boys and two girls, moved into the new home in October, 1955. Open house was observed in the afternoon of the day of dedication at which time around 230 guests called and were served refreshments by the women of the church.

New Faculty Member At Mount Olive College

The appointment of A. C. Lovelace to the faculty of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, was announced this week by W. Burkette Raper, president of the college. Mr. Raper states:

"Mr. Lovelace, a native of Forest City, North Carolina, brings a wealth of teaching experience to the Free Will Baptist junior college founded here in 1954. He was formerly dean of Wingate Junior College and served on the faculties of Coker College, Hartsville, South Carolina, and High Point College, High Point, North Carolina. For a number for years, he was principal and principal supervisor in the North Carolina public school system.

"He received his bachelor of arts degree from Wake Forest College, his master of education from Duke University and has taken post-graduate studies at the University of North Carolina.

"At Mount Olive College he will teach psychology, rural sociology and geography. He also will set up a counseling and guidance program for the school.

"Mrs. Lovelace, the former Maude White of Rutherford County, North Carolina, is a fifth grade teacher at Forest City. She expects to join her husband here when her school term is completed.

"The Lovelaces have two sons, both instructors at seminaries. Dr. Austin Lovelace is professor of music at Garrett Seminary, Evanston, Illinois, and Dr. Marc Lovelace is professor of archæology at Southeastern Seminary at Wake Forest, North Carolina."

North Carolina Central Conference Missions

Frank Davenport, Missionary

AS home missionary for the Central Conference of North Carolina Free Will Baptists, we are happy to take this means of reporting the progress with which the Lord is blessing us.

At the present time we are laboring in three mission points. We are deeply grateful for the splendid response we are receiving in all three places. We give the following information concerning the specific activities at each mission point:

Scotland Neck: The Scotland Neck Mission is doing nicely with about thirty regular attendants. The fellowship is wonderful and the Spirit is present in every service. Tuesday evening, January 31, 1956, Rev. Willis Wilson and Mr. Richard Gregory went with your missionary to help in the service. Rev. Wilson led the singing and Brother Gregory brought the message, after which a lady came forward to accept Christ as her Saviour.

Pinetops: The Pinetops Mission is coming along nicely with an average attendance of 15. On February 10, the Pinetops Mission is conducting a mission rally in the community building. The pastors of the near-by churches are taking part in the rally. We solicit your prayers and presence for this rally.

Dawson Station: The Dawson Station Mission is progressing beyond any expectations. With only two services having been conducted, we have 22 adults as candidates for a new church there.

Please pray for our mission points and your missionary.

SIX SURPRISES

The Christian who begins to give a tenth of his income to the Lord will have at least six surprises. He will be surprised:

1. At the amount of money he has for the Lord's work.
2. At the deepening of his spiritual life.
3. At the ease in meeting his own obligations with the nine tenths.
4. At the ease in going from one-tenth to larger giving.
5. At the prudent disposal afforded to a faithful and wise steward over the nine tenths that remain.
6. At himself for not adopting the plan sooner.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Please explain the Free Will Baptist position on speaking in an unknown tongue. I believe that God reversed the tongue-confusing miracle He performed at the power of Babel when He sent the Holy Spirit at Pentecost to enable the one hundred twenty disciples to speak in their own language and be heard and understood by all those named in Acts 2:4-8. Am I right?—M. W.

Answer: Since I do not know what all Free Will Baptists believe and teach on this subject, I shall give you my own view which I know to be accepted by quite a number of leading Free Will Baptists. It is the view that I was taught when a student in our Free Will Baptist Seminary at Ayden, North Carolina. Like many other things revealed in God's Book there is a great deal of mystery to be found in what is said in the Bible on the subject of speaking in tongues. That is probably the reason for so many different views held by different people and sects. I am sure that neither I nor anyone I have every known understands the whole Bible teaching on the subject. In the first place the accounts we have in the Bible of God's manifesting His power by this means covers only a short period of time from the account in the second chapter of Acts—about A. D. 37 to probably A. D. 85 or 90. The need of that day was such that this form in which the Holy Spirit manifested Himself to and through believers greatly enhanced their ministry. We read of the day of Pentecost, "And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them: And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance" (Acts 2:3, 4). There is no other occasion that I know of in the whole Bible where the Holy Spirit so manifested Himself.

What would we think and do today if the Holy Spirit were to manifest Himself in this manner? First He came from heaven as a rushing mighty wind so far as the disciples could detect with their audible senses; then, before they were over the shock of this surprise, all who were joined together in worship could look on each other and see a forked or cloven tongue like a flame of fire leaping up toward heaven in a prolonged manifestation. What would we do or think if we were in this kind of a continued manifestation of God's power? If the Holy Spirit were to cause a group of ordinary men with an ordinary religious and educational background to begin to proclaim a profound message of redemption through the blood? Speaking the message in a peculiar dialect common to only a few thousand people—speaking where a large cosmopolitan group of more than a dozen languages heard every word and understood it in his own language? That is just what happened here. Up until this time we have no evidence that so many people became Christians or born-again followers of Christ with so little physical effort having been expended. Three thousand souls were added unto the church on this one day. I have no doubt but that this was one of the greatest manifestations in the history of man. So far as I know, these exact events can never be repeated. Note how excited those who were present were, "And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, What meaneth this? . . . But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel; And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams: And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; and they shall prophesy" (Acts 2:12, 16-18). See Joel 2:28, 29.

Added to this is the account of Peter's going, when directed by divine revelation, to the house of Cornelius as seen in the tenth chapter of Acts, "For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. . . ." (Acts 10:46). The events of Chapter 2 occurred in Jerusalem and first affected the 120 disciples who were Jews and who knew both the teachings of Joel and the teachings of the other Old Testament prophets as they also had followed Jesus and heard Him teach, whereas these in Acts 10:26 were gentiles. This being true, the order of this gracious manifestation of the Holy Spirit was first to the disciples who were both Jews and followers of Christ and then through them to a cosmopolitan group of various languages, probably Jews that had come to Jerusalem from the several countries named in Acts 2:9-11, whose language was different from those in Jerusalem, but who could ordinarily understand the speech of one who spoke that dialect, but probably could not understand those from Galilee or northern Palestine. This manifestation at Cornelius' house is quite different. All the people are most likely gentiles and they themselves begin to speak with tongues (more than one language). Since this was a miracle, it is understood that these languages were those not spoken heretofore by these people. I would think that they could probably have quoted the Hebrew expressions from Joel and probably the Aramaic expressions from Daniel and the other prophets as they rejoiced in the saving grace of Christ. The Holy Spirit could cause these gentiles to think the thoughts He was inspiring Peter to have and think as a result of Peter's study and experience as a Jew and as a follower of Christ. This could have been a monologue in which Peter was led to introduce a subject and they, while in tune with the Holy Spirit, were being enabled to speak words giving Scripture truths they had never known nor even heard before. It did what God intended that this wonderful manifestation should do: they were all saved and filled with the Holy Ghost and baptized.

When Paul was at Ephesus as is recorded in Acts 19, he met with disciples that had been baptized of John (the Baptist), but claimed not to have heard of the Holy Ghost. He baptized them in the name of Jesus, laid his hands on them and the Holy Ghost came upon them and they spake in tongues, prophesying. To prophesy is to proclaim the revealed truth of God which sets forth past events, instructions on how to act under present conditions and what we may expect in the future and how to be prepared for it. These new gentile converts did just that.

This, we must remember, was an extraordinary occasion. There were a lot of widows in Elisha's day. Only one had her oil increased. There were many lepers, but Naaman was the only one we know to have been healed by Elisha. The thing God was doing in Acts was that of symbolizing the power of the spoken Word. What would be the result if His witnesses would obey Acts

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (2 Corinthians 5:17).

I have a friend who, before his conversion, did many things which are not becoming to a Christian, as all sinful people do, but which are common to the unconverted. But when he took Christ as his Saviour he became a new creature. Old things passed away; all things became new to him. He immediately began serving his Christ, but not without opposition and hardships, for when he came in contact with his old pool room cronies and other companions in sin they would poke fun at him, saying, "We know you. You are _____." You used to shoot pool and drink with us." My friend answers, "I am not the _____ who used to shoot pool, drink, curse and do the other things of which you speak. I have the same physical features as he had, but now I am a new man. I have no desire for the things that the _____ you knew loved." Then he quotes the words of the Text, "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold all things are become new." He says that the conversations end when he testifies to his old cronies in sin, "I am now in Christ, and Christ is in me." A true testimony like that should, and usually will, end the criticisms of those who would lead us back into our old ways of sin. But we must be sure that our lives prove what we testify with our words.

Rev. I. J. Blackwelder, in his introduction to the Sunday school lesson of January 22nd on "Parables On Discipleship," gives us the following in his quarterly, The Bible Teacher:

"Christian discipleship requires more than moral rectitude, social respectability, and charitable service. It requires more than even to wear the name of Christ through church membership, conformity to ritual, and religious activities. The Pharisees did all these things and then some; yet, the Lord Jesus Christ called them hypocrites and denounced woe upon them for their lack of faith and heart sincerity. In the first of the two parables in The Printed Text, the Lord Jesus makes humility and self-renunciation indispensable to Christian behavior and spiritual exaltation. . . ."

One of the best articles I have ever read on the Text we are considering is the following paragraph by Oswald Chambers. Read it carefully and consider it prayerfully:

"If we are saved by the grace of God it means not only that we are delivered from perdition, but that we are new creations in Him. The condemnation is to know a thing and not to work it out. We know that we have experienced the grace of God, but are we living the life of regeneration in our actual experience? We take the Christian view up to a certain point and exploit it according to our belief. The average Christian says: 'Oh, yes, I am saved.' Well, produce your goods: where are the characteristics in you that Jesus Christ taught us to expect in a Christian? In what way are you different from other men? Are you just as hard in driving a bargain as they are? If Christianity does not affect my money and my marriage relationships, it is not worth anything. Today men are asking, not so much: 'Is Christianity true'; but: 'Is it real? Does it amount to anything in actual life?' If I have a personal relationship to the Lord Jesus Christ on the basis of His redemption, it will show in the way I live, in the way I act towards others. 'Old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.'—Selected.

FATHER, FORGIVE THEM

"Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do" (Luke 23:34).

Let us go to Calvary to learn how we may be forgiven.

And then let us linger there to learn how we may forgive.

There shall we see what sin is, as it murders the Lord of love.

I. WE SEE THE LOVE OF JESUS ENDURING:

- To the closing act of human malice.
- To the utmost endurance of shame (Philippians 2:8; Hebrews 12:2).
- To the extreme limit of personal suffering (Psalm 22:1-18).

II. WE SEE THAT LOVE REVEALING ITSELF:

- Love, when in a death-agony, still prays.
- Love thus brings heaven to the succor of those for whom it cares.

III. WE SEE HOW THE LOVING JESUS PRAYS:

- For His wanton murderers in the very act.
- For their full and immediate forgiveness.
- For no other reason except their ignorance; and this plea grace alone could suggest or accept.

IV. WE SEE HOW HIS PRAYER BOTH WARNS AND WOOS.

- It warns, for it suggests that there is a limit to the possibility of pardon.

Mrs. Florence Haithcock

On Friday, August 26, 1955, God in His infinite mercy called our beloved mother, Mrs. Florence Haithcock, of Spruce Pine, Alabama, to her heavenly reward. Though she had been seriously ill for three weeks her faith was never failing. She was 76 years old and had been a member of the Chiger Hill Free Will Baptist Church, Franklin County, Alabama, for many years. There her funeral was conducted by Brother Jim Godsey, assisted by Brother Johnnie Jones, both of Franklin County.

She is survived by two sons, Frank Haithcock of Phil Campbell, Alabama, and Joe Haithcock of Dayton, Ohio; two daughters, Mrs. Harvey Scott of Spruce Pine, Alabama and Mrs. Viola Knight of Elaine, Arkansas; 19 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren and a host of friends. May God bless her family and all who loved her, and may our loss be her eternal gain. May her loved ones look to God for strength in their sorrow, and may they gain that faith she possessed.

Note of Thanks

"I want to take this opportunity to express my deepest and sincere appreciation to each and everyone for the many wonderful things that were rendered to me and my husband, Rev. W. A. Dail, during his illness and for all the gifts and cards at Christmas. I also want to express my appreciation for your continued kindness through his death. I feel that the Lord so wonderfully blessed me through many dear friends who helped me in these sorrowful moments. My prayer is that the Lord will bless you all."—Mrs. W. A. Dail, Winterville, North Carolina.

Revival Results

"Greetings in the name of our wonderful Saviour. Since we have a pastor now in Huntsville, we are back in revival work. We spent some time in Missouri in the fall and had two revivals with 16 conversions. Two of the meetings were short and held with Brother and Sister Mikel in a little mining town. They have souls saved at their services almost every Sunday. These are fine people. We stayed in their home at Greentop, while the meetings were held.

"We then went to be with Sister Mildred Gilliam, pastor of the New Harmony Church near Greentop, Missouri. The weather was very cold—below zero most of the time. We had only four saved, but a precious meeting for the saints of God; we feel the church was greatly revived. It was our privilege to be in Brother and Sister Gilliam's home all during the meeting. They were wonderful people to be with and work with and we pray God's blessings upon them.

"We will return in a few weeks to conduct two more revivals with Hazel Creek Union and Low Ground Churches. We also went to Miami, Florida, for Christmas with our daughter and family. It was a precious time. We visited Brother Goodwin's church and preached twice and had fine services.

"We will be reporting our work all along and may this be a great year with all of our dear people. We do praise the dear Lord for all the great victories of last year. It was wonderful to hear of new churches being organized and the mission fields growing to the extent that more missionaries would have to be sent.

"God bless His precious Word that it may take root in the hearts of many and bring them to Christ before it is too late. God bless all our kindred in the Lord everywhere."

Yours for Jesus,
H. M. and Lizzie McAdams,

B. Men may so sin that there shall remain no plea of ignorance; nay, no plea whatever. It woos, for it proves that if there be a plea, Jesus will find it.

THE SABBATH

"This is one day out of seven, which from the creation of the world God has set apart for sacred rest and holy service"—Treatise.

"And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: . . ." (Genesis 2:3). ". . . The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath: Therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath" (Mark 2:27, 28). These words were spoken by the Lord Jesus, by whom the worlds were created.

"Under the former dispensation, the seventh day of the week as commemorative of the work of creation, was set apart for the Sabbath"—Treatise.

"Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it" (Exodus 20:8-11).

"Under the gospel, the first day of the week, in commemoration of the resurrection of Christ, and by authority of Christ and the apostles, is observed as the Christian Sabbath"—Treatise.

"Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them. And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre. And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus. And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments: And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee, Saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again" (Luke 24:1-7). "And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, Saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon. And they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in breaking of bread. And as they thus spake, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. But they were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen a spirit. And he said unto them, Why are ye troubled? and why do thoughts arise in your hearts? Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have" (Luke 24:33-39).

I want to say right here, that Jesus said, while talking with the woman at Jacob's well, that "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24). These words of Jesus Christ completely set aside, as false, the statement that is made by some religionist that "God had a tangible body, that is perceptible to touch." The Son of God says differently. Yes, God is a Spirit.

The fact that Jesus had a tangible body on this occasion does not substantiate the fact that the Father has a tangible body. Paul says, ". . . There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. And so it is written, The first man Adam was made a living soul; the last Adam was made a quickening spirit" (1 Corinthians 15:44, 45). Jesus had not yet ascended to the Father, when He appeared unto the disciples. Seemingly, if Christ had appeared as a Spirit unto the disciples, they would not have believed in the resurrection.

We deviated from the subject to express the fact that our faith in God is that He is a Spirit, and we worship Him in spirit and truth.

"Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord" (John 20:19, 20). (We will have more to say on this subject, when we write on the resurrection.)

"And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you. Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it unto my side: and be not faithless, but believing. And Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord and my God. Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed" (John 20:26-29). From this we believe that the only way for Christ to convince His disciples that He was alive was to show Himself in a tangible form. They were affrighted at the thought of a spirit—something that could be seen but not tangible. So it took flesh and bone to convince them. There is nothing said about blood. His blood was shed on Calvary's Cross.

Let us think again on the Sabbath. Remember that eight days after the first appearance, is the next first day of the week. The disciples assembled on this, the eighth day. Sunday is the eighth day from the last Sunday.

"And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place" (Acts 2:1). Pentecost came on the first day of the week. Thus the Christian Sabbath was sanctified by the appearing of the Holy Spirit and all the believers were baptized into one body. "And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, . . ." (Acts 20:7). "Now concerning the collection for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye. Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come" (1 Corinthians 16:1, 2). Notice that it was orders to all the churches, and notice that it says the first day of the week—not the seventh. "I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet, Saying, I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: . . ." (Revelations 1:10, 11). So the Lord Jesus is the first and the last and He is the authority for the first day of the week as being the Christian Sabbath. Also notice that the disciples met to break bread on the first day. This was to worship the risen Christ. They met on the first day of the week—not the seventh.

A KIND PROTECTOR

EVERY spring, as long as Marjorie could remember, she and her mother had gone to Foxhole Wood to pick primroses. This year, Mother was ill.

"The primroses will soon be all gone, Mother, and we won't get any," said Marjorie. "Will you be well enough to go soon, do you think?"

"I'm afraid I cannot go this year, darling," replied Mother. "But you and Jane may go and get a big basketful, and we'll send some to the hospital."

Marjorie was fond of Jane; but going with her would not be like going with Mother, and she had to wink hard to keep from crying, but she held back the tears and chatted brightly, until she had to go away and let Mother rest.

"I cannot go until Saturday," said Jane, when Marjorie told her what Mother had said.

Suddenly the little girl had a bright thought. Why should she not go by herself, that very morning, and get some primroses for Mother?

"I'm eight years old—quite big enough to go alone," she told herself.

Putting on her hat and coat, she seized a basket and joyfully hurried down the lovely country lane.

It seemed a long, long way this time; she had never gone so far by herself before. Just as she turned the corner to go into the woods she saw a big Newfoundland dog trotting quietly along by the hedge. He came up to Marjorie, wagging his tail and looking so friendly and gentle that the little girl was not at all afraid.

"You darling big doggie!" she exclaimed as she patted his head, which was nearly on the level with her own. "Do come with me! We're both out by ourselves, and I don't very much like being alone."

She had placed her basket on the ground for a minute. To her surprise and delight, the big dog picked it up and stalked solemnly along by her side, carrying it in his mouth.

They soon reached the wood. Scrambling through a hole in the hedge, Marjorie gave a cry of delight; for the ground was simply covered with primroses.

"There must be millions of them," she told herself. "I do wish Mother could see them—she would think them so lovely!"

Taking her basket from "Bruce," as she called her new friend, she quickly began to fill it with pretty yellow flowers. Bruce, meanwhile, lay down with his nose on his paws and went to sleep.

Marjorie worked steadily until she had

The Beautiful Snow

Oh, the snow! the beautiful snow,
Filling the sky and earth below!
Over the housetops, over the street
Over the heads of the people you meet,

Dancing, flirting, skimming along.
Beautiful snow! it can do no wrong;
Flying to kiss a fair lady's cheek.
Clinging to lips in frolicsome freak.

Beautiful snow from the heavens above,
Pure as an angel, gentle as love.
Once I was pure as the snow, but I fell;
Fell, like the snowflakes from Heaven—
to Hell;

Fell, to be trampled as filth on the street;
Fell, to be scoffed, to be spit on and beat.

Pleading, cursing, dreading to die,
Selling my soul to whoever would buy;

Dealing in shame for a morsel of bread,
Hating the living and fearing the dead.
Merciful God! have I fallen so low?
And yet I was once like this beautiful snow!

Helpless and foul as the trampled snow.
Sinner, despair not! Christ stoopeth low
To rescue the soul that is lost in sin,
And raise it to life and enjoyment again.

O God, in the stream that for sinners did flow,
". . . wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow" (Psalm 51:7).

—Mountain Grove, Missouri, Church Bulletin.

filled her basket. She was just ready to sit down and tie them up in bunches, when there was a rustling in the undergrowth, and a very rough-looking man appeared.

"Hello!" he cried, taking hold of Marjorie's arm, "what are you doing here? Picking primroses, eh? Where's your nurse, or your mother?"

"I'm by myself," replied Marjorie timidly. "Mother is ill."

"Then you may just come with me," said the man, beginning to pull her along roughly. "I want that nice coat of yours, and your hat—they'll do very nicely for my little girl at home."

Marjorie screamed and struggled. "I won't go with you—I want to go home!" she cried.

"Stop that!" ordered the man, putting his dirty hand over her mouth, "or I'll make you."

At this moment there was a fierce bark. Bruce sprang through the bushes and stood growling, showing his teeth.

It was the man's turn to be frightened now. Quickly dropping Marjorie's arm, he took to his heels and made off through the woods as fast as he could.

Marjorie picked up her basket, scrambled through the hedge and taking hold of Bruce's collar hurried down the road. When they reached the corner where they had met, Bruce stood still. Licking Marjorie's hand, as if to say good-by, he jumped over a gate, ran across a field and was soon out of sight.

Marjorie never saw her kind protector again. She learned that Bruce belonged to a gentleman from London, who had been staying in the country, and who left the day after she went for primroses, taking the dog with him.

When Mother heard the story, she said she was sure that God had sent the big dog to take care of her little girl.

"But darling," she added, "you are not old enough to go so far by yourself. You must never run off like that again."

"I'm sorry Mother," said Marjorie. "I didn't mean to run away, and I never will again."

I am glad to say that Mother was able to go for primroses herself the next year. She and Marjorie had a lovely time, but they wished that Bruce had been with them.—Chatterbox.

Trust yourself to God, no matter who you are. He can make something out of you no matter what or where you are. He'll find you. He found many in a desert land. He led them out, He instructed them, He kept them as the apple of His eye, because He loved them. He can do that for you, if you let Him.

Tarboro G. T. A. Meets

The G. T. A. of the First Free Will Baptist Church, Tarboro, North Carolina, met at the home of Mrs. T. F. Allsbrook on January 26, with Mrs. Allsbrook and Mrs. Melvin Williamson as its leaders.

The meeting was called to order by singing "The Bible Tells Me So." Mary Jo Pittman then led the group in prayer.

The evening program was taken from Mark 15. Those taking part on the program were Doris Williamson, Barbara Baily, Fay Emerson, Sandra Mills and Joyce Williamson. Following the discussion, the group sang several choruses. The roll was then called with 14 members and 1 visitor present. The minutes were read and approved. After the old and new business, the group sang the closing hymn, "Where He Leads Me." The group dismissed by praying together the Lord's Prayer.

Edward's Chapel Auxiliary Holds Candlelight Service

The Woman's Auxiliary of Edward's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church of Merrimon, North Carolina, held its installation service at the church, Sunday night, January 22, 1956, at 7:00 o'clock, with the pastor, Rev. Clifton Styron, as the installing officer.

The Scripture was taken from Titus 2. The candles were lighted as each officer accepted her duties. When all candles had been lighted, the pastor dismissed the service with a prayer of dedication.

The auxiliary requests the prayers of everyone, not only for its own officers, but for officers all over the nation. By His leadership may this be a fruitful year for the women's work, and may Christ be exalted as He has never been before.

Mrs. Laura Hardy,
Program Chairman

Bridgeton Auxiliary Holds Installation

The installation service for the new officers of the Bridgeton Auxiliary was held Sunday, January 22, 1956, at the Bridgeton Free Will Baptist Church, Bridgeton, North Carolina.

Mrs. J. W. Overman Sr. planned the installation service and was to have been in charge of the service, but sickness intervened and the pastor, Rev. Clinton Lupton, was called upon to fill her place.

Eleven candles were tied with white ribbons and joined to a larger candle which represented the Holy Spirit. These candles were placed on a table in front of an open Bible. The officers sang "Jesus Calls Us," as they took their places. The Scripture was taken from 1 Corinthians 3:9-18. The pastor informed each officer as to what her immediate duties would be, and each lighted her own candle from the larger one representing the Holy Spirit. The pastor led the officers in a prayer of dedication. Everyone then joined hands and sang together, "Blessed Be The Tie That Binds."

Edward's Chapel, Woman's Auxiliary Meets

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Edward's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, Merrimon, North Carolina, met on Monday night, January 9, 1956, at 7:00 o'clock.

The group opened the meeting by singing together the hymn, "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us." After the president read the Scripture Lesson, the pastor, Rev. Clifton Styron, led the auxiliary in prayer.

During a short business period the new officers were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Una Hardy; vice-president, Mrs. Mary Tosto; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Thelma Pittman; youth chairman, Mrs. Vera Carmon; study course chairman, Mrs. Carretta Hardy; program-prayer chairman, Mrs. Laura Hardy; benevolence chairmen, Mrs. Margaret Dawson and Mrs. Lois Edwards; orphanage chairmen, Mrs. Ellen Dixon and Mrs. Lillian Lewis; social service chairmen, Mrs. Nannie Pittman, Mrs. Evilee Mason and Mrs. Appie Hardy.

The auxiliary is looking forward to a prosperous year in 1956.

NOW IS THE HOUR

Following is a quotation from a recent letter from Rev. Wesley Calvery from Tokyo, Japan:

"We were happy to hear that the Herseys will be joining us soon. We trust that the Lord has led and will continue to lead all the way. I will get right down to your questions and plans for their coming to Japan.

"The most urgent thing for them now is that they get started with the language. Thus if at all possible, they should be here ready to start language school on April 9. If not, they must wait until July for the summer session which is held in the mountains about 40 miles from Tokyo. If they can begin in April we will be here to help them in the many problems that they will have as newcomers. We plan for the term ending July 1 to be our last term in school. After that we will probably not be in Tokyo. Considering everything, it will be much better if they can be here by April 1. So, if at all possible, please make arrangements for them to be here then. It is not advisable for them to start to language school late but, if they cannot be here by April 1 they can study with a private teacher until the next term starts."

Visas to India have been refused Rev. and Mrs. Fred Hersey and it has been agreed by those concerned that they should enter the field of Japan. This is advised by our missionary there and also the missionaries on other fields who know the problems entailed by leaving lone missionaries on the field.

It will require between two and three thousand dollars for passage and equipment to get this fine couple and their baby into Tokyo, which today remains one of the greatest mission fields in the world.

We only have a short time in which to raise this money and to get these missionaries to the field. We are going ahead by faith and arranging for the space on steamship and also trusting that much of the equipment will be provided by churches and auxiliaries on the field. You might note elsewhere in this issue the enclosed copy of articles that are needed to equip them for service on the mission field.

It has been some time since we have actually sent a new missionary to the field and we believe that now is your opportunity to help do it. Remember this must be over and above your regular missionary giving. Let us rally to this special project at this time.

The Herseys indeed are worthwhile folk. They have proven themselves in every respect and we are anxious for the funds to come in for them to be sent to Japan. Let us not keep them waiting. Send your offerings today, designated for the Hersey fund. Make a special donation to the Hersey fund that we might plant a new missionary team in Japan.

The Herseys will be doing itinerant work in the different churches in the near future, and in the event they arrange to come to your church, we believe that you will do your utmost to give them a good reception and a fine offering to hasten them on to Japan. We are confident that the recommendation of Brother Calvery is noteworthy and we would certainly like to have them there in time for the language school which begins April 9.

After the visa refusal to India the Herseys expressed their willingness to go either to Africa or Japan, but somehow we believe the Lord would have them to join our staff in Japan at this time. We have hopes, of course, of opening a field in Africa at a later date and we are praying that the Lord will provide sufficient personnel for this field.

EQUIPMENT SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HERSEYS

Household Equipment (the following are a must)

Refrigerator—electric, one of the small, compact ones is best.

Portable kerosene heater—the tall, round ones with a bail (bring two).

Kerosene stove for cooking—Perfection brand with 3 or 4 burners and either portable or built-in oven is satisfactory.

The following are a must also, but now because there are many armed forces personnel here moving about, their used ones may be bought cheaper than buying and shipping; so if you do not already have these do not buy but bring money to buy here:

Washing machine
Large kerosene heating stove
Sewing machine
Typewriter
Radio
A good mattress
Bring any electrical appliances you have except a clock, as it won't work. Also bring any that you may receive as gifts such as toaster, mixer, etc.
Electric blanket—if possible, especially if you have difficulty in getting warm at night in the states, as it's much worse here.

Kitchen—a good set of pots and pans, a pressure pan with extra parts, a good can opener, stainless steel silverware, pyrex dishes. Dishes are everywhere here but if you have a few very heavy ones bring them.

Household linens—pillows, about 12 sheets, about 30 bath towels, hand towels, washcloths, dish towels, (pure linen is cheaper here), a few doilies, curtains and anything else you would use at home.

Blankets—about 6 or so heavy ones (can be bought here).

Books

Bring the good books you have on hand that you think you might use. Be sure to include: a good dictionary, medical books, Bible commentaries and Bible study books, a good book on etiquette. If some friend wants to give you a subscription to some good magazine, accept it because you will appreciate it very much. Bring any flannelgraph material which you have used.

Food and General Supplies

Bring at least a year's supply of coffee, cocoa, jello, shampoo, deodorant, lotions, creams, razor blades, shaving cream or soap, aspirin, Lux soap flakes, vitamins, home medicines. (Jellies are expensive; so if you like them, bring Sure-Jell. There is none here. Also put in some cans of sandwich meat such as Spam, and if winter, some cheese. These can be bought here but are from three to five times the price in the states.)

Clothes

Japan is quite a bit like the States in climate. Tokyo, being like the central states, except it is more humid in summer and has hard, drying wind in winter. The people in Tokyo dress the same as in the States, wearing very nice clothes. You'll probably be in Tokyo the first year and a half or longer except perhaps for the summer. The houses are open and no heat much at all; so more clothes are needed in winter and the chlorine in the water wears out all clothes and linens quicker than in America. So, judging accordingly, I suggest bringing all the clothes one needs for the first two years or so and then, if

Life's Greatest Choice

(Lesson for February 19)

Lesson: Luke 18:18-19:10; Luke 19:1-10.

Golden Text: Joshua 24:15.

I. INTRODUCTION

Our Scripture lesson for today (Luke 18:18-19:10) takes in, besides other matters, the decisions that two men made when they came into the presence of Jesus, and His claims were made known to them.

The two characters whom we are to study at this time were both Jews. They were both rich in this world's goods. And they both made an earnest attempt to see Jesus. The one was a rich young ruler; the other was a publican. They were at the opposite ends of the social scale as men judge. The young ruler had standing in society. He belonged to the upper class and was received and honored wherever he went. The publican was a servant of the Roman government. This class was looked upon as renegades, traitors to their country. They were generally classed as sinners (Luke 19:10; Matthew 18:11). They were not acceptable in the best society. They both met Jesus and had a call from Him. But there was a difference; one went away sorrowing; the other remained rejoicing.

One would have thought that this young ruler would have made the right choice because of his eager desire to see Jesus. Mark tells us that he came running to Jesus and kneeled before Him. Such haste and deference on the part of a ruler were rare. Note that the rich young ruler and Zacchaeus were genuinely anxious to see Christ.—R. Clark, D. D.

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. Wherever Jesus went while on earth below, He sought to save the lost whether rich or poor (Vv. 1, 2).
2. There are many things to obstruct the view of those who long to see the Lord Jesus Christ (Vs. 3).
3. There is always a place from which to see the Lord by all who avail themselves of it (Vs. 4).
4. There is many a home where Jesus would abide if only He were given a welcome inside (Vs. 5).

5. Those who would have the Lord honor them must first of all come down to Him (Vs. 6).

6. Jesus freely forgives all sinners who repent, and He expects us to do the same (Vs. 7).

7. Salvation is sure to come into the homes of all who let Jesus come into their hearts (Vv. 8, 9).

8. That which was lost includes all men, for all have sinned and are lost without Him (Vs. 10).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Furthermore, no person can escape making choices. Life is such that an individual must make many decisions every day, some of minor importance and some that will affect the remainder of his whole life.

The student must remember that a person's choices are influenced, in extremely great measure, by his past experiences. He weighs the results of past decisions, either consciously or unconsciously, and makes his new choice in the light of the outcome of the satisfactory or unsatisfactory reactions to past decisions of a similar nature. For this reason, it becomes more and more difficult for a person to choose Christ as he gets older and has accumulated a larger store of experiences which are all based upon natural reasoning. The things of the Lord are spiritual and cannot altogether be interpreted in terms of the natural mind.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

2. George MacAdams said, "And it is true that many of the earthly treasures that come as gifts cost us more than they are worth. He was a wise pastor who arose in his pulpit one morning and asked prayers of the congregation for a young man who had just fallen heir to a large fortune. There are many men, who, to guard and nourish the business which they have developed, are required to give more and more of that life which in its value is above comparison with the business. The duties and pleasures of the home, the companionship of books, the association of choice friends are all given up, and some men have given their souls to guard earthly treasures.

More and more must the world appreciate the philosophy of Jesus who said, 'But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal.'—The Bible Expositor.

3. Free moral agency is an important theme of study. The freedom of the human will is a profound mystery. On this account some fatalists have refused to believe in freedom. We have had fatalists both in philosophy and theology. It is interesting to observe that human thought at its best has reached a stage, both in the church and in the school, where you can hardly find a fatalist. Even though they cannot explain it, they believe in the freedom of the will. Not only is man's will free, but his power of choice is immeasurable. Quite often in history have there been determined men and women who have almost performed the impossible. Joshua pointed out the fact that there is mystery in choice. He had made a blueprint for himself and his house, and he challenged every normal citizen of Israel to do the same and do it now. "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve."—Higley's Commentary.

4. There is such a thing as limited freedom of the will. A child's acts must be controlled to prevent broken bones, serious injuries or even death. Yet even a child is allowed to choose for himself to a certain extent. So while God is all-powerful, yet He has given men the privilege of exercising freedom of the will in some things, at least. Our Golden Text bears out this truth and John 3:16 confirms it from the lips of Jesus Himself.

Just the Same at Home

A Salvation Army lassie, testifying in a crowded meeting to her love for Christ, was interrupted by a man on the back seat.

"That all right," he said, "but how do you behave when you are at home?" Quick as a flash she responded.

"There's my mother, sitting just in front of you. Ask her."

The mother arose and quietly said, "She lives at home just as she talks here."

Could your mother say the same of you? No service for God is of such value which is contradicted by the life in the home.—Selected.

If you meet someone without a smile give him one of yours.—Selected.

Questions and Answers

1:8? There were several miracles performed in which the apostles were loosed from prison and set free, but they were not all set free every time they were imprisoned, for probably all of them except John died as martyrs to the cause of Christ. Some, in the days of Acts, spoke in tongues without going through the ordinary strenuous task of mastering the language. Some prophesied without studying prophecy; however, not many of them did. Some, in the mission field, have been able to speak the natives' language with little or no effort, but this is not generally the case; for most missionaries must struggle diligently for many years without being able to speak to a native so as to be understood as well by another native as if one of his fellow countrymen were speaking. I think, it would be a sin for me to seek the gift of tongues that I might glorify myself. Were I to do this, I would be aiding Satan in his subversive program, for God is the One whom we are to seek to glorify.

they can't be found here, they can be made or sent from the States. Most things can be bought here at about the same price but sometimes sizes are a problem. Two distinct types of clothes are needed. For the hot, humid weather: open sandals, light cottons, crinkle nylons, etc. Do not bring any red clothes nor many bright colors, as they are not commonly worn here. Bring all the good clothes you have plus some new ones.

Suggestions for Women's Wear:

Shoes—good walking shoes (no heels except those you already have, as the sidewalks and streets are bad for walking), boots, golashes, lined house shoes or any lightweight warm shoes for house wear.

Hat—only the one you will wear.

Underwear—part wool slips, undershirts and knee length panties. For the summer a lightweight four-gore shadow panel cotton slip is nice; and they, as well as all underclothes, wear out quickly here.

Nightwear—very lightweight for summer and heavyweight for winter.

Coats—bring very heavy one with zipper lining, and don't forget raincoats, as it rains very often here.

Sweaters—at least 8 or so cardigan sweaters as well as slipovers, wool blouses, skirts, wool dresses, gloves, scarves, etc. All skirts should be full, as you will sit on the floor when visiting. Try to bring one or two very heavy sweaters as they have to be custom made here. If you have a pair of wool slacks bring them, and also a heavy bathrobe.

Suggestions for men's wear:

This should follow about the same line of thought. Men cannot wear red at all, except for maybe a little in a tie. If you have any other bright colors on hand bring them but do not buy new bright colors. The men wear mostly dark blue, gray, black and brown, although lately they are beginning to wear a few bright colors. Pay special attention to the following:

Sweaters—plenty of wool ones.

Socks—heavy wool ones. (If you wear over Size 8, bring plenty socks of all kinds.)

Underwear—heavy for winter and light for summer.

Pants—dress pants for school or khaki, and a few heavy pairs of pants.

Shoes—good ones for walking and a dress pair. Loafers are nice as you take them on and off so much here, also heavy shoes for winter.

Shirts—good supply of dress and sport shirts, but no loud shirts.

Suits—two or so for each season.

Rainwear—rainshoes, boots and rainhat.

“If I had a thousand lives, I would give them all for Africa.”—David Livingstone.

PARSONAGE OF FAIRMOUNT PARK CHURCH NORFOLK, VIRGINIA

The congregation of the Fairmount Park Free Will Baptist Church, Norfolk, Virginia, was made very happy a few weeks ago when the pastor, Rev. Fred A. Rivenbark, announced that there was a sufficient amount of funds in the treasury to erase the indebtedness on the parsonage of $4,996.88. The church realized a saving of nearly $1,000 in interest by paying off the note at the time.

The parsonage was erected in the fall of 1951 under the leadership of Rev. W. A. Hales at a cost of $13,517. The membership of the Fairmount Park Church dedicated the parsonage to God on February 12, 1956. The home consists of eight rooms and two baths.

The pastor states: "Mr. Wilton H. Dail, trustee, made the presentation of the check to the bank with great joy flooding his soul."

UNPARALLELED OPPORTUNITY

There are a few opportunities which come to individuals and groups only once in a lifetime, and we should like to give you information about an opportunity which seems to be opening up for Free Will Baptists in North Carolina at the present time.

On Monday night, February 6, the editor had the privilege of sitting in on a committee meeting in the office of the president of Mount Olive College which convinced him that Free Will Baptists were on the eve of experiencing a rare opportunity indeed. It was a meeting of the president and business manager of the college with a committee from the city of Mount Olive. The discussion centered around planning a drive for funds for Mount Olive College. The city of Mount Olive is joining hands with Free Will Baptists to canvass the entire area within a 50-mile radius of Mount Olive. Committees were selected to spearhead every phase of the drive, and we were overwhelmed with the enthusiasm expressed by everyone present.

While this committee was in session, the Chamber of Commerce of Mount Olive was having a luncheon and business meeting in the cafeteria of the college. A member of the chamber reported to the committee that the chamber had endorsed the drive for funds for the college and was offering the services of its members to participate in the campaign.

The campaign is already receiving wide-spread publicity, and those concerned believe that this is the opportune moment for Mount Olive College. Since the proposed Presbyterian college has by-passed Goldsboro, Kinston and Snow Hill, North Carolina, in its search for a site, the people of Mount Olive believe that many of the pledges made throughout the area to the Presbyterian college may be transferred to Mount Olive College.

The editor of the Goldsboro News-Argus, in the issue of Saturday, February 4, had this to say about Mount Olive College as an alternate institution for support by the city of Goldsboro, North Carolina:

"While Goldsboro spearheaded the effort for the Presbyterian college, the entire county gave enthusiastic help. So outstanding was the response from Mount Olive that it drew particular notice.

"The people of that town in the past two years have shown that they appreciate the opportunities offered by Mount Olive College. It is supported by a denomination which has 50,000 members in North Carolina, most of them in Eastern North Carolina. This denomination, the Free Will Baptists, is third in strength numerically in Wayne County. In the past ten years the Free Will Baptists in Wayne had a larger percentage gain in membership than any other church.

"The strength of the church and its new interest in education, plus the help of Mount Olive people, has seen Mount Olive College firmly established in the past two years. Enrollment already has doubled. Marked progress toward full accreditation by the state has been made. This will be accomplished in full this year or next. Rev. W. Burkette Raper, president of the college, has demonstrated his capabilities for the high position he has.

"Here is a going institution that has done much with little. While it is sponsored by the Free Will Baptists, it is a college serving all the public even as the new Presbyterian college will. It has proved itself, and already it is important in the life and future of Wayne County."

On Monday, February 6, the Goldsboro News-Argus carried a four-column front page article entitled, "Fund Raising Campaign Planned to Enlarge Mount Olive College." An excerpt from this article is as follows:

"Preliminary plans for an all-out fund raising campaign to enlarge Mount Olive College here were made yesterday. The junior college is in its second year of operation, supported by the Free Will Baptist churches of the state.

"It is an interdenominational group who met here yesterday, many of them workers in the recent campaign to bring Presbyterian College to Goldsboro.

"We can't let those college pledges go to waste," Mr. M. M. Lownes, chairman of the steering committee, said last night. "This money has been put up for the education of our children by people who recognize the need of a Christian college in this area. Thousands of people have indicated by their recent pledges that they want an educational institution here, and we're going to give it to them."

On Tuesday, February 7, the Mount Olive Tribune published a front page streamer, "Begin Drive Soon to Aid Local College," together with an article describing the plan which were being made. Among other things the article said, "A concerted effort is being made by a group of interested citizens in Mount Olive to take advantage of pledges made to Goldsboro, to divert these pledges, or as much of them as possible, to Mount Olive College.

"Pledges made for the Presbyterian College were to be paid over the next five years for business firms, provided the college was to be located at Goldsboro. Now that Wayne County has been by-passed by the committee which will determine location of the college, local friends and supporters of Mount Olive College are seeking to get as much of this financial backing for the institution here as possible.

"A meeting of some of those pushing the campaign for the school here was held in the fire house Saturday afternoon at 2:30, when an executive committee of Mayor B. E. Bryan, Alderman Ray Scarborough, Former County Commissioner C. D. Burnette, Mrs. Rodney Knowles, Mrs. Milton Lownes and Dr. C. C. Henderson was appointed.

"This executive committee, with other interested persons met in the Baptist Church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and began formulating plans for conducting the campaign."

On Monday and Tuesday evenings, February 13, 14, kickoff luncheons for all the workers in the campaign were held in the cafeteria of the Mount Olive College. At the present time the drive is underway. It is spearheaded by people of all denominations who are interested in Mount Olive College. When we asked the chairman of the steering committee what control the committee would want to exercise in the spending of the money raised, she answered, "The only thing we are interested in is that we have a good Christian college here. We do not ask for any control. We have confidence in the administration of the college to believe that the money will be spent wisely to give us, as soon as possible, an accredited liberal arts Christian college."

Free Will Baptists, here is an unparalleled opportunity for us. Nothing so good as this has ever happened to us in the field of Christian education. We can do no less than match the money which these friends of the college are raising.

We challenge every Free Will Baptist church in the state to give to Mount Olive College during the February drive as it has never given before. We cannot afford to let those who are not Free Will Baptists give more to our educational institution than we give ourselves.

Soul Winning

IN THE CHURCH AND ITS AUXILIARIES

Mrs. S. T. Dunning
Jakin, Georgia

(Editor's note: This is the text of a message which was delivered by the writer at the quarterly session of the Midway Association of Georgia on January 19, 1956, at Albany, Georgia.)

SOUL winning is big business—the biggest business in the world. The saving of sinners is the thing which is dearest to the heart of God. "... Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; ..." (1 Timothy 1:15). "... thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins" (Matthew 1:21).

The Bible has much to say about this business of soul winning. For instance, in Proverbs 11:30 we read, "The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life; and he that winneth souls is wise." In Daniel 12:3 we find, "And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever." Another verse found in Isaiah's prophecy, Isaiah 52:7 says, "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; ..."

Perhaps one of the most important verses concerning this business of soul winning to be found in all the Bible is to keep them thinking this way, of course, and thus he is able to rob them of the job and keep them from fulfilling this definite responsibility and privilege.

There are Christians who feel that they are not properly equipped for this work of soul winning, since they have not had the privilege of attending Bible training schools or seminaries. But all true believers can win souls for Christ.

We wish to say, here, that only those who have truly been saved through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ can win others to Him. For if we have never been to Calvary for cleansing, we could not possibly lead some other person to the Christ of Calvary. Possibly there are many who are trying to work for God who have never experienced the miracle of the new birth in their own hearts and lives; and still some may be undertaking religious work that may build up credit with God and thus obtain salvation. This is entirely contrary to the revelation of the Word of God, for salvation is not obtained by works of righteousness which we have done, but is based upon the work of the Lord Jesus Christ, who gave Himself for our sins—who died, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God; therefore, we are saved by grace through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and on the basis of His shed blood.

Once we have received Christ as our Saviour we are ready to really work for Him. And the greatest work is to bring someone else to His feet—and we can do this in our church and all of its auxiliaries as we live for Christ and witness for Him to the lost through each of these organizations.

Here are some questions for each Christian to ask himself: Do I really want to win another to Christ? Am I really concerned about the salvation of others? Do I wish to win others to Christ through the evangelistic efforts of my church and its auxiliaries of which I am a member? If the answer to these questions is in the affirmative, let us consider just how we can really be a soul winner.

We said earlier that one of the really great verses on soul winning is Psalm 126:6, "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." In this verse God has given to us the simple but great steps in soul winning. Here is a sort of formula, or pattern which, if followed, cannot help but yield blessed results, according to the promise which it contains.

Soul Winning in the Church and Its Auxiliaries

You will notice that the first thing required by this verse is action on the part of the real soul winner. God the Holy Spirit here shows us that the first requirement in soul winning is going after souls. The word go is a common word of action.

In Isaiah 6 the Spirit calls, "Who will go for us?" And in the Great Commission which our Lord gave to the church He said, ". . . Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel . . ." (Mark 16: 15). The chief reason why Christians do not win souls is that they simply do not personally respond to this command of the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Christians who are responsive, and who keep going at the business of soul winning, who constantly are seeking others for Christ, who make soul winning their chief business in life, are the ones who will reap the soul winner's reward and blessing.

Too many of us are waiting for the ideal opportunity. There is no such thing, for the natural heart of man is at enmity against God; and Satan who controls the unregenerate people about us, will see to it that there are no so-called opportunities. We must be instant in season, out of season.

Now there are right ways and wrong ways to go after people for Christ. The business of winning others to Christ calls for grace and consideration. It is truly to be a work of tender thoughtfulness, although there are times when the soul winner will be used by the Holy Spirit to rebuke the unbeliever, not in his own strength, however, but in utter dependence and under the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

If we are ever to be a soul winner it will mean more than offering prayers for the salvation of souls. It will mean more than just having concern for the lost; it will call for adding feet to our prayers. We will never win others to Christ through our church and its auxiliaries until we are ready to go after them.

This wonderful verse in Psalm 126 indicates that the real soul winner will be a person of deep compassion for the lost. Great soul winners have always been those with broken hearts for those who are bound for eternity without Christ. The Lord Jesus Himself was a man of compassion, "But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd" (Matthew 9:36). Again we see Jesus weeping over Jerusalem, pictured as the Father seeking the lost son, the Good Shepherd seeking the lost sheep. It was the great, moving love of the Saviour's heart that drove Him to Calvary.

The apostle, Paul, wept over the Ephesian Church (Acts 20:31). Great evangelists down through the ages have wept as their hearts were broken for the lost.

We sometimes sing, "Care for the dying— weep over the erring one." Do we really weep? Do we really care? There is not much weeping today over the lost. Let us never be ashamed of tears as we seek to win the lost to Christ.

The next thing in this marvelous formula which God has given us is found in the words precious seed or the Word of God. Others are not saved by our tears, nor are they saved by their own. If we are to win sinners to Christ we will not only need a heart of compassion but we will also need to use the precious seed, or the Word of God. Jesus said in His parable, Luke 8:11, that "The seed is the word of God."

The soul winner must early learn that it is not by argument, or just by human influence that souls are won to Christ. The use of God's Word is absolutely essential. We must rely upon His Word, which is the sword of the Spirit, to do the work of the Holy Spirit.

To be effective soul winners in our church and its auxiliaries, we must saturate ourselves with the Word of God. We should learn such verses dealing with sin and salvation, as Romans 3:10, 3:23, and 4:5. We must show, first of all, the complete necessity of salvation by the use of the Word. Having brought the person who is being dealt with to the point where he sees his lost condition, we need now to show him how the Lord Jesus completely meets his need. Here we might use such wonderful gospel verses as John 3:16; 5:24; 6:37 and 6:47. Then, as the sinner recognizes the glorious truth of salvation through Christ on the simple bases of believing and receiving Him, we should call for an open confession on the part of the one being dealt with. Such verses as Romans 10:9, 13 are helpful here. We see from this that real salvation in every convert's heart and life must be based upon the Word of God.

This wonderful verse in Psalm 126 now tells us that if we will be faithful in going and sowing the seed of the Word with hearts of compassion, we will most definitely have certain and blessed results, and shall doubtless come again bringing his sheaves with him.

Not all of those with whom we deal will come to Christ, but some will, if we keep at it in God's way. Not all of the seed mentioned in the parable of the sower brought forth fruit, and many of those who followed Jesus when He was on earth believed; but some fell away and this is ever true. But if we are faithful in going, weeping, and sowing we shall bring our sheaves with us.

This verse in the Psalm also indicates that great joy will accompany the faithful work of those who strive to be soul winners. There is no joy on earth like this. This is the early reward of the soul winner which God permits him to enjoy now, quite apart from the joy in heaven which is yet to come. So let's do our part in our church and its auxiliaries of which we are members to win the lost to Christ.

From My Desk . . .

L. C. Johnson, L. H. D.

As we look back over the fourteen-year operation of the Bible College there has never been a time when the institution has been embarrassed by unpaid bills. This is a record every Free Will Baptist should be thankful for. This has been accomplished even though the school opened with practically no money in the treasury and the good will of the people, its only asset.

The management of the institution has been of such quality that Free Will Baptists have been willing to invest enough money to keep it operating in the black.

On January 1, 1956, your Bible College became entirely debt free. Not one penny is owed on any of the property we have. Thank you and may God bless you and your part in making this possible.

Now with all of the things we have to be thankful for, we still have many needs. The first need that always must be taken care of is enough money to meet our current expenses. We have not been receiving enough from individuals and churches for operating purposes. Gifts must increase if we operate with the same expenses we now have. I do not see how we can cut down on expenses without asking our teachers and employees to work for less money. You do not want this to happen because they are only getting average salaries. We are asking you through your church or individually to support the Bible College with more of your gifts so we can

Keith Y.P.A. Holds Meeting

The Keith Y. P. A. of the Washington, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church, held its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. James Sutton, with Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. James Waters as its leaders.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Betty Lou Morris. The minutes were read by Jessie Carney. The group then joined in singing the familiar hymn, "Jesus Saves," followed with prayer by Rev. Charles Keith. Joan Asby read the Scripture for the meeting which was taken from Psalm 23. Faye Waters, treasurer, gave her report and collected the monthly offering. Immediately following, Yvonne Carney dismissed the group with prayer.

After the meeting, Mrs. Sutton served refreshments and the group enjoyed playing games. There were 12 members present and 4 new members added.

Attention Youth Chairmen of North Carolina Woman's Auxiliaries

Our spring district conventions are fast approaching, and we want to begin preparing our local youth to participate in our Declamation and Essay contests. Many of the conventions will be held in March, so it's time now, even this week, to get our young people lined up, with materials in hand, and a date set for a local rally in which they can present their orations, readings or essays. One is to be chosen, according to submitted rules, from your group to be sent to the district convention in March or April. The winner from the district, then being chosen and sent to the state convention.

Youth chairmen, let us allow our cup of enthusiasm to run over in our youth groups and fill their cups, so that they will be anxious to enter this contest. Our subject for the Declamation Contest this year is "Missions," instead of "Stewardship," as in previous years. So could you have a really interesting mission program this month, stimulating their interest in missions? Then perhaps they would be ready to launch forth in the contest. We do not want any local auxiliary to let this opportunity go by. We want to enlist our youth in this program, for we feel that through it a spark may catch fire in some of their lives, that will bring forth great results in channeling them to be soul winners on the great mission field that is in such a need of reapers.

You will find rules governing the contest on Page 124 of your 1956 Woman's National Auxiliary Year Book. These rules, together with the rules of the National Essay Contest are to be found again on Page 63 of your Young People's Auxiliary Program Book and again on Pages 62 and 63 of the programs for Free Will Baptist G. T. A.s. These rules have also appeared twice in "The Free Will Baptist" during the past few months, so I feel sure that you are already well posted. May you accept this writing as a reminder and as encouragement to begin your work in February.

I might mention that the Essay Contest is new this year, but we do not want to neglect the opportunity to work with our youth on this great subject of "The Family Altar," praying that much and lasting good will be reaped by concentrating our thoughts and efforts on the needs of family altars in all of our Christian homes.

We feel sure that the district youth chairmen have plans already to take care of these contests in the district conventions this spring.

Today's youth is tomorrow's church. Let us put much time and prayer in the training for this great Church of tomorrow.

Youth Chairman, North Carolina, Woman's Auxiliary Convention

Shady Grove Auxiliary Meets

The Woman's Auxiliary of Shady Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Durham County, North Carolina, met February 3, 1956, in the Fellowship House.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. C. E. Parrish. The group then sang, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Mrs. J. R. Hildebran, program chairman, used as her topic, "We Need Prayer Warriors for Such a Time as This," written by Mrs. K. V. Shutes of Nashville, Tennessee. Other parts on the program were presented by Mrs. Buck George and Mrs. Fred Carpenter. Mrs. Joe Haas closed the program with a special prayer for the auxiliary and the church.

Mrs. J. L. Clemments, president, presided over the business session. Motions were carried to hold a food pounding for Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, and to give an offering of $10 to the Children's Home at Middlesex, North Carolina, for their latest project of remodeling the girls' dormitory. Mrs. Buck George adjourned the meeting with prayer. The hostesses, Mrs. J. E. Ferrell and Miss Ella Ferrell, served delicious refreshments to the 10 members present.

Mrs. Stilley Hostess To Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of Smyrna Free Will Baptist Church, Blounts Creek, North Carolina, met Friday, January 20, at the home of Mrs. Allie Stilley.

The meeting opened with the group singing, "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us." Miss Lovie Rowe read the Scripture for the evening and Mrs. Arthur Norman led the group in prayer. Twelve members were present at the meeting. Report of activities for the month was: Bible chapters read, 207; get-well cards sent, 3; sick visits, 26; gifts to sick, 1.

The program, "We Need to Know God's Word for Such a Time as This," was very interesting. Those taking part on the program were Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mrs. Thelma Bennett, Mrs. Mable Rowe, Mrs. Minnie Tripp and Mrs. R. C. Bell. After the business session the auxiliary was adjourned by praying together the Lord's Prayer.

After the meeting there was an auction sale of articles of needle work, candies, cakes and pies, which the members had brought. This sale amounted to $19.65, and will be used on the project of buying new pulpit furniture for the church. Following the sale, everyone was served delicious refreshments by the hostess, Mrs. Stilley.

February Is Education Month In North Carolina

The North Carolina State Convention of Free Will Baptists has designated the month of February as a time for the churches in the state to take special offerings for Christian education. The Rev. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, in a letter to the churches says:

"I am writing you in the interest of thirty-eight full-time students who are now enrolled in classes here at Mount Olive College. These are our own sons and daughters, and they have placed themselves in our hands for their college education. If we serve them now, they will serve us later; if we fail them now, we will lose them forever.

"The North Carolina State Convention has designated February as "Education" month, and we hope that you and your church, Sunday school, woman's auxiliary and leagues will help us this month. It costs $100 per day to operate Mount Olive College. Let me suggest that you and your people contribute $100 this month to the college and let us designate a day in your honor.

"Use whatever plan is best for raising funds for the college in your church. If you cannot raise $100, please do what you can. Here at the college we are working day and night for you, and during February we are asking that you work for our youth.

"We thank you for what you have done for the college, and as you work for us this month, our prayers will be with you. Your church will receive full credit for what you send.

"We will be looking forward to hearing from you about March 1."

Cragmont Assembly Launches Drive for Funds

A drive for $10,000 for repairs to the property of Cragmont Assembly Inc., mountain retreat of North Carolina Free Will Baptists, located near Black Mountain, was formally launched at a meeting of the board of directors of the institution held at Kinston, North Carolina, on February 3, 1956, in the office of Rev. Clifton Rice.

At this meeting the 1956 board was organized for work with Rev. James A. Evans as chairman, Rev. Wayne Smith as vice-chairman, Mrs. J. C. Moye as sec-

Revival at Grace Church, Greenville, North Carolina

Rev. C. L. Patrick
Walstonburg, North Carolina

The Grace Free Will Baptist Church, Greenville, North Carolina, held its mid-winter revival January 29-February 4, 1956. The Rev. C. L. Patrick, pictured above, was the evangelist during the revival.

The pastor of the Grace Church, Rev. Rashie Kennedy, says:

"The meeting was a great success. Biblical and powerful gospel messages were delivered each night. God gave us some beautiful weather. Great crowds attended the services. Several people rededicated themselves to the Lord. We had two to join the church. The meeting was preceded by a series of cottage prayer meetings and the revival spirit was in full swing when the meeting started.

"Six people had joined the church just before the meeting. We want to give God the glory and praise. We praise God for the many visitors attending the meeting. We also praise God for the faithfulness of the members."

retary-treasurer, and Mrs. L. E. Ballard as assistant secretary.

Mrs. L. E. Ballard was elected by the board as field representative of the assembly and director for the drive. She will handle all publicity and correspondence regarding the drive from her home in Bladenboro, but all funds are to go directly to Cragmont Assembly, Box 178, Black Mountain, North Carolina.

The board approved the following plan for the drive:

Apron Campaign: The women of North Carolina are being asked to make and sell 5,000 aprons at $1 each.

Sunday Schools: Each school in the state is being asked to send in $6 as soon as possible for the fund. This may be appropriated out of the treasury or raised through a special offering at the option of the school.

Free Will Baptist League: Each league is asked to donate from $3 to $5, according to size of the league.

Cragmont Stockholders: Each stockholder representative is asked to raise $50.

Churches: Pastors are asked to raise $30 in each of their churches for the fund.

Mrs. L. E. Ballard, field representative, makes this extra plea:

"We earnestly solicit donations from all conventions, union meetings, etc., and individuals to this fund. The names of all organizations or individuals giving $100 or more to this fund will be placed on a plaque in the main building at the assembly, or, if preferred, the donation will be dedicated as a memorial to some departed loved one, or in honor of some

Bobby Jackson In Georgia Revival

Rev. Bobby Jackson

The First Free Will Baptist Church of Thomaston, Georgia, will hold revival services February 22-March 3, 1956, the services beginning each evening at 7:30. The Rev. Bobby Jackson of Ewing, Illinois, will be the guest evangelist.

The Rev. L. S. Anthony, pastor of the Thomaston Church urges the public to attend the services.

Activities of Intermediate League Of Greene County, Mississippi

On the fifth Sunday in October of 1955, the Intermediate League of the New Love Well Free Will Baptist Church, Greene County, Mississippi, presented a program on missions, with the central thought of foreign missions being emphasized.

Early in the fall, the league promoted the idea of purchasing a sign for the church. This idea was fulfilled by the erection of a sign directly in front of the church.

At Christmas, the league organized a group of carolers who visited the shut-ins of the community, presenting them with a small gift as a token of love and interest.

In the campaign for the March of Dimes the league contributed a donation.

Miss Geraldine Walley, reporter, says, "We covet the prayers of everyone for our league's continued growth."

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

Question: Please explain the Free Will Baptist position on speaking in an unknown tongue. I believe that God reversed the tongue-confusing miracle He performed at the power of Babel when He sent the Holy Spirit at Pentecost to enable the one hundred twenty disciples to speak in their own language and be heard and understood by all those named in Acts 2:4-8. Am I right?—M. W.

As to whether or not we might call the miracle on the day of Pentecost a reversal of that which God performed when He confused the tongues of the people in His judgment upon them because of their rebellious activities at the tower of Babel, I hardly know. There is a sense in which this might be said to be true for the tower builders, in seeking to make a name for themselves, left God out and sought to prepare a way to heaven without Him and in disobedience to what He had said for them to do. In the Pentecost experience the disciples were obeying orders. See Acts 1:4-8. With the tower builders God exercised mercy as He brought the language handicap upon them causing them to obey and scatter abroad where they could multiply and replenish the earth. This condition was permanent or to last throughout the age. At Pentecost these men experienced this in this exact pattern only once. In the case of those cursed at Babel they passed the handicap on down to their posterity. We, their descendants, are still handicapped in communicating with those of a different tongue. The disciples' children are handicapped, and also their spiritual children, if you would like to apply it to all who are begotten by the gospel they passed on down to us. D. L. Moody, R. A. Torrey, Billy Sunday, Gypsy Smith and Billy Graham, all Christians that God has used in a most marvelous way, have had to speak through an interpreter as they have preached in the various nations of a different language than that with which they were born. This being true, let us not seek the gift of tongues, nor any other achievement or any other special manifestation as being sufficient to our needs, but Christ and His will for our lives. For thus He promises to supply our needs. "But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Luke 12:31).

Question: I have read some of your answers to questions on the subject of eternal security in The Free Will Baptist which give what is supposed to be the reason why we as a denomination do not accept this doctrine. I am still puzzled and do not have a clear understanding on the subject. Will you please explain "... Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life" (Revelation 2:10) and give me other Scriptures with sufficient explanation so that one may see how they fit this subject?—Miss Martha Currey.

Answer: This passage, like every other passage of Scripture, should be read and interpreted in the light of what goes before, or as we generally say, in the light of its context, and also in harmony with the whole Bible. These epistles or messages of warning addressed in letter form to the seven churches of Asia Minor which appear in the second and third chapters of Revelation seem to be offered in an effort on God's part to turn the churches from a backslidden condition in which they are found before they reach that backslidden condition which takes them into the realm of apostasy. I use the terms backslider and backslidden condition, to designate a person who, as a Christian, has not kept up his pace or Christian growth in harmony with or according to what the Bible teaches that a Christian should do. The Christian, having by the new birth come into the family of God, has a certain set of instructions or rules given in the Scriptures by which to walk, or to keep in harmony with the family of which he now is a member. He is further told in the Bible what he may expect the result to be if he carefully and meticulously obeys these instructions. He is also told in the Bible what the result will be if he fails to obey them. He is also given examples or illustrations where both groups of people and individuals have obeyed and thereby met with pleasant results. He has the subject illustrated again in examples that show bad results for both individuals and groups of individuals who do not obey, but rather disregard these instructions. The outcome is the same whether the application is made to the individual, to a certain class, to a nation or to the whole race. I use the term apostasy or apostate condition to designate a sphere of evil or a sinful condition or a realm of disobedience that a Christian may achieve or enter into and never be able to come out since there is no way out. Christ is the way and the only way by which a sinner who is dead in trespasses and sins may come from that state or realm unto God. He said, "... I am the way, the truth and the life: ..." (John 14:6). All who have not been born again are in this lost condition. See Isaiah 53:6; Romans 3:23, 6:23; John 3:3-21. If someone should think the above indicates that my view on the state of infants or children before they know enough to confess their sins is contrary to our doctrine as one person did, I wish to say that my view is identical with that set forth in the Free Will Baptist Treatise and definitely opposed to Calvin's, which says that there will be infants in hell not a span long.

When I use the term "eternal security" I mean what some Calvinists say or teach that it means, viz., that one who is once saved cannot be lost for such is impossible regardless to what he does, says, or thinks. The reason why I do not believe this view to be correct is that the Bible seems to me to teach just the opposite view. Hebrews 6:4-6, "For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame." "For if we sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, But a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries. He that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses: Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace? For we know him that hath said, Ven-

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNAHOA, N. C.

"And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: . . . So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; . . ." (Genesis 1:26, 27).

It is not my purpose in writing this article to show that God created man in the beginning, because all fundamental and evangelical Christians know that to be a true teaching of the Bible. All fundamental and evangelical Christians know, also, that the Bible is God's inspired Word, and that, being God's Word it is true. It is, however, my purpose to write about the condition of man as God created him. In later articles I shall try to point out how man destroyed God's image in himself, and how he may regain the image of God.

After creating the world, the sun, the moon and stars, the plants and all animal life, the Almighty seems to have paused before the creation of man as if the task called for great care and deliberation. Someone has said that the Us is variously explained as hinting at communion between God and angels, or the great truth of the trinity.

I do not know where Crittenden found his authority for the following paragraph, but it is thought provoking and worth reading and considering:

"When God, in His eternal counsel, conceived the thought of man's creation, He called to Him the three ministers who wait constantly upon His throne—Justice, Truth, and Mercy—and thus addressed them: 'Shall we make man?' Then said Justice, 'O God! make him not; for he will trample upon Thy laws.' Truth made answer also, 'O God! make him not, for he will pollute Thy sanctuaries.' But Mercy, dropping upon her knees, and looking up through her tears, exclaimed, 'O God! make him. I will watch over him with my care through all the dark paths which he may have to tread.' Then God made man, and said to him, 'O man! thou art the child of Mercy; go and deal with thy brother.'"—Selected.

The material side of man (his body) was formed by God out of the dust of the ground. This he has in common with the lower animals. We do not believe that man's material body is in the image of God, for God is a spirit, and yet man is above the beasts, for he has a soul and in this he is, or was, in God's image; and, too, he has a reasoning mind, he is a creature of free will, conscience, and a capacity for holiness.

Alexander McKenzie says of the creation of man as the supreme act of God in the whole work of creation in that He breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. "The breath of God unchanged became the breath of man; man received life of the life of God. With this divine life he was a living soul. At that moment religion became possible. For the first time there was in the earth a person whom God could love. It was Godlike to make a man."—Selected.

In Psalm 15 is to be found a picture of the man in whom the image of God appears. Here is one of the Bible descriptions of the Godlike man. The portrait emphasizes inward purity and truth and outward uprightness, kindness and justice in thought, word and deed, hatred of evil, reverence for good, absolute integrity, liberality, and the tender care of others. Spurgeon once said, "Let us betake ourselves to prayer and self-examination, for this Psalm is as fire for the gold, and as a furnace for silver. Can we endure its testing power?"

Man was created by God holy, pure, upright, without any stain of sin. Why then the condition we find ourselves in today?

REPENTANCE

(2 Peter 3:9)

I. REASONS FOR PREACHING IT

- A. The Old Testament prophets preached it.
- B. John the Baptist preached it.
- C. Jesus' ministry opened with it.
- D. First disciples preached it.

II. IT IS UNNATURAL TO REPENT

- A. Therefore it is commanded (Acts 17:30).
- B. Therefore it is contained in warnings: "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."
- C. Jesus calls sinners to repentance.
- D. The goodness of God leads to repentance.

III. REPENTANCE MUST BE VOLUNTARY

Repentance presupposes love, worship, service and obedience to God, all of which, to be pleasurable to Him and us, must be voluntary.

IV. REPENTANCE INVOLVES BOTH THE GOODNESS AND SEVERITY OF GOD

- A. The sinner would not repent if he believed God was only good; a knowledge of God's severity produces fear both of and for Him.
- B. The sinner would not repent if he believed God was only severe; a knowledge of His goodness creates love for Him.

by letter and delegates. Eleven ministers, ten deacons, five church clerks and twenty-six delegates were present.

The officers of the conference are: Mr. M. B. Williams, moderator; Elder Henry Doyle, assistant moderator; Elder Austin Mullen, clerk; Mrs. Geraldine Johnston, assistant clerk. Those wishing to communicate with the clerk may write Elder Austin Mullin, Box 28, Saffell, Arkansas.

Reports from the churches gave the following information:

A resident membership of 878; new members received, 8; deaths, none; one new church received, the First Free Will Baptist Church of Newport, Arkansas, with 33 charter members; 9 Sunday schools with enrollment of 579 pupils and 36 teachers; 7 leagues with a membership of 279; one deacon ordained for the new church.

The financial report is as follows:

Amount paid pastors, $1,110; to cooperative fund, $115.19; to foreign missions, $44.85; to home missions, $40; for publication, $41; for evangelistic work, $67.25; for building and repairs, $958.50; to Calvary fund, $10.98.

The clerk of the quarterly meeting says, "We had six sermons during the meeting, a lot of good singing and dinner and a wonderful fellowship."

The next meeting will be held with Pool's Chapel Church near Cushman, Arkansas, on April 27, 28, 1956. Elder Clarence Berton will bring the introductory message.

First Quarterly Session Midway Association of Georgia

The Midway Association of Georgia held its first quarterly session of the new year with the First Free Will Baptist Church of Albany, Georgia, on January 19, 1956.

There were 11 ministers present and 19 churches represented at the meeting. The sum of $455.80 was brought from the churches to the session. The amount of $305.50 was prorated to the various causes supported by the association.

The Rev. C. B. Dowdney brought the associational message, and the body was served lunch by the Albany Church.

The next quarterly session will convene with the Live Oak Church, Baker County, Georgia. The Rev. Coy Watson will bring the associational message.

Sunday School Conference Held in Florida Church

The Rev. William Mishler, promotional secretary for the National Sunday School Board of Free Will Baptists, conducted a Sunday school conference at the Piney Grove Church near Chipley, Florida, January 29—February 3, 1956. The conference was sponsored by the Sunday School Convention of the Liberty Association of Florida. The Rev. W. E. George was in charge of the arrangements.

There were two classes daily, 10:00-11:30 a. m. and 7:00-8:30 p. m. The following topics were studied: "The Sunday School is the Agency of the Church"; "Finding Your Place in God's Program"; "Setting Up Your Objectives"; "Preparing Your Lesson"; "Sunday School Workers"; "Proper Organization"; "Keeping Records."

The Rev. Rufus Hyman of Slocumb, Alabama, who attended the conference says:

"The conference was very successful. All ministers, Sunday school workers and Christians enjoyed a real spirit of revival during the conference. Since this was the first Sunday school conference ever held in this section, the ministers present, W. E. George, C. A. Huckaby, W. B. Hughes, A. B. Cook and I agreed that the Sunday School Board should arrange conferences throughout the denomination."

V. WHY YOU SHOULD REPENT NOW

- A. Your heart is getting harder; sin is hardening.
- B. The "great gulf" between your soul and its God is getting wider.
- C. Because "God is not willing that any should perish."
- D. Jesus is not willing; He died for you.

THE EXPLANATION OF SALVATION

For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men (Titus 2:11).

I. THE GRACE OF GOD

Unmerited divine favor (Ephesians 2:8).

II. BRINGETH SALVATION

There are many words that arouse interest and emotion such as "home," "mother," "love." There is, however, no greater word than this word "salvation." The Psalmist said, "The Lord is my light and my salvation." To Zaccheus Jesus said, "This day is salvation come to this house." The writer of Hebrews questioned, "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" And Paul added, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation."

III. HATH APPEARED TO ALL MEN

- A. Availability—He is "not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance."
- B. Sufficiency—"He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him."

IV. NOT ALL MEN ARE SAVED

- A. It is not God's fault. He fully expended Himself for our redemption.
- B. Neither is it that men are too great sinners. "Where sin abounded, grace doth much more abound."
- C. They are not all saved because of:
  1. Rejection.
  2. Lack of faith.
  3. Neglect.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

THE SABBATH (continued)

"The stone which the builders refused is become the head stone of the corner. This is the LORD'S doing; it is marvelous in our eyes. This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it" (Psalm 118:22-24). Personally, I believe that the Lord of the Sabbath, the one who was the stone refused by Israel, is the head of the corner. He is the authority, together with His apostles, for the day of the Lord which represents His resurrection and which is as stated, the first day of the week. So far as I know, there is not a person who claims to be a Free Will Baptist who denies that the first day of the week is the New Testament Sabbath.

We now take you to the twenty-third chapter of Leviticus where we will study the various feasts of the Lord.

"And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, Concerning the feasts of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations, even these are my feasts: Six days shall work be done; but the seventh day is the sabbath of rest, an holy convocation; ye shall do no work therein; it is the sabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings" (Vv. 1-3). This is the first feast as given; then the second feast is the Feast of the Passover which the children of Israel were to observe. It was a reminder of the deliverance from bondage in Egypt and was also a pointer to the redemption which was to be wrought by Christ, who is the Christian's Passover. "These are the feasts of the LORD, even holy convocations, which ye shall proclaim in their seasons. In the fourteenth day of the first month at even is the LORD'S passover" (Vv. 4, 5).

Following this was to be the feast of unleavened bread. This was a memorial feast. "And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread. In the first day ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein" (Vv. 6, 7).

The next feast points to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus. Therefore we will pass over Verses 9-14 at this time and will refer to them when we study the resurrection.

Now let's go directly to Verse 15 where we see the Feast of Pentecost set forth as the Christian Sabbath. "And ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the sabbath, from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the wave offering; seven sabbaths shall be complete: Even unto the morrow after the seventh sabbath shall ye number fifty days; and ye shall offer a new meat offering unto the LORD. Ye shall bring out of your habitations two wave loaves of two tenth deals: they shall be of fine flour; they shall be baked with leaven; they are the firstfruits unto the LORD" (Vv. 15-17).

The wave loaves were offered fifty days after the wave sheaf. This is the exact time between the resurrection of Christ and Pentecost. Fifty days from the resurrection would put Pentecost on the first day of the week—the morrow after the seventh sabbath—seven sabbaths would be forty-nine days. The following day would be the fiftieth day which is the first day of the week—the day that we call Sunday. Verse 21 of this same chapter says, "And ye shall proclaim on the selfsame day, that it may be an holy convocation unto you: ye shall do no servile work, therein: it shall be a statute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations." Thus we have the antetype of the Lord's Day as set forth by the Lord Himself as He gave the commandment to Moses.

THE FOURTH COMMANDMENT

The Fourth of the Ten Commandments was only a foregleam of the Christian Sabbath. Jesus Christ never said anywhere, as we have found, that we should observe the Fourth Commandment. He was accused of breaking the Fourth Commandment by the strict legalists. His disciples went through the field, broke the ears of corn and ate them. The enemies of Christ said it was unlawful. "At that time Jesus went on the sabbath day through the corn; and his disciples were an hungred, and began to pluck the ears of corn, and to eat. But when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the sabbath day" (Matthew 12:1, 2). To them Jesus said, "For the Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath day" (Matthew 12:8).

Paul says, in speaking of the law and the New Testament, "Who also hath made us able ministers of the new testament; not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life. But if the ministration of death, written and engraven in stones, was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the face of Moses for the glory of his countenance; which glory was to be done away: How shall not the ministration of the spirit be rather glorious? For if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more doth the ministration of righteousness exceed in glory. For even that which was made glorious had no glory in this respect, by reason of the glory that excelleth. For if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious. Seeing then that we have such hope, we use great plainness of speech: And not as Moses, which put a veil over his face, that the children of Israel could not stedfastly look to the end of that which is abolished: But their minds were blinded: for until this day remaineth the same veil untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which veil is done away in Christ" (2 Corinthians 3:6-14). Thus we learn that the Fourth Commandment was done away in Christ, as it was on the tables of stone, which Moses took down from the mountain to the Israelites. Christ taught the First and the Second of the commandments and approved the others except the Fourth, which was done away in Christ, the Lord of the Sabbath.

May we notice what Paul says again in regard to law observances. "Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross; And having spoiled principalities and powers, he made a shew of them openly, triumphing over them in it. Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath days: Which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ" (Colossians 2:14-17). Yes, Free Will Baptists believe in the Lord's Day being the first day of the week—the resurrection day. We observe the day of His resurrection, and not the Jewish Sabbath.

BOYS and GIRLS

FUN FOR FRISKY - -

Verna Todd

FRISKY was a dog which belonged to the Johnsons in Pennsylvania. It was a beautiful, bright day—perfect for traveling. That is just what the Johnsons were planning to do. It was vacation time for them. Frisky was to have a new home while they were gone. He was going to stay with the Whitmores, relatives of the Johnsons.

Whitmores lived on the outskirts of town. Mr. Whitmore was a business man. The friendly atmosphere of the Whitmore home was felt by all visitors. Frisky was sure to have a good time with the Whitmore children. The frolick, fun and folly of the three boys and three girls would be a wholesome delight.

The Johnsons arrived early in the morning with Frisky. One by one the Whitmore children ran to the car. The tail of the little black and white dog wagged furiously. Frisky felt the excitement of the day. Soon the boys were running across the fields with Frisky close at their heels. The Johnsons started on their journey.

Everything seemed to be going well between the children and Frisky until one day. It was a day long to be remembered by the children. You see it happened this way. Mother called from the kitchen door, "Eddie, watch Frisky."

Mrs. Whitmore did not wait for Eddie to answer, but went right on with her work. Eddie was very busy, as only boys can be at times, and never even heard his mother.

Frisky, enjoying the freedom that was his, decided to take a hike. Perhaps do a little exploring in this new neighborhood. This was to be Frisky's day for fun. Never before had he known such freedom. He had always been closely watched.

About the middle of the morning Mother called again from the kitchen door, "Where is Frisky?"

"I do not know," replied Eddie.

Quickly Mother called the other children. Ernie came from the workshop. Betty and Grace raced down the steps from upstairs. Irene and Joe ran from the front yard. All knew by the sound of Mother's voice that something was wrong.

"It's the dog . . . Frisky," said Mother shakily. "I'm just afraid he is lost."

Everyone stood still for a few moments. No one had seen Frisky all morning. Knowing how fond the Johnsons were of Frisky made the news more dreadful to the family. All work must cease! Everyone must help find the lost dog.

The children quickly scattered in every direction. The boys whistled for Frisky. The girls called, "Frisky! Frisky!" They looked in the fields, in the woods, in the mine hole and even down by the river.

By late afternoon everyone had given up in despair. Mr. Whitmore came home and was greatly concerned when he heard about the dog. "We can pray and ask the Lord Jesus to help us find Frisky," he said. Mr. Whitmore had only recently accepted the Lord Jesus as his Saviour from sin.

"We can pray but we will have to keep looking," said Grace.

"We cannot waste much time it is true, it will soon be getting dark," said Mr. Whitmore.

As Father and Grace continued talking Irene whispered to Betty, "Let's go upstairs and pray."

Irene and Betty hastened up the steps to their bedroom. The girls knelt by the bedside and began to pray. Surely God would not disappoint a trusting child. "And all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive." It was there the Lord directed their thinking to look for Frisky on the other side of the bridge.

After the girls finished praying they opened the Bible to Luke 15. Betty and Irene rejoiced as they read the account of the one lost sheep. God gave them the assurance that they would find Frisky.

Father and Grace were still talking as the girls came down the steps. Quietly Betty and Irene slipped out of the house. There was no doubt in their mind which way to go. Across the bridge they went as fast as they possibly could go. Their hearts beating wildly.

Just as they got across the bridge they saw a lady with Frisky. A big sigh of relief escaped the lips of the girls. "Thank the Lord!" they exclaimed. hurriedly they rushed up to the lady. The girls were so happy they cried.

After a brief explanation to the lady the girls were homeward bound with Frisky by their side. As they neared home there were shouts of delight from the children. Joe took Frisky in his arms. Father and Mother came to the front door. The family rejoiced together that Frisky was found. Irene and Betty knew for sure it was only in answer to prayer.—My Pleasure.

Little Lights

"What did you do at Junior Missionary Society this afternoon, Mary?" asked her mother as they were doing the supper dishes together.

"Oh, we had such a nice meeting," said Mary. "We did something I'll never forget."

"We learned two Bible verses. Jesus said, 'I am the Light of the world,' and another where Jesus said that we are lights in the world, too. Then we went out in Mrs. Peterson's back yard where the big lily pool is," said Mary. "Mrs. Peterson brought out a tall white candle and lit it. We all said the verse together; Jesus is the 'Light of the world.' She gave each of us a tiny little birthday candle which was fastened to a lily leaf. We each lit our candle from the big white candle. We put our candles on the water and then we watched our lights floating around."

"How pretty that must have been," said mother. "What did you say the pool meant?"

"That pool means the world where we live. My little candle sailed way out in the middle. Some went way across. They all went in different ways. Mrs. Peterson said that is the way we will go. Maybe some of us will be missionaries and go far away. Some of us may always stay at home. But she said we can all shine for Jesus, wherever we are and make our place bright.—The Little Folks.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY DEPARTMENT

Florida Auxiliary Enjoys Spiritual Revival

The Florida Liberty District Woman's Auxiliary Convention held a study course on the Manual of Methods the week of January 16-22 with Mrs. Gertrude Ballard of Bladenboro, North Carolina, as the teacher.

The study course became a great revival from the very first service. The Lord placed His hand on Mrs. Ballard the very moment she took the stand. People came and followed this meeting from as far as forty miles away. The meetings were held daily at different churches in the district, and were attended by both men and women, preachers and laymen. People were overheard to say that the study course was "one of the best things that has ever happened to Northwest Florida." The closing meeting was held at the Chipley Free Will Baptist Church and was indeed a great rally. Chester A. Huckaby, District Moderator

Greenville Auxiliary Adopts Resolutions

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Greenville, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church met Monday night, January 23, 1956, in the church auditorium.

The opening hymn, "Wonderful Words of Life," was sung, followed with prayer by Mrs. Bob Peele. The Josephine Stevens Circle had charge of the program for the month which was "We Need to Know God's Word for Such a Time as This." Those participating in the program were: Mrs. Floyd Nobles, Mrs. Howard Brewer, Mrs. Bill Taylor, Mrs. Bob Peele and Mrs. John Langley.

Following the devotional, the president, Mrs. Bill Taylor, opened the business session with a prayer. Minutes of the December meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was also read and approved. A thank you card from the adopted orphan child was read, thanking the auxiliary for the useful gifts received at Christmas while visiting in Greenville. The study course chairman, Mrs. Alfred Cates, announced a study course for February 1-8, studying the book, "Scripture Memorizing and Successful Personal Work."

Motions were made and accepted that the auxiliary adopt the resolutions as following:

1. Be it resolved that in the future all financial reports to district and state treasurers be made by a finance committee, consisting of the auxiliary treasurer, as chairman, with the treasurer of each circle as members. This report is to be a combined report of the auxiliary and the circles.

2. Be it resolved that all dues be discontinued and each circle contribute one third of the total offering and project profit. This would not include money for books, etc.

3. Be it resolved that the auxiliary projects be assigned to the circles so that each circle will be working on some project at all times. Just as soon as one project is completed another will be assigned.

4. Be it resolved that there be one person from each circle appointed to work with the individual chairman of each phase of auxiliary work.

An offering amounting to $13.53 was received. All circles were represented at this meeting, with 23 members and 1 visitor present. The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. George Clark.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Mr. Ralph Parker

On November 4, 1955, our beloved friend, Ralph Parker, went to live with his heavenly Father. Mr. Parker was 50 years old and had been a member of Marlboro Free Will Baptist Church, near Farmville, North Carolina, for several years. He had also been a deacon of the church.

We miss Brother Parker very much, but may our loss be his eternal gain. There is a vacant seat in the church and in the family circle that no one can fill. May he find peace in heaven, which we too hope to find someday. May his family look to God for strength in their time of sorrow. We all know that Mr. Parker believed in Christ who died on the Cross to redeem us for His own, and are assured that he has found his eternal reward.

Mrs. Clyde Brooks

Mr. Walter Wilson

Mr. Walter Wilson departed from this life on January 7, 1956, at the age of 61. He was a member of Juniper Chapel Church, Craven County, North Carolina, and was a Sunday school teacher in 1955. He was also chairman and treasurer of the church building fund. Brother Wilson will be greatly missed in our church and community, but we firmly believe that our loss was heaven's gain.

Through a testimony Monday night before he was operated on, we heard Mr. Wilson say it was well with his soul. That is a great consolation when one has to leave this life, so let us bow in humble submission to our God and Saviour.

Those left to mourn his passing are his wife, one daughter, one son and several grandchildren. May they find comfort and may their hearts be filled with that assurance that God knows best and that His will must be fulfilled. Brother Wilson's funeral was held at his home church by the pastor, Rev. Henry Armstrong, and Rev. John Grimsy. Let us all live so that we may greet him again someday.

From Our Missionaries

North India The Hannas

"The Lord is working in our midst and especially among our Santali people. One entire village of about twenty-three people has come out for the Lord. These things always thrill our hearts. Besides these, three Santals from three other villages have accepted Christ as Saviour and are awaiting baptism.

"Our mela opens January 20, and our conference follows closely afterwards. Please pray that His hand of blessing may be upon us in this and all our work for Christ."

Miss Volena Wilson

(Note: Miss Wilson visited with the Hannas a few weeks during the Christmas holidays, and here is what she writes:)

"It has been such a privilege to have been on the scene of so much blessing. I am grateful to the Lord for allowing me to share in the work. The responsibilities are many and the burden great, but I hear no word of complaint from these who must shoulder the burden alone; yet not alone, are they, as He is with them—only alone in the sense that there are no other missionaries on the field at the moment. Until now I have never fully realized the tremendous task in our work here in the North. I confess quite frankly that I turn my face again to the South with a heavy heart as I leave this place of overwhelming needs.

"Christ was so real to our hearts during the Christmas season. It seemed He cradled us close to His heart in His loving arms and we knelt before Him in adoration and praise. The deep contentment and peace and joy, that He alone can give, filled our hearts and we were lifted right up into the heavenlies."

Christmas Service In South India

Our Christmas season was a blessed one. We had over 200 in Sunday school and 300 in the church service. It was a thrill to see it. Five of our young men—products of our own church—gave brief messages on: The Shepherds Received Him, the Wise Men Sought Him, the Innkeeper Neglected Him, and the King Rejected Him, What Will you Do with Him? respectively. And in all the Sunday school class rallies held during Christmas week (we have 7 classes in the Sunday school now) there was real blessing. In our intermediate and senior boys' groups 14 either took their stand for the first time for Christ, or (4 of them) renewed their vows and asked for baptism. In the women's class 26 were present, and one of the greatest joys of all was to see the little woman who during our dedication time was under the power of demon possession, now joining in all the fun and inspiration and testimonies. She hasn't missed a Sunday since she started. There are more earnest enquirers than ever before. Even out on R. V. Estates, the place which has been so raw and so hard, it seems the Spirit is moving. Our own teacher, Abiezer, goes out each Sunday afternoon now and conducts a Sunday school for the children there.

South Africa General Missions Inc.

(Sponsoring Agent for Rev. and Mrs. Harold Stephens)

We have received your contribution for the spread of the gospel in South Africa and herewith express our very sincere appreciation and thanks. May God bless you according to His riches in glory through Christ Jesus.

A recent word just from the field, written by Rev. Ed. W. Smith from Rusitu Station in southern Rhodesia, will certainly send us all to our knees in prayer. We now give you a digest of his recent statement.

Mr. Reeves and I, with David Cikati, our African guide, went to visit the Limpopo River Valley, about 400 miles from Rusitu Mission Station. The people are the Bavonda tribe and have no missionary in their area; many have never before seen a white man.

After traveling over 50 miles into the area and seeing no one, we pitched camp for the night at a well. After supper, prayer, and the reading of the Word, we heard dogs barking and went to investigate. After some distance, we saw village fires. Approaching, I greeted the people in the Chindau language and to my delight and surprise some of the men responded in Chindau; therefore, I squatted down in African fashion and help out my hand in greeting.

Little by little we explained the way of salvation, the men translating to the women, for the people speak the Cikaranga language. They were all completely naked except for a loincloth and a blanket to shield them from the cold of the night. Never before had they heard the gospel. As they understood, one by one arose to accept the Lord Jesus as personal Saviour. One hundred and ten people heard the gospel that night who had never heard before. Pray for them that the Lord will send a missionary of His own choosing to evangelize in this untouched area.

Being True to Our Trust

(Lesson for February 26)

Lesson: Luke 16 and 19:1-27.

Golden Text: Luke 16:10.

I. INTRODUCTION

After the conversion of Zacchaeus in Jericho, the event which occupied last Sunday's lesson, Jesus and the multitude evidently set out for Jerusalem. This we suppose because Luke goes immediately into the account of today's lesson, saying that "... he was nigh to Jerusalem, ... " (Luke 19:11).

It is important to note the place where Jesus and the multitude were, because it is one of the causes for His giving the Parable of the Pounds. Jesus was about to enter Jerusalem in fulfillment of prophecy. Furthermore, because of this event, the crowd was speculating as to whether or not Jesus would enter upon the throne at Jerusalem at this time, "... and because they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear" (Luke 19:11).

That all men might know the truth about His Kingdom, Jesus spoke this parable. We shall discuss this fundamental truth in the light of the nobleman's journey, the position of the servants which he left behind, and the accounting which will be required of the lord's servants upon their master's return.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. Those who keep busy while their Lord is gone will reign with Him when He comes again (Vs. 12).

2. All who are called into the service of Christ are furnished with gifts with which to do their work (Vs. 13).

3. Those who oppose the King while He's gone will be destroyed by Him when He returns (Vv. 14, 27).

4. The servants of the Lord will all be called to account for the gifts they receive from Him (Vs. 15).

5. All who are faithful in the service of Christ are sure to be rewarded when their work is done (Vv. 16-19).

6. The excuses of those who use not their gifts will be to their shame instead of to their praise (Vv. 20-22).

7. It is only just that men should lose their gifts from the Lord which they will not use (Vv. 23, 24).

8. Those who are most industrious for their Lord should be given a chance to accomplish more (Vv. 25, 26).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Luke hangs the keys of this parable right outside the door. He states two reasons why it was spoken—"because He was nigh to Jerusalem, and because they thought that the Kingdom of God should immediately appear" (Luke 19:11). But the Lord's purpose in going to Jerusalem at this time was not to be crowned as King, but to be rejected and crucified. When He came into the world at His first advent, He did not come in power and great glory, but in lowliness, meekness, and humility. The coming in power and glory, spoken of in both the Old and the New Testaments, will be His second coming to the earth and the world.

In due time He will return to the earth again as King and possess the Kingdom. He will come in glory and will be accompanied by His holy angels and the saints (compare Matthew 24:29-31; 2 Thessalonians 1:7-10; Jude 14; Revelation 19:11, etc.). He will come in "like manner" as He went away (Acts 1:11); and to the Mount of Olives, from which He ascended (Zechariah 14:4). His Coming in glory and power to reign will be personal and visible (compare Acts 1:11; Revelation 1:7).—W. S. Hottel D. D.

2. Stewards in the parables are put out or promoted. We have a striking illustration of a reduced steward in the sixteenth of Luke, where we read (Verse 2), "Give an account of thy stewardship; for thou mayest be no longer steward." This man went down because he wasted his lord's goods. The charge was not so grave against the servant in this lesson. Yet he was deposed and cast out of the service for being of no account. He preserved it honorably as he thought, but rendered no service. The entire sense of our body of teaching today is, that it is not enough to be good, one must be good for something, in God's service—for as much as he is capable of of being good for. And indeed his capacity will increase as he uses it.

3. Christ here lays down the principle inherent in the parable. God's created goods have unlimited powers of reproduction, and he has not created things to be static. He will therefore not commit them permanently to the care of those who ignore his purpose and disobey his command. Says Whedon, "For every hath there is a richer hath; and in every hath not, a deeper, poorer hath not."—Higley's Commentary.

4. We note that the third servant made no effort to increase his pound by trading. The Christian who is faithful in the discharge of his duty is sure of satisfactory results as the following incident proves:

"In the church of Somerville, New Jersey, where I was afterwards pastor, John Vredenburg preached for a great many years. He felt that his ministry was a failure, and others felt so, although he was a faithful minister preaching the Gospel all the time. He died, and died amid some discouragements, and went home to God; for no one ever doubted that John Vredenburg was a good Christian minister. A little while after his death there came a great awakening in Somerville, and one Sabbath two hundred souls stood up at the Christian altar espousing the cause of Christ, among them my own father and mother. And what was peculiar in regard to nearly all of those two hundred souls was that they dated their religious impressions from the ministry of John Vredenburg."—Autobiography of T. De Witt Talmage.

5. It is a sure thing that a Christian who did nothing will get no recognition. It is difficult for me to imagine a believer telling the Lord Jesus that He had been cruel and had taken things which did not belong to Him and had tried to reap where He had not sowed. But there is no doubt about it that more Christians than we think literally hide the Gospel. These are the ones who will not even put money into God's bank.

The description of the Laodicean Church in Revelation 3 furnishes us with undeniable proof that not all church members are good business men in spiritual matters.—The Bible Expositor.

THE BIRTH OF FAITH

I prayed for faith, and thought that some day faith would come down and strike me like lightning. But faith did not seem to come.

One day I read in the tenth chapter of Romans, "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." I had closed my Bible and prayed for faith. I now opened my Bible and began to study, and faith has been growing ever since that time.—D. L. Moody.

Questions and Answers

geance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the Lord. And again, The Lord shall judge his people. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God" (Hebrews 10:26-31). "If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: I do not say that he shall pray for it." (1 John 5:16).

Jesus taught His followers that they had a relation to Him like that which a fruit-bearing branch has to a fruit-producing vine and that God the Father looks after those symbolized by the branches as a husbandman looks after the branches of his vine. He purges all that bear fruit in enabling them to bear more fruit, but takes out and destroys all that fail to bear good fruit. "I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned" (John 15:5, 6). Read all of John 15:1-8.

Jesus further taught that a man was not worthy of the Kingdom if he started the Christian life and then turned back. "And Jesus said unto him, No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God" (Luke 9:62).

The Bible further teaches that we who are watchmen (Christian workers) are responsible to warn the righteous who turn from the right way, otherwise we are guilty of their blood, but that when we warn them and they are saved from the evil, we have delivered our souls. "Again, when a righteous man doth turn from his righteousness, and commit iniquity, and I lay a stumbling-block before him, he shall die: because thou hast not given him warning, he shall die in his sin, and his righteousness which he hath done shall not be remembered; but his blood will I require at thine hand. Nevertheless if thou warn the righteous man, that the righteous sin not, and he doth not sin, he shall surely live, because he is warned; also thou hast delivered thy soul" (Ezekiel 3:20, 21). Read all of the third chapter of Ezekiel. The Bible teaches that the latter end of a person is worse than his former position if after he escapes the pollution of the world he then becomes entangled again in its evils. "For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning" (2 Peter 2:20). Read all of the second chapter of 2 Peter.

The statement in this tenth verse in the second chapter of Revelation is given to encourage those who have not yet apostatized by turning to the evil state of those described above. There are many warnings that precede this encouraging exhortation. God sometimes uses threats to keep His children out of danger and then, when threats have been announced, He places a positive proposition before them so as to encourage them to aspire unto noble activities. That's what He has done here. You and I are warned throughout the Word to shun the wrong and immoral, to cleave to the good and pure and to aspire unto the perfect.

A good many have asked the Board of Trustees why they did not move to a new location and have a good college campus and buildings, a regular college plant. I am sure the Board of Trustees would gladly do this if income justified it. Free Will Baptist Bible College can only do what is possible to do with the funds that come in. Help us stimulate gifts in 1956 to our only training institution for ministers and missionaries. Thank you for having been so faithful in the past, and we know the Bible College has your good will, prayers and support in the future.—Free Will Baptist Bible College Bulletin, December-January, 1955-56.

FREE WILL BAPTIST NOVELIST IS ACCORDED NATIONAL ACCLAIM

Miss Agnes Lucas Phillips, a member of the Little Rock Free Will Baptist Church, Lucama, North Carolina, is receiving nation-wide publicity for her excellent work in writing an emotionally stirring novel with a definitely Christian philosophy of life running throughout its pages.

The book, "One Clear Call," is a novel about nursing. It follows the life of a young girl from the beginning of her nursing career through her entire course of training. Real romance comes to Jane Randolph, the heroine, in the world of anesthetics, busy wards, emergency operations and gleaming white operating rooms, when she meets young Dr. Tom Blake, brilliant assistant to the hospital's chief surgeon. But the road to romantic happiness, like the road to becoming a full-fledged nurse, is not an easy one for Jane.

Already, the novel has been accepted in several states and placed in high school libraries to be used in vocational guidance work. The Methodist Publishing House is recommending it for church libraries. And we are pleased to recommend it to our church people everywhere, proudly announcing that it is written by one of our very own.

Miss Phillips, the author, is a graduate of the Pineland School for Girls, Salemburg, North Carolina, and St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, Richmond, Virginia. She also did post-graduate work in nursing at the North Carolina State Sanatorium. She is a member of the Graduate Nurse Association of Virginia, with headquarters in Richmond.

Regarding the book, Miss Phillips states, "In this story I have tried to put a fluoroscope on a young girl's mind and emotions from the day she fills out her application to a school of nursing until she has graduated."

The book may be purchased from The Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, North Carolina. The price is $3.

ALLIED CHURCH LEAGUE

At a meeting of the North Carolina Ministers' Conference early in 1955 a discussion of the Allied Church League was brought to the floor. The body asked the Rev. D. W. Alexander and the editor to attend the next meeting of the league and ask for the privilege of representing Free Will Baptists of North Carolina in the organization. We attended the meeting and were given seats in the body. Mr. Alexander was placed on the board of trustees of the league and the editor was placed on the executive committee.

At the last session of the North Carolina State Convention of Free Will Baptists the body, through a temperance committee resolution, endorsed the work of the Allied Church League and made an allocation in the amount of $200 to the financial support of the league.

For the benefit of our readers in North Carolina, and in order that our readers in other states may be reminded of similar organizations in their midst, we shall make some observations about the league with which every Christian should be keenly concerned.

The purpose of the Allied Church League of North Carolina is set forth in Article 2 of its constitution as follows: To unite all who believe in total abstinence in a cooperative effort against beverage alcohol in its every form; to provide an efficient agency through which all evangelical churches can work in opposing beverage alcohol and promoting civic righteousness; to work for good government by seeking to elect men of highest character to public offices and by encouraging the making of laws that will further civic and social righteousness; to enlighten the public and educate youth concerning the dangers of beverage alcohol and allied social evils; to promote programs for the rehabilitation of victims of alcoholic beverages, such as programs to be in keeping with the other purposes stated above.

At a meeting of the league on January 12, 1956, the treasurer, M. A. Huggins, stated that the league had been organized 13 years ago and was planned on the interdenominational basis, with the idea that all the Protestant bodies would be invited to share in the expense of the league.

From the treasurer's report for January 1—October 31, 1955, we observe that support came to the league from the following: First Presbytery A. R. P. Church, $46.61; North Carolina Yearly Meeting of Friends, $100; Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina, $500; Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, $12,500; Pentecost Holiness Church, $100; Western North Carolina Methodist Conference, $3,500; individual churches, $1,387.66. We have named these contributors from the list of donors to let you know that what has been given to the league has not consisted of mere token offerings, nor is the work of the league considered inconsequential or unimportant.

The chief service of the league is that of fighting the sale and use of intoxicating beverages, by every legitimate means possible, in the state of North Carolina. Wherever and whenever there is the possibility of a referendum in any county to either vote the area dry of intoxicating beverages or to vote to keep beverage alcohol from being sold in the area, the Allied Church League is always present with capable representatives to help organize the "dry" forces and also to help them carry the fight to its conclusion. The league also furnishes a lobby in the state capitol to keep a close watch on the movements of the "wets" and to use its influence against the passage of legislation detrimental to the cause of those Christians who are opposed to the use and sale of alcoholic beverages. Through the columns of its publication, "Tomorrow," and through every other possible means, the league publishes information on the liquor question and always champions the cause of the "drys." These are some of the benefits that the people of North Carolina receive from the services of the Allied Church League. And there should be organizations in all the other states which are rendering a similar service to the people. Why not support the organization in your state which is putting forth efforts to rid it of the curse of the sale and use of alcoholic beverages?

We are indeed grateful for the allocation to the league from the last state convention and shall look forward to another at the next session; however, we feel that the approximately 50,000 Free Will Baptists in North Carolina should speak with a louder voice against the evils of beverage alcohol. We should supplement our cries against the liquor traffic from the pulpit and the Sunday school classroom with increased support of the Allied Church League that we may be heard in the legislative halls of the state and at the voting booths, from time to time, as the opportunity presents itself.

Because we feel that Free Will Baptists of North Carolina do want to give increased support to the work of the Allied Church League, we have asked the Rev. D. W. Alexander, president of the state convention and a trustee of the league, if he would serve as treasurer to receive offerings from our churches and individuals for the league, and he has consented gladly to do so.

The league is badly in need of funds now in that sufficient money has not come in to meet the budgetary requirements, and a meeting is scheduled for March 6, 1956, to see what can be done. The league is asking that each denominational representation be prepared at the March meeting to give an estimate as to how much money its denomination may contribute to meet the shortage and continue the work of the league. Therefore, you can readily see the position in which we find ourselves relative to the amount that can be expected from Free Will Baptists.

You can help us immensely if, immediately, your church will make an offering to the Allied Church League and send it to Rev. D. W. Alexander, Bethel, North Carolina. Will you take this matter up with your church at its next service? Even a small offering from each of the churches in the state will go a long way toward helping the league meet its financial obligations.

John R. Cranor, recently retired Warden of the Washington State Penitentiary said that 95% of the inmates of this prison are here because of alcohol. "You can put that down for this institution also," declared the head of the State Medical Hospital at Medical Springs, Washington,—New York Temperance Action.

Free Will Baptist Alumni

Mrs. H. L. Spivey
Corresponding-Relations Secretary
Maury, North Carolina

WANTED, each and every student of the old Ayden, North Carolina, Seminary, Eureka College, and Mount Olive Junior College, formerly Mount Allen College, to receive the following information:

We must have your help as all the records of the Seminary and Eureka College were burned, leaving us with no record of the enrollment of the schools. The Alumni Association is trying to make a list of the students and their addresses. Not having this list, it is impossible for us to contact the former students, therefore we are asking each pastor, union meeting, conference, association and individual to please assist us in getting this information before our people in every state in the United States.

March 16 and 17, 1955, the students met at Mount Olive Junior College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, and organized the Alumni Association of North Carolina Free Will Baptists. This was and will still remain a "red letter day" for each student who attended this meeting. It simply was wonderful, so many happy, familiar faces glowing with joy. We can truly say it was glorious being there, although our hearts were made sad because so many did not know about the meeting and did not attend.

The following alumni officers were elected: president, Rev. J. W. Alford, Morehead City, North Carolina; vice-president, Rev. L. A. Holiday, Manning, South Carolina; recording secretary, Rev. James A. Evans, Wilson, North Carolina; treasurer, Rev. I. J. Blackwelder, Ayden, North Carolina; and corresponding-relations secretary, Mrs. H. L. Spivey, Maury, North Carolina.

Plans are being made for a wonderful occasion which will take place at 10:00 a. m., April 4, 1956, when the Alumni Association will meet at Mount Olive Junior College, Mount Olive, North Carolina. You can see the time is very short, so help us all you can in making contact with out people, as they must know so they can make plans to come. The college dormitory will be used by those who need sleeping accommodations and meals will be arranged for and announced later.

A very interesting program is being arranged with special features which will be announced also. Keep on the watch as our only medium of contact will be through THE FREE WILL BAPTIST. So won't you please ask all former students who are not subscribers to please send $2.00 to the Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, North Carolina, with their name and address, and they will receive THE FREE WILL BAPTIST for one year? This will be a great help to all of us, so don't put it off another day.

At the alumni meeting there will be a wonderful luncheon served in the college cafeteria at $1.50 per plate. We assure you that all will be served.

Come any of you who are interested, I am sure the Alumni Association and the college will welcome you. Also I am sure you will receive a great inspiration. To you who did not know about our last meeting, we are indeed sorry, but we are looking forward to seeing you at Mount Olive College April 4, 1956. If you miss this meeting you surely will regret it because there will be so many faces you have been longing to see. Come one, come all, let us have a great day of rejoicing in the name of our Lord.

Remember, the news must be passed on by you who read this article; don't fail us in this urgent matter!

EDUCATION MONTH IN NORTH CAROLINA

Hubert Burress,
Director of Denominational Enterprises,
North Carolina Sunday School
Convention

"Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (2 Timothy 2:15).

GOD'S Word teaches us to study to show ourselves approved unto God. When this is done we not only obey the Lord's command, but at the same time we prepare ourselves for work in the service of the Lord.

On Thursday night, November 5, 1931, the Free Will Baptists had quite a set back in the loss of Eureka College in Ayden, North Carolina. This loss greatly hindered the progress of Free Will Baptist and left us with no Free Will Baptist college. About 11 years later, in 1942, The Free Will Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tennessee, began operating and has been growing ever since.

Ten years later, in 1952, at Black Mountain, North Carolina, Mount Allen Junior College began its first year of operation. In 1954 it moved to Mount Olive, North Carolina. There, in 1955, its name was changed to Mount Olive College and it too has been growing.

Both of our colleges have rendered a service to God and our people. Only God knows how great a service they have rendered. They merit our support as Sunday schools in the state of North Carolina. The needs are great in our colleges. They need our prayers, good will and financial help. Remember them in your wills and endowments.

Sunday schools, send your offerings for education today!

Thine is the Kingdom

Rev. N. P. Gates
Detroit, Michigan

"Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven" (Matthew 6:10).

STRANGE as it may seem, though true, the Revised Version omits the portion we have chosen for our text, as also the remaining portion of the thirteenth verse. Perhaps it serves the Kingdom-Come's idea best in making such omissions. Yet the closing words of the Lord's model prayer convey the true fact of the eminence and present reality of the Kingdom.

Therefore we employ this topic endeavoring to find the answer to what seems to be a perplexing question.

However, the mist is cleared away when we call to remembrance matters pertaining the epochs relative to Christ's personality, as also His personal ministry and the pre-eminence of His Kingdom (power of the Holy Ghost) ten days after His ascension was even a greater reality than in the shadows of His pre-existence from the foundation of the world.

Though the world in ages past was colonized into kingdoms, we believe it was not strictly in accord with the will of God, but because of the imperfection of men; however, since they desired a king, He willed it so. Those who were made kings, notwithstanding the anointing of God, were only in the metaphoric sphere (rulers of temporal kingdoms); hence, not eternal.

In the absence of spiritual light, gross darkness covered the entire world. The only ray of hope was the anointing of kings according to the desires of men until, in due time, the raising up of One capable of ruling over a spiritual Kingdom. As such, almost the entire world, in commemoration, just recently celebrated the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ. Dare one deny these rights and the purpose for which He came? Such would be defeating the plan of God which He had purposed for all of humanity, when He sent His Son, as a King not to rule over a temporal kingdom as the people had long been waiting for, but through His suffering of death, and His victory over the tomb would bring to an actuality the Kingdom of God in the power of an endless life (Hebrews 7:16).

The victory which He obtained for us while here on earth, and the eminence of the Kingdom in the power of the Holy Ghost soon after His departure, though a mystery, but not a "myth" as mistaken by some, it was a fulfillment of prophecy: "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem; behold, thy King cometh unto thee. . . ." (Zechariah 9:9). The fulfillment of this prophecy is recorded in Matthew 21:5, "Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee. . . ."

Agreement of these experiences is also recorded in the Hebrew letter: "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets, Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, . . ." (Hebrews 1:1, 2).

The prophet said, "And there shall come forth a rod (David) out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch (Jesus) shall grow out of his roots: And the spirit of the LORD . . . wisdom and understanding, . . . with righteousness shall he judge the poor, . . . and faithfulness the girdle of his reins" (Isaiah 11:1-5). (Please read the remainder of the eleventh chapter.) "Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever . . ." (Isaiah 9:7). "Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness, . . ." (Isaiah 32:1).

The prophet Jeremiah said, "Behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will raise unto David a righteous Branch, and a King shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment in the earth" (Jeremiah 23:5). Jesus affirmed all this when asked by Pilate, ". . . Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, . . . To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice" (John 18:37). Now that He is King, who, or what is He King of? Christ is King of His own.

Many among us today have a profession of godliness, but deny the power thereof. Categorically speaking they are in the Kingdom, or let us say among those of us who are indeed subjects of the kingdom—born-again believers, though they themselves are only members as pertains to the flesh; members of a local denomination perhaps, but not really members of the family of God. The like of this the Lord has clearly shown in His parable of the sower: "He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man; The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one; The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels. As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world. The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and they which do iniquity; And shall cast them into a furnace of fire; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear" (Matthew 13:37-43).

Here the Lord was giving the true meaning of His parable previously given unto them, dealing with what was then beginning to be realized in the fulfillment of prophecy, lacking only the power over the tomb, this being before His crucifixion, and the witnessing power of the Holy Ghost which was not given until after His ascension.

We especially like to recall His references to Himself, the Sower of the good seed. The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the Kingdom. Following that was the growth, development and increase of the Kingdom, which certainly must be fully developed before the end of the world, since the harvest is the end of the world.

The farmer does not reap his harvest until he has something to harvest. First he plants the grain. Then after cultivation he awaits the growth and maturity which is followed by the harvest.

So it is with this little, but very important story which the Lord gave His disciples in such a manner that even a child could understand it.

Contradictory? No, the Word does not contradict itself. The Lord said, "Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father . . ." (Matthew 13:43). The apostle, Paul, said, "Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power" (1 Corinthians 15:24).

Thine is the Kingdom, present tense, if you please. While the Lord was praying, realizing He was soon to be crucified, He reaffirms what He taught His disciples to pray: "I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine. And all mine are thine, and thine are mine; and I am glorified in them" (John 17:9, 10). What a contrast from what seems to occupy the minds of the learned today! This reminds me of a certain young college professor who after his graduation was heard to say, in his remarks of all that was praiseworthy of the college, that he was sorry the Lord was not privileged to attend such a wonderful college while here on earth.

Why did God teach His disciples, "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven" (Matthew 6:10)? Because He had not yet manifested His power over death. The power in His victory over the grave was not yet given. The power to give life to as many as received Him was not manifested until His resurrection. The regenerating power in the new birth was not given until after His ascension. This is what Christ meant when He said, ". . . but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high" (Luke 24:49).

At the time of Christ's departure, because of His promise that He would come again, the people's imagination was that He would restore a literal kingdom unto them which they had been so long deprived of. But He said unto them, ". . . It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power. But ye shall receive power, after the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth" (Acts 1:7, 8). Just prior to His death and resurrection, and so that they might know that a personal experience and reality of the Kingdom was near at hand, the most picturesque portrayal that could possibly be given concerning this coming experience was portrayed on the Mount of Transfiguration. Here Jesus said, ". . . there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the kingdom of God" (Luke 9:27). ". . . Verily I say unto you, That there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power" (Mark 9:1). ". . . There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom" (Matthew 16:28). No, He could not have meant that some of them would still be living in the flesh until His second coming for the oldest man ever to live was Methuselah, who was 969 years old.

Soon afterwards Jesus took Jeter, James and John up into the mountain and was transformed with the immortals: Moses, the man of law, and Elijah, the major prophet.

Here we have the only three dispensations that have ever been or ever shall be of importance to man on earth. The first and second done away with in Christ, the gospel, and the power of the Holy Ghost which was not given to men until Pentecost, fifty days after His resurrection. This is what the Lord meant when He said, "But ye shall receive power, after the Holy Ghost is come upon you: . . ." (Acts 1:8). This is what the Apostle Paul meant when he said, "For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have been all made to drink into one Spirit" (1 Corinthians 12:13); "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life" (Romans 6:3, 4); "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (2 Corinthians 5:17); "And you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins; . . . Even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are saved;) And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus: That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus" (Ephesians 2:1, 5-7); "Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light: Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son: In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins" (Colossians 1:12-14).

Lest some should come short of the full realization of these principles, the Apostle Paul admonishes the necessity of the proper application to the new life in Christ: "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set thine affection on things above, not on things on the earth. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory" (Colossians 3:1-4).

Value of Prayer

William B. Ramwell is famous in Methodist annals for personal holiness and for his wonderful success in preaching and for the marvellous answers to his prayers. For hours at a time he would pray. He almost lived on his knees. He went over his circuits like a flame of fire. The fire was kindled by the time he spent in prayer. He often spent as much as four hours in a single season of prayer in retirement.

Sir Henry Havelock always spent the first two hours of each day alone with God. If the encampment was struck at six o'clock, he would rise at four.

Earl Cairns rose daily at six o'clock to secure an hour and a half for the study of the Bible and for prayer, before conducting family worship at a quarter of eight.

Dr. Judson's success in God's work is attributable to the fact that he gave much time to prayer. He says on this point: "Arrange thy affairs, if possible, so that thou canst leisurely devote two or three hours every day not merely to devotional exercises but to the very act of secret prayer and communion with God. Endeavor seven times a day to withdraw from business and company and lift up thy soul to God in private retirement. Begin the day by rising after midnight and devoting some time amid the silence and darkness of the night to this sacred work. Let the hour of opening dawn find thee at the same work. Let the hours of nine, twelve, three, six, and nine at night witness the same. Be resolute in His cause. Make all practical sacrifices to maintain it. Consider that thy time is short and that business and company must not be allowed to rob thee of thy God." —First Free Will Baptist Church Mid-Week Reminder, Florence, South Carolina.

Florida Church Has New House of Worship

The First Free Will Baptist Church of Panama City, Florida, pictured above, was organized in the Carpenter's Union Hall at Magnolia and Fourth Street of that city on August 4, 1953. The executive committee of the Home Mission Board of the West Florida Association participated in the organization. There were twenty charter members.

In the organizational meeting the Rev. John M. Rich, chairman of the board, read the church treatise. Rev. Frank Willis charged the church with practicing the Bible. Rev. C. A. Huckaby read the church covenant. Rev. W. B. Hughes prayed the prayer of consecration. Rev. Wayne Hicks was elected pastor.

On January 1, 1955, the church held the ground breaking service for the new building. The building which has been erected is thirty by forty-six feet in area and is made of concrete blocks. It is not complete at present but will be in the very near future. At present, the value of the church is $2,264.90.

Since its organization the church has received six new members and has dismissed two by letter.

Black Jack Church Announces Bible Conference

The Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church, Pitt County, North Carolina, announces a Bible Conference to be held February 29–March 4. The speakers for the meetings are Dr. L. C. Johnson and Evangelist Jimmy Johnson.

Special music will be provided throughout the conference by the Bible College Quartet, Nashville, Tennessee.

Services will be held at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. daily.

Rev. F. B. Cherry is pastor of Black Jack Church.

Washington, North Carolina, Church Has Record Attendance

The Washington, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church, located on North Bonner Street, had a record attendance of 156 in Sunday school on February 5, 1956. The church at the present time has only 149 members on roll.

The pastor, Rev. Charles Keith; the reporter, Ruby Gaskins; and other members of the church extend a warm welcome to those wishing to join or visit the Sunday school at any time.

Johnston County Sunday Schools Plan Fellowship Supper

The Johnston County, North Carolina, Sunday School Fellowship Supper will be held February 24, 1956, at the Pomonia Creek Club Building, four miles east of Smithfield, North Carolina, sponsored by the woman's auxiliary of the Smithfield Church. Registration will begin at 6:45 p. m.

Rev. Earl Glenn of Wilson, North Carolina, will be the speaker and special music will be rendered by Mrs. Mamie Royal and Mrs. Mildred Pilkington.

The last meeting of the fellowship was held at Pleasant Plain Church with eighty-two Sunday school officers and five pastors present. H. J. Beeker of Four Oaks, North Carolina, spoke at the meeting.

Mr. L. S. Griffin extends the following plea:

"We invite and urge each Sunday school in the county to be represented. New officers will be elected for the year. We also request the prayers of all Christians that our fellowship meeting might continue to grow and that we may study to show ourselves approved unto God, workmen that need not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

Second Union, Western Conference, At Milbourne Church

Milbourne Church of Wilson County, North Carolina, entertained the Second Union of the Western Conference, Saturday, January 28, 1956. The union meeting opened with the congregation singing "Amazing Grace." Devotions were conducted by Mrs. David Dickerson, followed with remarks by the moderator, Rev. R. E. Clegg. Mrs. John Glover responded to the welcome, given by the pastor, Rev. D. C. Boling. Visiting ministers were welcomed and extended a seating in the union. The roll of ministers was called with five ministers present. The minutes of the last union were read and approved. The roll of churches was called with sixteen churches being represented.

Mrs. R. H. Jackson gave a report on the orphanage, and a group of girls from the orphanage rendered a selection in song. A collection amounting to $35.69 was received for the home.

Rev. C. R. Etheridge delivered the union sermon which was followed by dinner on the church grounds.

The union reconvened at 1:00 o'clock with congregational singing and another special by the orphanage girls. Rev. L. H. Boykin gave the devotions. After a brief business session, various committees made their reports which were accepted.

According to the clerk, Luther Bisette, a rising vote of thanks was extended to the Milbourne Church for the kind hospitality shown to the union.

Wintergreen Church Host To Fifth Eastern Union

The Fifth Eastern Union Meeting of the Eastern Conference of North Carolina Free Will Baptist convened with the Wintergreen Church, Craven County, North Carolina, Sunday, January 29, 1956, with the moderator, Rev. Graham Lane, and clerk, Rom Mallard, officiating.

The union opened with a song and prayer service, followed with devotions conducted by Bobby Phipps. The moderator opened the business session by welcoming all ministers, delegates and visitors. Twelve ministers answered the roll call.

Thirty-two of the thirty-seven churches belonging to the union answered to the roll call with contributions amounting to $210.35.

The minutes of the last union were read and approved. This was followed with an appeal to those present by the Rev. J. C. Griffin, asking them to read the Bible more, subscribe to THE FREE WILL BAPTIST, listen to religious broadcasts on the radio and television and pray for them to be continued. ## Million Dollar Campaign For Mount Olive College

The authorities of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, are joining hands with citizens of the town of Mount Olive and those of surrounding towns and communities in a campaign to raise a million dollars for the college.

Civic and governmental leaders of the town of Mount Olive have organized and set to work committees in towns and communities within a radius of 50 miles of Mount Olive. Their goal is the raising of half a million dollars as a gift for the college.

President W. Burkette Raper and Business Manager S. A. Smith have set committees in order to raise the other half million dollars among Free Will Baptist.

The campaign is under way at the present time.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Please explain, "My son, eat thou honey, because it is good; and the honeycomb, which is sweet to thy taste" (Proverbs 24:13).—Mrs. B. E. Sugg, Pontotoc, Mississippi.

Answer: Honey in the Bible symbolizes God's best in grace. The children of Israel were promised Palestine, the land with which there was no other plot in earth's possessions to favorably compare. See Exodus 3:8, 17; 13:5; 33:3; Leviticus 20:24; Deuteronomy 11:9. It was dramatically described to them as a land flowing with milk and honey. Honey and nuts comprised a gift acceptable by kings or worthy of acceptance of royal personage. See Genesis 43:11. The angels' food called manna from heaven tasted like honey (Exodus 16:31). In the 14th chapter of 1 Samuel, the account of Jonathan's taking wild honey contrary to his father's orders is given. Jonathan did not know of these orders. When he had eaten it his whole being was revived so that with this special energy Jonathan contributes greatly to Israel's victory over Philistia. Saul determined to kill his son for this breach in his orders, but was not allowed to do so by his army whose attention was called to the fact that had all the army eaten as Jonathan had done the victory would have been more decisively in favor of Israel. Honey was (in Bible times) and still is of importance because of its medicinal value. The judgments of the Lord which are set forth in the Bible are compared with honey. See Psalm 19:9, 10.

God's words are compared with honey, "How sweet are thy words unto my taste: yea, sweeter than honey to my mouth" (Psalm 119:103). In prophecy, the Messiah, Jesus Christ, is the one who was pointed out as eating. "Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil, and choose the good" (Isaiah 7:15). Note here that honey is regarded as an antidote to evil. Perhaps this son to whom instructions are being given in Proverbs 24:13 knows the high regard that his fellow countrymen hold for God's word and the meaning of this symbolism. The word is bread, food for the hungry. It is drink for the thirsty and medicine for the ill or sick. This one is to eat of it freely. Psalm 1:2 teaches that one should meditate on it, the law, during the whole day and through all the night. The word is hid in a godly man's heart to insure him against sin. "Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee" (Psalm 119:11).

The Rev. W. Harris has the following to say on Page 682 in The Preacher's Homiletic Commentary on Proverbs:

"I. An Analogy—1. Honey is found by man ready prepared for his use; no human skill is needed to make it fit for food—nothing that man can do can render it more palatable than it is as it flows from the comb. So the revealed wisdom of God as it is found in the Scriptures needs no intervention of man to make it suitable to human needs. 2. As honey is evidently designed by God to furnish a wholesome and pleasant food for the body, so has He designed that the revelation of His mind and will by His inspired messengers shall provide wholesome and congenial food for the soul of man. The great abundance of honey in Palestine led to its forming a more prominent part of daily food than in general and constant use and was a perpetual testimony to the providence of God in relation to the needs and enjoyment of His creatures. So is the provision which God has made for the spiritual wants of the children of men. On this point we must take the testimony of those who have tested this soul-food. We should not ask a man whether honey was pleasant to the taste if he had never eaten it, and those are not qualified to bear witness concerning the spiritual enjoyment and benefit to be derived from the 'wisdom of God' who have not tested it. All those who have done so, whatever their condition in life, in whatever age they have lived, or whatever part of the world they have called their home, have agreed with David's testimony that it is 'More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb' (Psalm 19:10).

"II. A Contrast. 1. Honey may be eaten until it cloy the appetite and induces the eater, but not so with the word of God. Those who eat the most of this spiritual food are the most spiritually healthy, and have the keenest appetite for it. 2. Although this God-given bodily food may do much to nourish and sustain a healthy man, it cannot cure a diseased body, or prevent the inroads of sickness and decay. But there is a soul-transforming power in the spiritual food of which it is here an emblem. Those who eat of it are by it healed of spiritual disease, and are continually and unceasingly growing in moral health and vigour. 3. The blessings flowing from eating the spiritual food are only fully realized in the life beyond the present. To this the wise man refers in the last clause. . . . The wise man's feast which he makes his son is but one dish. And what need of more when that is both good and pleasant? The glut-ton provideth many dishes, and costly to make them luscious, but they are not good, not good for the health of the body. . . . On the other side, the physician provideth divers meats, and they are good—good either for the preservation of health or for the recovery of it, but they are not pleasant and grateful to the palate. That is the best feeding when these are joined together. . . . Or else if they are not joined together, notice that the wise man putteth good in the first place; as teaching thee rather to take that which is good though not pleasant, than that which is pleasant but not good."

Be Earnest

We are living in an earnest age. All the forces of human intelligence are intensely alive. Be in earnest. Redemption is an earnest business and cost its Author every drop of His crimson Blood. The Holy Ghost is intensely in earnest. Everything in heaven, in earth and hell is in earnest, but man. It is an awful thing for a Christian, redeemed by the Blood of Christ and destined to an eternal future of weal or woe, to be frivolous or trifling. Oh, friend, think if that day you are wasting were to be cut off the end of your life, instead of the middle; how quickly you would awaken and tremble at the thought of trifling! If every hour you waste were deducted from the sum of your life at the close, how frightful the sacrifice would seem! And yet it is even so. God help us to be intensely aroused to life's solemn meaning!—A. B. Simpson.

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path (PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNAHOA, N. C.

"Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; . . ." (Romans 5:12).

God is not the author of sin! Men are not only disposed to try to exonerate themselves from blame when they do wrong, but frequently become so impious as to charge their wickedness on God. Adam did this indirectly after becoming disobedient to the command of God. He said to Him, ". . . The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat" (Genesis 3:12). This, it seems to me, was equivalent to his saying, "It is true that I have eaten of the fruit of the forbidden tree, but that fruit was offered to me by my companion in the garden, and Thou gavest me that companion; therefore Thou art the real author of the act performed at her solicitation. While I was alone I was perfectly holy." What a charge to bring against the God who had made him holy, and had made it possible for him to always remain holy! Adam's disposition has been transmitted from generation to generation. Men in all ages have been inclined to adopt the sentiment that God tempted them to commit evil. But the Bible says, "Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man" (James 1:13).

It is manifest from this verse that the sins of man cannot be charged to God. No man is tempted of God. Let me hasten to remark that the word tempt is used in two senses in the Scriptures. It sometimes means to try, as when it says "God tempted Abraham"—tried him—put to the test the strength of his faith. The words tempt and temptation, however, are most frequently used to denote solicitation to evil. As the devil is preeminently engaged in the presentation of motives leading to evil, he is emphatically called the tempter, and properly so.

It is highly important that we form proper views of sin. Unless we do, we can never adequately appreciate the scheme of redemption through Jesus Christ. If we adopt any sentiment which suggests the inference that God is the author of sin in any sense, it will then be natural to conclude that salvation is not of grace, but of debt, and to feel that God is under obligation to save from the ruin caused by sin. Thus, instead of coming before the Lord as a subdued, penitent suppliant pleading for mercy, some will come as presumptuous Pharisees claiming salvation as a matter of justice.

The sins of men are chargeable to themselves. This truth is attested to in the following verses:

"But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed. Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death. Do not err, my beloved brethren" (James 1: 14-16).

The devil has no compulsory power. He can compel no man to sin. He presents his temptations—it is optional with the tempted to yield or resist. Man's free moral agency is voluntarily exercised in sinning against God.

But with what superlative glory does the grace of God shine forth in human salvation. Self-ruined men, who deserve the damnation of hell, are saved and exalted to heaven. Eternal life is conferred on those who might justly be consigned to the horrors of everlasting death. All glory to such a great, merciful and holy God. It is of this new relationship which is experienced by the new creatures in Christ that I will write about next week.

Loyalty to the Church

R. P. Harris

SUNDAY is the Christian's day of worship. We should worship God every day of the week, but we should spend Sunday especially to worship God, to praise His wonderful name and to thank Him for all His many wonderful blessings to us. (Read Mark 2:23-38.) The Christian has no more right to spend Sunday in a foolish and sinful way than a man has the right to go into a bank and take all the money he wants in defiance of the law. Indeed, God's law carries greater penalties, and these penalties do more to the one who breaks the law of Christ with regards to keeping the Lord's Day holy than does the man-enforced law concerning the robbing of a bank. God promises blessings and prosperity to those who remember the Lord's Day to keep it holy.

Christians have no moral nor Christian right to desecrate the Lord's Day in unholy living. Unholy living is any kind of living that makes you spend Sundays in a selfish and ungodly manner. The Lord teaches us to assemble ourselves together in His name for the purpose of worship and to serve Him. Any one who lets his secular business, or social life, or anything that runs contrary to what our Lord taught us concerning the Lord's Day, is desecrating this holy day.

Honest, sincere Christians will want to do the things which will count most for their spiritual growth and prosperity. The Lord's Day should be spent in worship services at the church. This, I believe, includes all the designated church services. All Christians need the Sunday school for instruction and fellowship and worship. They all need the preaching services because God has a message for them at that time. All need the training service of the church through the league or other such services of the church.

The Christian will want to visit the sick and infirm, the prisoners and widows and orphans. They will want to visit and encourage them, to pray for them, and to administer to their mental, physical and spiritual needs.

Christians, when engaged in Christian service, can rest from their secular labors.

Truly, the Lord's Day is the most important day of the week. The Christian will also welcome the opportunity to make the mid-week prayer period with fellow Christians. This is a means of grace to help us get through the week and still honor Christ with our love, service and devotion.—Precious Promises, Rocky Mount, North Carolina, Church Bulletin.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

THE CHURCH

IN writing on this subject we want to let everyone know that there is no denomination on earth which has a monopoly on salvation. There are several so-called churches who claim that they are the only church, and most of these churches stress some pet creed and wrap a lot of Scripture around what they believe.

Recently there was a broadcast over the air in which someone emphatically stated, "We are the church of Christ and the only Bible way." This particular speaker stressed "water salvation," declaring that men are not saved until they have been buried in water. He gave many references, but failed to acknowledge Acts 10:44-48 which reads thus, "While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word. And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost. For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we? And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days." Recently a preacher was overheard to say that the Holy Ghost was only imparted by the laying on of hands. But may we notice that the gentiles received the gift of the Holy Ghost as Peter was preaching. Peter rehearses the event in the eleventh chapter of Acts, after his vision and his obedience to that which the Lord had revealed unto him. He says in speaking of the vision given to Cornelius, "And he shewed us how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood and said unto him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter; Who shall tell thee these words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved. And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, as on us at the beginning. Then remembered I the word of the Lord, how that he said, John indeed baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost" (Acts 11:13-16). So we find that both of the aforesaid denominational leaders were wrong. These gentiles were saved, and also baptized with the Holy Ghost before water baptism. We cannot deny this fact. This should serve to prove that the two denominations we have spoken of before are not the Church, but just denominations like others in certain respect of not being absolutely the visible Church.

Free Will Baptists believe the church is composed of truly, regenerated, born again believers in Christ. "A Christian Church is an organized body of believers in Christ, who statedly assemble to worship God, and who sustain the ordinances of the Gospel according to the Scriptures."—Treatise. Paul writes, "Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, . . ." (1 Corinthians 1:2). Here we see that the church at Corinth was sanctified in Christ Jesus and the members were called to be saints. Thus Free Will Baptists believe in sanctification—that is being set apart in Christ Jesus.

We also believe in the sainthood of believers. We do not worship saints, but we worship the living Christ and the Father who gave us life by the power of the Holy Spirit and shed blood of Christ. "Believers in Christ are admitted to this church on giving evidence of faith in Christ, obtaining consent of the body, being baptized, and receiving the right hand of fellowship."—Treatise.

FELLOWSHIP OF THE CHURCH

"Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it; That he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word, That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish. So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself. For no man ever yet hated his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church: For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones. For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh. This is a great mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the church" (Ephesians 5:25-32). Paul was not speaking of any denomination. There is no denomination that can successfully claim to have not a spot or blemish; for every denomination has some tares, some hypocrites—even thieves, liars, adulterers. Therefore we believe that the true Church of God is composed of truly regenerated, born again believers in Christ. "The Church of God, or members of the body of Christ, is the whole body of Christians throughout the whole world, and none but the regenerate are its members."—Treatise.

"Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls" (Acts 2:41). "But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women" (Acts 8:12). Further on in this same chapter we find Philip preaching to the eunuch. "And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized? And Philip said, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God" (Acts 8:36, 37). Thus Philip believed in the "believer's baptism." The eunuch had to accept and confess Christ as the Son of God, thus being regenerated—changed from the old belief of his religion and confessing the new life in Christ. So Free Will Baptists believe in the baptism of believers.

We believe that every believer in Christ as his personal Saviour should confess that belief by identifying himself with the church and worshiping God according to the dictates of his own conscience. We believe that no man can witness for Jesus Christ successfully when out of fellowship of the body of organized believers, which is the church.

SEEK HIM EARLY

What bright and glorious promises God has given to those who seek Him early in life! Again this may be a promise to those who seek Him early in the day—when the mind is clear and free. The value of renewed strength and sweet whisperings of His blessed will are only fully known to those who sacrifice and deny themselves to seek communion with the Lord.—Elna Brown.

In all the burdens day by day,

His loving hand does e'er uphold,

He goes before—marks out the way—

Sustains with grace and strength untold.—Selected.

FOR OUR

BOYS and GIRLS

THOU SHALT NOT BEAR FALSE WITNESS

Mrs. Lelia M. Hines
Norfolk, Virginia

RAY was a little ten-year-old boy. He was a very intelligent child, but he had a bad habit of telling things as he wished they were, instead of as they actually happened. This habit worried Ray's parents very much. They had tried so hard to make Ray see that his bad habit was wrong and that it would get him in trouble. Ray knew this was true, but each time he would only tell another falsehood to cover up the first one.

As time went by Ray's friends lost all confidence in him, and they would shun him when it came time for play. They thought Ray would not play fair, so he became a very lonely little boy. His only playmate was his big, black and white dog, Spot. Spot loved Ray and followed him everywhere he went. One evening as they were romping together on the sidewalk, a neighbor's two-year-old little girl ran out in the middle of the busy street and fell. Seeing the danger of the child, Spot rushed to her and dragged her to the curb just in time to keep a large truck from striking her. No one saw what happened except Ray and the driver of the truck, who really did not see exactly who had saved the little girl since everything happened so quickly. Ray knew that he could receive all the praise if he would say that he himself saved the little girl. But as Spot, lovingly licked the hand of his master, Ray realized that Spot was the only true friend he had and that the dog could not speak for himself. So Ray told the driver that Spot had saved the child instead of himself. The driver only smiled and patted Ray on the head as he said, "I know you are a fine boy since you own such a fine dog. You should be proud of yourself and Spot." My! how proud this made Ray feel. No one had ever spoken such kind words of praise to him before.

Ray's mother was indeed happy to hear that Spot had been such a hero, but she was even prouder of Ray's telling the truth. She smiled at him and said,

"It is a fine thing to save a life, but it is still better to be truthful, dear. I'm so proud of my little boy!"

Ray hung his head and said, "Mother, I just couldn't tell a story this time. Spot is the only friend I've got now."

There was nothing Ray wanted more than to have the boys be his friends again. He knew Mother was right when she suggested that he try telling the truth to his little friends. He knew too that he had blamed them for not wanting to play with him instead of blaming himself. Ray felt much better when Mother assured him that if he would overcome his temptation to not tell the truth the boys would be glad to have him as a friend.

"But Mother," confessed Ray, "it's so easy not to tell the truth. Sometimes

Telling the Truth

Folks always say George Washington
Was such a truthful lad,
Take him for your example
And you'll make your parents glad.

They talk about the cherry tree,
The hatchet sharp and new;
George wouldn't tell his father
A thing that wasn't true.

When asked who cut the tree down
George answered, "Sir, 'twas me,
I'm sorry that I didn't think
How much you prized that tree."

It helps to know that other boys
Refused to tell a lie,
And our best example, Jesus,
Was a boy, the same as I.

—Ida M. Yoder.

I don't even realize what I have really said until later."

"Of course, dear," said Mother, "but Jesus expects you to always tell the truth. We should learn to control our desires to tell stories. Jesus wants us to be strong."

Then Mother opened her Bible and turned to Deuteronomy 5:20 and asked Ray to read the verse. Ray read these words, "Neither shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbor." Then in John 14:14 Mother showed Ray these words, "If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it."

Ray thought about the verses a while and then he turned to Mother, saying, "Do you mean that if I ask God to help me tell the truth, He will do it?"

Mother replied, "Those were Jesus' words. Didn't Jesus always tell the truth, Ray?"

Ray was astonished at his mother's question, but he knew exactly what she meant. He said, "This is the Bible and every word in it is true! I'm going to ask God to help me tell the truth!"

So Ray prayed every night from then on, believing that God would help him conquer his evil habit. Many weeks afterward, as Ray's mother looked out the window in the yard, she saw exactly what she had been praying for. Ray was playing happily with the other boys of the neighborhood. That night Mother and Ray prayed together and thanked God for helping Ray overcome his bad habit and for giving him back his little friends.

The Poison of the Bamboo

The natives of Java used to poison their enemies by using the small bit of poison found in the saucer-shaped cavity of the bamboo point. These seed like bits of matter are covered with needles so small they can hardly be seen. And when swallowed the needles pierce the throat and permit the poison to escape into the body. It goes to the lungs and makes the victim cough. This is followed by a loss of appetite, burning thirst, frothing at the mouth. Finally the victim dies of suffocation—unable to breathe. Who would think that these innocent little seedlike capsules contain such a terrible poison? And who would think that great evil and sin lurks in some of the most simple and innocent looking things? Beware of the innocent looking little things the devil tempts you to do.—Selected.

Johnson's Union Auxiliary Meets

The Woman's Auxiliary of Johnson's Union Church, Johnston County, North Carolina, met with Mrs. Maylon Woodard, Friday night, February 3, 1956. There were twenty-four members, two new members and one visitor present.

The theme for the program was "We Need Prayer Warriors for Such a Time as This." The program chairman, Mrs. Almond Warrick, presented Mrs. B. D. Jones who gave the devotions, using Luke 11:1-13 as the basis for her remarks. Those taking part in the program were: Mesdames Maylon Woodard, Jesse Underwood, Robert Holt, Nolan Clark, Raymond Stephenson, Howard Gower, Irving Jones, Woodrow Wood, Lewis Barnes and Hugh Lee. The program came to a close with sentence prayers, led by Mrs. B. D. Jones and closed by Mrs. Bernice Strickland.

The president, Mrs. R. Y. Stephenson, presided over the business session and afterwards dismissed the meeting with prayer. The hostess, Mrs. Woodard, then served delicious refreshments.

District Auxiliary Convention Convenes With Welcome Home Church

The Antioch District Woman's Auxiliary Convention met February 4, 1956, with Welcome Home Church, Hector, Arkansas.

The morning session opened with singing, led by Shirley and Mary Ann Condley, with Geneva Crouch at the piano. The Scripture was taken from 2 Chronicles 7:14 and Psalm 24, and read by Alma Coffman. Nancy Crouch then led the group in prayer. A short devotional period was conducted by Sylvia McCuin, using "Prayer" as her theme. Aruena Cook welcomed everyone present and Alma Coffman gave the response. Brother Dewey Kinder brought the morning message which was a blessing to all. After the meeting was dismissed by Brother H. R. Condley, everyone enjoyed a delicious lunch and true fellowship at the church.

The afternoon session was brought to order by singing. Hector, Jerusalem and Welcome Home Auxiliaries conducted a very enjoyable talent session. The business session was held after Sister Clytie Coffman led the group in prayer. The credentials committee reported the formation of a new auxiliary at Jerusalem Church which was received into the district. Myrtle Condley dismissed the convention with prayer.

The next Antioch District Convention will convene with Jerusalem Church on May 5, 1956.

Edgewood Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The Woman's Auxiliary of Edgewood Free Will Baptist Church, Edgecomb County, North Carolina, held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday night, February 9, 1956, at the church.

The president opened the meeting by having the group sing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," followed with prayer. The Scripture for the evening was taken from Luke 11. The theme for the month was "We Need Prayer Warriors for Such a Time as This." Those taking part on the program were: Mrs. Lizzie Morgan, Mrs. Max Gardner, Mrs. Julius Wooten, Mrs. Wiley Briley, Mrs. Edward Taylor and Mrs. Linwood Fuller.

The following report of activities was given during the business session: 43 sick visits, 448 chapters of Scripture read, 2 gifts given, 2 sick trays and 1 flower bought.

The 13 members and 2 visitors present were dismissed by Mrs. C. F. Abrams.

Mrs. Childers Entertains Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of Lockhart Free Will Baptist Church, Lockhart, South Carolina, held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, February 7, 1956, at the home of Mrs. Marguerite Childers.

The meeting was opened with the group singing a familiar hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Mrs. Grady Brannon then led the group in the opening prayer, followed with devotions by Mrs. A. F. Lawter. Those taking part on program were: Mrs. Lawter, Mrs. Brannon, Mrs. Loretta Canupps and Mrs. Effie Taylor. There were 18 auxiliary members present at the meeting.

Last year the auxiliary raised money and bought new steps for their church building. This year they, along with other churches in the district, are raising money to buy a vacuum cleaner for the Turbeville Orphanage Home. The auxiliary is proud of its work and is praying that it may continue to glorify the Master in all of its undertakings.

Intercessory Prayer Band

Following is Mrs. Marvin Moore's appeal for paryer to all Prayer Band Members:

"For the son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost' (Luke 19:10). '... as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you' (John 20:21). Jesus came to seek those who are lost, and He sent His disciples forth also to seek the lost. Are we truly seeking the lost and trying to win them to Christ? Each of us has this as our duty.

"Recently India refused admittance to some of our fellow Christians who were led to India to seek the lost. Why? We cannot answer this, but God surely had a reason. Maybe He wants them in another place to witness for Him. What can we do about this? Pray! God answers prayer and we must pray for these people who are trying to fulfill the Great Commission. We must pray that God will open the door for them wherever He wants them to go. Pray that our people will support them once they are on the field of service. Prayer is a powerful force and when many unite in prayer, surely God will bring wonderful results.

"We should pray too that steps be taken to abolish the sale of trashy, abominable literature which many of our young people and older people are reading today. Surely all Christians should be very concerned about the easy access to such literature. We need to seek God's guidance in searching for ways in which to destroy it. 'Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me' (John 5:39). If we would spend much time reading God's Word we would have little time or desire to read

A GREATER MOUNT OLIVE COLLEGE

THE hour of opportunity has come. Eastern North Carolina is ablaze with enthusiasm for higher education," these were the opening words of W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, to the board of directors of the local college in their quarterly meeting Tuesday, February 7, 1956.

The president's report noted the progress the college has made since November, 1955, when the board last met:

1. The college endowment funds have grown from $5,000 to a sum which will eventually total $20,000.

2. Through the efforts of the Beulaville Camp of the Woodmen of the World more than $600 has been spent in modernizing a classroom with new desks, lights, window blinds and writing boards.

3. Student enrollment in the junior college department has reached forty, and the enrollment for night classes now totals forty-five.

4. A new piano has been purchased for the music department which makes the second new piano to be added during the current school year.

In other items of business, the directors appointed a committee consisting of Hardy Talton, Goldsboro; R. N. Hinnant, Micro; and M. L. Johnson, Sims, to work with the town of Mount Olive in promoting a financial campaign in the interest of the college.

In the afternoon this committee, along with W. B. Raper and S. A. Smith, business manager of the college, met with Mayor B. E. Bryan and the Mount Olive executive committee to discuss more fully the organization and procedure of the movement to solicit educational funds for the college. It was decided that Mr. Talton, a former state legislator from Wayne County, would assist in the drive in Goldsboro and that S. A. Smith would direct the campaign among rural churches within a fifty mile radius of Mount Olive. Mr. Hinnant and Mr. Johnson were appointed to conduct a financial drive among Free Will Baptist churches throughout the state. There are 50,000 Free Will Baptists in North Carolina and 500,000 in the United States, and Mount Olive College is the only liberal arts college related to the denomination in the entire country.

A goal of 750 students by 1975 was set by the board, and the desire to have Mount Olive accredited by November, 1956, was re-emphasized. The board authorized the president to proceed in whatever manner necessary to obtain accreditation at the earliest possible date.

Most of the requirements for accreditation have already been met.

With a view to enlarging the service of the college and increasing financial support, the directors voted to invite the Free Will Baptist State Convention of South Carolina to send a non-voting delegation to attend the regular meetings of the board. Already some financial support has been received from churches in South Carolina and some students from the Palmetto State are expected to enroll in the college in September. As the college grows and other states manifest an interest, they also will be invited to be represented in the college board meetings.

The presence of Pio Alejan, a young Filipino student enrolled in the college this year, and Mrs. Emiko Jackson, a Japanese student here for the past two years, has proven to be of such benefit to the college that the board has authorized that a scholarship be given a foreign student each year. The selection of the foreign student will be arranged through foreign mission boards.

STEWARDS

"... It is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful" (1 Corinthians 4:2).

Who is a steward? One who manages an estate for another. Who is a faithful steward? One who is true to a trust, guarding it with his life. A steward is one who has been given a position as manager over the affairs of another. God is the owner and man is his steward. A good hired hand wants to please his boss. The boss will respect the needs and well-being of his hired help.

God is the owner of all things, both material and spiritual. We are His subjects, His personal property. He is at liberty to do with us as He wills. God has allowed a certain amount of time to every one of us. He is holding us responsible for the way we spend the hours, the days, the years. It is required in stewards that a man be able to give full account of how he spends his time. The time we spend must be such as to honor Christ, God's Son. All things have been committed unto Him of the Father. The Lord would have us assemble in the church on the Lord's day for worship and fellowship. We worship the Lord by doing only those things which honor Him and prove our praise and adoration of Him. Sunday is God's appointed day of worship. A faithful steward will want to be in the worship services on Sunday.

The Lord holds us responsible for our talents. It is God who gives you knowledge and understanding. It is He who makes you able to preach, teach, sing, witness, pray, administer to the poor and needy and all the various talents committed unto men. God makes the farmer, the baker, the merchant, the scientist and others. Good stewards recognize this and make it their business to be the best in the use of their talent for His glory.

God has made us stewards of things. All things material and spiritual belong unto God. Man is only manager of His affairs. The silver and the gold, houses and lands, cattle, stocks and bonds, children and all things belong unto God. We are only stewards charged with the responsibility of caring for these and attending to them for God's glory. The tithe is the Lord's. By this it is meant that God has allowed nine tenths of all we possess to be used for our own personal needs. The tithe (tenth) is not to be used by us at all. It goes immediately to the treasury of the church or directly to the propagation of the gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Every man, saint or sinner, owes God a tithe. If man does not honor Christ in the giving of the tithe, then God has a perfect right to take it. God does take it. He makes you pay for your disobedience in sickness, in business setbacks, accidents, troubles and griefs.

—Rocky Mount, N. C., Church Bulletin.

Orders

I HAVE orders, positive orders, not to go there—orders that I dare not disobey," said a youth who was being tempted to a smoking and gambling saloon.

"Come, don't be so womanish. Come along like a man," shouted the others.

"No, I can't break orders," said John.

"What special orders do you have? Show them to us, if you can. Show us orders that will keep you from having a good time with the rest of us."

John took a wallet from his pocket and pulled out a neatly folded paper. "It's here," he said, unfolding the paper and showing it to the boys.

They looked, and read aloud:

"Enter not into the path of the wicked . . . avoid it, pass not by it, turn from it, and pass away."

"Now," said John, "You see my orders forbid my going with you. They are God's orders, and by His help I don't mean to break them."—My Pleasure.

Jesus Faces the City

(Lesson for March 4)

Lesson: Luke 19:37-48.

Golden Text: Luke 19:42.

I. INTRODUCTION

Verse 36 of the context tells us that the people along the way caught the spirit of the occasion, for they spread their coats in the street over which Jesus would pass. Another writer tells of the people's spreading palm branches in the way, also.

The disciples, thinking of all the mighty works Jesus had done before their very eyes, knew that He was about to display again the evidences of God's power. Therefore, they began to shout praises to God. The people along the way joined in the chorus, and even children chimed in the mighty ovation.

"Saying, Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord: peace in heaven and glory in the highest" (Vs. 38).

The hope of hundreds of years was materializing in this moment. Here was a man who had performed such miracles, spoken such words of wisdom and displayed such nobility of spirit as no one heretofore had ever approached. Since God had promised the Messiah, and since this man had chosen to follow the customs of the ancient kings of Israel, surely this must be the promised King, and this the hour in which he would ascend to His throne. Therefore, out of the eager expectation of their hearts, they caused the whole city to resound with their shouts.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.)

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. The disciples of Christ still praise His name for the mighty works that He still performs (Vs. 37).

2. Though Christ has not yet been made King, He shall one day soon wear a diadem (Vs. 38).

3. The enemies of Christ are always on hand to oppose the things that honor His name (Vs. 39).

4. If men should ever cease to praise His name, nature will respond with a glorious strain (Vs. 40).

5. After men have gone to the utmost in sin, the compassionate Christ still yearns for them (Vv. 41, 42).

6. For those who persist in rebellion and sin, the only thing left is judgment and death (Vv. 43, 44).

7. A house dedicated to worship and prayer should never be polluted with worldly things (Vv. 45, 46).

8. The house of God, though misused and abused, is the place where His Word should be preached and approved (Vv. 47, 48).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.)

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Here was indeed an enthusiastic event. Both in Matthew and Luke we are informed that the multitudes spread their garments in the way (Matthew 21:8). Large numbers had followed the Lord from Jericho, while thousands had gathered at Jerusalem for the feast. The fame of His mighty deeds and miracles had spread, especially of His raising Lazarus to life. So when the news of His coming to Jerusalem had reached the city, thousands, no doubt, went forth to meet Him.

2. The Pharisees dared to appeal to the Lord Himself to deny Himself, and rebuke His disciples. They were greatly disquieted by all this enthusiastic reception of Christ and His own attitude toward it. It clearly reveals the fact that they considered the multitude to be treating Jesus as the Messiah, and considered Jesus claiming to be the Messiah by not restraining the confession His attendants made. His riding into Jerusalem on a colt doubtless reminded them of the famous prophecy of Zechariah (Zechariah 9:9), which all Jews applied to the Messiah, and which therefore added to their displeasure. They felt very uncomfortable, unhappy, and mean in the face of all they saw and heard, and went to an extreme length to have it checked and subdued.—W. S. Hottel, D. D.

3. The Lord Jesus Christ pointed the attention of the Jews to the horrible hurricane of judgment rapidly approaching; "the things which belong unto thy peace!" The skies were already darkening. The rumbling thunders could be heard. Israel rejected the only One who could have saved them from disaster. They sealed their fate with their dual blasphemous cry, "His blood be on us, and on our children, we have no king but Caesar." From that moment they were doomed. Disaster became a certainty. The days sped by and then came revolt. Things, terrible things began to happen to their peace. Hunger became a constant companion and death a welcome guest. Their grim experiences proved that there is no peace to the wicked.

The Jews were ignorant of the terrible dark tomorrows and thus neglected the golden day of opportunity, called by Jesus, "This thy day." Literally this is man's day. It is his day of preparation for eternity. It is his day of decision. It is his day of salvation. "Now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation." This is the day that God has given. Man has now the opportunity of living in the age of grace. It is a gospel dispensation when God calls all men everywhere to repent. Its keyword is "come." God pleads, "Come . . . let us reason together."—The Bible Illustrator.

4. We are informed that the temple management did not conduct the sale of animals for sacrifice or run the tables of the money changers. The action of Jesus in driving them out was not a direct attack upon the rulers, but it was an attack upon their revenue, for no doubt they received pay for the concessions. The dishonesty was probably in two directions. Traders were allowed to corner the market on birds and animals for sacrifice and make unfair profits, exploiting people's desire to worship God. Then they supplied the Jews of other nations with local money to pay temple tax and meet the expenses of their visit. They were there from under many skies. Read Acts 2:9-11. They took advantage to make large money through overcharge for this accommodation.—Higley's Commentary.

5. They had made God's house of prayer into a market place, taking holy things and profaning them for their own financial profit. Seeing this, Christ arose in mighty indignation, rebuked the leaders and drove out the money changers. It is a majestic picture of the holy Son of God, perfectly poised, but completely taken over by His zeal for the things of God.

Here is one of the scenes in the life of our Lord that make a mighty appeal to virile and upstanding men. Jesus is so often pictured to us as somewhat effeminate that it is a delight to stand and adore Him in His hour of strength and decisive dealing with wickedness.

Mrs. C. B. Turner

On Wednesday, October 19, 1955, the good Lord saw fit to take from our midst our mother, Phyla Turner. She was seventy years old on September 3, 1955. Her husband was called to his heavenly home in September of 1948. Mrs. Turner was a member of Whaley's Chapel Church, Jones County, North Carolina, and attended as long as her health permitted her to do so. She was really sick for three years, but fortunately was confined to bed only for a short while before her death.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Ben Nobles, Mrs. Thurmon Howard, Miss Pearl Turner and Miss Beulah Turner; two sons, Mr. Arthur Turner and Mr. Herbert Turner; nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral was preached at the home church by the pastor, the Rev. Lloyd Vernon, with the burial in the family cemetery near the home. She was laid to rest under a beautiful mound of flowers. Mother is gone but sweet thoughts and memories of her will forever linger with us here on earth.

Mr. James Mace

On December 9, 1955, while standing in a local feed store in McArthur, Ohio, Mr. James Mace suddenly collapsed and was dead in only a few fleeting minutes. He did not have the chance to speak to anyone before his sudden death. His wife died on December 10, 1954.

Mr. Berley W. Buck

On October 25, 1955, near Black Jack, North Carolina, God in his infinite mercy saw fit to call our beloved daddy, Berley W. Buck, to his heavenly reward.

He had been in failing health for the past year, but was stricken with a heart attack and passed away suddenly.

He was a member of the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church, Pitt County, North Carolina, where he attended for many years. He was fifty-five years old.

The funeral was conducted at the Black Jack Church by the pastor, the Rev. F. B. Cherry, assisted by the Rev. J. C. Griffin. His body was laid to rest in the church cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annie Carrow Buck; five daughters, Mrs. Leo Wantor, Mrs. Joe Toth of Lansing, Michigan, Mrs. David Earl Tripp of Simpson, North Carolina, and Shelva Jean and Carolyn of the home; two sons, J. C. of Grimesland, North Carolina, and Leo of the home.

We miss daddy very much, but may our loss be his eternal gain. May he find the peace and rest which we hope to find one day.

We feel that our loss is heaven's gain.

Rev. Luther Inman

The poem below was written in memory of our dear husband and father, the Rev. Luther Inman, Conway, South Carolina, who passed away March 14, 1955, at the age of 61.

IN MEMORIAL

It was about a year ago
That you left us in grief and sorrow.
We loved you, yes we loved you,
As to your grave we wandered.

With heartaches and tears we saw you
For the last time on earth below;
Your gentle voice is now silent,
And your face is no longer aglow.

Your days of pain and sleepless nights
And all now in the past;
We often sit and think of you
And hope to meet in heaven at last.

We know you are asleep in God's own garden

Where all is sunshine and gold;
But it would only seem like heaven
To have you back into the fold.

Written by his daughter,
Mrs. Vivian Inman

such literature. We, as parents, should not even allow unquestionable literature in our homes. We should set Christian examples for our children to follow. We feed our families on the best of foods, so why not be just as concerned about their mental and spiritual welfare.

"We must not forget that the youth of today will be the leaders of tomorrow. What they read and think about today will greatly affect their futures. Prayer partners, let us all pray daily that God may lead us and give us the courage to fight our problems of today. Let us put feet on our prayers and do something about the things we pray about."

SATAN DEFEATED

Mabel Glenn Haldeman

When I pass a place of sin
Satan calls me to come in;
But I answer, "No, indeed!
Jesus' voice I'll rather heed."

Then he comes another way—
Tries to get me words to say
Which will send a wicked dart
Into some one's aching heart.

Quickly then I look above
To the One I dearly love,
And He helps me quiet be—
Satan then must run, you see.

Next old Satan flatters me—
Says he wants my friend to be;
But I've learned to know his wiles,
And I just ignore his smiles.

Satan comes in many ways,
And so many tricks he plays;
But he always has to go
When I pray to God, you know.

If we trust the Mighty One
Satan always has to run;
Though he tempts, we need not heed—
Jesus helps in time of need.

"It is the duty of parents to teach their children, and the duty of the children to heed and retain parental teaching."—Selected.

VISUAL AIDS PROJECT

Elsewhere in this issue a report is given on the visual aids project which was adopted at the last session of the Woman's National Auxiliary Convention. At that meeting the Cronks, missionaries on furlough from our field in India, reported that they needed some visual aids materials and equipment in their work in India. Upon being asked the approximate cost of such aids, the Cronks estimated that $1,000 would buy some of the most badly needed things.

At that time the convention adopted a resolution endorsing the project and asking that the money be raised by the auxiliaries in the several states during this year. The entire amount was broken down in state quotas, making the quota for no state too great to be attained with just a very little effort.

When the report on the progress of this project came to our desk a few days ago, we were surprised and disappointed that so little had been done up to this time. We noticed that not even half of this money had been raised. We did notice, however, that the auxiliaries in one state, South Carolina, had exceeded their quota by $45.55. We salute the good women of that state for having done an excellent job. On the other hand, we wonder why others have done so little. We suggest that you examine the report to find what the auxiliaries in your state have done. If your state has not met its quota, you should bring the matter before your auxiliary and make a liberal allocation to the project.

We bring this project to the attention of the women of the several states, not to belittle them, but to emphasize this matter which they have apparently overlooked. Our experience with Free Will Baptist woman's auxiliaries has proven that they are among the most active in the cause of Christ and the denomination of all the groups or departments of the National Association. Therefore, we are sure that, once they set their hands to this task in earnest, they will complete it with ease.

SUPERANNUATION

At the annual meeting of the National Superannuation Board on February 14, 1956, we were delighted and humbled before the Lord upon discovering that God had answered our prayers beyond our expectation. It is with a glad heart, but also with fear and trembling, that we make this report to you.

In making his report to the board, the Reverend K. V. Shutes, promotional secretary for national superannuation, stated that funds had come to the board in sufficient amount that he had been able to pay the board's half of all premiums of our insured ministers to date. He further stated that he had faith to believe that God would continue to supply the funds for him to continue the present policy. We confess to you that this is more than we had dared to hope, and the seeming impossibility was what led the board to authorize the secretary to invoke the emergency clause in its authorization.

We believe it is only right that the denomination know what has brought about this marvelous blessing. Much of it has been due to the unselfish and sacrificial services of Mr. and Mrs. Shutes. He has traveled in several of the states taking only a small fraction of the travel allowance granted him and, in many instances, bearing his own expense entirely. Mrs. Shutes has given almost her entire time to writing letters and keeping the business of the office in shape in the absence of her husband; for this service she has not drawn a dime. Free Will Baptists have a right to thank God for such people with their lives so completely on the altar for Christ and the cause.

Another great factor in this victory for superannuation up to this time has been the reception which people have given the secretary where he has gone. His reports of conversions in the services and the liberality of the churches to his appeals have been indeed encouraging. He reports that wherever he has gone on recent itineraries the churches have gladly given enough money to pay the board's half of their minister's premium, pledged themselves to continue this practice in future years and made a contribution to the board on the secretary's expense. We cannot thank our people enough for this excellent attitude.

The third contributing factor has been the regular offerings which have come to superannuation through the mail from churches which are regularly supporting the program.

Finally, let us emphasize the fact that the victory has not been completely won. The funds in the treasury are extremely low. Your continued and increased support is urgently needed. In addition to your support by mail, the secretary needs invitations for itineraries in the several states. Please invite him. Arrangements are being made at present for an itinerary in North Carolina during the month of March. Will you contact the promotional secretary about an itinerary in your state in the near future?

OUR COVENANT

The second paragraph of our Church Covenant is as follows:

"We promise by His grace to love and obey Him in all things, to avoid all appearance of evil, to abstain from all sinful amusements and unholy conformity to the world, from all sanction of the sale and use of intoxicating beverages, and to 'provide things honest in the sight of all men.'"

This argument which Free Will Baptists have made with one another and with God places them against intoxicating liquors in any form. The history of the denomination is one of active opposition to this deadly traffic which wreaks so much tragedy in the world. And we are not alone in our position: a great many other Christian groups also maintain that the only temperance the Christian can maintain toward beverage alcohol is total abstinence. Free Will Baptists should unite their efforts with those of other groups, wherever and whenever possible, to drive the liquor industry from our land.

In North Carolina it appears that Free Will Baptists in at least one county will have opportunity to vote on the liquor question. The Hull Road Church Bulletin for February 12, 1956, carried this announcement: "Last Friday Judge Henry M. Grady gave his decision relative to the recent court hearing on the question of a liquor referendum in Greene County. It included an order for the board of elections to proceed immediately to call an election. The board has a grace period of ten days in which to take action to make an appeal."

We are informed that Free Will Baptists are the most numerous church group in Greene County. The Allied Church League is working to help vote that county dry. We urge Free Will Baptists there, and everywhere else, to vote against the sale of liquor. And let us remind our people in North Carolina again: "Be sure to send your contribution for the Allied Church League to Rev. D. W. Alexander, Bethel, North Carolina."

1600 Preachers?

K. V. Shutes
Nashville, Tennessee

WE have in the files at the Free Will Baptist Headquarters, Nashville, Tennessee, the addresses of more than 1700 Free Will Baptist ministers. Of this number there are more than 1600 who are not insured through the National Board of Superannuation. Are they not as worthy as those who are insured? I know that you will say that many of them are.

Well, what must we do about it? The income to the national board is too small to insure one-fourth of them. Because of this, the board in its last meeting agreed to ask every church whose pastor has this insurance, and those whose pastor does not have it but wants it, to pay direct to the National Board of Superannuation one-half of the minister's yearly premium.

The minister in most cases is too timid to ask the church to pay half of his insurance premium with this board. So here is a good job for the deacons or some member who is interested in his pastor's having this protection.

Some of the brethren who are enjoying the security of this insurance think it is a terrible thing to ask their churches to share in the security of their pastor. Some of the ministers will be too old to be insured through the board before we can get to them if we don't get the cooperation of the local churches. Why not let the other 1600 ministers enjoy this security?

Again the Free Will Baptist papers do not reach one-fourth of our people; so why not help us to spread the news by word of mouth?

Many of our ministers are too old to get this insurance, for one must be between 21 and 55 years of age to get it. Many of our most active ministers are past this age limit.

What are we to do for them? Every state is to set up a state superannuation board to raise money for them. The state boards are to keep 75 percent of what they raise to help their aged ministers who do not have this insurance. The other 25 percent is to be sent to the National Superannuation Board to help maintain an office. This money should be sent monthly in order that we might keep this program before our people.

We climbed the slick hills of Alabama a few Sundays ago and saw one who has given over a quarter of a century for Free Will Baptists. His wife has been a complete invalid for more than six years. She doesn't know day from night and can't talk. They had not had anything from the Alabama Superannuation Board because it had not been reported to the board. You who know of cases like this one should report it to your state board.

We met a widow of one of our ministers who had been a great blessing to our denomination, and she said she had applied to a state board and was turned down. Remember, widows of our ministers are to be cared for the same as the aged ministers.

It is our job to get to all the states that are represented in the National Association and help them to organize for this work so that we might unify this part of our national program, and also to raise money for the work.

We cannot get to your state without an opportunity. We have written to some of you trying to get an itinerary and have not as yet had a reply. Surely it isn't because you are not interested in this phase of our national work.

Many of our people, from some cause or other, have misunderstood the national program. Those who are adopting the Co-operative Plan are saying to the other promotional secretaries, "You can't come into our state to promote your phase of the work." If you will look under the General Board Report in the 1955 National Minutes, you will see that all national promotional secretaries are given the privilege of promoting their part of the program. So why not give us all a chance?

A GROWN SHEEP WENT ASTRAY

'Twas a sheep, not a lamb, that went astray,
In the parable Jesus told—
A grown-up sheep that had strayed away
From the ninety and nine in the fold.

Out on the hillside, out in the cold,
'Twas a sheep the Good Shepherd sought;
And back to the flock, safe into the fold,
'Twas a sheep the Good Shepherd brought.

And why for the sheep should we earnestly long,
And as earnestly hope and pray?
Because there is danger, if they go wrong,
They will lead the lambs astray.

For the lambs will follow the sheep, you know,
Wherever the sheep may stray.
When the sheep go wrong, it will not be long 'Till the lambs are as wrong as they.

And so with the sheep we earnestly plead,
For the sake of the lambs today.
If the sheep are lost, what a terrible cost
The lambs will have to pay.

More Abundant

Honor

NAAMAN BORDERS

Waverly, Ohio

SOME of us sometimes feel that we are so weak and insignificant in the church that we do not amount to much. Therefore we get discouraged and gradually fall away. But if we read Chapter 12 of 1 Corinthians we might change our minds. In speaking of the church Paul says that the church is the body of Christ and is composed of many members. He says the head cannot say to the foot I have no need of thee, and the eye cannot say to the ear I have no need of thee. If all were the eye where would the hearing be and etc.

So every member is necessary to make the body complete. If any one member were missing our whole body would be impaired. We all cannot be the head. Neither can we all be the feet. Every brick we take out of the building makes the structure weaker. Every soldier we take out of the army makes the army weaker. God hath placed every member in the body as it hath pleased Him—some comely and others uncomely. He says that the uncomely receive the more abundant honor, so if we are not recognized as we think we should be among men, He says that we receive more abundant honor from Him.

Many a poor fellow whose name is not known outside his own neighborhood and whose name has never been in the news, has his name enrolled in the Lamb's Book of Life, and will lead thousands in this world who have been in the news for years and years. Many a poor washwoman who has toiled and prayed with insufficient food and clothing, and who has died and been buried in the potter's field without even a slab to mark her final resting place, will come forth in the great resurrection morning wearing a white robe and a golden crown, with a harp in her hand and a song on her lips.

Many a great revival has been performed, not because of the great evangelist, but because a faithful few had prayed and toiled years before it happened. Billy Graham owes much of his success to his faithful father and mother at home. Billy Sunday was led to Christ by a faithful few in the slums of Chicago when he heard their singing and shouting. C. H. Spurgeon was led to Christ in an humble church by a layman on a snowy day which was too bad for the regular minister to come. John Wesley was led to Christ by his faithful Christian mother.

Not much is said of Andrew in the Bible, but he led Peter, one of the great apostles, to Christ. Paul received his first conviction when he saw a faithful deacon, Stephen, stoned to death. Not long after this Paul was crying out, "... Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? ..." (Acts 9:6).

Not many years ago a faithful missionary returned home on the same ship that brought Theodore Roosevelt home from a big hunt in Africa. The ex-president received a great welcome with flaring bands. The weary missionary was sad when no one was there to give him a welcome home. Then he remembered that he had not gotten home yet—he was waiting to see what a welcome he would get when the Pearly Gates open wide to receive him.

According to Paul, the smallest members in the body or the uncomely will receive the more abundant honor. He meant that those who seem to be obscure and relegated to the humblest seat will be placed on the highest seat. Doesn't Christ say that the first shall be last and the last shall be first? Don't be discouraged for we serve a God who never slumbers. He watches over all of us and will mete out our rewards in the sweet by and by. He has His eye on every sheep of the fold and knows them by name. The lambs that are too weak to walk He carries in His arms, and not a single one who trusts in Him will be left out.

Paul says, "Nay, much more those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary: And those members of the body, which we think to be less honourable, upon these we bestow more abundant honour; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness. For our comely parts have no need: but God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honour to that part which lacked" (1 Corinthians 12:22-24).

Yes, dear friends, we who are weak and feel that we are unimportant and can accomplish so little for the Master, may take heart for there is no one who is not important in God's sight. When the Israelites went out to battle against the enemy they left the weaker ones to guard the provisions of war, and when they returned with the spoils of war they shared equally with those who went out to battle. Do you think our great heavenly Father will do less for us in this old world who have stayed at home and made it possible for the stronger ones to fight the battles?

Jesus said that he takes care of the sparrow and that the very hairs of our heads are numbered. Also Jesus commended the poor widow who cast in her mite which was more in His sight than all that the rich had given. Solomon said, "Better it is to be of an humble spirit with the lowly, than to divide the spoil with the proud" (Proverbs 16:19). Paul said, "... Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate. ..." (Romans 12:16). Again Jesus said, "... whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant" (Matthew 20:26, 27).

When John was writing concerning the poor he spoke these comforting words: "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes" (Revelation 7:16, 17).

SHE LEFT IT ALL FOR GOD

A little heathen girl, who had been taught by the missionaries, was once beaten by another child. She was asked, if she beat in return. Her answer is worthy of any Christian child. She said, "No, I left that for God." That was right. "Vengeance is Mine; I will repay, saith the Lord." I wonder if the little girl had not read this text. It is in Romans. Can you tell in what chapter? —E. B. S., Sel.

We Should Not Worry

Elder Colonel Pendleton
Nashville, Tennessee

MY dear brothers and sisters in Christ, I want us to study together a lesson on worry. Is it not a fact that there is nothing more common than worry? We find that men worry, women worry, and they worry in unison. It is said that women worry more than men; but I think, if that is true, it is because they are more sensitively organized, don't you? We find that worry is like death, no respecter of persons; for poor people worry, rich people worry, old people worry, young people worry, busy people worry, and idle people also worry. Do we not find that the cultured and the ignorant touch elbows here, so to speak?

It is also said, "Americans are supposed to be specialists in worrying," but we might truly say it is characteristic of the whole human race, the difference being in degree. Is that not the logical conclusion? Is it not a fact that a good deal of worry comes from pride and over sensitiveness? And if we analyze it carefully, we will find that selfishness is a chief ingredient in the worry life. Of course, much worry comes from physical causes, such as overworked nerves which see things distorted, and huge phantom shapes loom before us.

We find two Don't worry chapters in the Holy Scriptures. One is found in the Old Testament, Psalm 37:1-3, in which the Holy Spirit said, "Fret not thyself because of evildoers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity. For they shall soon be cut down like the grass, and wither as the green herb. Trust in the LORD, and do good; so shall thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed." This brings to our minds what the Spirit said, "But godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out. And having food and raiment let us therewith be content" (1 Timothy 6:6-8). "Delight thyself also in the LORD; and He shall give thee the desires of thine heart. Commit thy way unto the LORD, trust also in Him; and He shall bring it to pass. . . . Rest in the LORD, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, . . ." (Psalm 37:4-7). Then in the sixth chapter of Matthew, which we might call the Twin Brother of Psalm 37, we have these precious words from the lips of Jesus, "Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed?" (Vs. 31). Then He gives these most comforting words, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Vs. 33). Montgomery's translation says, "Do not then be anxious about tomorrow, for tomorrow will bring its own anxieties. Enough for each day are its own troubles." Yes, our blessed Saviour said, "Be not anxious," but through all the Scriptures we find these words, "Fear not"; "Fret not"; "Let not your hearts be troubled." Our heavenly Father knew the human heart would be lacking in faith, and He repeatedly tells us not to worry, for He has said, ". . . be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee" (Hebrews 13:5). Saints, we should not worry about what anyone does, for the Word of God says, "So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me" (Hebrews 13:6).

Please let us realize that a sensitive spirit feels the great responsibility of life, and does the very best he can to meet it, but there is always that feeling that failure may overtake him, and he worries.

We might say, "Worry is a mental disease."

We may truly say, "Sometimes worry is carrying tomorrow's load with today's strength, carrying two days in one, and thus moving into tomorrow ahead of time." Do we not lug our worries to bed every night, and there do a lot of pillow planning when we should be resting? Is it not true that this pillow planning grows wrinkles, and brings on old age prematurely? A great man of God has said, "Occasionally we see an old person who has won a diploma in the school of Don't Worry, and the wrinkles have a very fine delicate line that comes to one who bears the troubles and trials of life with sweet resignation."

Yes, dear saints, please let us realize that the person who has learned to trust the Almighty God of heaven, when all things do not go just as smoothly as he or she wished, is to be praised. Don't you think so? Now, my dear brothers and sisters in Christ, is it not a fact that worry is utterly useless? For it never brings anything good, but it does bring bad results. Please remember that worry impairs the judgment and keeps one from thinking clearly. Is this not a fact which nobody can deny? In worry the temper is ruffled, the door is slammed, the chair knocked over, the dog kicked, and "Old Beck," the mule we are plowing, gets a sound beating. And we are, all out of sorts with everybody. To all this we must say, with James 3:10, ". . . My brethren, these things ought not so to be." And, I am bold to say, that in a sanctified person, they will not be. We might say to worry is to sin, for Jesus has said, "Be not anxious." Therefore, to worry is a reproach upon Jesus.

We might say, "Let those worry who have not let Jesus come into their lives." And we may add, "Let the lazy people worry, too." But they will not do it. Of course, we know that the fundamental rule for eliminating worry is to cast all your care upon Jesus.

So, in order to be free from all worry, let us put in practice this grand old song:

Are you weary, are you heavy hearted?
Tell it to Jesus, tell it to Jesus;
Are you grieving over joys departed?
Tell it to Jesus alone.

The way of Christ may seem to the outside observer a narrow path, and difficult to walk. It may seem as though it involved tremendous sacrifices. But to be in Christ, to become members of His body, and subject to His control, is to live the largest, fullest, and most joyous life possible. It is a narrow road, but it leads unto life, and they really live—not they only—who walk it.—Dr. T. T. Shields.

Reunion Chapel Church Shows Interest in Missions

The Reunion Chapel Free Will Baptist Church located on the Maul Swamp Road near Vanceboro, North Carolina, has begun an active plan for aiding foreign missions. A freewill offering will be taken every third Sunday night to be placed on this project.

The church reporter, Inez Dunn, states: "The pastor, Rev. C. M. Dixon, has shown several pictures on missions and they have helped to enlighten us as to the meaning and need for foreign missions."

"We also wish to invite any choir or other singers to attend our community sing on the fifth Sunday night in April."

St. Mary's Grove School Presents Attendance Awards

Sunday, February 19, 1956, in the closing exercise of the Sunday school of Saint Mary's Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Route 2, Benson, North Caro-ina, perfect attendance awards were presented to those making perfect attendance for the last twelve months. R. C. Gregory, superintendent of the school, presented the awards to 39 members which was the greatest number winning awards since the church school adopted the attendance award plan four years ago. There were 13 receiving first year pins, 9 receiving second year wreaths, 8 receiving third year bars and 9 receiving fourth year bars.

At the close of presenting the awards, the pastor, the Rev. A. B. Bryan, commended those receiving awards, the officers of the school and the parents of the children receiving awards. He stated that "It is to be observed that interest in Sunday school work is mounting and the awards are a minor thing. These 39 who have won awards have been in Sunday school consecutively for one to four years which is a great sign of moral and spiritual success which we should be proud of.

Sunday School Convention Being Planned

Rev. L. E. Ballard, of Bladenboro, North Carolina, field secretary of the North Carolina Free Will Baptist Sunday School Convention, announces that plans for the 1956 session of the convention to be held at Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, March 22 and 23, are about complete.

The convention theme for 1956 is "I Will Guide Thee." Speakers will apply the theme to the various aspects of Sunday school work. The first session of the convention will deal with the subject, "More Effective Teaching," while the second session will be in the form of a symposium on Sunday school missionary endeavor. Sunday school leaders from all section of the state will take part in the discussions.

Mount Olive College will arrange for rooms at the college and in homes in the town for all those who wish to stay over night, at moderate prices, and the college will serve meals in the cafeteria. Those wishing accommodations for the night should apply directly to Rev. Burkette Raper, Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina.

Blanks for reports from local Sunday schools to the convention have been sent out from the field office. However, the mailing list for schools is not a perfect one, and any school not receiving a blank by March 1 is asked to write Rev. L. E. Ballard, P. O. Box 381, Bladenboro, North Carolina, who promises that a blank will be sent promptly. Blanks when properly filled out according to instructions are to be sent to the

North Carolina Churches Join Million Dollar Drive

On the night of February 20, 1956, more than 200 interested ministers and church leaders from Free Will Baptist churches of North Carolina met in the auditorium of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, to plan the part which Free Will Baptists will play in the "Million Dollar Mount Olive College Campaign."

We have reported previously that citizens of the town of Mount Olive, in cooperation with college officials, were at work in towns and communities within a radius of fifty miles of Mount Olive. This group is canvassing business establishments, churches and individuals who are not Free Will Baptists. Their goal is that of raising a half million dollars as a gift to the college.

In the meeting of February 20 the Free Will Baptist leaders enthusiastically accepted the challenge to solicit contributions and pledges from Free Will Baptist churches and individuals in an effort to raise the other half of the million dollars for the college. Free Will Baptists in the state of North Carolina will be asked to sign a pledge card to make contributions annually for five years to the institution.

If you are not contacted shortly relative to this matter, please write Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina. The authorities will be glad to send you a pledge card so that you may join in this noble activity. The president of the college says, "No gift or pledge will be considered too small."

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. P. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Perhaps the gravest problem we as ministers face is the divorce question, where second marriages have been entered into before the dawn of gospel light and a home established with children, upon which glorious salvation enters. Does God forgive sins entered into in ignorance?—G. C. Olson.

Answer: This is one of several such questions that have been asked me on the subject of divorce. So far as I know, the fact that there were children born to parents (unscripturally wed) who have been legally married to other companions that are still alive would not alter the case even though they were all four unsaved when both the real wedding and the false (last wedding) was consummated and when the children were born. God's reason for regarding the marriage contract as a lifetime obligation seems just as plausible as many other requirements made in His word. To see this, one must begin with the reason for His making our race of two sexes. Man needed a complement. God made him long enough before He made the help meet for him to see his need of such a companion, then He took the material from man's side and made the woman. He did not simply speak her into existence as He had done other objects of His creation, neither did He act as He had acted in the creation of man when he formed him from the dust of the earth, but He took that of which He made her from Adam's side. "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it; and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth" (Genesis 1:26-28). "And the LORD God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him. . . . And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof; And the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. And Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man. Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh" (Genesis 2:18, 21-24).

Jesus gave as His reason for not sanctioning divorce that it was not so in the beginning. "He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so" (Matthew 19:8). Jesus gave as a further reason why divorce could not be granted that in the marriage relationship "they twain shall be one flesh." "But from the beginning of the creation God made them male and female. For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife; And they twain shall be one flesh: so then they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder" (Mark 10:6-9). The apostles must have understood this to be what Jesus believed, taught and wanted them to teach. ". . . the woman which hath an husband is bound . . . to her husband so long as he liveth; . . . if, while her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be called on adulteress; but if her husband be dead, she is free . . . she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man" (Romans 7:2, 3).

When the temple and the returned Jews from the captivity were cleansed by Ezra, all of the men who had married in disobedience were requested to put away both the women of that false marriage and the children born in this illegitimate family arrangement. Read the thirteenth chapter of Nehemiah, also the ninth and tenth chapters of Ezra. We read in (Ezra 10:3), ". . . put away all the wives, and such as are born of them, . . ." If what was done in the Old Testament times and was written about was given to admonish us and to serve as an example, it seems that this example here could be applied to our misfit domestic affairs of today.

Now back to the question—Will God forgive one who did such before he became partaker of the Holy Ghost or before he was brought into the light of his glorious salvation? God, I think, would forgive one of such a sin, whether it was committed before or after he was saved if he would meet with God's requirement. "Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men" (Matthew 12:31).

God requires that a man confess his sins, forsake them, and when the nature of the sin requires so doing, make restitution. "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy" (Proverbs 28:13). See 1 John 1:7-9; Luke 19:6-10. To my mind, forsaking such a sin would require that one withdraw and avoid every appearance of evil. He probably would be required to support the children brought into the world by a wrong matrimonial relation. I would not take the responsibility of telling a man under such relations to just go ahead and live his life out under these circumstances. That would make him violate God's command in doing so. On the other hand I would not take the responsibility to tell him to forsake these he has brought into the world. He has, in such a disobedience as this, incurred some lifetime obligations. Each parent is responsible for each offspring, whether or not the child came by a right relation between his parents. Each person involved in conditions similar must pray, read the Bible, seek council for his particular need and follow God's guidance. The first man and the first woman to be married in this foursome relation are still one flesh and belong to each other and to no other person in a marriage relation so long as they both live in the bodies they had when the marriage contract was first signed by them. In such a case, when one first became an adulterer, the other had a right to divorce him until repentance and forgiveness were sought; then the offended party was obligated to forgive the offender and renew the covenant, but neither under any circumstances has a right to marital relations with someone else while his God-given mate lives.

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOA, N. C.

"And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness" (Ephesians 4:24).

This is the third and last of a series of messages on the state of man in the sight of God. In the first we considered the holy state in which man was created of God. In the first we considered the holy state in which man was created by God. Then we saw how man fell into sin and ruin by his disobedience to the command of God. It is my hope that I can, in this article, show how man can be brought back into a holy being in the sight of God by regeneration—by a new creation. In the fifth chapter of Romans, and the nineteenth verse, we are told, "For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous." No man can make himself righteous in the sight of God. All righteousness must come from God through Jesus Christ, His Son. Consider, "But not as the offence, so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many" (Romans 5:15).

In sin we are in bondage—in bondage to sin—in bondage to our own lusts and passions. Christ redeems those who come to Him in repentance and faith from this bondage—liberates from the slavery of iniquity—breaks the chain of our lusts, and releases us from the power of our corruptions.

In sin we are in captivity to Satan—taken captive by him at his will. Jesus only can redeem us from the tyranny of the devil. In sin man is under the curse of the law. Jesus redeems us from that curse, being made a curse for us. In sin we are rebels against God and on the verge of perdition, exposed to everlasting burnings and torments, but Jesus interposes and provided a ransom, suffering in our stead.

Rev. F. N. Peloubet, D. D., once said, "In this wonderful fourth chapter of Paul's wonderful letter to the Ephesians the apostle has been comparing the church to 'the body of Christ.' He thinks of the life of sin as an evil, sick body, which may be thrown off as a man takes off his clothes, and of the Christian life as a strong, healthy body, which may be put on as a man puts on beautiful, clean garments. In some such way we may regain the likeness to God which we have lost by sinning." In Verses 22 and 24 Paul speaks of putting off the old man and putting on the new man. God has made it possible for us to do this by accepting Christ as our personal Saviour.

It is as if Christ holds out a fresh, clean garment to the sinner to replace the sin-soiled garment of the natural man. We have only to take it. God created us in His image, but we have spoiled that likeness by sin; now He has created this second likeness of Himself in His own Son and invites us to put it on.

In 1 Corinthians 3:9-17 Paul tells us that God is rebuilding the broken temples of our lives. This work of making ourselves over again in the image of God cannot be done by ourselves alone. The apostle told the Corinthian Christians that they were "labourers together with God." Their souls were fields tilled by God, buildings God was erecting. They themselves could help in the ploughing and cultivating, could carry bricks and mortar for the building, but theirs was after all a very subordinate part; however, God must have our willing co-operation if He is to re-create us into His image and likeness.

A WORLD-WIDE SPIRITUAL OFFENSIVE

We hear much in the news these days about a world-wide revival. Some people claim that it is here. Others say it is not. Frankly, we doubt it but we do believe that it is in the realm of possibility. This week we want to pass on some information that we believe might be of interest and help to pastors.

"All that is necessary for evil to flourish is that good men do nothing."—Edmund Burke.

At the present time 820,000,000 souls are trapped between the Iron and the Bamboo Curtains. Do we have any responsibility to them?

Contrary to surface indications, all is not well in our own country. The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports show an 80% increase in major crimes since 1950. Arrests for crimes committed by youth under 18 years of age have risen 430% since 1950. Divorces alone are running 400,000 per year. The annual tax bill for mental care is over $400,000,000, and is growing. We now have over 3,000,000 alcoholics, and the number is increasing. How long dare we sleep?

The answer is spiritual. We have the most powerful secret weapon in the world, the spiritual power of God. Our leaders in government and industry have recognized and

Bible Conference, Bible College, Nashville, Tenn., April 2

Dr. L. C. Johnson, president of the Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tennessee, makes the following statement regarding the annual Bible Conference:

"At 9:30, Monday morning, April 2, 1956, the thirteenth annual Bible Conference here at Free Will Baptist Bible College will get under way. This has come to be a most looked-forward-to event to many who have come from year to year. The entire purpose of the Bible Conference is for spiritual fellowship. It is one meeting where there is nothing to promote or to talk about but the Word of God. No motions or resolutions are passed and there are no issues to debate. We believe it is one of the best opportunities for all our brother ministers to come together to renew themselves in the Lord that we have during the year.

"I know the conference this year falls at a very busy season. We have always endeavored to keep it away from the Easter season by at least two weeks. But this year due to certain school obligations it was about the only available time for us to schedule the conference. We hope that not too many will be hindered from coming, and we can have our usual record attendance. These conferences mean so much to our spiritual lives until I believe it will be worth the effort to clear your church calendar of all possible activities and be with us these three and a half days from April 2 to Thursday noon, April 5.

"This year's conference will feature a special service each afternoon from 2:00 until 3:30 for the ministers. Some things will be discussed at these ministers' meetings that every minister should be in on. We may be crowded out as far as space is concerned, but we will make some arrangements to take care of the crowds if possible. Of course you realize it is utterly impossible for the college, with its limited facilities, to feed and sleep its guests, but we will do our best to arrange for everyone to hear every message and to be in on all the services. If you would like assistance in getting reservations, let us know what you want and we will assist you in finding a place to stay while in Nashville. We hope you can come.

"There will be a consecration service on Sunday afternoon, April 1, at 3:30 at the college."

Mount Olive College Rallies to Be Held

Rallies are being scheduled as soon as possible in all union meetings for the purpose of organizing church groups to cooperate in the Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, campaign for funds. Two rallies have already been arranged: one at the Ayden, North Carolina, Church on March 5, at 7:30 p. m., and Saint Mary's Church of New Bern, North Carolina, on March 9, at 7:30 p. m. Other rallies will be arranged throughout the state as quickly as the college officials can make the necessary contacts with church leaders in each area.

stated that the answer to the present dilemma is not purely political, military or even economic.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States, says:

"... It is not a struggle merely of economic theories or forms of government or military power. The issue is the true nature of man. Either man is the creature whom the psalmist described as 'a little lower than the angels' crowned with glory and honor, holding 'dominion over the works' of his Creator; or man is a soulless animated machine to be enslaved, used and consumed by the state for its own glorification..."

Conrad Hilton, president of the Hilton chain of hotels, says:

"We must meet this dedicated enemy with a dedication of our own."

Walter H. Judd, M. C. from Minnesota and formerly medical missionary to China, says:

"We must have confidence that God is in His heaven and that Christ is stronger than all these forces—that these evils do exist but they must be overcome. The communists have a zeal for evil. They can be overcome only when Christians have the same zeal for good."

General Matthew B. Ridgeway, army chief of staff, says:

"Communism seeks to destroy belief in God and in divine guidance without which there can be neither meaning nor purpose to human life. The communist would, if able, destroy the institutions and ideals which have enabled man, with God's guidance, to achieve new heights of dignity."

Abraham Vereide, secretary general I. C. C. L., says:

"Nothing short of a leadership led by God is adequate for the present crisis."

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

THE GOSPEL MINISTRY

Qualification of Ministers

THEY must possess good, natural and acquired abilities, deep and ardent piety, be especially called of God to the work, and ordained by prayer and the laying on of hands."—Treatise.

"Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (2 Timothy 2:15). "Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity. Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine. Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery. Meditate upon these things; give thyself wholly to them; that thy profiting may appear to all. Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee" (1 Timothy 4:12-16). "But avoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain," (Titus 3:9). "In all things shewing thyself a pattern of good works: in doctrine shewing uncorruptness, gravity, sincerity, Sound speech, that cannot be condemned; that he that is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you" (Titus 2:7, 8). "And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also. Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ" (2 Timothy 2:2, 3). "A bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach; Not given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre; but patient, not a brawler, not covetous; One that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity; (For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?) Not a novice, lest being lifted up with pride he fall into the condemnation of the devil. Moreover he must have a good report of them which are without; lest he fall into reproach and snare of the devil" (1 Timothy 3:2-7).

The foregoing Scriptures set forth the qualifications of the minister. The ministry is a high calling. The call comes from God, therefore the call is authorized by our heavenly Father, and should not be taken lightly, but seriously and with great care. No man is at liberty to take upon himself the work of the ministry. It must be a call from God, as the Holy Spirit impresses and deeply convicts the minister to the sanctifying of himself to the work assigned to him by the Holy Spirit. Therefore the work of the ministry is not a profession; it is a calling. We have heard preachers say, "Before I would do so and so, I would quit the profession." If it is only a profession, it is easy to change our profession. But if it is a call from God one cannot quit until the Lord says it is enough.

Duties of Ministers

"These are to preach the Word. . . ."—Treatise. "But unto the wicked God saith, What hast thou to do to declare my statutes, or that thou shouldst take my covenant in thy mouth?" (Psalm 50:16). "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. Be not thou therefore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nor of me his prisoner: but be thou partaker of the afflictions of the gospel according to the power of God; Who hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus before the world began. But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel: Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, and an apostle, and a teacher of the Gentiles" (2 Timothy 1:7-11).

Paul says that he was appointed; he did not take up the ministry. God called him from the darkness of sin. Paul cried out, "What shall I do?" Jesus Christ gave him the instruction as to what to do. Paul obeyed, and God appointed him a preacher, and an apostle, and a teacher of the gentiles. Peter was sent to the Jews, but Paul to the gentiles. As his duty Paul instructed Timothy. This instruction is binding upon us as ministers of the gospel of today: "Hold fast the form of sound words, which thou hast heard of me, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus" (2 Timothy 1:13). Fix this in your mind: that a preacher is to hold fast the form of sound words. What are these words? Words, which thou hast heard of me, in faith and love, which is in Jesus Christ.

A preacher must be called of God. He must be appointed. He must love to preach. His work must be done in faith. It is a shame if a minister loses sight of the duties assigned unto him; that is, if God has called and appointed him. Personally, may I say that I had rather die this very moment than to bring reproach on the ministry of my Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Ministers should be the most careful witnesses of Jesus Christ among men.

Paul goes further in speaking of the duties and sets forth the thing that we should hold fast. He calls it a good thing. He tells us how to keep it; it is not ours but is committed unto us. The commitment is from God. We are duty bound to use that which is committed unto us. "That good thing which was committed unto thee keep by the Holy Ghost which dwelleth in us" (2 Timothy 1:14). Why was Paul instructing Timothy to hold fast the faith, love and sound words? Because some of the workers had fallen back and left Paul and the work of the Lord. There is danger of backsliding. The fifteenth verse of this same chapter says, "This thou knowest, that all they which are in Asia be turned away from me; of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes." A preacher that turns away from the Lord Jesus Christ brings a serious disgrace to Christ and the Church.

Let us notice more of the duties of a minister. "Thou therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also. Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ. . . . Of these things put them in remembrance, charging them before the Lord that they strive not about words to no profit, but to the subverting of the hearers. Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (2 Timothy 2:1-3, 14, 15). We believe in the call. We believe in preparation.

"Many are trying to follow Jesus, but forget that it is impossible to leave out the Cross."—Selected.

STORIES

—FOR OUR—

BOYS and GIRLS

A BOY'S FAITH

I WAS just past my twelfth birthday when something happened in my thinking that changed my whole plan in life.

My parents had lived for a number of years on the banks of the Mississippi River just south of St. Paul. They had heard of the wonderful opportunity of securing a free homestead "out West" on the Dakota prairie. Many had already gone West, and others were planning to go.

The home place on the Mississippi was sold. A car was chartered. All the goods and the family were soon carried out over the steel rails through what seemed at that time a most beautiful country of rolling prairie stretching out in every direction as far as eye could see.

The car stopped at Highmore, the railroad terminus. The road had not yet reached as far west as the "muddy Missouri." The family was lodged temporarily in the local hotel, while the goods were unloaded from the car and placed on wagons preparatory to trek across the open, roadless, rolling prairie to the Northwest.

It seemed a long journey to our future home. Father had brought two cows and thirty chickens. The fowls were carried on the wagons in crates. The cows soon tired following the wagon. They wanted to stray off to some green spot to graze. Finally they were roped; and I, with my other brothers (I had three of them) had to walk behind the cows and prod them along.

When night overtook the caravan, Father spied a light on the distant prairie. All decided to proceed on until the light was reached. It proved to be a campfire of an earlier settler who was building a sod house. Our company was warmly welcomed and urged to stay and receive his hospitality.

Early in the morning, our trek was continued in a northwesterly direction. The journey, the second day, was very tiresome. At dusk, Father's homestead was reached. There was no house—just an open expanse of country.

Those were busy days! The winter months were near. A house had to be built. A stable for the horses, cows and fowls was necessary for the protection of the animals. Hay had to be secured for fodder. Forty miles to the nearest town from which to obtain supplies for the family! No roads; settlers few and far between.

The Sioux Indians had just been located on a reservation west of the Missouri River. They were restless and dissatisfied. Old Sitting Bull, their chief, was stirring up trouble. Rumors came to the ears of the settlers that caused anxiety and fear for their safety.

Of course we boys were not afraid! We wanted to fight the Indians! But wiser heads were cautious and made every preparation to protect themselves in case of sudden attack.

The long bleak winter finally gave way to a most beautiful spring. Hasty preparations were made to plow up new soil and to plant corn and flax.

It was in the midst of this busy summer season that a peculiar experience came to me which caused me to look at life from a different angle.

I had been working hard picking up potatoes all forenoon. After dinner Father called me and said, "Andi, I wish to work Fan this afternoon. I do not know where she is, but find her quickly and bring her home."

I was so tired; it seemed to me an awful task to have to walk so far to hunt for Fan. Yet go I must: Father needed her. I climbed on top of the house in order to take a look over the country, thinking I might spy the horse. Sure enough, there she was, over a mile away in a small ravine, feeding on the green grass. I was soon on my way to get her. When I was within a quarter of a mile of her, I began to think how nice it would be if I could only catch old Fan, and have a ride back home. But Fan was wild, and would no doubt take to her heels and race for home when she saw that I came too near. This she had often done before. I felt so tired! I thought, "If I could only catch her." Then suddenly something within said, "Pray to God. He can help you to catch Fan. Did He not help the people when He was here on earth?"

I had been reading a New Testament that Mother had given me; my folk had no other reading matter those days. The power of Jesus to help had been impressed upon my mind.

When that voice within said, "Pray to God!" I said to myself aloud, "I'll try and see if God hears now." So I prayed, "Jesus, You helped others when You were on earth, please help me catch old Fan, and make her to continue to eat grass so that I can get on her back, I would like to ride home." Then I remembered the gospel said, "Have faith," and "Do not doubt."

With this prayer in mind, I walked carefully toward Fan. She did not seem to notice me in the least. She continued cropping the grass as I walked up to her, and I put my arms around her neck. I then slipped my leg over her back, face backward. I turned around on her back and patted her neck and urged her to go home. At once her old-time spirit returned. She gave a snort and started for home. How I enjoyed that ride!

But I found a secret—God answers prayer. That fact made a tremendous change in my thinking and outlook on life. As a boy I had touched the unseen powers of the heavens. This brought awe and reverence into my heart when I looked up into the blue sky and saw the clouds and sun by day and the beautiful, wonderful stars and moon at night. The impression and peculiar feeling I received in my heart did not leave me. God has graciously answered my prayers in other times of need. I have kept my faith in Him, and the covenant I made with Jesus I have kept sacred until this day.—Unknown.

Full Strength

The divine element in Christianity is more than a point of difference from other systems. It is the source of its power and strength of its appeal. The human heart reaches after something infinite. It craves the comfort which heaven alone can give. Christ has brought God to man, and He links man with God. Here is contact with the Infinite. Supernatural? To be sure! Empty Christianity of that which is beyond the human, and you reduce it to a collection of sweet sentiments. The only Gospel with power to draw men and save them is the good news of a divine Christ, just as the Bible pictures Him. Let us keep our religion full strength.—United Evangelical.

For Men Only!

At the recent meeting of the Cragmont Assembly Board of Directors, Black Mountain, North Carolina, I was asked to lead a drive for $10,000 for much needed improvements at our assembly ground. At the time I submitted a plan for the drive, which was given the approval of the board.

Among other things, the plan called for the making and selling of 5,000 aprons at $1.00 each. Naturally, I expected the woman's auxiliary to be the medium through which these aprons would be made and sold, and the good women are graciously accepting this challenge as it is presented to them.

However, the apron drive got off to a peculiar start, and maybe the Lord was in it! The first apron was donated to me by a good lady before the actual drive was announced, and the responsibility rested upon me to sell it. I took it to a Sunday School Fellowship Supper in Columbus County, North Carolina, and offered it for sale. Judge Sanky

Robinson of Whiteville, North Carolina, immediately gave me a dollar for it, but would not take the apron. One of his friends remarked that he was probably afraid to take it home on account of he might have to wear it. He said, "Just sell it to somebody else." Well, I sold it to a preacher a day or two later, but he wouldn't have it either! So I still have this first apron on my hands.

Then I began to get an idea. I began to wonder just how many men in our churches over the state would be willing to follow the judge and the preacher in paying me a dollar not to wear the apron. It just struck me that there might be 100 or more, so I decided to ask every man who reads this to send me $1 for this apron, with the understanding that he will never have to wear it. What am I going to do with the apron? Well, I'll tell you, if you'll keep it a secret: as soon as 100 men buy the apron, I'm going to send it to Mr. Jackson, superintendent of our Children's Home, Middlesex, North Carolina. They have been having some difficulty keeping a cook there, and he may need the apron!

Send your $1 or more to the address below.

Carolina

Attention North Carolina Auxiliary Women

It has just been called to my attention that the auxiliary women of our state have been given a quota of $175.00 toward the purchase of visual aid equipment for India. To my regret I did not attend the National Auxiliary Convention last July, and did not have the privilege of being in our fall district meetings. I have received no official notice regarding this quota, but it is true that our National Convention last year pledged at least $1,000 toward the purchase of these articles as presented by Rev. Dan Cronk, one of our missionaries to India. I was late in receiving my Year Book in which the minutes of the W. N. A. C. are recorded, but if our women will look on Page 137, they will find that it was presented as a resolution and was carried or adopted by motion.

Our women in North Carolina have always responded to our calls for help for the mission field or for any and all worthwhile projects, and we will not fail this time. We want to raise our quota as quickly as possible, so I am suggesting that in sending your reports and contributions to your district secretaries for the conventions that will be meeting during this spring, you enlarge your contribution so that this may be placed on the quota. It might be wise to inform your secretaries that you are including a contribution. It does not have to be large to take care of this obligation. We must have the entire fund on hand by the time our State Auxiliary Convention meets in May, so I am urging that you take care of this as soon as possible, as the need is great and we must do our part else we will lose our joy in having a part in the promotion of the Master's cause on our mission field. May we pray together, work together and have faith in God, while we surrender to Him our all. I am not only depending on you, but our Lord is calling us to specific service. Let us do our best.

Mrs. J. C. Griffin, Study Course Chairman,
State Auxiliary Convention

Darlington Auxiliary Meets

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Free Will Baptist Church of Darlington, South Carolina, held its monthly meeting at the church on February 16, 1956, with 20 members and 1 visitor present.

The meeting was called to order by having the auxiliary repeat the watchword, definition and purpose of the Woman's National Auxiliary Convention. Mrs. Bernice Cook led the group in prayer. During the business period a motion was carried to present a contribution to Rev. and Mrs. Fred Hersey who are leaving as missionaries to Japan on April 9, 1956.

Mrs. Rufus Coffey presided over the program and gave the introduction to the topic, "We Need Prayer Warriors for Such a Time as This." Mrs. Pearl Strickland read the Scripture, Luke 11: 1-13. Those giving parts on the program were: Mrs. Kitty Stokes, Mrs. Marjorie Brown, Mrs. Rufus Coffey and Mrs. Myrtle Weatherford.

The meeting was dismissed by sentence prayers.

Corresponding Secretary,
Marjorie Brown

Prayer and Praise Letter

February 1, 1956

Dear Friend,

Reservations for the Herseys to Japan have been made on the Steamship President Wilson scheduled to leave San Francisco on April 9, 1956.

"...declare his praise in the islands" (Isaiah 42:12).

Even though we had hoped they could sail earlier, we praise the Lord that the way is opening up for them to go. We are thanking the Lord in advance for supplying the funds to send them. Have you done your part?

WE PRAISE THE LORD FOR—

January Report and for each of you who helped to make it possible. Remember, if we are to meet our quotas for this year we must begin early and work late!

Visas have been granted to Rev. and Mrs. Daniel R. Cronk and Randy to return to India. They expect to leave in June.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold Stevens who have offered to make a personal survey of proposed field along the Ivory Coast in Africa. This, they will do on their vacation time and it should prove of much value to the Foreign Mission Board.

PLEASE PRAY FOR—

The Stevens in Africa as they plan this survey.

Wisdom and calmness for the Herseys as they make plans to sail. There are many details to be worked out, vaccinations to take, and there is still the matter of finance!

Brother Willey as he plans a survey trip to Central and South America sometime this month.

A revival meeting in Bear Point Free Will Baptist Church near Sesser, Illinois, February 5 through 12.

Imitation, this is a good word. Is it forceful to you? I am not thinking of imitation of Christ, but of how we are to urge our converts to imitate us. The Apostle Paul did just that. To the Corinthians, "I beseech you, be ye followers (imitators) of me." Again, "Be ye imitators of me, even as I also am of Christ." To the Philippians, "Brethren, be imitators together of me, and mark them which walk so, as you have us for an example." This is an important truth to anyone who seeks personally to help any other Christian. You can only tell others to be what you now are. You can only tell others successfully to do what you now do. This is true in daily prayer. Bible reading, meditation, daily witnessing, yea, it is true of every basic ingredient of your Christian life. Are we winning others and building them up as we should? If not, why not? Could it be because we ourselves are neglecting these basic things?

Investment, for world evangelization of lives, labor, land and influence is urgent. Your personal obedience can help win, for the Lamb that was slain, the reward of His sufferings. How seldom do we see a Christian straining, sacrificing, throwing "his whole living, even all that he hath" into the work. Yet, this is the most important task ever committed to man. A man said to a missionary, "I see world evangelization in the Word of God, but I remain indifferent. Why is it that I don't have more interest?" Said the other, "It is very simple, world evangelization is like a bank, if you don't put money into it you will have no interest; the more you invest the more interest you have." To this agree the words of the Son of God, "...lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also" (Matthew 6:20, 21).

Foreign Mission Month: This year the month of April is being declared as Foreign Mission Month with Easter Sunday as Foreign Mission Sunday. Begin now for special emphasis.

Something New: A sixteen page booklet entitled "How to Have a Missionary Conference" has just been printed by the foreign mission department. They are 5c each, 25 for $1.00 or 150 for $5.00. Order yours today and plan for your own missionary conference.

Yours to serve,

East Carolina College Accepts Students from Mount Olive College

Students who graduate from Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, may now transfer to East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina, to continue their education. We quote, below, the text of a letter written to W. B. Raper, president of Mount Olive College, by Dr. J. D. Messick, president of East Carolina College. The letter is dated February 21, 1956:

"I have had a conference with Dean Leo W. Jenkins and with the registrar, Dr. Orval Phillips, and we have arrived at this decision: We shall cooperate with you people whenever possible and logical, but the acceptance of any student you may wish to have come here will have to be based on the interpretation of his transcript in the light of our standards. Such a student, of course, would have to maintain a minimum 'C' average after coming to East Carolina College, which is the minimum standard for any student to be retained here."

Jesus Interprets History

(Lesson for March 11)

Lesson: Luke 21:29-36.

Golden Text: Luke 21:33.

I. INTRODUCTION

To interpret history one turns the pages that record what has already happened—and reads lessons there for the guidance of one's life. Obviously that is not what our Lord was doing here, although, to be sure, such a study has an important place. His words here are clearly the words of prophecy, the foretelling of events which are to come. In other words, He is "pre-writing" history, not interpreting it.—Moody Monthly.

The lesson for last Sunday discussed the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem for the last week of His earthly ministry. Today, the lesson deals with a brief and pointed account from the lips of Jesus of events throughout the Church age, and His return at the end of it. He deals with actual historical events only as they will affect those who believe in Him. He reaffirms the fact that He will shortly go away and leave the disciples to their stewardship trust until He shall return in the fullness of power and invested with the title of King of kings and Lord of lords.

The Printed Text is the conclusion of His answer to the question of the disciples, "And they asked him, saying, Master, but when shall these things be? and what sign will there be when these things shall come to pass?" (Luke 21:7).—The Bible Student (F. W. B.)

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. In order that the disciples might have an unmistakably clear conception of the events immediately preceding the second coming of Christ, He draws an illustration from nature in the parable of the fig tree.

2. These signs indicate the coming of the Lord the same as budding trees show that summer is near (Vs. 31).

3. The presence of the unbelieving Jewish race proves that these things must yet come to pass (Vs. 32).

4. Whether men believe or doubt these things, they are as sure to come as God's Word is true (Vs. 33).

5. The things that overcharge the hearts of men will also blind their eyes to the truths of God's Word (Vs. 34).

6. The day of God's wrath, like a falling trap, will come upon all who aren't looking for Him (Vs. 35).

7. There is no better way to prepare for that day than to stay awake and watch and pray (Vs. 36).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.)

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. The city of Jerusalem would be destroyed with a great slaughter of its inhabitants (Vv. 20-24). This bloody destruction took place in 70 A. D. when the Roman Army laid the city of Jerusalem level with the earth.

In Verse 24, Jesus seems to turn from the prophecy of events which would occur in the lifetime of the apostles and early Christians, as He utters this clause, "... and Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." Here He appears to look to the signs which will immediately precede His coming.

Certain signs will appear when the times of the Gentiles have been fulfilled (Vv. 25-28). Great signs will occur in the heavens and upon the earth to the extent that men's hearts will fail them because of fear. And then shall the Son of man appear in the cloud with power and great glory.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.)

2. Jesus was quite correct when He said that Jerusalem would be trodden down of the gentiles. To this day Jerusalem is in the hands of the gentiles: for while the new city does belong to Israel, the old city is under Jordan, as all travelers to the Holy Land have discovered as recently as 1955.

The student should remember that the city of Jerusalem, as it was in the days of Jesus, is entirely in the possession of the Arabs.

3. The Biblical Encyclopedia records a case which strikingly emphasizes the self-vindication of God's Word. An infidel in London had a wife who possessed a Bible which she regularly read. Being annoyed at this, the man, who had frequently threatened to do so, threw the book upon the fire. This appears to have taken place at dinner time. He then left home to go to his work, but soon returned to see if the last vestige of the volume had disappeared. The woman, who naturally felt distressed at her loss, said she thought it must be completely burned; but her husband stirred the ashes to see if such was the case, when he read what fastened itself upon his mind, and led to his conversion—"Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away." The sister of this man was the wife of a London pastor; and just when the Bible was burning she was earnestly praying for her brother's conversion.—Higley's Commentary.

4. He assured that "this generation" should not pass away, until all He had spoken would be fulfilled. These words have been and still are a point of a great deal of controversy. We shall not take time or space to point out what different commentators have to say about the words "this generation" only to say their views are various and widely different. To this writer the words "this generation" have reference to the Jewish nation. The word "generation" is the translation of the Greek genea, which means race.

Many Old Testament nations have ceased to exist but the Jews will never share this fate.—Selected.

5. Separation (Luke 21:34-36). This is a warning in the light of the previous words of prophecy. There is to be a definite separation among men in view of the second coming of Christ. Those who believe that the Lord will come again will be distinguished by their abstinence from certain things in which the world indulges. We live in a materialistic age and by far the largest number of people live for physical enjoyment. Never was more interest manifested in the three things mentioned here: surfeiting, drunkenness and the cares of this life. America especially has become a nation of gluttons. Even many who advocate temperance, or even total abstinence in the matter of alcoholic beverages, are intemperate when it comes to eating. No doubt the Lord wants us to enjoy good food, for He has provided an abundance of it, but He does not want us to live merely to eat.—The Bible Expositor.

6. In one of the volumes devoted to Sunday school lessons, I found this item: "Let us not waste time in fruitless discussion about the end of the world." In another volume I found this item: "To live ignorantly of or to neglect the profound teachings concerning the course of this age and the Lord's return, is to deprive the believer of one of the richest and most joy-producing themes of divine truth revealed in the Scriptures."—Selected.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Manning, Hostess To Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of King's Cross Roads Free Will Baptist Church, Pitt County, North Carolina, held its regular monthly meeting on February 8, 1956, in the home of Mrs. Hubert Manning.

The meeting opened with the group singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," followed with prayer by Mrs. Roscoe Eason. The Scripture for the evening, Luke 11:1-13, was read by the president, Mrs. Ray Jones.

The subject for the month, "We Need Prayer Warriors for Such a Time as This," was discussed by Mrs. L. B. Manning, Mrs. Walter Corbitt, Lillie Mae Harris, Mrs. Eddie Corbitt, Mrs. Heber Tyson, Mrs. Carlos Tugwell, Edna Corbitt and Mrs. Hubert Manning.

Mrs. Carlos Tugwell dismissed the 19 members and 3 visitors present. The hostess, Mrs. Manning, served the group refreshments which were enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Roscoe Eason

Bay Branch Auxiliary Meets

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Bay Branch Free Will Baptist Church, Timmons ville, South Carolina, conducted its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Denham. Mrs. Sallie Stewart and Mrs. Mary Langston were co-hostesses at the meeting.

The meeting began with prayer by Mrs. Mary Welch. The group then participated in singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," followed with devotions by Mrs. Myrtle Denham. The program was directed by Mrs. Eddie Saverance. Those taking part on the program were: Mrs. Mary Welch, Mrs. Sallie Stewart, Mrs. Eddie Saverance and Mrs. Leah Waddell.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Mary Welch. All the officers gave reports on all that the auxiliary had accomplished during the past month. The auxiliary will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Etta Denham.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Leah Waddell. After delicious refreshments were enjoyed by all, a shower was given for Mrs. Jewell Carter.

AYDEN, NORTH CAROLINA, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 7, 1956

NEW HOME OF THE GOLDSBORO, N. C., CHURCH

The above building, popularly known in Goldsboro, North Carolina, as the B. G. Thompson home, was acquired by the congregation of the First Free Will Baptist Church, the middle of December, 1955, for the sum of $35,000. The building stands on a plot which is 262 feet by 267 feet, facing East Ash Street and U. S. Highway 70.

Several thousand dollars have been spent on the building in a conversion and decoration program which gives the congregation a beautiful auditorium with seating capacity of above 200 and 13 Sunday school rooms now available. There are also other possibilities on the third floor and in the basement. In the rear of the building is a nice stone building which may be turned into an activity building and used for Sunday school purposes.

As of this date, the Rev. J. R. Davidson, pastor of the church, states there is only $12,000, plus $150 accumulated interest, now owing on this property.

MY NEIGHBOR

When a certain lawyer stood up on one occasion and asked Jesus, "... And who is my neighbour" (Luke 10:29), he introduced a problem for Jesus to discuss which has plagued the Church and church people since Jesus' day. Church people in every generation have recognized this problem and have put forth some effort to solve it. On the other hand, suffering, hunger, ignorance, despondency and sin have existed in every community and country in the world, to which the Church has not ministered. Many times these conditions have remained almost in the very shadow of the church building in the community. The congregation has gathered, week after week, for worship without apparently taking notice of this sacred charge of Jesus, "... give ye them to eat" (Matthew 14:16). We are loud in our condemnation of the priest and the Levite in the illustration which Jesus gave in answer to the question of the lawyer, but are we not as guilty as they?

The occasion for the illustration of Jesus was His discussion with the lawyer of the two greatest of the Ten Commandments, "... Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself" (Luke 10:27). The Christian finds in this passage the fundamental challenge to his faith. Throughout his life he will never fail to see how he can surrender more of himself to Christ and how he can love his neighbor more and more nearly like he loves himself.

To whom does the Christian owe his loving service and consideration? We shall let the New Testament answer the question for us.

Paul wrote Timothy, "But if any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel" (1 Timothy 5:8). He made this statement while discussing the care of the needy widows of the congregation. He said that the first responsibility for the care of a widow was that of her relatives, especially the persons closest of kin to her or in whose house she should live. He said, however, that, if for any reason the kinsman did not supply this care and if she were a worthy widow, the church should assume it. Regarding this matter, Jesus pointedly and thoroughly condemned the Pharisees and scribes for evading the responsibility of caring for their aged fathers and mothers by saying that they were giving to the temple worship the money which they should have been spending for the care of their parents, "But ye say, If a man shall say to his father or mother, It is Corban, that is to say, a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me; he shall be free" (Mark 7:11).

The responsibility of the Christian goes beyond his own family. It also embraces the entire fellowship of Christianity. In his letter to the Galatian Christians regarding their attitude and conduct toward one another Paul said, "As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith" (Galatians 6:10). Therefore, we can say emphatically that the church has a definite responsibility to the needy of its fellowship which it can not afford to evade or deny. What provision does your church have for being obedient to this sacred charge?

Now, we shall turn again to consider the illustration which Jesus used to answer the question of the lawyer concerning his neighbor. After Jesus had told how the priest and the Levite had passed the poor, helpless, suffering man on the roadside without offering help, He told how the hated Samaritan ministered to the wounded man's needs. He said that the Samaritan eased the man's pain, carried him to an inn and paid the bill for the man's care until he should be well, even promising to pay any additional cost that might be incurred.

Then Jesus asked the lawyer, "Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among thieves?" (Matthew 10:36). When the lawyer answered that the merciful Samaritan was the neighbor, Jesus said, "... Go, and do thou likewise (Matthew 10:37).

In this instance we have Jesus saying that the Christian's responsibility extends to strangers who may be classed among those who hate him. In the Sermon on the Mount Jesus said, "But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you, and persecute you; That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: ..." (Matthew 5:44, 45).

Let us go even further to assert that the Christian's responsibility towards others extends to the remotest spot in the earth where men have physical and spiritual needs. In the Great Commission Jesus said, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world" (Matthew 28:19, 20).

In recent years Free Will Baptists have made marvelous progress in missions, but only a beginning has been made. We are reaching only a few of the world's needy fields. What we are doing in these areas is excellent, but we need to do so much more. Under God, we must minister to the diseased, afflicted and hungry bodies to whose souls we preach the unsearchable riches of Christ. This will call for technicians who can teach these people how to till the soil and grow food for themselves, as well as to do other constructive work so that they can earn a living. It will also call for professionally trained personnel, such as physicians, nurses and teachers. These must accompany our preachers of the gospel to the mission fields of the world if we are to be obedient to the teaching of Christ and the apostles.

How can we make greater progress in fulfilling our obligation to our neighbors? The problem seems to resolve itself first of all, into our need for a keener consciousness of Christ's demand. We have but to look at what we are doing in the light of what the Bible teaches about our obligation to the needy ones to see how far we are falling short. Does your church have a definite plan for helping the needy? Is the program working so that all needy cases are cared for? Furthermore, does the item in your church budget for missions represent a sacrificial gift from your congregation to the needy ones in other communities and in foreign lands? And are you praying constantly for God to call young people from your church, including your children, to fill some place on the mission fields of the world?

In the second place, we must revise our attitude toward our neighbors—the needy ones of the world. Church budgeting cannot accomplish the task without enthusiastic support of the congregation. If our attitude is not dictated by the Word of God, it is wrong.

Finally, we must re-evaluate our concept of the proper use of money in the light of Christ's teaching. We must come to know that God entrusts us with wealth that our needs may be supplied and that we may support the cause for which our Saviour gave His life.

What Men Say- What the Bible Says

Thomas H. Dixon
Checotah, Oklahoma

Men Say: "God will not blot anyone's name out of the Book of Life."

The Bible Says: "... Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book" (Exodus 32:33).

Men Say: "The soul that is once saved will not die."

The Bible Says: "... the soul that sinneth, it shall die" (Ezekiel 18:4).

Men Say: "After once saved you cannot turn from righteousness and be lost."

The Bible Says: "But when the righteous turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and doeth according to all the abominations that the wicked man doeth, shall he live? All his righteousness that he hath done shall not be mentioned: in his trespass that he hath trespassed, and in his sin that he hath sinned, in them shall he die" (Ezekiel 18:24).

Men Say: "The Lord is married to the backslider, and he cannot be lost."

The Bible Says: "And I saw, when for all the causes whereby backsliding Israel committed adultery I had put her away, and given her a bill of divorce; ..." (Jeremiah 3:8).

THE FREE WILL BAPTIST

The Bible Says: "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are" (1 Corinthians 3:16, 17).

Men Say: "You cannot depart from the faith."

The Bible Says: "Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils" (1 Timothy 4:1).

Men Say: "You cannot depart from the faith."

The Bible Says: "But I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection: lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway" (1 Corinthians 9:27).

Men Say: "If you are once a servant you will always be a servant."

The Bible Says: "But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming; And shall begin to smite his fellow servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken; The lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of, And shall cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth" (Matthew 24:48-51).

Men Say: "If you are once on the vine, you are always there."

The Bible Says: "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit" (John 15:2).

Men Say: "You cannot fall away and be lost after once being saved."

The Bible Says: "For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame" (Hebrews 6:4-6).

Men Say: "You cannot so sin that you will be lost."

The Bible Says: "... but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men" (Matthew 12:31).

Men Say: "Christians shall not die spiritually."

The Bible Says: "Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: ..." (Revelation 3:2).

Men Say: "Once saved, always saved."

The Bible Says: "... The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play. Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and fell in one day three and twenty thousand" (1 Corinthians 10:7, 8).

Men Say: "Angels fell." And then will tell you saved men cannot fall.

The Bible Says: "For if God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment" (2 Peter 2:4).

Men Say: "You cannot turn from your righteousness and be lost."

The Bible Says: "For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them" (2 Peter 2:21).

Men Say: "You cannot be led away."

The Bible Says: "Ye therefore, beloved, seeing ye know these things before, beware lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked, fall from your own steadfastness" (2 Peter 3:17).

Men Say: "You cannot depart from God and be lost."

The Bible Says: "Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God" (Hebrews 3:12).

Men Say: "Once saved, always saved."

The Bible Says: "I will therefore put you in remembrance, though ye once knew this, how that the Lord, having saved the people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed them that believed not" (Jude 5).

Men Say: "You cannot sin unto death."

The Bible Says: "If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and he shall give his life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: I do not say that he shall pray for it" (1 John 5:16).

Men Say: "The body sins, but does not affect the soul."

Today's Youth

Dennis Wiggs,
Smithfield, North Carolina

"For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23).

WITH this Scripture facing every one of us, we find ourselves bound by sin in our natural state. After we reach the age of accountability, our habits and personality are controlled many times by sin. Then, one day, the gospel of Jesus Christ is tuned into our minds. We learn to understand that the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Still the human mind lingers on one question: What is life? What am I living for? Maybe the older person doesn't ponder upon this question too much, but the younger person is always seeking popularity, beauty, love, happiness and a good future. Today the younger generation is hearing less and less of Jesus Christ and His saving power. They do not understand what the term being saved is. To the teen-ager happiness is smoking, drinking, sexual lusts and any other sin that will provide a fleeting moment of fun. Of course, not every boy and girl is engaged in this sinful outlook on life; there are a few true Christians. The Christian boys and girls are still in the minority, though. In most high schools today, only two or three out of every hundred students are true, consecrated Christians.

Why is the youth of today considered as going to the dogs? Why is juvenile delinquency at an all-time high? Why are most traffic accidents committed by the age bracket of 16 to 25? Why? Why?

As a boy of eighteen, I attend a high school where sin dominates the life of most students. God is placed behind education and fun—way behind! Also, at my job, sin pushes Christ out of the place of business. Everywhere a teen-ager turns, sin is the king: newspapers, television, radio, movies, billboards, magazines and even in the home. Some people are saying that the reason the youth are on a moral decline is strictly because of the atmosphere of sin. This is partly true, but couldn't God push sin out of our America if we would let Him? Well, you say, "We have churches on almost every corner." Yes, we do have—church buildings. But, are we, are you, as citizens, as Free Will Baptists and as Christians doing your part to combat juvenile delinquency?

As a teen-ager, I would like to beg you, to plead with you, to ask yourselves the question: "What does Jesus want me to do about the sin in America?" You are witnessing a true decline in the moral life of the youth. Why? The reason points to the church and the home. "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Proverbs 22:6). Are you, as a church member and as a father or mother, molding your child's life in God's way? Does your daughter or son know Jesus Christ personally? Do you? When was the last time you won a soul into God's Kingdom, especially a young person? If a poll were taken, the answer to these questions would be alarming. Today, God is asking you many questions about your way of living and the example you give to your children.

Will you examine your heart: teacher, lawyer, preacher, housewife, doctor, plumber, farmer—Christians? You will have to do your true, Christian part, though. Christ expects you to give Him complete control over your life. This means that He controls your time, health, five senses, love and, yes, your money. With the life of every member of your church dedicated, He could make America the place of peace. The youth would find the right road to happiness.

The youth are looking to you for the direction. Will you give us support in the home, the church, the colleges and other institutions of our denomination? Every young person has a soul just as you do. We can be trusted. We want eternal life, too. The youth are willing to work for the church and their Creator. Are you willing to receive God's guidance and then help us into a future with a good education, thankfulness and eternal life.

"... If God be for us, who can be against us?" (Romans 8:31).

Laxity and Unconcern

Albert M. Ezell,
Searcy, Arkansas

WE hear a lot of talk about the various sins to which, except through constant vigilance, we are apt at some time to be vulnerable. There is the sin of ingratitude, a thing that if most of us would be fair to ourselves, I am sure we would recall many instances when we were guilty of this failure to be true to God and our fellow man for what has been done to us and for us. How many of us, I wonder, take time at the beginning of the day to humbly bow before Almighty God and thank Him for keeping us safely through the night and for awakening us in a good measure of health, asking His guidance through the day and, as we ask, vowing to Him that without failure we will live in the center of His will throughout the day?

There are so many sins that I will not be able to mention but just a few of them. There are the sin of commission, the sin of omission, the sin of self-righteousness, the sin of bigotry and intolerance, avarice, anger, unforgiveness and many, many other that I will not take time to mention. However, I wonder if, in the certainty of our knowledge, these are all wrong and are to be avoided by us as Christians? I sometimes wonder if we do not pass unheedingly over some matters of very grave importance. Let me assure you that I am not trying in the least to minimize the matters over which we have just gone as they are the gravest importance in the life of every Christian.

The matter with which I wish to deal especially at this time is the matter of laxity which could be, I believe, without assumption called one of the most common sins that is committed among our Christian brethren today. And my brethren I allude not only to the members of our own churches, but all the band of Christians that go to make up a large part of the population of this great so-called Christian America.

First, we have laxity in church attendance. Many will decide simply because it is raining or because they have some little fancied ache or pain that they will just forfeit the privilege of going to church since there will probably not be very many there anyway. Or maybe Uncle John or Aunt Lucy has come to see them after an absence of perhaps a week or two. For fear they will feel offended or for fear they will accept, they do not invite them to go to church with them, but instead, spend their time at home, thus setting a good example to both their visitors and their neighbors of unconcern and laxity.

One of the greatest examples of Christian laxity and unconcern that I can think of is the failure to study, prayerfully and diligently, God's Word. The psalmist has said, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path" (Psalm 119:105). Jesus also told us that, ". . . If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!" (Matthew 6:23). So if we continue to reject the glorious light of the gospel of Christ it will become darkness to us. "He that being often reprov'd hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy" (Proverbs 29:1).

In my closing remarks I would like to dwell for just a little while on the subversive attitude of the translators of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible. It seems that the beauty of expression with which these great writers of this Holy Book were blessed has been reduced to a minimum, the translators having inserted instead words that are insipid, flat and colorless and, worst of all, impotent to express the truths of God's Word.

In many instances I find verses of Scripture that are in direct contrast to each other. For example take Job 13:15; 19:26; Joshua 6:17. We find that those verses are written almost exactly opposite in meaning in the new Revised Standard Version to that in the King James Version. Psalms, the most inspirational and colorful of the books, loses the greater part of its spiritual import and poetic beauty, which David so ably expressed, when it is translated in the Revised Standard Version.

There are a number of things that we as Christians will find lacking in this Book, that we still find in the good old King James. We will find that the blood atonement, though not denied, is certainly minimized. The certainty of the virgin birth is questioned. In addition to all of the above mentioned flaws of this Revised Standard Version, we find that, as a last defiant gesture of contempt toward God, the translators have omitted 17 verses from the New Testament found in 15 different chapters.

I pray that each of us Christians, as we think on our debt to God and on our duty to posterity, will advocate from the pulpit, on the job, in our homes, on the street, or wherever we may be, the retention of the King James Version of the Bible. "Thus saith the LORD, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls" (Jeremiah 6:16).

The Book of Ruth

Mrs. R. P. Harris,
Rocky Mount, North Carolina

THE book of Ruth is a love story told in four chapters. It gives us a glimpse of everyday life in Bethlehem, in the home and harvest field more than three thousand years ago.

Elimelech, his wife, Naomi, and their sons, Mahlon and Chilion, lived in Bethlehem, about six miles south of Jerusalem. A famine came making it necessary for Elimelech and his family to move to Moab to live. They lived there ten years and, during that time, Elimelech died. His two sons married Orpah and Ruth, natives of Moab, but they too died, leaving their mother, Naomi, and her two daughters-in-law, widows.

Naomi then heard that God had given a good harvest in the land of Judah and decided to go back to her own people in Bethlehem. She told Orpah and Ruth about her decision and kissed them good-by and they all wept together. Naomi told them to go back to their homes and marry again and have happy homes. Orpah kissed Naomi and went to live with her people, but Ruth would not leave her. She said, ". . . Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God" (Ruth 1:16). Naomi saw that Ruth meant what she said, so they left for Judah together.

It is true that Ruth was only a daughter-in-law, but she acted the part of a daughter which Naomi needed so much at a time like this. She was with her in trouble and poverty. The chief charm of Ruth was her unselfish and devoted love to Naomi. All pure and unselfish love comes from God. "We love him, because he first loved us" (1 John 4:19).

Finally Naomi and Ruth reached Bethlehem and Naomi's friends were glad to see her after being away for ten years. They said, "Is this the Naomi we knew years ago?" But Naomi asked them not to call her Naomi for the word meant pleasant, and her life had not been pleasant. She asked them to call her Mara, a word that meant bitter, for she said the Lord had made her life bitter.

Naomi said, "I left this country years ago with a husband and two sons, and the Lord has brought me home again empty, alone." It must have been a trying time for Naomi, and I'm sure it must have been wonderful to have Ruth share her troubles.

At that time a rich man lived in Bethlehem named Boaz. He owned large fields that were ready to harvest. He was related to the family of Elimelech, Naomi's husband who had died. It was the custom in Israel when they reaped the grain to leave some of the stalks for the poor people who followed after the sickles. Ruth went out to the fields to pick up what the reapers left, and it so happened to be field owned by Boaz. Like most masters, Boaz went to the fields during the day to see how the workers were getting along. He asked who the young woman was. A man told him that she came from Moab with Naomi. Boaz went to speak to Ruth and told her not to go to any one else's field to reap, but to stay and work here with the other women. He also told her to eat from their vessels when she became hungry. Ruth, being a stranger in this country, was very gracious for his kindness shown her. Boaz told his workers to leave grain in the field so Ruth could gather for herself.

Notice the providence of God here. God finds friends for the widows. He finds Boaz to see that they have their rights. He is a never-failing God. He sees to our needs if we only have faith.

Ruth worked hard all day, and then at night she would beat out the grain she had gleaned. It was a good day's work, bringing with it a good recompense of reward. God has set us in His field, the world, and set us there to glean, to gather up as we are able, the precious seed. Truly the harvest is white, but the laborers are few. "Where hast thou gleaned?" is but another way of

One Dollar Club Organized By Alabama State Association

The One Dollar Club, organized by the Alabama State Association of Free Will Baptists, is fast growing since the last report, states Rev. Rufus Hyman, Slocomb, Alabama, secretary-treasurer of the club.

The first person to report members for the club was Mrs. Houston Ham of Belk, Alabama, with nine members, including herself. This was followed with 12 members secured by the Rev. Roy O'Donnell from the Opelika, Alabama, Church, a newly organized church, and 25 members secured by Rev. R. P. Ritch of the Vernon, Alabama, Church.

The club now has a membership of 76, most of these secured at the Alabama State Association. The goal for the club is 1,000 members by the time the association meets in November at the Cordova, Alabama, Church.

Mr. Hyman states that there are over 20,000 Free Will Baptists in Alabama, and urges all pastors to see how many members they can secure for the One Dollar Club. The purpose of the club is to give aid to new churches that meets the requirements for aid by each club member giving one dollar on the building program. Other denominations are using similar clubs to get new churches firmly established, so why not Free Will Baptists?

THE BOOK OF RUTH

saying, "What do you have as a result of your life?" To glean successfully we must be willing to stoop. He who would be fed with the bread of life must humble himself. If we would glean a heap, we must be content with a little at the time. No one is able to glean well who is not able to preserve. If we mean to succeed we must go on long after we are weary. We would glean with greater care if we stop to think that we must live forever on results of this life. Truly we are sending materials daily of some kind to build our heavenly home. Let's ask ourselves the question, "What kind of material will my home be made of?" We are very careful to use good material for our earthly homes, shouldn't we be more concerned about our heavenly home?

Boaz treated Ruth with the utmost kindness and respect. We know that he sent her home with much corn that she had not gleaned. Naomi was greatly encouraged by this and told Ruth to claim the hand of Boaz, and that he should perform the part of her husband's

What God Hath Wrought

"He stretched out the north over the empty place, and hangeth the earth upon nothing" (Job 26:7).

IT is impossible for the finite mind to interpret the things of the infinite. Everything we do, everything we learn, and everything we see and hear is enshrouded with mystery. God has limited our understanding and has withheld the most glorious things of His entire creation from us. He would have us live with anticipation of greater things. God has a reason for doing this and when we have a vision of this reason we are glad because we know that He knows best what we need. God has, however, made it possible for us to have all the joy and happiness which we are able to use to an advantage.

I would not have you to believe that God holds us down and keeps us ignorant of better things, so that we might better appreciate heaven when we get there. I will say that sin is responsible for our limitation and lack in everything. When God created Adam He intended that he should partake of the Tree of Life and live forever. Nothing was too good for him, and all of God's riches, both in heaven and in earth, were at his disposal.

Before the world was formed and before the stars were placed in their orbits, God had lived forever. He exists of Himself through all eternity. Since He is Almighty, can do anything, and since He is all-knowing, knows everything, there is nothing too hard for Him to do. God, however, was not content to remain alone in all His greatness. It was His desire to share with something His wonderful love and power. Since there was nothing with which He might occupy Himself, He held a great conference with Himself and decided to create, bring out of nothing, flaming worlds and flaming beings and eventually make man in His own image and likeness. But first He must create a place for man's habitation. This was God's reakinsman by buying the inheritance of Elimelech and taking her as his wife.

Amid the blessing and congratulations of the neighbors, Boaz and Ruth were married.

So Ruth and Naomi went to live in Boaz's home. Naomi's life was not bitter anymore but pleasant.

Ruth and Boaz had a son which they named Jesse. Jesse was the father of David, the shepherd boy who became king. So Ruth, the young woman of Moab, chose the people and God of Israel and became the mother of kings.

son for creating the universe. In this great counsel with Himself, because of His attributes and because of his interest, He planned the entire work of His creation. The beginning, the development, and the end of all things. All things which He has wrought was taken into consideration in this great counsel. He decided then and there that He should become manifest in the human nature as Father, Son and Holy Ghost—Creator, Redeemer and Sanctifier.

Man was made in His image and likeness. God knew that man would fall into sin and from the perfect state; therefore, He provided a Redeemer and a Sanctifier for man's salvation. He knew that man would believe Satan's lie and bring on him and his posterity eternal death. God did not desire all His greatness withheld but looks upon us even while we are in our sins, to woo us and win us back to Himself.

God bargained with Himself to become incarnate to take upon Himself human form that he might become both God and man and therefore reconcile man unto Himself.

God is now manifest to us as the Holy Spirit whose office work is to sanctify and set apart men for His own special glory.—Precious Promises, Rocky Mount, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church.

If We Are Not Careful

Mrs. Jack Arnold
Gainesville, Texas

We can be too busy:

1. To take time to go to church
2. To visit the sick
3. To visit the widows and orphans
4. To lift up our disheartened brother
5. To read our Bible
6. To help with the different auxiliaries of the church
7. To teach our children right
8. To pray for ourselves
9. To fail to give scripturally
10. To pray for our brethren

The Scriptures that follow are on each of the above quotations, and if you are not too busy, will you look them up?

1. Exodus 20:8
2. Matthew 25:36; James 5:14
3. James 1:27
4. Romans 15:1
5. John 5:39; 2 Timothy 2:15
6. Philippians 4:3; Acts 16:13
7. Proverbs 3:1-6
8. Matthew 26:41; Colossians 4:2
9. Malachi 3:8-10, 1 Corinthians 16:2
10. 1 Thessalonians 5:25

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Is the Bible the only means of revelation that we as children of God have to lean on for a safe guide? The reason for this question is that since I have been saved and a member of a Free Will Baptist church only about a year, I meet with those who try to impose their views upon me. Among these is a woman who said that by special revelation God caused her to speak in an unknown tongue and, at the same time, He had some man in the audience prepared to interpret the message which God gave her and which she did not understand until this Christian who was a fellow church member interpreted it. —J. H. P.

Answer: There is to be no more revelation during this present age which is the Church age; neither will there be any more inspiration until the age is closed. Anyone who adds to or takes from the message of our completed Bible incurs God's wrath upon himself. "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book" (Revelation 22:18, 19).

"The Book of Mormon," the "Koran" (the so-called Mohammedan Bible), the Christian Scientist book, "Science and Health With Key to Scriptures," and all other books that claim to be special or additional revelation, I think are doing just what is forbidden here. But I think that the liberal who denies the infallibility or the inerrancy of the Scriptures is doing the same thing. Some liberals deny the virgin birth, some the resurrection of Jesus Christ, while others attack or deny the infallible Bible message in general. In my opinion, one is no better or worse than the other. The Roman Catholics add to the revealed Word by elevating the man made organization, the Catholic Church to the place of final authority in matters of faith and teaching rather than the revealed Word of God. They also take the liberty to add the Apocrypha which consists of Old Testament books and portions of books that were never recognized by the orthodox Jews as being a part of the sacred canon. The Catholic Church also has elevated some of its literature to the level of other sacred writings written since the writing of our New Testament. They further claim that when the pope speaks from his throne, since he speaks ex officio, his is the voice of God and, therefore, what he utters is of final authority. In this capacity, they claim that he can both remit and retain sins.

This unknown tongue business is not easy to understand and it seems that since Paul's day, when he demanded that one keep silent unless he could give a message in the tongue of the audience or unless he could furnish an interpreter, the devil has provided an answer for that by having ready one who claims to be an interpreter. By this I do not mean to say that everyone who claims to speak in tongues is of the devil, for this I do not know, but I do mean to say that there is ample proof that many who claim to have the gift of tongues are not of Christ and that none of them have any new revelation. If I understand the Bible clearly, the next phase of revelation will come when Jesus Himself is revealed. The Bible is sufficient to meet our every need until that glorious day dawns. That will be a new day of revelation and perhaps a new day of inspiration. When I speak of revelation I mean that act of God by which He gives to man information or truth that has never been given to man before—information or teaching that man cannot and never could attain unto or acquire by his unaided reason. All of our canon of Scriptures or our present King James Bible of sixty-six books came to the prophets of God in that way. By inspiration, I mean the supernatural gift of God that He bestowed upon the writer of each book or each portion of each book of our present Bible which caused him to record, free from error, all that God had given by revelation in the foresaid supernatural way. If this person, of whom you speak, was influenced by the triune God, while she spoke God did this through what the Bible calls illumination. She was, if God were in the performance, illuminated or caused to see or understand the message of God that He gave by revelation and caused to be written free from error by inspiration. If this interpreter, of whom you write, did anything in keeping with the teachings of the Bible, he was a medium in God's hands to illuminate, make clear or explain the old, many times tried and well tested message or story of salvation through God's grace. Before accepting any kind of strange or so called new doctrine one should test or try the medium by which it is offered. "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1). Read all of the fourth chapter of 1 John. We should remember that as Christians we are responsible for what we believe and that by faith in Jesus Christ, God's only begotten Son, we are able to discern between the Spirit of Christ and the spirit of antichrist.

It is quite evident that all cults or false views of Christianity overemphasize some on truth and so misconstrue it as to make light of or fail to give proper emphasis to the whole system of Christian truths as laid down in the Bible. Christian Science gives a false or wrong view of healing of the sick. Some of the so-called Holiness groups overemphasize speaking in tongues and make this essential to or prerequisite to being led by the Spirit or to being sanctified. The Seventh Day Adventists teach a false view of Sabbath observance and of keeping of the law. The Spiritualists teach a false view on the fact that saints commune with an unseen spirit, etc. That brings us back to what has been emphasized in this column from time to time, viz., every single word, statement, verse, chapter and book of the Bible must be interpreted in keeping with everything else taught in the whole Bible in order for it to be interpreted correctly. There is not one single exception to this universal rule. This means that the blame rests with us when we have misinterpreted a fact or a passage of Scripture. It also means that we are ignorant of the full teachings of the Bible message when we have to admit that we do not understand the full teaching of a passage. Speaking in tongues is one of the many subjects in the Bible on which I need more light before I rightly divide the whole of the word of truth to anyone on the question.

The Lighted Pathway

(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ"
(John 1:17).

The law was given by Moses. The legal dispensation, often referred to in the New Testament as "the law and the prophets," was established by him. This law we have all violated. Where is the man who, at every moment of his life, has loved God with all his heart? He cannot be found. If then, all have transgressed the divine law, we are all exposed to its penalty. Some ask, "Shall the transgressors repent and thereby secure pardon?" The law knows nothing of either repentance or pardon. The language of the law is, "Obey and live; transgress and die." Here, then, is the world condemned by the law and guilty before God. There is no hope to be found in the law for it curses those who transgress it. But we are not left hopeless for in Romans 8:3, 4, we read: "For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh: That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit."

Grace and truth came by Jesus Christ. First, let us consider the glorious fact that grace came by Jesus Christ. It was grace that prompted Jehovah to devise the system of redemption for a lost world. Grace caused the Father to send His Son into the world, not to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved. Grace influenced the Saviour to become incarnate and to die on the Cross. The gift of the Holy Spirit is ascribable to grace alone. But this grace came by Jesus Christ; it could not come without Him.

The dictionary definition of grace is, "The unmerited love and favor of God toward man; divine influence acting in man to make him pure and morally strong." Dr. J. M. Pendleton, preaching on this text about a hundred years ago, said: "The term grace, as I now employ it, implies these two things: exemption, on the part of God, from all obligation to bestow favors, and unworthiness, on the part of man, to receive them. What God does for a sinner is as unmerited by that sinner as his unworthiness is manifest. Jesus Christ, by His mediatorial labors, erected a throne, and grace sits on that throne, swaying her golden scepter, and, as the result of her reign conferring eternal life on all her subjects, and they will be a multitude which no man can number."

Thus grace does what the law could not do. How striking the contrast between them! The law condemns, grace justifies. The law kills, grace makes alive. The law consigns the sinner to hell, grace saves and raises him to heaven.

Then, let us consider the glorious fact that truth came by Jesus Christ. There can be no doubt that the great Redeemer clearly and plainly revealed truth pertain to God and eternal things. Neither can there be doubt that He revealed truth as to the condition of fallen man in the sight of God. He revealed truth as to the only hope of man's redemption saying, ". . . I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me" (John 14:6).

The law required sacrifices to be offered from flocks, herds and crops, but in the death of Jesus we see the great sacrifice offered once for all. We see the consummation of all sacrificial offerings, and the abolition of the sacrificial system. Now our offering are to be ourselves, as living sacrifices, our possessions, and our loving services to God and His Son, Jesus Christ.

SPIRITUAL INDIFFERENCE AND ITS DANGERS

"Woe to them that are at ease in Zion, . . ." (Amos 6:1).

I. GENERAL THOUGHTS ON THE TEXT

- A. A Christian life is not one of ease.
- B. Activity is the result of life; conducive to life.
- C. The world is a great field of activity.
- D. Heaven will be a place of activity; hell also.
- E. The church must be active.

II. EASE IN ZION DEFINED

- A. A state of spiritual inactivity.
- B. Spiritual laziness.
- C. Spiritual carelessness.

III. EASE IN ZION CONSISTS IN THE FOLLOWING:

- A. Lack of earnest prayer, soul-wrestling.
- B. Lack of Bible study.
- C. Lack of attendance at meetings.
- D. Lack of taking an active part in meetings.
- E. Lack of visiting and encouraging the brethren.
- F. Lack of getting the truth to others.
- G. Lack of supporting the gospel.

IV. CAUSE OF EASE IN ZION

- A. Mistake the true nature of salvation. It is not only enjoyment and privilege, but duty, labor and activity.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Mr. James Henry Hill

On November 16, 1955, God called from our midst, at the age of 83, Mr. James Henry Hill. He had been confined to his bed for 3 years and 2 months, but bore his suffering with the greatest of patience. He always returned a Christian smile when he was spoken to by his family and friends. Mr. Hill lived a life that, we whom he leaves, would do well to pattern ours after.

He was born on July 4, 1872, in Lenoir County, North Carolina, and was a charter member of Daley's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church of Lenoir County, where he was very faithful and active as long as his health permitted him to be. He served on the board of deacons of the church for approximately 40 years.

Mr. Hill's funeral was held at his home church on November 17, 1955, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Wesley Price, with burial in the church cemetery.

Mrs. James E. Hill

What are churches for, but to make missionaries?

What is education for, but to train them?

What is commerce for, but to send them?

What is life itself for, but to fulfill the purpose of missions, the enthroning of Jesus Christ in the hearts of men? —A. H. Strong.

"Paul considered the generous giving of the Macedonian Christians as evidence of the grace of God upon them."

B. Forgetfulness of our responsibility. We must render account to God of each day, our talents and means.

V. EVIL EFFECTS OF A STATE OF EASE IN THE CHURCH

- It is displeasing to God, hence detrimental to the soul.
- It has a bad effect on others in the church.
- It hinders the conversion of sinners.

THE NECESSITY OF REVIVALS

"... O LORD, revive thy work ..." (Habakkuk 3:2).

I. IN WHAT DOES A REVIVAL CONSIST?

- In quickening believers to a higher life.
- In awakening a church to her mission.
- In leading sinners to Christ.

II. THERE IS AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY FOR REVIVALS

- Revivals heal breaches and restore harmony.
- Revivals call out all the strength of a church. In times of revival there are no drones in a church.
- The existence of a church depends on revivals. Without converts a church perishes.
- Revivals are necessary because of their influence on the wicked. A revival brings out the character of the wicked; they yield or rebel.
- Revivals have a healthy influence on communities.

III. HOW MAY REVIVALS BE SECURED?

- By the study of God's Word.
- By self-examination and forsaking of sin.
- By meditating much on the condition of the unsaved.
- By united and persevering prayer.
- By the faithful preaching of the gospel.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

TITHING

BOTH the Old and New Scriptures teach tithing as God's financial plan for the support of His work."—Treatise.

Scripture references are used as follows in this discussion:

The first mention of the tithe is recorded in the fourteenth chapter of Genesis when Melchizedek met Abram (Abraham) as he returned from the slaughter of Chedorlaomer and the kings who were with him, and the tithe of the spoil was given to Melchizedek, king of Salem. Melchizedek was a type of Christ, "... he was the priest of the most high God" (Genesis 14:18). The writer of Hebrews speaks of this act as follows: "For this Melchisedec, king of Salem, priest of the most high God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him; To whom also Abraham gave a tenth part of all; first being by interpretation King of righteousness, and after that also King of Salem, which is, King of peace; Without father, without mother, without descent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made like unto the Son of God; abideth a priest continually" (Hebrews 7:1-3). The truth here is that Abraham really paid tithes unto Christ, King of Peace. "And here men that die receive tithes; but there he receiveth them, of whom it is witnessed that he liveth" (Hebrews 7:8). Verses 9 and 10 say, "And as I may so say, Levi also, who receiveth tithes, payed tithes in Abraham. For he was yet in the loins of his father, when Melchisedec met him." So let me repeat; since Melchisedec was a type of Christ, tithes were really paid to Christ.

Jacob vowed that he would give the Lord the tenth. "And Jacob vowed a vow, saying, If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on, So that I come again to my father's house in peace; then shall the LORD be my God: And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, shall be God's house: and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee" (Genesis 28:20-22).

The Tithe Is the Lord's

"And all the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORD'S: it is holy unto the LORD. And if a man will at all redeem ought of his tithes, he shall add thereto the fifth part thereof. And concerning the tithe of the herd, or of the flock, even of whatsoever passeth under the rod, the tenth shall be holy unto the LORD" (Leviticus 27:30-32).

The Increase to Be Tithed

"Thou shalt truly tithe all the increase of thy seed, that the field bringeth forth year by year" (Deuteronomy 14:22). Thus if a man planted one bushel of grain and reaped twenty bushels, he had to tithe nineteen bushels. If this grain was sold for $20 he was to tithe $19. This is true with all crops. Not the gross, but the net was to be tithed. The tenth of the increase belonged to the Lord.

Israel Was Cursed Because She Robbed God

Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings. Ye are cursed with a curse; for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation. Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it" (Malachi 3:8-10).

Before Israel could obtain the blessing they had to pay up their dues. Their dues were the tithe. There was no use to pray for the blessing until they gave their tithe. The windows of heaven would not open while they were in debt to the Lord, but when they met the Lord's plan the blessing came.

Christ Endorsed the Tithe

Someone may say, "All the Scriptures given on the tithe are in the Old Testament and do not belong to the New Testament." There are Scriptures in the New Testament concerning the tithe too. Christ says in Matthew 23:23, "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone."

So Christ says "Ye ought to pay your tithes." Even if that was under the law, I would hate to do less under grace than the Jew would under the law. May we now examine some more Scripture. Paul says, "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come" (1 Corinthians 16:2). So on the first day of the week the church at Corinth was to pay tithes. Then Paul says, "... see that ye abound in this grace also" (2 Corinthians 8:7).

Tithing was placed in the Treatise by an overwhelming vote of the National Association in session at Paintsville, Kentucky, in 1940. This amendment to the Articles of Faith was duly made by the revision committee and accepted and has been practiced by a large number of Free Will Baptists throughout the states. However, all Free Will Baptists do not tithe; but the fact that there are those who do not tithe is no reason that anyone should disobey God's commandment, nor disobey the edicts of the National Association. But Free Will Baptists are Free Will Baptists, you know, and free to do as they please; it seems to be the rule. But we should be glad to obey God.

It Pays to Tithe

Tithing promotes our spiritual and temporal interest. I never saw a tither who was not deeply interested in the life of his church. So it pays in deepening our interest. It pays in spiritual blessings. It pays in temporal blessings. It pays in peace of mind, as it settles a question in the mind of the tither. When once settled, it continues to deepen that peace of mind in obedience to the commandment of God. The tither can rest assured that he is entitled to the fulfillment of God's promise to open the windows of heaven and pour out the blessing. Read Genesis 14:20; Leviticus 27:30; Deuteronomy 14:22; Malachi 3:8-10; Matthew 23:23; 1 Corinthians 16:2; 2 Corinthians 9:6-15.

The doctrine is that Free Will Baptists believe in tithing; also we believe in offerings being made after we pay the Lord's tithe.

What marvelous manifestations of grace and Divine power are made known to men very often in days of adversity. However bitter the cup may have been in the beginning of the ordeal, it was graciously sweetened, and the cup was kissed in gratitude and it was transformed into a cup containing a refreshing elixir. "Earth has no sorrow that Heaven cannot heal."—Selected.

BOYS and GIRLS

THE LOCKED DOOR

THE playhouse under the big maple tree in the back yard was very new and cozy. A pot of gay pink petunias stood on the window sill, and on the small table was a bouquet of swamp apple blossoms.

Betty Bowen had just swept the last bit of litter from the floor when her sister said sharply, "Pull the shades down quick, Betty. I'll turn the key in the lock. The twins are coming and there isn't room for them today with Florence, and Ted, and their dog. And we have not enough apples and popcorn and cookies for everybody."

Betty pulled down the shades but suddenly she exclaimed, "It doesn't seem fair to lock the twins out of our fun, Hazel. We are not sure that Florence and Ted are coming, you know. If they do come, the popcorn and apples will go lots farther than you'd think. If there aren't enough cookies Mother said we could have a few more. And we can bring in a box for a seat."

"Hush! They're almost here." And Hazel held up a warning finger. "If we keep perfectly still they'll think we have gone away."

Betty sat down in a little red chair and kept perfectly still, though doing this was very hard. She wanted to jump up when Rhoda and Roland knocked and knocked on the playhouse door, then tried the shiny new knob.

"Betty and Hazel, where are you?" they called and called, but, receiving no answer, they finally started back across the lawn.

"I guess they went to the sewing society with their mother," said Rhoda. "I'm sorry."

When Hazel was sure the twins had gone, she cautiously raised the shade and looked out. No one was in sight. Where were Florence and Ted, the friends who had been invited to play in the new house?

Betty went to the cupboard and brought out the pretty pink flowered dishes and the apples and the popcorn and cookies and set them on the table. Twice Hazel ran out to look up and down the street. It was very still in the playhouse. From far away came the honking of an automobile horn. It sounded very much like the horn on the twins' Uncle Ned's big blue car.

Then minutes passed—fifteen minutes—half an hour. The cookies and apples and popcorn were tasted, but neither Betty nor Hazel felt hungry. The afternoon seemed spoiled.

Suddenly Hazel jumped to her feet. "You were right, Betty," she exclaimed. "It isn't fair to lock the twins out of our fun. Let's go see if we can find them."

"Yes, let's," agreed Betty. "I hope they haven't gone away."

A moment later she and Hazel were running across the back lawn, then around the house. The twins lived on the other side of the street, down two houses. In front of their little brown bungalow stood a big blue car. They were already climbing into it; when they saw Betty and Hazel they shouted happily, "Oh, here they come, here they come," and jumped to the ground.

Betty and Hazel hesitated, for they thought the twins must be going somewhere with their Uncle Ned and Aunt Nan, but Roland urged them to hurry faster. And Rhoda exclaimed, "Oh, Betty and Hazel, where have you been? We knocked and knocked and called and called. The loveliest thing has happened. Uncle Ned and Aunt Nan are going to take us in town to the entertainment the children are giving in the Memorial Building. And we're going to feed the squirrels in Wilcox Park and have supper in the cutest little tea room you ever saw, and we want you to go with us. We asked Ted and Florence, too, but they had to go to their grandfather's. There's lots of room in the car, isn't there, Roland?"

"Sure there is," answered Rhoda's twin, "there's always room for our friends."

"Oh, and we didn't have room for them in our playhouse!" thought Hazel and Betty. And that night Hazel said, "Just suppose we'd stayed in our playhouse all by ourselves and missed the lovely time we've had. I'll never, never lock anybody out of our good times again. Sharing them with someone else is lots more fun."

"And it makes us feel better," answered Betty thoughtfully.—Zion's Herald.

ROSALEEN'S PARTY

Florence Isaacson

BROTHER ALBERT was writing out the invitations for Rosaleen's party. Rosaleen said that he was a better writer than she was and she wanted them to be pretty.

"Are you going to invite that new girl Agnes who lives across the street?" Albert asked, as he made a list of the names.

"No," Rosaleen said. "I haven't had a chance to call on her and she does not look as if she meant to be very friendly. I don't believe she would come if I did ask her. I had better not risk it."

"But," Albert said, "I think you should ask her. You will soon be friends with her, anyway, and it will be a good chance for her to get acquainted."

"Oh, well," said Rosaleen, "if you insist I suppose I shall have to, but I really don't think it is necessary."

So the invitation was sent and Agnes came to the party. She had a good time and got acquainted with all the girls.

The next day she came over to see Rosaleen.

"Rosaleen," she said, "I would like to have the names and addresses of all the girls who were at your party. I want to have a birthday party and I don't know a girl in the city besides those at your party. I was getting so lonesome that I used to just cry sometimes; but now Mother says I may have a party and invite all the girls I met at your party. You can't realize how awful it is to be a new girl in the neighborhood, especially when you have moved from another city."

"Oh," said Rosaleen to herself, after Agnes had gone, "I am so glad I invited her! I never thought about how lonely it must be to be a new girl in the neighborhood. I hope I never have to move away from all my friends."—Our Little Ones.

Five Thousand Aprons For Cragmont!

As director for the $10,000 drive for repair funds for Cragmont Assembly, I am appealing to woman's auxiliaries all over North Carolina to go into the apron making business at once, and make and sell 5,000 aprons at $1.00 or more each. The proceeds should be sent directly to Mrs. M. A. Woodard, Winterville, N. C., and should be earmarked for "Auxiliary Apron Fund—Cragmont Assembly."

I am suggesting that each woman in every auxiliary be asked to make and sell at least two aprons, or the auxiliary as a body make and sell at least two for each member on the roll. If possible, get the material and work donated, so that the entire income from sales can go to the fund. One dollar is suggested as the price for a simple apron; however, our local auxiliary members are also making some "dress-up" aprons to sell at $1.50. There may be some cases where the plan for individual donations of material cannot be well followed, and the auxiliary may have to purchase the material, then enlist the ones who have sewing machines and time to sew, while other members sell them. ## Statistics on Japan

Since many of our people are lifting up their eyes and looking toward Japan during these days, in view of the fact that Rev. and Mrs. Fred Hersey plan to sail on April 9, 1956, we think that the following statistics will be most interesting:

All of us remember that when General McArthur was in Japan, he sent an appeal to America for 2,000 missionaries. It seems that we all are rather late in responding to his call but in time surely the Lord will provide.

Most of these statistics were taken from the Japan Christian Year Book, 1954, the most recent publication on statistics of the Christian Church in Japan. This book includes all churches, both Protestant and Catholic. The Evangelical Missionary Alliance also issues a book from which we gleaned the statistics of the evangelical Christian work in Japan:

I. Missionaries and Boards

A. 133 boards and societies
2,017 missionaries
Of this number 1637 are Americans.

B. 93 boards
1331 missionaries
These are considered evangelical and are included in A.

II. Organized Churches—3,381

Of this number 1,152 are Nippon Kuristo Kyodan (Japan Church of Christ), which is a liberal group of churches of 33 denominations organized during the war. There are 491 Catholic Churches and 219 Episcopal. Of course many more of these churches are liberal in their teaching which leaves very few evangelical churches in Japan.

III. Religions

Shintoism	77,780,325	89.9%
Buddhism	47,714,876	55.1%
Christianity	485,399	0.56%
Others	3,419,571	3.9%

It must be remembered that many of the people are both Shintoist and Buddhist. Thus the total of these figures exceed the total population of 86,500,000.

Passage has been secured for the Herses to sail to Japan on April 9. The tickets cost $650.00. Of course there are many other needs and expenses involved and we are still looking to our people to supply this need.

“By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: not of works, lest any man should boast” (Ephesians 2:8, 9).

Emphasis for Missions In North Carolina

The months of March and April, 1956, have been set aside as mission months for North Carolina Free Will Baptists. Each church in the state is asked to take part in this drive by giving as liberal as possible. The Rev. Rashie Kennedy, chairman of the North Carolina State Mission Board, makes the following suggestions for raising your budget:

I. Prayer

1. Pray for our foreign missionaries.
2. Pray for national missionary teams on the field.
3. Pray for state missionary, Rev. Homer E. Willis.
4. Pray for all mission boards.
5. Pray that we may be able to meet the over-all budget for missions.

II. Budget for 1956

1. Foreign missions, $18,000.
  2. National missions, $2,500.
  3. State missions, $15,500.
- Total budget for the year is $36,000. To raise this amount we will need from every church in the state $1.00 per member. If your church has 100 members your part of the budget will be $100, 500 members, $500, etc.

III. How To Raise Your Part of the Budget

1. Pastors exchange pulpits one Sunday in March and April and preach on missions, also take special offering for missions.
2. Conduct revival during drive and set aside one night for missions by taking a special offering.
3. Sunday schools, Sunday school classes, leagues and auxiliaries have special mission Sunday during March and April and receive gifts for missions.
4. Plan mission conference in your church or union meeting. Your state board might be able to help you plan one. See, write or call the Rev. Bruce Barrow, Lucama, North Carolina.
5. Plan your own way of raising your $1.00 per member, but by all means, do something special for missions during this drive. We need to raise as much as possible of this $36,000 during March and April.

6. Please send all money for missions to our state treasurer, the Rev. Bruce Barrow, Lucama, North Carolina. Unless all money is sent to him for recording our state will not get credit for it. You may designate your money as you wish, but please send it to Mr. Barrow for recording. Money not specially designated will be channeled according to the need for state, national and foreign missions.

7. Your conference, association or union meeting might be able to plan a school of missions sometime during the year. See, call or write the Rev. Rashie Kennedy, Box 913, Greenville, North Carolina.

Special Announcement

A school of missions is being conducted at Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, April 10, 13, 17, 20 and 24, at 7:30 p. m. A certificate will be presented to those who attend all five sessions and who take notes with a view of being graded on their work.

Rev. Burkette Raper, president of the college, is working out a unit certificate of credit toward the Christian workers' course at the college. The certificates will be presented in the missionary conference, April 27.

Rev. L. R. Ennis is to teach the five sessions of the mission school, using the subject, “A New Approach to Home Missions.” This will be the first unit in the certificate course with others to follow.

Mr. Raper is planning the school of mission in cooperation with the State Mission Board. He has planned it so the woman's auxiliaries can count it as a study course in their work. The school will be helpful to all ministers, Sunday school teachers and workers, senior and adult leaguers and all people interested in Christian work.

A state-wide missionary conference is to be held at Mount Olive College, April 27, with the Rev. Homer E. Willis as the home mission speaker, and the Rev. Thomas Willey Jr. as the foreign mission speaker. Programs for the conference will be printed at a later date.

The Meaning of the Lord's Supper

(Lesson for March 18)

Lesson: Luke 22:7-23.

Golden Text: 1 Corinthians 11:26.

I. INTRODUCTION

The sad beauty and deep significance of The Lord's Supper are enhanced by the fact that He, Himself, instituted the ordinance and specified the reasons for His actions. He also suggested or stated the motives which should be in the Christian's mind when He partakes of the sacred symbols. The time and circumstance, also, gave the service meaning, which points toward the past and into the future. He ate the Passover with His disciples, and, at an opportune time during the service, set in motion a deeper ceremony which pictured Himself as the Paschal Lamb on the night before His passion. The circumstance under which His supper was born includes the shadow of the Passover, because they were in the act of celebrating it at the time; the ever approaching hour, which was then so near, of His sacrificial death and His last moments with His followers. These were all sacred, momentous truths; and they serve in displaying the hallowed sacredness of His supper.—The Advanced Quarterly (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. The Passover points back to deliverance from bondage and forward to the Christ who delivers from sin (Vv. 7, 8).
2. Those who would prepare to fellowship with Christ will find the Holy Spirit a faithful guide (Vv. 9, 10).
3. The place of service is quickly found by all who truly want to work for the Lord (Vv. 11-13).
4. The Lord is ready to sit down with those who by faith make ready a place for Him (Vs. 14).
5. Earnestly the Lord desires the time to sit with His disciples in the holy communion (Vv. 15-18).
6. Only those who commune in remembrance of Christ can obtain the blessings of that sacred rite (Vv. 19, 20).
7. The hand of treason can never be concealed no matter how cunning the traitor might be (Vv. 21, 22).

8. To learn that a traitor is in the holy camp brings fearful suspense to sincere hearts (Vs. 23).

—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Most likely, many inhabitants of Jerusalem had rooms all fitted up to let out for the Passover occasion, to such who came from the country and other villages, towns and cities. This seems to have been the case in this instance. It will be observed that the directions given by the Lord to the two disciples, clearly reveal His supernatural knowledge of things. He knew things distant and future. He displayed the same foreknowledge, when on a previous occasion, He sent His disciples to bring the colt upon which He would ride into Jerusalem (Luke 19:28-40). He was not a mere man, but God manifest in flesh, and therefore His knowledge and authority extended far beyond that of a mere man.—W. S. Hottel, D. D.

2. The student will notice that the Feast of the Passover was completed by Jesus and the disciples before Jesus began to explain His death by instituting The Lord's Supper. However, while they were at the same table, Jesus took the same elements of the Passover and used them for the new feast: He caused the old feast to merge into the new, giving the old elements a new and spiritual meaning.

"And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me" (Vs. 19).

"Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you" (Vs. 20).

The blood of the New Testament had to be shed for the remission of man's sin. God's Word says, "... without the shedding of blood is no remission" (Hebrews 9:22). God had ordained, from the very first sin, that the lamb must be slain and his blood shed for atonement of sin. He rejected the offering of Cain because it was composed of the fruit of the ground, and accepted Abel's offering of the firstling of the flock. Even so, the blood of the Lamb of God had to be shed if man were to stand justified in the sight of a holy God. And the believers in Christ should remember the shedding of this blood as they should partake of The Lord's Supper throughout the Church age, being reminded that they were saved, not by virtue of any merit of their own but by the precious blood of Christ.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

3. The Lord's Supper is a pledge of His coming again. The sacrament looks backward to the Cross with love, inspires faith for the present, and is big with hope for the future. It is said that when the Jews observed the Passover, they always had a plate and cup for the coming One. Jesus is that coming One and with His coming there will be the banquet of the redeemed.

4. The Lord's Supper is a pledge of our sanctification (Hebrews 13:12). Noah took the clean beasts for his offering after coming out of the ark (Genesis 8:20). Abraham divided the clean creatures when he entered into his covenant with the Lord (Genesis 15:10).

Selected.

5. John 13:1-17 gives the description of what Jesus did immediately after He instituted The Lord's Supper, "He riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself. After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded" (John 13:4, 5). And when He had finished, He said, "For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. . . . If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them" (John 13:15-17). This we should do also as an act of humility and Christian love.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

6. A soldier was witnessing for Christ to another soldier and finally said, "I do wish that you would enlist in Christ's army!"

"I am thinking about it," the unsaved buddy replied, "but it means giving up some things—in fact I am considering the cost."

A Christian officer, just passing, heard the remark, and laying his hand on the shoulder of the younger soldier, said:

"Young man, you talk of counting the cost of following Christ, but have you ever counted the cost of not following him?"

For days the Christian officer's question turned itself over in the young man's mind, and he found no rest until he received the Lord Jesus Christ, the sinner's Saviour. He has now been His faithful soldier for many years.—Higley's Commentary.

auxiliaries may want to make a social affair out of it, getting together to cut and sew aprons. This can be done where several members have portable sewing machines. We leave the plan to be worked out by each local auxiliary.

Each auxiliary turning in $25 or more through this drive will be put on an "Honor Roll," which will be published in The Free Will Baptist and placed on the bulletin board at Cragmont Assembly during the summer conferences. It is important that we get into this drive at once, as many repairs will have to be made at Cragmont before the summer conferences begin the last week in May. Let's try to finish up the apron drive by the end of March. If I can be of any help to you, please write or call me.

Attention, Youth Chairmen of N. C. Eastern Auxiliary Convention

As the date draws near for the North Carolina Eastern Auxiliary Convention, I am making one final appeal to the local youth chairmen to complete their plans at once, if they have not already done so, and to have an entry in the District Declamation Contest which will be held at St. Mary's Church, New Bern, North Carolina, Wednesday, March 21, at 7:30 p. m.

I would also like to urge the youth chairmen to send the names and the ages of their entries to Mrs. Whitford Hill, Pink Hill, North Carolina, not later than March 17, so that the arrangements for the contest can be made beforehand. We are looking forward to having the best declamation contest ever held in our district. Please do not disappoint us!

Auxiliary Plans Shower For Evelyn Hersey

The Woman's Auxiliary of Sylvan Park Free Will Baptist Church, Nashville, Tennessee, held its February meeting at the church. The entire meeting was centered around prayer, reminding all members never to cease to pray.

The auxiliary has grown to 35 in number and is now praying that it may win many more into their Christian work and fellowship.

During the business session a motion was made and adopted that the ladies' mission circle be named "The Evelyn Hersey Circle." Its first meeting is scheduled to be held in the home of Mrs. Mary Garrett, during which a shower in the honor of Evelyn Hersey will be sponsored in order to help provide a few of the many things she will find necessary in Japan. Evelyn was a member of the Sylvan Park Church while she attended the Bible College in Nashville, Tennessee. The auxiliary's prayers are with the Herseys as they prepare for their trip to Japan.

Corresponding Secretary

Marks of a Good Christian and Church Worker

One who holds his membership where he lives.

One who attends all the services of his church if he can possibly do so.

One who gives regularly and cheerfully to the support of his church.

One who knows, believes in and practices the doctrine of the New Testament.

One who seeks to be a peacemaker.

One who reads his Bible and prays sincerely to God every day.

One who boosts his church and will not see it neglected, harmfully criticized or abused without defence.

One who seeks to improve his Christian life through the reading of good literature.

One who is always ready to forgive, as Christ forgives us.—Hickory Chapel Free Will Baptist Church Bulletin, Ahoskie, North Carolina.

UNDERSTANDING OTHERS

The editor accompanied the Board of Directors of the Free Will Baptist Press to Nashville, Tennessee, for a joint meeting with the National Sunday School Board on March 1. This was an historic meeting in many respects. We are glad that the Lord permitted us to sit in such a meeting where ministers of the gospel and Christian gentlemen discussed serious problems and reached satisfactory conclusions without one word of discord to mar the spiritual fellowship.

The brethren reviewed the contract existing between the two boards, evaluated present offerings of Sunday school literature and discussed plans for future progress in the field. It was outstanding, and should be exemplary, that every person present expressed himself freely but objectively upon the matters under consideration; not once did any person deal in personalities or make incriminations or personal accusations against anyone else. In this spirit the problems were attacked, and, so far as we were able to ascertain, complete agreement and understanding were reached on every issue. Both boards expressed renewed faith in, and allegiance to, the contract existing between them.

We are convinced that this meeting was an overwhelming victory for the cause of Christ as Free Will Baptists interpret it. The relationships between the two boards had been strained to the breaking point, but these men proved themselves big and unselfish enough to preserve unity in the ranks of the denomination, at least to the extent of getting together and presenting a solid front regarding our Sunday school literature. The challenge now presents itself to our churches to maintain this unity by using our Sunday school literature, thereby supporting and patronizing both the National Sunday School Board and the Free Will Baptist Press.

Now, for the first time in the history of the denomination, there is a definite possibility for Free Will Baptists to develop a complete program of Sunday school literature, including daily vacation Bible school materials. This statement is no reflection upon what we have had in the past. What literature we have had throughout the years has been good, but it has not been extensive enough to cover all age groups including teachers' quarterlies and guides for all departments. The reason has been that money and facilities have not been available to finance the publication of them. From time to time, new publications have been added as finances became available. At the present time we think we can see the possibility of filling most of the gaps in our literature program if we can have the support of the denomination.

In the joint meeting of the boards the Reverend John H. West, chairman of the Sunday School Board, made the statement which expressed the apparent attitude of all present. He said, "We want to refer to the Free Will Baptist Press as our Press, and the Sunday school literature as our literature." This statement was referred to, again and again, throughout the meeting and the members of both boards left the meeting in this attitude.

We are firmly convinced that the greatest accomplishment of this meeting was the mutual understanding which was reached. Members of both boards discovered that both were striving toward the same end—giving the denomination the best possible Sunday school literature. The Press Board devalued the fact that the Free Will Baptist Press is a non-profit organization, reading from the charter the clause that prevented paying of dividends to any stockholder. The Press Board stressed the fact that all profits from operation of the Press go directly back into the improvements of facilities, financing new publications or to denominational agencies. The Sunday School Board, in turn, assured the group that its only interest was to offer adequate literature to our people with improvements as fast as possible.

Under the existing contract, and with the wholehearted support of our people, we believe we are on the eve of the greatest step forward ever in our Sunday school, daily vacation Bible school and Free Will Baptist league literature. Furthermore, our progress need not stop there: we can use our facilities to publish study course books, tracts, pamphlets, books of Christian fiction, books on doctrine and other literature which the denomination needs so badly.

God places a high premium on unity and cooperation. Even when the people were building the tower of Babel in opposition to the will of God, He said of their efforts, "... Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do" (Genesis 11:6). If men can accomplish so much through cooperation, when they are laboring in opposition to God, how much more can they accomplish with the help and inspiration of the Spirit of God?

Let us appeal to all our people everywhere to use our literature from our Press and look to God for progress, blessing and leadership to reach higher heights in our literature program for His glory.

PERFECTION

We are what we are; we cannot be truly other than ourselves. We reach perfection not by copying, much less by aiming at originality, but by constantly and steadily working out the life which is common to all, according to the character which God has given us.

The more perfect the sight is the more delightful the beautiful object. The more perfect the appetite, the sweeter the food. The more musical the ear, the more pleasant the melody. The more perfect the soul, the more joyous the joys of heaven and the more glorious that glory.—Baxter.

A Massachusetts commission led by Municipal Judge Zottoli in 1945 found that taxpayers were paying $4.00 in damages from alcohol drinking, for each $1.00 liquor revenue. Later the Judge said the ratio was $10.00 to $1.00.—New York Temperance Action.

Substitutes

Naaman Borders

Waverly, Ohio

WE see that many people want to substitute something instead of taking the Word of God. Some say, "What's the use of doing this or that?" I agree with the colored brother who said, "I just does what the good Lord tells me to do and asks no questions." It's not for us to ask why, but for us to obey. For instance, many churches will ask, "What's the use of washing the saints' feet?" And they will say, "It's enough if we do deeds of humility and leave off the act." Again, some will substitute pouring and sprinkling for baptism when the Bible is perfectly plain on that question.

Some will say, "I can live a Christian life and stay at home and do nothing—just behave myself." Well, brother, suppose we all believe that and substitute our own petty notions for the Word of God. How long would the church last? How long would it be until we all forgot about God, the Bible and morality, and plunged into darkness? Then God would be forgotten, and we would dwindle away and be no more than brute beasts. Surely we have to work to keep anything alive. Why do we celebrate the Fourth of July or Thanksgiving or Christmas? Isn't it to keep these great events alive in our minds? Isn't it to refresh our memories of these great days? Don't we partake of the Lord's Supper for the same purpose?

Some folks say they can be saved and stay out of the church. Well, brother, you might be able to swim the Gulf of Mexico, but it would be safer to take a boat. You might be able to get to heaven without washing feet or being baptized, but it would be safer to mind the Lord and ask no questions. We might be just as brave a soldier in our civilian clothes as anyone, but how much better it is to don our soldier's uniform and show the world what we are! Your buddy might mistake you for a spy or a Communist. Jesus said, "Whosoever therefore shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation; of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of His Father with the holy angels" (Mark 8:38).

When you tell your child to do a certain thing, are you pleased to hear him say, "Why not do it some other way"? Suppose he would keep it up every time you tell him to do something. It wouldn't be long before you would take him to the wood-shed and give him some hickory tea.

Again God's Word tells us, "Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him" (James 5:14, 15). Some will say, "What good does it do to anoint him with oil?" Well, brother, I'd just as well ask you, "What good does it do to pray?" That's what the Bible says and it's not for us to ask why. It's for us to obey. Some say, "I've tried it and it didn't work. He wasn't healed." Well, are you sure you prayed the prayer of faith? James says to pray the prayer of faith. James doesn't say for us to run around, hunt-up some sick folk, carry a bottle of oil, and ask them to let us anoint them with the oil and pray for them. He says let him call for the elders of the church. Then, there's no use to call anyone who doesn't believe in healing. There are some people who do not believe in it, but we are not unchristenizing them. But there are some who have faith in divine healing, and if we are to get results we must call on them to pray. Paul asks, "Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all workers of miracles? Have all the gifts of healing? . . ." (1 Corinthians 12:29, 30). We all know the answer to these questions. Some say, "I believe in healing, but I don't believe in it the way Brother Jones believes." Well, if Brother Jones gets results why do we object to it? If they follow not with us, Jesus says we should let them alone. To their own master they are accountable. Yes, some say, "I believe but, but, but, . . ." and they keep on butting.

There is another command that many of us have overlooked or blandly ignored, and that is fasting. "And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the bridechamber mourn, as long as the bridegroom is with them? but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast" (Matthew 9:15). Many victories have been gained through fasting, and many victories have been lost through not fasting. So, dear reader, take your Bible concordance and see how many times people in great distress have prayed, fasted and wept before God and He has stayed the plague. Yet, some will ask, "What good is there in fasting?" Most of us would rather feast than fast. Some prefer the supper room instead of the upper room.

If we want real revivals we should follow God's way and not our own pet notions. Then, I am sure, we will have a real revival. If we would listen to God instead of dictating to Him, we could hear from heaven. Instead of cleaning out the church building (which is all right) and repairing it, we should clean out our hearts, which is more important. So why not take God at His word and follow His pattern? Can we improve on His plan? Jeremiah issued an indictment against Israel in saying, "For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water" (Jeremiah 2:13).

The Workings of Satan

Here is a person you do not hear much about these days. The reason being that so many preachers today do not believe there is such a being. Of course God's Word abounds with statements concerning him, but that doesn't make any difference to a modernist; he doesn't really believe the Bible anyway, so he preaches very much about the Universal Fatherhood of God, and the Universal Brotherhood of Man. He denies the judgment, the wrath of God and everlasting hell. But we at Trinity are old-fashioned Christians. We believe in the existence of a person named Satan, and that he is everything the Bible represents him to be.—Rev. M. L. Sutton, Trinity Church Bulletin, Fort Worth, Texas.

What is God Like?

Elder A. J. Jenkins,
McArthur, Ohio

IN discussing this subject we must recognize the limitation of human knowledge together with the unbelieving spirit of human beings. Words and terms from our language are inadequate to describe God fully. Furthermore, the finite mind prevents a complete description of God.

With this understanding, let us be honest and confess that we must accept much by faith that we cannot explain in words. We believe and proclaim that God is love; He is from all eternity; He is all powerful; He is holy; He is the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ; He is our only hope; He is, best of all, willing to forgive our sins and save us from an eternal hell. Were it not for the revelation of God on these points, we would be in the dark and without hope, "The secret things belong unto the LORD our God: but those things which are revealed belong unto us and to our children for ever, . . ." (Deuteronomy 29:29). The revelation referred to in this passage is the written Word of God.

Defining God

Since God is limitless, it is evident that there can be no full definition of Him. However, we can put into words our limited knowledge of Him and try to say what our hearts and minds tell us is true. We can make great affirmation upon the basis of God's revelation of Himself. Although the Word of God means different things to different people, we are concerned here with the Christian concept of God, based upon what the Bible says about Him.

Christian thinkers have phrased such definitions as this: There is but one living and true God who is a Spirit, everlasting, of infinite power, possessing all wisdom and full of goodness. He is the maker and preserver of all things, sin not included—things visible and invisible—all in this unity of the Godhead.

Christian faith is based on Him of whom the Scriptures declare concerning the unity of the Godhead. There are three Persons of one substance, one power and full authority—the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit. He is acknowledged in the Apostles' Creed, "I believe in God, the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth." We acknowledge Him as the loving Father, and are sure that Jesus is the highest revelation of God to man.

The Attributes of God

By the attributes of God we mean those characteristics which we ascribe to Him to indicate the essence of His divine Being. We cannot say what God is in essence, except in terms of unity, trinity, spirit and power.

(1) God is One. He is a single being and the only one of His kind, ". . . the LORD he is God; there is none else beside him" (Deuteronomy 4:35); "For there is one God, . . ." (1 Timothy 2:5). To a world of many gods and lords, may Christians cry out, "Hear, O Israel; the LORD our God is one LORD: And thou shalt love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might" (Deuteronomy 6:4, 5).

(2) God is a personal Spirit. "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24); ". . . shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live?" (Hebrews 12:9). By a personal Spirit we mean a being capable of self-consciousness and self-decision—one capable of functioning intelligently, emotionally and volitionally. He is a being who thinks, feels and wills.

(3) God is eternal. He is eternally self-existent. He is not a being of time. He has always existed and there will be no end to His being. We speak of Him as being infinite, "For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy; I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, . . ." (Isaiah 57:15). "LORD, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God" (Psalm 90:1, 2).

(4) God is invisible. "No man hath seen God at any time: the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him" (John 1:18).

(5) God is almighty. In other words,

He is omnipotent or all powerful. God appeared to Abram and said, ". . . I am the Almighty God; . . ." (Genesis 17:1). ". . . the Lord God omnipotent reigneth" (Revelation 19:6). "But Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible" (Matthew 19:26). Jeremiah praised God and said, ". . . there is nothing too hard for thee" (Jeremiah 32:17).

(6) God is omniscient. He knows all and sees all, and He never looks upon sin without a great degree of contempt. The psalmist observed, "Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite" (Psalm 147:5). The Bible says further, "Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do" (Hebrews 4:13).

(7) God is omnipresent. Space holds no limitation for Him, for He is a Spirit everywhere present. Read Psalm 139:7-12.

(8) God is unchangeable. However, this immutability does not mean that He is static; on the other hand, He is an active, dynamic being. His unchangeableness refers to His nature. He has said, "For I am the LORD, I change not; . . ." (Malachi 3:6). He is ". . . the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning" (James 1:17). We can depend upon Him always to act in harmony with His holy nature.

(9) God is holy. He Himself declares, ". . . I am holy: . . ." (Leviticus 11:44). The seraphim declared, ". . . Holy, holy, holy, is the LORD of hosts: . . ." (Isaiah 6:3). The emphasis of the whole Bible is upon the moral supremacy and majesty of God.

(10) God is just. Moses sang of God as, ". . . a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he" (Deuteronomy 32:4). The psalmist said, "Justice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne: mercy and truth shall go before thy face" (Psalm 89:14). John heard the redeemed saints on the other side of death sing, ". . . Great and marvelous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints" (Revelation 15:3). God has always been, and will always remain, fair to all. His judgments are His own.

(11) God is merciful. This attribute is not to be set over against His justice, but is used to ascribe to Him the love and honor which are due Him. If you will read Psalm 136, you will see that the entire 26 verses tell of His mercy.

(12) God is love. Love is the dynamic force of God's being. Read 1

John 4:8-16. It is the darling grace to all mankind because it is God's attitude toward man. His very nature is to love His creatures and to give them the best things, even eternal life. Read John 3:16.

The Unpardonable Sin

Elder A. L. Sellers
Quitman, Georgia

WHEREFORE I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come" (Matthew 12:31, 32).

This is a plain statement—plain as can be, with no question as to the meaning. But why is the question so offensive? To understand this we will study the meaning of the words "Holy Ghost" and "blaspheme."

To blaspheme is to treat with contempt. The Pharisees did that to Christ when they accused Him of casting out devils by Beelzebub, the prince of the devils. It was because they had accused Him of such that Christ spoke this truth about which we are studying. I believe it is as important that we be careful about how we treat the Holy Ghost today as it was for them then, lest we offend Him. The word blaspheme has a much greater meaning than the word sin. To blaspheme carries with it a purpose to revile, insult or make fun of, which is a very abrupt way of doing things.

The word ghost usually carries with it the idea of something that is imaginable, but in this sense it is as much a reality as any personality. In fact it is the greatest personality in existence. We can't have a personality without a person, and to me, the Holy Ghost is the personality of the Father and the Son working together for the interest of humanity.

In John 14:15, 16 Christ advised His disciples that if they loved Him to keep His commandments and He would pray the Father, and the Father would give them another Comforter who would abide with them forever. He was trying to prepare them for the great event that was just ahead of them. Notice that He said another Comforter. The Comforter that they had then was soon to be taken from them; but if they would manifest their love for Him, by keeping His commandments, He would pray for them to have another Comforter that would abide with them forever. In Verse 18 He assures them that He will not leave them comfortless. Then in Verse 23 Jesus said unto Judas, "... If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him." In Verse 26 He calls the Comforter the Holy Ghost.

From these Scriptures it is plain to me that the Comforter is the Holy Ghost, and the Holy Ghost is the personality of the Father and the Son working together for the welfare of humanity. This being true, when one has offended the Holy Ghost sufficient enough to cause Him to withdraw from him, as it might be, there is no help for him. He has blocked the way of his own salvation, for he has caused the Father and the Son both to leave him. He has crossed the deadline.

To make the case more understandable let me give this illustration: In the family life there is the husband with his personality, and the wife with her personality—each independent of the other in the home. Then, the two, working together for the interest of the home, has a third personality in the home. As long as I am in favor with the husband I can get a favor from that home regardless of the wife, and the same can be said of the wife. But if I offend the third personality of that home, what is the prospect of a favor for me from that home? I have offended both the husband and the wife. Certainly there is no favor for me there. To blaspheme the Holy Ghost is to treat the third personality in the Godhead with contempt, with a purpose to offend, insult or to make fun of, which is what the Pharisees had done to Christ.

Some may not agree with me, thinking that I am trying to do away with the third person in the Godhead, but I am asking you to read prayerfully and carefully before making this decision. I have portrayed a third personality, and you can't have a personality without a person. This third personality is the greatest personality, not only in the Godhead, but in the world. There is no power equal to the power of the Holy Ghost, for it is the power of the Father and the Son combined. In conclusion let me warn you, dear reader, be careful that you don't offend the Holy Ghost.

Stop Kidding Yourself

SOME folks really are concerned about the things of the Lord. Others just don't care. How can a person say that he really loves the Lord and is interested in seeing souls saved when he walks away from church after Sunday school or doesn't attend Sunday school or church?

The person who leaves after Sunday school is really kidding himself if he says he is all out for the Lord. He really doesn't care if souls go to hell or not. The person who will not spend one hour in a well heated auditorium in free America to worship God, to sing His praises, to pray for souls, and to listen to God's Word, would literally be put to shame by a decent heathen worship. How can you say that you love God when you live such a shallow life.

The Bible says, "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching" (Hebrews 10:25).

The person who does not attend church just ignores God's Word and proceeds to take his life and live it the way he wants to live it.

Not only that, but by your example of not staying for church and not attending church you are casting your vote to close the doors of the church and to quit trying to win souls and to cease trying to build up the saints in a more holy faith.

By your example you are also encouraging

Growth in Kinston North Carolina Church

The Rev. James F. Miller, pastor of the First Free Will Baptist Church, Kinston, North Carolina, reports an ever increasing attendance upon the services of the church. To care for the growth in the church and auxiliaries the congregation has purchased a spacious lot on North Heritage Street in Kinston upon which a new church plant will be erected. The cost of the lot was $10,000.

Mr. Miller reports that the average attendance in the Sunday school in 1951 was 118, in 1952 it was 126, in 1953 it was 144, in 1954 it was 195, in 1955 it was 245 and at present it is 259.

Rev. Bobby Jackson, Evangelist for Oak Grove Revival

Oak Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Newton Grove, North Carolina, will conduct its spring revival beginning Monday night, March 19, and continuing through Saturday night, March 24. Rev. Bobby Jackson, a native of Goldsboro, North Carolina, will be the evangelist for the meetings.

The pastor, Rev. Norman Adams, extends a special invitation to everyone to attend these services which will begin each night at 7:30. There will be special music each evening, under the direction of the pastor.

Oak Grove Church Has Record Attendance

On March 4, 1956, the Sunday school of Oak Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Newton Grove, North Carolina, broke all of its previous records for a period of one year. There were 145 present for the Sunday school services. During the month of February the school averaged 120 per Sunday, and at the present there are 158 on the roll.

The pastor, Rev. Norman Adams, states, "The Lord is blessing our Sunday school, and our people are working hard to glorify Him."

N. C. Sunday School Convention March 22, 23

The North Carolina Free Will Baptist Sunday School Convention meets at Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, on March 22, 23. Final details of the program have been worked out. The program will feature a convention message by Rev. Joseph Ange on the convention theme: "I Will Guide Thee." Devotional talks will be given by Rev. Ralph Staten, Mrs. Ethel Whaley, Rev. Earl Glenn and Rev. Wilbert

Everton; also two sessions of the annual Sunday School Institute. Rev. Raymond T. Sasser is president of the convention, and Mr. Owen Thomas is recording secretary.

Rev. L. E. Ballard, field secretary, reports that prospects for a record-breaking attendance is good. At a meeting of the executive board of the convention in Smithfield, on March 6, reports from the various departments showed gains by the United Sunday School Program during the year, both as to amount of contributions and the number of cooperating schools.

Mr. Thomas reports that the annual report blanks from schools over the state are coming in right along. Schools not mailing in their reports to Mr. Thomas, whose address is Four Oaks, North Carolina, prior to the convention meeting will bring them to the meeting on March 22.

The executive board, in its recent meeting, adopted a motion of regret for the fact that the first day of the convention conflicts with the date of the Eastern Auxiliary Convention, and instructed a letter of explanation be mailed leaders of the denomination in the Eastern Conference.

A Strange, True Story

Thomas Hownham was employed in odd jobs at a Northumberland colliery. His work was very uncertain. He was poor and despised, but, said one who knew him, "In my forty years' acquaintance with the professing world, I have seldom met with his equal as a man devoted to God, or anyone who was favored with more evident answers to prayer." One evening he returned home without any money, and found there was no food whatever in the house. His children were crying for hunger, and continued crying till both of them fell asleep.

After getting them and his wife to bed Hownham went from his house to a retired spot at a little distance to spread his family wants before the Lord in prayer. In this place he continued for a long time, and found great liberty and enlargement in prayer. Under this sweet influence he returned to his poor cottage, when, by the light of the moon, he perceived through the window something upon a stool. To his astonishment he found it to be a joint of roasted meat and a large loaf of bread. He looked in and about the house to see if he could find the person who had brought them, but, seeing no one, he awoke his wife and children; then, asking a blessing, they all shared in the providential repast.

The mystery of who had provided the food was not explained till twelve years afterward. A farmer, who on account of his penurious and miserly character was called by his neighbors "Pinch-me-near," on the night previous to Thomas Hownham's trial, had ordered his housekeeper to have a joint of meat roasted, and to bake two large loaves of white bread. The next morning he went to Wooler Market, and took, as usual, a piece of bread and cheese in his pocket for his luncheon. In the evening he came home in very bad humor, and soon went to bed.

In about two hours he called up his manservant and ordered him to take one of the loaves and the joint of meat and carry them down the moor to the cottage of Thomas Hownham and leave them there. The man did so, found the door on the latch, and perceiving the family fast asleep, he put down the meat and the bread, and returned to his master's house.

The next morning the old farmer called his housekeeper and the man in, and seemed in great agitation of mind. He told them that he intended to have invited a Mr. John Mool and two or three more of the neighboring farmers who were always teasing him about his niggardly disposition, to sup with him on their return from market. As he proposed to take them by surprise near home—as they would have to pass his door—he did not give them the invitation at market, and just as they came to the spot where he intended to mention the matter, a sudden shower of rain fell, and they all rode off before he got the opportunity.

On going to bed he did not rest well, but dreamed he saw Hownham's wife and children starving with hunger. He awoke, and tried to put off the impression, but fell asleep again, and again the second and third time had the same dream. He then ordered the manservant to take the joint and loaf to the cottage, but now lamented that he had been so overcome with the nonsense as to send them food.

He then charged his servants never to mention the matter or he would dismiss them immediately, and it was not until he had been a long time dead that his female servant related the fact to a gentleman, who had previously heard from Thomas Hownham how unaccountably God had supplied him that night.—London Christian Herald.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: I hardly understand how we do absolutely nothing in meeting the requirements in the initial state of our salvation; that God does it all and what we are called on by the Scriptures to do in the process of our salvation is to be carried out after we are saved. A young Free Will Baptist preacher tried to influence this view upon me a few days ago. Is he right?—C. U. H.

Answer: I do not think this is a correct Scriptural view even though I know people that so argue. The act of salvation is brought about through the efforts of two parties. Through the gift of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, as a sin offering, we have full, free and complete salvation provided for us. This provision is sufficient for the whole race of mankind, but effective to or efficient for those who accept it and those alone. "Therefore as by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life" (Romans 5:18).

Salvation is not to be compared to a package of goods needed by a customer for whom the good storekeeper has this goods gift-wrapped by the store employee and slipped into the pocket of this customer unbeknown to the recipient. Rather than this, it is to be regarded as a covenant in which provision for all the needs of the party of the second part have been provided by the party of the first part. The time limits of this covenant include all eternity. It was provided, planned or arranged for by the party of the first part—the Triune God—before the foundation of the world. "And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world" (Revelation 13:8). See Ezekiel 16:60; 37:26. This covenant was given in two divisions or parts. The first or former part is called the old covenant. All of the Old Testament was included in it. The ten commandments include a summary of this division of the covenant. These were kept in the ark of the covenant. "There was nothing in the ark save the two tables of stone, which Moses put there at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of the land of Egypt" (1 Kings 8:9). Read the book of Malachi and pay special attention to 2:4, 5; 3:1; 6-10; 4:4-6. Read Genesis 16:7; 15:7-21; 12:1-3. "And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee; and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed" (Genesis 12:3).

The latter part or division, "the new covenant," was sealed at the crucifixion of Christ. See Jeremiah 31:31-34. "Behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah" (Jeremiah 31:31). "For finding fault with them, he saith, Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah" (Hebrews 8:8). "Then verily the first covenant had also ordinances of divine service, and a worldly sanctuary" (Hebrews 9:1). See Hebrews 9:2-14. "And to Jesus the mediator of the new covenant, and to the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel" (Hebrews 12:24). Read Hebrews, Chapters 7-9.

Men, alike in both the Old and New Testaments, must submit to the terms of the covenant before they become party to the second part of the covenant. "Even as Abraham believed God, and it was accounted to him for righteousness" (Galatians 3:6). "And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God" (James 2:23). It is true that we are saved by faith and not of works, but it is just as true to say that no one was ever saved without faith. Abraham was called to leave Mesopotamia with a promise as seen in Genesis 12:1-3, but except he had left Ur, and then later Haran, the promise would never have been effective. He believed, exercising the kind of faith that caused him to start and continued in the faith, that lead him step by step in a long life of obedience. "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God" (Romans 10:17). Hearing of the Word of God came first in this life of faith that Abraham entered, then personally believing in God or taking Him at His word. In Matthew 11:28 all the sin-laden race of men are called, but all do not heed; not even all that heard Jesus responded. They had to do something that only a minority that heard Him did—that was "come" and "believe." "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John 3:36). See John 3:16; Acts 16:31. He must open his heart's door. "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me" (Revelation 3:20). In other words, it is correct to say that no one has ever become a Christian without hearing the gospel and responding personally to its call or plea. Of course, the same gospel that is preached furnishes power to the hearer as it falls on his ears to respond. See Romans 1:16; Hebrews 4:12; 7:25. God is not willing that any should perish, therefore He has amply provided for all. See 2 Peter 3:9. The gospel is here again proven to be sufficient for all and efficient or effective for whosoever wills. Therefore it occurs to me that your young friend stopped short of giving you the whole truth. Many of the followers of John Calvin believed and taught a limited atonement and other doctrines that lead to fatalism. From the questions that come to me I infer that there is somewhat a revival of, or a tendency toward, this erroneous view now. One needs to be careful lest he leans too far either way; lest he over emphasize the sovereignty of God to the degree that he limits man's sphere of responsibility and therefore his realm of activity beyond what God's Word gives him. Again he needs to be careful that he does not assume that man be given any part that the Scriptures give God. Either of these would be erroneous and therefore dangerous.

Have You Heard This?

Once I knew a Baptist,
He had a pious look;
He had been totally immersed,
Except his pocketbook.

He'd put a quarter in the plate,
And then with might and main
He'd sing with gusty wind and voice,
"It gives us inward pain."

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"(For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ: Whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things)" (Philippians 3:18, 19).

There are those who perhaps say that Paul, in uttering this text, labored under an erroneous impression. Do not our minds almost involuntarily conclude that none can be the enemies of the Cross of Christ? Do we not find ourselves exclaiming that this is a most uncharitable indictment against human nature, fallen though it be? But, my dear friends, Paul labored under no mistake. He spoke the plain words of truth and soberness. There were, in his day, as there are now, enemies of the Cross. The indictment he makes out is as true as inspiration can render it. But, you ask, "Who are the enemies of the cross?" It is my purpose to point out some of them.

Those who deny the expiatory nature of the death of Christ are enemies of the Cross. That the Saviour became obedient unto death that He might make an atonement for sin, is one of the doctrines most known and loved by all Bible-reading and Bible-believing Christians. It is manifested throughout the sacred pages of Scripture, that the death of Christ was sacrificial; that He shed His blood as a propitiatory offering; that He endured the agonies of the Cross that He might sustain the authority of the divine law, satisfy the demands of divine justice and preserve, untarnished, the honor of the divine throne in the salvation of lost sinners. To make atonement for sin was the great object of the Messiah's incarnation and death. Those, therefore, who deny the doctrine of the atonement, are enemies of the Cross. They rob the Cross of its chief glory.

Those who reject the salvation of Jesus Christ are enemies of the Cross. This salvation was purchased by His blood shed on the Cross. Calvary was the theater on which was acted the awful tragedy which laid a firm basis for the new hopes of a dying world. The offer of salvation is made through the blood of the Cross only. Your salvation did not cost Him silver, and gold, and gems, and pearls, and the treasures of empires, but His blood—His heart's blood!

None but the enemies of the Cross can set at naught the salvation purchased by the Redeemer's blood. Nothing but enmity to the Cross could induce a refusal to be saved by the glorious Redeemer who died thereon.

Those who love sin, and whose affections are placed on the things of the world, are the enemies of the Cross. The Cross is the greatest antagonist of sin. Sin is the great work of the devil, and for this purpose the Son of God was manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil. The enemies of the Cross show their enmity in their love for sin. The enmity never ceases until the love of sin is destroyed. It is the Cross which crucifies our love of the world, and until this crucifixion takes place there is enmity to the Cross.

Those who do not exemplify the precepts of the gospel are enemies of the Cross. Those who love Jesus will do all in their power to exhibit their love in making a public profession of allegiance to Him, in attending public worship, in promoting His cause and in living uprightly before the world. When we love the Cross and glory in it, will we not obey the commands of Him who died on it? And if we do not, is not our disobedience evidence of our enmity?

"... they are enemies of the cross of Christ."

THE GOSPEL OF GRACE

The Gospel of the Grace of God (Acts 20:24)

This text was used by Paul, at Miletus, in his farewell to the elders of the church at Ephesus. He was on his way to Jerusalem. Looking back over the way, he crystallized the burden of his wonderful apostolic ministry into this phrase, "... the gospel of the grace of God."

The gospel is centered in the Son of God. There is no gospel in nature, nor in human religion. The gospel is the good news of God's grace as revealed through His Son.

I. The Gospel Is a Declaration of God's Attitude Toward Sinning Men

Christ is the Revealer of this attitude.

- A. The gospel declares God's love for the sinner.
- B. The gospel declares God's hostility toward sin.
- C. The gospel declares God's purpose to cancel the sinner's sin.

II. The Gospel Is a Revelation of the Activity of God on Behalf of Sinning Men

Christ is the Redeemer.

- A. The gospel reveals the sinner's guilt.
- B. The gospel reveals the Saviour's sacrifice.

III. The Gospel Is a Proclamation of the Fact That Men May Be Accepted by God

Christ is the Reconciler.

- A. Our acceptance is in Christ.

"And no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron" (Hebrews 5:4). "For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of:

for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel! ## SOME USEFUL ILLUSTRATIONS

The turtle is perfectly safe when he pulls his head into his shell, but as long as he remains that way it is impossible for him to travel. He must stick his neck out to move forward.

There is the legend of the two chicks who found themselves in eggs in the same nest. One of them became satisfied with the comfort and safety of his condition and never hatched. The other began to wonder what was on the outside. He began to peck away at the shell that surrounded him. He became a live chick.

A one track mind gets along fine until it comes to a switch—John N. Barker.

A man erected a monument to his wife with this inscription: "My light has gone out." Six months later he added these words: "But I have struck another match."

Sir James Simpson, the man who first discovered and used chloroform as an anesthetic, was asked what was the greatest thing he had ever discovered. He replied, "The greatest discovery of my life is that Christ Jesus loves me and saves me from sin."

charge, that I abuse not my power in the gospel" (1 Corinthians 9:16-18). "As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them" (Acts 13:2).

Here again we have a statement of the call. If God does not call the preacher, he is not worthy of the gospel ministry. "And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away" (Acts 13:3). "Wherefore I put thee in remembrance that thou stir up the gift of God, which is in thee by the putting on of my hands" (2 Timothy 1:6). Here Paul is admonishing Timothy. Preaching is a gift from God. That takes it out of the category of professions and places it directly in the line of God's calling.

The Duty of Teaching

In the Great Commission as given by the Lord Jesus He ordered teaching. Jesus said to the disciples, "... All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen" (Matthew 28:18-20).

What to Teach

Jesus said to teach them all things. What are all things? This means everything that Jesus taught in the gospel, as recorded by the writers of the New Testament. We are not to select a few of those things and reject others as commanded by the Lord. There are no non-essentials in the teachings of Christ Jesus. We may ask, "Why?" This is Christ's answer: "For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak. And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak" (John 12:49, 50). This being true, all that Jesus said and all that He taught were commandments from the Father. Therefore we should be careful to teach all that Jesus taught.

Free Will Baptists, in the first statement of the Treatise, set forth the fact that both the Old Testament and the New Testament "... were written by holy men, inspired by the Holy Spirit, and are God's revealed Word to man. They are a sufficient and infallible rule and guide to salvation and all Christian worship and service."—Treatise.

Noted Educator Praises Mount Olive College

In a letter to Rev. W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, Mr. W. D. Herring, member of the North Carolina State Board of Education, makes the following statement regarding the college:

"I am delighted to hear of the progress now being made by Mount Olive College and of the promise of growth for the future which seems assured because of the support of the people of the area. This is one of the most encouraging developments in higher education that I know of.

"Bringing the college closer to the people will mean greater support from them in the form of increased enrollment and financial assistance. I am sure that it will also mean that many boys and girls in our part of the state will have a chance to attend college who otherwise would not be able to attend. Your efforts will bear fruit of great value.

"It is a pleasure for me to recommend your institution as a cause worthy of the support of all who cherish the cause of education generally and of Christian education particularly."

New Faculty Member at Mount Olive College

Daniel W. Fagg Jr. has been appointed to the faculty of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina. W. Burkette Raper, president of the college, announced this week. He is the son of Mrs. Belle Fagg, of Mount Olive.

Fagg, a Phi Beta Kappa, received his bachelor of arts degree from Wake Forest College and his master of arts degree from the University of North Carolina. He is a graduate of Mount Olive High School.

At Mount Olive College he will teach social studies. This is his first teaching experience. Shortly after receiving his master's degree, Fagg was drafted and spent 24 months in the United States Army. In service, he was attached to the adjutant's office of a military police

Governor Extends Best Wishes to College

The Honorable Luther H. Hodges, governor of North Carolina, in a recent letter to Rev. W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, extends best wishes for further progress of the school as follows:

"I have not had a chance to see your college, but have heard about it and read recently the excellent editorial of Henry Belks in the Goldsboro News Argus of February 22.

"May I extend to you my best wishes for further progress, with the hopes that Goldsboro and community will be able to support, even to a greater extent, the things you are trying to do in building up the college and making instruction available for the hundreds of boys and girls in that area of North Carolina who might not otherwise go to college."

Mt. Olive College Fund Tops $80,000

A total of $82,012.50 has been contributed or pledged to Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, since the campaign was launched February 15, 1956, by a group of interested citizens to raise funds for the school. This represents an increase of nearly $10,000 since Monday, March 5, 1956.

The drive headquarters in Mount Olive announced plans to complete the solicitation program by March 12, and the neighboring communities by April 1. Goldsboro, one of the communities actively participating in the campaign, plans to end its solicitation program Thursday, March 15. Canvassers in all communities are asked to complete their solicitations on the deadline set for them.

Sunday, March 12, open house was held at the college for all residents taking part in the campaign.

Drive officials hope to secure $500,000 in contributions or pledges before the drive ends in all communities. The goal of the campaign is to raise one million dollars for the school in a five year period, with the Free Will Baptist denomination, which operates the college, matching the citizens' pledges.

The drive within the denomination will get underway in most areas this month. It will be several months yet before all Free Will Baptist groups within the state are reached, W. Burkette Raper, president of the college, said sometime ago.—Adapted from The Mount Olive Tribune.

HOW AILSIE SAVED THE BIBLE

Mary S. Hitchcock

IT was in the year 1555, when Queen Mary sat upon the English throne with her Spanish husband at her side, and filled the land with trouble because of her terrible persecution of the Protestants.

In the west of England was a little village called Harrant. At one end of the hamlet, standing apart from the few dwellings scattered along either side of its single street, was the blacksmith's shop, with his small house just back of it, and a tiny garden in the rear.

The smith's wife was dead, but his bonny, blue-eyed little daughter kept his house. When lonely, she pushed aside a small panel in the end of the shop, and crept in and stayed with him, unless the sound of voices or hoof beats on the road drove her away, for she was a shy child.

One day, when she had stolen in, her father was standing behind the door.

He had a sliver in his big hand, with which he touched the side of the great black beam in the corner. Suddenly a block of wood fell forward, disclosing a small opening. Into this he thrust a dark, leather bound book, and quickly, but carefully, fitted the chip into its place, so that no sign of the hidden space remained.

Seeing his daughter, he started and said sternly: "Ailsie, child! How dare you spy upon your father?"

"Oh, father! I am not spying!" and the blue eyes filled with tears.

"Of course, you were not. I was wrong to say so, child!" said the smith, remorsefully. "But you saw what I did?"

"You put the Holy Bible into the beam, Father. It is a fine hiding place, too, for surely neither priest nor soldier can find it there."

"I would you knew not its place of concealment, for the knowledge may bring you into danger, lass. You must never betray it. When Parson Stowe went away to foreign lands, he gave me the sacred Word, and told me to keep it as my life. For, by the queen's orders, all the Bibles have been gathered up and burned, and we are forbidden to read from its holy pages. This is the only one between here and the sea; and it is more precious than the crown of jewels. You are fifteen, Ailsie, and old enough to understand, so I have told you all."

"You need not fear, Father," said Ailsie, firmly, "I will not tell." But the rosy cheeks grew pale as she remembered all that her promise might mean.

Now, there was a certain priest that came sometimes to Harrant to preach to the villagers. But, being all Protestants, they would neither listen to him nor pay him tithes. He was very angry at their behavior, and spied about until he became sure there was a Bible among them; and he knew that it was in the blacksmith's possession, because he was the only man in the village who could read.

After trying in vain to find the Holy Book, he went to the nearest town and lodged information against the village with the officers there; and one day, when the smith chanced to be away from home, an officer and six men marched into Harrant.

They called upon the cottagers to surrender their Bible; but one and all declared they had none. Then the soldiers searched every dwelling, and threatened to burn them, every one, unless the Book was found.

But that did not suit the priest at all. He would get fewer tithes than ever if the village was destroyed. So he told the soldiers to let the rest of the villagers alone, for the Bible was in the blacksmith's possession. It was getting late, and the soldiers were in a great hurry to be gone. So they resolved to burn the two little buildings, and thus destroy the Book quickly and surely.

At the first sight of the strange men, Ailsie had fled through the garden, out upon the moor, and hidden among the furze bushes. She was terrified for she feared that they might find her and demand the hidden place of the precious Bible.

It was growing dark when she saw a bright light against the sky, and sprang to her feet. Her father's house was on fire. The sight made the shy child a heroine. Forgetting all about her danger, she only remembered that she must save the Bible at all cost.

Swift as an arrow she flew homeward.

The soldiers were intent upon piling straw round the burning buildings, and did not see the little figure that darted in between the house and the shop, whose thatched roofs were all ablaze. Breathless and determined, she pushed aside the panel and stumbled through the blinding smoke.

The hungry flames scorched her dress and her hair, and burned and blistered her hands and face before she secured what she sought. But at last she reached the Bible and fled out into the open air.

No one had noticed her in the darkness, and she crept safely into the little garden and sank down, choked and suffering, among the vines.

She slipped off her woolen petticoat and wrapped it around the volume; then, digging with her little burned hands in the soft soil, she buried it under an immense cabbage. Then she crawled upon her hands and knees to the spring at the foot of the garden, where her father found her an hour later half unconscious with pain and fright. He never ceased, while he lived, to praise his little daughter for her brave deed of that day.

The Bible always remained in the family, and, years and years after, Ailsie's great-granddaughter carried it with her when she followed her Puritan husband across the seas to the lonely coast of New England.—Morning Star.

Knowing for Sure

"I think," said John, "that saying prayers is like talking to you through the telephone, Mother."

"How so, dear?" she asked.

"Because, even though I cannot see you I know you are there, as I know you hear me, and I know you'll do what I ask, if you think it is good for me."

"Yes, it is all that, dear," said Mother, "and much better. I may be far away from you, but God is always near you and can hear your softest whisper."—Little Learner Paper.

Western District Auxiliary Convention Of North Carolina

It is convention time again. The Auxiliary Convention of the Western Conference will meet April 4, 1956, at Marsh Swamp Church near Sims, North Carolina. It is also time for you to send your 30c per capita dues. Please do not forget them. We will need to make our contributions to the convention just as liberal as possible because there has been extra expense incurred in connection with getting the records of past conventions in a more permanent form, as well as other expenses.

Send your money to Mrs. Bruce Barrow, Lucama, North Carolina, and your report to me to the address given below. Send both in time for your report to be included in the report to the convention. If you did not receive a report blank, contact me and I will be glad to send you one.

In the absence of the program chairman, the executive committee carefully and prayerfully tried to arrange a fine program for the day. We feel sure you will be well entertained, from the physical standpoint, by the host church. Will you lend your efforts and prayers to making this day a wonderful success in service for the Master? Be on time and plan to remain until the program is finished.

Marsh Swamp Church is near Rock Ridge High School, between highways 42 and 264, 4 miles south of Sims, North Carolina, on a paved county road. Rev. M. L. Johnson is pastor of this beautiful church which has ample facilities for the convention.

Let's make it a day of spiritual feasting and enlightenment coupled with physical fellowship.

Dear Mr. Riggs:

Our Junior Church is interested in our missionaries and in their work for our Lord.

Last summer we sent $20.00 to the National Association for Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Willey. We are enclosing the balance which we have in the treasury for foreign missions. A money order for $14.65 is enclosed.

GO YE

"All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. Amen" (Matthew 28:18-20).

Go ye, are they not simple, yet astounding words, as imperative for you as the command for Abraham, for Joshua to take Canaan and for David to unite a kingdom? Are they not as personal as the inspiration for Phillip to go to the Ethiopian church? As intimate and directive as the words for Ananias to go to Paul? Yes, these words, go ye, are as direct a call from God to you as they were to Samuel when he answered, "...

Speak, LORD; for thy servant heareth ... " (1 Samuel 3:9).

Have you recognized the value of your life becoming a part of the pattern and plan and purpose of Christ? This is not referring to foreign missions and not to home missions, but my mission and your mission according to the plan of God. God had a place for His servant Isaiah, and when He called him, Isaiah answered, "Here am I, send me." God also has a plan and a direct will for your life. The call, go ye, is your own personal command from the Captain of your salvation, your Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Christ's commission to those about Him during His earthly ministry is the same for us. The task for us today is no more difficult to understand than it was for them. It is just as compelling for us as it was for them. His words are just as meaningful and certain for us as they were for them. The command was simply to go ye with the good news: the gospel of saving grace.

God's plan and man's part in it is still in effect. The multitudes remain and Christ still looks upon them with compassion. Who then is to visit or carry out this commission? Everyone who has accepted Christ as their Saviour. Where must they go? Where are the Galileans and Samaritans of today? It could be Tennessee, Washington, Durham or Edgemont. How exact is the direction? It is for every Christian to go along the streets of his city in personal touch with the lost, the weak and the needy, and lead them into a personal knowledge of Jesus Christ as their Saviour and Lord.

No amount of excuses or alibis can excuse you from the commission go ye. No amount of denial on your part will change God's simple, yet direct command. God's plan as set forth in the Word of God is to go ye. Either you are going or you are not obeying the greatest command of the loving, risen Saviour.

Your church is giving you an opportunity through prospect cards and through a regular scheduled visitation program, coupled with a study of God's Word and a method of soul-winning. If you are not availing yourself of these channels of service and obeying God's particular command to you, you are not in His directive will. Let us look to Christ for a personal placement in His last command that by His truth we may be constrained into a humility of service in which we may be acceptable in Him. —The Challenger, Edgemont Church, Durham, N. C.

Missionaries Given Farewell

Rev. and Mrs. Fred Hersey were given a farewell service at the Raleigh, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church, Monday, February 20, 1956. They are leaving soon as missionaries to Japan. Mr. Hersey is pastor of the Clinton, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church, and is brother of Rev. Herman Hersey, pastor of the Raleigh Church. Pray for the Hersseys as they carry the gospel in our stead to those who have never heard. They need our prayers and support.

Fellowship Church Organized

The Fellowship Mission, Durham, North Carolina, was organized into the Fellowship Free Will Baptist Church at a meeting called for that purpose, Friday night, March 9, 1956. Rev. J. A. Evans, moderator of the Western Conference of North Carolina, was in charge of the very impressive service.

The pastor, Rev. Lonnie Graves, gave the opening devotional and Rev. Wayne Smith presented the Bible as the only rule of faith and practice. The church covenant was read and explained by Rev. H. E. Willis, state missionary.

The right hand of fellowship was given to 48 charter members. Mr. Ralph Barnes, treasurer of the Western Conference, gave a few words of encouragement to the church as did other members of the executive committee and board of missions. A church sign was presented to the new church.

This group has purchased a fine block building, formerly used as a church, from another group for $5,000. It is located about five miles from downtown Durham. The other churches in Durham are encouraging this work by their support.

The pastor of the church states there are seven tithers in the membership, and the weekly income is now about $75.00. All those present at the meeting were impressed by the good work that has been done and feel that this church will go far in the work of the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Meaning of Christ's Suffering

(Lesson for March 25)

Lesson: Luke 23:4-18, 39-43.

Golden Text: Isaiah 53:5.

I. INTRODUCTION

The incidents of this lesson occurred on the day following those of last Sunday. After Jesus had instituted The Lord's Supper and washed the disciples' feet on the night of the Passover, He retired with eleven of the disciples to the Garden of Gethsemane for the memorable prayer in which great drops of sweat appeared on His forehead as though they were drops of blood. Judas was not with the other disciples because he had already slipped away that he might get the officers from the Sanhedrin and lead them to Jesus in the garden.

Judas did lead the officers to Jesus in the garden, and betrayed his Lord with a kiss. The officers took Jesus to the high priest and the angry mob of Jews who were making false accusations against Him. All night long they kept Jesus before the chief priest with their false charges. And, when light was come, these Jews carried Jesus before Pilate, the Roman governor, and clamored for Pilate to pronounce the death penalty upon Him.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. The less fault the friends of Christ find in Him, the more fierce His enemies are set against Him (Vv. 4, 5).

2. When public sentiment opposes our convictions, most of us would rather dispense with our duty (Vv. 6, 7).

3. Those, who will not hear Christ when they may, will likely not be able to hear Him when they would (Vv. 8, 9).

4. Many whose relations have been strained by sin are being made friends through the grace of Christ (Vv. 10-12).

5. Innocence and guilt are one and the same with those whose actions are controlled by hate (Vv. 13-18).

6. Unbelief is constantly making demands which not only are absurd but impossible (Vs. 39).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

7. It was impossible for Jesus to save Himself from the Cross and at the same time become the Saviour of sinners.

8. The Cross divides men still; it divides between the believing and the unbelieving, between the saved and the unsaved.

II. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

The Roman governor at Jerusalem, Pilate, was the only man authorized to pronounce the sentence of death. Jesus had been brought before him, accused of stirring up the people to rebel against the Romans and to accept Him as their King (Luke 23:1). Jesus did not deny His right to the Kingship, but there was no proof submitted of any seditious activity on His part. Pilate was convinced of the Prisoner's innocence, perhaps all the more because of the message of warning sent by his wife (Matthew 27:19) after he had seated himself on the judgment seat. Pilate's weakness lay in the fact that he was willing to make compromises. Though convinced of Christ's innocence, as he stated at least three times, he was yet willing to scourge Him publicly in order to satisfy the people. That was the beginning of his failure. A man who cannot render a just verdict for fear of the people is not worthy of holding a public office.—The Bible Illustrator.

2. Pilate's declaration of Christ's faultless character infuriated the leading class of Jews in Jerusalem. "And they were the more fierce, saying, He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning from Galilee to this place" (Luke 23:5). The Jews were blind to His divine perfections and blind to their own sins, jealousies and envy. To themselves, they were perfect, spotless, without sin and shrouded in holiness; but Jesus was a false teacher, a usurper, a blasphemer, who was worthy of death. This should help us to see the ease with which men can see righteousness as sin and sin as righteousness. When a man decides that any given thing is good or bad, it is most difficult to change his mind. Our line drawing between sinful acts and righteous deeds is influenced by our former instructions, our observations, the accepted and the unaccepted in our immediate home and neighborhood and by things which appear to be advantageous to us. All these guides can be of service to people, but one should be sure that truth, God's eternal truth, is his final guide in this matter. The Jews had allowed man made traditions, customs, beliefs and practices to blind them to God's truth; hence they were able to call black white and feel certain that they were right.—Advanced Quarterly (F. W. B.).

3. Why did they crucify Him? It was not for guilt. The Roman power testified through the centurion, "Truly this Man was the Son of God." Pilate testified, saying, "I find no fault in this Man." Pilate's wife testified, saying, "Have thou nothing to do with that just Man." Pilate testified for Herod when he said, "No, not yet Herod: for I sent you to Him; and, lo, nothing worthy of death is done unto Him." Judas testified, saying, "I have sinned in that I have betrayed the innocent blood." Jesus Himself took the stand in His own behalf and said, "Which of you convinceth Me of sin?" Why then was He crucified after His acquittal? With the Roman soldiers it was their duty; with Pilate it was cowardice; with the Jews it was envy moved by hate; with Herod it was indifference; with Judas it was the greed of gold inflamed by Satan. But each of these, while bearing the full responsibility of his act was but incidental to the vital reason, for "He was wounded for our transgressions." A little girl in a mission school sat on the front seat; and, when the superintendent was telling about how they hung Jesus on the Cross, the tears came to her eyes, and she had to get up and go out. In the afternoon she came back, smiling, and the superintendent asked her, "Mary, where did you go this morning?" She said, "O teacher, I could not stand it when you spoke about Jesus' being nailed on the Cross; for I felt just as if I helped to pound the nails in, and I went off a little piece from the school, and got down on my knees, and told Jesus that my sins helped to hang Him on the Cross; and I asked Him to please forgive me for helping to kill Him, that I was so sorry! but now I feel so happy."—Selected.

4. Pilate sent Jesus to Herod as the one who should have jurisdiction over this case. This was the Herod who had murdered John the Baptist, and thought, in his terror, that Jesus was that prophet risen from the dead. Herod received Jesus lightly, expecting to see Him work some miracle. But when Jesus came before Herod, Herod found a Man silent and unmoved, answering nothing to his questions.—Selected.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

Mrs. Ladonna Inbody, was in charge of the supper meeting.

On February 23, the auxiliary observed a prayer meeting night. Mrs. Cleo Sawyer and the pastor, Rev. Melvin Bingham, took charge of this meeting.

On February 28, a business meeting and social was held in the home of Mrs. Grace Hughes with a record attendance of 29, and 5 new members joining the auxiliary.

-----
Kannapolis, N. C.—The Y. P. A. of the Mable Avenue Free Will Baptist Church held its February meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bullock, Friday night, February 10, with 18 members present. The sponsor, Mrs. W. D. Berryman, led the group in the opening prayer. Mrs. Seldon Bullard took charge of the devotions. A Valentine theme was carried out throughout the meeting. Bebbly Hess and Henrietta Bullock were elected and crowned king and queen for the evening. The hostess, Mrs. Bullock, served refreshments following the meeting.

aging others to do as you are doing and thus you discourage those who would do their best for the Lord.

Not only this, but you say to your choir that you do not care to hear them sing their carefully practiced numbers, and as a member of the church you do not show one bit of love and respect for your pastor, and thus you actually say to him that his sermons and services are unappreciated and not needed. Instead of encouraging him and others who are faithful, you discourage and drag down while hypocritically pretending to be following Christ.

But worse still is the attitude that you manifest toward God by such a low level of Christian living. You dishonor Christ by patterning your life after the world and show utter unconcern and disrespect for the greatest institution on the earth, God's assembly of believing children.

If you have been living such a low level life, you should repent and then

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST

Woodrow Daugherty

On Monday, October 17, 1955, God, in His infinite mercy, saw fit to call our beloved brother and friend, Woodrow (Pete) Daugherty, to live with Him. Though he had been in poor health for sometime, his faith in God seemed to grow stronger day by day.

Pete was a faithful member of Mosley's Creek Free Will Baptist Church, Dover, North Carolina, and attended services on Sunday before he died on Monday. He was chairman of our parsonage building committee, and freely gave both his time and means that this project might be completed quickly to the glory of our Saviour. Donations on this building have been given in memory of him.

In passing, he leaves to mourn their loss, his wife, one daughter, three sons and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted from the home by his pastor, the Rev. N. D. Wiggs.

May we look to God for strength in times of sorrow and thank Him for such a life.

Committee:

Mrs. Bett Ormond

Mrs. Viola White

Mrs. Henry Jenkins

On February 28, 1956, God in His infinite mercy saw fit to call our mother, Mrs. Henry Jenkins, to her heavenly home. She had been sick for approximately eleven years and had suffered very much, yet, her faith remained strong in the Lord.

you will be able to say with David, "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the LORD" (Psalm 122:1).

—The Challenger, Edgemont Free Will Baptist Church, Durham, North Carolina.

Her funeral was conducted at the Elwood Lane Free Will Baptist Church, Kannapolis, North Carolina, where she was a faithful member. She is survived by her husband and five sons, Marvin Jenkins, Fred Jenkins, Paul Jenkins, Glenn Jenkins and Holland Jenkins.

Written by her son,
Paul Jenkins

Mrs. Lillie Allen

Our heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom, saw fit to call from this earth our sister, Mrs. Lillie Allen. She was one of the most faithful and loyal members of the Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Pitt County, North Carolina. May we express our deepest appreciation for her devotion and long years of faithful service to our church.

May we extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family and point them to the One who said, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest" (Matthew 11:28).

May we commend to all her example of life as being eminently worthy of being followed.

Christian Success

It should be the desire of every born-again believer to become a mature Christian. The following may be called "steps in Christian success" and if put into practice will make for Christian growth:

1. Confess Christ before the world (Matthew 10:32).

2. Study the Word of God regularly and hide it in your heart (1 Peter 2:2; Psalm 119:9, 11).

3. Pray without ceasing (1 Thessalonians 5:17; Luke 18:1).

4. Surrender your will absolutely to God (Acts 5:32).

5. Be a constant and generous giver (2 Corinthians 9:6-8; Malachi 3:10).

6. Go to work for Christ and keep working for Him (Matthew 25:14-30).—Rev. Charles A. Thigpen, Highland Park Church Bulletin.

Bible Conference at Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tennessee

REV. JIM MERCER

Rev. Jim Mercer, evangelist from Minneapolis, Minnesota, will be bringing messages of evangelistic emphasis during the conference. Mr. Mercer has been doing full time evangelistic work throughout the United States for the past twenty years. He specializes in city-wide campaigns.

Rev. L. R. Ennis, pastor and Bible teacher from Goldsboro, North Carolina, will be bringing Bible messages during the four-day meeting. Mr. Ennis is a former president of the Bible College and has been an outstanding worker in North Carolina Free Will Baptist work. He was guest speaker at the first Bible Conference held in 1944.

The College Speech Department, under the direction of Miss Naomi Brant, will present the religious play, "The Rock," on Wednesday evening, April 4.

A record attendance is expected again this year. More than 500 out-of-town visitors were in attendance last year.

The College Choir, under the direction of Ross Dowden, will sing each eve-

REV. DANIEL R. CRONK

Free Will Baptist Bible College will hold its annual Bible Conference April 1-5. It will feature two missionaries, an evangelist and a pastor as special speakers, according to a recent announcement by President L. C. Johnson.

The conference will begin Easter Sunday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, with a vesper program conducted by Miss Juanita Dunn and Miss Barbara Willey, senior students. "The Cross" is the theme of their program. The College Chorus will sing at this service.

The two missionary speakers are Rev. Daniel R. Cronk and Rev. Carl Taylor.

Mr. Cronk is a Free Will Baptist missionary on leave from India after his first term. He was a speaker at the conference last year.

Mr. Taylor is a missionary to Brazil where he is field representative of the New Tribes Mission. He is in the States doing promotional work for his mission and will return to Brazil later.

REV. L. R. ENNIS

ning, and other choral groups will bring special musical numbers throughout the conference.

The Board of Trustees of the Bible College will hold its annual meeting during the conference.

The Alumni Association will hold its annual business meeting on Tuesday afternoon, April 3. An association luncheon will be held on Wednesday at 1 p. m.

The annual Bible conference at Free Will Baptist Bible College has become an event toward which hundreds of people look and for which they plan every year. If you have not begun your annual visits to see the college and enjoy the spiritual fellowship, there is no better time to begin than this year. If you attend one of these sessions and enjoy the mountaintop experience, together with the fellowship with old and new friends, you will always want to go back again every year.

EDITORIAL

EDITORIAL POLICY

When we say that The Free Will Baptist is dedicated to the task of publishing spiritual truth as it is believed and interpreted by Free Will Baptists, we are covering a broad field. We recognize the fact that in most of the basic points of doctrine our people are in agreement. However, like all other church groups, we honestly disagree among ourselves upon the interpretation of some Bible passages. That is not an undesirable situation; in fact, it can be extremely healthy and conducive to an increased spiritual fervor among our ministers and layment alike.

If we all believed identically the same things and said the same things, our situation would be static and indicative that we had ceased to think. We would be saying to the world that we were satisfied to accept the thinking of someone else without question. We firmly believe that it is the solemn responsibility and privilege of every person who speaks or writes for Christ to impart spiritual truth based upon God's revelation of truth in the Bible.

The Free Will Baptist does not wish to discourage people's writing or thinking. On the other hand, the editor wants to do what he can to encourage it. Our people have neglected the field of religious writing far too long. A denomination as old as ours ought to have a rich heritage of religious literature portraying our particular traditions, customs and practices throughout the years. Instead, other generations have left such a scanty record that those who have attempted to write recent histories of the denomination have had extreme difficulty in finding authentic material.

It is the editor's desire that this generation express itself in writing. The printed page has proven itself, throughout the years, to be one of the most effective means of spreading the truth. It has also served as the means of preserving the thinking of the people of one generation for the benefit of others who have come after. Our generation should not deprive posterity of a permanent account of what we believe, what we do, and what we hope for generations yet unborn, if the Lord tarry.

The editor's responsibility regarding that which is to be published is tremendous. What should he accept for publication, and what should he reject? Realizing that what he publishes now will have its effect upon present readers and will reveal to posterity the beliefs of this people, he must strive to see that the articles published are true to the faith. At the same time, he must be careful not to exercise censorship to the point of stifling the thinking of our people. He must also decide whether he will publish only those manuscripts which he can personally endorse in detail, or whether he will give others the benefit of possibly being right and publish something which he does not altogether believe. If he permits articles with which he does not agree, to what extent should he go in this practice?

Realizing the sacredness of his position, the editor has formulated a definite policy regarding articles which he accepts for publication. He recognizes that The Free Will Baptist is a denominational publication; therefore, he must keep the periodical true to the faith. He strives to see what is published is not in violation of the Treatise of Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists. Since the treatise does not cover in detail all fine points of doctrine, there is considerable leeway for differences of opinions and beliefs within the framework of the treatise. Therefore, some articles will appear with which an individual reader may not agree; however, he may be sure that the ideas expressed are believed by some group of our people. The editor exercises no hesitancy in rejecting articles which are in violation of the treatise of which are not common to the faith of a segment of our people.

The fact that a reader does not agree with what someone else has written should create no serious problem. We are not children but adults with adult minds. We should be able to think objectively upon the great spiritual problems and issues, practicing tolerance for the opinions of others. There is always a possibility that we may learn something very valuable from what someone who disagrees with our view says. At least, we shall have a broader understanding of the problem by learning what someone else thinks, even though we may be sure he is wrong. We cannot hope to make the greater progress as a denomination until we can be big enough to discuss our differences objectively and love those who disagree with us. It is a definite sign of immaturity to magnify matters to the extent of becoming an enemy of a brother who does not see identically as you do.

What should you do with regard to a public statement with which you disagree? You should write an article, or enlist the services of someone else, stating positively and objectively what you believe, substantiating your points by the Word of God. Then you should submit the article to the editor for possible publication. Be careful not to deal in personalities, nor to deal in rebuttal of any article previously published, nor to cast insinuations upon any persons who do not believe as you do. Positive, objective truth should defend itself. It is our editorial policy to publish only positive, objective articles which fall within the framework of our treatise and the faith and practice of our people.

We shall not permit controversies to develop in our columns, but we urge you to write the truth as you interpret it from the Word of God.

PHILOSOPHY

To be a husbandman, is but a retreat from the city; to be a philosopher, from the world; or rather a retreat from the world as it is man's, into the world as it is God's.—Cowley.

The modern skeptical philosophy consists in believing everything but the truth, and exactly in proportion to the want of evidence; in making windows that shut out the light, and passages that lead to nothing.—Nisbet.

True philosophy invents nothing; it merely establishes and describes what is.—Cousin.

How Shall They Hear?

John A. Mawhinney Jr.

FEW Christians in our day have really taken hold of the job of missions as it has been assigned to us by our Lord. Despite all the organizations, and efforts, and emphasis, the command to go into all the world with the gospel receives only passive assent from the great body of Christendom. And even among evangelicals, who give lip service to this great task of the Church, only a relatively few take the matter seriously. Why is this so?

There can be no doubt as to the eternal condition of man without Christ. Mark 16:16, "... he that believeth not shall be damned." John 3:36, "... he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him." John 8:24, "... if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins."

Neither can there be any doubt that the commission to go and preach has been made clear in the Word of God. It has been stated and restated—never as an optional, permissive assignment—but as an explicit instruction. Acts 1:8, "... ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." Matthew 9:37, "... The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few." Matthew 28:19, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations ..."

It is likewise clear that the Lord expects born-again Christians to do the job. 2 Corinthians 5:18, 20, "And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation. ... Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God." 1 Corinthians 15:34, "... for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame."

And Christian who will study what God's Word has to say on these subjects must acknowledge the unalterable conclusions that:

1. Apart from Christ there is no hope;
2. God has given a clear command to go; and
3. The responsibility is ours as Christians.

Why, then, is the job not being done? One or the other of these conclusions is inescapable. Either a great majority of those who call themselves Christians are ignorant of what the Lord has to say to us in His Word; or else they are unwilling to yield themselves and their wills entirely to the will of God in this matter. Contrary to the instruction in Philippians 2:4, there is a tendency for every man to look on his own things, with the result that the gospel is being hindered.

Some seek to pass off their responsibility with the excuse that they are too old, or too poor, or too ill-equipped, or too busy. There is no suitable excuse. This job is not reserved for the select few whose glorious lot it is to go. It is the job of every child of God.

In this regard, our relationship as Christian soldiers to our Commander is not unlike that which exists in an invasion army. Upon our individual acceptance of the Lord Jesus as Saviour, we have enlisted in His glorious army. We have enlisted not for an assignment of our own choice, but for willing service wherever He directs. The army which our Lord places in the field against the enemy of men's souls is entirely a volunteer force. But once enlisted, the soldier is not his own. Neither does he await a call: he obeys a command.

In establishing a beachhead, there are two categories of troops—those assigned to the front line, and those assigned to the services of supply. There is but one Supreme Commander over the united force; there is but one warfare, and one objective. To the advance troops is given the more daring and more dangerous job of penetrating into the very strongholds of the enemy. The supply troops have a double function: holding the position, and getting the "stuff" to the front lines. Both are essential, and both are interdependent. The soldier who in the face of such an enemy, does not perform to the very utmost of his capacity is not worthy of his keep. And so it is with the Christian who does less than his utmost in this task to which he has been assigned. Hear what God says in Ezekiel 3:18, "When I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou givest him not warning, nor speakest to warn the wicked from his wicked way, to save his life; the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require thy hand."

Our witness in our own community, and through our own church, involves "holding the position." We cannot let the enemy regain ground, and we must strive to push out, and mop up his former positions. But these in our Jerusalem, and in our Judaea, and in our Samaria have had opportunity to hear the Word—those in the uttermost part of the earth have not heard. Hence, for those assigned to the rear, every available effort must be directed toward that portion of our job which involves moving the "stuff" to the front. Suitable personnel, prayer, money, encouragement, equipment—all is needed, and must be supplied. Matthew 24:14, "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

Fellow believer, ask yourself these questions solemnly and prayerfully, before Him with whom we have to do:

1. Why do we have missions?
2. What are we trying to do in missions?
3. Whose responsibility is it?
4. Why don't Christians get at it?—Why don't I get at it, as I never have before?

—American Tract Society.

Liquor Saloons

And Why I Am Everlastingly Against Them

Dave Crowley

Radio Evangelist of Washington, D. C.

OURS was a happy home. No child ever had a dearer mother and father, or finer sisters and brothers than I had. There were eight of us. Back in 1889, the year my parents were married, they moved from Arkansas to the frontier settlements in Oklahoma, and my father ran for a claim out near El Reno, and there my parents homesteaded.

My father was an industrious, hard working ambitious young man and he began at once to accumulate a modest fortune. After a few years had passed and most of the children were bore, my father came to be one of the best known and esteemed citizens of that entire section. He had continued to forge ahead until now he owned a large number of stores and buildings, and the wagon yard in the little town of Union City. My mother was in the bloom of health, and all the children were healthy and happy.

But then one day a deep, dark pall of sorrow began to settle like the darkness of midnight over our home. The old demon of rum reached in with snaky, slimy hands and laid hold on my father. There was an old filthy saloon right near our house, and in order to be sociable with the other fellows my father began to take drinks. And then one sad day a neighbor brought us the heart-rending report that my father was drunk. Our home that day was turned into a house of mourning.

But this was only the beginning of our sorrows, for in the days ahead we were to experience the awful blighting years of heartache, misery and confusion such as only the rapacious, ravaging work of liquor can bring to a home. For when once my father had embarked upon the shameful liquor road to ruin, he soon found himself in the grip of a demon monster from whose deadly clutches he seemed helpless to escape.

It was one drinking spree right after another; although every time, when he sobered up, he would be remorseful of what he had done, and of the sorrow he had brought to his family, (for I know that he did love his family) and he would invariably ask mother's forgiveness. But he was on the toboggan to ruin.

He began to gamble away his money. Sometimes he would win, but more often he would lose, and he would get in debt, and then would sell a piece of property to pay off. As the days rolled by he sold, one by one, every piece of real estate he owned, even the very home, the little white house in which I was born.

We had to move into the back end of a little grocery store, and there eke out our miserable existence; for by this time my father was drunk a large part of the time, and we were operating the little grocery store in a desperate effort to pay expenses. But at the end of many a day he would take the money out of the cash drawer and go out on a spree. Soon the shelves were empty, the small stock of merchandise had depleted, and there was no money and no credit. The entire family was in rags, and the day came finally when there was no food in the pantry. Mother, by this time, was prematurely becoming gray and was fast breaking in health.

Then one day after my father had sobered up from a spree, he consented to the persistent plea of mother that we move away from that place. My mother thought that if my father could just get away from the old crowd, change his environment, he might eventually overcome the awful drink habit; this my father resolved to do. So all that we had left of this world's goods was traded for an old wagon and a team of worn-out horses.

How can I ever forget that day we loaded furniture, bundles of ragged clothes, and all the family pulled away, forging across the North Canadian River whose waters were about three feet deep—we were going out, we knew not where, to enter into a new world. For a time we lived a sort of Gypsy life, stopping a few days at this place, and a few days at that place. Finally we came to Paul's Valley, and with the last dollar that my father had, we bought an axe and started a little wood yard. My brother and I peddled the wood in town.

Well, our hopes were high, and things did move along all right for a time. There was a cottonwood saw mill there by the Washita River, and we got the owner to let us have the slabs and the old rough boards and the culls. With those cottonwood slabs and culls we built a little house to live in. It didn't have any floor for a time, and there were holes in the walls several inches long, but it was home sweet home to us, and we had a sober father who loved his family.

But one day some old denizen of hell come along and shoved a bottle of booze under my father's nose and persuaded him to just take one drink. That drink was the beginning of his downfall again, and the days that followed were more fraught with sorrow and suffering than any we had ever known before.

There comes before me as I speak the horrible spectre of my father coming into the house tanked with liquor as a raging madman, knocking down the furniture and breaking all the dishes. It came to the place that we dared only use tin cups and pie pans to eat out of; then it came to the place that there wasn't anything to eat. My brother and I would go out and do odd jobs to make ten or fifteen cents here and there so that we could buy some molasses and corn meal.

Then came one of the greatest days in the history of the great state of Oklahoma—the day of state-wide prohibition. I was only a small boy, but can you not imagine how glad I was to hear the whistles blow, the bells ring and the guns firing. The whole state was in one grand jubilee. Old King Alcohol had been outlawed. I know it was one of the happiest events of my entire life—there was music in my soul that day. I thought it was the death knell to the wicked liquor traffic, and that there would be no more drunkenness to destroy our home, or any other.

Ah, but my friends, no sooner had the Oklahoma prohibition statute been enacted until the blind tigers and the bootleggers began to let it be known that they were not going to pay any attention to the law. A short time later I found my father in a drunken stupor in an old hollow behind a clump of bushes drunk again on whiskey. And by this time my mother's health gave way under the terrible strain. Nerves and body broken, she spent a whole year in bed, until the good angel came and took her away from her sorrows and sufferings.

We laid her body in a premature grave, at 49 years of age, there to await the morning of the resurrection. But while I stood at the grave there was one thought that kept surging in my soul: "Whiskey did this! Whiskey did this!" And then not long after this my father's health gave way to a booze inflicted body and his unfortunate life came to an untimely end.

These experiences, my friends, came to me in my early childhood, and is there any wonder that as a boy, witnessing the ravaging, wrecking, riotous effects of the demon of liquor that I said in my heart:

"If I ever grow up and have the opportunity, in the name of high heaven, and in the name and memory of a suffering mother who was denied the right to a happy home and the privilege of seeing her children grow to maturity; and in the name of a father who loved his children but who became just another victim of the old serpent of booze; in the name of suffering orphaned children the bloom of whose youth is crushed by the most conscienceless, heartless, and cruel monster that ever wiggled out of the bottomless pit; in the name of all that is just and right and honorable and decent and respectable and holy, in God's name, I'll smite this monstrous demon, King Alcohol, with all my might!"

I cannot, it is true, recover those golden days of childhood and lift the pall which blighted the joy of that home of yesterday; but perhaps I may help to save other children from the withering mildew of the liquor curse. I cannot bring back my mother and restore to her cheeks the bloom of health; but perhaps I can help to assuage the grief and lift the burden from the hearts of other mothers whose homes this demon monster would destroy. I cannot bring back from the grave a sober father and restore to him a happy family free from the curse of drink; but it is my prayer that I may help the struggling, prodigal father of some other boy and girl whose life has been victimized by this ravaging liquor curse.—Civic Bulletin, July, 1951, Albany, New York.

Dr. Saunders nodded. Then in a low, gasping breath Patsy started singing. The high pitched voice was tuneless and weak, hardly audible to those sitting in the ampuitheater, but those by the table heard; it sent their minds and hearts back to childhood, to their parents' teaching, to Sunday school and the wondrous age of innocence and the wisdom of children. They stood silently until the song was finished, they watched the child cup her chin in her hands and close her eyes, "Dear Jesus," she prayed, "be with us forever, Amen." She opened her eyes then and waited with resignation. But there was another postponement. The floating nurse had to clear the midst from the doctor's spectacles, and moisture from the eyes of all. Someone muttered something about the heat.

After Patsy was carried upstairs, one by one, members of the surgical team came up with an excuse for not leaving the hospital over the week-end. Finally, Dr. Saunders left alone.

Sunday morning, when the church bell chimed and the congregations assembled, there were those who recognized the sacred hymn, "Rock of Ages," and hummed its tune as they hurried along to church. The doctors and nurses, seated inside and unaccustomed to attending Sunday morning worship service, heard the cimes. They recognized the music as "Brighten the Corner Where You Are." They knew they were right, for hadn't a little child sung it to them only the day before? The words still lingered. They always would.

Faith of a Child

Agnes Lucas Phillips
Lucama, North Carolina

IT was a hot August day. The sun bore down like a steaming kettle. Heat eddies played dizzily back and forth over the city streets.

Inside the operating room at City Hospital, doctors and nurses, tired and weary from the week long grind of patient after patient taking turns on the operating table, were finishing the regular schedule and turning their eyes clockward. The hour was almost at hand. Dr. Saunders, chief surgeon, had invited his co-workers for a week-end of relaxation and swimming at his summer place, a few miles from the hospital. The last patient had been wheeled to the recovery room; nurses were busy straightening up.

The doctors were making ready to leave when Miss Akers, supervisor, stuck her head in the door, "I'm sorry, doctor, there's an emergency due to arrive any minute."

As Dr. Saunders jerked off his remaining rubber glove, he snapped, "Can't Holden take care of it?"

"I'm afraid not, sir. This case is critical—a small child in the last stage of cancer of the liver. She's being brought in for abdominal aspiration, so swollen she can hardly breathe." She hesitated, then added, "I've told the nurses to prepare for the case."

Dr. Saunders made no reply.

Everything was ready when the intern and orderly brought little Patsy in on the stretcher. She showed no fear. She was a tiny, fragile child, five years old, with large brown eyes, straight black hair; her legs and arms were so emaciated they resembled straws; only her abdomen was large, pitifully swollen. Miss Akers went to a cabinet and brought out a doll to calm Patsy's fears. "I don't need that," Patsy whispered, "I'm not scared."

Miss Akers put the doll back.

Patsy was lifted gently and placed on the operating table, then prepared for surgery. Doctors and nurses took their places. As Dr. Saunders reached for the trocar, little Patsy raised a hand and motioned for him to wait. She asked hesitantly, "May I do something first?"

How to Kill, Embalm and Bury a Sunday School

1. Don't come.
2. If you do come, come late.
3. If it's too wet or too dry or too cold or too hot, stay at home.
4. When you come, be sure to find fault.
5. Refuse every invitation to help.
6. Do not take any part in the service.
7. Do not encourage the officers; they don't need it.
8. Tell the officers and teachers how to run the school; they want to know.
9. Put 3 cents in the collection.
10. Believe everything you hear without investigation.
11. Wear a sour face so as to show your disapproval of everything that is going on.
12. Rush out of the house as soon as the school is closed without speaking to anyone.—Marion Lawrence.

Many Called, Few Chosen

Mrs. Jack Arnold
Gainesville, Texas

MAN, just starting out in the ministry, was heard to say that through the summer months he was going to hold revivals and organize churches. What a glorious thing to do! But a preacher who is not prepared to do a thing like that would be as foolish to start out as a soldier who would go to war without first being trained for the hard task he would have to do. He would not know how to cooperate with his fellow soldiers. They would be trained to know just what to do when the time came for them to act. This untrained fellow is out on the field too, he has his rifle, but does not know what to do with it. When the captain says, "Fire away!" he might even fire the wrong way and hurt some of his own company.

Friends, some may take this as a joke, but it is a fact. There are many who feel the call to service; but what is the first thing some of them do, without being certain what God would have them to do? They march to the church with their Bibles under their arms and announce, "I am called to preach."

Recently a lady wrote to the editor of a religious magazine and said, "I know of a man that used to preach, but quit and got himself a job." It seemed to her that he was prospering, and God was not chastising him. She asked the editor the question, "Why is it that the Lord is not chastising him?" The editor's reply was, "Perhaps he is a greater blessing to God by not trying to preach." What the editor said was that the man was not called to preach; he was doing God a favor by quitting

CHURCH NEEDS PASTOR

"Rev. J. D. Vemelson has resigned as pastor of Dawson's Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Halifax County, North Carolina, and will be leaving the church the last of August, 1956. The church year begins September 1, and our preaching Sundays are the first and third Sundays. We are interested in securing a preacher who will work with the young people of the church in their auxiliary, league, Sunday school; also the woman's auxiliary and other organizations of the church. We want a preacher who can lead the singing and spend half time with our people; also one who can live in our neighborhood.

"If you are a preacher and can meet these requirements, please contact Hubert R. Dickens, Route 1, Enfield, North Carolina."—R. P. Harris, Rocky Mount, N. C.

ENJOYS GRIFFIN'S ARTICLE

"Dear Brother Griffin:

"I enjoyed reading your article in The Free Will Baptist entitled 'What Free Will Baptists Believe.'

"Now this is what I want to know: do you have these articles in book form? If you have I would like very much to get one. Please send me the price and how I might order.

"If you do not have these in book form, why not have one published? I'm sure that all Free Will Baptists would like to have one.

"I have handed my paper to my friends, so I have failed to peruse your article."—Earl C. Adcock, 323 Caborn Avenue, Mt. Vernon Ill.

preaching and finding his place somewhere else in God's service.

The Bible tells us that there are many gifts of the Spirit. Since one is as essential as the other, why not be sure what your calling is and not jump to conclusions? The Bible says to try and prove the Lord. It pays, friends, to be sure of what the call of God consists, for we find there are many things to be done in God's service. "And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healing, helps, governments, diversities of tongues" (1 Corinthians 12:28).

We find, in this and other Scriptures, that all Christians are needed in the service of God, but they are to use the talents that the Lord has given them to be of real service to Him.

Every time a date is written the birth of Christ is acknowledged. Our entire legal and business system is founded on the established authenticity of that date. This is also true of the followers of every religion in the world. The exceptions are the totalitarian dictators who have set up their own "times," a mark of the antichrist.—Faithful Words.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Where do we go when the rapture of the Church takes place? That is, where do we stay between the time of the rapture and that time when Christ comes back here to reign on the earth for a thousand years? How much time will elapse between the rapture of the Church and the reign of Christ on the earth? Then after the thousand years are over, where do we go? Do we remain here or will heaven be some other place? Does the tribulation period come after the rapture?—Mrs. John H. Price, Prenter, West Virginia.

Answer: When the rapture takes place we shall be caught up in the air to be eternally with Christ. Those who have died and are in the graves will be resurrected and changed from mortal to immortal beings and those who are alive will be changed; all of us will be brought into the presence of Christ with glorified bodies like His glorious resurrected body. "For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord" (1 Thessalonians 4:14-17).

Paul describes or points out the difference between our present bodies and those in which we are resurrected. "So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption: It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power: It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body" (1 Corinthians 15:42-44). He also tells us what the difference between our understanding in these bodies is in contrast to the understanding we shall have in the new bodies. "For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known" (1 Corinthians 13:12). This place in the air seems to be where the activities of the judgment seat of Christ and the marriage supper of the Lamb take place. "For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad" (2 Corinthians 5:10).

W. E. Blackstone in his book, Jesus Is Coming, Pages 186-188, says, "... every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour" (1 Corinthians 3:8); "... the prize of the high calling ..." (Philippians 3:14); "... the kingdom ..." (James 2:5); "... the crown of life, ..." (James 1:12; Revelation 2:10); "... a crown of righteousness, ..." (2 Timothy 4:8); "... a crown of glory ..." (1 Peter 5:4); "... an incorruptible (crown)" (1 Corinthians 9:25); "... the things which God hath prepared ..." (1 Corinthians 2:9); "... and then shall every man have praise of God" (1 Corinthians 4:5).

The Marriage of the Lamb and the Church

"... the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready. And to her was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and white: for the fine linen is the righteousness of saints" (Revelation 19:7, 8).

"... Christ also loved the church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish" (Ephesians 5:25-27). The Tribulation

We quote further from Blackstone: "The tribulation, or time between the rapture and the revelation in which there will be a period of seven years, (1) at the commencement of which those Jews who shall have returned to their land in unbelief, (2) and have rebuilt or be rebuilding their temple, (3) enter into a seven years' covenant with the antichrist. (4) On the expiration of three and a half years he is revealed in his true character as the Man of Sin, (5) kills the two witnesses who had been prophesying during that time, (6) stops the daily sacrifice which had been resumed, (7) and has his own image set up in the Holy Place. (8) The devil and his angels are cast out into the earth, having great wrath, because their time is short. (9) Then follow, during the last three and a half years, (10) the treading under foot of the holy city, (11) and the time of the 'great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world, no, nor ever shall be,' (12) which, under the antichrist (13) and his prophet, (14) shall come upon all the world; (15) the penalty of death being suffered by as many as refuse to worship the Image of the Beast, (16) and unparalleled persecution undergone by all who have not received his mark. (17) A third part of the Jews in the land are brought through this time of trouble, (18) and are gathered by the Lord into Jerusalem, (19) to be purged of their dross. (20) The nations are assembled against the city; which is taken by them, great suffering being inflicted upon the inhabitants, half of whom are carried into captivity. (21) The remnant no more again stay upon him that smote them, but stay upon the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, in truth. (22) The kings of the earth are gathered to battle against Jehovah and against his Anointed. (23) Then shall the Lord go forth, (24) with his saints, for the destruction of his enemies and the deliverance of his people."

I think that the Church is raptured at the beginning of the last seven years of the gentile era. This seems to be indicated in Daniel. If this is true, there will be seven years between the rapture of the Church and the beginning of the reign of Christ. The late Dr. H. A. Ironside, Dr. James M. Gray and Dr. Clarence Larkin all are of this opinion. Dr. Louis T. Talbot believes that the rapture will take place in the midst of this seven year period or three and a half years before Christ comes to the Mount of Olives. There are several books on the market: Jesus Is Coming, by W. E. Blackstone; Daniel's Prophecy of the 70 Weeks, Alva J. McClain; God's Plan of the Ages, Louis T. Talbot. (All can be purchased from The Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, North Carolina.)

It seems to me that the Bible clearly teaches that, among the several things which God does in bringing judgment upon the unrighteous because of sin, He will completely destroy the present earth and also the present heaven. "But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judg-

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"(For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ: Whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things)" (Philippians 3:18, 19).

Last week we were thinking in terms of what we must do to prove ourselves as the enemies of the Cross of Christ. Space would allow us to consider only the first verse of the two-verse text. The second verse is very sobering if we apply its terse verdict. God's inspired Word on those who are the enemies of the Cross is crystal clear in telling us why they are enemies of the Cross. But it is no less clear and severe in its pronouncement of their final end.

To me, as indeed it did to the apostle, it seems both unreasonable and criminal for those whom God loves, and for whom Christ died, to be at enmity to the Cross. That the Cross displays the love of God in the most astonishing manner can be denied by no one. If ever a truth was demonstrated, the love of God to man was demonstrated when the Cross was erected. Look at the expiring Jesus of Nazareth—there is incarnate love—there is strength competent to raise the sinner from the deep sorrows of the fall to the ecstatic joys of the throne of God. The Cross is the greatest exponent of God's love to man. How unreasonable, then, is enmity to the Cross? and this enmity is as criminal as unreasonable.

While this enmity continues, it renders impossible the possibility of salvation. There is no other medium of salvation but the Cross. The atonement of Calvary furnishes the only reasons why God can save a sinner. At the Cross alone can God and the sinner meet in friendship. The Cross, like Jacob's ladder, connects heaven and earth. Then this enmity must be slain. There must be reconciliation to God through Jesus Christ. Through and by the Cross can come that slaying and reconciliation.

In most states, and I suppose, in most civilized nations, it is a crime to deliberately attempt to take one's own life.

Those who try and fail are either committed to an institution or tried in the courts and, if convicted, punished. To a far greater degree, is it not both unreasonable and criminal for anyone to destroy his soul? to exclude himself from all participation in the mercy of God? to bar the gate of heaven against his own admittance forever? For the text states, Whose end is destruction. The enemy of the Cross is his own enemy—his own worst enemy. He virtually hates his soul; he hates happiness; he hates salvation.

We sing "How Beautiful Heaven Must Be," but I wonder if we stop to think what an awful place hell must be! Its population consists of enemies of the Cross.

But, praise God, the Cross has friends. There are multitudes who will glory in the Cross of Christ in a special way during the next few days, because we are fast approaching the season we love to remember as the time when our Christ died on the Cross for our sins, and rose again that the whole world might have the assurance of life—eternal life—by accepting Him as Saviour and Lord. How deeply humble Christians should be! We were once enemies of the Cross. We were on our way to hell and would be now if God had not interposed by His grace. If we as Christians ever feel the rising of pride in our hearts, we should know we were once enemies. This thought will abase us before the Lord.

Mount Olive College Fund Nears $100,000

It is hard to describe the enthusiasm that has accompanied the recent drive for funds for Mount Olive Junior College in Wayne and surrounding counties of North Carolina. The drive began February 15, when the Mayor of Mount Olive called together a group of interested citizens to launch a financial campaign in behalf of the college. As of the time of this writing, Tuesday, March 13, the fund in pledges and cash gifts has reached the sum of $99,375.

While this campaign was begun by a group of people outside of our denomination, we have been working hard to carry the campaign to every Free Will Baptist church in North Carolina. We are asking every member to make his pledge to support the college in whatever amount he can during the next five years. Additional funds are needed to provide dormitory space for the growing student body. We cannot refuse to give our youth educational opportunities and then expect them to serve our church after others have educated them. Our friends have already practically raised $100,000 for the college and now we must get the campaign underway throughout Free Will Baptist churches. If you would like to have a representative from the college to present the school to your church, write us and we will visit your church and explain in detail our program.

The following letter from Rev. W. H. Willis, pastor of Parker's Chapel Church, illustrates how the campaign can best be worked:

"We are getting underway in contacting every member that we possibly can of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. I have a committee of four very active ladies that are working for me. Last night the chairman of the group wanted some more of the blue pledge cards. Will you send about one hundred of the blue pledge cards to Mrs. Elmer Windom, Route 5, Greenville, North Carolina.

"The way that we are doing our campaigning is that we have the entire church roll broken down into sections or squares. Each lady takes a square and is responsible for reaching every member in her territory. I think we shall have it all completed in a few weeks.

"Thanks for coming to Parker's Chapel, February 26. I enjoyed being with you. I do wish you success in the work you have been called to do. May the Lord Jesus Christ bless you and give you the strength that is needed."

ABOUT A BOOK

We take this opportunity to call your attention to a book. This is not a new book; in fact, it is an old classic. We call your attention to it because we believe it has a special message that we need for these days. The book, Preacher and Prayer; the author, E. M. Bounds.

The following quotes will help to emphasize the importance of this little book.

"The church is looking for better methods; God is looking for better men.

"The Holy Ghost does not flow through methods, but through men.

"But even divine truth has no life giving energy alone; it must be energized by the Spirit, with all God's forces at its back.

"Prayer freshens the heart of the preacher, keeps it in tune with God and in sympathy with the people, lifts his ministry out of the chilly air of a profession, fructifies routine and moves every wheel with the facility and power of divine unction.

"A sermon that has more head infused into it than heart will not come home with efficacy to the hearers."

This is not the type book that a preacher reads to get material for sermons. It is the kind of book that convicts his own heart and drives him to his knees. It will give fire to the material that he already has. You will be a better preacher after having read this book.

BOOKS

Books are masters who instruct us without rods or ferules, without words or anger, without bread or money. If you approach them, they are not asleep; if you seek them, they do not hide; if you blunder, they do not scold; if you are ignorant, they do not laugh at you.—Richard de Bury.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

DUTIES OF MINISTERS (Continued)

Ordinances Are to Be Taught

THERE are people who ignore the command of the Lord in the observance of the ordinances of the church, but Free Will Baptists believe in the observance of every ordinance that the Lord has given to us. When Jesus gave us the Great Commission we believe He meant exactly what He said; it was not an abstract statement, but was to be kept literally in the Spirit of the Lord. Since all power was given to Him, we should be careful to hear what He says. He promises, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned" (Mark 16:15, 16). First we should go. There is no use to baptize unbelievers. Very often it is done. "By their fruits ye shall know them," said the Master. The unbeliever goes into the water a dry sinner and comes out a wet sinner. No doubt millions of immersed sinners will wake up in the flames of hell-fire. Only believers are subjects for baptism. Free Will Baptists do not believe in "water salvation." We believe, as stated in Ephesians 2:8: "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God." We also believe that every true believer should be baptized in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. This is to be done as an outward sign that he, or she, is a believer in Christ as the Son of God. Ordained ministers are obligated to administer baptism to all applicants who confess Christ.

Ministers are not only to baptize believers, but they are to teach and practice all other commands of the Lord. Paul gives a clear description of the ministry in these words: "We then, as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain. . . . Giving no offence in any thing, that the ministry be not blamed: But in all things approving ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, In stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings; By pureness, by knowledge, by longsuffering, by kindness, by the Holy Ghost, by love unfeigned, By the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armour of righteousness on the right hand and on the left, By honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report: as deceivers, and yet true; As unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and, behold, we live; as chastened, and not killed; As sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things" (2 Corinthians 6:1-10).

We cannot improve on Paul's description. As a minister one is to endure all things for Christ's sake. The world will be against us; God will be for us. Christ suffered for us; we must suffer for Him. But the glory beyond is so much greater than the shame here. Let us, like the Master, rejoice therein. It is not all sunshine in the path of a minister. There are hard times for the God-called minister. So then, among our duties, we are to teach by precept and example. "For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps: Who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth: Who, when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously" (1 Peter 2:21-23). Young man, if you are looking for an easy place in life, you will not find it in the ministry. You can find blessed assurance and sweet peace, but you will find many disappointments and many heartaches. Nevertheless, the grace of God is sufficient for every step of the way.

THE ORDINANCES

Among the duties of the minister is the teaching of the ordinances of the church. To my regret, we have some ministers who are not at oneness of the teaching, but I shall base my writing solely on what our Treatise states and by adding other Scriptures, perhaps, for the establishing of the doctrine, as has been my custom all along in my writings.

Christian Baptism

Our Treatise says that Christian baptism "is the immersion of believers in water, . . ." We have referred to this in foregoing writings, but this time we want to study it in full. This is done "in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, . . ."—Treatise. May we notice that the word name is used instead of names. Thus the reference is singular and it refers to the one God, as Father, as Son and as Holy Ghost. ". . . in which are represented the burial and resurrection of Christ, the death of Christians to the world, the washing of their souls from the pollution of sin, their rising to newness of life, their engagement to serve God, and their resurrection at the last day."—Treatise. So, then, it is very important that we baptize believers. It is one of the most blessed confessions of faith in the Lord Jesus. We are saved by grace through faith. So it is faith in Christ that is confessed that makes the difference between the saved and the unsaved.

Baptism Is a Burial

"Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life" (Romans 6:3, 4). Some say that this means the spiritual baptism, but even if he does, it is not clear that water baptism means a burial? Since Christ taught us to baptize, certainly He meant a water baptism because no man can baptize with the Holy Ghost. That is the work of God. That was plainly demonstrated by the Lord Jesus at the house of Cornelius when Peter preached and the Holy Ghost fell on all the house. (See Acts 10:44-48; 11:13-17). Baptize and baptism are English forms of two Greek words, baptizo and baptismos, which have been transferred to our English Bible. These are the strongest words in the Greek language that express the idea of immersion. Their literal and primitive meanings, as given by all accepted lexicographers, is to dip, to plunge, to immerse. No instance has been found in all Greek literature of any other meanings than these. So, even to this day, Free Will Baptists believe in the baptism as commanded by the Lord Jesus and practiced by the early church. (To be continued in the April 4 issue.)

A father and a boy went for a rowboat ride. The son noticed on one oar was written "Pray" and on the other "Works." He inquired what that meant. Without answering a word the father used first one oar and then the other. The boat went around in a circle. Then the boy understood and explained, "If you want to get anywhere, you must both pray and work."—Our Boys and Girls.

BILLIE'S STILTS

Helen Drake

WHEN Dad came home from work, he found Billie lying on the couch with a wet towel over a big lump on his head.

"What happened, Son?" Dad inquired.

"I fell, and it was all that history book's fault," Billie answered.

"History book's fault?" Dad looked puzzled. "Did it fall on your head?" he asked.

"No, but I was reading in it about the army on stilts that were furnished Archduke Albert, by the governor of Namur Beljum. The story interested me so much I thought it would be fun if I had a pair of stilts."

"Oh! so that is what I saw lying out in the yard. I think it would be a good idea if you study carpentry a little, as well as the history of the use of stilts. Your guardian angel must have been watching over you."

"Do we really have a guardian angel, Dad?" Billie asked.

"Yes, Son," Dad answered soberly. "We read in Psalm 91:11: 'For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways.' I am sure that if we trust the Lord we are saved from many accidents. I'll tell you what we will do. On Saturday I will bring home strips of lumber and I will help you make a good solid pair of stilts; that is, if you are feeling better by then."

"Oh! I feel a lot better already," Billie said.

When Dad came home on Saturday he had two nice long strips of lumber about six feet long, and three inches wide, and one and a half inches thick. He also had two small blocks of wood and some stove bolts.

"First we will take the plane," Dad explained, "and smooth off all of the sharp corners, then at the top part of the pole we will trim it smaller so you will have a good holding place. Here now, you can take some sandpaper and smooth it while I plane the other one."

After Dad shaped up the other pole, he picked up one of the small blocks. They were of the same width and thickness as the long poles, but were only about six inches long. "Now," he said, "these must be shaped for the foot rests."

As they worked, Dad and Billie talked of many things. Dad asked Billie all about his school work and play and Sunday school. This subject brought to their minds the life of Jesus and the fact that He had been a carpenter.

"Do you suppose," Billie asked Dad, "that Jesus ever made a pair of stilts?"

"I am sure that I could not answer that, Son, but if He did, I imagine that Joseph showed Him how just as I am showing you. If He did make a pair, they would have been made a little different, because they did not have bolts in those days, such as these," and Dad took six long bolts out of his pocket.

"What are they for?" Billie wanted to know.

Dad said, "Now you watch and then you will know if you ever make another pair of stilts." Placing the blocks in a vice, Dad drilled three holes through each one. Then he placed the poles in the vice and drilled three corresponding holes just as high up off the ground as he thought it safe for Billie to be. He took a larger size drill and drilled in just about a fourth of an inch. Billie wondered why he did that, but soon found out. Dad put the bolts through the poles and through the foot rests. They were very long bolts. He put the nut on each bolt and made sure they were tight. Then Billie could see why Dad had drilled in with the larger drill. The head of the bolt fitted right into the inset and the nut on the other end was also imbedded in the pole. Then Dad took his hack saw and sawed off the little ends of the bolts that stuck out.

"Well, there they are, Son. They are as sturdy as I can make them and if you are as careful as you can be, we will trust the rest up to your heavenly Father. He is not only willing, but able to give you the best, and He has, for He has given His own Son, the Lord Jesus Christ, to redeem us from our sins."

"I know, Dad," Billie answered, "and I thank Him for it, and thank you, Dad, for helping me to make these stilts. I think you are the smartest Dad there is. How did you learn so much?"

"I will tell you a little secret, Son," Dad answered smiling, "I learned about stilts just the same way you did, and there is this little scar right here on my forehead to prove it."—My Pleasure.

Why She Chose Jimmy

WHICH boy will you have?" asked Mr. Ames. He was going away for a week, and he wanted to invite one of the neighbor boys to stay with Mrs. Ames, and be ready to run errands. Of course, he meant to pay the boy who was selected.

"I think I'll have Jimmy White," said Mrs. Ames.

Mr. Ames looked surprised. Jimmy was the poorest boy in the neighborhood. There were others older and better looking and more clever.

"You're wondering why," said Mrs. Ames. "I'll tell you. When Jimmy goes out in the back yard to cut wood for his mother, the cat comes and rubs against his legs, the dog jumps all over him, the little neighbor girl comes to the fence to show her dolly, and Jimmy's small brother comes running to help. Those are his recommendations. I know he has a kind heart, and I like that better than almost anything else."

"There was another boy I thought of, but I saw him kick his dog yesterday, and he torments the young children on the way to school. He slaps his little sister, and whines when his mother asks him to do an errand. He takes off his hat and speaks politely when I am calling on his mother, and, if he tried, he could be a splendid boy. But I've been looking up back-door recommendations, and he doesn't stand the test."

Mr. Ames understood then.

"If boys and girls could only know that someone is often taking their measure when they are off guard!" he said.

Then he went over to ask Jimmy's mother if she could spare him for a week.

"Two dollars, Mother, for just helping after school!" cried Jimmy. "I'd have thought it was pay enough to stay over there and take care of the pony and get a chance to look at the books and pictures in the evening. I wonder how they came to choose me?"—Unknown.

Prayer and Praise Letter

March 6, 1956

Dear Friend,

During the month of February it was my privilege to conduct a revival meeting in Bear Point Free Will Baptist Church near Sesser, Illinois. Also to be in missionary conferences with Brother Dodd in Panther Creek and Union Hill Churches near Slocumb, Alabama. Then too, we visited, for the first time, our new churches in Auburndale and Plant City, Florida. It was a real joy to visit our people in each of these three states and we praise the Lord for their interest and support to foreign missions. We were glad to learn of the revival spirit in most of these churches and we pray that each may have a greater burden for souls around the world.

FLASH! FLASH!

By the time this letter is published we believe the Herseys will have visa in hand and on their way to the west coast enroute to Japan. Please pray for them as they go, and if you haven't already sent an offering for their expenses, do so today!

FROM CENTRAL AMERICA

Brother Willey writes from Porto Cortez, Spanish Honduras, "I have seen something I cannot get out of my mind, especially of the Indians in the heart of the Yucatan. Their faces and rugged bodies haunt me. How human beings can thus live is beyond me. Please urge the students (and all others) to pray earnestly for His momentarily leading. Someone said, 'five minutes obedience is worth ten years studying.' His Word to us is still go."

Surely, we will remember to follow Brother Willey with our prayers as he continues the survey of Central and South America. We especially appeal to all observers of the Pre-Easter week of prayer to remember this special request.

EASTER SUNDAY

Easter Sunday is being designated as Foreign Mission Sunday. I firmly believe if every pastor and Sunday school teacher in our denomination would take ten minutes of their time on this day to present the cause of foreign missions, and then give every one an opportunity to make an offering to this cause, then every state would exceed their quota. If you cannot afford to give all, or a portion of the regular Easter offering to foreign missions, then please announce that a special offering will be received at the close of the service. This can be done by having someone at the exit with an offering plate to receive the offering as the people leave the building. Remember, all over our denomination people will be giving for foreign missions on Easter Sunday. Surely, you will want to join them. Christ died and rose again that all might live. Will you help to tell and send the resurrection message to all the world?

COMMISSION COMPLETED

Prophecy shows the church's commission completed. Christ spoke of the end of the age, but said, "The gospel must first be published among all nations." Again, "Ye shall be witnesses to me unto the uttermost part of the earth." This is both a command and a prophecy. In heaven saints shall sing: "Thou hast redeemed us to God by the blood out of every kindred and tongue and people and nation." Again John sees "A great multitude from all nations and kindreds and people and tongues." Yes, world evangelization shall be accomplished.

Countless ills afflict humanity, from falsehood in the church to atomic terror world-wide. One thing alone will bring them to an end. That is the return of the Lord Jesus Christ. We seek to hasten His return by fulfilling His command.

We have let millions perish without a chance to know Christ. We have hardly bothered our heads about Christ's burning command to go with the gospel to lost men. The greatest foes of missions are prejudice and indifference, and ignorance is the mother of them both. Half the people in the world have never yet heart of Christ. This vast hell bound throng is increasing faster than we are evangelizing it. A Niagara falls of lost souls plunges daily into eternity.

BILLY GRAHAM IN INDIA

Following is a paragraph taken from a recent letter from Volena Wilson in South India. The two young men she speaks of are members of our church in Kotagiri:

"I would like to share with you the blessings that came to Wilson-raj and Achish, who accompanied me to Dr. Graham's meetings in Palamcottah. I had not expected to get into any of Dr. Graham's meetings as I had been away from station for sometime and had been back only a short time when Dr. Graham came here. But I was so grateful to the Lord for opening up a way for me to go down to Palamcottah. God met Wilson-raj one morning in Dr. Pierce's meetings when he spoke on The Man God Uses. Wilson had gone to those meetings with a very hungry heart and he wanted something concrete that would help him know how to find out God's will for one's life. I wish you could have seen him afterwards—his face was radiant. And on our return trip, he was used of the Lord to give forth a very bright witness in our train compartment. He even read the Scripture to the entire compartment and to do that it takes a great deal of courage, does it not? It was so lovely. We were all so blessed. We sang choruses and hymns and witnessed and gave out tracts to all who were in our compartment, about 30 people. Now for Achish: he was met in one of Dr. Graham's meetings, the night he preached on Blind Bartimaeus. He, too, came back to Kotagiri with a radiant testimony and as was Wilson-raj used on the return trip home, so was Achish. We do praise God for all that He has done in all our hearts as we gathered in the various meetings of Dr. Graham. I wish I could tell you of all the lovely incidents we have heard of as a direct result of these meetings. Time does not allow me. I will share some of them with you when I come home. It has been so unusual to hear the testimonies of many who thought they were Christians, but in Dr. Graham's meetings realized for the first time that they were sinners."

BIBLE CONFERENCE

The list of speakers for the Bible Conference this year should cause many people to attend. They are evangelist Jim Mercer, missionary Carl Taylor, missionary Dan Cronk and Rev. L. R. Ennis. Of course there will be others who will appear on the program, but these are the principle speakers. Bring a car load from your church and come on down. The conference begins Sunday, April 1, and continues through Thursday, April 5, at the Bible College auditorium.

Thanks to each of you for your prayers and support, and when you are in Nashville you are invited to visit the foreign mission office.

Sincerely yours,
Raymond Riggs

The Meaning of the Resurrection

(Lesson for April 1)

Lesson: Luke 24:28-34, 44-53.

Golden Text: 1 Corinthians 15:57.

1. INTRODUCTION

How glad we are that the morning of the resurrection day followed the dark days of crucifixion and burial of our Lord! Today we come to the great and encouraging holy day of the church, and remember once more that our Lord could not be holden with death but is a living Lord.

Fellowship with the risen Lord is an unfailing source of faith and courage. Certainly that He is alive and with us is the very essence of our observation of Easter.

We rejoice as we declare with Paul, "But now is Christ risen from the dead, . . ." (1 Corinthians 3:20), and that He is ". . . declared to be the Son of God with power . . . by the resurrection from the dead" (Romans 1:4). We too would join the disciples who ". . . with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus: . . ." (Acts 4:33).

Our lesson opens as we join the two men who have been traveling the road from Jerusalem to Emmaus. They had become bewildered by the events of the crucifixion and the days following.—Moody Monthly.

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. We must want Jesus with us before He will abide.

2. We need our eyes opened, to see divine things. Education is not enough.

3. There were sun-crowned men in the ages past, who foresaw the coming of Christ.

4. Jesus lifted Israel's skyline. "All nations" were in His plan.

5. There was a joy and satisfaction when they determined to obey Jesus and tarry for the power.

6. There is nothing over which we cannot be given victory by Him who conquered death.

7. He is coming again, Maran-atha.

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Jesus appeared not less than five times to different persons or groups on resurrection Sunday. Arranged according to a Harmony of the Gospels by Stevens and Burton, these appearances were as follows: 1. He appeared first to Mary Magdalene (John 20:14-18; Mark 16:9). 2. Then he appeared to the rest of the women (Matthew 28:9, 10). 3. Sometime during the day He appeared to Peter (Luke 24:34; 1 Corinthians 15:5). 4. On the road to Emmaus He appeared to Cleopas and his companion (Luke 24:13-32). 5. On Easter Sunday night He appeared to an assembly of ten of the eleven living disciples, Thomas being absent (Luke 24:36-43; Mark 16:14; John 20:19-25).

After Easter Sunday there were five more recorded appearances: 1. The Sunday night following Easter Sunday Jesus appeared to the full assembly of the living eleven disciples (John 20:26-31). 2. At an unstated date later Jesus met with seven of the disciples by the Sea of Galilee (John 21:1-24). 3. At another undated time and upon an unnamed mountain in Galilee Jesus appeared to as many as 500 assembled people (Matthew 28:16-20; Mark 16:15-18; 1 Corinthians 15:6). 4. He appeared to James at some unstated time (1 Corinthians 15:7). 5. Finally, back in Jerusalem, at the close of the forty-day period, Jesus again appeared to His disciples, giving them His final commission. He then led them forth to Bethany, where He made His ascent into heaven (Mark 16:19, 20; Luke 24:44-53; Acts 1:1-12).

Besides the above, Paul mentions an appearance of Jesus to him, which is sometimes listed as Christ's eleventh appearance (1 Corinthians 15:8).—Higley's Commentary.

2. "He is not here." The absence of the Christ child, when sought by Herod's bloody murderers, but intensified the rage and hate of the wicked king. The absence of the Christ boy from the caravan brought grief and anxiety to His mother. The mysterious disappearance of the Christ man from the Nazareth mob caused wonder and consternation. But the absent body of the buried Christ meant victory over all his enemies, brought comfort and hope to His disciples and life from the dead to all who believe in Him. The cape at the southern extremity of Africa was once known as the Cape of Storms and was considered a fatal barrier to the navigation of the ocean eastward. But a bold navigator sailed past the barrier, opened a new route to the East Indies, acquired for his country the riches of the world and changed the Cape of Storms into the Cape of Good Hope. So the empty tomb is one of the proofs of how the resurrection of Christ has conquered death and made it the gateway to immortality.—Selected.

3. Jesus met the sadness and perplexity of these disciples by proceeding to instruct them in the Scriptures. He began with a gentle, yet well directed rebuke, saying, ". . . O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken" (Luke 24:25). The word here rendered "fools" is translated "foolish men" in the A. S. V. The word does not imply any contempt from the lips of Jesus, but was intended as a rebuke of their unbelief. It means that these disciples were wanting in sense, understanding, proper thought, and consideration. The disciples were "slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken." The emphasis must be placed upon the word "all." They believed many things the prophets had spoken, but did not believe all. They believed what they had spoken about Messiah's glory, but failed in believing what they had spoken about Messiah's suffering, death and resurrection. Their partial belief of prophecy lay at the root of their perplexity and sorrow. Had they believed all the prophets had spoken, they would not have been disappointed, neither perplexed and sorrow stricken. We learn here the folly of not believing all that is revealed in the Holy Scriptures. A partial belief of what the Scriptures reveal is the source of a great deal of evil and much confusion.—The Bible Illustrator.

4. The resurrection of our Lord provides us with a great High Priest who has passed through the heavens and who appears in the presence of God for us. And He is such a One as can be touched with a feeling for our infirmities; for He was tempted in all points as we are, yet apart from sin. He is always ready to hear our cry.

5. The resurrection of Christ is a pledge and pattern of our own resurrection. Christ is the firstfruits, the assurance of the coming harvest (1 Corinthians 15:20). The glorified body of our Lord is like the one which will be ours in the resurrection.

Questions and Answers

ment and perdition of ungodly men. . . . But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, Looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?" (2 Peter 3:7, 10-12). "And I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and there was found no place for them" (Revelation 20:11). "And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful" (Revelation 21:5). "For, behold, I create new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered, nor come into mind" (Isaiah 65:17). "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea" (Revelation 21:1). "Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness" (2 Peter 3:13). "Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power" (1 Corinthians 15:24). "And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all" (1 Corinthians 15:28). "And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away" (Revelation 21:2-4). "That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus" (Ephesians 2:7). "But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit; for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God" (1 Corinthians 2:9, 10). "Now he that hath wrought us for the selfsame things is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit" (2 Corinthians 5:5). "Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen" (Ephesians 3:21). "Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless" (2 Peter 3:14). If we take these Scriptures literally and consider them each in the light of its context, we have the present heavens and earth destroyed by fire and a new heaven and a new earth replacing them. The new Jerusalem comes down from the new heaven to the new earth and is the dwelling place for the saints of all ages. Other Scriptures teach that with the gift of Christ from God we are given all things. We inherit with Jesus all of heaven and earth; therefore I conclude that even though the new Jerusalem is our home prepared for us by Jesus, that we are to possess and enjoy all of the new earth and the new heavens. Having a body like unto His glorified body, we shall be able to travel from earth to the heavens, including all planets. It seems to me that the rapture shall come before the great tribulation. The rapture of the Church was the event for which the apostles and the early Church earnestly looked. They were taught that by Christ. "Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed" (1 Corinthians 15:51, 52). Read 1 Thessalonians 4:14-18 and Revelation 3:10.

"Letting God's peace rule, and letting the Word of Christ dwell in us, are voluntary acts on our part."—Sel.

Satan dreads nothing but prayer. The church that lost its Christ was full of good works. Activities are multiplied that meditation may be ousted, and organizations are increased that prayer may have no chance. Souls may be lost in good works as surely as in evil ways. The one concern of the devil is to keep saints from praying. He fears nothing from prayerless studies, prayerless work, prayerless religion. He laughs at our toil, mocks at our wisdom, but trembles when we pray.—Stephen Chadwick.

The Lord is coming soon. He may come before the breaking of another day. Should He come, would He find you ready to meet Him with confidence? Has your life been lived in a manner that His Name has been honored and glorified? Search your life and see.—R.

JESUS, THE DEAD, REVIVES AGAIN!

He dies! the Friend of sinners dies!
Lo! Salem's daughters weep around;
A solemn darkness veils the skies,
A sudden trembling shakes the ground.

Here's love and grief beyond degree:
The Lord of glory dies for man!
But lo! what sudden joys we see—
Jesus, the dead, revives again!

The rising God forsakes the tomb;
In vain the tomb forbids his rise;
Cherubic legions guard him home,
And shout him welcome to the skies.

Break off your tears, ye saints, and tell
How high your great Deliverer reigns;
Sing how he spoiled the hosts of hell,
And led the monster death in chains!

Say, "Live forever, wondrous King!
Born to redeem, and strong to save";
Then ask the monster, "Where's thy sting?"
And "Where's thy victory, boasting grave?"
—Isaac Watts.

RESURRECTION

In this issue The Free Will Baptist carries three gospel messages on the resurrection, written by three competent Bible scholars, in addition to the treatment of the subject by the regular writers. We are aware that every Lord's Day is a memorial to the resurrection of Christ, but we believe that special emphasis should be given, during this season of the year, to this most important article of our faith. God forbid that Free Will Baptists should ever—as the custom of some is—relegate the resurrection of Christ to a place of unimportance or insignificance.

The resurrection was a necessary part of the earthly mission of Jesus. He came to earth to live as our example, to die for the atonement of our sins, to rise from the dead for our justification in the sight of our heavenly Father and to ascend to the right hand of the Father as our High Priest and advocate until we should go to be with Him forever.

He had to rise from the dead to prove His claim to deity. Throughout His earthly ministry He had not hesitated to claim that He was the Son of God, the only begotten of the Father. If He were the Son of God by eternal generation, having dwelt eternally with the Father before He came to the earth, He must not now be the eternal victim of the spiritual forces which were opposing God. If He were God incarnate, as He claimed, He could not be destroyed because God is indestructible. If He did not rise from the dead to live on in eternity, the claim of the Modernists that He was a mere man who died as a martyr for a just cause would be true. Therefore, the empty tomb on the morning of the resurrection, the message of the angels, the eyewitness testimony of His followers that they had seen Him alive from the dead and the statements of the risen Christ Himself are sufficient proof that He is the Son of God.

His resurrection was necessary to establish His promise to bring life into the realm of the dead. Sin brought death to the human race, "For as in Adam all die, . . ." (1 Corinthians 15:22); "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned" (Romans 5:22). Jesus promised life to all men who would accept Him by faith. If He were the victim of eternal death, man's hope for the fulfillment of Jesus' promise would be vain; for Jesus would find Himself in the same helpless and condemned state as lost man.

On the contrary, the triumphant cry of the apostle, Paul, rings out in reassurance to all the faithful, "But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept" (1 Corinthians 15:20). On the morning of the resurrection the women who went early to the tomb saw the angel from heaven sitting on the great stone which he had rolled from the door of the cave. He sat there as God's guard to keep the tomb open in defiance of the soldiers who had been stationed by the enemies of Christ. These soldiers stood as dead men, frozen in their tracks, while the angel told the glorious news to the faithful women, "He is not here; for he is risen, as he said, Come, see the place where the Lord lay" (Matthew 28:6). Yes, life from the fountainhead of all life had penetrated the lower realm of the dead to quicken and transform the dead matter, bringing it into the higher realm of life. Therefore, by His resurrection, Jesus established His promise to give life from the dead to all who would accept Him.

How does Christ propose to accomplish this glorious task? and to what extent will He bring man into the realm of eternal life? He purposes to quicken the soul by regeneration, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life" (John 5:24). Furthermore, He will, on the day of His return, effect the literal resurrection of the bodies of the saints, "Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, And shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation" (John 5:28, 29).

The resurrection of Christ contains an element of mystery. There is no way for the natural mind to comprehend the fact of the resurrection of Christ, for it is the miraculous work of God. Paul says, "But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, for they are spiritually discerned" (1 Corinthians 2:14). It is no wonder, then, that the unbelieving Jews could not accept the resurrection story. They had crucified Jesus, had pronounced Him dead and had set a guard to watch the tomb in which His body was placed. Furthermore, after Jesus arose, He revealed Himself only to the believers. The unbelievers could not understand the meaning of the earthquake in which the very earth rejoiced on the resurrection morning; neither could they comprehend the fact of the angels' coming to announce that Jesus had arisen.

The resurrection of Christ was a time of great rejoicing to the believers. They did not try to understand how Jesus had accomplished the feat, they merely accepted it as a fact when they saw Him in His resurrection body. To them He gave every evidence that they required to identify Him as their Lord: He showed them His hands and His side; He ate in their presence; He continued His marvelous ministry of teaching; His presence still gladdened their hearts and gave them courage as of old. All doubts were swept from their minds and they went forth boldly to proclaim the fact that He was alive from the dead.

Christians of today can derive no less joy from the fact of His resurrection. In it lies our hope of life beyond the grave. Matthew Henry says, "As Christ in the grave was beloved to the saints, so the saints in the grave are beloved to Christ; for death and the grave cannot slacken that bond of love which is between them."

Because He Lives

Rev. Henry Melvin

Winterville, North Carolina

"... because I live, ye shall live also"
(John 14:19).

THIS verse is profound in the fact of what it declares, and by the Person who declares it. What a mighty declaration Jesus makes in this statement! It is one of the two basic facts that undergird the Christian religion. Without its truth the gospel of the atonement becomes an impotent gospel and leaves the Christian believer without hope. Can this great declaration of Jesus be substantiated? Let us see:

All the Facts Agree

In looking at the fact of the resurrection there are two great lines of truth: internal and circumstantial. In the facts of the internal line of proof we have four accounts of the resurrection with that sufficiency of agreement and variances of facts that would normally come from four different witnesses.

There is such definite agreement as to the facts it is obvious that the witness is giving firsthand testimony, yet with those variances that always come from the testimony of eyewitnesses, especially when they are giving testimony to give a certain "slant" of the facts that will meet the requirements of the circumstance and condition. This is the type of variance to be found in the four accounts of the resurrection as recorded in the Gospels.

Eyewitness Accounts

The testimony of the four witnesses bears all the earmarks of eyewitness. Such testimony is always different from that of the witness who has obtained his information from another source, such as having studied the recorded facts of another or the repeating of that which has been told him. Their testimony is artless, straightforward and simple.

There is the relating of the accidental details such as the issuing forth of water and blood from the side of the Lord as well as the recording of His dying cry. The expressed doubt of the disciple, Thomas, is so true to life—in all groups there is always at least one doubter of the facts—that it makes for a definite proof. If there had been collusion in an effort to prove the resurrection, would not all of the testimony been presented entirely from the positive angle? The individual doubt of a person would not have been permitted.

Reaction of Disciples

The insight into the lives of the two men, John and Peter, as revealed in their reactions upon hearing that the Lord was risen, is an interesting bit of internal testimony. John, the younger of two disciples, outruns the older, Simon Peter, in the race to reach the tomb; but note the difference when the empty tomb is reached.

John, true to his nature waits reverently at the tomb; but impetuous Simon Peter, upon arriving, rushes boldly in. And then again from the written record comes another highly interesting bit of testimony from these same two disciples as to the recognition that John and Peter give to Jesus; it is always that John is the first to recognize Jesus and cry out, "It is the Lord," but it is always the impetuous Simon to "tremble in the water" upon his recognition of the Lord!

Testimony of Message

When we look at the circumstantial evidence that surrounds the resurrection of Jesus we are again faced with a great array of facts. For instance, it is to be remembered that the apostles preached the resurrection of Jesus to the very people that had crucified Him!

They could not nor would never have dared, preach a fabrication of lies in the face of the people of that day. They were preaching this great fact to people that knew the resurrection of Jesus to be an incontrovertible fact. It is equally refreshing to the faith of Christians today when they recall that, unless the resurrection had been a fact, the apostles would not have made it the very cornerstone in their creed, and would not have gone out preaching it fearlessly.

Then there is that evidence which comes from the fact that if Jesus did not rise from the dead, would there not have been some evidence that He did not? Remember, they were preaching the resurrection to the ones that had crucified Him!

What Does It Mean?

Some may say: "We grant the fact of His resurrection, but has it any importance?" Something of its importance is seen in that it is mentioned 104 times in the New Testament and was the cardinal theme of the apostles' preaching. The theme song of the early Church might well have been "The Lord is risen indeed."

And when we consider that the resurrection is one of the two fundamentals of the Christian faith, we are certainly faced with its importance. Despite the extreme importance of the atoning work of Jesus on Calvary and the absolute necessity that He by the "Lamb of God," yet to minimize the importance of the resurrection of Jesus is to make for a powerless gospel in the life of the believer, as well as to leave him without hope of the redemption of his body and the assurance of eternal life.

To believe or preach a gospel minus the resurrection is like trying to run a train minus one of its tracts. The atonement, or death of Jesus, and the resurrection of Jesus are parallel truths. They each complement the other. The resurrection power makes the gospel a dynamic power in the life of the believer.

Righteousness Declared

The poet has written: "How firm a foundation is laid for your faith in His excellent Word." Truly the foundation of the atoning and resurrection truths form a sure foundation for every believer, for out of the resurrection comes the assurance that the Christian is born unto a living hope, unto an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, an inheritance that fadeth not away.

Further results of the resurrection in the life of the believer are seen in that God has declared He will judge the world in righteousness by Jesus Christ; and since the believer is justified by faith in the crucified and risen Saviour, he finds himself to be declared righteous in the Lord Jesus Christ; thus the judgment will not fall upon the believer, for his righteousness has been purchased as a result of his judgment having been borne by Christ.

Because He Lives

Out of the resurrection is given to the believer an ever-living High Priest who continually makes intercession for him. How can we fail in the Christian warfare or in our daily Christian living when we avail ourselves of this ever-living High Priest who constantly pleads our case before the Father's throne? What encouragement in times of stress, strain and temptation to know that our ever-

The Resurrection of Christ

I. J. Blackwelder
Ayden, North Carolina

IF we were looking for proof of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ, there is none more convincing than that which comes to us from the pen of the apostle, John, while he was in exile on the isle of Patmos in the Aegean Sea. About sixty years after the crucified body of the Lord Jesus was raised from the sealed tomb in which it was laid, the risen Christ appeared to the exiled apostle and spoke to him the reassuring words of our text, saying, "I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, . . ." (Revelation 1:18).

But proof of His resurrection is not the great need of a cold and careless multitude of professed Christians in these last days. Instead, their need, as well as the need of unbelievers everywhere, is living faith in the living Christ, who was crucified for our sins, but was raised for our justification. It is therefore to this end that this message is written and dedicated.

The importance of the resurrection is clearly evident in four inspiring facts about it. First of all, the resurrection of Christ is an integral part of the plan of redemption. Had His body not been raised to life again, His death upon the Cross would be null and void. Apparently, however, this indispensable event is forgotten by many who speak of Calvary as though redemption was completed when Jesus bowed his head, and gave up the ghost. It is true that, then and there, the price of our salvation was paid in full; but, on the other hand, the body of Him who was wounded for our transgressions must be raised from death that God might be just in justifying those who believe on Christ. Faith in a dead Christ would be no more effective, as a means of salvation from sin, than faith in the sacred Ganges is for the millions of India, or faith in the spirit of Mohammed is for the millions of hopeless Moslems. The risen and living Christ makes Christianity the only way of salvation for a world of lost sinners, and to those who believe on His name Jesus gives the assurance that "Because I live, ye shall live also."

In the second place, by His resurrection Christ became the first fruits of them that slept, and is God's guarantee of the bodily resurrection of all mankind. Were it not for the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, our faith would be vain, and all of us would be in our sins until this day. Also, those who are in their graves, even those who have fallen asleep in Christ, would molder in their graves forever. "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Corinthians 15:57), the power of death has been broken, and the grave cannot hold its mortal prey forever. Not only will those who have fallen asleep in Christ be raised from their resting places, but all the dead will one day hear the voice of the Son of God, "And shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation" (John 5:29).

Moreover, the resurrection of Christ assures the righteous dead of a part in the first resurrection, and of priestly positions in a thousand-year reign with Him. In other words, when the Lord Jesus comes back in the air to rapture His Bride, the dead in Christ will hear His trumpet voice and shall rise in triumph over death and hell to meet the Lord in the air. Also the apostle, John, from whose pen we have our text, speaks of this glorious event, saying, "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years" (Revelation 20:6). But the righteous dead alone will have part in the first resurrection, for the resurrection of the wicked is reserved for another day.

Finally, the resurrection of Christ assures the living saints of an instantaneous and glorious physical change when He comes again. The resurrected saints will not leave the living saints behind, but immediately after the righteous dead will have come forth from their graves, those who are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord will be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, and shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air. And forever they will be with Him who died for their sins and was raised to life for their justification.

As the importance of Christ's resurrection is seen in four inspiring facts about it, the mystery of Christ's risen body is noted in four respects. In the first place, the resurrection body of Christ was miraculous in its movements. With no regard for gravitation, it appeared here and there, even through closed doors, and then vanished like a shadow. As the women hastened from the empty tomb to tell the disciples that the Lord had risen, behold, the risen Christ met and greeted them as a ghost from the spirit world. But in evidence of His literal resurrection the Lord Jesus permitted the women to hold Him by the feet as they worshiped Him. In the afternoon of the day of His resurrection Jesus also suddenly and mysteriously joined two of His disciples on the road to Emmaus, and after having revealed His identity at the supper table, he vanished out of their sight. As strange and miraculous as the movements of the resurrected body of Jesus were, there was no mistake about its reality; for its marks of crucifixion were conclusive evidence.

In the second place, the risen body of Christ was familiar in its appearance. It was recognized immediately as the body that had been nailed to the Cross of Calvary. Neither the power of corruption nor the glory of the resurrection had changed the appearance of the body of Jesus which was bruised for our iniquities and then laid in Joseph's new tomb. Just as it was taken from the Cross and hurriedly laid in the tomb near by, because of the approaching Sabbath, His body was raised up on the third day unchanged in its appearance. On the night of the resurrection day Jesus suddenly stood in the midst of His disciples; when He showed them his hands and his side, they believed and were glad. But Thomas, who was absent, would not believe the report of his brethren that Jesus was alive, until he saw the nailprints in His hands and the spear wound in His side. And those same wounds will be visible in His body when our living Lord again stands upon the Mount of Olives in His glorious appearing.

Also, His resurrection body was marvelous in its composition. Its veins and arteries contained no blood, for they had been drained on Calvary only three days before. Yet, the material of His glorified body was still of tangible flesh and physical bone. To convince His disciples, who thought they were seeing a spirit, the Lord challenged them, saying, "Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have" (Luke 24:39). In the place of the blood, which had been poured out as an oblation for our sins, it seems reasonable to suppose that the bloodless veins and arteries of the glorified body of the risen Christ had been replenished with the incorruptible spirit of everlasting life. And so will it be with the resurrection bodies of His saints, for they, like His body, will be real, yet glorified, and will be preserved against decay forevermore.

In the fourth place, the adaptability of the risen body of the Lord was amazing. Despite the immortal and eternal character of His body, Jesus ate material food in the presence of His bewildered disciples. To further prove His reality to the gasping disciples, the Lord asked for meat; and when they gave Him a piece of broiled fish and of honey in the comb, "... he took it, and did eat before them" (Luke 24:43). It is certain, however, that the Lord does not have to eat to live, but this does show that His power of adaptability permits Him to eat if He desires to do so. Also, we have a record in Genesis 18:1-8 where we are told that the Lord and two angels ate with Abraham while he dwelled in his tent in the plains of Mamre, and what the Lord has done in the past He has power to do again. But the most important thing for His servants on earth, though they don't understand the mysteries of life in the resurrection body, is the assurance that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.

BENEDICTION OF LIFE

Mrs. Venie M. Carney
Durham, North Carolina

ONE Sunday night as I looked over the congregation, I thought of the dear old saints who have gone on to be with the Lord. As I was thinking, it seemed that their humble lives were portrayed before my vision in five scenes.

I could see them as they tremblingly stood to sing with the congregation. They opened their hymnals to the number given and raised their sweet, feeble voices in praise to God. They sang from the very depth of their tender hearts. They bowed their silvery-haired heads in sincere prayer as the minister prayed. Their voices were not heard, but their lips were moving, silently uttering a sincere prayer of invocation.

As God's humble servant stood behind the sacred desk and read the Holy Scripture, their faint eyes were fastened upon him. Too feeble from long years of pilgrimage to find the Scripture announced, they eagerly listened and seemed to just eat every word; thus filling their hungry souls, feasting on God's precious Holy Word.

My thoughts continued: One day or one night, they stood for the last time and sang. Just as before, they raised their sweet, feeble voices in praise to God. The hymn being sung, they closed their book to be opened by them no more. They bowed their silvery-haired heads for the last time in prayer. Their eyes fixed upon the minister as he read from the precious Word of God, they feasted for the last time on earth. The service being ended, they heard the last benediction pronounced. Slowly, but happily, their feeble steps carried them home. They never came back.

Their work on earth was finished. They had sung their last song, prayed their last prayer, heard their last message from God's servant and their last benediction. The book of their life was closed and they sped away on the swift wings of angels to sing and shout eternally in the beautiful City of God. Oh, what joy! How happy they are, in that city where the Lamb is the Light! no more sorrow, no more heartaches, no more sighing, no more death, no more grieving and no more loneliness.

My vision was ended. From the choir where I was standing, I saw in the audience another old saint who will soon be numbered with those gone on. Her form is bent with age, her sight is dim, her hair is silver and her steps are feeble; but oh, what a lovely, beautiful saint! She's listening for the Master to call, beckoning her home. Then she, too, will take her flight.

Dear sinner friends, won't you prepare now to meet thy God? Remember, death living High Priest is interceding for us!

BECAUSE HE LIVES

What a prayer for overcoming Christian living is expressed by the apostle, Paul, in Philippians 3:10, "That I may know him, and the power of his resurrection, . . ." There is the secret for the believer—constant overcoming through the dynamic resurrection power. As well as the glorious fact that not only do we live this life through His resurrection power but unto us, the believer, is given the guarantee that because Jesus lives, we, too, shall live! And so, let every believer

"Crown Him with many crowns, The Lamb upon His throne;
Hark! how the heav'nly anthem drowns all music but its own!
Awake, my soul, and sing of Him who died for thee;
And hail Him as the matchless King thro' all eternity.

"Crown Him the Lord of love! Behold His hands and side,
Rich wounds, yet visible above, in beauty glorified:
No angel in the sky can fully bear that sight,
But downward bends his wond'ring eye at mysteries so bright.

"Crown Him the Lord of life! Who triumphed o'er the grave;
Who rose victorious to the strife for those He came to save:
His glories now we sing, who died and rose on high;
Who died eternal life to bring, and lives that death may die.

"Crown Him the Lord of heaven! one with the Father known,
One with the Spirit thro' Him giv'n from yonder glorious throne!
To Thee be endless praise, for Thou for us hast died;
Be Thou, O Lord, thro' endless days adored and magnified."

is no respecter of persons. It comes to the young as well as to the old. The book of your life will be closed one day; how soon, no one knows. Now is the day of salvation. You have no promise of tomorrow. Tomorrow may never come.

One day, soon or late, you, too, will hear the benediction of life.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: What did Jesus mean by the words, "... let the dead bury their dead." (Matthew 8:22).—Gustus Thompson, Woodbine, Tennessee.

Answer: Both today and in the time of Jesus' earthly ministry the people in the Near East had a custom by which the oldest son in a family received a large part of the inheritance of his parents, but with this asset he was bequeathed the obligation of caring for all the needs of his aged parents, including a funeral in keeping with the standing of the family. In many countries the eldest son's portion was two thirds of the whole of the parents' estate, and in some cases this would not bear the expenses of the parents' funeral, much less the expenses incurred in many years of inactivity on their part, especially when illness accompanied these declining years. Regardless to what all might be involved, however, the eldest son of that section of the world accepted this obligation as a first duty; all other obligations were subject to this one. About 35 years ago a missionary from that part of the world told of a sweetheart of an older son who lived in the Near East and had awaited the final obligations of her fiancé to his parents until her parents were dead and she had nowhere to go and no one upon whom to depend. By special arrangement with his parents, this elder son married his betrothed, but in this arrangement he could see her only once a month and this must not conflict with his duty to his parents. The young man was fifty years of age and his wife forty-five before the man's parents' funerals were over and he began living with his wife. By this you can see how a disciple that remained true to his traditional obligations of this kind would find it impossible to obey Jesus. No disciple of Christ should allow traditional, domestic, patriotic nor any other obligations come before his obedience to the call and loyalty to the claims of Jesus.

G. Campbell Morgan in The Gospel According to Matthew, Pages 87, 88, says:

"Then another man spoke to Him, and Luke tells us that it was in answer to something that Jesus said to him. Jesus said, 'Follow Me,' and the man replied, 'Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father.' Notice that Matthew calls this man a disciple, so that when Jesus called him to 'follow,' it was not a call to discipleship, but to service, for Luke again introduces something which Matthew omits. Jesus said to him, 'Leave the dead to bury their own dead; but go thou and publish abroad the Kingdom of God.'

"What was the trouble in this man's case? There was in his heart a conflicting affection—that for his father. We have hardly caught the real value of this story; we have treated it as though this man wanted to attend a funeral, and asked time to do so. Dr. George Adam Smith tells of how he was one day trying hard to persuade a young man to go with him as a guide into a district not frequented by travellers. Healthy and robust he stood by his tent, a genuine Arab; and there sitting in the doorway of the tent, was his father, of patriarchal appearance, but well and healthy. The intended journey would have occupied some months at least, and the young man at last, with peculiar courtesy, said, 'Sir, suffer me first to bury my father,' thus using the very words of the Bible story, and revealing its true meaning. There was no immediate prospect of the death of the father; but the son said, I cannot leave my father, a most admirable thing, a beautiful thing, examined by all the canons of human conduct; a noble decision on the part of the young Arab, and right, if anybody else called other than the King. But here at once we see the claim of Jesus. He was perpetually setting up these superlative claims for Himself. He had none of the humility of the human teacher. His claim was always the claim of an absolute supremacy. He never admitted that any other tie of affection could be allowed for a moment to interfere with the soul's loyalty to Himself, and He crystallized this fact into one burning sentence when He said, 'He that loveth father or mother more than Me, is not worthy of Me.' That is the principle He applied when He said, 'Leave

What Have You Done With Christ?

Joan Averette

"What shall I do with Christ?"
The troubled Pilate cried.
With all their might they cheered,
"Let Him be crucified!"

"What evil hath He done?"
He questioned at their cry.
They cried out even more,
In anger, "Crucify!"

When nothing could prevail,
A wild tumult began;
And Pilate's guilty hands,
He washed and spoke again.

"I'm innocent the blood,
Of this, King of the Jews."
They cried, "His blood be on Us and our children, too!"

So thus they nailed our Lord,
To Calvary's cruel Cross;
They led Him to His death,
He died for all the lost.

If you had been with them,
On Calvary's blessed morn;
Would you have been a part,
Of all the spite, the scorn?

Would you have a spit on Him,
And placed upon His head,
The crown of thorns that pierced,
Until the Saviour bled?

Do you still crucify
The risen Lord today?
Is He still on the Cross,
Or in your heart to stay?

"What have you done with Me?"
Is the blest Saviour's cry,
Do you still with the crowd,
Shout out to "Crucify?"

Hating anyone is like burning down one's own house to get rid of the rats.—

the dead to bury their own dead."

We conclude, then, that Jesus meant that all earthly duties might be taken care of by others when He calls us to His services, that no obligations in the natural realm, not even the final care of our parents can suffice our negligence or delay in carrying out His orders.

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNAHOA, N. C.

"He is not here: for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay" (Matthew 28:6).

Next Sunday will be Easter, the day we Christians keep in memory of the resurrection of our blessed Lord, who, just the third day before, had died upon the Cross for our sins. Since Christ arose on the first day of the week instead of on the Sabbath, we observe Sunday as our day of rest and worship rather than Saturday. We are told that at first the Christians observed both days, but soon the joyous day when Christ rose from the dead superseded the sad day when He lay in the grave. Every Sunday is a commemoration of Christ's resurrection. Let us not forget that fact and act accordingly.

Before I go on with the subject of the resurrection, I want to call your attention to a truth that is sorely neglected. If you will read the seventh verse of this same chapter you will see what I mean. "And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you." The fifth verse tells us that the angel was talking to the women, and no sooner had he told them that Christ was alive than he told them to go—go quickly—and tell the story of the living Christ. There are those who tell us that the Bible forbids women preaching, but does it not seem strange, if that be true, that the first commission after the resurrection to tell the good news was delivered to the women who cared enough to be there. What is preaching but go tell? But, too, have we forgotten to go quickly and tell?

The angel announced, He is risen, as he said. Christ had said many times that He would be killed, and He would rise again on the third day. This was commonly known not only to those who had believed on Him, but by all who heard Him preach. Even so, as the great news was told to His own followers, "And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not" (Luke 24:11).

The preaching of the resurrection was the most frequent subject of the apostles and those of the early Church. Almost every sermon recorded in the book of the Acts of the Apostles was used to make the people of the early stages of Christianity aware of its truthfulness and importance. Paul preached and wrote much in all, or almost all, his epistles about this necessary doctrine.

Some one has said: "Satan and those deceived by him question the resurrection of Christ. Agnosticism asks: 'What difference does it make?'"

"Paul answers:

"If Christ be not risen, then there is no resurrection.

"If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain.

"If Christ be not risen, then is our faith also vain.

"If Christ be not risen, then we are yet in our sins.

"If Christ be not risen, then we shall never see our loved ones in eternity.

"If Christ be not risen, then we are of all men most miserable.

"If Christ be not risen, then He is a false witness.

"If Christ be not risen, then His disciples are false witnesses.

"If Christ be not risen, then angels are false witnesses.

"If Christ be not risen, then the Bible is a false witness.

"If Christ be not risen, then the world is without hope.

"In reply to doubt, which Satan would implant in the hearts of men, the Scriptures ring clear and true: 'But now is Christ risen from the dead.'—Selected.

MOUNT OLIVE COLLEGE SEEKS ACCREDITATION

Mount Olive Junior College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, stands on the threshold of accreditation, but more requirements must be met before the school is recognized as a standard junior institution. W. Burkette Raper, president of the college, disclosed this week, following a visit to the school by a member of the state accreditation committee.

Mr. Raper declared that Dr. James Hillman, director of professional service for the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction and the member of the accreditation committee, was impressed with the progress the school has made toward accreditation. However, it will be another year, the president pointed out, before the college can hope to become accredited.

According to information given the school by Dr. Hillman, the college must operate one year with all requirements met before it can become accredited. Nevertheless, Mr. Raper stated that Dr. Hillman was sufficiently impressed with the school's possibilities of reaching these requirements to announce that a full-scale investigation of the college's program will be called later this year.

If, Mr. Raper explained, the committee finds the college has met all its accreditation requirements, Mount Olive Junior College will be placed on accreditation probation for a period of one year, after which it will be eligible to be re-investigated for full accreditation with the North Carolina College Conference.

Accreditation will give the school many advantages, Mr. Raper said. It will mean students who have done satisfactory work there can transfer to any four year college, or senior college, belonging to the North Carolina College Conference. It will also mean veterans can qualify for government loans, rehabilitation scholarships and other scholarships and funds, which may be available to students attending recognized colleges. The college also will have an advantage of taking part in committee work with other recognized schools in the state.

Gaining accreditation is the pinnacle of the school's present goal, but the goal does not stop there. After gaining accreditation, Mr. Raper pointed out, the college will have to continue to keep pace with all phases of education and, if at any time the educational standards are not upheld, the college can be taken off the accreditation list.

The college president reiterated his plans for the school to meet accreditation requirements this fall; but to achieve this, he has declared, it will take the support of both the community and the church.

The college has met some of the requirements for accreditation and is on the verge of reaching others; these are the ones being emphasized by the president now. One of the requirements which the school must meet and which is expected to be met in September is a minimum enrollment of 50 students, the majority of whom are enrolled in liberal arts studies.

Most of the other requirements have been met, and those which have not

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

THE RESURRECTION

THE Scriptures teach the resurrection of the bodies of all men, each in its own order; they that have done good will come forth to the resurrection of life, and they that have done evil to the resurrection of damnation."—Treatise.

"... the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice. And shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation" (John 5:28, 29). If there were no other Scripture in the whole Bible to substantiate the resurrection doctrine, this verse, the words of Jesus Christ, would be sufficient to settle the question in the mind of every reasonable thinking person.

Paul, the apostle, says, in defending himself against the indictment brought by the opposers of the Christian religion, as he stood before Felix, "But this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and in the prophets: And have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust" (Acts 24:14, 15).

Paul was persecuted for preaching the resurrection, but persecution did not stop Paul from preaching the truth. Let me say, brother preacher, if you preach the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, you will make some enemies, but God will stand by you; so do not be afraid to preach the truth. Listen again to Paul: "Moreover, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and wherein ye stand; By which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain. For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the scriptures" (1 Corinthians 15:1-4).

Let us notice that Paul said, By which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you. They had believed the preaching of Paul; they had received the gospel. But now they had to keep it in memory. It had to stay with the believer, not be neglected nor forgotten. I am sorry for the professor of Christianity who says that "There is no resurrection." He is just a plain disbeliever in the truth as set forth in the Scriptures. After Paul had told of those who saw Jesus alive after His resurrection, he said, "And last of all he was seen of me also, as of one born out of due time" (1 Corinthians 15:8).

If Christ Be Not Risen

"Now if Christ be preached that he rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? But if there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen: And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God: because we have testified of God that he raised up Christ: whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not. For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised: And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished. If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable" (1 Corinthians 15:12-19). Paul is saying that if there is no resurrection, the Christian life here is in vain. It is a miserable affair if all ends with death and if there is no life beyond this. Verse 19 does not teach at all that there is a possibility of salvation for sinners after this life here on earth. Let me say again, that he is telling us our love for God and salvation in Christ is not finished at death, but that it goes on eternally.

How the Resurrection is Arranged

"But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming" (1 Corinthians 15:20-23). We want to notice that Paul says, they that are Christ's at his coming. We find some who claim to be Christians saying, "Christ is not coming back again." Yet, some of those very people partake of the bread and the cup of the Lord's Supper, of which it is said, "This do until I come." If I did not believe in the resurrection and the return of the Lord Jesus to take His bride, the Church, to Himself, I would not touch the bread nor drink from the cup.

"The first man is of the earth, earthy: the second man is the Lord from heaven. As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly. And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly. Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption" (1 Corinthians 15:47-50). This last verse teaches that there is no place for flesh and blood in the Kingdom of God. Why? Because God is a Spirit (John 4:24). And if we bear the image of the heavenly it must be spiritual.

The Change for the Living Believers

"Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality" (1 Corinthians 15:51-53). We will not be mortals in heaven. There will be no corruption admitted in heaven. "But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you" (Romans 8:11). Again we learn from the Scriptures that dead bodies cannot reach heaven, neither flesh nor blood, but only those bodies that are quickened—made alive or changed to the image of God. Beware of false spirits. "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1). Free Will Baptists believe in the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ and that those who are His will be resurrected to live eternally with Him.

(Due to the fact that this is our Easter issue we have inserted this article concerning the resurrection, but we will resume discussion of the former article in our next issue.)

MARIE LEARNS ABOUT EASTER

Edith B. Histand

ANNE came rushing in from school with pigtails flying, and her sweet little face all smeared up with dirt and tears.

"Mamma!" she cried.

"Whatever is the matter?" asked Mother, drying her hands on her apron.

"It's Marie!" Anne wailed. "She's going to have a new dress and new socks and new shoes and everything!"

"Why, Anne!" Mother said. "I think that's fine. Aren't you glad Marie is going to have nice things?"

"Yes, but— Yes, but—"

Mother found a hanky to wipe the tears away.

"She's going to have them all to wear on Easter Day. And I won't have any! And she laughed at me! And—and she said that's what Easter Day is for! And—And—"

"Poor little Anne!" Mother said. "Marie has got you all mixed up, hasn't she?"

"She's mean!" wailed Anne.

"No," Mother said, "I don't think she's really mean. She's just got Easter backwards, sometimes we have new clothes for Easter, but Easter is not especially for wearing new clothes."

Anne dried her tears and washed her dirty face.

"I tell you what," Mother suggested. "You ask Marie to come to supper tomorrow. Then we'll get Daddy to read about the Easter story for devotion."

The next day, everybody was seated around the supper table with bright faces and clean hands. Daddy put on his glasses and cleared his throat. He opened the big Bible carefully, and started to read about Easter.

Anne smiled at Mother and Marie sat very quiet to listen.

When he had finished reading, Daddy closed the Bible and began to pray in his warm, deep, rumbling voice.

"Dear Father in heaven, look down on us tonight, and bless our little family and our little friend. Thank You for this food You have given us. Thank You, too, for Jesus who died in our place. Help us to love Him as much as we should, and to keep this Easter with all our hearts. Amen."

After supper, Marie and Anne went out to play, but Marie didn't say anything about the Easter story. Anne was disappointed. But that night, when Marie went home, she told her mother:

"I had the most wonderful time, Mother. Before we ate supper Anne's daddy read a story in the Bible and said a prayer, just like church. And you know what? Easter isn't for candy and toys and dresses at all! Easter is because Jesus died in our place. The story is right in the Bible!"—Beams of Light.

God Hears You

A man was at work at a city depot handling baggage. Some of it was very heavy and difficult to manage alone. He lost his patience at last, and began to swear and curse terribly. A little girl had been watching him, and when she heard his wicked oaths she seemed shocked and frightened. She became excited presently and cried out, "Oh, please don't talk like that! Don't you know God hears you?"

The man was startled by her earnestness and looked about, as if half expecting to find himself face to face with a listening God. The child's words brought a conviction of his wickedness home to him. "Don't you know God hears you?" kept ringing in his ears as he went on with his work. But he did not swear again that day. He could not rid himself of the sense of God's nearness which the little girl's question had given him.

He went home in a sober, thoughtful mood. He seemed so unlike himself that his wife thought he must be sick. "No, I am not sick," he told her, "but I'm thinking out something."

All that night a voice kept saying over and over again, "God hears you." It was the turning point in his life. He kept on thinking until he saw his need of salvation. The words of the child had made him think of God as he had never thought of Him before.—Selected.

He Is Risen

It is said that a gentleman in one of our great cities stood looking at a picture in a store window. It was a picture of the crucifixion of Jesus. Suddenly he became aware that a street boy was standing at his side.

"That's Jesus," said the boy.

The man made no reply, and the boy continued, "Them's Roman soldiers," and after a moment, "they killed Him."

"Where did you learn that?" asked the man.

"In the little mission Sunday school around the corner," was the reply.

The man turned and walked thoughtfully down the street, but had not gone far when he heard a youthful voice crying, "Hey, Mister!" The gentleman turned to see his friend of the street hurrying toward him. "Say, mister," said the boy, "I wanted to tell you that He rose again."—Selected.

On the Resurrection Morning

Sabine Baring

On the Resurrection morning,
Soul and body meet again,
No more sorrow, no more weeping,
No more pain.

Here awhile they must be parted,
And the flesh its Sabbath keep,
Waiting in a holy stillness,
Wrapped in sleep.

For a space the tired body
Waits in peace the morning's dawn,
When there breaks the last and brightest
Easter morn.

On that happy Easter morning
All the graves their dead restore,
Father, mother, sister, brother,
Meet once more.

Soul and body, reunited,
Henceforth nothing shall divide,
Waking up in Christ's own likeness, Satisfied.

Orphanage Piano Fund

Woman's Auxiliary Members: You know the needs of the Free Will Baptist Orphanage at Middlesex, North Carolina, are always great. Now you are beginning to have your spring conventions, so we want to remind you of one of our needs—a piano. We need a new piano in the chapel so that we will be able to have a better Sunday school and mid-week prayer service. You know music adds so much to any service. So please keep this need before your auxiliaries.

To those of you who have already sent in your contributions, we are grateful. To those of you who have not, we ask that if you can possibly help, please do so. We know the Lord will bless all that you do.

In the Pocket Testament League campaign among the Kikuyu people in the village reserves of Kenya, Africa, during the month of January, the league's three evangelistic teams held 45 meetings, preached to over 42,000 people, distributed 31,000 gospels in the native languages and witnessed literally thousands give earnest profession of faith. Pocket Testament League evangelists also found in these village meetings, men who had been converted in Pocket Testament League's Mau Mau prison camp meetings. Pocket Testament League evangelist, John Duchardt, tells of one such Mau Mau who found the Lord in a meeting:

"In one of the villages I met a man who was a Mau Mau leader in 1952. He had heard the gospel, but did many things to prevent others from receiving Christ in addition to rejecting Him himself. He was often called from his position in Nairobi to judge who should be put to death by the Mau Mau terrorists.

He was in one of the killing parties when they put one of their victims to death.

"He was finally picked up and taken to MacKinnon Road Detention camp. While there he realized how wrong he was as well as how great the wrong he had done. He prayed for help, but really didn't know God nor believe in Jesus. Finally he was sent from MacKinnon Road to the Mwero work camp in his home area. He was released from

HE EVER LIVETH!

Keith L. Brooks

SUPPOSE that the silence of the tomb in which Jesus Christ, the crucified Saviour, was laid had never to this hour been broken! No angelic message; no meeting with the risen Christ; no Pentecost; no evidence that His death was more availing for sin than that of any other man! Suppose!

Suppose that men could make pilgrimages to some sacred tomb and look upon the mummified form in which so great a spirit had lived! What tears of despair we might shed to think that this purest, noblest and mightiest of all souls had come to an end more terrible than any mortal ever experienced!

Deeper than the darkness which settled over the crucifixion scene would be the spiritual darkness of men, had the claim of Jesus to be the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world, been met with utter silence from heaven.

We little comprehend the depth of meaning in the angel's words: "He is not here: for he is risen, . . ." (Matthew 28:6). Not only does it indicate the Father's acceptance of His sacrifice, and hence the basis of the believer's justification; not only does it furnish positive assurance of life beyond—but it gives to the child of God a living Intercessor at the throne of God who can guarantee his eternal security. Have we rightly estimated the importance of the resurrection of Christ?

It is possible to become lop-sided in relation to the Cross. Saving faith rests not alone on the Cross, but on the living Christ Himself, who ever liveth to finish that which He has started (Hebrews 7:25). The atoning work accomplished at Calvary, all-sufficient and eternal as it is—is not all of His saving work. His presence at the throne, in view of the sacrifice He has made, brings down upon the true believer the blessings which flow from that sacrifice.

Our salvation is not so secured by His death as to make unnecessary His resurrection life at the throne. He died in our stead to bear our sins, but He lives to be "our life." We are saved, if we have accepted Him. We are being saved from the effects of sin. We shall be saved from the very presence of sin at His coming again.

The glorious fact for the believer is that our living Lord can guarantee to finish what He has started because He ever liveth to make intercession for us (Philippians 1:6). Death can never arrest Him.

Man's work can never be guaranteed as complete. His purposes are all broken off by death. But, because Christ ever liveth there can be no question as to His power to carry out what He has undertaken.

Do you know this risen Christ as your personal Saviour? If so, let every Lord's Day, kept in commemoration of His resurrection, renew your joy in the fact that your Saviour lies not in some nameless grave, but that He stands as your representative in glory!

If you do not know Him, look to the Cross at Calvary and in faith believing, place your hand into His and ask the Saviour to come into your heart. Then you, too, can say: ". . . My Lord and my God" (John 20:28).

Power for a World Mission

(Lesson for April 8)

Lesson: Acts 1:6-8; 2:22-33.

Golden Text: Acts 1:8.

I. INTRODUCTION

The fifth book of the New Testament, that follows the four Gospel records, is called by the name, The Acts of the Apostles, but the book is mainly occupied with the words and deeds of the two principal apostles, Peter and Paul, and does little more than mention the others.

This book follows the Gospels and precedes the New Testament Epistles and the Revelation. It is therefore the link between the Gospels and the Epistles and the Revelation.

Sir Robert Anderson says, "Not only the Old Testament merely but even the Gospels themselves are seemingly separated from the Epistles by a gulf. The bridge over that gulf is the Divine purpose for which the Acts of the Apostles has been given to the Church. The earlier portion of the book is the completion and sequel to the Gospels; its concluding narrative is introductory to the great revelation of Christianity."—Selected.

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. Honest and sincere disciples of Christ do not always understand just when certain prophecies will be fulfilled (Acts 1:6-7).

2. Some facts cannot be explained to the finite mind. They must be caught, rather than taught.

3. Christ wants us to get busy with what we can understand, to be witnesses.

4. Science has no greater collection of evidence than does the Messiahship of Jesus.

5. Of necessity, God must choose some for certain purposes, but he loves all.

6. The Holy Spirit furnished some saints of the old dispensation a prophetic telescope to see the gospel age.

7. The three thousand who repented and were born again experienced the truth expressed in 1 Corinthians 12:13.

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Forty days of fruitful and delightful fellowship with the Lord were now about to come to an end. As His disciples realized this, a question came forth from them concerning the establishment of the Kingdom. Naturally they were interested in this subject, for now they knew that the One whom they had seen on the cross had proved by His resurrection that He was the King of Israel and the Messiah of His people.

2. An interest in prophecy is good. There comes a point in that interest, however, when we must remind ourselves of the words of our Lord when He said to them, "It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father has put in His own power." To go beyond that point of interest is to permit one's curiosity to take over, and as the result of this, other responsibilities are neglected and our perspective is warped. Dr. Douglass puts it this way: "God bears with our curiosity but He yearns for our consecration."—Moody Monthly.

3. During World War II, we heard a sermon by radio which illustrates the truth given above. A noted speaker quoted several Scriptures to prove that Germany would be the victor and England, France and the United States would be defeated. This man was wrong. The Scriptures he quoted will be fulfilled some day, but he was trying to hurry God's time.

4. The courageous preacher of Pentecost contrasts strangely with the shrinking disciple cowering before the challenge of a servant-maid. On this occasion his manner was as bold as his words were fervent. Peter's discourse presents the first Christian apology. Repelling the superficial interpretation of the excitement as intoxication, he explains the mystery of Pentecost and traces it directly to the crucified, risen, ascended, exalted Christ. His earthly life, atoning death, triumphant resurrection and priestly exaltation, all consummated themselves in the pentecostal outpouring. "He hath shed forth this" (Acts 2:33). Peter's lips were tipped with the fire which consumed his cowardice, as it did the self-seeking of James and John. The "power of the Holy Ghost" coming upon them, wrought first in them, and then through them.—Selected

5. We must remember that at the time of our lesson there was no such appeal as we have just made to the facts of history. But there was the definite and clear attestation to the deity of Christ which God had given to men in the "miracles and wonders and signs which God did by Him" in their very midst. The inescapable demonstration of actual experience was before them.

6. The cross was no accident. Jesus did not die as a martyr to a noble but hopeless cause. He came into the world to "give His life a ransom for many" (Matthew 20:28). He said, "I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again" (John 10:17, 18). The Cross was a part of the eternal plan of God. And so was the resurrection.

Peter in his sermon turns to the Scriptures to prove the resurrection, taking them to Psalm 16, their own familiar Psalm of David. He demonstrates that it was impossible that Christ should remain in the grave. In that absolute assurance of Scripture we have the assurance in our own hearts that His resurrection is the guarantee of our own resurrection. Christ is the first fruits of them that sleep in the grave (1 Corinthians 15:20).

Our Lord had explained to His disciples all the Scriptures concerning Himself; so Peter's sermon was entirely true.

Maury Spring Revival April 1, Through April 8

The Rev. Frank Davenport of Greenville, North Carolina, will conduct the spring revival for the Maury, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church, April 1-8, 1956, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. Cicero Smith.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Our Lord has written the promise of the resurrection, not in books alone, but in every leaf in springtime.—Luther.

The diamond that shines in the Saviour's crown, shall beam in unquenched beauty, at last, on the forehead of every human soul, risen through grace to the immorality of heaven.—Selected.

are expected to be attained by the fall. The most pressing now, according to Dr. Hillman, is buildings. Dr. Hillman stated in his visit here that he will stress more buildings as the school's greatest immediate need. Another pressing need is a larger endowment. According to the accreditation requirements, a junior college, to be accredited, must have an income of $5,000 annually from a stable source, other than tuition and gifts, such as an endowment.

There are other requirements: a library with 4,000 approved volumes, a trained librarian, adequate science laboratory equipment, five academic department heads with graduate degrees (in the enforcement of this standard consideration will be given to teachers of long standing and effective service), and pay scale for teachers must be in line with rate paid by other accredited junior colleges.

The college has a trained and experienced librarian. The college does not have all of the necessary approved volumes, but will have by next year. The library has met another requirement in that it has an endowment of $12,500 which will assure the school of $500 yearly in new publication, a gift of the Rev. J. C. Moyer of Snow Hill.

For a student to enter Mount Olive Junior College, he or she must be graduated from a secondary school or the equivalent of such a course as shown by examinations. Requirements for graduation from the college must be, in following accreditation requirements, based on the satisfactory completion of 30 college hours or sixty semester hours of work corresponding in grade to that given in the freshman and sophomore years of standard colleges and universities.

THE INTERMEDIATE SWORD DRILL

I. PURPOSE OF THE DRILL

The sword drill is a Bible drill. Its purpose is to teach intermediates to handle effectively the Word of God. It is called the sword drill because the Bible is spoken of as the Christian's sword in Ephesians 6:17.

II. METHOD OF DRILL—CALLS

1. Mass. At this command all rise and stand by groups, Bible in left hand.

2. Attention. Heels together, shoulders up, hands at side, face the leader.

3. Salute. Regular military salute in two counts. (1) Right hand brought quickly to forehead over right eye. (2) Hand brought quickly to side.

4. Draw Swords. Bring Bibles to waist line immediate in front of body with left hand underneath the Bible and right hand resting on top of the Bible, ready to turn the leaves.

5. Leader Announces the Scriptures to be found—(for example, Matthew 6:33).

6. Charge. At this command every member of the group begins to search for the Scripture.

7. Each member who finds the Scripture steps forward. The first to move is scored 10; the second, 5; and every member who finds the scripture before the leader calls "Time out," is scored 1.

8. Time out. The leader allows 15 seconds before calling out. This is the signal for all to stop searching and the score is taken. The leader then selects one contestant to give the correct answer.

III. TYPES OF DRILLS

1. Scripture searching. In this drill the leader announces a verse of Scripture to be found as described above under "Method of Drill."

2. Book drill. In this drill the name of some book in the Bible is mentioned. The boys and girls find the book. They must be ready to tell which book comes before this book and which follows it before they step forward.

3. Character drill. The name of some Bible character is given. The boys and girls find the name of the character in the Bible. It must be found in the body of a verse and not at the heading of a chapter. This drill may be varied by telling some facts about the character without calling his name.

4. Unfinished quotation drill. The leader quotes the first part of a verse of Scripture. The boys and girls must know its location and turn to it in the Bible.

5. Doctrinal drill. The leader asks the group to find a verse in the Bible setting forth some great Bible doctrine. For example, "Find a verse which proves that faith in Christ saves"; or, "find a verse proving that all have sinned." The plan of salvation may be worked into this drill.

THE NATIONWIDE INTERMEDIATE SWORD DRILL

I. ITS PURPOSE

This drill is given at each nationwide league conference in order to create a greater interest in Bible study among our young people.

II. ITS RULES

1. Age limit. The intermediate boys and girls must be 13-16 inclusive.

2. Bibles. The drillers will use Bibles, all alike, furnished by the National League Board.

3. Representation. Each state will be represented by one intermediate only. Each state will qualify its own contestant.

4. Each contestant, or his league, will pay a small amount for the use of a costume.

5. Entrance dead-line is not later than two months before the nationwide league conference.

III. AWARDS

Appropriate and useful awards will be given each year to the first and second place winners.

IV. NAME OF CONTESTANT

Send name of contestant and request for further information to secretary of National League Board.

Licking the Hand that Hurled the Stone!

A man, in a fit of anger, hurled a stone at his dog. The stone struck the dog's leg and broke it! The dog lay motionless for a moment. Then he dragged himself to the feet of his master, and licked the hand which had hurled the merciless stone at him!

For those who wounded Him, Jesus Christ prayed, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do!"—Selected.

"We believe that self-examination extends to the participant in the Lord's Supper as well as to the manner of its observance."—Selected.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR AT MOUNT OLIVE COLLEGE

Pictured above are Dr. James Hillman, director of professional service for the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction (left), and the Reverend W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College (right). Dr. Hillman is a member of the accreditation committee of secondary schools and colleges of North Carolina. He came to the college recently for a conference with President Raper to advise as to what further steps the college should take to receive accreditation from the agency of which he is a member.

President Raper states that Dr. Hillman was impressed with what the college is doing toward meeting state requirements for accreditation. The president further stated that a full-scale investigation of the college program will be held later this year and, if the college has met all the requirements by that time, it will be given probationary accreditation for one year, leading to full accreditation.

THE MASTER'S MEDITATION

During what we know as Passion Week, the week of Jesus' crucifixion, every day was crowded with activity on His part except Wednesday. Since none of the Gospels record any of His activities on this day, we have been impressed that He must have spent the time in meditation and prayer. It was possibly one of the most important days for the Master of the whole week.

Matthew tells us that Jesus spent Tuesday night with one Simon whom Jesus had evidently healed of the deadly disease of leprosy. Simon lived in Bethany, a little town just a short distance from Jerusalem. It was here that Mary, Martha and Lazarus also lived. When Jesus came to Jerusalem, His custom was to spend the nights in one of these homes of His friends. It was on Tuesday night that the woman, believed to be Mary of Bethany, anointed Jesus' head with precious ointment and received the commendation of Jesus, "Verily I say unto you, Whosoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her" (Matthew 26:13).

We must assume that Jesus engaged in no significant activity on Wednesday or that the Gospel writers were not informed as to what He actually did. Since Jesus never idled or wasted time, we must assume that on this day He was engaged in a type of activity the contents of which those around Him could not know. This could only be that of quiet prayer and meditation, a practice in which He often engaged.

This day for the Master was like the calm in the midst of the storm. The winds in the forefront of the hurricane had passed over in the days preceding this. He sat this day in the eye of the storm. The destructive fury would follow in the next day or two. He would be nailed to the Cross to pay the supreme penalty of death for sins which He had not committed, but which were imputed to Him that atonement might be made for all mankind.

Let us think of the threefold nature of the meditations in which He engaged during this day of ominous quietness. And since we cannot, with finite minds, altogether comprehend the blending of divinity and humanity in the person of the Lord Jesus, we must follow His meditation mainly from the human point of view.

His meditation was evidently retrospective. In looking back over His ministry to evaluate its effectiveness, He was no doubt stirred with deep emotions. He did not have to wonder if He had done His whole duty, for He did always that which pleased His Father; but He could truly wonder to what degree the people, even His closest followers, had understood Him and grasped His mission. He had paused on more than one occasion during His ministry to ascertain how deeply the truth was penetrating the hearts of the disciples.

He could look back upon scenes that were distressing, heartbreaking and sorrowful. He could certainly fit into the characterization of the prophet, "He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief: and we hid as it were our faces from him; he was despised and we esteemed him not" (Isaiah 53:3). He had been shut out of the hearts and homes of the people He had come to save first. They had scorned and hated Him, and even now they were conspiring with one of His disciples to take His life. On one occasion He had cried out in loneliness, "... The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head" (Matthew 8:20). He was moved by the ignorance and aimlessness of the people. "But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd" (Matthew 9:36).

All that Jesus recalled from His ministry was not distressing. He could recall the occasion when, as He spoke to the great multitudes, an individual here and there would show that life and light had broken through the darkness of their souls. Some had believed on Him and had forsaken all to follow Him. His heart had thrilled to these responses to His mission and message. He could remember how He was moved to rebuke Simon, the Pharisee, when the poor sinful woman came in from the street to anoint Him with precious ointment which she had saved for another purpose. She had bathed His blessed feet in her tears of repentance and wiped those feet with the tresses of her hair; whereas Simon had sneered in his sin and self-righteousness at the humility of the woman. He could also remember the one cleansed leper out of ten who had turned back, first of all, to glorify God and thank Jesus. All this, and much more, ran through His mind as He looked back over His earthly ministry.

His meditation was introspective. As He looked at Himself and the situation which surrounded Him, we are confident that He did not engage in self-pity as so many of us are prone to do in times of trial. He knew that, as the Son of God, He had a definite mission. He must fill the place in God's plan for the human race which no one else could fill. He asked no quarter from the enemy. He would submit Himself to the worst that ungodly and sinful men could conceive. He would challenge Satan on Satan's own ground and defeat him. He would announce His glorious victory to all the world for the joy and hope of all who would believe, "I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death" (Revelation 1:18).

His meditation was prospective. On this day of quiet meditation He certainly must have looked beyond the Cross, beyond the empty tomb and beyond His ascension to take His place at the right hand of the Father in heaven. Would people in the Church age accept His agonizing atonement for sin? Would they rejoice in the glorious fact of His resurrection? Would they commit themselves to Him in humble consecration to serve Him and give the glorious gospel to the whole world? These are questions that you and I are answering today. What is your answer?

If a Man Die

Naaman Borders, Waverly, Ohio

man, who was made in the image of his Creator? If He stoops to give to the rosebush, whose withered blossoms float up on the breeze, the sweet assurance of another springtime, will He withhold the words of hope from the sons of men where the frosts of winter come? If matter unite and inanimate, though changed by the forces of nature into a multitude of forms can never die, will the imperial spirit suffer annihilation after it has paid a brief visit, like a royal guest to the tenement of clay?

"Rather let us believe that He who in His pleasure wastes not a raindrop, a blade of grass or the evening's sighing zephyr, but makes them all to carry out His eternal plans, has given immortality to the mortal and gathered to Himself the generous spirit of our friend. Instead of mourning, let us look up and address him in the words of the poet:

"Thy day has come, not gone;
Thy sun has risen, not set;
Thy life is now beyond
The reach of death or change
Not ended, but begun,
O noble soul! O gentle heart! hail and farewell!"

IN days of old the ancients were not thoroughly convinced as to life beyond, and they asked questions as Job did when he asked, "If a man die, shall he live again? . . ." (Job 14:14). This is one of the most important questions of all times. If a man never lives again, everything in this life is vanity and vexation of the spirit. Then all our preaching is vain, and we believe in vain, and as Paul said, ". . . we are found false witnesses of God; . . . if so be that the dead rise not" (1 Corinthians 15:15).

When Job asked this question, he hastily answered it himself by saying, "Thou shalt call, and I will answer thee: thou wilt have a desire to the work of thine hands" (Job 14:15). He says again, "For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will sprout again, and that the tender branch thereof will not cease. . . . through the scent of water it will bud, and bring forth boughs like a plant" (Job 14:7, 9).

In the nineteenth chapter he became more confident than ever when he said, "Oh that my words were now written! oh that they were printed in a book! That they were graven with an iron pen and lead in the rock for ever! For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth: And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God" (Job 19:23-26). So many of the ancients were in doubt, as some seem to be in our present day.

Paul told us that Jesus Christ brought life and immortality to light in these last days. So there is not the slightest reason to be in the dark on the question of the resurrection. The disciples were so sure of the resurrection of Christ that they suffered martyrdom rather than deny it; and literally thousands upon thousands since have done the same. When we have five hundred witnesses telling the same identical thing it should remove the doubt in the most stubborn mind, when those same witnesses were willing to die rather than deny the fact, it should satisfy us all. Paul said that above five hundred saw Him go up and the greater part are still living. In other words he said, "If you don't believe me, you have witness still living." So Paul staked his life on that fact and with the other martyrs lost his head, his soul being carried by angels to the land that is fairer than day.

Let me quote what the immortal W. J. Bryan said, upon being asked to give a few remarks at the grave of one of his friends. He said: "I shall not believe that even now his light is extinguished. If the Father designs to touch with divine power the cold and pulseless heart of the acorn and make it burst forth from its prisoned walls, will He leave neglected in the earth the soul of

I can't believe that a good God would make man in His own image and bless him with the necessities of life and plant in him a desire to go home to his Father, and then let him down at the grave and forsake him. If the Easter message is not true, everything we value most will stop in a dead-end street. Then all our forefathers and those we loved best and lost will end in a blind alley. That thought just doesn't make sense.

Paul says, "Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die: And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain: But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body. . . . So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption: It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power: It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body" (1 Corinthians 15:36-44).

In Revelation John says, "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes" (Revelation 7:16, 17).

Our Opportunity

Cragmont

Dennis Wiggs
Smithfield, North Carolina

HAVE you been fortunate enough to attend a conference at our Free Will Baptist camp, Cragmont Assembly? Many of you can say yes. And when you do, doesn't the word Cragmont bring a sudden and wonderful burst of joy to your heart? But many of you know very little about Cragmont Assembly and its wonderful inspiration in the lives of boys and girls. If you are concerned over your denomination's accepting the challenge of God, please read this article.

Cragmont Assembly was designed for the purpose of rendering a definite service to our denomination. If Cragmont were to be closed tomorrow, it could be said that this definite service had been accomplished to a certain extent. Since the first day of Cragmont's history, many wonderful activities have taken place on this spot near Black Mountain, North Carolina. During the former youth conferences the camp counselors have seen boys and girls enter on Monday without knowing Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour and leave on Saturday singing "Jesus is a Wonderful Saviour" from the bottom of their hearts. These boys and girls had found eternal happiness at Cragmont Assembly in a vesper service, or on top of a mountain, or in morning chapel, or in the inspirational prayer meetings. These teenagers then returned to their homes and churches winning other boys, girls, men and women to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. These Cragmonters will always have a vivacious memory of the days spent living on a mountain in the large building.

But most of the boys and girls who attend a youth or league conference are Christians before arriving. During their vacation at Cragmont they learn more of their church doctrine, enjoy Christian recreation and wholesome fellowship and see the beauty of the mountains. At Cragmont Christ is always placed first; therefore, a camper receives much spiritual guidance and is drawn closer to his Saviour.

We, as I speak for hundreds of young people, appreciate Cragmont tremendously. The finest vacation many Free Will Baptist young people of North Carolina have ever spent has been at Cragmont, not only as a vacation resort, but also as a camp supplying all the wonderful opportunities of learning more of God's blessings. Yes, Cragmont is really appreciated. So are the counselors, the people who have contributed financial assistance and the prayers of many Christians who are interested in the generation of tomorrow.

Now the time has come to expand Cragmont's service. As Mr. J. E. Wooten, the manager of Cragmont Assembly, said, "Why be satisfied and content to continue to touch and help so small a number when there is a vastly large number longing for and seeking the same opportunities?" Yes, there are thousands of Free Will Baptists who have never seen their institution. They do not know what wonderful blessings can be received from God on a vacation. Do you know?

Our Assembly needs your support. You may have understood that Cragmont needs no financial help. This is not true, for a successful future Cragmont will urgently need additional financial assistance. We have to have more buildings, more recreational supplies, many repairs and probably many more materials that I do not know of. This institution can serve you and our denomination much better if we support it as we should. Are you willing?

Cragmont Assembly is dedicated to the service of our Saviour. At this institution only wholesome training and recreation take place. A true Christian atmosphere prevails continually at Cragmont. Cragmont is a necessity to our denomination. Mothers and fathers, do you not owe it to your children to give them a definite knowledge of God? A week at Cragmont contributes rest, sight-seeing, inspiration, education, recreation, relaxation and a knowledge of God and His Kingdom.

The harvest is ripe and it is up to us to assist Cragmont Assembly in spreading the true Gospel. The directors are doing a wonderful job at our retreat. But their work is futile unless we come to their aid. Will you pray for Cragmont and then send financial assistance today? Of course, if you so desire, our denomination can let Cragmont Assembly remain as it is. If we do, still many boys and girls may enjoy "the retreat in the mountains." But, God wants us to make progress. Once we give the youth of our denomination an opportunity to learn that our Saviour is the only chance of a wonderful future, then you will see a mission being accomplished in the world, cities, towns, churches and homes. Cragmont Assembly is the method of showing to our young people (and adults, too) that God is real.

A need of $10,000 is urgent before the summer months. Why stop at this amount and say that we are prepared for the hundreds of Free Will Baptists who will attend conferences in 1956? We are not prepared. Much more than $10,000 is needed—that is, if we expect to accomplish Cragmont's ambition and hope. Will you help? You will be helping to bring unsaved souls to the saving knowledge of Christ. Your support will be used wisely. Why don't you address your prayers to God and your contributions to Cragmont Assembly, Box 178, Black Mountain, North Carolina? Thank you!

I COME to the communion table remembering:

I come remembering the words spoken so long ago by the One who spake as never man spake, "... this do in remembrance of me" (Luke 22:19). As I look upon the prepared elements of bread and the fruit of the vine, these words echo down the centuries and make me know why I am here: "... my body which is given for you. . . my blood, which is shed for you" (Luke 22:19, 20). This do in remembrance of me.

I come remembering that far off table in the upper room at which were gathered twelve men and One who was more than man, all dusty and weary from travel along the crowded roads of Palestine. I close my eyes and seem to see the Lord, girded with a towel, washing the feet of the disciples until they were humbled by His example and until they ceased their irritable complaining.

Remembering this, my own false pride and concern for the things of the world fade into nothingness.

Inwardly I confess: "Nothing in my hand I bring, simply to Thy Cross I cling."

Again I remember that table in the upper room, and I marvel at how it has grown in twenty centuries—yes, grown as though it had roots like a tree planted by the rivers of water. In the cool of the evening before Gethsemane's night, the board was long enough and wide enough to serve thirteen; now the table circles the earth and stretches forth to the horizon and beyond until it holds forth a welcome to men of faith everywhere. Now the table measures thousands of miles from end to end.

Did I say end to end? Why, it has become as endless as the love and mercy of the Saviour whose body was broken, and whose blood was shed. The eleven I am remembering have multiplied. There must have been visible to the divine Host men, women and children behind each of the eleven of the disciples, while only Judas was fruitless and alone. Eleven men would testify and the Kingdom would grow even until now, when I know that I have millions of brothers and sisters whose hands rest on the endless table waiting on the Host.

I am remembering that the twelve men have passed and gone, but the Host is the same. Not death, nor time, nor sins of men, have taken the table from Him. It is now as then, His table and the food is His to give, His body and His blood. Distance is no barrier—wherever Christians meet, there is the Lord closer than breathing and nearer than hands or feet.

Thinking of hands on the table, I come remembering that Jesus said, "... the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table" (Luke 22:21). I look at the other hands, white hands, brown hands, smooth or calloused, large or small. I look at the other hands and then I look at my own, and I am remembering why the twelve favored men began to ask, "Is it I?" I do not ask this question to the man whose hand is on the table beside mine or the woman whose hand is on the table across town, I ask the question to myself and I examine my own hand—is it I who shall betray my Lord? And my heart is sad.

But, I am remembering that even if my heart condemns me, God is greater than my heart, and He has removed my transgressions from me—yes, as far as the east is from the west, and He remembers them no more, forever.

I come to communion remembering that here I may find forgiveness in measure as I am forgiving my fellow men. I also look at my heart and know why I come—not because my minister says come, not because I am a church member, but because I love Jesus, the Christ, and want to share His Cross in the only way I can—by remembering.

When I see a sister girded with a towel, I remember Jesus washing the disciples' feet, not because they were dusty, but as a lesson in humility, showing in deed rather than word, that we are to serve our fellow men.

I come remembering that if we cannot wash brothers' and sisters' feet whom we see and know, how can we partake of Christ whom we have not seen? I am your servant and your fellow worker; I will share your trouble, pain, joy and happiness in this life, and also the peace you are sharing in Christ Jesus, remembering that here I may come as near to Calvary as man may come.

I come remembering the simplicity of salvation which requires only that I believe on the Lord Jesus Christ to be saved.

I come remembering that free gift of the "... peace of God, which passeth all understanding. . . ." (Philippians 4:7).

I come remembering to look into the face of "... the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world," while murmuring, "Lord, I believe, help, Thou, mine unbelief."

I come remembering that I come to be ministered unto, but that I am also to go forth and serve.

"Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O LORD, my strength, and my redeemer" (Psalm 19:14), for I come remembering.

Do Your Praying Now!

An aged Negro had faithfully served his "Master Jesus" over the years. One day he was riding along in a buggy in the country with an atheistic white man. Ominous, black clouds began to scuddy across the darkened skies! It was evident that a cyclone was in the making. Presently giant trees began to sway back and forth. Houses began to topple over. Flying debris swished past. The atheist, in terror, called out to the aged Negro, "Pray! Call upon God to save us!" The Negro, with the calm of heaven wreathing his face, replied, "I did my praying before the storm broke. Now I'm lying in the arms of Master Jesus, and He sure will take care of His child."

The time to pray is now! The time to get right with God is now! The Bible says, "... surely in the floods of great waters they shall not come nigh unto him" (Psalm 32:6); "Seek ye the LORD while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near" (Isaiah 55:6).—Selected.

Rev. Mishler Conducts Course On How to Build a Sunday School

The Rev. William Mishler of Nashville, Tennessee, conducted a course recently on how to build a better Sunday school in the Third Free Will Baptist Church of St. Louis, Missouri. This course was sponsored by the Triumphant Sunday School Convention of greater St. Louis, Crystal City, Richwoods and Salem, Missouri, and really proved to be a great blessing to all who attended. The average attendance for the course was

Mount Olive College President

As most of you are aware, your president, Mr. W. Burkette Raper, has worked untiringly for the furtherance and betterment of Mount Olive college. The recent demand upon his person increased manifold owing to the fact that a tremendous fund raising campaign was in process. This added strain, to an already overburdened schedule, initiated a state of fatigue. It was deemed mandatory that a complete and absolute rest be instituted immediately. His progress during the past ten days has been very encouraging and with continued care he is expected to continue on the upgrade. We want to thank each of you for your cooperation and understanding. We solicit your continued support and prayers for Mr. Raper and Mount Olive College.

Mr. Sam Newsom

On Monday, June 13, 1955, God in His infinite mercy saw fit to take our beloved husband and father, Sam Newsom, out of this world of sorrows.

He leaves to mourn their loss his wife, two sons, one daughter and three grandchildren. His funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Starnes, at the British Chapel Church, Lenoir County, North Carolina. His body was laid to rest in the church cemetery under a beautiful mound of flowers to await the resurrection.

In Memoriam

(Editor's Note: The writer of this article wrote it in memory of her grandfather, Rev. Raymond Gaskins.)

Oh, let me tell you of a man,
Who lived a happy life
Who now is resting from the toils,
Of all this world of strife.

A man who followed after Christ
And in His footsteps trod,
A man whose soul was crowned
With joy—a minister of God.

A man whose soul was crowned with joy,
God filled him with love
To point the sinners of the world
To their home up above.

Once he sought a lovely maiden's hand,
A girl so fair and young
Whose fondness never could be told
By any poet's tongue.

Soon the ties of perfect love,
Bound hand and heart together
And none but He who rules above
Those loving hearts could sever.

And when his faithful Christian work
Had ripened in the harvest sun,
Then in a sweet and lovely voice,
The Master said, "Well done."

He lived an humble holy life,
A lamp in a dark place,

Roll Call in Heaven

Richard Burton

Oh! my friends, there'll be a great reunion,
When the Lord shall come to claim His own.
Are you traveling that straight, narrow pathway,
The only way that will lead you home?

When the great roll is called up in heaven
And He says, "Come to me, one and all."
Will you be ready then to join Him there,
Stand and answer that final roll call?

He sent a Saviour to redeem us all,
Bade Him die on the Cross for our sins.
He has gone to prepare us a mansion,
Whoso'er believes may enter in.

When we stand on that great judgment morning,
To be judged by the Maker of all,
Will He say, "Enter in ye, my children,"
When we answer that final roll call?

Oh, my friends, will you hear Jesus saying,
"Depart, ye cursed, I knew you not?"
Will you find on the Master's great ledger,
Instead of your name, only a blot?

When the great roll is called up in heaven,
And He says, "Come to me, one and all,"
Are you so living that you may join Him
When you answer that final roll call?

"Just a Day at a Time!"

"Doctor, how long will I have to lie here?" asked one of God's servants who had sustained a hip injury. Replied the wise doctor, "Just a day at a time!"

The secret of victorious living is to live but a moment at the time, and to live that moment for God. It is not the yielded Christian who is momentarily victorious in Christ, but the yielding Christian, yielding moment by moment his all to God who always "... causeth us to triumph in Christ, ..." (2 Corinthians 2:14).—Selected.

The burning love of Jesus Christ
Shone brightly through his face.

In the silent hours of the night
When all was still and quiet,
Fair angels came from paradise
And bore his soul away.

He that Asketh Receiveth

I heard of a wife who had an unconverted husband. She resolved that she would pray every day for twelve months for his conversion. Every day at twelve o'clock she went to her room alone and cried to God.

Her husband would not allow her to speak to him on the subject of religion, but she could speak to God on his behalf. It may be that you have a loved one, a friend or a neighbor who does not wish to be spoken to about his salvation. You can do as this woman did—pray to God about it.

The twelve months passed, and there was no sign of his yielding. She resolved to pray for six months longer, so every day she prayed for the conversion of her husband. The six months passed, and still there was no sign, no answer.

The question arose in her mind, "Can I give him up?" "No," she said, "I will pray for him as long as God gives me breath."

That very day, when he came home to dinner, instead of going into the dining room he went upstairs. She waited, and waited, and waited, but he did not come down to dinner. Finally she went to his room and found him on his knees crying to God to have mercy on him.

God convicted him of sin. He not only became a Christian, but the Word of God had free course, and was glorified in him. God used him mightily. Thus God answered the prayers of this Christian wife. She knocked, and knocked, until the answer came.—D. L. Moody.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Please explain "And the Lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light" (Luke 16:8), in the light of "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal" (Matthew 6:19).—Gustus Thompson, Woodbine, Tennessee.

Answer: This parable of the unjust steward found in Luke 16:1-13, is one of several parables given in Luke's gospel account to illustrate a feature of the Kingdom of God, as Luke calls it or what Matthew sometimes calls the Kingdom of Heaven. The particular principle which Jesus seems to want to emphasize here is prudence. He has committed to us who are Christians a wonderful treasure. Jesus did this as He made us heirs of God and joint heirs with Himself. "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; . . ." (Romans 8:16, 17).

We Christians have had committed to our trust the greatest treasure to be found either in heaven or on the earth. We have been made stewards of the gospel of Christ. This gospel is the power of God unto salvation to every believing soul (Romans 1:16). It also acts as a sword to divide asunder (Hebrews 4:12). With this trust we have assigned to us the responsible duty of causing all to hear this word or good news. See Romans 10:7-18. This being true, we have the whole gospel as our inheritance and a whole world to whom and for whom we are responsible. "But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth" (Acts 1:8). "... I have set thee a watchman . . . therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth, and warn them from me" (Ezekiel 33:7). "Nevertheless, if thou warn the wicked of his way to turn from it; if he do not turn from his way, he shall die in his iniquity; but thou hast delivered thy soul. . . . Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel?" (Ezekiel 33:9-11). See Matthew 24:44-49; 28:18-20; Mark 16:15-18; Luke 24:45-49.

God did not commit this wonderful treasure to us without preparing us or making us eligible for the glorious task. See 2 Corinthians 5:14-21. "And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation; to wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation" (2 Corinthians 5:18, 19). By comparing all the above Scriptures with Hebrews 1:1-4 and the eighth chapter of Genesis, we may see that even though God had many ways or manners in which He manifested or revealed Himself to men before the advent of Jesus Christ, since the incarnation He has employed only one, viz., that of Christ Himself. In John 1:1 and 1 John 1:1, it is made clear that Jesus Himself is God's Word set forth or revealed in the form of human flesh. See Colossians 1:19; Galatians 4:4. "For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily" (Colossians 2:9). In John 14:9-11, 20, Jesus makes three important statements that confirm this vital truth: "... He that hath seen me hath seen the Father; . . ." (John 14:9). "... I am in the Father and the Father in me" (John 14:10). And in John 14:20, "At that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you."

Since Jesus' death on the Cross by which He gave Himself a ransom for all of us poor sinners, He has effected a system by which we are His co-laborers. See 2 Corinthians 6:1; John 14:12-14. He is at God's right hand appearing as our advocate and in our stead and is there defending our cause. See Luke 22:69; Acts 2:36; 5:21; Ephesians 1:20. "Wherefore he is able to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them" (Hebrews 7:25).

The Holy Spirit is here helping us pray and preach. "Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what we should pray for as we ought: but the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered" (Romans 8:26). "But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you" (John 14:26). See Romans 8:27, 34; also John 16:8-14.

One can readily see from these Scriptures why Paul said, "... Yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!" (1 Corinthians 9:16). See 1 Corinthians 9:16-19. Through the gospel message we gain Christ and through Him all else that is to our good both here and hereafter.

This other passage, viz., Matthew 6:19, which is quoted above in the question is teaching another truth that is taught in many other Bible passages, such as, 1 John 2:15-17; Matthew 19:24; Mark 10:25 and Luke 18:25.

In conclusion it is fitting to say that Jesus was not sanctioning the act of dishonesty on the part of the steward of Matthew 16:8, but rather the prudence he exercised as he was faced with a great crisis in life. I have known many whose whole interests were in the wealth and citizenship of this world to act in a way similar to this steward and use the experience of an apparent business failure to bring them into a careful use of all their resources and thereby become wealthy and prominent. Christians are taught to do this very thing since, in this world of satanic oppositions, they are meeting with one difficulty or setback after another. When we have given all the time we have on earth acquiring skill against the devil and thereby fulfilling our obligations to God, we have no time to plot and gain by our planning for wealth in this earthly realm; therefore, we need to work earnestly in the skill and wisdom that God supplies to gain for eternity. But while doing this we need also to keep such passages as Matthew 6:19 before us lest we exchange a heavenly and eternal goal for an earthly and temporary treasure.

Christians must decrease to nothing before Christ can increase.—Selected.

If we can love God without seeing Him, it should be easy to love other Christians whom we can see.—Selected

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNAHOA, N. C.

"If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God"
(Colossians 3:1).

Last week we were thinking about the resurrection of Christ after His mock trial and merciless crucifixion. He died and was resurrected for us. Now the question before us should be, are we experiencing the blessings and privileges provided for in the text and in the opening verses of the sixth chapter of the book of Romans? This is a physical resurrection that we may seek those things which are above, and, "... even so we also should walk in newness of life" (Romans 6:4).

Even though we commemorated the resurrection of Christ last Sunday, (I do not like the idea that we celebrate the great days in our Christian worship) we must not forget that throughout the whole year, and all future years of our Christian lives, we are to be witnesses for Him. We will not forget that the very first directive after He came forth victorious over death was to go and witness to His troubled followers that He was truly alive. That directive has never been countermanded. It is still the business of every Christian to go and tell the wonderful story of the love of Christ to the world.

In the March, 1956 issue of the Christian Herald, J. C. Penney, the Christian business man, in his column, Lines of a Layman, writes under the title, Every Christian A Missionary:

"Above everything else, to be a Christian is a 'Way of Life,' and its ultimate test is whether it produces Christlike men—men who have faith—men who yield their lives in service—men who love others as they love themselves. The supreme question every one of us has to face is, 'Am I willing to pay the price required of the man who would be a Christian?' Some in Jesus' own day could not do it. The rich young ruler who came seeking the way of eternal life and the scribe who said, 'Teacher, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest,' could not pay the price. The plain truth of the matter is, being a Christian is the most exacting business in the world.

From the early Christians, down through the age of the martyrs to the concentration camps of Nazi Germany and Communist Russia there have always been those who counted it a high privilege to meet whatever demands the hour might present. From the day when Jesus bade His little band of followers go into every clime and make disciples of all nations there have been those who cheerfully obeyed Him to the letter. They endured loneliness, separation from home and kindred, hardships, toil without ceasing, maltreatment, and sometimes death at the hands of those whom they wished to help. You and I may not have been called to serve Christ and humanity in a foreign land; but let there be no doubt about our having been called. Each of us, the missionary, the minister, and the layman has the same priceless gift to lay upon the altar of service—a life! That is the matter of primary importance; where it shall be used is secondary.

Paul is expressing the correct actions of those who have died to sin and been resurrected to a newness of life in Colossians 3:2 by saying, "Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth." Then if we are risen with Him, we are to Seek those things which are above, and love the things above. The things above are the supreme and final things of God. What a privilege that we, unworthy and sinful beings, are given these precious commands of seeking and loving the things above where Christ is!

SOME QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Recently a young Free Will Baptist minister, a student in a theological seminary, wrote me a letter and asked for some information that he needed in one of his classes. I was glad to be of whatever service I could to this young minister. I thought perhaps the questions he asked and some of the answers I gave might be of interest to others.

The first question was this: "What is your greatest organizational or administrative problem as a pastor?" Every pastor has, of course, many problems with which to deal, but I believe that the greatest problem that I have had through the years in the churches where I have been called to pastor is a lack of trained lay leaders. This problem is so that it seems that if the answer to it were found all the others would be solved. Even though we may not be around to reap the benefits, I believe that every pastor should try to develop and train young leaders in the church.

The second question was this: "What papers and magazines are of the greatest benefit to you in your work?" In answer to this question, I listed first our denominational papers: The Free Will Baptist and Contact. I feel that every pastor who would keep abreast of denominational affairs cannot afford to be without these two papers. Then I listed The Moody Monthly. To me, this is one of the best informative and inspirational magazines for ministers and Christians in

My Impressions of Mount Olive Junior College

M. L. Johnson

On Thursday night, March 15, Dr.
M. M. Lownes of Mount Olive, North

Carolina, called Brother S. A. Smith and me for a conference in regards to the health of the Reverend W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College. Dr. Lownes informed us that Brother Raper was in a state of mental and physical fatigue due to the extremely heavy schedule that he had been following. He advised that Brother Raper general published. Then, of course, I listed Readers' Digest and a good daily newspaper. I believe that these are publications that every pastor needs.

The third question was this: "What schedule of work have you worked out for your life and ministry?" This is a personal question and one that every pastor will have to work out for himself. But I believe that every pastor needs a schedule. One of the great temptations of the pastor is to idle away time. A good schedule faithfully followed will help to eliminate this. No one, of course, can make a schedule that is ironclad. Circumstances will cause many interruptions, but I believe that the making of a schedule will help one to think the problem through.

I would be very interested in knowing the answers that some other pastors would give to these questions. If you will write me, without the use of your name, I will pass the information on through this column that others may be blessed by your work.

An everyday religion—one that loves the duties of our common walk; one that makes an honest man; one that accomplishes an intellectual and moral growth in the subject; one that works in all weather, and improves all opportunities, will best and most healthily promote the growth of a church and the power of the gospel.—Horace Bushnell.

A religion that never suffices to govern a man, will never suffice to save him. That which does not distinguish him from a sinful world, will never distinguish him from a perishing world.—John Howe.

should take a few days off from work to rest and regain his strength, and that someone should help with the duties that he had been carrying. Brother Raper asked that Brother Smith and I try to take care of some of these duties. He asked that, since I was somewhat familiar with the work in the office, I spend as much time as possible here helping with that phase of the work.

I have now been here for two weeks and Brother Raper has suggested that I write an article for The Free Will Baptist about my impressions of the college after being on the campus for a while. My first thought was in the words of 1 Kings 10:7, "... behold, the half was not told me: ..." I had thought that I had a very good understanding of what Mount Olive Junior College was doing, but I have found that I did not realize the full story; furthermore, I am sure that you on the field are not fully aware of the full Mount Olive story.

I have been impressed by the tremendous job being done by the fine faculty and staff. We, as a denomination, will never be able to fully repay Brother Raper and his co-workers for their untiring efforts and devoted loyalty to the work. Dr. Lownes assures us that the heavy load that Brother Raper was carrying is directly responsible for his present trouble. The other members of the faculty and staff were already carrying a very heavy load, but they very graciously agreed to take on a part of the work that Brother Raper was doing. Without this splendid cooperation it would have been impossible to carry on. Though we cannot fully repay them, we can show our appreciation by joining them in a more wholehearted way in striving for the goals before us.

I have been impressed by the genuine interest of the people in this section in the growth and vitality of the college. It has been a great inspiration to observe the activity of the large number of people, who are not Free Will Baptists, but, who are working day and night in the interest of the college. These people are working to help us to have the kind of college that we can all be proud of. They are not making demands upon us, but are simply saying to us to take their help and give this section a sound program of Christian education.

I have also been very deeply impressed by the splendid cooperation and encouragement of such people as Governor Luther H. Hodges; Mr. W. D. Herring, member of the North Carolina State Board of Education; Dr. James Hillman, director of professional services for the North Carolina Department

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

DUTIES OF MINISTERS (continued) Historical Arguments for Immersion

There is no fact in ancient history more fully attested and established than that of immersion as the mode of baptism in the early primitive church. No prominent historian denies it. Mosheim, Neander, Guericke, Bunsen, Schaff and others unequivocally declare it.

Mosheim says: "The sacrament was administered in this (first) century by the immersion of the whole body."

Neander says: "There can be no doubt whatever that in the primitive times it (baptism) was performed by immersion."

Guericke says: "Baptism was originally administered by immersion."

Chevalier Bunsen, the most learned man of his age, says: "In the East people adhered to immersion. The western church, under the guidance of Rome, abolished immersion and adopted sprinkling instead."—Sign of Times.

Dr. Philip Schaff says: "Immersion, and not sprinkling, was unquestionably the original normal form."

Conybear and Howson say: "It is needless to add that baptism (in Paul's time) was administered by immersion."—Life and Epistle of Paul.

We could go on with many more arguments as to the meaning of the word baptize, but there is no use to give more evidence than already given. We are Free Will Baptists and are growing, thank the Lord. May we be true to the teaching of God's Word, and as ministers of the gospel let us "... contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints" (Jude 3).

THE LORD'S SUPPER

"This is a commemoration of the death of Christ for our sins, in the use of bread which He made the emblem of His broken body, and the cup, the emblem of His shed blood, and by it the believer expresses his love for Christ, his faith and hope in Him, and pledges to Him perpetual fidelity."—Treatise.

May we notice some of the Scripture references given in connection with this ordinance: "For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, That the Lord Jesus the same night in which he was betrayed took bread: and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat: this is my body, which is broken for you: this do in remembrance of me. After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me. For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come" (1 Corinthians 11: 23-26).

Paul's Revelation

Paul said for I have received of the Lord. We do not know when Paul received this revelation, but somewhere, sometime, it was revealed to him. We do not know the manner in which the revelation came, but it was given to the apostle. Perhaps it could have been a direct message from the Lord like unto what Saul of Tarsus received when on the road to Damascus. I rather believe that God through the Holy Spirit made known to Paul this glorious message as one of the ordinances to be observed by the believers in Christ. The reason for believing the direct revelation is because Paul said, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (2 Timothy 3:16, 17). But be that as it may, Paul knew what he was talking about, because what he said does not conflict with the words of Jesus when He instituted the sacred ordinance.

Matthew gives the account of the event as follows: "And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it; For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins" (Matthew 26: 26-28).

When Mark wrote concerning the supper he began as follows: "And as they did eat, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body. And he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them: and they all drank of it" (Mark 14:22, 23).

Luke states, "And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me. Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you" (Luke 22:19, 20).

The Last Passover

Note that Matthew says while they were eating, and Mark says as they did eat. Why were they eating at the time that Jesus instituted the Lord's Supper? In Matthew we also find, "Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover? And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples. And the disciples did as Jesus had appointed them: and they made ready the passover. Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve" (Matthew 26:17-20). (Read John 13:2-35.)

"And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me. And they were exceeding sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto him, Lord, is it I? And he answered and said, He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me. The Son of man goeth as it is written of him: but woe unto that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! it had been good for that man if he had not been born. Then Judas, which betrayed him, answered and said, Master, is it I? He said unto him, Thou hast said" (Matthew 26:21-25).

This Passover was a commemoration of the deliverance from Egypt. It was an annual feast. It was a full meal. They had dishes with sop. We do not have from the Bible an account of what they had to eat at this passover event, except that they had sop, the bread and the fruit of the vine. Mark 14:25 says, "Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, un'til that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God."

The Passover, a Type of Christ's Blood

Christ was loyal to the Jewish Passover. The Passover was a type of the blood of Christ. The instruction from the Lord to Moses and Aaron for the Passover is given in Exodus 12:1-11. In Verses 12-14 we find, "For I will pass through the land of Egypt this night, and will smite all the first born in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and against all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgment: I am the LORD. And the blood shall be to you for a token upon the houses where ye are: and when

BOYS and GIRLS

The Kite That Wanted

Mrs. Lelia M. Hines
Norfolk, Virginia

I AM going to tell you about a kite that wanted to be free. Sometimes boys and girls, like kites, seem to have a craving for freedom.

One day in early spring as I was walking down the street, I saw a group of boys over in a vacant lot flying kites. High against the blue of the sky the kites were floating on the breezes that kept them aloft. The kites were being guided by strong cords held in eager little hands. "Oh! do come over here and feel how my kite pulls," called one little boy. So I went over in the lot and took the cord he gave me. I could also feel the strong pull of the kite as I held the cord. It pulled and tugged just as if it were alive. Boys and girls, the kite actually seemed to talk to me as I stood there holding the cord very tightly. What do you suppose it was saying? Why, it seemed to be begging for liberty and saying, "Oh why don't you let go of that cord and give me my freedom. You think I am high up now, but just let go of that cord and I will show you how high I can go." The kite seemed to be still begging for its freedom when all at once the cord broke and the kite was free. The kite began to blow from side to side, and then it began to drop down, down, down, until it fell in some vines and its cord got hung on a telephone pole. The kite hung there torn all to pieces. The frame was broken, and it was a sad sight to see as I thought of the beautiful thing it had once been.

There are some boys and girls just like this kite. They want to run away and get their freedom. They think if they can just get away from home and from their mothers, they can go out into the big world and really go places and be something. I guess when I was young I was just like you; however, I cannot remember for it has been so very, very long ago. But, boys and girls, I have learned since that time that there is a greater freedom which all of us can have.

This is the freedom which comes from doing right, and the freedom from obeying the good laws that keep us safe. The freedom which comes from being acquainted with the best friend a boy or girl can have, the Lord Jesus Christ. If you let Him into your life, and you let Him hold the cords that bind you to your mother, your home and your church you will have real freedom. You know that God's Word tells us, "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed" (John 8:36).

I was visiting a young man in prison one day, and while talking to him he told me that he was brought up in a Christian home. He said that many times his parents had tried to get him to go to church, and they had often talked to him about giving his life to Jesus. However, he did not want to do these things because he felt that they were strings which would hold him down. He would no longer be able to go places and have a good time. Because of these thoughts this boy, just like the kite, broke away from home and the church. When he was alone in the world, with all the freedom he had craved, he was just as helpless as the kite. Instead of doing great things he like the kite, began to go down. This boy began to smoke, curse, swear, drink and sin in every way people do who do not know or follow God. At last his garments were soiled, his strength broke, and he was facing a long term in prison for an act he had done. All these troubles came because he wanted to be free from the kind, protecting influences of home, Mother, church and God.

There is a verse in the Bible which says, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them" (Ecclesiastes 12:1). Boys and girls, that young man in prison had forgotten the Lord's command to remember now thy Creator. He had also forgotten God's command, "Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee" (Exodus 20:12).

What happened to the kite which broke away for freedom will happen to every kite that does the same thing. The same breeze that kept it afloat will also send it down. What happened to the boy who broke the ties which bound him will happen to any boy or girl who seeks freedom.

The kite lost its freedom when it got entangled in the vines. The young man lost his freedom because he was doomed to spend the best part of his life in prison.

Boys and girls, it is only the freedom which comes through obedience that is worthwhile. Remember the fate of the kite and the young man that wanted freedom, and also remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.

My Impressions of Mount Olive Junior College

of Public Instruction; Mrs. Harlan C. Brown, librarian at St. Mary's Junior College; Mr. O. P. Johnson, superintendent of schools in Duplin County and recently elected president of the North Carolina Education Association; Mr. R. S. Proctor, superintendent of schools in Wayne County, and many others who are interested and experienced in the field of education. These people assure us that the college is needed in this section and that we are traveling in the right direction; they pledge to us their help and cooperation.

I have been impressed by the great opportunity that we have. All the things mentioned above work together to give us this opportunity. Surely, the Lord has set before us an open door. I join wholeheartedly with Brother Raper in the deep conviction that "an unparalleled opportunity is now before us," and that, "to fail now is to forfeit our right ever to succeed again."

Finally, I have been impressed by the need for the cooperation of all our people. We know that what we are trying to do cannot be done by just a few. It will take the help of all of us, working together. Friends, I appeal to each one to support this work with your words of encouragement, time and talent, financial support and your earnest prayers. "The future belongs to those who prepare for it." We are at the right place, at the right time, with the right program. It remains for us to trust the Lord and move forward unto victory.

Hanna Writes from North India

Our mela was not quite so large this year as it usually is. The border dispute (Bihar-Bengal) was causing much uprising in Kishanganj, and people were afraid to go to the mela. This made the mela come late. Then, on the day it should have opened, we had a down-pour of rain which lasted off and on for three days. Many people came for the cattle market and returned home because of these reasons. Still compared to the number of days we worked in the mela this year, our sale of Gospels was more than last year. We feel we had more opportunity for personal witness this year than before. Many people who had already bought were willing to listen, and even insisted that others buy. We do pray that these Gospels and contacts may be a means of many finding Christ as Saviour.

We had a very good conference this year. I feel that the Lord, in a very quiet way, came right down in our midst and blessed each heart as it was open to Him for blessing. Rev. Hembrom, a Santal pastor from South Bihar, was with us for the first part of the conference. His messages were clear and simple but from the bottom of a heart of love. He spoke both in Santali and Bengali. I spoke the last two days in Hindi and we closed on Sunday, February 19. At the close of the last service, we observed the Lord's Supper. The Spirit Himself seemed to have complete right of way in this service binding us first of all to Christ, then to each other in a real bond of fellowship. Soon Christ will come and we will not need to remember His death and coming again for we will be in His presence. How it thrills our hearts to think that He may come for His Church before we observe these ordinances again! Yet when we think of the many still waiting, walking in darkness round about us, we can only pray that the Lord will give us more strength to do more for Him while it is yet day.

We are very anxious for the Cronks' return. It won't be very long now. We trust they will return refreshed in every way. Everyone is asking if they have left America yet. They think it must

Mt. Olive College Plans State-Wide School of Missions for April

The school of missions to be held at Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, April 10-24, is being co-sponsored by the North Carolina Mission Board. Classes will be held each evening at 7:30 o'clock with the Rev. L. R. Ennis of Goldsboro, North Carolina, as the teacher. The theme for the school will be "A New Approach to Home Missions in North Carolina."

Following is the schedule for the classes to be held:

Tuesday, April 10: Devotions by Rev. J. R. Davidson; theme: "Viewing the Missionary Achievements of Free Will Baptists in North Carolina."

Friday, April 13: Devotions by Rev. Earl Glenn; theme: "The Merits of the Jerusalem Plan of Home Missions."

Tuesday, April 17: Devotions by Rev. Norman Adams; theme: "The Pastor, a Home Missionary."

Friday, April 20: Devotions by Rev. Michael Pelt; theme: "Using the Local Church in Home Missions."

Tuesday, April 24: Devotions by Rev.

take several months to travel so far. I'm sure Randy and Brenda Kay will be great playmates.

Clifton Rice; theme: "Using the State Missionary in Home Missions."

The school of missions is planned so the woman's auxiliaries all over the state can count it as one of its mission study course units. Also a certificate is being planned to be presented to all who attend all five of the mission classes and follow it with a view of being graded.

Pastors, deacons, Sunday school officers and teachers, and all Christian workers will be greatly benefited by the school.

Central Conference Five-Dollar Builder's Club

On Friday night, March 23, Faith Free Will Baptist Church was organized at Hull Road Church, Greene County, North Carolina, with 34 charter members. This new church is now in the process of constructing a splendid church building, which will be ready for worship services about the middle of May.

In the last session of the Central Conference of North Carolina a plan was proposed and approved by which every new church organization should receive help to build and to get started on a self-sustaining program of work. This plan is known as the Central Conference Five-Dollar Builder's Club, and is to be composed of all those who will promise to give $5.00 to each new church with which to build or buy a church building.

To become a charter member of this club, please send your name and address to Rev. Hubert Burriss, Saratoga, North Carolina. Since Faith Church is already engaged in building their place of worship, you will please send the amount of five dollars ($5.00) to Brother Burriss, as this is the amount each club member is supposed to give to Faith Church on its new church building.

You may become a charter member of this club if you get your name and $5.00 to Brother Burriss between now and April 30, 1956.

The Prisoner's Need

It is not enough, if you would help a prisoner, to go to him and say, "Friend, I come to instruct you, to amuse you, to help you to pass the time." What he wants is not to make his captivity more tolerable, but to be set free. And our Lord came to make us free.—The Gospel Witness.

Courage for Christian Witnessing

(Lesson for April 15)

Lesson: Acts 4:13-20, 29-31.

Golden Text: Acts 4:29.

I. INTRODUCTION

We should not overlook the significant fact that the same men who viciously opposed Jesus for three years and finally had Him condemned and nailed to the Cross were the ones who desperately fought the testimony of the disciples after Pentecost. The elders, chief priests, and scribes, who were the rulers of the Jews, led the mob against Jesus and had him put to death as a criminal between two thieves. And Luke tells us in Acts 4:5, 6 that it was "... their rulers, and elders, and scribes, And Annas the high priest, and Caiaphas ..." who had Peter and John brought to trial because of their preaching and healing power. They opposed Jesus from the beginning of His earthly ministry, denied the resurrection story of the apostles, said they were drunk on Pentecost, and continued their satanic efforts against the new and flourishing Christian Church.

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. The companionship of Jesus inspires a kind of courage that even His enemies acknowledge and respect (Vs. 13).
2. It is useless to deny the power of Christ in the presence of a man whom the Lord has healed (Vs. 14).
3. Those who oppose the servants of Christ always plan their strategy in secret (Vv. 15, 17).
4. The greatest efforts of men are but feeble when they oppose the power of the risen Christ (Vv. 17, 18).
5. Only death can stop the witnesses of Christ, and even death is fuel for the gospel fire (Vv. 19, 20).
6. There is no better way to resist cruel threats than to take them to the Lord in earnest prayer (Vs. 29).
7. What preachers need when the going gets tough is courage and power to preach the Word of God (Vs. 30).
8. Without the constant refilling of the Spirit the Christian's courage and power would vanish (Vs. 31).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

9. When a person is saved he, or she, is baptized by the Holy Spirit into the body of Christ, the true Church. A Christian has the happy privilege of receiving many fillings of the spirit but only one baptism (1 Corinthians 12:13).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. The first Christian miracle properly succeeded Pentecost, of which it was an outgrowth, occurring possibly a few weeks later, at the hour of the evening sacrifice, the favorite season of devotion with the Jerusalem populace. Among the assembling multitudes were the apostles, who had not yet broken with the outward forms of Jewish worship. The publicity of the miracle gave emphasis and assured a wide knowledge. The subject whose history was well known, was evidently a familiar sight to the frequenters of the temple precincts. His twofold affliction awakened public sympathy. The cure was instantaneous. It was complete. It was wrought in the name of Jesus, which was the occasion of the opposition it awakened.

2. The apostles utterly disclaimed all personal efficiency in the beneficent work accomplished. Their sole connection therewith was instrumental. Neither their own "power" nor "holiness" was the occasion. Neither human energy nor moral excellence figured in the case. It does not appear that the apostles ever possessed the power of working miracles at their own discretion, but always under the direction of the Holy Spirit. Paul wrought miracles, healed the sick, raised Eutychus from the dead, but did not heal Epaphroditus and left Trophimus at Miletum sick. Equally the miracles of the gospel in renewing the hearts and reforming the lives of men are due neither to the piety nor ability of those who proclaim it, but solely to Him through whose Spirit both precepts and power are bestowed.—Selected.

3. Luke gives three outstanding reasons for the boldness of Peter and John:

(a) They had been with Jesus. This is one of the reasons given by the priests and Sadducees, and their judgment in this instance was correct. These men had been disciples, or pupils, of Jesus throughout His ministry. The greatest teacher the world has ever known had done a marvelous job of giving these pupils a complete education. They had not only conquered their subject matter, the Old Testament, but had also become possessed with the life of the Word made flesh.

(b) They were filled with the Holy Spirit. After the Master had departed from them, He had sent the Holy Spirit to dwell in them. The Holy Spirit, being God just as Jesus is God, had taken over the direction of their lives to continue the work which Jesus had begun. The Holy Spirit inspires, encourages, emboldens and leads those who will submit to him. Peter and John were in complete submission to the Holy Spirit.

(c) Peter and John had already seen evidence of the working of the Holy Spirit through their lives. Not only had He enabled them to preach with such power on the day of Pentecost that thousands had accepted Christ, but, on this very day, they had been able to perform their first miracle in the name of Jesus.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

4. A notable prayer-meeting (Vs. 23-31). The apostles went at once, when they were released, to their fellow Christians. They took the matter of the threatenings to the Lord in prayer. While they prayed, there was a striking physical manifestation of the Lord's presence and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost. They had no thought of turning back from the work assigned them. They prayed for help to preach the Word of God with boldness and their prayer was answered.—Selected.

The spiritual condition of a church can be gaged by the condition of the prayer meeting. Any church that does not maintain a prayer meeting is a dead church. It isn't likely that the church at Laodicea had a prayer meeting.

5. A heathen king ordered a missionary to renounce his faith and worship idols. When he refused, the king was in a rage and threatened him with instant death. The devoted man said, "Before you kill me, let me tell you a story. Suppose one of your most faithful servants falls into the hands of your enemies, and they seek to excite him to rebel against you—to make him a traitor. He remains faithful, however, and your enemies strip him and beat him and send him home insulted and covered with shame for your sake. What would you do?" "Honor him with my best, of course," was the reply. "You may strip me of my earthly garments, but I have a Master who will clothe me with splendor. Shall I barter my faith to save my garments?" Said the heathen king, "Go in peace."—Selected.

NOTES and QUOTES

I see the blood, I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you to destroy you, when I smite the land of Egypt. And this day shall be unto you for a memorial; and ye shall keep it a feast to the LORD throughout your generations; ye shall keep it a feast by an ordinance for ever."

Verse 5 of this same chapter says, "Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year: ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats." Christ, the Son of Mary, was the Son of God. He was a perfect Lamb of God. "And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop, and dip it in the blood that is in the bason, and strike the lintel and the two side posts with the blood that is in the bason; and none of you shall go out at the door of his house until the morning" (Vs. 22). They had to stay under the blood to be safe. They could not go out of the house until morning.

This feast was held annually on the 14th day of the month of April until the last Passover during which Christ instituted the new Passover, The Lord's Supper. The Passover was kept in remembrance of the deliverance from bondage. (To be Continued.)

stalled: Marjorie Avery, president; Hazel McLawhorn, vice-president; Edith Nobles, secretary; Lucille Avery, enlistment chairman; Gladys Corbett, program chairman; Louise Hines, orphanage chairman; Jewel Lawrence, youth chairman; Lou Allie Rouse, missions chairman; and Annie Bruce Hines, benevolence chairman.

The first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Gladys Corbett with 18 members present. The meeting was opened with the reading of Hebrews 11. Mrs. Corbett gave an impressive talk on "Faith." Everyone enjoyed refreshments at the close of the meeting.

EDITORIAL

SOCIAL SECURITY FOR CLERGYMEN

Because we feel that many of our ministers are interested in the new provision in the Federal Social Security Law affecting ministers, we are reproducing in our columns a release from the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Social Security Administration, Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, October, 1954:

"Earnings by a duly ordained, commissioned or licensed clergyman in the exercise of duties required by the order may be credited for Federal social security purposes beginning January 1, 1955.

"The recently enacted amendments to the social security law bring old-age and survivors insurance coverage to ministers and members of religious orders on the same terms as to self-employed persons except that coverage is on an individual election basis. Thus, about 250,000 ministers, 10,000 Christian Science practitioners, and those among the 160,000 members of religious orders who have not taken a vow of poverty, may now have social security coverage on an individual voluntary arrangement, without involving the churches which they serve. Clergymen and members of religious orders serving as missionaries in foreign countries or in possessions of the United States may now be covered on the same terms as clergymen in this country.

"To take part in this Federal program, ministers and the comparatively few members of religious orders who have not taken a vow of poverty must indicate their desire to be covered as self-employed persons (in such form and manner and with such official as may be prescribed in regulations issued by the Internal Revenue Service). This must be done on or before the due date of the income tax return for the second taxable year ending after 1954 for which they have net earnings of $400 or more, any part of which was derived from the performance of service as a minister or as a member of a religious order. Once an individual elects to be covered, he must continue to report his earnings and pay the social security tax every year in which he has net earnings of $400 or more from services performed in the exercise of his ministry or in the exercise of duties required by his order.

"This optional coverage of ministers and members of religious orders is applicable whether they perform services as employees or as self-employed individuals. In other words, the salary paid by a congregation to its minister will be considered for social security purposes as self-employment income, and the minister may elect to have this salary (up to $4,200 in a year) credited to his social security account. If, on the other hand, a clergyman has not been paid a salary by a congregation or any other church group, but has worked as a self-employed minister right along, he may elect to accept social security coverage and report his net earnings derived from the exercise of his ministry.

"Let's take the case of the Reverend Mr. S. He is minister of a suburban church. In 1955, the congregation will pay him a salary of $3,000 cash and he will occupy the parsonage as a residence. In addition, he expects to have emoluments from weddings, christenings and funerals amounting to about $350. The Reverend Mr. S. has decided to obtain social security coverage. Here is what he will do.

"On or before April 15, 1956, the due date for filing his income tax return for the calendar year 1955, he will declare his wish to have social security coverage in the form and manner and with such official as may be prescribed in regulations issued by the Internal Revenue Service. If he delays until after the 1955 income tax return due date, he could not be covered by social security for the calendar year 1955. If he delays until after April 15, 1957, he will forfeit altogether his right to elect social security coverage. Once having elected to have coverage, he must file a return and pay the social security tax in all subsequent years in which he has self-employment income of $400 or more.

"The church or institution itself does not become in any way involved or obligated in these arrangements.

"Now let's see just what income the Reverend Mr. S. must report for social security purposes. First, he reports the cash salary paid him by his congregation, less allowable expenses for books he purchased, stenographic help which he pays, and similar expenses incurred by him in connection with the exercise of his ministry. To his net salary he adds the amounts paid to him by individuals in connection with marriages, christenings, burials, etc. What about the rental value of the parsonage given him as a residence by the congregation in lieu of a larger cash salary? This cannot be considered as income and must not be reported as part of his net earnings for social security purposes when he files his income tax return.

"In filing his income tax return the Reverend Mr. S. follows the same procedure as persons self-employed in a trade or business covered by the social security law. He will fill out Schedule C and C-a (a part of income tax Form 1040) and on the Schedule C-a he must enter his social security account number. Since the Reverend Mr. S. has been in the ministry all of his working life, he has never had a social security account card. He plans to get one from the social security district office nearest him well in advance of the time for filing his 1955 income tax return (the return due April 15, 1956). One thing more, he will bear in mind. Although the net earnings he will report for social security purposes are made up, for the greater part, of the cash salary paid him by his congregation, he will report them as self-employment income. For this reason, he must pay the same rate of social security tax as a person self-employed in a trade or business. That tax is three per cent of the net earnings he will enter on Schedule C-a.

"Next, let's consider the protection that the Reverend Mr. S. has elected to have under social security. As a minimum of 1½ years of covered work is necessary to acquire an insured status, and he has never been in covered work before 1955, he cannot acquire actual protection before April, 1956. He will become fully insured at that time if he has net earnings of at least $400 in 1955 and 1956. He will continue to be fully insured if he has net earnings of at least $400 in 1955 and 1956. He will continue to be fully insured if he has net earnings of at least $400 in 1957 and again in 1958. If at that time he is not yet 65, he will need to have covered earnings for approximately half the period elapsing after 1950 until he reaches age 65 or dies, in order to retain his fully insured status, but never more than 10 years in which he has earnings of $400 or more.

"The Reverend Mr. S. should understand that being 'insured' is a condition of eligibility for payments. The amount payable to him and his family in old age, or to his family in case of his death, depends on the amount of his average monthly earnings in work covered by the law. The average monthly wage must be figured over the entire period beginning with January 1, 1951 (or the first day of the year of attainment of age 22, if later). However, because of a special 'drop-out' provision in the new amendments, his four years of non-covered work between January 1, 1951, and December 31, 1954, will not count against him in figuring his average monthly earnings. They may be dropped out in the computation, so that his average monthly earnings can be computed on the basis of his earnings beginning in 1955. If he should get an increase in cash salary from his present congregation, or transfer to another congregation and be paid a higher cash salary, his average monthly earnings will be larger. Moreover, any increase in income from christenings, weddings, burials, etc., would apply to upping his monthly average.

"Let's assume that the Reverend Mr. S.'s average monthly wage, after he becomes fully insured in April, 1956, and takes advantage of the four-year dropout, is determined to be $270. As all average monthly earnings up to $350 now count toward old-age and survivors insurance benefit, payments to him and his family will be based on the full amount of his earnings. If he maintains this average he will get an old-age benefit of $92.50 when he retires at age 65 or later. When his wife reaches 65, they will get a joint payment of $138.80 monthly. Their two children will be over 18 at that time so there will be no other family payments in the Reverend Mr. S.'s old age.

"But what about the insurance protection to the family in case of the Reverend Mr. S.'s death? Suppose he died at any time after 1956, leaving a widow and two small children. His widow, regardless of her age, would get monthly payments until the youngest child reached 18. As long as there were two children under that age the total family payments would be $185 a month; when the oldest child reached 18 or married before that time, the widow and the younger child would get a total of $138.80 a month. When that child reached 18 all benefit payments would stop but the widow would start getting $69.40 monthly when she reached 65, unless she had remarried in the meanwhile.

"The tables below show benefit amounts payable to beneficiaries when an insured worker has at least a year and half of covered employment or self-employment after June, 1953.

$ 70	$ 30.00	$ 57.80	$ 57.80	$ 57.80

"If the Reverend Mr. S. chooses to retire from full-time ministry at age 65, but wishes to continue filling a pulpit occasionally, or on a part-time basis, he may still receive his old-age retirement payments subject to certain limitations. He may earn as much as $1,200 in a year without losing any payments at all. For every $80 (or fraction thereof) earned over $1,200 from any type of work whether or not covered by social security, one month's social security benefit would not be payable. However, benefits would be payable for any month in which he neither earns more than $80 in wages nor renders substantial services as a self-employed person. His earnings in any amount after the year in which he becomes age 72 will not affect his receipt of benefits. However, his earnings during that entire year will be used in determining whether he gets benefit checks for the months in that year before he reaches 72.

"In this connection, if he is not eligible to receive his old-age retirement payment for a certain month, no benefit checks are paid to his dependents for that month.

"The new law also contains provisions which protect a worker's social security account in the event he becomes totally disabled before age 65, assuring him that payments to him upon reaching retirement age will not be reduced by any years of disability after he has acquired at least 5 years of covered work out of the last 10 years before the disability began. One and a half of the five years must have been during the three-year period before his disability forced him to give up gainful work.

"In review: The first action to be taken by any minister who wishes his 1955 earnings to be credited for social security is to file a certificate to that effect with the Internal Revenue Service before April 15, 1956. He must also have a social security account card by that date. The card, and full information about old-age and survivors insurance, may be secured without cost at the nearest social security office."

ALCOHOL UNDER THE CROSS

The Cross of Christ means more to us when we realize that every type of evil is to be seen around the foot of the Cross. All the elementary evils that torment mankind are there.

Had you realized that alcohol, and the subtle evil of alcohol, were there, presenting themselves as challenges to the Saviour? "And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but he received it not" (Mark 15: 23).

Myrrh, or gall, is a narcotic and has a stupefying effect. The alcohol, and the added narcotic, were provided to deaden the pain. Christ refused them both. One can say that Christ refused the wine and the myrrh because He desired to keep every faculty keen, that He might experience and suffer all the pains of death in order to accomplish a complete and perfect redemption for us.

But, for us, the chief and vastly impressive lesson is that Christ refused to drink the narcotic potion, and thus the Cross becomes our ally in the fight against alcohol. —Dr. Ralph C. Walker, Pastor, Madison Avenue Baptist Church, New York.

Neglected Youth

Rev. D. A. Windham
Greenville, North Carolina

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Proverbs 22:6).

THIS verse of Scripture presents some severe difficulties, as I have always contended that God said what He meant and meant what He said. However, we have seen young men and women from some of as apparently consecrated Christian homes as are to be found go completely astray. We can't lay the fault at the feet of the parents, as we know they did a splendid task in training these young men and women; yet they strayed away and never came back. Many people, whose names stand among some of the vilest people mentioned in the Old Testament, were children of those who were the very salt of the earth. In the face of these facts, I am clinging to the last clause of the test, "... he will not depart from it," even though it appears like a clash or contradiction between passages of Scripture. There are no contradictions in God's Word.

To train a child means, in the text, more than just teaching. It means to direct in a specific course toward a desired end, and covers the entire period of childhood.

Childhood training is the result of the combined efforts of the home, the church and the school, and a well-rounded training cannot be obtained without all three.

God has wisely constituted the child for such a program. With the child there is no school like the one around the corner and no church like the little chapel on the hill. You may get him away from them, but you can never get them away from him. What an opportunity to strike sledge hammer blows for God!

Who would not like to remain longer amid the lilies and sweet shrubs of childhood, but we must move on to the stern realities and problems of youth. "Time and tide wait for no man"; therefore the sweet little people of today will be the youths of tomorrow, and it is with them the remainder of this article will deal.

Around thirteen, a threefold change takes place in the life of every normal boy and girl. No one can pin point the exact time. About this time the child begins to think, plan and decide for himself. He is no longer considered a mere child, and he knows it. The sooner the church finds this out the better it will be for all concerned.

There has been a physical, mental and social change, which is to say he has crossed the boundary line between childhood and adolescence, and too often the church just gives him a ringside seat, one he will not fill forever. He is bubbling over with energy and is going to give vent to something; if it is not to the church it will be to something else.

I will pass over the physical change, as it more properly belongs to the medical profession and use my space for the other two changes.

From the threshold of youth to adult manhood and womanhood, hell turns loose its heavy artillery. But God means what He says, He will not depart from it. Yet when we read of young people in the Old Testament, and when we see some everyday, who had consecrated parents, in the gall of sin, the question remains, What has happened?

I quote from the pen of J. Edgar Hoover, who has seen as much juvenile delinquency as any living man, and leave that period from thirteen to twenty for another article:

"After reviewing the thousands of case histories which have poured into the FBI, I am firmly convinced that there are two factors in our outlook which if not checked will plunge us headlong into national decadence.

"The first is the failure of the home itself as the first classroom and second, our national indifference toward evil influences in our life which are beyond the immediate control of parents.

"Criminals are not born. They are the products of neglect, the victims of indifference, the results of an age which has tossed morality in the junk yard. Moral chaos and crime run hand in hand as they eagerly attempt to destroy peace, order and happiness.

"Unhappily, there are many homes where parents are untrained in their obligations to their offspring... where unguarded talk is as regular as three meals a day... where disrespect for authority and criticism of officials are common occurrences... where childish independence is encouraged and refractory conduct is condoned... where breaches of discipline and antisocial whims are overlooked... and where God and religion are considered too old-fashioned in an age dedicated to materialism.

"The children of such homes need help. The Sunday schools can do much and are doing much to bring God and religion into the starved souls of these youngsters."

A REVERIE

Mrs. M. L. Hicks
Manning, South Carolina

When kneeling at the mercy seat,
There comes a thought that is so sweet;
My Saviour hears my humble plea;
And sends His spirit down to me.

I love to kneel before His throne
And feel His arms around me thrown;
And sometime when this life is o'er
I'll see His face forever more.

I look to Him for all my needs
And He supplies and gently leads;
He gives me strength for ever hour,
And every day I feel His power.

I'm trusting Him through every day,
To keep me in the heavenly way;
And guide my footsteps through land
And guide my footsteps through this land
That I tread not in sinking sand.

His spirit He has giv'n to me,
To comfort and encourage me;
And make me love my fellow man
And all the beauties of this land.

WHAT we mean by Free Will Baptist is free moral agency.

Free means to act freely without restraint or necessity, and being accountable for such actions.

Moral pertains to the question of right or wrong.

An agent is one who has power to act.

A Baptist is a baptizer. Just to say you are a Baptist does not tell anyone what you are, but to say, "I am a Free Will Baptist," means what you are. In other words, we believe in the freedom of the will. You can accept Christ and live, or reject Christ and die. Men were made free from the beginning. "And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die" (Genesis 2:16, 17). Man was placed on probation. In other words, God set before man life or death even in the garden. These are the same things that Free Will Baptists believe today. Of every good thing the children may enjoy, but to sin is to die. That law hasn't changed.

Men must make a choice. "I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live" (Deuteronomy 30:19). We believe that life and death are set before every individual, that God calls all, that Christ died to save all and whosoever will may come and take the water of life freely.

Moses made the choice. "By faith Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter; Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season" (Hebrews 11:24, 25). We believe that this same choice has to be made by each individual that turns from the world and looks unto the Lord Jesus Christ. In fact, Jesus said, "He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal" (John 12:25). Moses had respect unto recompense of reward. It takes the same kind of thinking today as it did then. We must look beyond the pleasures of this world to a future reward in heaven. Whatever you are, you are that by choice.

Men can refuse. "Because I have called and ye refused; I have stretched out my hand, and no man regarded; But ye have set at nought all my counsel, and would none of my reproof" (Proverbs 1:24, 25). God calls all, Jesus calls all, and the Holy Ghost pleads with all to be saved. To refuse, then, is to refuse life everlasting. To accept Them is to accept eternal life.

What about men after they are saved? After men are saved they are still free to accept good or bad. "Can a maid forget her ornaments, or a bride her attire? yet my people have forgotten me days without number" (Jeremiah 2:32).

Where do folk go that forget God? Psalm 9:17 says, "The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God."

Free Will Baptists also believe in free communion. "But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup" (1 Corinthians 11:28). So we are called Free Will Baptists. It is not what you are called, it is what you are that counts. I have no objection to being called a Free Will Baptist, since the Bible teaches the freedom of will to be saved and the freedom of will to serve God after you are saved. Neither do I have any objection to the word Baptist, since I believe that baptism by immersion is the only correct way to baptize. I have set forth in this first chapter the reasons why we are called Free Will Baptists, and in following chapters, I will show you how positively we follow the teachings of the Word of God. I hope as you read that you will have an open mind and heart to receive the words of life and death.

THOUSANDS JOIN RANKS OF THE LITERATE

American parents and educators in this country may debate whether or not "Johnny" can read. Meanwhile, thousands upon thousands of adults in the world's most backward countries are joining the ranks of the literate. Prompted by a desire to learn, illiterates are crowding to government and missionary-sponsored literacy projects. The impact upon world affairs of these new literates will be tremendous in the next few years.

With the ability to read, there has come to these people a whole new world of ideas. There has opened up to them a whole new realm of wants and needs. And with the ability to read, they are equipped to seek better employment, to participate in government, to learn more about world events. The new literacy of these thousands of people will have a tremendous effect upon their own countries and upon the world—politically, economically and socially.

But the most important result of their literacy is that now these people are able to read the Word of God for themselves. Now their evangelization does not depend wholly on word-of-mouth preaching. They can read God's Word and the Holy Spirit can use the Word to bring them to a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ.

A large proportion of these new literates are in Africa where The Pocket Testament League can reach many of them with its campaign of mass evangelization and large scale Scripture distribution. Mr. Alfred A. Kunz, international director of the league, says: "Now that these people are able to read, we as Christians have a double duty toward them—not only to preach the gospel to them, but to give it to them to read in their own language. How tragic if those who can read should not receive the Book of books!"—The Pocket Testament League.

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Church Asking for Contributions

We quote from a letter received from the Oak Ridge Free Will Baptist Church, Oak Ridge, Tennessee:

"We, the Oak Ridge Free Will Baptist Church, were organized as a church in April of 1955.

"We have recently purchased two acres of land for our building site. The lot is one of the best in town, easily reached from any part of town and in a nice section.

"We are planning to start building this spring. We must raise five thousand dollars in order to build this year.

"There is a wonderful field for Free Will Baptists in this city. The city is young and there are a large number of people here who are not in church.

"We feel sure your church would like to share in this work for the Lord. Any freewill offering or donation, large or small, would be greatly appreciated. All contributions will be acknowledged. Make checks or money orders payable to Oak Ridge Free Will Baptist Church. Address all correspondence to: Rev. Milton Crowson, 105 Marquette Road, Oak Ridge, Tennessee."

Revival at Unity Church, Jacksonville, Florida

The evangelist, Bobby Jackson, brought inspirational messages during a series of revival services held at the Unity Free Will Baptist Church, Jacksonville, Florida, during which twenty decisions for Christ were made.

Brother Jackson was assisted during the meetings by the pastor, Rev. W. A. Hansley, and the music director, Mr. L. W. Fortner.

Rev. Hansley makes the following statement concerning the revival: "We, the people of the church, take this opportunity to thank Brother Jackson for the work which he is doing for the denomination. The work of a full time evangelist is not an easy task, however, with the educational background and deep yearning passion for lost souls, as Brother Jackson possesses, we know that he will be a blessing to every church in which he ministers.

"We call upon the Free Will Baptist people of the nation who read this article to remember Brother Jackson, our national evangelist, in prayer."

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: What attitude should a Christian take toward the United Nations? Should we have hope that it may either make provision for permanent peace and security, or that it may become Christian in character? Do we have Scripture on these points or that would tell us how to behave in a company of people such as the members of this organization are since they do not pray to our God neither give Jesus His rightful place in their plans and activities?—A. V. Prince, Woodbine, Tennessee.

Answer: Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, professor of English Bible at Fuller Theological Seminary, was asked similar questions to these first two of yours while teaching a class in prophecy at Winona Lake School of Theology, July, 1950. He said he thought that both we as individuals and our government as the spokesman of Christian people should do all that could be done to promote world peace; that our government should maintain a friendly relation to any nation or group of nations that is sincerely striving to maintain what peace treaties we have and to set up organizations with powers to bring about a better relationship between the peoples of the earth. He seems to think that this negotiated peace which we have had since the first world war is symbolized by the white horse and his rider that are set forth in Revelation 6:2, and that this type of peace will be maintained by such man-made organizations as the League of Nations, the World Court and the United Nations, until all such have run their courses. He said that when all these have broken down and failed, a thing which they must do sooner or later, there will be a time of war and bloodshed such as never has been seen in the whole history of man. It is his opinion that God is allowing these to maintain a semblance of order and safety so as to allow time and opportunity for the Christians to finish taking the gospel to those who have never once heard it. His view on this subject seems quite logical to me and in keeping with what the Bible has to say on the question. We are called upon, in the Bible, to pray for the peace of Jerusalem. "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love thee" (Psalm 122:6), and also to obey those in authority over us when obedience to such superiors is not in conflict with God Himself, who is the first person and power in authority. "Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves: for they watch for your souls, . . ." (Hebrews 13:17). "Servants, be obedient to them that are your masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ" (Ephesians 6:5). ". . . We ought to obey God rather than men" (Acts 5:29).

Since our nation is a member of the United Nations, the United Nations has influence over the United States and in this relation has authority over us. Jesus said, ". . . Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's" (Matthew 22:21), also ". . . For there is no power but of God: . . ." (Romans 13:1). Read all of Romans 13:1-8.

The answer to your second question is in the negative, for there can be no kind of permanent peace that will precede the coming of the Prince of Peace except of course, that personal peace given by Christ to His own followers. "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid" (John 14:27); "These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. . . ." (John 16:33).

Jesus will bring sudden condemnation and judgment to all the agencies of the earth that leave Him out of their peace negotiations. "He that deviseth to do evil shall be called a mischievous person" (Proverbs 24:8), "For their calamity shall rise suddenly; and who knoweth the ruin of them both" (Proverbs 24:22). "For the nation and kingdom that will not serve thee shall perish; yea, those nations shall be utterly wasted" (Isaiah 60:12). "The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God" (Psalm 9:17). See Isaiah 17:10-14; 41:20-24; 47:10, 11; Jeremiah 15:6, 7; 25:32, 33; Proverbs 1:26-31; Hosea 13:1-3.

There is no question in my mind as to whether or not we as a nation should trust God more and the other nations of the world less, because it took God's intervention to save us from disaster in two world wars and another tangle in Korea. But instead of trusting God as we should and being wise to the treachery of the nations, we continue to frantically reach as a drowning man for a worthless straw to unethical nations for new alliances and entanglements and say to them in effect, your gods are as good perhaps in some ways better than our God; therefore fearing that we might incur the wrath of these nations' gods, we just leave ours out at the United Nations' peace conferences and whatever else we work together with China and Russia in. Instead of such folly we should say as Jacob did while in Padanaram. Jehovah God gave us the victories received or won in the last two world wars and He let us out of Korea without allowing us to be annihilated. In the event that we keep on leaving God out in this way and a third world war comes, which is inevitable, will we have the nerve to wait until disaster is in sight before we flee from all else to Him and then expect Him to again be our mighty deliverer? If so, I doubt not that our damage will be greater than it has yet been if He heeds our crying at all. "He, that being often reprov'd hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy" (Proverbs 29:1). It surely occurs to me that like Israel we have been a "stiff-necked gainsaying people," and that God is about ready to say as He said to Israel, "A fierce and destructive people shall come in and carry you into captivity." With this in mind we need to remember that it is not too late now, for 1 Chronicles 7:14, Isaiah 1:18, Matthew 11:28-30, 1 John 1:9, Jeremiah 26:13, Isaiah 26:13 and Proverbs 28:13 still apply to us as a people and certainly as individuals.

Rich Beyond Telling

Had we not a friend in all the world but the Lord Jesus, we should yet be rich beyond all telling. He only can help in every time of trouble. His infinite tenderness and boundless sympathy meet our every need. His wisdom and guidance are ever at our disposal. His presence sheds light and joy wherever He comes. The touch of His hand has still its soothing, healing power, and His voice still brings a sense of rest and comfort and strength.—F. J. Horsefield.

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"Then said Jesus unto them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you" (John 20:21).

These, together with the last four words of the nineteenth verse, are the first recorded words of the risen Christ spoken to His disciples to be found in the Gospel according to John. It is my desire, in this message, to direct your thinking to the importance of the last part of the text: "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you." We read in the twenty-second verse, "And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost." This bespeaks of the power given them for the tasks before them. They needed the power that could be obtained only by receiving the Holy Ghost. "But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me . . ." (Acts 1:8). Witnessing to the things they had heard and seen of Christ was the special and peculiar work of the apostles. No less is it the work assigned to the followers of Christ today, but without the power of the Holy Ghost we are poor witnesses.

Let us go back to the text and consider, "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you." Now, we believe that Christ did everything that God assigned to Him. Not one thing was left undone.

More than ever, after His death and resurrection, Christ sought for those who would be faithful witnesses of the great things He had taught. Now they had a new and vital message to give to the world, a message of the assurance of real salvation and all the blessedness of the future with God and the redeemed. It is no less the duty and privilege of all who have accepted Christ as our Saviour and King to use all the means in our power to win personally our friends and neighbors and all those with whom we come in contact to our Christ. We must, if we do the will of God, be distinctly witnesses for Christ, or we will witness against Him. If those who have not accepted Christ see no difference between themselves and those who have taken membership with the church, they will not be won and become witnesses themselves.

Christ has sent us to be living witnesses for Him in the upbuilding of His kingdom. The following story illustrates what I believe that Jesus meant when He said, "Even so send I you."

A young man came to a pastor and asked for Christian work. After some conversation the pastor said: "God has so placed you, so filled your day, that I don't see where you can get time for outside Christian work. But see here, Murray, here's something for you to do. Let all the men in the office know that you are a Christian, not by talking, but by living. Get in a helpful word here and there. Get some fellow to drop his oaths or his beer. Show Christ living in you and controlling you. Preach the gospel among your associates by the best life you can live with God's help. Will you try?"

The young man promised. A few weeks later the superintendent of the department where the young man worked met the pastor, and asked, "What's come over Murray?" "I don't know," the latter replied, "I didn't know anything had." "Well, there has. He's the best clerk in the whole force, and has become so in the last month. He's the best influence about the whole place. The men all notice it. He's quiet, earnest, and full of a spirit that imparts itself to others. Something's come over Murray."—Selected.

"What Think Ye of Christ?"

A chaplain, in World War II, was ready to preach to a regiment of soldiers, just back from the front trenches. They were tired and weary. The rain began to fall. They were standing in the field, under the open sky, to hear his message. "My text," he began, "is 'What think ye of Christ?'" He paused and then he continued, "My sermon is, 'What think ye of Christ?'" Then he shouted: "Dismissed!"

The question determining our destiny, whether heaven or hell, is, "What think ye of Christ?"—Selected.

THE LORD'S SUPPER (Continued)

The Supper Connected With the Second Coming of the Lord

Not only is the supper to be observed in remembrance of the death of Christ, but the command is to observe it "... till he come" (1 Corinthians 11:26).

I have known a few people who do not believe that Jesus will ever come to earth again, but they would take the bread and they would drink from the cup, observing what we call the Lord's Supper. If I did not believe that Christ would come again, I certainly would not touch the bread nor drink from the cup, and say that I was doing it in remembrance of Christ. I would be afraid of the judgment of the Lord. "Wherefore whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord" (1 Corinthians 11:27).

"The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? For we being many are one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread" (1 Corinthians 10:16, 17). Here we learn that we are all partakers of that one bread, and Christ is the bread spoken of. Christ said Himself, "I am that bread of life" (John 6:48). This life of Christ must be taken into our lives. When we partake of the bread and drink from the cup we confess to the world and to our brethren and sisters in Christ, that we have accepted Christ as our personal Saviour. We say by our actions that we believe that Christ died for our sins, that His blood atoned for our sins, and that we are children of God.

In reality, if we are the children of God, saved by faith in the atonement made by Christ, and we partake in the remembrance of Christ, we are saying that we love Him, and that because we love Him we exemplify our love by communing with others who believe. Free Will Baptists do not commune to make themselves children of God, but because we are believers in Christ and saved thereby. We do not commune because we are worthy, but because Christ is worthy—for our goodness, but for His goodness.

To refuse to commune is a confession that we are not children of God or a confession that we are in a backslidden state. It is a sin not to commune in remembrance of the death and resurrection and the promise of His return for His very own. When we refuse, we take our stand with the unbelievers. We are Free Will Baptists by choice. Paul says, "Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils" (1 Corinthians 10:21). So if we do not discern the body of Christ it is not His table. If it is the Lord's table, then all the children of God are free to partake. No man has any right to say to the least of the children of God, "This is the Lord's table, but if you are not of our faith and order you can be excused." Thus the original Free Will Baptists practice free communion—open communion—letting the Word of God be the judge.

The apostle, Paul, said, "But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup. For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body. For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep. For if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged. But when we are judged, we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world" (1 Corinthians 11:28-32). For emphasis let us read again these words as stated in the Treatise about the Lord's Supper: "This is a commemoration of the death of Christ for our sins, in the use of bread which He made the emblem of His broken body, and the cup, the emblem of His shed blood, and by it the believer expresses his love for Christ, his faith and hope in Him, and pledges to Him perpetual fidelity.

"It is the privilege and duty of all who have spiritual union with Christ to commemorate His death; and no man has a right to forbid these tokens to the least of His disciples."

The Commemoration of the Death of Christ for Our Sins

We actually say when we partake of that bread that we believe Jesus Christ paid our sin debt—that we have accepted in full the death of Christ on the Cross to redeem us from the curse of the law which condemned us, due to the fact that "... all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). We confess with Isaiah by saying, "Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows: yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the LORD hath laid on him the iniquity of us all" (Isaiah 53:4-6).

The Emblem of His Shed Blood

The believer in Christ testifies in the partaking of the cup to the salvation by the shed blood of Christ. "Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us. For if the blood of bulls and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh: How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God? And for this cause he is the mediator of the new testament, that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance" (Hebrews 9:12-15).

Since this is true, Free Will Baptists and others who believe in the shed blood of Christ believe that our sins were purged on the Cross when Christ made the atonement. And we say with John, "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7). We can say of a truth, "... Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them" (Revelation 14:13). Thus there is no need for a purgatory after death since Christ purged our sins on the Cross and is now our Mediator in heaven. It really means something to eat the bread and to drink from the cup.

We find that all the disciples partook on the night of the institution of the Lord's Supper, so the command is to us, "Drink ye all." Remember that it is a command from the Lord. True Free Will Baptists believe in obedience to the commands of Jesus Christ.

STORIES

FOR OUR

BOYS and GIRLS

The Promise Tree

ROBERT and Mancer had come out to Grandpa's for a week-end visit and were delighted to find the apple trees all in bloom, and looking like big pink bouquets.

"What kind of a tree is that down by the fence that has such white blossoms on it, while all of the others have pink blossoms?" asked Robert.

"It looks just like a big snowball," said Mancer.

"Oh, that is just a promise tree," said Grandpa.

By this time Eleanor and Ruth and Bob and Allen had come up to where the boys were, and all exclaimed together, "A promise tree! What is a promise tree? We never heard of one before."

"Don't you have nature study in your schools? I should think you would learn all about promise trees at school."

"We learn about birds and flowers, but we don't know much about trees."

"Hasn't Robert been to the Boy Scout camp a few times? He ought to learn something about trees at the camps."

"We do learn about some trees," said Robert. "I know oak trees and walnuts and poplars and maples and sycamores and beeches and pines, but I never heard of the promise tree before."

"Please, Grandpa, won't you tell us all about the promise tree?" said Ruth.

"I see Nelson coming, and yonder comes Marie and John. Eleanor, you get Doris Jean and we will go over to the promise tree and take a close look at it, then I will tell you all about it."

"Now, everybody get a bunch of blossoms and then sit down on the grass and I will explain about the promise tree," said Grandpa.

"It looks just like our big cherry tree," said Marie.

"But it has so many more blossoms."

"Well, it is just a promise tree," said Grandpa.

"Oh, I see," said Eleanor, "the blossoms are just promises of cheeriness, but they never fulfill them and you don't get any cherries. Is that what you mean, Grandpa?"

"Yes, that is it. Now everybody look into the corner of a blossom, and notice that little green ball about as big as a pinhead, which has a little horn sticking out at the end. That little green ball would become a large red ripe cherry if the tree had kept its promise. Every May it is full of these pretty white blossoms, but we never get any cherries. And that reminds me of some boys and girls I know, who make a lot of nice promises but don't always live up to them."

"And I know some like that," said Ruth. "They promised the teacher that they would not whisper in school any more, and in the afternoon they were at it again."

"I get tired trying to study all the time," said John.

"And I just forget, and whisper to John before I think," said Ruth.

"And I know a girl who promised to have better lessons next time, but she didn't."

"I guess we all have made promises that we did not fulfill," said Grandpa.

"I have. I promised Mother that I would wash the dishes without being told, but I forgot all about it until she called me from the playhouse," said Marie.

"And I know some boys who promised to put the tools away when they have been working at their wagons and airplanes," said Eleanor, "but just leave them lying on the ground where they used them, and Grandpa has to gather them up and put them away every time they have them out."

"Well, we just forget, don't we, Allen?" said Bob, and grinned at Grandpa.

"That must have been a promise tree that Jesus went to when He was hungry and thought He would get some figs, but it had nothing on it but leaves," said Robert.

"Yes, and the tree died after that," said Eleanor. "If it had been full of nice ripe figs, it might have lived a long time."

"Do you know that boys and girls are just blossom promises?" said Grandpa. "Just as apples and cherries grow out of blossoms, so men and women must grow out of boys and girls. You see, every little boy is a promise to become a man, and every little girl is a promise to become a woman. But sometimes a blossom dies and then there will be no apple."

"And, Grandpa, would Mr. Reese's little baby that died last week have become a big woman if she had lived?" said Ruth. "And will little Bettie Ann be a woman sometime if she lives?"

"Yes, every little baby will become a man or a woman if thy live."

"What do you think of the promise tree now, Robert?" said Grandpa.

"Oh, I understand it now, and I think it is a fine lesson for all of us to try to live up to our promises. They don't count for anything unless we fulfill them."—My Pleasure.

A Straight Line

ROBBIIE was working away at his drawing lesson. Presently, the teacher came around to see what progress he was making.

"Look here, Robbie," she said, "that line isn't straight."

"No, it isn't straight, I know," answered Robbit, "but I can fix that up later."

"A straight line never needs straightening," said the teacher quietly, as she turned away to look at the work of another scholar.

That simple remark which the teacher made set Robbie to thinking. "A straight line never needs straightening."

How much better, then, to make the straight line, rather than to draw a crooked line which would have to be straightened afterward. Besides, a line that has been partly rubbed out and then made straight never looks quiet as well as a line which is drawn perfectly straight the first time.

When we speak the truth we do not have to stop and correct what we have said.—Selected.

The Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, N. C.) NEW BERN, N. C.

Tarboro, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Tarboro Free Will Baptist Church held its regular monthly meeting on March 20, in the home of Mrs. Jean Pollard. The meeting was opened by the group singing "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." Mrs. Dilda led the group in the opening prayer. The evening Scripture was taken from Hebrews 1:1-30.

Those taking part on the program were: Mrs. Douglas Norville, Mrs. Jean Pollard, Mrs. Matthew Peele, Mrs. Dilda and Mrs. Alton Hathaway. The 20 members and 1 visitor present were dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Raymond Webb.

Scranton, S. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the High Hill Church held its pre-Easter week of prayer with good attendance; holding the meetings at the church with the exception of Friday night when the meeting was held in the home of a sick member of the church.

The auxiliary has chosen a project for the month of April which is beautifying the church and church yard. The ladies also plan to visit the children's home to help mend and remodel clothes for the children.

Timmons ville, S. C.—The Vernilla Granger Circle of the Bethany Church held its regular monthly meeting for March at the home of Mrs. Hampton Thornhill with Mrs. R. W. McClam as co-hostess. Mrs. Dick Granger presided at the meeting.

The program chairman, Mrs. Margarie Hicks, introduced the program. Those taking parts were: Mrs. Gladys Vause, Mrs. Alice Kirby, Mrs. Grace Louis, Mrs. Gladys Welch and Mrs. Ruby Lee Severance. Mrs. Ruby Lee Severance and Mrs. Nellie Kirby rendered a duet. After a brief business period the hostess served refreshments to the 22 members and 1 visitor present.

Trampled Under Foot!

A Scottist botanist lay flat on his back in a meadow. He was looking through his microscope at a common heather bell. He seemed to be oblivious of the shepherd near him until his shadow announced his presence. Looking up, the botanist said to the shepherd, "Take this and look into it!" The rugged shepherd, for the first time, saw the heather bell magnified in all of its intricate beauty and marvelous design! As he continued to look, tears began to trickle down his weather-beaten face. Regaining his composure, he said to the botanist, "And just to think I have been trampling these beneath my rough feet over the years!"

There is a greater act of sacrilege, or wanton desecration of which we can be guilty. We may trample "the Rose of Sharon," the Lord Jesus Christ, beneath our feet. Warningly, God's Word says, "He that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses: Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, . . . an unholy thing, . . ." (Hebrews 10:28, 29).

"My Talent Is to Speak My Mind!"

A woman came to John Wesley and said, "Mr. Wesley, my talent is to speak my mind!" Looking into the face of the woman, Mr. Wesley said, "I am certain that God wouldn't care at all if you buried that talent!" When God's children unhinge their tongues and give others a piece of their mind they have no peace of mind left!

When Leonardo da Vinci was painting his great masterpiece, "The Last Supper," he became quite angry with a friend. He lashed him with hot and bitter words. He then threatened the friend with vengeance. Returning to his canvas, he began to paint the face of Jesus. He found, however, that he was so perturbed and disquieted that he could not compose himself sufficiently for the delicate work before him. He went out immediately, sought his hurt friend, and humbly asked his forgiveness for the tongue lashing he had administered to him. Then he was in possession of that inner calm which enabled him to give to the Master's face the tender and delicate expression he so well knew it must have.—Selected.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Lucy Linton Daugherty

On November 19, 1955, God in His infinite mercy saw fit to call from this earth Mrs. Lucy Daugherty. She was born on July 10, 1870, making her stay on this earth a little more than 85 years. Mrs. Daugherty was staying at the convalescent home in Washington, North Carolina, at the time of her death.

Mrs. Daugherty and some others, with the help and cooperation of the Eastern Conference, organized the Eastern Convention in October, 1909, which was then known as the Home Mission Sunday School and Little Workers League Convention. This league finally ceased to exist. Later another young people's group was organized at St. Mary's Church, New Bern, North Carolina. Mrs. Daugherty was president of this convention for a number of years, and assumed great responsibility in the convention up until 1916. The home mission group did not stay organized very long since many of the churches decided to have only one society which became known as the Ladies Aid Society.

After Mrs. Daugherty was married she seldom attended the conventions; however, we feel that she did not turn away from God and that she was true to Him all the way. May we commend to all her example of life as being eminently worthy of being followed.

Self-made men and women have quite an acceptance and a "pull" in the world; but if God is to have them He will have to unmake them and obliterate all the "works of men's hands," that He may have a chance to show His Divine power in and through them. If you want God to really use you for His glory, do not spend your precious time and means in "making yourself." Why create kindling for the burning, when you may have precious stones for your eternal enjoyment? If you want to be spared much suffering, let God do the making of you, and then watch Him work His wonders in your life.—Selected.

MISSION TO MEXICO

Damon C. Dodd, Promotional Secretary

National Home Mission Board

 OUR newest venture in home missions is Mexico. This country offers one of the most challenging mission fields of our present day and especially to Free Will Baptists. Its close proximity to the United States makes it easily accessible and the facility of travel—by train, plane or bus—puts one in close touch with any part of the country. Entrance restrictions are most reasonable, the Mexican government requiring only personal proof of American citizenship and smallpox vaccinations not more than three years old. In lieu of the vaccination, a recent test showing the last vaccination to still be effective is acceptable. A tourist permit, good for six months, is granted and one may enter Mexico.

The Mexican constitution regulates church organizations in the country and states that "Places of public worship are the property of the nation as represented by the federal government, which shall determine which of them may continue to devote to their present purpose." The constitution also stipulates that "State legislatures are given the power to determine the maximum number of ministers of religious creeds, according to the needs of each locality, and only a Mexican by birth may be a minister of any religion."

It is to be noted also that religious schools and institutions are barred. On this point the constitution states, "Public and private charitable institutions, for sick and needy, for scientific research, or for the effusion of knowledge may not be under the patronage, direction, administration, charge or supervision of religious sects or their institutions, nor of any religious sect or their dependents, even though the former or the latter shall not be in service."

All of this gives a coloring of the impossible to our challenging Mexico task. And a task it really is. There are 30 million people in Mexico and only 250,000 of them are Christians. It is estimated that 425 protestant missionaries are working there, which means one missionary to 71,000 population. The ratio of missionary to people is more staggering in view of the severe restrictions under which the gospel must be preached. What, then, is the answer?

The dilemma has been partially solved by stationing missionaries in the American border towns and sending them in on short excursions to reach the towns nearby. This is the method which we are presently using. In this way we are serving two Mexican towns, Monterrey and Jiminez.

Monterrey is located south of Laredo and west of McAllen, Texas, in the state of Nuevo de Leon. It is an important and busy city, and the center of trade for the state of Nuevo de Leon. Our Free Will Baptist mission has an attendance of 55 to 60 and has been in operation about two years. The Mexican pastor is Juan Lopez. Rev. Lopez carries on a small rural mission near Monterrey as well as the work in the city, and for all of his work he receives no pay whatever. In fact, he actually supports the work out of his own earnings as a day laborer, paying rent on the building in town and providing for its upkeep. Recently the church in North Belmont, North Carolina, of which Rev. Ralph Staten is pastor, volunteered to underwrite the rent for the building, which is 100 pesos Mexican ($12.50 American) per month, as well as $10 per month toward the support of the pastor. This church is to be commended most highly for this wonderful gesture, and especially so, since they were already sending $40 per month to support two national workers on foreign fields.

Our other Free Will Baptist mission is in Jiminez, Mexico. This town of 700 people is south of Eagle Pass, Texas, in the Mexican state of Coahuila. The pastor, German Rodriguez, is assisted in the work by Deacon Guadalupe Rodriguez. The attendance ranges from 35 to 45 and is growing slowly. This is the only Protestant church in town and one of the very few in the entire area. It reaches many of the rural people who have not before had a chance to hear the gospel. The pastor receives nothing for his services and supports himself and family by day labor. The group is building an adobe church and is having a struggle, financially, to keep going.

Piedras Negras, Mexico, a thriving city of 25,000, is situated in Coahuila, just across the Rio Grande River from Eagle Pass. This is a needy city, spiritually, since there are few Protestant churches there. Like Monterrey, it is the commercial and social capital of its state and offers a real challenge to us in our missionary program. We are told that a Free Will Baptist church could easily be established there, as well as in the small rural communities surrounding it.

These are our immediate prospects in Mexico. We have two missionaries, Rev. James Timmons and Miss Bessie Yeley, and the three national workers, Rev. Juan Lopez, Rev. German Rodriguez and Deacon Guadalupe Rodriguez. This staff is pitifully small, but it is all we can afford, financially, at this time. We are looking forward to the time when we will have at least 12 American missionaries to assign to this field.

What are our needs? Briefly, here they are:

1. An additional $25 per month for the pastor in Monterrey. This would make a salary of $35 per month for him.
2. A salary of $25 per month for the pastor in Jiminez.
3. At least $150 to complete the church now under construction in Jiminez.
4. 24 churches to give $10 a month to underwrite the salary and house rent for Rev. James Timmons, one of our missionaries to Mexico.
5. Above all things, 100,000 prayer warriors to pray daily for the success of this work.

6. Missionary volunteers to go to Mexico and give themselves wholeheartedly to the task of seeking out the lost.

If you or your church, league group, Sunday school class, woman's auxiliary, Y. P. A., G. T. A., or any other group can help the home mission board meet any of the above needs, please let us hear from you. Our address is 3801 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee.

Suffering for the Faith

(Lesson for April 22)

Lesson: Acts 6:8-10; 7:51, 60.

Golden Text: Philippians 1:29.

I. INTRODUCTION

The religious leaders of the Jewish people had instigated the crucifixion of Christ (John 19:6), and they now revealed their continued enmity against Him. And in so doing they unconsciously fulfilled one of the parables of Jesus. It is the parable of the nobleman who . . . went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return. . . . But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us" (Luke 19:12-14). Stephen became the messenger who was sent after Him with this message.

Jesus had foretold the coming of persecution and tribulation which would come upon His followers, but strangely enough the first martyr was not one of the apostles; he was a Jew with a Grecian name who is mentioned for the first time in the chapter preceding the one that contains an account of his death. Stephen's career was a short but useful one.—Selected.

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. The fullness of faith and spiritual power will always produce unusual results (Vs. 8).
2. The wisdom and spirit of holy men are more than a match for wicked men (Vv. 9, 10).
3. When stubborn unbelief rules the hearts of men, the Holy Ghost cannot come in (Vs. 51).
4. Men who reject the Spirit of God will likely be possessed by the spirit of Satan (Vv. 52, 53).
5. Those who are beastly and brutal within will often act like dogs instead of men (Vs. 54).
6. Men who are full of the Holy Ghost often get a glimpse of the glories of heaven (Vv. 55, 56).
7. Those who hate Jesus are disturbed and enraged when they hear His witness testify for Him (Vv. 57, 58).
8. Those who fall asleep in Jesus on earth are sure to wake up with Him in glory (Vv. 59, 60).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Stephen was well-qualified for the task assigned him of God. Luke wanted Bible readers to know that Stephen was an outstanding follower of Jesus and not just one of the group; therefore, he said that Stephen was full of faith and power. Perhaps there were some of the members of this band who were not especially outstanding in their faith, as there are some today who do not distinguish themselves in the service of the Master. At least, we know that there were two of these early followers, Ananias and his wife, Sapphira, who lied to the Holy Ghost and lost their lives.

Stephen revealed a thorough knowledge of the Bible in his message before the Jewish council, the text of which is given in Chapter 7. Furthermore, Bible scholars say that Stephen was looked upon by the Jews as a man of excellent training and education. They say that he had perhaps studied under the great teacher, Gamaliel.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

2. Stephen was a man full of the Holy Ghost. This was the next answer to his faith. The Holy Spirit comes to all who accept Christ as their Saviour. As Paul writes to the Ephesians: "In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that holy Spirit of promise" (Ephesians 1:13). "For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, . . ." (1 Corinthians 12:13). But while all believers have the Spirit, not all have the fullness of the Spirit. Being filled with the Spirit depends upon one's obedience to the known will of God. Any sin permitted in the life will quench the Spirit or grieve Him and limit His power in us. Being filled with the Spirit means that one is wholly devoted to the Lord and is walking in a manner well pleasing to Him. The normal life of the Christian is to be filled with the Spirit. Service and contact with the world will, in a measure, empty us. But we are to resort to prayer, confession and meditation and we will be filled again and again (Ephesians 5:18). Stephen as a Christian lived up to all his obligations and so realized all the blessing. We can all do the same and receive the same.—Robert Clark, D. D.

3. Stephen was a man who was full of the Word of God. This is seen in the defense he made before the council. He showed that he had a comprehensive and accurate knowledge of Israel's past history. But more than that, he showed that he had clear perception of its spiritual meaning. And this is what he emphasized as he spoke to the council. It was this spiritual meaning of Israel's history that condemned his judges and enraged them against him. They could not deny the truth of his charges or give him an adequate answer. So they silenced him by destroying him.

4. A little girl of eight years was sent on an errand by her parents. While on her way, she was attracted by the singing of a gospel meeting in the open air, and drew near. The conductor of the meeting was so struck with the child's earnestness that he spoke to her and told her about Jesus. She did not know much about Him, but the gentleman told her of His love to her. On returning home, her father asked her what had detained her. She told him, and he cruelly beat her, forbidding her to go to any such meeting again. About a fortnight afterward, she was so taken up with what she had previously heard of Jesus, that she forgot all about her message. She saw the same gentleman, who again told her more about the Saviour. On her return home, she again told her father, as before, where she had been, and that she had not brought what she had been sent for, but that she had brought Jesus. Her father was enraged, and kicked the poor little creature until the blood came. She never recovered from this brutal treatment. Just before she breathed her last, she called her mother and said: "Mother, I have been praying to Jesus to save you and Father." Then pointing to her little dress, she said: "Mother, cut me a bit out of the bloodstained piece of my dress." The mother, wondering, did so. "Now," said the dying child, "Christ shed His blood for my sake, and I am going to take this to Jesus to show Him that I shed my blood for His sake." Thus she died, holding firmly the piece of her dress, stained with her own blood. The testimony of that dear child was the means of leading both father and mother to Christ.—Faithful Words.

5. You are urged to read all that Brother Pelt has to say in the Advanced Quarterly, and see if you can stand to be pelted with truths. If our hearts are right we will not become angry as Stephen's enemies did.

MISSIONS

and we thank Mr. Dodd for it.—J. O. F.)

Wenatchee, Washington: The first Free Will Baptist churches ever to be set up in the state of Washington are slated for organization this spring. Rev. J. J. Postlewaite, home missionary to Washington and Oregon, has made the initial contacts in three cities where there are Free Will Baptist families and reports that first response from each place was most encouraging. Mr. Postlewaite is moving from Milton-Freewater, Oregon, to Wenatchee, Washington, so as to be in closer contact with the new fields. The missionary is also eyeing prospects in Washington's atomic city, Richlands, where there are good possibilities for a Free Will Baptist church in the not-too-distant future.

Milton-Freewater, Oregon: The Free Will Baptist church in Milton-Freewater has called Rev. William McClintock, Detroit, Michigan, as pastor, to take over the work vacated by Rev. Postlewaite, who has moved to Washington. Mr. McClintock is a graduate of Free Will Baptist Bible College and has been going to school and working in Detroit since finishing at Nashville. He will serve as pastor of the church, and will be in the employ of the church. This is a new group and they are to be commended for being able so soon to take over their own support.

Shelton, Nebraska: The Free Will Baptist church in Shelton, Nebraska, reports renewed interest, brought about by turning over the Sunday evening services to the young people of the church. Rev. G. C. Lee Jr., missionary, also writes that Elm Island Church is coming along well and that the outlook in Nebraska is bright. The Shelton Church is two years old; the Elm Island Church was the only remaining Free Will Baptist church in Nebraska when Mr. and Mrs. Lee went there as home missionaries two years ago.

Juneau, Alaska: Word from the commissioner of education of Alaska informs us that there are school teaching positions open in all three districts of Alaska to qualified persons. The minimum requirements are 90 hours from an accredited college, with at least 16 hours in education or related courses. The home mission board is anxious to contact persons interested in going to Alaska as school teacher missionaries. Information relative to application forms, salary, etc., will be sent on request. This is an open door for Free Will Baptists into Alaska and we must take advantage of it.

El Paso, Texas: Rev. A. F. Pierce

writes the following corrections on the new church in El Paso. "The church was organized with 13 instead of 35 charter members and has now grown to 26 members. Instead of Rev. Wayne Wegman being the pastor, it is Rev. A. F. Pierce, Box 3557, Station A, El Paso, Texas."

OUR Living BIBLE

V. B. S. Course
Full Color — Complete
For 5 Age Groups

Featuring ONE GENERAL THEME Adapted for All Ages

A brand-new 10-lesson course with the primary purpose of inspiring boys and girls to know and live the Bible. All lessons are complete . . . carefully and reverently prepared. Fascinating handicraft ideas have been adapted to correlate with the course for further lesson emphasis. A complete, practical and true-to-the-Bible course for the children of today.

TEACHERS' MANUALS

Even the most inexperienced teacher or leader will find all the help needed in these complete manuals. Introductions to each manual explain what to expect of the child, and give many helpful pointers on how to teach. Complete plans for each lesson, plus instructions and patterns for all handwork activities assure a thorough treatment of the course for every age group.

PUPILS' WORKBOOKS

For the first time, pupils' workbooks have full color throughout! Activities have been selected with the primary purpose of emphasizing the lessons. Nursery children will make a crown with jewels, a harp with strings, and many others; Beginners will make a scroll, a mobile of the Twenty-third Psalm, etc.; Primary children will make salt pictures, Bible patrol badges, plus several other fascinating items; Juniors will make gospel bells from can lids, cord pictures, and others; Teen-agers will find such projects as pictures from felt and chicken wire, and bowls from old phonograph records both interesting and rewarding.

ALSO full-color teaching pictures and a Table-Top Pict-O-Graph set are provided for the teacher's use. Visualized lessons are remembered lessons.

HERRON ACRES G. A.'s PLAY EASTER BUNNY TO ORPHANAGE CHILDREN

The Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary of the Sherron Acres Free Will Baptist Church, Durham, North Carolina, had an evening of fun when they met Monday, March 26, to prepare 44 Easter baskets for the children at the Free Will Baptist Orphanage at Middlesex, North Carolina.

The Easter baskets were made from paper dishes with pastel braided ribbon being used for the handles. Colorful Easter seals were used to decorate the baskets that were filled with a chocolate Easter bunny and many Easter egg delights.

The Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary was organized in January with four members. They meet every Monday night at the home of their advisor, Mrs. Carroll Whitaker, and now have nine active members. For special work they have visited the county home, participated on programs, and have mailed Valentines and Easter cards to the aged and shut-in friends of the community. Each week letters are mailed with tracts to the newly wed couples, and correspondence with our foreign missionaries has proved to be interesting. The first meeting of every month is special program week at which time Margie West, program chairman, presents a timely program from the manual. In the handy craft class the girls have learned to hook rugs, and are now making waste baskets for our spring bazaar.

Officers for the year have been elected as follows: president, Peggy Partin; vice-president, Anne Pendergrass; secretary, Nancy Westbrooke; treasurer, Marian Choplin; program chairman, Margie West; stewardship chairman, Judy Whitaker; mission chairman, Barbara Harris; and library chairman, Sandra Lynn.

STEWARDSHIP AND BENEVOLENT OPPORTUNITIES

The subject assigned to us indicates the recognition of benevolence as a definite Christian virtue in that it is referred to as a stewardship. By this we mean that it is a sacred trust committed to us of God. He is the rightful owner who had delivered it into our keeping for use during our sojourn upon earth. As servants of our Lord we have the privilege and opportunity of putting this means of grace to work for God's glory so that it will bring returns of profit to Him.

There is also a clear indication that we shall be brought to account to God for the manner in which we have handled this solemn trust. We have only to recall the Parable of the Talents (Matthew 25:14-30) to be reminded of our accounting to, and rewards from, our Lord and Saviour for our stewardship. Just as the Lord has imparted these riches of heaven unto us, even so will He return to see how we have used His goods.

Benevolence is the tangible expression of the overflow from a Christian heart. Regeneration breaks up the stony heart of selfishness; God gives the Christian a new heart of love and tender compassion. Thence, from the heart of compassion and tender mercy should flow deeds of love like those from Him who is the very essence of love. The closer one gets to the fire on the altar of God, the warmer his heart gets with tender sympathy for individuals who are less fortunate than he.

God made provision for Old Testament believers to practice benevolence. In the Mosaic Law we hear God say, "And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest: And thou shalt not glean the vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of the vineyard, thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger: I am the LORD thy God" (Leviticus 19:9, 10).

An excellent example of this type of benevolence is given in the book of Ruth. Ruth chose the fields of Boaz, the kinsman of her departed husband, in which to glean for her living. Boaz was a wealthy planter and a man who feared God. This benevolent attitude of Boaz toward Ruth soon blossomed into love; it gives us one of the most beautiful love stories ever to be written.

In addition to the Law of the Gleanings the Lord made further provision for benevolence in the Law of the Tithe. The Israelites were commanded to give a tithe of their income yearly for the support of the worship of God. After the building of the temple in Jerusalem they were also required to lay aside an additional tithe yearly to defray their expenses to Jerusalem periodically in attendance upon the religious feasts.

Furthermore, from the very first the Israelites were required to lay up, in every third year, a tithe to be used for charity, "At the end of three years thou shalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increase the same year, and shalt lay it up within thy gates: And the Levite (because he hath no part nor inheritance with thee,) and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, which are within thy gates, shall come, and shall eat and be satisfied; that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hand which thou doest" (Deuteronomy 14:28, 29).

The New Testament teaches benevolence as an essential Christian characteristic. Our Master, in His memorable Sermon on the Mount, says, "Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn thou not away" (Matthew 5:42). Again He says, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust does corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal" (Matthew 6:19, 20).

How may we deposit this treasure in heaven? Jesus says, "For the Son of man shall come in the glory of His Father with his angels; and then he shall reward every man according to his works" (Matthew 16:27). The deeds of righteousness which Christians perform in this world are recorded in heaven to be used as the basis for their eternal rewards. Even the smallest act of kindness is remembered, for Jesus says, "And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward" (Matthew 10:42).

The application of this principle of benevolence is made practical in these words, "If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food, And one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?" (James 2:15, 16).

The Church should implement this mandate of the Lord to benevolence. Since God demands it we charge every church to set in motion definite plans for active participation in benevolent activities during the next year. Special committees may be appointed to cooperate with other agencies in the following activities:

(1) To support the benevolent program of the local church and denomination. There will be needy people in the community which the church should help. The committee from the auxiliary should have a great part in this activity. Furthermore, the committee should take an active part in securing support for superannuation, orphanage and other benevolent activities on the denominational level.

(2) To support community projects of benevolence. This committee should be active in securing funds for Red Cross, Infantile Paralysis, Crippled Children's Fund and other worthwhile activities. These committee members can be of inestimable service in soliciting blood donors for hospitals, Red Cross and other worthy causes. These activities are mentioned as suggestive; others must be added.

I Was Afraid

Naaman Borders
Waverly, Ohio

IN Chapter 3 of Genesis we read of the sin of Adam and Eve when they listened to the voice of the serpent. They first listened; they partook; they sinned; they fell. Next they were afraid. They suddenly became alarmed and when they heard the voice of the Lord they ran away and hid themselves. They crouched among the vines and underbrush, wondering what the Lord would say. Their consciences were aroused, and they were uneasy like a ferocious beast.

This is the first question the Lord asked mankind: "Where art thou?" Adam and Eve then began to make their excuses and to lay the blame on someone else. But the Lord would not hear these alibis and chastised them, driving them from the garden. Instead of trying to cover up their sins, if they had confessed, I wonder if the Lord would not have forgiven them and let them remain in the garden. Solomon said, "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy" (Proverbs 28:13). John said, "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, . . ." (1 John 1:9). Adam lifted the floodgates of sin and the world has been engulfed in sin ever since, but Jesus has been lifting and rescuing everyone who has shown any desire to be saved.

Let us notice what disobedience will do for humanity. When Adam sinned he became frightened and was afraid to hide from the Lord. But did he succeed? ". . . be sure your sin will find you out" (Numbers 32:23). "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap" (Galatians 6:7). We can't outwit the Lord. We may run away, but we cannot hide from the Lord.

The next mortal that fell into the trap of the devil was Cain. He was a worshiper of God and offered his sacrifice, but it was not the right kind. He seemed to be a cheap kind of fellow and offered up some of the fruits instead. But Abel offered the firstlings of his flock, thus giving God the best and something that had blood in it. Cain became jealous and slew his brother. (He is not the only one whose life has been destroyed through envy.) But listen what Cain said later: ". . . My punishment is greater than I can bear. . . . I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall come to pass, that every one that findeth me shall slay me" (Genesis 4:13, 14). When God asked him where his brother, Abel, was he seemed to imply that it was none of His business. No wonder Cain had to leave the presence of the Lord. When one does that, his life is desolate and sad. What can one hope for?

I wonder if Cain had confessed and not have tried to run away from the Lord, would God have forgiven him? I rather think so. God is a merciful God and delighteth not in the death of any. When one tries to justify himself for his wrongs, he is getting deeper in the mire.

David committed a greater sin than Adam and Cain and God forgave him. The Bible says that he was a man after God's own heart. He confessed his sin outright and did not try to hide it. He did not try to pass the buck and say that someone else was to blame. He said, "I have sinned." What a short confession, but it covered all.

The next man we will look at is Lamech. He is the first man we have any record of that had two wives. But listen what he said, ". . . Hear my voice; ye wives of Lamech, hearken unto my speech: for I have slain a man to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt" (Genesis 4:23). It could have been that he had killed a man and taken his wife. It generally leads to that. But listen to his confession as his conscience was lashing him: "If Cain shall be avenged sevenfold, truly Lamech seventy and sevenfold" (Genesis 4:24). He had such a tremendous load of guilt and was so alarmed that he just knew trouble was ahead.

All down the ages men have been trying to hide from God. They will commit some crime and run to the farthest corner of the earth and evade the law for years and later come home, confess and give up just to rid their conscience of an awful load of guilt. Just a few years ago a man in Kansas thought he had killed a man and escaped the law, going to California and staying there 30 years. During all of those years, his conscience weighed so heavy on him that he took it upon himself to come home, surrender to the law and confess outright. For 30 years he evaded the law, but he could not evade his conscience. He said that he got tired of living in hell. But luckily, the man hadn't died, and there was nothing on record against him.

Just recently, a man was captured in San Francisco who had killed six men in Indiana. He confessed to the police before they even suspected him. This man's mind was crushed with guilt so he lost his control and confessed.

A few years ago a man was put in the insane asylum in Illinois. He stayed there for years. One day a minister asked him if he had committed some crime that crushed his mind. The man was persuaded to open up and confess that he had killed a man 14 years previously. His mind soon came to him and he was released.

We have abundant proof from many wise men that if men would only confess their sins, their minds would be restored and they would be released from penitentiaries, insane asylums and rest homes. Since God made man for His own glory and in His image, sins do not fit in and satisfy man's mind. They are foreign substances that disturb him. Since God made man for Himself, He will never be satisfied until he is cleansed and comes home to His Father's house.

Tell Him You Are Sorry

An elderly man caught his toe and fell on the sidewalk. A boy who was playing ball saw him and ran to help him to his feet, saying meanwhile: "Say, Mister, I hope you ain't hurted; wish I cud a fell fer ye; I'm younger, and then I don't hev so fer ter fall." Oh, for more love and sympathy like this among the people of God! If a brother falls we should be quick to assist him up again and not run all around the neighborhood telling the people that he has fallen. We should encourage him as much as possible; tell him that we are sorry that he fell and hope he will not be sadly hurt by it. Say it in such a way that he will know that we mean it. He will be more careful no doubt if he fully realizes that somebody cares. Then follow our words by earnest prayer in his behalf.—Herald of Light.

N. C. Mission Budget for 1956

The North Carolina Mission Board submits the following mission budget for 1956, which has been approved by the North Carolina State Convention:

Foreign Missions	$18,000
National Missions	2,500
State Missions	15,500
Total	$36,000

The mission board urges all churches throughout the state to raise $1 per member for the mission budget. All offerings should be sent to the Rev. N. Bruce Barrow, Lucama, North Carolina.

RE-EVALUATION

Probably not since the martyrdom in China of missionaries John and Betty Stam, on December 8, 1934, has anything stirred the Christian world as the massacre by the South American Auka Indians of the five missionaries on January 8. These men were married and all but one had small children. They possessed a deep burden for this tribe of "barbarians" and made very thorough, ingenious and remarkable preparations for an entrance into their territory. Two days after the first friendly contact was made, they returned and made specific preparations for an all-out attempt to reach these Indians. Within hours their bodies were all pierced with lances, mutilated with machettes and thrown in the nearby Cururay River.

This incident brings us to a place of re-evaluation, not only of our personal lives, but in the activities of our auxiliary. Somehow the new air conditioners we provided the church do not seem so necessary. Somehow the money raising projects, so thoughtfully planned, have lost their appeal. Hours spent in planning interesting socials and suppers bring a haunting sense of spiritual delinquency from the more vital tasks of the auxiliary.

The Woman's National Auxiliary Convention adopted as a project sending out a missionary in the "person" of visual aid equipment. The Cronks plan to take these needed materials with them when they return to India in June, 1956. Most of the states have been faithful in sending their quotas, but you may have been negligent since you thought you had several months yet.

But the time is NOW.

The states that have been using the Indian Convoy as a publicity aid will be interested to know that the South Carolina Convoy reached India first. Congratulations, South Carolina!

Send all offerings to Woman's National Auxiliary Convention, 3801 Richland Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee.

WHY MISSIONS?

Hubert Burress

Director of Denominational Enterprises
Saratoga, N. C.

"For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10).

Our Scripture reveals to us the why of missions. It embraces the entire world regardless of race or color. Jesus gave us the commission without stressing one above the other as some men do today. What right has man to say that we have no need for the one and need only the other. Jesus came to seek and to save that which was lost without favoritism.

March and April are mission months for North Carolina Sunday schools, so may we remember missions with our offerings. Send all offerings to the Rev. N. B. Barrow, Lucama, North Carolina.

Tidewater Woman's Auxiliary Convention

The Tidewater Woman's Auxiliary Convention convened with the Fairmount Park Free Will Baptist Church, Norfolk, Virginia, on April 7, with five auxiliaries in the district represented.

The theme for the convention was "Prayer." Several speakers brought inspiring messages during the meeting. Special music was rendered by the Woman's Trio from the Richmond, Virginia, Church and Tommy and Emma Ruth Willey.

Mrs. Mildred Little was recognized as the outstanding auxiliary woman of the year. Her award from the district will be $25 toward expenses to attend the W. N. A. C. in Huntington, West Virginia, during the month of July.

Miss Juanita Deuell and Robert Bryan were awarded trophies for their Y. P. A. and G. T. A. declamations on "Missions." These young people are from the First Free Will Baptist Church of Warwick, Virginia, and they will attend the W. N. A. C. in July.

The next session of the Tidewater Woman's Auxiliary Convention will be held at Warwick, Virginia, in October.

Deep Run, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of Gray Branch Church met April 3, at the church with 12 members, 1 new member and 1 visitor present. Mrs. Milton Cauley, president, presided over the meeting, and Mrs. Rodolph Deaver led the group in the opening prayer.

Mrs. Mildred Cauley introduced the program. Others participating in the discussion were the Mesdames Rodolph Deaver, Lester Gray and Robert Pike. Mrs. Bernice Gray dismissed the ladies with prayer. Following the program the ladies enjoyed a brief social period and refreshments served by Mrs. Milton Cauley.

Portsmouth, Va.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Free Will Baptist Church observed a pre-Easter week of prayer with an average attendance of 30 each night. A guest speaker rendered the messages each evening with the exception of Friday night when the members of the auxiliary were in charge of the meeting. The auxiliary feels that the week of prayer was quite successful.

Tulsa, Okla.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Trinity Temple Church reports a program of varied activities which they sponsored during the month of March. On March 6, the auxiliary sponsored a program at the church with the G. T. A.'s in charge, and 29 present. A study course, conducted by Leona Mayfield, was held on March 13, with 14 present. Between March 19 and March 23, the auxiliary observed a pre-Easter week of prayer with an average attendance of 20. On March 27, the auxiliary held a business meeting in the home of Clara Beal with 26 members present. For the entire month of March the auxiliary had an average attendance of 25.

Kenansville, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Sarecta Free Will Baptist Church met at the church on April 2, 1956. The president called the meeting to order, and Mrs. Rivers Winstead had charge of the devotions, which were taken from Ephesians 2:8-10. The program, "We Need Consecrated Laborers for Such a Time as This," was written and presented in the form of a playlet by Mrs. Winstead. Following the business period the meeting was adjourned.

Lockhart, S. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of Lockhart Church held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night, April 3, in the home of Mrs. Grady Brannon. Mrs. Joe Thompson led the opening prayer and Mrs. A. F. Lawter gave the devotions.

Those taking part on the program were: Mrs. Loretta Canupps, Mrs. Grady Brannon, Mrs. Sara Childers and Mrs. Effie Taylor. Mrs. Blanche Hawkins led the group in the closing prayer. The hostess, Mrs. Brannon, then served refreshments.

Columbia, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Sound Side Free Will Baptist Church held its April meeting in the home of Mrs. Edmond Brickhouse.

Kathleen Swain was in charge of the program, "We Need Consecrated Laborers for Such a Time as This." Those participating on the program were: Mrs. Nancy Sawyer, Mrs. J. A. Etheridge, Mrs. Edmond Brickhouse, Miss Vera Swain and Miss Mozella Brickhouse. Mrs. Neva Brickhouse also gave a talk on "Consecration."

The meeting closed with the praying of the Lord's Prayer. Afterwards everyone enjoyed refreshments.

Clarkstown, Ohio—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Long Run Free Will Baptist Church recently held its regular monthly session at the church. Mrs. Lillian Henthorne was in charge of the devotion, and the group gathered around the altar for united prayer.

Those participating in the evening's program were: Mrs. Grace Clark, Mrs. Lorraine Deemer, Mrs. Thelma Nourse, Mrs. Kathryn Laidley and Mrs. Gladys Burns. Mrs. Grace Clark presided over the business session, and Mrs. Carrie Sparks read the secretary's and treasurer's reports. A sick committee for the month of April was appointed. The committee is composed of Mrs. Gladys Chandler, Mrs. Mildred Burns, Mrs. Lorraine Deemer and Mrs. Mable Knore. The daily vacation Bible school dates were set for June 18-29.

After welcoming the two new members, Mrs. Nannie Harris and Mrs. Flossie Cunningham, the auxiliary was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Ruby Collins.

Clarkstown, Ohio—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Porter Free Will Baptist Church met recently with the Woman's Auxiliary of the Long Run Free Will Baptist Church for two study course lessons on "Evangelism."

NEWS NOTES

Rev. Coffman Completes New Love Well Revival

The Rev. Lawnie Coffman of Searcy, Arkansas, completed a spring revival at the New Love Well Free Will Baptist Church, Green County, Mississippi, on Friday night, March 30, 1956.

Mrs. J. T. Quick submits the following statement:

"From the first night the Lord was real to our church in a wonderful way and gave us burdened hearts for the lost. God heard and answered our prayers, opened a window of heaven, and poured out conviction power on the lost. We thank the Lord for Brother Coffman's service, and we feel that God used him as an instrument in His hands to lead the sinners to the altar."

The church received 15 new members, 11 were converted and 5 rededicated their lives. The church feels that the revival was a great success.

Rev. Herman Hersey, Evangelist For Morehead City Revival

Rev. Herman Hersey of Raleigh, North Carolina, recently completed a revival at the First Free Will Baptist

Reedy Branch Church Announces Revival

The Rev. W. S. Mooneyham, executive secretary of the National Association, will be the evangelist for revival services at Reedy Branch Church, May 13-20. Services will be held each evening at 7:30 preceded by a thirty minutes prayer meeting. The pastor, Rev. Henry Melvin, will be in charge of the music. Reedy Branch Church is located on Route 2, Winterville, N. C. The public is cordially invited to attend all of the services.

Church, Morehead City, North Carolina, during which many accepted Christ as their Saviour. There was only one night in which there were no decisions for Christ.

The reporter of the church makes the following statement:

Coming Events

- May 11, 12—N. C. State League Convention, Mt. Olive College.
- May 13—Mother's Day
- May 24—N. C. State Auxiliary Convention, Free Union Church, Beaufort County.
- May 27—Mount Olive College Commencement
- May 30—Memorial Day
- June 12-14—Seventh Nation-Wide
- June 17—Father's Day
- League Conference, East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C.
- July 4—Independence Day

"Our revival still lives on, and since the completion of it many more have come to Christ. God has given our church many blessings in the past few years. Since our pastor, Rev. Noah H. Brown, came to us in 1953 our Sunday school enrollment has increased by two hundred. We hope to start building our new church sometime this fall after our educational building is paid for. We ask the prayers of everyone that God will continue to bless us and our work for Him."

Virginia Free Will Baptists
Show Great Progress

The Free Will Baptists in the state of Virginia have made great progress in the last few years, according to Wilton H. Dail, chairman of the Virginia Home Mission Board. Mr. Dail makes the following statements concerning this progress:

"Last year the Virginia State Association met with the Russell Fork Church at Council, Virginia, on June 17 and 18. At this time the association appointed Wilton H. Dail to be in charge of organizing a State Home Mission Board, setting the date of September 9, 1955, with the West Bristol Church, Bristol, Virginia, for the purpose of organizing a board, appointing other members, outlining plans, etc.

"Numerous things were discussed as to the plans for the work of the Home Mission Board. During this meeting the following officers were elected to serve on the board: Mr. M. E. Howard, Richmond, Virginia; Elder C. C. Pressley, Honaker, Virginia; Mr. Kelly Estep, Kingsport, Tennessee; Rev. Winston Sweeney, Bristol, Tennessee; and Wilton H. Dail, Norfolk, Virginia, chairman of the board. Rev. Sweeney later resigned from the board.

"Also it was decided at this meeting to form a Ministerial Association, this association to meet yearly, the first meeting to be held on November 11, 1955, at the West Bristol Church.

"The first Ministerial Association was held on the above date, in the West Bristol Church. Various officers were elected. It was decided that the yearly meeting of the Ministerial Association would be held one day prior to the date and place of the regular yearly State Association.

"The next session of the Virginia State Association will convene with the Mary's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church in Colburn, Virginia, June 15, 16, 1956. Rev. Fred A. Rivenbark is scheduled to bring the opening message, and Rev. S. M. McFalls is scheduled to bring the closing message."

Long Run Church
Dedicates Building

The Long Run Free Will Baptist Church, Clarkstown, Ohio, held a dedication service on April 8, 1956, at 2:00 p. m., with the Rev. Homer Nelson as the dedicatory speaker. Brother Paul Nibert served as organist, and Ruth Arthurs as pianist.

The Ladies' Trio of the church and the Union Gospel Quartet rendered special music for the service.

The Rev. Floyd Estep offered prayer, and Rev. Forrest Chamberlin, pastor of the church, burned the mortgage while the church members gathered for prayer around the altar. The Rev. Melford Riddlebarger dismissed the service with prayer.

Youth for Christ Rally
To Be Held April 21

A Youth for Christ Rally is scheduled for April 21, at the Mount Olive Free Will Baptist Church, Beaufort County, North Carolina, with the Rev. James Lupton as the evening speaker.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend this rally.

Bethlehem Church
Host to Union Meeting

The Second Union of the Mount Moriah Free Will Baptist Conference of South Carolina will convene with the Bethlehem Free Will Baptist Church, Patrick, South Carolina, on Saturday, April 28, 1956. The meeting will begin at 10:30 a. m., with the Rev. R. L. Clark preaching the opening sermon.

Everyone is invited to attend this meeting. Dinner will be served on the church grounds.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Will you please explain, "And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To day shalt thou be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:43)? Does this mean that death bed repentance is possible? Some friends of mine and I have been discussing this subject, but have not reached a satisfactory agreement.—Mrs. B. F. C., Farmville, North Carolina.

Answer: I believe that this thief on the cross was saved, also that under similar circumstances a person on his deathbed might have been saved then. Furthermore, I am of the opinion that this man never had an opportunity to accept Jesus as Saviour before and that upon his first chance he called upon Him earnestly and in sincerity and that Jesus had compassion on him and saved him instantly. In this same way Jesus would save a person today who is on the brink of death that had the gospel presented to him for the first time. I am not certain that under different circumstances and conditions a person might have an opportunity to accept Christ and be saved on his deathbed. In fact I have heard Christian leaders repeat testimonies from sinners that were told them as the sinner died that indicated the sinner had been warned of his condition and given the gospel with a last opportunity to come to Christ. Being aware of this, one girl said as she died, "Don't talk about that now for it's too late. I knew better than to go to that dance, but I went." She had reference to a ball given in her honor, just two days after she had gone forward in a gospel tent meeting. It was here that she pledged her life to Christ, but for her mother's sake did not attend the meeting again, but instead spent the time in preparation for the ball.

I heard of a Christian woman whose unsaved husband was taken ill and she sent for her minister. When the minister came the sick man told him he would like to take Christ as his Saviour, but it was too late for he could feel the flames of hell enveloping him. He said that he had rejected Christ many times for the past 20 years, but now he was bound and could not get to Him. The minister read from the Bible and prayed as he slipped away unsaved. However, only a short while ago I read of a girl on her deathbed, who thought that it was too late to accept Christ. But when a Christian worker came, read from the Bible, prayed and talked with her, she accepted Christ as her Saviour, gave a glowing testimony, caused a friend to accept Christ and immediately thereafter died and went to be with her Saviour. Having such testimonies before us we should be reminded of the urgency of the need to get the gospel to every one possible and insist that they make Jesus Christ Lord of their lives at once. God's invitation is offered now and takes in all classes. "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool" (Isaiah 1:18). Whatever exceptions there may be, if any, are between God and the one we give out the message to. As Christian workers we know no exceptions, therefore we are told to, "... Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled" (Luke 14:23); "But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you; and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth" (Acts 1:8).

Even though I do not think that we need to tell a sinner that it is too late for some that have often heard and rejected the gospel such seems to be taught in the Bible. "Behold, the LORD'S hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear: but your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear" (Isaiah 59:1, 2); "He, that being often reproveth hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy" (Proverbs 29:1). Recently Rev. J. E. Daniels, a returned missionary from Korea, told the Bible College Foreign Missionary Fellowship, to whom he spoke, that he knew a most devout, fervent Christian pastor in North Korea that was captured by the Red army and put through great torture in a prolonged interrogation of about six weeks, that finally broke, publicly denounced Christ and at a large gathering of both soldiers and civilians burned his Bible and other Christian books before a great audience. When the war was over, being free, he slipped across the line into South Korea where the Koreans enjoyed freedom of worship. This one-time powerful Christian leader went to many Christian meetings and went forward seeking repentance, but found none. This missionary said that even though he had never seen such before, he thought that this was one man who had fallen from grace and that he would never be able to come back.

Such testimonies as these make me feel that all Christians should determine to never deny Christ regardless what may be the circumstances and that we should urge people every where to repent before it's too late. "For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness" (Romans 1:18). See Hebrews 6:4-6; 10:29-35; 2 Peter 2:3-6, 20-22; Matthew 12:22-39; Revelation 21:8.

Another reason why we should discourage a person's putting off coming to Christ until he is confined to his deathbed is that Christ went away leaving His followers instructions to be ready and expect His return at an unannounced time. "For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. . . . But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only" (Matthew 24:27, 36).

The Lighted Pathway

*Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).*

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"... And he answered and said, I go, sir: and went not" (Matthew 21:30).

This text is a part of a verse taken out of the parable told by Jesus concerning a certain man who had two sons and a vineyard. To the first the father came and said, "Son, go work to-day in my vineyard." This young man answered his father by saying, "I will not," but afterward he repented, and went. He came to the second son and gave the same directive. His answer was just as direct as was that of the first one; only seemingly ready to do his father's will. But, alas, after declaring "I go, sir," something happened, "and went not." Jesus asked the question, "Whether of them twain did the will of his father?" You may read this parable in Matthew 21:28-32.

There must be intelligent Christian living if we are to accomplish much in the task of bringing the Kingdom of God to pass in the earth as it is in heaven. Without this element of obedience all the others would be in vain. If the world is ever brought to Christ it will be due to a great extent to the lives of His people. It is certain that the church whose members live well will succeed well and must grow strong. A great many times the only sermons people hear are the ones they hear and see in the lives of Christians in everyday life. The following by Edgar A. Guest, illustrates what I am trying to say:

"SERMONS WE SEE"

"I'd rather see a sermon than hear one any day,
I'd rather one should walk with me than merely tell the way,
The eye's a better pupil and more willing than the ear,
Fine counsel is confusing, but example's always clear,
And the best of all the preachers are the men who live their creeds,
For to see good put in action is what everybody needs.

"I can soon learn how to do it if you'll let me see it done,
I can watch your hands in action, but your tongue too fast may run,
And the lectures you deliver may be very wise and true,
But I'd rather get my lessons by observing what you do,
For I may misunderstand you and the high advice you give,

But there's no misunderstanding how you act and how you live.

"When I see a deed of kindness I am eager to be kind.
When a weaker brother stumbles and a strong man stays behind
Just to see if he can help him, then the wish grows strong in me
To become as big and thoughtful as I know that friend to be.
And all travellers can witness that the best of guides today
Is not the one who tells them, but the one who shows the way.

"One good man teaches many, men believe what they behold,
One deed of kindness noticed is worth forty that are told.
Who stands with men of honor learns to hold his honor dear,

For right living speaks a language which to everyone is clear,
Though an able speaker charms me with his eloquence, I say, I'd rather see a sermon than to hear one any day."

—Selected.

Someone else has said, "A holy life is the best sermon, the most powerful plea. The prayers of faith can remove mountains of sin by bringing the sinner to confess and repent and be forgiven." But we can live holy lives, and pray in faith, and lead the lost to Christ only as we obey Him and do His will.

"... And he answered and said, I go, sir: and went not."

Christian Light about Ruining Homes

(Genesis 27:30-35; Matthew 5:31, 32; Luke 12:13-15)

I. HOMES ARE RUINED BY DECEPTION (Genesis 27:30-35).

1. Deception that causes wrong impression.
2. Deception that tricks another.
3. Deception that leads others contrary to their wishes.
4. Deception that secures right end through wrong method.
5. Deception that brings disappointment.
6. Deception that shocks (breaks) confidence.
7. Deception that causes sorrow.
8. Deception that causes bitterness.
9. Deception that takes advantage.

II. HOMES ARE RUINED BY UNBIBLICAL DIVORCE (Matthew 5:31, 32).

1. By divorce on other than Biblical grounds.

III. HOMES ARE RUINED BY COVETOUSNESS (Luke 12:13-15).

1. Covetousness that thinks only of self.
2. Covetousness that hoards.
3. Covetousness that fails to share.
4. Covetousness that is thoughtless and selfish.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Randall Mozingo

It was on the last day of March, 1956, that a shadow of sadness fell over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Mozingo of Ormondsville, North Carolina. On that day the spirit of their son, Randall Mozingo, was taken from this earth when he was involved in an automobile collision. May we all realize that God in His wisdom and mercy does all things well.

Randall was a member of the Ormondsville Free Will Baptist Church, a young husband and father. He was only 33 years old. His funeral was conducted on Easter Monday by the Rev. D. W. Alexander, before a large congregation of sorrowing relatives, friends and loved ones. His body was laid to rest in the Ayden, North Carolina, Cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers.

He leaves to mourn his wife, Evelyn, and son, Randall Ray. He also leaves his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Mozingo; four half brothers,

5. Covetousness that grasps.
6. Covetousness that desires for self, not God.
7. Covetousness that would use others wrongly.
8. Covetousness rebuked by Jesus.
9. Covetousness which deceives.
10. Covetousness which ruins true family relationship.

Lessons from the Life of Daniel

1. Daniel was a man of purpose (Daniel 1:8). He had a conviction that this thing was wrong. How easy to drift with the crowd—no resistance. Study three characters (1 Kings 22:14; Ruth 1:15-18; Mark 10:22).

2. Daniel was a man of prayer (Daniel 6:10). Circumstances and surroundings made no difference. Many pray when popular and when unpopular do not pray. Prayer was a fixed part of Daniel's life.

3. Daniel was a man of faith (Hebrews 11:32, 33). The outstanding men of the Bible were men of faith. If they had not been men of faith they would not be outstanding (Hebrews 11). Men like Enoch and Abraham.

4. Daniel was a man of excellent spirit (Daniel 6:3). Exceptional, extraordinary, worthy, choice. Excelling he passed all the others, and this did not just happen so (Daniel 6:4; Proverbs 3:1-6; Titus 2:11-14).

5. Daniel was a man of testimony (Daniel 6:4, 5). It was found in the life that he lived. A man with the above outstanding characteristics would be a man of testimony (Philippians 2:15; 1 Peter 4:12-16; Philippians 3:13, 14).

THE MAIL BOX

Opening for Pastor

"We have three churches in Tyrrell County, North Carolina, and a parsonage for a pastor to live in. This is a full time work, as there are services twice a month at one of the three churches. Any minister who feels that he could accept this position is asked to write Mr. W. M. Armstrong, Route 3, Box 90, Columbia, North Carolina."—Mr. W. M. Armstrong, Route 3, Box 90, Columbia, North Carolina.

Harvey Lee Mozingo, Roy Wood, William Wood and Lyman Wood; one whole sister, Mrs. Keith Bowen; four half sisters, Mrs. Howard Shirley, Mrs. Robert Mooring, Mrs. John Thomas Dail and Mrs. Henry Meadows; and many other relatives and friends. May the Lord who loves and comforts keep them in the time of their trouble and sorrow.

Mrs. Edward Mooring

Barbara Elizabeth Mercer

On March 11, 1956, our heavenly Father saw fit to call to her reward one of His faithful servants, Sister Barbara Elizabeth Mercer, of Beulaville, North Carolina. The people of Beulaville are deeply conscious of a vacant place in the church, in the community and in their hearts. The members of Cabin Church wish to express their appreciation for her life and service.

She was active in every phase of her church. To know her was to love her. She always carried a smile, and her prayer was for everyone to know Christ as she knew Him. She was born on April 25, 1877, and died March 11, 1956, being 78 years, 10 months and 15 days old. Heartfelt sympathy is extended to all her loved ones.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

WASHING THE SAINTS' FEET

"This is a sacred ordinance which teaches humility and reminds the believer of the necessity of a daily cleansing from all sin. It was instituted by the Lord Jesus Christ, and called an example on the night of His betrayal, and in connection with the institution of the Lord's Supper. It is the duty and happy prerogative of every believer to observe this sacred ordinance."—Treatise.

"Now before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end" (John 13:1). May we notice the fact that Jesus washed the feet of His disciples. Certainly as the Treatise says, it teaches humility, but there is a higher reason as expressed by the writer—having loved his own . . . he loved them unto the end. Why did He wash their feet? The answer is quite plain—having loved . . . he loved them unto the end. The great loving heart of the Lord could not return to the Father without doing the unusual—something He had not done before and something that was to be an example for His followers during the Church Age.

"And supper being ended, the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him; Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God; He riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself. After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded. Then cometh he to Simon Peter: and Peter saith unto him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet? Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter. Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me. Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head. Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all. For he knew who should betray him; therefore said he, Ye are not all clean. So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?" (John 13:2-12).

May we notice in Verse 7 that Jesus said What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter. It was only a few minutes later that it was revealed unto Peter what the Lord meant. Jesus said Know ye what I have done to you? Certainly Peter knew that the Lord had washed the feet of His disciples. Christ had actually washed their feet, and it could not be denied.

"Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you" (John 13:13-15). We do not have to be a master of language to understand these words. They are simple. I am sure that Peter understood the words ought and example. Webster says that the word ought means to be under obligation. So, according to this, Peter and the other disciples realized that they were under obligation to obey the Master. Webster also says that the word example means sample, instance, pattern or model.

Jesus did not tell them they ought to wash one another's feet and stop there, but He showed them how to do it. He taught by example. He obligated the disciples, not only those who were there on that night, but all disciples of all ages, with the command, ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

The Meaning of the Verb, Ought

Jesus told the Pharisees and hypocrites what they ought to have done in Matthew 23:23. Peter says in Acts 5:29, ". . . We ought to obey God rather than men." Did the Lord know the meaning of ought when He told the disciples ye also ought to wash one another's feet? I am sure that He knew and meant what He said. Did Peter know the meaning of the very, ought, when he said we ought to obey God? Yes, Peter knew that he was under obligation to obey God.

"And he spake a parable unto them to this end, that men ought always to pray, and not to faint" (Luke 18:1). Should we pray? Should we obey God? Every Christian would answer, "Yes, we ought to pray and obey God." Then why should we ignore the ought in John 13:14? If the word ought binds us by obligating us to observe one command, why is it not binding in all commands?

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him. If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them" (John 13:16, 17). Why did Christ use the word things when washing feet is only one thing. The Word says And supper being ended, thus the bread and cup were included when the Lord used the word things. So it is very plain that all these things took place the same night and in the same place which was the upper room in the city of Jerusalem. (Read Luke 22:12.)

The New Commandment

"A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another" (John 13:34). How much did Jesus love? Having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end. This was His last demonstration of His matchless love, before He went to the Cross. He knew that He came from God and was going to return to God, so He did the most humble act possible to prove His love, not in words but in deed.

Jesus said, "For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak. And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak" (John 12:49, 50).

Our Treatise says "It is the duty . . . of every believer to observe this sacred ordinance." Therefore Free Will Baptists believe in washing the saints' feet.

The Balky Horse

Robby was one day looking out of the window, watching a balky horse. The load was not heavy, but the horse was stubborn and would not go. The driver first coaxed and then whipped him, but the horse would not move one step, and there he stood for hours. Robby at last said: "Aunty, I think the reason why there are bad horses now is because they were not trained right when they were colts." Then he thought a little and added: "I see now the reason why you are always telling me not to do things. It is because you want me to be a good man; good boys make good men." I think Robby has it about right; don't you?—Selected.

BOYS and GIRLS

The OFFERING

Margery Wyks

TEN cents. Ten whole cents." The shiny coin in Jimmy's little hand caught the rays of the sun and gave a glistening wink back at him as he rolled it back and forth. His mother's words still rang in his ears as he marched along the dusty road.

"Put the whole ten cents in the collection plate and wait down in the Sunday school room for Daddy and me. Don't stop along the way, and don't get your new shoes all scuffed up the first day."

His mother had stooped to pat his blonde curly head and plant a loving kiss on his freshly-scrubbed face. Securing a coin in his chubby fist, she gave him a gentle push toward the door. As the little boy left the house to begin the trek to Sunday school, a final reminder broke the stillness of the quiet morning.

"The whole ten cents, Jimmy!"

She didn't have to say any more. He knew what she meant.

It was a beautiful little piece of silver—round and flat and oh, so bright in the sun.

"It isn't heavy, but it's sure worth an awful lot," thought Jimmy.

He sniffed the lovely spring morning appreciatively. The rain of the previous night had given everything a sweet fresh smell. Unconsciously, he began to push up the sleeves of his crisp blue shirt. This was so much more comfortable. He put one hand in his pocket and pulled it out quickly. Empty! Sometimes Jimmy wished his calendar didn't include Sunday, for then he'd never have to get all dressed up. Furthermore, he could stuff his pockets as full of frogs, rusty nails, worms, bits of string, marbles, and gum as he pleased.

Somehow his mother couldn't seem to understand how necessary these things were to his everyday living. She was always complaining about his bulging pockets. A long sigh escaped from the depths of his being. Oh, well! there was nothing he could do about it anyway.

Down the road he trudged, soon lost to the eyes of his mother. His gaze wondered away from the coin and off to the side of the road where a tiny creek gurgled merrily. Without thinking what he was doing, he left the road and pushed his way through the bushes and tall grass to the edge of the creek.

Save for the sound of the water bubbling over the rocks and the cry of an occasional bird overhead, all was still. A sudden movement under the water caught his attention and the little boy watched the course of a fat brown fish as it darted here and there through the rocks.

"Say!" he exclaimed. "What a beautiful fish!" Reaching into a pocket overlooked by his mother, he pulled out a long piece of string. Now if only he had some bait. The shiny dime! It would be perfect bait. The fish would see it and be sure to swallow it. His mother wouldn't mind his using the dime that way when she saw the beautiful fish he'd bring home. Besides, he'd have both the dime and the fish.

He fastened the dime to the end of the string and was ready to throw it out into the water, when the words of his mother echoed in his ears.

"The whole ten cents—in the collection plate."

Slowly, reluctantly, the little fisherman untied the coin, stuffed the string back into his pocket and retraced his steps back to the road. Oh, well, there'd still be fish in the creek tomorrow—and the next day—and the day after that.

The road wound past Old Ben's country store. Old Ben had his store open seven days a week, not even closing for church. Most everyone went to church around this part of the state; all except Old Ben.

As Jimmy neared the store, he could see the owner propped up in a rickety old chair against the building. His unlit pipe sagged from the corner of his mouth as he dozed in the warm sun.

"A big hunk of bubble gum would sure taste good right now." Jimmy was thinking aloud. "Or maybe a big lollipop or a long stick of licorice."

Stopping in front of the store, he planted himself directly in front of Old Ben and stared intently at the sagging pipe and the great massive frame balanced precariously in the tottering chair.

His little brow puckered as he considered all the tempting possibilities. Opening his chubby fist, he studied his silver treasure. Even if he bought all three, bubble gum, lollipop, and stick of licorice, he's still have five cents to put in the collection plate. After all, something was better than nothing, wasn't it? Should he or shouldn't he? It was such a weighty decision for a small boy to make.

Moving up beside Old Ben, Jimmy listened to his slow and labored breathing before opening his mouth to rouse the man. His words never were uttered for again the voice rang in his ears.

"The whole ten cents—in the collection plate."

Jimmy moistened his lips before shutting his mouth on the unspoken words.

Oh, well, he thought, maybe Mom will give me a penny for gum tomorrow. On he trudged, his mind determined not to wander anymore.

Soon the little white church came into view. This was the building in which Mr. Holmes taught a class of boys—all of Jimmy's age and most of whom were Jimmy's pals. The church bell clanged just as he reached the door.

As he twisted the knob and opened the door, the clatter of youthful voices reached him. Sunday school hadn't as yet started and each boy was taking unrestrained advantage of every moment of freedom by pulling his neighbor's hair or upsetting him onto the floor.

With a wild squeal of abandon, Jimmy leaped into the center of his friends and proceeded to twist the ear of a little freckled-faced lad. The room looked as though a mild tornado had swept through by the time Mr. Holmes entered.

"Say, fellows, how about a little quiet? I don't doubt but that you could be heard way up in the next county."

The scuffle ended and the boys settled down in a circle of chairs around the teacher. Mr. Holmes had a way that seemed to command attention and so they sat with angelic little faces turned to him.

The older man opened his well-worn Bible to the book of Job and read, "Thou hast not given water to the weary to drink, and thou hast withholden bread from the hungry." He then reminded the boys of their nice homes, good food and plenty of clothing and even how they could come each Sunday and hear about Jesus.

The room was quiet as he said, "You now, fellows, there are many boys just your age in other countries who don't have these nice things."

This was news to Jimmy. His concept of the world ended at the boundary lines of Hopedale, and his imagination couldn't stretch enough to think of there being boys his age outside of Hopedale.

The teacher told of a missionary in Africa who tried to help little boys in that land. Jimmy's eyes were glued to the speaker and he was unconscious of the boys around him as he was carried out to the dark and heathen continent of Africa.

He thought, "Isn't that something! No food, no clothes, no houses."

Mr. Holmes closed his lesson with the reminder that God loves a cheerful giver and He really wanted little boys to give to help missionaries like this one in Africa.

Funny how his mother's words had come back to him all the way to Sunday school.

"The whole ten cents—in the collection plate."

Jimmy felt sort of glad he hadn't used his dime for fishing and glad he hadn't used half of it for candy. He was sure God wanted the whole ten cents. God must have told his mother so she could tell him.

The closing prayer was made and Mr. Holmes passed the plates for the offering. Jimmy turned his shiny dime over and over in his hand.

As the teacher passed Jimmy, the little boy reached over and touched his hand.

"Mr. Holmes," he whispered, "I'm glad I didn't get any candy today cuz now some little boy in Africa can hear about Jesus—and get some bubble gum, too."

And the coin went "plink" as he dropped it into the collection plate.

Central Conference Ministers Consider Social Security

The ministers of the Central Conference of North Carolina met in special session at the Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, North Carolina, on April 12, 1956. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the social security law as it may affect ministers. By special invitation of the moderator, a representative from the social security office was present to explain the program.

By virtue of the information gained in the meeting, the moderator, Rev. N. Bruce Barrow, issues the recommendation that all churches in the conference discuss with their pastors the possibility of the pastor's coverage under social security.

Bible College Objectives

L. C. Johnson, L. H. D.

FREE Will Baptist Bible College has had a clear-cut objective since the first day of its operation. However, it takes a number of years for an institution to translate its objective into history before the public at large is able to see just what the major emphasis is. I believe everyone who knows anything about Free Will Baptist Bible College knows its major emphasis. In other words, what does one think of first when he thinks of Free Will Baptist Bible College?

One does not think first of our physical plant with a beautiful campus, beautiful buildings, long corridors, and marble walls. We are thankful that we are located in one of the nicest sections of Nashville on a quiet, beautifully shaded street; but we have had to take the buildings we have been able to acquire with the money given by Free Will Baptists and adapt them to school purposes. This has been done rather successfully.

One does not think first of intellectual excellences when he thinks of Free Will Baptist Bible College. Our major emphasis has never been on the intellect. We thank God for good minds and believe they should be trained to their fullest capacities, but we at all times bear in mind Paul's words to the Corinthians: "For ye see your calling, brethren, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called. But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty; And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not, to bring to nought things that are: That no flesh should glory in his presence" (1 Corinthians 1: 26-29).

The one thing I believe you think of concerning Free Will Baptist Bible College is its emphasis on exalting our Lord Jesus Christ. Some might question whether an institution that actually puts Jesus Christ before everything else and the spiritual above every other consideration, can meet modern-day educational standards. There are those who would prefer to be known by their academic and scholastic standards. When any Christian institution comes to be known better for its academic rating than its Christian testimony, it has lost its basic distinctive character. The thing that makes an institution basically Christian is not the kind of clothes the young ladies wear or whether or not they wear make-up. The difference does not lie in the kind of athletic program sponsored by the institution. The basic difference is whether or not Jesus Christ and the Word of God are exalted in creed and practice above everything else. It is just as sinful to exalt educational standards above Jesus Christ as it is to exalt money or anything else above Him.

The tragic mistake that has been made by many institutions is that Jesus Christ was put in the creed and left there. Jesus Christ must not only be put in the creed but put in the classrooms, the dean's office, the science laboratory, the dormitory room and the dating parlor. He must walk the corridors and be chairman of every committee and occupy the pre-eminent place in every phase of the school life for it to be Christian.

So Free Will Baptist Bible College knows its course and knows its objective. It is simply to magnify Him who came to earth to redeem us from our sins. We believe this is the kind of institution Free Will Baptists need and want and that God will be pleased with. Such a position does not infringe on our educational standards, and we challenge anyone to question the caliber of work Free Will Baptists Bible College has done throughout the years—Free Will Baptist Bible College Bulletin.

Vacation Bible School Clinic to Be Held at Mount Olive College

Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, is happy to join with the North Carolina State Auxiliary Convention in a clinic for daily vacation Bible school workers, to be held at the college on Saturday, April 21, 1956.

This clinic will be under the direction of Mrs. Bagley Morris, youth chairman of the North Carolina State Auxiliary Convention, and will offer instructions for teachers and workers in all departments of the vacation Bible school.

The program for the day will be as follows:

Morning Session

9:30—Assembly

10:00—Classes for Teachers and Workers

12:00—Picnic Lunch (Please Bring Lunch)

Afternoon Session

1:00—Classes for Teachers and Workers

3:00—Meeting of Clinic Teachers

The Free Will Baptist Press will have on display a supply of the literature and materials which they will carry this year and which will be used in the clinic. You will be able to place your order for literature and materials that day and have it mailed to you if you desire.

Please notice that there will be only one day of the clinic this year. All vacation Bible school teachers and workers who possibly can should attend this clinic.

Everyone is asked to bring a picnic lunch. The college will furnish the drink for lunch.

Peace

Peace—abiding—abundant peace. At rest with no disturbing element.

"Peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Is this possible? May we know it in a world of unrest?

Yes! it is blessedly possible. More than that it is the true and proper portion of the Christian, and nothing less than this is right for any believer upon the Son of God. We who trust in Him can say; "Jesus our Lord 'was delivered for our offences.'" That is the foundation on which all rests. Our offenses were charged to the Lord Jesus at Calvary. He bore the judgment on account of them and glorified God "and was raised again for our justification."

God has shown His entire satisfaction with what His beloved Son has done by raising Him from the dead. Christ is clear of our offenses. And we are clear. He is beyond death and judgment and we are beyond death and judgment too.

"Therefore being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."

God having cleared us from every charge as to all our offenses "peace with God" is our happy possession.

Is it yours?—Scattered Seed.

The Church Reaches Out

(Lesson for April 29)

Lesson: Acts 8:4-8, 14-17, 26-28, 34, 35.

Golden Text: John 13:35.

I. INTRODUCTION

God used the persecution of the Christians to further the cause of Christ. It is difficult, sometimes, to see how even God can take the results of man's sinfulness and make them redound to His glory. We can be sure that the death of Stephen and the severe persecution of the Christians in Jerusalem were not products of the direct will of God. Neither can they be explained as the product of the natural order of things and that God had no part in them. God controls the world and all things in it, and He keeps a constant watch upon all its operations. We can find a satisfactory explanation only in the fact that God's permissive will was in operation. The unbelieving Jews willed to persecute the Christians, and God permitted them to choose their own course. Then, when they had done their worst, He intervened to bring a blessing for His cause out of their folly.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. When the members of any church begin to witness for the Lord, a revival is always sure to come (Vs. 4).

2. Wherever the gospel is preached in its power, lost souls today are heeding its message (Vv. 5, 6).

3. When a great revival comes to any place, it always leaves great joy among the people (Vv. 7, 8).

4. We should undertake nothing in the service of the Lord without first asking His blessing in prayer (Vv. 14, 15).

5. The gift of the Spirit through the laying on of hands proved to all that the Lord was there (Vs. 16, 17).

6. Those who are willing to be led of the Lord will be directed to their places of service (Vv. 26-28).

7. Those who are hungry for the truth of God's Word are delighted to have the Bible explained (Vs. 34).

8. Jesus can be preached from any Bible text, either in the Old or in the New Testament (Vs. 35).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. In this connection it is needful that we should know who these Samaritans really were. Strictly speaking, a Samaritan would be an inhabitant of the city of Samaria; but the term was applied to all the people of the Kingdom of Israel, the Northern or ten tribe Kingdom. After the captivity of Israel, B. C. 721, and in our Lord's time, the name was applied to a peculiar people. At the final captivity of Israel by Shalmaneser, we may conclude that the cities of Samaria were not merely partially but wholly depopulated of their inhabitants, and remained desolate for some time. Finally the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava (Ivah—2 Kings 18:34), and from the cities of Samaria (17:24). The cities of Samaria were populated with Assyrians according to this historical record. Thus the new Samaritans were Assyrians by birth or subjugation. These strangers placed in the cities of Samaria by Esarhaddon, were idolaters at the time. Through the influence of one of the captive priests sent unto them by the king of Assyria, they later on came to fear the Lord, and from thence had a mixture of idolatry and the worship of Jehovah (Vs. 41). Living in the country of Samaria, among the remaining Israelites, there was undoubtedly a good deal of intermarriage, so that the people at last became half-breeds or hybrids, to a large extent.—W. S. Hottel, D. D.

2. Matthew Henry says: "Samson's riddle is here again unriddled: Out of the eater comes forth meat, and out of the strong sweatness. The persecution that was designed to extirpate the church was by the overruling providence of God made an occasion of the enlargement of it. Christ had said, I am come to send fire on the earth; and they thought that by scattering those that were kindled by that fire to have put it out, but instead of this they did but help to spread it."

We hope you have memorized Acts 1:8. Some of the apostles could have gone to Samaria inside thirty days after the day of Pentecost. Thus we see that our prejudices and our slothfulness can hinder and retard the leadership of the Holy Spirit.

3. In Acts 1:8, Jesus recognizes three racial groups, the Jews, the gentiles and the Samaritans, who were of mixed blood, racially speaking.

In Matthew 16:19, Jesus gave Peter the keys of the kingdom, and this meant that he had the honor and privilege of opening the gospel door to the Jew, Samaritan and gentile. But we note that Peter was not overly anxious to use the keys, except in the case of the Jews. It required a vision from heaven before he would go to the home of Cornelius and open the door for the gentiles. Note also that the Jews received water baptism first and then that of the Holy Spirit. In the case of the gentiles the order was reversed.

4. "And the angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise, and go toward the south, unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert" (Vs. 26). Why was an angel sent to Philip? Why didn't God use the promptings of the Spirit? Philip was filled with Him. Let us be practical in our thinking about this unique way that God used to get His servant to go to a desert on a mission, which reached into eternity for one who was seeking spiritual help. Philip, even though he was a spirit filled, zealous, loyal, devoted Christian, the fact still remains that he was a human being; and as such he would have remained by the warm, glowing fires of his successful revival in Samaria if God had employed anything less than an angel to turn his steps toward Gaza. In spite of his victorious work in Samaria, Philip obeyed with the promptness of one whose will is to do God's will. God's timing and Philip's strict obedience brought him to the desired crossroads at precisely the opportune moment. "And he arose and went: and, behold, a man of Ethiopia, a eunuch of great authority under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who had the charge of all her treasure, and had come to Jerusalem for to worship, Was returning, and sitting in his chariot read Esaias the prophet" (Vv. 27, 28).—The Advanced Quarterly (F. W. B.).

5. Read Acts 8:35-40 carefully. Suppose you were reading these verses for the first time. Would you think the eunuch was sprinkled, poured or immersed?

Many a man expects to be buried from the church who does nothing about keeping it open till he gets there.—The Announcer, Trinity F. W. B. Church Bulletin, Fort Worth, Texas.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

chairman of the host auxiliary, and Mrs. Thelma Nourse were in charge of the devotions. Prayers were offered by the Rev. Russell Milam and Mrs. Gladys Burns.

The Rev. Robert Crawford, pastor of the Greenville, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church, was the teacher of the lessons which were of great benefit to both the auxiliaries.

Washington, D. C.: Information reaching us from the Department of Indian Affairs points out that there are openings for school teachers and nurses on the Indian Reservations in the United States. These positions are classified as Civil Service jobs and carry a corresponding Civil Service grade. Here again there are possibilities of teachers and nurses doing missionary work in connection with their official duties.

Nashville, Tennessee: Letters are going out soon from the home mission office in Nashville, requesting gifts of $10 each from at least 200 persons for the purpose of paying off the loan which the board had to take last December in order to keep up the home mission program. This note will be due in June of this year, and every effort is being made to pay it off in full even before it comes due. Please do your part in helping to make this possible. If you do not receive a personal request by letter, please consider this as your invitation to share in the victory with us, by sending your check or money order for $10 for this cause.

Tampa, Florida: Miss Bessie Yeley left here March 15 for Pearsall, Texas, where she will work with the Mexican mission in Loreda and Eagle Pass, Texas. The Central Free Will Baptist Church, Tampa, missionary, Robert Wilfong, in charge, reports four decisions for Christ recently. This church serves both Americans and Cubans in Tampa, near the Cuban settlement of Ybor City.

Eternity

H. B. Musselman

A gay and worldly lady had a pious servant. Night after night she was kept up till four or five o'clock, waiting for her mistress' return from her fashionable parties; and night after night she was found reading the Bible or some good book. One night, the mistress looked over her shoulder, and asked, laughing, "What melancholy stuff are you reading this time?" But her eye had caught the word eternity; and suddenly the laugh was changed for a strange feeling of sadness. Sleep fled from her eyes, and mirth from her heart, and the word eternity still haunted her, until a conviction of her unprepared state led to serious inquiry, and that to a full surrender of her heart to God.—Selected.

OUR Living BIBLE

V. B. S. Course
Full Color — Complete
For 5 Age Groups

Featuring ONE GENERAL THEME Adapted for All Ages

A brand-new 10-lesson course with the primary purpose of inspiring boys and girls to know and live the Bible. All lessons are complete . . . carefully and reverently prepared. Fascinating handicraft ideas have been adapted to correlate with the course for further lesson emphasis. A complete, practical and true-to-the-Bible course for the children of today.

TEACHERS' MANUALS

Even the most inexperienced teacher or leader will find all the help needed in these complete manuals. Introductions to each manual explain what to expect of the child, and give many helpful pointers on how to teach. Complete plans for each lesson, plus instructions and patterns for all handwork activities assure a thorough treatment of the course for every age group.

PUPILS' WORKBOOKS

For the first time, pupils' workbooks have full color throughout! Activities have been selected with the primary purpose of emphasizing the lessons. Nursery children will make a crown with jewels, a harp with strings, and many others; Beginners will make a scroll, a mobile of the Twenty-third Psalm, etc.; Primary children will make salt pictures, Bible patrol badges, plus several other fascinating items; Juniors will make gospel bells from can lids, cord pictures, and others; Teen-agers will find such projects as pictures from felt and chicken wire, and bowls from old phonograph records both interesting and rewarding.

ALSO full-color teaching pictures and a Table-Top Pict-O-Graph set are provided for the teacher's use. Visualized lessons are remembered lessons.

Your boys and girls will benefit from having these heroes pictured before them during every class session. TEACHING PICTURE SET, No. 9195, $1.25.

RAUL CASTILLO AND HIS CUBAN CHURCH

Pictured above, on horseback, is Raul Castilla, one of last year's graduates from the Cuban Free Will Baptist School of Missions of which the Rev. Thomas H. Willey Sr., is president. Raul lives alone in the church building, a life of sacrifice. His labor takes hours on horseback over the lonely stretches of sandy Cuban roads. Mr. Willey states that he made a three-day trip with Mr. Castillo in January, 1956, and the homes of the believers had even less to offer him than the unspeakable economical slums of Cuba.

For a more complete story of the Rev. Raul Castillo, see the article entitled Raul Castillo in MISSIONS.

A COMPARISON

In our issue of April 11 we dedicated the editorial to a discussion of social security for ministers. In that article we gave facts as they were issued in a circular from the social security office. The purpose of this editorial is to make a comparison of that type of ministers' retirement with the retirement program of the Free Will Baptist denomination as it is administered by the National Superannuation Board.

Let us consider first the benefits which the minister derives from his policy with the National Superannuation Board:

(1) His policy carries the features of good insurance. If he should die before the date of maturity of the policy his beneficiary will draw the face value of the policy, together with all accumulated dividends which have accrued to the credit of the policy throughout its life. The Superannuation Board has an agreement with the Ministers Life and Casualty Union, the company which handles the policies for the board, whereby the company credits all annual dividends to the policies.

(2) All policies of ministers whose health records are adequate carry a disability rider which will pay the minister, in case of total and permanent disability, the amount of $10 per thousand per month, and will effect the waiver of all future premiums of the insured minister. These benefits are in addition to the regular features of the policy and do not nullify payment of the face value of the policy plus accumulated dividends at the time of death of the insured or maturity of the policy.

(3) Upon maturity of a minister's policy (at Age 65 or 70, according to the stipulation in his policy) the minister, or his beneficiary, will be given the option of receiving the full value of the policy in one check, or a stipulated amount each month for an agreed number of years, or a stipulated amount until his or her death.

Now, let us compare the cost of the two plans of retirement for the minister. We shall give figures on the cost to a person who enters the programs at 21 years of age. Since we do not have the figures at hand on the retirement plan of the Superannuation Board for ministers who retire at Age 65, we shall use figures on retirement at age 70. The cost will be slightly higher, possibly a dollar or two a year, for retirement at Age 65.

Under the Superannuation Board plan the minister, Age 21, will pay $6.19 per thousand the first year and $8.72 per thousand per year during subsequent years. At this rate he will pay a total of $383.68 during the 44 years until he is 65. Let us remember that, under this plan, the Superannuation Board pays an equal amount on his policy from funds sent in from the field. He may multiply this total by the number of thousands of dollars retirement which he holds with the Superannuation Board and determine how much he will pay on his retirement. For instance, if he has $5,000 in a retirement policy, he will pay a total of $1,918.40 during the life of the policy. This will give him insurance throughout the life of the policy and will pay him better than $5,000 at maturity.

Now, let us see what this same person will pay and receive under social security. We shall have to establish an average annual salary to arrive at figures for comparison. A lower salary will cost proportionately less. Let us set the average salary at $2,640 per year, or $220 per month. During the first three years (until 1960) this person, Age 21, will pay $237.60. During the next five years (until 1965) he will pay $495.00. During the next five years (until 1970) he will pay $594.00. During the next five years (until 1975) he will pay $726.00. During the remaining 26 years he will pay $4,118.40. This will make his total contribution to social security until the date of his retirement amount to $6,171.00. Together, he and his wife will draw $1,485.60 per year while both are living. Please keep in mind that, once the minister begins this program, he cannot get out of it. He must continue to pay every year until retirement to be fully insured and draw these full payments.

When we compare this contribution of this minister to social security with a similar contribution under the National Superannuation program, we shall be able to compare the benefits derived. With the same contribution to the National Superannuation program this minister could pay for approximately $16,000 worth of retirement pay. If he and (or) his wife should live to be 75 years of age they would receive what would amount to $1,600.00 per year. In addition to this, he would have had the security of insurance in case of death during these years and also an additional $160.00 per month the remainder of his life in case of his total and permanent disability at any time before he reaches his fifty-sixth birthday.

Of course, the young minister must consider the fact that the Superannuation program is in its comparative infancy. At the present time it offers only $2,000 coverage per minister provided the board pays half his premiums; but its hope is to increase its offering to $5,000 and ultimately $10,000 coverage per minister. This can be done, however, only if our ministers and churches become sufficiently interested in the plan to support it.

We firmly believe that the most economical and most beneficial program of retirement for a minister under 40 years of age can be worked out through the National Superannuation Board. If the church or charge of the minister will agree to pay half the premiums on policies offered through the National Superannuation Board and the minister will pay the other half, even under existing circumstances, we believe that the young minister can get better coverage with the Superannuation Board than under social security. Ministers who are over 40 years of age should investigate thoroughly the two plans to see which will offer the best program. We suggest that ministers take the matter of retirement up with Rev. K. V. Shutes, National Superannuation, 3801 Richland Avenue, Nashville, Tennessee.

The Worth of a Family Altar

Larry Denham, Bay Branch Church
Timmons ville, South Carolina

(Editor's Note: This is the winning essay of the contest sponsored by the South Carolina District Woman's Auxiliary in cooperation with the Woman's National Auxiliary Convention. The writer is fourteen years old and in the eighth grade at Timmons ville High school, Timmons ville, South Carolina.)

I like to begin the day with God,
Kneel down to Him in prayer;
Lift up my heart to His abode,
And seek His love to share.
Open my Bible and
Read a portion there,
That it may hollow all my thoughts
And sweeten all my care.
I go through the day with God,
Where'er my work may be;
Where'er I am, at home, at school,
He still is near to me.

The first step in a Christian home is to promote a happy, normal establishment of a family altar. Every home that is Christian should have this for a foundation. Prayer is the tie that ties a family together. Without prayer a house is divided and therefore will not stand very long. The family who loves God and each other and shows honor and respect for God and the home has something that will not perish. There is a well known slogan, "The family that prays together stays together." We as young people can be taught and must be taught by faithful example to pledge our allegiance to our churches. This can be done through the family altar.

The family altar needs to be re-established in every home. The religion of Christ should be allowed to permeate into every child's life. In Psalm 78:6, God appointed a law "That the generation to come might know them, even the children which should be born; who should arise and declare them to their children: That they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep His commandments." The greatest things that can be given to us when we are young are not the things that money can buy, but abiding faith in God—a faith that will help us keep our eyes on things eternal and not material things. As families we need to read the Bible together as well as pray together. Out of homes where family altars are observed comes the young Christian people who serve God today and will be the leaders of tomorrow.

We should be thankful for the Christian parents who have established family altars. The blessings that come from these family altars can be felt not only in the homes but will extend into the community. It is united prayer as well as private prayer that produces this mighty force. Thus, to build a building for the Lord, the foundation must begin when the child is young or at the beginning of the marriage. Then as the building grows, a heart-felt worship will develop which will prove valuable to everyone. Young people cannot be brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord without worship, the family altar.

The family altar will hold, as nothing else, the boys and girls when they have gone from beneath the parental roof. The family altar is valuable because it determines the eternal salvation of the children in Christian homes. To the guests who visit, it proves to be an influence.

The most successful worship that I know about is to have prayer which is in reality worship before meals. Then at night have the family worship as the psalmist said, "As for me, I will call upon God; and the LORD shall save me. Evening, and morning, and at noon, will I pray, and cry aloud; and he shall hear my voice" (Psalm 55:16, 17). As we go about our daily tasks, the family altar sends us forth with cheerful hearts, strength for the work, and determination in whatever is done therein to glorify God.

The family altar gives me strength to meet the discouragements, disappointments, unexpected adversities and sometimes the blind hopes that fall my way. But we know that we have the abiding presence of Jesus who will help us to be victorious over everything—even that which is simple. The family altar in our home sweetens the home life and enriches home relationships as nothing else can do. It dissolves the misunderstandings which intrude into the sacred nearness of family life. It will enforce, as nothing else can, the work of my pastor in pulpit and pew. It stimulates the life of my church in its every activity.

A family altar influences other homes too. It should be a challenge for each member to endeavor greater things in service and for a deeper devotion to our Lord Jesus.

The Word of God exhorts parents in the training of their children in the way that they should go (Proverbs 22:6). What is the worth of a family altar? It is the act in which we learn to honor God, to confess our sins one to another and to God, to recognize what sin is, to believe and practice moral living both for the family's sake and for Jesus' sake, to have a deeper sense of appreciation for family life, and to daily praise God from whom all blessings flow—all these and more, but only eternity can reveal what its real worth is!

May Is Orphanage Month

R. H. JACKSON, Superintendent
Free Will Baptist Children's Home
Middlesex, North Carolina

First of all I want to thank you for everything you have done for the children of the Orphanage. The people of North Carolina have responded wonderfully to the needs of the Home. Each dollar you have invested and each hour you have spent in efforts for the children is money and time well invested.

In order to be able to feed, clothe, send the children to school, and renovate the old building, we are going to need several thousand dollars. I am appealing to you at this time to please do everything you can to get your church to make its offering in May as large as they can. This will help us carry on the work without having to go in debt.

Also, we would like for you to subscribe to the Orphanage paper, "The

THE TRIUNE GOD

Elder A. J. Jenkins
McArthur, Ohio

(Editor's Note: This is the last in the series of articles by the author on the general subject, "What Is God Like.")

THE Holy Trinity consists of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit who are three persons of one essence. Although this doctrine cannot be completely explained because of divine mystery and the limitations of the human mind, it is clearly and unmistakably taught in the Scriptures. From among the many references in the Word of God we invite you to consider the baptismal formula given by the Master in the Great Commission, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost" (Matthew 28:19). For the other reference you may examine the benediction of the apostle, Paul, "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all. Amen" (2 Corinthians 13:14).

These statements show clearly the three persons who make up the Godhead. And, since God is one God, the three persons are, of necessity, one in essence. The Bible ascribes the same attributes to one of these persons that it ascribes to the other two.

The concept of God as a trinity came as a result of the activity of God. The Jewish background of the early Christians gave them the belief in one God, according to the first of the Ten Commandments. However, when Jesus came to live among them, they began to look upon Him as God. This they did because He taught them that He was the only begotten Son of the Father, and because of the mighty works which He did.

After the ascension of Jesus and the coming of the Holy Spirit, the Christians came to look upon the Spirit as God. Therefore, the Christian experience of today is that of God in Christ working among them through the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit leads Christians to do the will of Christ whose will is that of the Father.

This triune God not only is, but is also the Cause, Preservation and Maintenance of His Creation. This includes, among other things, His activities in the plan of man's redemption.

God is the maker of heaven and earth and all that are therein, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth" (Genesis 1:1). And Jesus was with the Father in creation, for John says, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made" (John 1:1-3). It is evident, therefore, that the us to whom God referred when He said, "... Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: ..." (Genesis 1:26), were His Son, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit. This plainly shows that God is the primal Cause of this world, notwithstanding the claims of evolutionists.

When things went wrong in the world which God had made, He immediately set to work to make them right. Man, who was made in the image and likeness of God, yielded to the temptation of Satan and marred the image. Then God at once began the work of re-creation to redeem fallen man from his fallen state and to give him another chance.

The divine image of God may be restored after one has been regenerated or has experienced the New Birth, "And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness" (Ephesians 4:24).

God maintains all things according to His will through both natural providence and supernatural intervention. The laws of nature are the ordinary means whereby God maintains and preserves the universe. By these laws all things operate to perform His will. By these we have day and night, the seasons of the year, rain from the heavens, the productivity of the soil, the laws of science and astronomy and all others. On the other hand, God may see fit to supersede the natural laws at times with supernatural activities. Then He performs miraculous works. However, all these are the workings of God.

It is an historical fact of the Christian faith that God is able to make all things work together for good to them that love Him. God has a purpose for the human race—to worship, serve and give glory to Him. In order that man might be a fit instrument to fulfill His purpose, God has to redeem man. He is in the process of accomplishing that task, and in the end will be victorious in His efforts. He is redeeming men and women, boys and girls, out of the world who will turn to Him by faith in His Son, Jesus, to form the great company in heaven to fulfill His purpose for man.

God can be hindered in His work by the forces of Satan, but He cannot be defeated. Multitudes of souls will be eternally saved, and those who reject will be judged with eternal damnation.

WHAT THE CHURCH OWES THE LEAGUE

Millie Tripp
Ayden, North Carolina

I AM a youth! In the modern days of our twentieth century we, the youth, are becoming more restless and we are becoming more demanding too. Today the world is offering us more amusements and more sinful attractions to allure us, many of which are contrary to our home teaching. In our confusion someone has pointed many of us to the church. There we find fellowship with older Christians and sources which answer many of our questions. New problems arise and many of us return for added advice.

Somewhere though, we desire to talk with others our own age, hear their problems—how they have been solved and discuss them together. We want to learn to counsel with others and help them over life's most confusing age as we are being helped. We would even like to someday fill positions which those who have aided us filled—to be church workers, Sunday school teachers and superintendents. So, we come to the league, the training service of the church.

If we are lucky there are adults there who can give us further instruction those who understand our confusing needs and desires. There, with other young people, we learn to express ourselves and gain practical experience in this art. We learn to cope with problems of the church and Sunday school. Our sponsor also encourages our effort at playing various musical instruments singing and many other phases of church work; for it is in our league that we are trained for positions in our church.

However, if our church is lax when we come to league, we find no sponsor or a very disinterested one. It only adds to our confusion when we see a class of beginners or primaries coming to the house of God for training, which is most appropriate now, and watch while others discuss who must accept the unwanted job of being their sponsor. We listen while many refuse the challenge; while others make excuses which are not even reasons. Must our young children be looked upon as an unwanted burden instead of a challenging opportunity? This is perhaps the most important thing the church owes the league—its leaders. One need not be a specialist in order to become a good sponsor, but rather one needs only to care enough for us as youths to make it his business to discover our needs, our interests, our abilities and our limitations—just become our friends.

The influence that the sponsor exerts in the league is expressed quite well in his poem:

A builder builded a temple,
He wrought it with grace and skill—
Pillars and groins and arches
All fashioned to work his will.
Men said, as they saw its beauty,
"It shall never know decay;
Great is thy skill, O builder!
As you build from day to day."

A sponsor builded a temple
With loving and infinite care,
Planning each arch with patience,
Laying each stone with prayer.
None praised her unceasing efforts,
None knew of her wondrous plan,
For the temple the sponsor builded
Was unseen by the eye of man.

Gone is the builders temple.
Crumbled into the dust;
Low lies each stately pillar,
Food for consuming rust.
But the temple the teacher builded
Will last while the ages roll,
For that beautiful, unseen temple
Is a child's immortal soul.

Besides our sponsors, there is also another group of adults who have come to the league for the same purpose as most of us—to be trained. Because they come, we know they are interested in improving their church and themselves. They are setting an example which we would like to follow. When only a few of them attend league, however, we wonder if they are interested in the future welfare of their church. Then, if they are not interested, we wonder why the problems of the church should disturb us; so we become unconcerned too. The members of the church should therefore take a personal interest in the league, providing it with moral support through their regular attendance. They should advertise the league and boost its membership whenever possible. Through these channels of interested, encouraging sponsors and adults, we, the youth, being the ones for which the league was primarily organized, will develop a league going habit which will continue throughout our adult life, thus enabling us to become better workers in our church and His Kingdom.

RAUL CASTILLO

Thomas H. Willey Sr.
Cuba

(Note: The article below was delayed in getting to our office, but we would like to share it with our readers. We believe that the answer to the gospel need in every land is through the national believers. Thus they are being trained and are working as pastors and teachers among their own people. We want you to know them better.—Raymond Riggs.)

He is one of last year's graduates, Raul Castillo, whom we want you to know and to pray for. Raul lives a life of sacrifice; his labors take hours on horseback over lonely stretches of sandy roads.

I just completed a three-day trip with Raul. He lives alone in our church building, preparing his meager meals over a small stove. The usual meal is rice and beans. The homes of the believers where he might be visiting have even less to offer him due to the unspeakable economical slump in Cuba. Tobacco in Cuba is the poorest crop in which one can make a living. It is grown because ninety-nine per cent of the farmers are share croppers, working on the basis of a fifth of the crop which must be tobacco to stay on the land. Many have been on the same farm for three generations. Tobacco is the only crop they can hang in the barn and wait until a buyer comes. So very often it is too late as the worms have begun their destruction and it is bought up at a greatly reduced price as low as $14 and $16 per hundred. Some of the owners have insurance, so it is much better business to set fire to the barn so that the poor share cropper must build another barn. The only clothes must be made by the mother and wife. Here we must constantly get together some clothing to send because of a desperate appeal to some faithful Christian family. Old pants and suits are received with joy.

This time of the year, January, Cuba can really get cold and the only way to keep warm is to put on more clothing if you have it. To see a whole family shivering in the cold makes the missionary want to hurry home and say to our Christians who have nice warm houses and a trunk of old clothes and covers,

"Please send help to Cuba." What are we to do, just shiver with them? It would take tons of clothing to meet the challenge.

Very often I have sat with a group like this, they pass the evening singing. The picture on the front cover are the people there who live under the most impoverished conditions. You ask yourself, "Doesn't the ground produce?" Very often, only when there is water. The winter is the dry season when it doesn't rain for months. Then comes the rainy season when there is so much rain that everything goes to tops and vines.

We have for years been praying for an agriculture missionary for Cuba and small farms to experiment with other crops to show our Christians that they must change their crops.

Our dream is to some day have a fully self-supported native ministry. This can only be possible when we have a prosperous Christian community. Please pray for us as we begin a survey among our Free Will Baptist farmers with the American cooperative point four program. We have to begin among these same people in Raul Castillo's field.

Prayer and Praise Letter

April 5, 1956

"Dear Friends:

"As all good things must necessarily end, so also must this very pleasant time at home. Many of the things we had hoped to do remain undone and we haven't even been able to see all of you. As we looked ahead to more than a full year at home we thought that there would be time for everything which we wished to do, but the time has passed all too quickly. Still our hearts beat a little faster as we think of how soon we will be back in India.

"We praise the Lord for all His abundant extras to us this year, for giving Randy to us, for giving us good health, for providing for all our needs and for loving friends who have made our furlough so pleasant. We want to recommend to all youngsters who are looking for something to be when they grow up that they be foreign missionaries—on furlough.

Financial Report of National Sunday School Board

The promotional secretary of the National Sunday School Board, William Mishler, reports that he has conducted six Sunday school workers' conferences. The total attendance of these conferences was 1670 and 32 Sunday schools were represented. Brother Mishler has also visited several state and local Sunday school conventions and reorganized a number of schools. He reports that he has never witnessed a time in our churches when people were so anxious to know how to really get the job done in their Sunday school.

Brother Mishler submits the following financial statement from the National Sunday School Board:

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Do you believe in a Trinity, immortality of the human soul and eternal torment? If you do you are on the wrong road and I advise you to get on the right road, for the wrong road will lead you to the Battle of Armageddon.—A. J. S., Atlanta, Ga.

Answer: Yes, I believe in the Triune God or as you put it, "in a Trinity." This means that I believe that God has, does and always will present Himself to us in the personal manifestations of God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy (Ghost) Spirit. This belief is based on Scriptural truth which is abundant throughout the whole Bible and which the well-informed leaders of the church through all the years of church history have believed and taught, and which dominates all evangelical church creeds. Through these creeds we declare our belief in the Triune God. The following is an English translation from the Greek of the Apostles' Creed and is found in The New Schaff-Herzog Religious Encyclopedia, Volume 1, Page 241:

"I believe in God the Father Almighty and in Christ Jesus, his only begotten Son, our Lord, born of the Holy Ghost and of Mary, the Virgin, who was crucified under Pontius Pilate and buried; on the third day He rose from the dead, ascended into heaven, sitteth on the right hand of the Father from whence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead; and in the Holy Ghost, the holy church, the remission of sins, the resurrection of the flesh."

Let us look first at some of the Scriptures that present our God as being more than one person. "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: . . ." (Genesis 1:26). "Go to, let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may not understand one another's speech" (Genesis 11:7). With these in view let us consider some Scriptures that clearly point our Lord Jesus Christ out as being God's Son, and therefore Himself as being God: "Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel" (Isaiah 7:14); "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace" (Isaiah 9:6); and "But thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting" (Micah 5:2). Compare these with the following New Testament Scriptures: "Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Behold, a virgin shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us" (Matthew 1:22, 23). "And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God, And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shall call his name JESUS. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David: And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end" (Luke 1:30-33). "And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth" (John 1:14). "And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him: And lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased" (Matthew 3:16, 17). See John 1:18; John 1:1; 1 John 1:1; John 10:30; John 3:15, 16; Matthew 27:40, 43; Mark 14:61, 62.

Now let us look at a few of the many Scriptures which plainly teach that Jesus Christ, our Lord, and God, our heavenly Father, are one (substance). "I and my Father are one" (John 10:30); "But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him" (John 10:38). "Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works. Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very works' sake" (John 14:10, 11).

Finally let us consider a few of the many New Testament statements that ascribe divine works to Jesus Christ our Lord. Speaking of Jesus we read, "All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made" (John 1:3); "For by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him" (Colossians 1:16); "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created" (Revelation 4:11). Among the divine works was (1) the power to give eternal life. "As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to as many as thou hast given him" (John 17:2); ". . . I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10); "Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live" (John 11:25); "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me" (John 14:6); "But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel" (2 Timothy 1:10). (2) Jesus also had power to raise dead bodies, "And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loosen him, and let him go" (John 11:43, 44); "And he came and touched the bier: and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise. And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother" (Luke 7:14, 15); "But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose" (Matthew 9:25). It seems to me that you or any other Jehovah's Witness or any one else misled by a similar cult could see from these Scriptures that the Bible teaches the deity of our precious Lord Jesus Christ.

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"But the LORD said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the LORD seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the LORD looketh on the heart" (1 Samuel 16:7).

This verse is taken out of the story of the Lord choosing, by His servant, Samuel, a king to rule over Israel. After God had sent Samuel to Jesse, the Bethlehemite, Jesse caused seven of his sons to pass by in succession, but in every case Samuel announced that the seven had been rejected by the Lord. The plain inference is that the rejection was occasioned by the fact that the heart was not right with God. Many who would otherwise be useful in the church limit, or altogether render themselves useless, because sin remains in their hearts. Many think because they have boosted themselves in the sight of others, or been boosted by others, that they are something great, forgetting that the LORD looketh on the heart. Time after time Samuel said, "Neither hath the LORD chosen this."

The heart is the seat of our troubles. Gotthold gives us the following thought provoking paragraph:

"I recollect a story of a monk, who resolved to leave his monastery, on the ground that he there too frequently met with causes of provocation, and was betrayed into anger and other sins. Accordingly he retired into the desert, in the hope that solitude would enable him to serve God with an easier mind. One day, however, his pitcher happened to be upset, and, when lifted up, fell a second time; which kindled his anger to such a pitch, that he dashed it to the ground, and broke it into a thousand pieces. He soon, however, came to himself, and said, 'I now see that I cannot be at peace, even in solitude; and that the fault lies not in others, but in myself.' He then returned to the monastery, and, after many strenuous efforts, succeeded in subduing his passions, not by flight, but by mortification and self-denial."—Selected.

I suppose that the greatest counterpart to our text to be found in the New Testament is in the fifteenth chapter of Matthew. Jesus said in Verses 18-20, "But those things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart; and they defile the man. For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies: These are the things which defile the man: but to eat with unwashen hands defileth not a man." It is in the heart where desire, and purpose, and all the things of life—good and evil—are formed. Evil thoughts are the seeds of evil words and deeds. Murders have their beginning with hate. Adulteries and fornications are the results of sinful desire. Theft grows out of covetousness. "These are the things which defile the man." The soul, not the body, is the true man.

There are two verses in Proverbs which, if considered together and put in operation, will make and keep our hearts in such a condition that when God looks on them He will be pleased and say to the Holy Ghost of us as He said to Samuel of David, "... Arise, anoint him: for this is he" (1 Samuel 16:12). The first verse in Proverbs that I want us to consider is, "... give me thine heart, and let thine eyes observe my ways" (Proverbs 23:26), and to be considered with it and practiced for a pure heart and life, "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life" (Proverbs 4:23). Jesus said, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God" (Matthew 5:8).

Facts and Figures About Israel

Because of its prominence in the Word of God and in the world news at this time, we thought that some of our readers might be interested in the following information on the new nation of Israel.

The population of Israel on Independence Day, May 14, 1948, was 650,000. In December of 1955, the population was 1,789,100. This number was divided as follows: Jews 1,590,600, non-Jews 198,500. Nearly 800,000 Jews have immigrated to Israel since May of 1948. Over 40% of these are from Moslem and Arabic speaking countries. What a mission field for Christians!

Communication in the country is fairly good. A 48-mile railroad linking Negev with Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Haifa was completed in February of this year. A 700-foot jetty for the Port of Eilat on the Red Sea, at southernmost point of Negev, was completed in December, 1955, opening the port to vessels up to 2,000 tons and giving Israel access to sea routes to Africa and Asia. Ten international airlines operate in Israel. About 77,000 passengers traveled to and from Israel by plane in 1955.

Geologists using the Bible as a guidebook have rediscovered King Solomon's copper mines and large deposits of manganese and other minerals, including phosphates, potash, feldspar, mica, ceramic clays and glass sand. The Bible also serves as a guide in finding water.

Mount Olive College Days

M. L. Johnson, Treasurer
Sims, North Carolina

By now you will have noticed that April has five Sundays. We hope that you have also remembered that fifth week-ends have been declared "Mount Olive College Days" by our North Carolina State Convention United Program.

We, at Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, have learned to look forward to these fifth week-end offerings and contributions. They always seem to come just at the time when our funds are running low and

The Ministry for Religious Affairs actively promotes the religious life of all groups in Israel through separate departments for the Jewish, Moslem, Christian, Druze and Bahai communities. It has also established separate religious courts for the Moslems and pays Moslem religious officials.

The per capita income in Israel in 1954 was $444. By 1955 it had increased to $556.

Israel is a republic. It has a president elected by the Knesseth (Parliament) in secret ballot and by majority vote. The 120 members of its one-chamber Knesseth are elected by secret ballot and by majority vote.

Love is an image of God, and not a lifeless image, but the living essence of divine nature which beams full of all goodness.—Luther.

Love never reasons, but profusely gives; gives, like a thoughtless prodigal, its all, and trembles then lest it has done too little.—Hannah More.

Love looks not with the eyes, but with the mind.—Shakespeare.

Love covers a multitude of sins. When a scar cannot be taken away, the next kind office is to hide it. Love is never so blind as when it is to spy faults. It is like the painter, who, being to draw the picture of a friend having a blemish in one eye, would picture only the other side of his face. It is a noble and great thing to cover the blemishes and to excuse the failings of a friend; to draw a curtain before his stains, and to display his perfections; to bury his weaknesses in silence, but to proclaim his virtues upon the house-top.—South.

we need a "pick up." We are depending upon you to remember us this fifth week-end. The funds that you send in will help us to finish up our most successful year of operation.

May I suggest that we make the offerings and contributions this fifth week-end a special feature. As most of you already know, Brother Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College, has recently been confined to his home because of extreme physical fatigue. We know that the cause of this was the extremely heavy schedule that he maintained in his work at and for the college. We are very happy to report that Brother Raper is improving very nicely and is at present directing the college work from his home. We look forward to having him back at the college. In the meantime, wouldn't it be very nice to designate our offerings and contributions this fifth week-end as an "expression of appreciation" for his untiring efforts for us in the college work? I am sure that if we will give of our means now as freely as he has given of his energy in the past, our offerings and contributions will enable us to meet the needs at this time.

Churches, Sunday schools, auxiliaries, leagues, union meetings, Sunday school conventions and other fifth week-end groups and individuals are urged to join in this "expression of appreciation" to Brother Raper for his labor at the college.

We will be expecting to hear from you.

Some people use Christianity like a bus; they ride on it only when it is going their way.—The Announcer, Trinity F. W. B. Church Bulletin, Fort Worth, Texas.

THE MAIL BOX

Correction!

"I wish to personally thank The Free Will Baptist for the nice news note concerning the Oak Ridge Free Will Baptist Church in the April 11 issue. Through the news note our church asked for donations on the new building which we are planning to erect during this year. All contributions were to be sent to the pastor, Rev. Milton Crowson; however, since Rev. Crowson will be leaving our church in the near future to go to Nashville, Tennessee, in order to attend the Bible College in the fall, we should like for all contributions now to be mailed to Oak Ridge Free Will Baptist Church, B. P. Hagood, Treasurer, 257 Louisiana Avenue, Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Any donation, large or small, will be greatly appreciated."—William Curtis Beverly, 134 Maryville Circle, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

DEATH

"As a result of sin, all mankind, is subject to the death of the body."—Treatise. "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned" (Romans 5:12). There is no way to escape death. And it is plainly stated in the Scriptures that God said, "... in the day that thou eat-est thereof thou shalt surely die" (Genesis 2:17). It is an evident fact that Adam did not die in the 24 hour day as we have it, but Adam did die spiritually the very moment that he disobeyed God's command and was afraid of God. His love for God turned to fear. His fellowship of light turned to fellowship of darkness. Instead of wanting to be with God, he wanted to hide from God. So spiritually Adam and Eve were both dead to God, but Adam died physically before the end of one of God's one thousand year days. "But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day" (2 Peter 3:8). If we believe the Bible, we certainly know that Adam died both spiritually and also physically. Death is appointed to man. "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, ..." (Hebrews 9:27). This is an appointment that we must meet—prepared or unprepared.

"For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive" (1 Corinthians 15:22). God can make life, both spiritually and physically. "What man is he that liveth, and shall not see death? ..." (Psalm 89:48). "There is no man that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death: and there is no discharge in that war; neither shall wickedness deliver those that are given to it" (Ecclesiastes 8:8).

"The soul does not die with the body; but immediately after death enters into a conscious state of happiness or misery, according to the character here posessed."—Treatise. "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was: and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it" (Ecclesiastes 12:7). Paul says, "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain. But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labour: yet what I shall choose I wot not. For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better" (Philippians 1:21-23). If Paul did not know about the state of being conscious, we certainly are in the dark. But Paul did know. Thank God that Paul gave us a clear-cut knowledge of the future. Thus we know that the doctrine of unconsciousness after death is a fake, concocted by Satan who found a few people ignorant enough to believe another of his lies. Paul said that he wanted to be with the Lord Jesus. What good would it be for Paul to be with Jesus, if he had no knowledge of his being? We Free Will Baptists believe that, if we are children of God through accepting the Lord Jesus as our personal Saviour, when we die we will go home to our Father. May we notice the words of Jesus when He answered the thief on the cross: "And he (one of the thieves) said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom. And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To day shalt thou be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:42, 43). What good would it have been for this repentant thief to have been with Jesus, if he had no knowledge of his whereabouts? Away with that "soul-sleeping" theory!

At the time of the transfiguration of the Lord Jesus it was evidenced that Moses and Elias were alive, not as mortals, but as living spiritual beings. Let us see. "And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him" (Matthew 17:3). Here we learn that Moses and Elias were alive and could hold a conversation—talking with him. Again may we listen to Jesus: "But as touching the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read that which was spoken unto you by God, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living" (Matthew 22:31, 32). Therefore Abraham, Isaac and Jacob were not dead. Their flesh had died, but the real ego was alive and in full capacity of knowledge.

"And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus receive my spirit" (Acts 7:59). This was the prayer, or a part of it, as offered by the first martyr for faith in Christ. Free

Will Baptists believe that Stephen knew what he was talking about.

PROTESTANT MISSION IS SMASHED

The following item of news was clipped from the "Western Voice," as published in the issue of February 8, 1956, and credited to the "Chicago Tribune." This article makes one wonder if the time will come in America that Protestant property will be destroyed. It has happened in Spain, Italy and Latin America. The spirit of Rome never changes. The article reads as follows:

Aprilia, Italy, Jan. 16 (Reuters)—A gang of men tonight forced its way into a newly opened Church of Christ mission here and smashed the windows and its furniture.

The American supported Protestant Church of Christ set up the mission in two rented rooms of a private apartment in this community near Rome. Early today, a group of 2,000 Roman Catholics marched past the apartment and shouted protests. Later the gang broke into the mission. The police department said that it had opened an inquiry.

The Church of Christ was established in Italy at the end of World War II.

A lot of Church Members are like wheelbarrows—no good unless pushed.

Others are like kites—if you don't keep a string on them they fly away.

A lot are like footballs—you can't tell which way they'll bounce next.

A lot are like lights—they keep going on and off.

Others let the Holy Spirit lead them. They show their faith by their good works and faithful service.—First F. W. B. Church Bulletin, Florence, S. C.

Room For Elizabeth

WHEN the burning of the orphan asylum made it necessary to "farm out the little inmates until new quarters could be found for them, Mrs. Bennett consented to take seven-year-old Elizabeth rather reluctantly, for she felt that the noise and disorder a child would bring into the house might disturb her husband, a studious man, who greatly valued the quiet of his leisure hours.

"May I pretend you're my really aunt?" asked Elizabeth, the first morning at breakfast.

Mrs. Bennett looked at her husband with a questioning smile.

"Of course you may," he answered for her, "and I'll be your uncle temporarily."

"What's temporarily?"

"For a short time," replied Mrs. Bennett.

"Is it two weeks?"

"Well, maybe, dear; we'll see."

"I'd like to have it to be two weeks. Do we have oranges every day?"

"Yes, dear."

"Sallie Connors, she has an aunt and an uncle, and they come to the 'sylum and bring her candy and apples, but they ain't rich enough to have her visit them. They're got lots of children of their own. You haven't got any, have you?"

"No. Now, Elizabeth, eat your oatmeal."

"Yes'm, I'm eating it. It's funny God didn't send you any little children, when this is such a nice place, and oranges every day. O goody, sirup! We hardly ever have sirup at the 'sylum."

Mr. Bennett looked at his wife and smiled. "Put it on thick, Dora," he said.

One cold morning when the house was chilly, Mrs. Bennett tied a little plain shawl around Elizabeth's shoulders. Greatly to her surprise, the child burst into tears.

"Why, what is the matter, my dear?" she asked.

"I don't look like a girl with an aunt when I wear this shawl; I look like a 'sylum girl."

"Why, bless you, child, I wore it when I was little."

"Were you an orphan?"

"No, but I wore that little shawl. I thought it was pretty."

"I don't. I hate it!"

"Don't make her wear it, Dora," quickly interposed Mr. Bennett, who saw that his wife was about to try a little discipline. "Elizabeth isn't a 'sylum girl now; she's visiting us. Come here, youngster, get on my lap and I'll

The Picture on the Wall

NOT a fine work of art; the keen critic would have pronounced it a daub. It did not cost much money and the frame was of plain, uncarved wood. But the picture told a story and told it well.

For the background a rough stone wall. Above it a leaden sky; in the foreground a pale, sad-eyed, weary-looking girl had fallen on a stone bench and in her arms she held a sick boy, white around his forehead just above the sunken, faded eyes. And just in front of them the Christ stood, the patient, ever-suffering, ever-loving Christ, and His hand, not yet pierced, rested upon the head of the sick boy, and his eyes, so tender, so loving, so true, caught the upturned eyes of the lad and in the faded eyes of the boy the light was beginning to come back.

The picture hung in a hospital on the dead, bare, whitewashed wall. And on a bed right opposite the picture, tossing in a fever, wild with delirium, was a wolf-reared boy of the slums. Born of rum-cursed parents and tossed in the nervous arms of a drunken mother, the boy was born to the heritage of woe. He knew nothing of what the word "father" meant, he knew the "old man" well enough to keep out of his way, he carried marks of his brutal beatings on his face, and when the fever came, the blue-coated policeman found him alone in the straw on the damp floor of his cellar.

They brought him here and hands take off that shawl, and today Aunt Dora shall buy you a nice little sweater."

"Uncle," Elizabeth's arms went around his neck, "I wish you and Aunt Dora weren't just nick uncle and aunt."

"Nick, child, what is that?"

"Why, uncle and aunt are only nick-names for you. I wish they were really and truly names."

"How is it, Dora?" Mr. Bennett's eyes glistened above the curly head on his shoulder. "Would you rather be nick or really and truly?"

"Oh, I'd rather be really and truly," cried Mrs. Bennett, and slipping down on the floor at her husband's knees, she clasped both his hand and Elizabeth's in her own.

By-and-by, when Elizabeth was made to understand that she was not to be sent back to the "sylum," she said, very gravely, "I guess God didn't send you any children, so there'd be room for me."—Exchange.

soft and delicate ministered to him, while the white-souled nurse trembled with fear at his fearful oaths.

He grew better; the doctor said he would pull through.

One morning the nurse came and, pulling up the blind let the light fall upon his face, she said:

"Shall I read to you?"

"No," said the boy, and his eyes sought the picture. "No, tell me about that picture. Who is He?"

"He is the Christ," she said, and then with a prayer in her heart she told the story of His life to the boy, and as she closed she said, "Do you believe in Him?"

"I believe in you," said the boy, and the next morning he said to the nurse, "Tell me more about Him."

How glad the sad-eyed nurse was to tell him! Her life had been one of trial, but now she was anchored in a haven of rest, and the Christ's voice had brought a calm to the troubled waters of her life.

As she told the old, old story, the boy said:

"You know Him, don't you?"

"Yes," she said, "thank God I do."

"And He loves boys?"

"He loves everybody."

"Rough boys like me?"

And so, day by day, she talked of Him, and at last there came a time when she said again:

"Do you believe in Him?"

And he said: "I believe."

And two faces bathed in tears were lifted up to the picture.

The boy went from the hospital carrying next to his heart a small Bible, and in his heart the Christ.

As the years rolled on the nurse though often of the boy, but she was shut out from the world and her hours were all long hours, so she heard nothing of him, but when, gray-haired, and bent with age, she finally fell in the harness, they brought her, at her request, and placed her on the bed opposite the picture of the Christ and the child. She was fading away as a cloud at sunset kissed by the dying sun into the glory of Heaven.

Many came to see her; old men and women she had nursed back to life, children who loved her because her love her stood between them and death, the white-capped nurses crowded around her, for her life had blessed them.

The newborn day's great light stole through the windows; all was still in that quiet ward; around the bed, dewy-eyed, stood the nurses, for she was dying. A young clergyman from the next ward had been called in. He looked upon the face on the pillow, then his eyes sought the picture. As he fell upon his knees he said, "Thank God."

"Who are you?" she said.

The eyes of the dying sought his.

Oh, how her face was glorified with glory, not of earth, as she listened, for he said: "I am the boy you told the story of the picture to. My work is with the poor. We shall meet again."

"Lift me," she said.

"Ah," he whispered, "you lifted me."

His strong right arm lifted her up; together their eyes sought the picture. The first rays of the rising sun fell upon the face of the Christ, and when he gently lowered the dead face to the pillow he knew that she saw "face to face."—Publisher Unknown.

MISSIONS

"We want to thank everyone of you for your prayers and for everything you have done to make this year a joyous experience.

"We thank those of you who have had a part in making it possible for us to go to school this winter to prepare ourselves for a little more effective service in India.

"We felt that the Lord would have us make this effort, but we couldn't see how it would be possible. We started in trusting Him to provide and He has provided, through you friends, enough extra gifts to meet our school tuition and to pay for the car that gets us around to the meetings. We thank you very much.

"Since we were unable to get passage on a boat from New York we will have to fly to England on June 16. We will leave England on the boat Corfu on June 22, and arrive in Bombay on July 8.

"The Lord is still working in India. Carlisle writes of recent conversions and baptisms in a new village and this has given us added encouragement as we start back. We praise the Lord for the way He has blessed and used Carlisle and Marie, and we trust Him with them for many more blessings to come.

"We request your prayers and increased interest in India. Still there is a vast opportunity for winning souls to Christ. While the government is making it increasingly hard for new missionaries to get to India, it seems likely that the old missionaries will be allowed to stay indefinitely. But in case we too, have to leave, the Lord still has His church there and He is adding to that church daily. Pray for the Indian Church. Pray for revival among its members. Pray for the young men who must lead. Pray definitely and regularly. Pray for the missionaries who remain that we may be the kind of inspiration that this young church needs in these trying times.

"Now, as we go, we bid you a fond farewell and pray that the Lord will keep on blessing your service for Him here at home. Some from among us will go on to be with Him before we meet again. For them it will be glory and for all who remain there is the unfinished task . . ."

Lovingly in Him,

Dan, Trula and Randy

This letter from the Cronks may appear to be a little early for their departing words, but we wanted everyone to know of their plans; so please continue to pray that the Lord may continue to direct, and that every need may be supplied.

THANKS to everyone who helped to make the March financial report possible. Also, thanks in advance, for what we believe you will do during April. Remember this is foreign mission month. Also, this month has five Sundays, so let's put our state "out front" toward our quota.

PLEASE PRAY for the annual meeting of the Foreign Mission Board to be held in Hazel Park, Michigan, Thursday, April 26; for Brother Willey who returned from Central America quite ill; for the convention in Cuba which will convene Friday, April 27; for the Herseys, enroute to Japan; for the national Christians on each of our fields.

Sincerely yours,

Raymond Riggs

From the Field

Bridgeton, North Carolina

Dear Brother Riggs:

Saturday night, March 10, the Youth for Christ held its Rally at Smyrna Free Will Baptist Church in Beaufort County. It is always our custom to let all of the offering but ten per cent go to the speaker. Brother C. M. Dixon brought us the message this time and he kindly suggested that the Youth for Christ send the amount to you to be applied to foreign missions, which we judged very thoughtful of him, so I am enclosing money order for ten dollars. Please accept this small gift for a worthy cause and the Youth for Christ asks you to always remember it in your prayers.

Joe Hamilton, President

Farmville, North Carolina

Dear Sirs:

Am enclosing a check for $35 which the Ladies Auxiliary of Kings Cross Roads Church (Central Conference, North Carolina) would like to have applied to the expenses of Rev. and Mrs. Hersey. We hope to send more to foreign missions in the future but, this $35 we would like the Herseys to have.

Mrs. J. J. Wooten

Kenly, North Carolina

Dear Brother Riggs,

We are sending $30.13 from St. Mary's Free Will Baptist Church (Western Conference) to be used for Rev. and Mrs. Fred Hersey.

Adrian Overman, Treasurer
Pryor, Oklahoma

Dear Sirs:

This is our ladies Free Will Baptist Mission's Easter offering to the foreign missions.

We are encouraging more to give to the foreign mission program.

Please find enclosed check for $16.

Mrs. W. H. Spohn

Greentop, Missouri

Dear Sir:

You will find enclosed a check for $10 for the Rev. Fred Hersey fund.

This is from the Ladies Auxiliary of Hazel Creek Church.

Miss Leona Thompson

Pleasanton, California

Brethren in Christ:

Am inclosing an offering of $60 which I want to give to foreign missions. With this go my prayers that many souls will be brought to the knowledge of Christ. I am a member of Highway 71 Free Will Baptist Church of Alma, Arkansas, and if possible I want this credited to the Arkansas account. May God bless you in God's Service.

The Conversion of Saul

(Lesson for May 6)

Lesson: Acts 9:1-6, 10-19.

Golden Text: John 15:16.

I. INTRODUCTION

Dr. Joseph Parker said: "In the conversion of Saul we see the greatest triumph which Christianity has accomplished. This was the master-miracle. Who is this man? A Jew, of an ancient and honorable pedigree; a student, a scholar, a man of high and influential station. Shrewder than Iscariot, more ardent than Peter—a very volcano of a man. There lay within him capacity to do anything that mortal ever did. When his teeth once took hold, they could only be opened by an almighty power. His hand once upon the prey, the prey was dead, unless the fingers be unloosed by almightiness. Jesus Christ Himself directly undertakes his conversion, and works thus his supreme spiritual miracle. When Saul was converted there was more than one man changed. There are those who say 'count hands,' as if one hand were equal to another. There is a conversion of quality as well as a conversion of quantity. Some conversions are to be weighed, and some are to be merely numbered. Statistics cannot help you in this matter. Let a Saul of Tarsus be converted, and you convert an army terrible with banners. He will not let the church fall asleep. He will not let the world allow him to travel through all its plains and cities incognito. Many of us will manage that little task. We can go through the house, the place of business, the market, and the exchange, and come out at the other end without anybody identifying us! Saul of Tarsus will presently show us how to go through the world. He will never pass without recognition, and no town will be in without settling up his holy testimony."

The conversion of Saul was one of the greatest of New Testament miracles. Only a personal meeting with the crucified, resurrected and ascended Christ could convince this honest but misguided man.

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. The enemies of Christ may bind his servants, but the gospel they preach cannot be bound (Vv. 1, 2).

2. When the light of heaven shines in a sinner's heart, the voice of the Lord is sure to be heard (Vv. 3, 4).

3. Those who earnestly enquire of the Lord will come to know who Jesus is (Vs. 5).

4. The natural question for a Spirit born soul is "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" (Vs. 6).

5. When the Lord calls a man into his service, He will provide someone to tell him what to do (Vv. 10-12).

6. The fear of danger often indicates wisdom instead of the weakness of cowardice (Vv. 13, 14).

7. The Lord can tame the wildest of men and make them gentle and harmless as a dove (Vs. 15).

8. Those who cause God's people to suffer will somehow reap the reward of persecution (Vs. 16).

9. The greatest saint and the chief of sinners become friends and brothers in the Lord Jesus Christ (Vs. 17).

10. When the Holy Ghost illuminates the soul, the scales of blindness will begin to fall (Vs. 18).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Throughout the remainder of Paul's life after his conversion, he could never forget the awful sin he had committed by persecuting the Christians. On one occasion he said, "For I am the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God" (1 Corinthians 15:9). Another time he said, "For ye have heard of my conversation in time past in the Jews' religion, how that beyond measure I persecuted the church of God, and wasted it" (Galatians 1:13). It is believed that Paul was referring principally to his persecution of the Christians when he wrote to Timothy, "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief" (1 Timothy 1:15).

2. Saul was a chosen vessel unto the Lord. It had been characteristic of God throughout the ages to raise up men to perform the tasks which He needed done. Now the gospel must be preached before kings and princes in all the nations of the world, both Jew and gentile. And Saul of Tarsus was the man whom God had chosen for the task. His marvelously keen mind had been whetted and polished by the finest training which the world offered, both in the field of secular education and that of religion. His indomitable will had been brought into submission to the Son of God. The earnestness of a zealot could not be unleashed under the blood stained banner of the crucified and risen Lord.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

3. Dean Farrar says, "It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of St. Paul's conversion as one of the evidences of Christianity. He could question, not ancient documents, but living men. He had thousands of means close at hand whereby to test the reality or unreality of the resurrection in which, up to this time, he had so passionately and contemptuously disbelieved. In accepting this half-crushed and wholly execrated faith he had everything in the world to lose, he had nothing conceivable to gain; and yet in spite of all, overwhelmed by a conviction which he felt to be irresistible, Saul the Pharisee became a witness of the resurrection, a preacher of the cross."

The earnest student should read Philippians 3:1-14. Which verse especially shows what a poor opinion Paul had of worldly honors when compared with the glory of the risen Christ?

4. Ananias was almost staggered at the directions he had received. His mind was filled with thoughts about the terrible way in which Saul had been persecuting the disciples, all of which he had heard about. Saul's evil reputation had preceded him to Damascus, so that Ananias even knew about the authority he had in his possession to arrest and bind the Christians.

Ananias, in a perfectly simple and natural way, tells the Lord about it. The task laid upon him seems too great and heavy and he tells the Lord all that he had heard about this man Saul. Ananias obviously was afraid of Saul, the terrible persecutor. Of course, the Lord knew all about Saul, and needed not to be told about him and his evil work. He knew better than Ananias or anyone else ever could know. Then furthermore, the Lord had told Ananias that Saul was praying, so why should he fear and hesitate to go and do what the Lord had bidden him do?—Bible Illustrator.

The fellow who is busy lending a hand has no time to borrow trouble.—Selected.

iliary as a new member and Mrs. Herbert Brantley of Raleigh, North Carolina, as a visitor. After a brief business session, Mrs. Brantley dismissed the group with prayer. The hostess then served the ladies refreshments.

Lola, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of Pilgrim's Rest Church held its monthly meeting at the church on Monday night, April 9, with 9 members present. Mrs. Beatrice Lupton led in the singing of the opening hymn. Afterwards she read the Scripture for the evening and Mrs. Ruth Goodwin led the ladies in prayer.

A playlet, entitled "Aunt Martha Wins the Victory," was presented by Mrs. Rubie Goodwin and Mrs. Jean Day. Those taking part on the program, "We Need Consecrated Laborers for Such a Time as This," were: Mrs. Janet Daniels, Mrs. Jean Day, Mrs. Rubie Goodwin and Mrs. Pauline Bowen.

Following the announcements and the singing of the closing hymn, Mrs. Beatrice Lupton dismissed the auxiliary with prayer.

The Pilgrim's Rest Woman's Auxiliary also reports that its pre-Easter week of prayer was quite successful. The meetings were held in various homes in the community due to other work which was being done at the church. Nevertheless the attendance at the meetings was reported as being good.

Merrimon, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of Edward's Chapel Church held its pre-Easter week of prayer on March 26-30. The pastor, Rev. Clifton Styron, helped the auxiliary in obtaining speakers for the meetings. Those who spoke during the week were: Rev. Elmer Goodwin, New Bern; Rev. Noah Brown, Morehead City; Rev. T. C. Smith, Sea Level; Rev. James Howard, Beaufort; and Rev. Roger Reeds, Davis. The auxiliary members arranged the Easter scene behind the pulpit to make the messages more effective. Different members also led the devotions and introduced the speakers each night. The attendance was unusually high at all the services and many blessings were received by those who attended.

Plymouth, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Plymouth Free Will Baptist Church held its regular monthly meeting on April 3, in the home of Mrs. Dwight Miller.

Mrs. Oliver led the group in the opening prayer. Afterwards the evening Scripture, Ephesians 2:8-10, was read. Several auxiliary members participated in the program.

There were 11 regular members, 1 new member and 2 visitors present at the meeting. The ladies were dismissed by praying together the Lord's Prayer. The hostess then served refreshments to the ladies present.

PLEASANT GROVE CHURCH

Pikeville, North Carolina

Pictured above is the Pleasant Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Pikeville, North Carolina. This beautiful building is the outgrowth of 97 years of continuous worship at this place, the church having been organized in 1859. The pastor, the Rev. R. N. Hinnant of Micro, North Carolina, has led the congregation in a complete renovation of the sanctuary with the addition of a spacious educational annex.

The church plans a home-coming service on May 6, 1956. All former members and pastors are invited to attend this all-day service to rejoice with the congregation in its accomplishments.

HOW CAN I SERVE?

Once in a great while the pastor of a church is made to rejoice by having some member come to him and ask, "What can I do in the service of my Lord?" The minister immediately concludes that this member's experience with Christ is leading him to offer himself in self-denial and sacrificial service. The pastor is glad because he sees here a blessed ray of refreshing light shining through the clouds of his otherwise rather discouraging ministry. Here is at least one soul who has been reached by the gospel to be led into a deeper experience with the Lord. Here is another recruit for the forces of the faithful few who carry the burden of church administration year after year.

There is also cause for rejoicing in an instance like this in that some of the wealth of talent embraced in the congregation is being consecrated to Christ. Every minister is aware that much of the potential strength of his church is lost because many of the members refuse to accept responsibility for rendering service to Christ through the church. He is accustomed to hearing one member after another say, "I can't," when he is asked to teach a Sunday school class, sponsor a league department, conduct a prayer meeting, sing in the choir, engage in the visitation program, or render some other service administered by the church. As a general rule there seems to be much more to be done for Christ than there are people to do the tasks; however, the actual fact is that there is enough talent right in the congregation to do an excellent job if it can be enlisted. It has always been God's method to raise up servants to fill the places in His Kingdom's work. Therefore, somebody is evidently living outside God's will for him. For this reason it is refreshing to the pastor to see someone let God fulfill in him the purpose for his being.

Let us analyze some possible reasons for church members failing to fill their places in the work of the Kingdom:

There are some members who have never been converted. We cannot expect an unconverted person to be enthusiastic about spiritual matters. Paul says, "... the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned" (1 Corinthians 2:14). Until a person really comes face to face with Christ and makes Jesus Lord of his life, the work of the Lord is foreign to his nature. He will not enter the greater service of love because he sees no need or obligation to do so.

Some members who have been genuinely converted are not completely consecrated to the Lord. There may be several reasons for this condition. Jesus described some of these people as stony ground hearers of the Word, "But he that received the seed in stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it; Yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended" (Matthew 13:20, 21). Another group in this category Jesus called thorny ground hearers, "He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful" (Matthew 13:22).

The people who receive the Word among stones and among thorns are in a serious and dangerous condition. They are earnest and sincere in their desires for the Lord and for the security of their souls. They are not hypocritical in their faith and attitude. They are fairly regular in attendance upon the services of the church; they support the church with their means; they even receive spiritual blessing in the service and are moved by the preaching of the gospel. On the other hand, they experience an awful feeling of spiritual insecurity which sometimes makes them miserable.

What is wrong with them? Let us go back to the words of our Lord for the answer. They have taken their eyes off Jesus and His cause as the most important activity of the Christian. They have begun to look at their material existence and welfare in this world as the chief end in life. Jesus says the stony ground hearers begin to faint when tribulation and persecution begin to plague them. Their eyes are taken off Christ and placed in self-pity upon themselves. Jesus furthermore says that the thorny ground hearers begin to look with concern upon the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches.

It is in the matter of assigning the proper allegiance, time, energy and interest to these earthly affairs in which he must participate that the Christian is liable to charter his course in the channel which will make his unfruitful in spiritual matters. He must be convinced that Christ and His cause should be given pre-eminence above these earthly activities, and that Christ should be exalted by him in these activities.

The condition of the person who does not make the right adjustments is serious and dangerous because of the end results. Jesus says, "I am the vine, ye are the branches: he that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire; and they are burned. If ye will abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you" (John 15:5-7).

The church and its pastor have a grave responsibility in helping the members to establish and maintain the right relationships to Christ. The percentage of unenlisted members of the church will perhaps reveal the degree to which the affairs of the Kingdom have been rightly administered by the church and its pastors. The Great Commission from our Lord (Matthew 28:19, 20), enjoins us to first make disciples of people—lead them to regeneration by the Holy Spirit. Then we are to teach them all things which He has commanded us. To fail in either is to permit tragic consequences to souls whom Jesus loves.

It is no wonder, then, that the minister's heart leaps for joy when a member comes and says, "What can I do in the service of my Lord." God give us more of such willing servants!

Progress of Pleasant Grove

IN the year of 1859, as recorded by our Lord Jesus Christ, the Pleasant Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Pikeville, North Carolina, was organized. P. H. Peel was the outstanding organizer and administrator in these first trying days of this Christian institution. Brother Peel also served as pastor in 1860. One year later he was replaced by a former elder of the church, Brother Joseph Sauls. For the next ten consecutive years Brother Sauls prayerfully guided the young church and watched it grow in wisdom and strength through God's help.

In 1871 Brother Davis, also one of the elders in organizing the church, became pastor and served until 1888, when he was replaced by J. P. Mazingo. This young struggling church, full of God's spirit and aware of what prayer can accomplish, gained in members, and more people realized the benefits of Christian living. In 1894 Davis became pastor and served until 1899; C. R. Pearce began then and labored until 1901, when God called him to His Kingdom. Brother Ed Gurley filled his place and continued until 1903, when, an elder of the church, Brother Lucas, became pastor and served until 1907.

At the beginning of the new century, Pleasant Grove was entirely different from the church started in 1859, except for the same belief in God and His Son, sacrificed to redeem us from our sins. In 1907 J. W. Valentine was elected pastor and served for two years. He was followed by Charlie Orten, who, after serving only one year, was replaced by a former pastor, Brother Lucas, for a period of the next four years. At Brother Lucas' death, W. G. Johnson became the pastor of the church for two years. Brothers Orten and Phillips then served one year each. From 1916 until 1921 Brother Will Howell was pastor. In 1921 he turned the church over to W. E. Anderson, who, after one year, was followed by W. G. Boykin. In 1926 E. P. Fiks served one year, followed by S. F. Styron. Brother Styron immediately realized that the growing church needed more room and began raising funds for construction of Sunday school rooms. When completed, these rooms aided the church tremendously in its work for God. In 1941 M. E. Tyson became pastor after substituting for Brother Styron. In 1942 Clifton Rice began his wonderful guidance and continued until 1949, at which time our present pastor, Rev. R. N. Hinnant, began his victorious guidance.

Are You Prepared?

Mrs. Margaret Simmons
Route 5, Greenville, North Carolina

IN the beginning of this message which the Lord has given me for the people, saved and lost, will you turn in your Bible and read the following Scripture passages: Job 33:14-16; 1 Thessalonians 4:15-17; 5:1-6; John 20:1-18.

From these passages we can see that it is possible for the Lord to give a message in this way, and also that a woman can be used of the Lord to deliver a message for Him. If this were not so, He would not have given Mary a message to take to His disciples.

Will you keep 1 Thessalonians, Chapters 4 and 5, in mind as I give you the message as I received it in the night:

I was standing in an open field when suddenly I looked around me and saw graves which looked as though they had just exploded. The dirt was lying loosely around the open holes. As I gazed upon this sight I cried, "Oh, the dead in Christ have already been resurrected!" (1 Thessalonians 4:16).

Instantly I found myself in my home, standing in the kitchen near the back door which led out to the porch. As I looked out the door I saw tornadoes swirling destructively toward the house. And, again, as I saw the sight I cried, "Oh, the destruction is almost upon us!" (1 Thessalonians 5:3).

Then, suddenly, I was in another room, standing before a dead man and a living woman. I was begging them with all my might to get prepared for the Lord's return, for the time was short. "Get ready!" I begged, "get ready!" My voice awoke me as I was pleading with them.

When I became awake, I was aware

During the 92 years this church has been striving and prospering with and for God, there have been many changes which are too numerous to mention. However, we shall recall some: The organization of a Sunday school, youth meetings, a ladies' aid and class meetings. Some additions have been new pews, a new Bible, new song books, a new heating system and new lighting equipment. All these advancements today make us, the present-day members of the Pleasant Grove Church, proud of and loyal to our church. We know that, in the future, with God's help, we shall continue to stand upright and progress in this fight of Christianity.

that this was a spiritual revelation; therefore, I began to talk to the Lord about what I had been shown.

This is the way the Holy Spirit revealed the message to me:

The open graves represent the resurrection of the dead in Christ (1 Thessalonians 4:16).

The destruction almost at the door represents the tribulation which is to follow after the rapture has taken place (1 Thessalonians 5:3).

The dead man represents the sinner (Colossians 2:3; 1 Timothy 5:6).

The living woman represents the Christian (Proverbs 8:35; Romans 11:15; Matthew 22:32).

The Lord was showing me the need for us, as Christians, to awake to the fact that Jesus' coming is close at hand—close enough for me to grasp the urgency of warning God's children to prepare themselves. I believe that is why He caused me to witness these three experiences in harmony with the Word of God.

Of course, we know that the dead in Christ have not yet been resurrected; but, for me to get the true meaning of the vision, this was the way the Lord showed me, through the Scriptures and the experience, the meaning of it. Please study the Scriptures and compare them with the message the Lord has given me. May the Holy Spirit help you to accept this message as our Lord intended it.

May each soul who reads this become aware of his need for working, watching and praying! Will you stand before our Lord without having won a single soul?

Let Your Light Shine

Elder Colonel Pendleton
Nashville 10, Tennessee

JESUS our blessed Saviour, Redeemer and King said, "... I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. . . . As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world" (John 8:12; 9:5).

Jesus was anointed with the Holy Ghost and with power, and went about doing good, healing all that were oppressed. God was with Him, and many wonderful things were accomplished. Jesus said unto His disciples, "Ye are the salt of the earth: . . . Ye are the light of the world. . . . Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven" (Matthew 5:13-16).

It is the purpose of Almighty God to glorify Himself in His people before the world. He expects those who bear the name of Christ to represent Him in thought, word and deed. Their thoughts are to be pure and their words noble, encouraging and uplifting; drawing those around them nearer to the Saviour of all mankind. God expects His people to make use of all the light that He has given to them, and to give the light of the knowledge of His glory. We read in 2 Corinthians 4:6: "For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

In a very special sense, God's people have been set in the world as watchmen and light bearers. To them has been entrusted the life-giving message of salvation for a perishing world. On them is shining wonderful light from the Word of God. They have been given the work of the most solemn import—the proclamation of the soon coming of our Saviour, Jesus Christ. There is no other work of so great importance, and they are to allow nothing else to absorb their attention. The most solemn truths ever entrusted to mortals have been given to us to proclaim to lost men, women, boys and girls. The proclamation of the truths of free will, free grace, free salvation and free and open communion is to be our work. Let your light shine.

The saints of the early church were the light of the world. We read the words of Jesus again in Acts 1:8, "But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." This is a far-reaching statement of our Lord and Master, for it spans the centuries until His coming the second time. We Free Will Baptists are living in the days of witnessing for our Lord Jesus Christ; therefore, let your light shine.

The great work of the gospel is not to close with less manifestation of God's power than that which marked its beginning. The prophecies which were fulfilled in the pouring out of the former rain at the opening of the gospel age are again to be fulfilled in the latter rain at its closing. The Lord says of the people who are preaching the gospel message and letting their light shine: "Arise, shine, for thy light is come, and the glory of the LORD is risen upon thee. . . . And the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising" (Isaiah 60:1-3). Also read Verses 4 and 5 which give the result of the work done.

Jesus emphasized the thought of working while it is day, before the night cometh; before the powers of darkness (evil) covers the earth. He said in John 9:4, "I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work." This does not mean the literal day or the literal night, but the closing time of this age; before the door of opportunity closes to send forth the message of eternal life and let our light shine.

"In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thine hand: . . ." (Ecclesiastes 11:6). "For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater; So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it" (Isaiah 55:10, 11).

This is the promise to those who scatter the seeds of truth, and let the light of God's divine Spirit shine in them. The psalmist, David, confirms these words saying, "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him" (Psalm 126:6).

Then the prophet, Daniel, speaks thus: "And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever" (Daniel 12:3).

What a wonderful promise and what wonderful opportunities we have to let our light shine!

Now, let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter in the words of the apostle, Paul: "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord" (1 Corinthians 15:58).

Blessings in Disguise

Mrs. Ruby Tarrence
Breman, Kentucky

"Unto thee, O God, do we give thanks, unto thee do we give thanks: for that thy name is near thy wondrous works declare" (Psalm 75:1).

WHY has God sent me so many aches and pains? Why-oh-why these frazzled nerves? What do I have to be thankful for? Such questions often haunt us when we realize that all people should give thanks to God.

Yes, God often sends men and women aches and pains. These bring them closer to Him. Would they take the time to pray if all were well with them? Only those who have suffered can truly be thankful for health. Suffering not only opens up a better spiritual life for men and women; it makes them more sympathetic with those who suffer.

Those who pray to God for healing may not immediately receive relief. When their prayers are not answered in the way they expected, these people know that God will answer them in a better way.

When our strength wanes and our bodies become diseased, we may have to give up our jobs and hopes for worldly gain. However, it may be God's will

FORMER PASTORS HOLD NEW HAVEN REVIVAL

Rev. W. E. Anderson

Rev. A. C. Austin

The New Haven Free Will Baptist Church near Ernul, North Carolina, had two of its former pastors, Rev. W. E. Anderson and Rev. A. C. Austin, to conduct its spring revival which took place the week of April 8-14. Rev. Anderson of Morehead City, North Carolina, and Rev. Austin of Royal, North Carolina, both preached on alternate nights throughout the revival. Mrs. W. E. Stilley submits the following information concerning these two former pastors:

"Rev. Anderson, who was born in Wendell, North Carolina, was licensed to preach at the age of 24 and ordained 58 years ago. At the age of 83 he has pastored 36 churches in various counties of North Carolina; and although he is now retired from pastoral care of churches, he is still very active and is almost constantly on call to fill pulpits for regular worship and evangelical work. It was approximately 30 years ago when Brother Anderson pastored the New Haven Church. At that time the second church building was incomplete, but it was completed and used during his leadership. The members remember his going out and helping on the building. Rev. Anderson especially remembers the rough weatherboarding he handled at that time.

"Rev. Albert C. Austin was born on April 12, 1875, and has pastored approximately 30 churches in many parts of North Carolina. At the age of 81, he is also retired from regular work but is in good health and is active in holding revivals and regularly attends worship services. Brother Austin was ordained 50 years ago in the Rock of Zion Church near Grantsboro, North Carolina. Elder Kirk, Elder Wallace and the Rev. J. W. Alford were on the ordaining council at that time. Rev. Alford is still a member of the council. Because Rev. Austin was a pastor of the original church about 40 years ago, the members were especially glad to welcome him again for the revival. The original church was called Friendship Church, but when the new building was erected one mile from "The Rev. W. E. Stilley, present pastor of the church, is very pleased and proud of the third new church home for New Haven which has recently been completed and furnished. The church is debt free and has a growing membership of active, interested workers.

"New chimes have just recently been installed in the church and are amplified to ring out over the entire community daily. There has been a steady growth and progress in the New Haven Church, and the people thought it was wonderful and most unusual that they were able to obtain two octogenarians who were their former pastors to conduct their revival and bring them a spiritual uplift."

Sidney Church Grows in Number

In regards to the picture of the Sidney, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church which appeared on the front cover of the April 11 issue of The Free Will Baptist, Mrs. Edwin Roper submits the following statements:

"The members of the Sidney Church are proud of their newly reconstructed building; however, they are much more grateful for the way the church has grown in number. For many years the church struggled along with only a few active members, but today, as a result of God's love and mercy, the prayers of these few have become a reality.

"The church is now on half-time basis, and has established a budget in which to help support all the work of the denomination. The Sunday school has grown from approximately 50 members to 116. Recently a church bus was purchased and as a result the membership has increased by 32.

"The Rev. Ralph Osborne is the present pastor of the Sidney Church. He has done much to help in the material and spiritual growth of the church, and the members thank God for his services."

Valdosta, Georgia, Church Buys Pastorium

On Friday, April 6, the property located at 407 Floyd Street, Valdosta, Georgia, was transferred to the First Free Will Baptist Church of the city. Several weeks prior to this, a committee was appointed to locate property that could be bought for the building of a pastorium.

After locating the property, the committee reported to the church its findings, giving the location, price and terms on which it could be bought. Almost every resident member of the church visited the property and looked over the house and lot.

In a church conference it was voted unanimously to buy the property, and the official board was authorized to proceed with the necessary negotiations in acquiring the property.

The pastorium is located two blocks from the church and three blocks from the main business section of the city. The pastor, the Rev. J. B. Lovering, plans to move into the pastorium, with his family, by May 1.

Fellowship Church Occupies New Home

The Rev. H. Ray Berry, pastor of the Fellowship Free Will Baptist Church, 406-10 Ursuline Avenue, Bryan, Texas, submits the following statements concerning the church:

"We occupied our new church home for worship services on Sunday, April 5, 1956. We studied God's Word, worshiped and praised Him for His marvelous watchcare and keeping during the first 55 weeks of the life of Fellowship Church. We are now seeking His guidance for continued advancement. We are also praying that all arrangements may be soon accomplished for the building of a beautiful new sanctuary on a lot which the church already has in its possession. We ask all other Christians to pray for our church also."

Home-Coming at Core Creek Church

The annual home-coming day will be observed at the Core Creek Church, Cove City, North Carolina, on Sunday, May 6. The pastor, the Rev. T. O. Berry, urges all former pastors and members to attend. Lunch will be served at the church during the noon hour.

Bobby Jackson, Evangelist For Grace Revival

Revival services will be held at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church, Greenville, North Carolina, May 13-19, with the Rev. Bobby Jackson as the evangelist.

Bobby received his A. B. Degree from the Free Will Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tennessee; and his M. A. Degree from Bob Jones University, Greenville, South Carolina. He is one of the best among our nation-wide evangelists.

"I Don't Care"

Floy Schoonmaker Armstrong

Boys and girls, I wish to tell you
Of a foe you entertain:
I have seen him with you often,
And the fact has caused me pain;
For he only seeks the ruin
Of your lives so young and fair—
He's a foe, cool, sly and cunning,
And his name is, "I don't care."

Have you ever thot, dear children,
That "I don't care" is a thief,
Taking from you time and order,
Candor, friends, and all save grief?
Don't you notice the bold falsehoods
That he daily tells to you,
And that make you say, "I don't care,"
When at heart you really do?

He, at first will only cause you
To forget yourself, and dare
To answer parents, friends and strangers,
With the rude words, "I don't care."
But be warned! He'll plant within you
The true spirit of his name;
Then he'll disappear like magic,
Leaving you to bear the shame.

Break the habit, children, break it,
Do not use the common phrase;
Smaller things than this have started
Many a life in reckless ways.
Guard your words, your thots, your actions,

To yourself be true; and dare
Not let the good of life slip by you
With a reckless, "I don't care."

—The Youth's Visitor.

THE CITY OF THE DEAD

Mrs. M. L. Hicks
Manning, South Carolina

O, there is a beautiful city
Laid out in no walking squares,
Where flowers in rich perfume,
Perfume the summer air.

It's there the willow waves
And the violets lift their heads,
And we call this lovely city,
The city of the dead.

The breeze in gentle violets,
From flower to flower rove,
And the very air seems pure
In that quiet shady grove.

No sound disturbs the stillness,
No laughter rude and loud;
The quietude of that city
Calms even the gayest crowd.

Side by side they slumber,
The rich man and the poor;
There foes lie down together,
Never wronging each other more.

There sleeps the great and lowly,
The same tree o'er them waves;
Earth's proud and vain distinctions
Are leveled by the graves.

There some weary aged lawyer
Slumbers—quietly takes his rest;
Beside him some pale mother lies
With baby on her breast.

The bride in her fair beauty,
With orange buds in her hair,
And the wedding robe around her,
Sleeps calm and peaceful there.

Artist and poet reposes,
A stone at head and feet;
A nameless one lies near them
Who's rest is pure and sweet.

Artist, statesman and poet,
Are alike of earthly fame,
Their many dreams have vanished,
And a white slab bears their names.

Who has not bowed with weeping
Over some coffin's head?
We all have lost some loved ones
In the city of the dead.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Do you believe in a Trinity, immortality of the human soul and eternal torment? If you do you are on the wrong road and I advise you to get on the right road for the wrong road will lead you to the battle of Armageddon.—A. J. S., Atlanta, Georgia.

Answer: Let us now turn to the Scriptures to see if the Holy Spirit (Holy Ghost) is a divine person. Peter accuses Ananias of lying to the Holy Spirit (Holy Ghost), "But Peter said, Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land?" (Acts 5:3); and on the same occasion he says, "... thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God" (Acts 5:4). Persons only may be lied to, never are things lied to. No other than a divine person may be sinned against for sin is committed against God only in the truest sense. "Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight: ..." (Psalm 51:4). The sin against the Holy Spirit in this age is so severe that it and it alone is not forgiven. "Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men" (Matthew 12:31).

The Holy Spirit led Jesus into the wilderness to be tempted, "Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil" (Matthew 4:1). Jesus sent the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost to take His place as another comforter or as an advocate, another Comforter suggests that He is a person like Jesus. "And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever; Even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you" (John 14:16, 17). "Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you, ... And when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment: Of sin, because they believe not on me; Of righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more; Of judgment, because the prince of this world is judged. ... Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you" (John 16:7-11, 13, 14). "But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God" (1 Corinthians 2:10).

All three names of the blessed Trinity are associated as equals in the baptismal formulas found in "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost" (Matthew 28:19), and in the apostolic benediction, "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all. Amen" (2 Corinthians 13:14).

I have no choice in the matter. If I accept the Bible as the divinely inspired Word of God I must accept the fact that the human soul is immortal for I cannot change the Word of God and it certainly teaches the immortality of the soul. We find this teaching both in the Old Testament and in the New Testament. See Proverbs 11:30. "And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt. And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever" (Daniel 12:2, 3), and "And he stretched himself upon the child three times, and cried unto the LORD, and said, O LORD my God, I pray thee, let this child's soul come into him again. And the LORD heard the voice of Elijah; and the soul of the child came into him again, and he revived" (1 Kings 17:21, 22). See Revelation 6:9-11 and compare the above Scriptures with it. David says of his son who had died, "... I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me" (2 Samuel 12:23). Both the mortality of the body and the immortality of the soul were taught by Solomon. "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was: and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it" (Ecclesiastes 12:7). Enoch is said to have walked with God and to have been translated. "And Enoch walked with God: and he was not; for God took him" (Genesis 5:24). "By faith Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God" (Hebrews 11:5). This is what immortality means. Elijah was also translated. "And it came to pass, as they still went on, and talked, that, behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven" (2 Kings 2:11). He was still living when Christ was transfigured several hundred years later. "And behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him" (Matthew 17:3). See Matthew 17:1-6; Mark 9:2-4; Luke 9:28-31.

Jesus believed in and taught the immortality of the human soul. "... But whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come." (Matthew 12:28). "And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried; And in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom" (Luke 16:22, 23). See Luke 16:19-31. "And behold, there talked with him two men, which were Moses and Elias" (Luke 9:20); Moses and Elijah are seen alive here several hundred years after they left this earth. "And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die, ..." (John 11:26). See Luke 20:36; Matthew 10:28; John 8:51.

The apostles accepted Jesus' teaching on immortality; believed in it, taught it and wrote about it: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens" (2 Corinthians 5:1); "For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death swallowed up in victory" (1 Corinthians 15:53, 54); "Then we which are alive

The Lighted Pathway

*Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).*

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNAH, N. C.

"Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip" (Hebrews 2:1).

The other day I read a sermon, by an unknown preacher, on the subject, "Unconscious Drifting." The sermon was based on the above text. For our devotional thinking this week and next, I want to pass on to you some excerpts from that sermon which I believe are worth some careful thought. The author says among other things:

"Perhaps the revised version is the best rendering of the original in this particular instance, which reads thus: 'Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest haply we drift away from them.'

"The metaphor of our text explains itself. Upon the shore are certain fixed truths. These fixed truths are centered in Christ as revealed in the first chapter—Christ, as the revelation of God, and as the Saviour of men. In Him and what is said concerning Him we have an anchorage. Those are the fixed truths upon the shore. These are fixed, immovable. They are compared with the most firm, lasting and immovable things, 'heaven and earth.' 'Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.' These shall become old and cast aside as a soiled garment; the sands of the desert will grow cold, before one jot or tittle of Christ's words shall be left unfulfilled.

"These then are the fixed truths. Namely the message of salvation as proclaimed in and by Jesus Christ. We fasten our anchor which is called hope, and sometimes faith, to those moorings. These truths being fixed and eternal as the heavens, do not slip away from us, . . . but we drift away from them.

"Take an illustration. We have been fishing out in the open sea where the current has been gaining strength. We have cast a glance toward the shore, and have imagined that we saw the houses on the mainland, fields, hills and trees sweeping rapidly past each other. But it was not the houses, fields, and trees that were moving, but our frail craft.

It was a silent signal that we were drifting.

"Our theme is: 'Unconscious Drifting.'

"Notice that it is unconscious drifting. Every man drifts without knowing it. We become so accustomed to sin that nothing appears really harmful. At last we are ready to excuse ourselves and forgive ourselves for the most heinous sins. There was a time in our lives when we would be appalled at the thought of taking God's name in vain; now we use it to fill in our vocabulary as if it were the name of the most insignificant individual that ever lived. There was a time when we would shudder at the thought of lying upon a prayerless bed; but now through custom we have got to the place where we can creep between the sheets without any trace of fear or the slightest feeling of uneasiness.

"It does not mention the committal of any defiant, heinous, flagrant sin, but mere drifting—simply careless, thoughtless, gradual drifting.

"Have you ever noticed how the Bible emphasizes the difficulty of being saved? Christ never made it easy for would-be followers. The picture He gave was that of a line of malefactors bearing their crosses on their way to the place of execution. He stated among other things: 'That we would be hated by all men.' That we would be misunderstood, and have wrong motives ascribed to us . . . If men drift to destruction, no one ever drifted into heaven."

SOMEONE AT YOUR DOOR

Revelation 3:20

Introduction: When Mendelssohn first went to see the great Frieberg organ, the old custodian bluntly refused him admission. Later, however, he reluctantly permitted the musician to enter and, after tactful persuasion, consented to have him play a few notes on the famous instrument.

Once seated at the organ console, Mendelssohn soon forgot himself. Overawed, mystified like one hearing enchanting music from another world, the custodian stood speechless. Only after the last chord had faded away did he rush to the master's side to ask, "Your name, sir, tell me your name."

Then humiliated, ashamed and self-condemned, the surprised old man could only repeat, "And to think I almost refused you permission to enter."

Jesus is:

The Creator at the door of the created.
The Almighty at the door of the frail.
The All Wise at the door of the foolish.
The All Holy at the door of the sinful.
The All Loving at the door of the selfish.
The Crucified at the door of the crucifiers.

Several things stand out in this text:

Notable Books of 1955

This annual compilation is the responsibility of the Notable Books Council of American Library Association composed of twelve members. This council cooperates with a number of participating libraries in the selection of the titles on the list. Fifty-five libraries participated in the project during 1955.

The books were chosen for these factors: sincerity and honesty of presentation, factual correctness, literary excellence, contribution to man's understanding of himself and the times in which he lives.

The Mount Olive College Library, Mount Olive, North Carolina, urges that

I. GOD'S UNTIRING PATIENCE

A. God's patience is manifest in the way He knocks.

Poverty—prosperity.

Birth of a babe—death of a loved one.

Bloom of health—blight of disease.

B. God's patience is manifest in the time He knocks.

Childhood, youth, maturity, old age—still He knocks; still He waits.

II. THE UNIVERSAL OFFER

This offer is universal, yet it is personal. Read the passage and change the any man to your name. His love to us is marvelous.

Sir James Simpson, the man who first discovered and used chloroform as an anesthetic, was asked what was the greatest thing he had ever discovered. Of course, his questioner expected him to say, "Chloroform." But instead he replied, "The greatest discovery of my life, gentlemen, is that Christ Jesus loves me and saves me from my sins."

III. GOD'S GENTLE PERSISTENCE

"Hear my voice." Why the change from knock to voice?

It suggests that after He has knocked and you failed to answer, He now calls. He will never stop calling.

IV. IT'S YOUR MOVE

"Open the door."

Holman Hunt's painting, the Light of the World, pictures Christ standing at the heart's door.

The story is told that a critic was viewing the picture after it was finished, when he suddenly turned and said to the artist, "But, Hunt, you have omitted something." Upon the artist's insistence he explained, "Oh, it's just a detail, but an essential one nevertheless: the latch string, you forgot to put it on the door." Hunt replied, "That, my friend, was omitted with intent. No one gets through that door unless it is opened from within."

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

THE SECOND COMING OF CHRIST

"The Lord Jesus, who ascended on high, and sits at the right hand of God, will come again, to close the gospel dispensation, glorify His saints, and judge the world."—Treatise. "...this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, so shall come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven" (Acts 1:11). Notice that the messenger said to the disciples, this same Jesus will come again—not another Jesus, nor in another form. They saw Jesus as He went up and left their sight in the clouds. They saw Him with the natural eye. They were men who could see as you and I see. It is declared that the same Jesus shall come again.

So He did not come at Pentecost as some people claim. If so, there is nothing said about it. The Holy Ghost came on Pentecost, but no one saw Him. They heard a sound as a mighty rushing wind, but there was no visible Christ. Therefore the doctrine that Jesus came according to promise on the day of Pentecost falls.

THE SHEEP AND GOAT JUDGMENT

There is to be a judgment at the return of the Lord to the earth of the righteous and unrighteous. Jesus Himself told us about this judgment as follows: "When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory: And before him shall be gathered all nations; and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats: And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the World: For I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me. Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink? When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee? Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee? And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me. Then shall he say unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels: For I was an hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not. Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee? Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me. And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal" (Matthew 25:31-46).

We want to notice very carefully the words of Jesus in the Scripture as recorded by Matthew. Especially let us notice the righteous on the right hand and the unrighteous on the left hand. To the righteous Jesus said, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. We also notice that Jesus said to the unrighteous, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels. Thus we learn that the everlasting fire was prepared for the devil and his angels. The unrighteous, Christ-rejecting sinners thus prepared themselves for the everlasting fire. There is no place found in the Scripture where these unjust, unrighteous, unbelieving children of darkness can ever get on the right hand. Thus the so-called "Second Chance Doctrine" is of the devil, the old deceiver and hater of God and Christ, in order to damn as many as he can get to disbelieve God and accept his lie.

We want to notice again Matthew 25:46, "And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal." Everlasting punishment is the opposite of life eternal. If one is a place of blessing, the other is a place of suffering. Notice that John says, "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1). Any doctrine that denies Chapter 25 of Matthew which records the separation of the righteous and the unrighteous is a false doctrine and it is acknowledged by false prophets.

of abolishing egotism, selfishness, dissipation and sins of omission from our lives. Often through ignorance we set ourselves upon a pedestal. We cannot see ourselves as God sees us. It may take suffering to lift the scales from our eyes.

God had to strike Paul down in blindness on his way to Damascus before he would pursue the course He had charted for Him. In latter years he wrote to the Corinthians, "Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: for when I am weak, then am I strong" (2 Corinthians 12:10).

Often God has to mellow or temper us before He can pour us into the molds He has for our lives. We meet people from all walks of life who have found themselves through sickness or other handicaps. It is the touch of God's divine hand.

BOYS and GIRLS

WHO KNEW BEST

JUST think it's too bad I can't ever have a good time like other boys."

"What do you think keeps you from having a good time, Jack?" inquired his mother in a cheerful tone.

"Why—just because you're so strict and all that."

"What do you mean by 'strict,' Jack?" his mother asked, still unruffled.

"Why, you always want me to do something that the other boys don't have to do, or not to do something they are allowed to do."

"Who is the oldest boy among your associates, Jack?" queried his mother.

"Tom Frazer," answered Jack. "He's fourteen, and he's almost as strong as a man."

"And almost as wise as one, too, I suppose you think. Well, does Tom Frazer know any more than you do?"

"A whole heap," answered Jack.

"And do you suppose that when you are fourteen you will know a 'whole heap' more than you do at ten?"

"Of course I will."

"Well, then, listen. I am forty-two. Would you suppose I ought to know any better how a boy may have a good time than a boy of fourteen knows?"

Jack was silent for a moment, and then he answered in a tone which showed conviction,

"Yes, Mother."

"And don't you suppose that I want you to have a good time, as much as Tom Frazer does?"

"Yes'm, I s'pose so; but you aren't a boy, Mother."

"Well, your father and I are pretty well agreed as to what is good for our boy, and he was once a boy, and I can tell you, for my memory is pretty good, he was as lively as any in his time. He is forty-five years old, and don't you suppose that he ought to know more than Tom Frazer does what is good for a boy?"

"I s'pose so," assented Jack; but this time there was a slight ingredient of doubt in his voice.

"Well, then," went on his mother, "if there is any one who knows more about it than your father, whom do you suppose it would be?"

Jack thought a moment. It had always seemed to him that the wisest and best man in town was Colonel Hutly, who kept a large store on the main street and drove a beautiful big car, so he finally admitted to his mother that possibly Colonel Hutly might know more about some things than his father did, because he had traveled all around the world and had been a member of Congress.

"Then would you be willing to admit that Colonel Hutly knows more about how a boy may have a good time than Tom Frazer?"

"Yes, Ma," answered Jack.

"Then," said his mother, "I want you to go and have a talk with Colonel Hutly about it."

So a few days after, Jack rang the doorbell and inquired for Colonel Hutly. He was told that he was just starting to visit one of his mills, and when he came into the room smiling and holding out his hand to Jack, he at once invited him to get into the car and take a ride with him. Jack was willing to do so.

On the way they talked about the car, about Colonel Hutly's steam yacht, and things in general; but when they came to the mill the talk at once turned upon the machinery.

"Do you see that wheel there?" asked Colonel Hutly of Jack, pointing to one of the swiftly revolving wheels.

"Yes, sir," replied Jack. "What about it?"

"Why," said the Colonel, "that is a piece of machinery which I designed myself. Do you know the way the wheel is running?"

"It is running the opposite direction from the wheels around it, answered Jack.

"Exactly," said Colonel Hutly. "I suppose if it were a boy now, it would feel a little lonesome, and as though the designer of the machinery had made a mistake and didn't know what was good for wheels; but suppose it should try to run the other way, or some one would try to make it run the other way, do you know what would be the result?"

"The machinery would break down, I guess."

"That is just what would be done."

"Jack," said Colonel Hutly, "you know your catechism pretty well, I guess. Who made this world and all in it?"

"God," answered Jack.

"Then if the man who makes an engine knows what is best for the wheels and which way to set them spinning, don't you suppose that the great Being who could make the world and the people who inhabit it, knows best how to set a boy turning in order that he may have the best time in life?"

"Yes, sir," said Jack. "I'm sure He does."

"And you're sure, too, I guess, that the best way to have a good time, is to keep running in the direction the great Creator of the universe started you and wants you to go. Isn't that true?"

"Mother," said Jack, when he got home, "I won't say another word about your wanting me to do different from the other boys. I'm going to try to run the way the Architect wants me to."

"Who's the Architect?" asked his mother.

"God," answered Jack.—Zion's Watchman.

A Hint to Him

A PROSPEROUS looking citizen, on a downtown corner in Boston, bought a newspaper from an alert little newsboy, who made change instantly, without speaking a word. But the man lingered. "How many papers do you sell here a night?" he asked.

"About fifty," said the newsie.

"What is your name?"

"Tim Manning."

"Listen, Tim," said the man. "When I was your age I had this very corner for a stand. But I sold two hundred papers a night, and I did it by carefully saying, 'Thank you' to every one who bought a paper. I said it loudly so that they would be sure to hear it."

Three evenings later the man came by again and bought another paper of the little chap on the corner.

"Thank you!" said Tim, not recognizing him. "How's business?" asked the man.

Then Tim knew him. "I'm selling seventy-five papers every night, sir," he said. "I'm not going to forget that any more, either," and he grinned all over his honest, freckled face. Tim had learned his first lesson of the value of courtesy to all.—King's Treasuries.

Woman's Auxiliary Department

MRS. ALICE E. LUPTON (NOTE: Please send all news items direct to 801 Pollock Street Editor The Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, N. C.) NEW BERN, N. C.

Norfolk, Va.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Fairmount Park Free Will Baptist Church has begun a series of monthly meetings for the purpose of studying the auxiliary manual. The auxiliary urges all members to attend these meetings.

The auxiliary also formed a new circle which was named the Susan Paul Circle in the memory of the late Mrs. Paul, who was an active member of the auxiliary and who loved every phase of church work.

Timmons ville, S. C.—The Vernilla Granger Circle of the Bethany Free Will Baptist Church met on Tuesday night, April 9, at the home of Mrs. Grace Lewis with Mrs. Everett Yarbarough and Mrs. Corine Lee serving as co-hostesses. The eighteen members present were presided over by the presiding officer, Mrs. Sarah Granger. Mrs. Ruby Severance led the group in prayer.

Following the business session, the program chairman, Mrs. Marjorie Hicks, introduced the program. Mrs. Ruby Severance read the Scripture. Others participating on the program were: Mrs. Elmer Revell, Mrs. Mae Hicks, Mrs. Ethelee Thornhill and Mrs. Ruby Severance. Mrs. Severance also rendered a solo, "When Jesus Comes." Mrs. Nobie Sims dismissed the group with prayer.

During the social hour the hostesses served tasty sandwiches, cookies and coffee.

Rich ton, Miss.—The women of the New Love Well Free Will Baptist Church have recently organized a woman's auxiliary with an enrollment at the present of 17. The officers of the New Love Well Woman's Auxiliary are as follows: Mrs. W. M. Brewer, president; Mrs. Hickey McLain, Treasurer; Mrs. R. Lee Brewer, reporter; Mrs. Levi Jones and Mrs. Mathie Brewer, benevolence committee; and Mrs. Erastus McLain, program chairman.

The newly-organized auxiliary meets on every second and fourth Friday nights of each month. At the present time the auxiliary is meeting on special work days to make aprons and pot holders which they will sell in order to boost the treasury.

The auxiliary is working hard to prove a credit to the New Love Well Church.

The auxiliary also asks for the prayers of all Christians that they may further their work for God's Kingdom.

Washington, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Washington Free Will Baptist Church met Tuesday night,

April 17, at the home of Mrs. William Clark, with 20 members and 1 visitor present. Mrs. Roberta Hodges, president, opened the meeting, and Mrs. Nellie Webster led the group in prayer.

The meeting was then turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. William Clark. The theme of the program was "We Need Consecrated Laborers for Such a Time as This." Those taking part on the program were: Mrs. Orval Williams, Mrs. W. C. Spruill, Mrs. Clyde Singleton and Mrs. Sam Cherry. Following the business session, the ladies were dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Lee Williams.

STATE MISSIONS NEWS INCLUDED AS SUBMITTED FROM THE FIELD

Mission at Greensboro

Rev. H. E. Willis
Greensboro, North Carolina

Sunday school is now being held each Sunday at the new mission in Greensboro, North Carolina. We have rented a four-room building at 3213 High Point Road at Pinecroft Road, this is Highway 70-A and 29-A. The Sunday school is at 10:00 a. m., and Bible study is each Wednesday night at 7:30.

We want, and need sincerely, the prayers of all our people for this work. This is the first attempt to have a Free Will Baptist work in this part of the state, and there is no church within fifty miles. This gives us a population of one million people without a Free

Will Baptist Church. We plan to reach out to near-by cities in the future.

Please continue to send the names of any people whom you know that you feel would be interested in our work. Also, we pray your offerings to state home missions will be increased as the need is greater. Send all offerings to Rev. N. Bruce Barrow, State Missions Treasurer, Lucama, North Carolina.

Free Will Baptist people living in a community where we have no church are invited to write me at any time. I will be happy to offer my assistance in any way.

All mail to the state missionary should be addressed as follows: Rev. H. E. Willis, P. O. Box 994, Greensboro, North Carolina. My telephone number is 2-4689.

Questions and Answers

and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord" (1 Thessalonians 4:17); "Knowing that he which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you" (2 Corinthians 4:14). See Revelation 20:4.

As to my belief concerning hell and the retribution of the lost, again I have no choice in the matter. I must accept what the Bible teaches. Jesus nor anyone else who speaks authoritatively through the pages of the Bible leaves any room for my opinion in this matter more than in any other in which they instruct us. The very same words used to describe the eternity of the saved and the place in which they are to reside are used to describe the eternity of the lost and their place of abode. See Matthew 13:36-43. "And if thy hand offend thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched: Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched. And if thy foot offend thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter halt into life, than having two feet to be cast into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched" (Mark 9:43-45).

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Resolutions of Respect Amos Riggs

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom and mercy called Amos Riggs home to be at rest; and whereas, Brother Riggs was a member of Mosley's Creek Church, Craven County, North Carolina, be it resolved:

(1) That we, the members of the church, bow in humble submission, and thank God for the life and service of Brother Riggs.

(2) That we express in this way to his family and loved ones our deep sympathy.

(3) That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to The Free Will Baptist, and a copy be retained for the minutes of the church.

Thomas Watson

Whereas, it has pleased our heavenly Father to call to his reward our brother in Christ, Thomas Watson, and whereas, he was a member of Mosley's Creek Church, be it resolved:

(1) That we, the members of the church, bow in humble submission to the Father's will in calling Brother Watson.

(2) That we express in this way to his family and loved ones our deep sympathy.

(3) That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to The Free Will Baptist, and a copy be retained for the minutes of the church.

Joe Perry

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom and mercy called Joe Perry home to be at rest, and whereas, Brother Perry was a member of Mosley's Creek Church, be it resolved:

(1) That we bow in humble submission to the heavenly Father's will in the calling of such a faithful member.

(2) That we extend to his family our deepest sympathy, and may they find comfort and peace through faith in Christ Jesus.

(3) That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to The Free Will Baptist, and a copy be retained for the minutes of the church.

Agnes White Driver

The death angel visited the home of Eugene Hood, and took from the home a loving mother, Mrs. Agnes White Driver. Sister Driver was always kind to all she met, and we feel that she has gone to be with the Lord in the great beyond. She was a faithful member of Mosley's Creek Church.

We, the members of Mosley's Creek Church, submit the following resolutions:

(1) That we bow in humble submission to the Father's will in the calling of such a saintly mother.

(2) That we extend to her family our deepest sympathy in their hours of sorrow.

(3) That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to The Free Will Baptist, and that a copy be retained for the minutes of the church.

Mr. Eddie Wells

On February 1, 1956, one of our dearest friends, Mr. Eddie Wells, of Elm City, North Carolina, passed away. He had been a faithful member of the People's Chapel Church for many years. He was also treasurer of the church and a deacon. We miss him very much in church each Sunday, but we feel that he has gone to a better place and is resting peacefully.

Surviving are his wife, Martha; three daughters, Rachel, Christal and Edna; two sons, Garland and Robert; and five grandchildren. We pray that God will bless his family and friends in the time of their sorrow.

Mr. Wells was 65 years old. His funeral was held at the People's Chapel Church with the Rev. J. B. Ferrell officiating.

Mrs. Paul Joyner

Lucy Daughetry

Whereas God in His infinite wisdom saw fit to call to her eternal reward, Sister Lucy Daughetry, we, the members of the Free Will Baptist Church of Sidney, North Carolina, wish to submit the following tribute to her memory:

Sister Daughetry was 84 years old, but her zeal for Christian fellowship never grew dim, regardless of weather conditions. She was always willing to submit her talent of reciting poetry to the church services. One of her favorite poems was "I Cannot Do It Alone," which states "I cannot do it alone, but we two can win, my Lord and I." Once in a while she would demonstrate her sense of humor by reciting "I Stole 'dem Britches to Be Baptized In."

Not having a family of her own, when "Miss" Lucy realized she was no longer able to go from place to place to live, she made her home in the Beaufort County Nursing Home near Washington, North Carolina. There she continued to be active in Christian service by conducting daily devotions with the inmates. She also patched their clothes and assisted those who were not able to wait on themselves.

We, the members of the church, bow in humble submission to God's will in taking Sister Lucy to be with Him. Surely we can say hers was an active life of useful service. Therefore we feel that she has heard that sweet voice say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

Submitted in Love,

"I'm So Glad I Confessed Christ!"

'Twas a foggy Monday morning in the small Floridian town, Crescent City. The aged driver of the school bus had but two more children to pick up before going on to school with his load of care-free, happy children. As he was halfway across a railway track, an unseen and unheard fruit train came through the fog and crashed through the middle of the school bus! Instantly the railway track was bestrewn with horribly mangled bodies and fragments of bodies! Four children, in one family, were decapitated! The seriously injured ones were placed first in ambulances and rushed to nearby hospitals. As the writer placed one of the older girls in an ambulance, it was evident that her life was rapidly ebbing away. Said she to him, "I'm so glad I confessed Christ as my Saviour last night in the little church!" How glad I was, too, that she had confessed Him, though neither of us knew at the time that death was so near.

Have you ever known anyone standing at death's door who regretted having confessed Christ, or having lived for Him?—Selected.

Preaching to the Gentiles

(Lesson for May 13)

Lesson: Acts 11:1-18.

Golden Text: Acts 10:34, 35.

I. INTRODUCTION

The actions of a devout child of God may be misunderstood by even the most earnest of his brethren. God deals in His own way with every individual Christian, and he is responsible, first of all, to the leadership of the Spirit. This was Peter's situation in this instance.

"But Peter rehearsed the matter from the beginning, and expounded it by order unto them, saying" (Vs. 4).

Peter was eager to explain in detail. He realized that he must have a just and righteous motive for what he had done. Even so, every Christian must be willing to justify his every act, word and deed. It is presumptuous for any person to think that others must give blind blanket approval to what he does. Even one's closest friends are due an explanation for his actions which constitute a breach of existing customs and traditions. For every breach of Jewish tradition which He committed, Jesus gave His reason. Notice, in this instance, that Peter started at the beginning and explained in order what he had done and why he did it.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. It is hard for those who are prejudiced to learn that God is no respecter of men (Vv. 1-3).

2. Those who have learned the will of the Lord should earnestly strive to show it to others (Vs. 4).

3. The lessons which are taught by the Lord Himself make a vivid impression and are hard to forget (Vv. 5, 6).

4. The Lord often speaks three times or more before stubborn men will believe what He says (Vv. 7-10).

5. It is safe and good to follow the men whose leadership the Holy Spirit controls (Vv. 11, 12).

6. When the Lord leads a person to witness to another, he will also speak to the other fellow (Vv. 13, 14).

7. All of us would forget many things if the Lord should forget to remind us of them (Vv. 15, 16).

8. Those who have witnessed the Spirit's power are happy when others are saved by it too (Vv. 17, 18).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. The report that the gentiles had received the Word of God had reached the ears of the apostles and brethren in Judea. Such an out-of-the-ordinary thing could hardly be expected not to be reported to the leaders in Jerusalem. It was real news. Ordinarily, however, such news should bring great rejoicing, but in this case it provoked criticism. In the meanwhile Peter returned to Jerusalem, not because he had been summoned by the church there to do so, but we believe by a natural desire to explain what had taken place and his relation to it. What servant of Christ would not want to report such spiritual blessing? And, of course, in this instance an explanation was in order, because it involved the gentiles, who, according to the Jewish mind were outside the pale of blessing from God, and also, ceremonially unclean. So, when Peter was back in Jerusalem, they of the circumcision contended with him. This means the Jewish Christians, for at this stage the whole church still felt disposed to emphasize the importance and obligation of circumcision. They had not yet been led out upon the ground of sovereign grace and full gospel light. These contenders were zealous for "the middle wall of partition" which circumcision raised between Jew and gentile. They did not know it had been broken down by the Cross and death of Christ, which it had been (Ephesians 2:14-18).—W. S. Hottel, D. D.

2. There is no question but that Jewish believers received the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost and had been filled many times since that memorable day. One big lesson we should learn is that prejudices in favor of beliefs we have received as a heritage from past generations may seriously interfere with the leadership of the Holy Spirit, and that is as true now as when Peter was "on the carpet."

3. The truth which Peter was to learn from his vision was, that the Kingdom of God was open to all believers. The Jewish believers were ready to admit this, but on one condition, that gentile believers submitted to the rite of circumcision, becoming virtually, Jews. By submission to the rite they were no longer regarded as unclean. For a Jewish believer to enter the house of an uncircumcised gentile was regarded as a great sin (Galatians 2:12).—Selected.

4. Peter told how Cornelius had seen an angel, which told him to send to Joppa and to call for one Simon, whose surname was Peter. He was to tell him words whereby he and his house should be saved. The record gives here in fuller expression what the angel said to Cornelius, than was previously given. It will be noted that "salvation" is here made dependent upon "words," which means the gospel message concerning Christ. In order that Cornelius and his house might be saved, they had to hear the message of the gospel, the good news concerning Christ. That was God's method whereby His salvation was to be brought about; and still these days this is God's method in the plan of salvation (Romans 10:10-17; 1 Corinthians 1:21).—Selected.

5. Verse 14 contradicts the teaching that Cornelius was already saved when he sent for Peter, and that his experience after hearing the apostle's sermon was a second work of grace. During the church age no one can be saved unless they believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and that His shed blood is the one and only remedy for sin. Cornelius had not done this, so his prayers and gifts by themselves could not save him.

6. That is a poor Christian who does not believe in the efficacy of prayer; its importance cannot be overestimated. The wives of two pastors were busy on some household sewing. The face of one was full of sunshine and beamed good cheer and contentment, while the face of the other was a long-drawn out affair and looked as if its owner were a candidate for the mourner's bench. "Sister," said she of the gloomy countenance, "everything seems to go smoothly with you and your husband, you always look so happy, while with us nothing goes right and my work is always behind." "Perhaps our work explains it," said the other. They were both patching their husband's trousers. She of the happy face was putting a patch on the knee; the other was also sticking a patch on, but it wasn't on the knee.—Selected.

"The New Testament needs the Old for its authentication, and the Old Testament needs the New for its fulfillment."—Selected.

For 5 Age Groups

Featuring ONE GENERAL THEME Adapted for All Ages

A brand-new 10-lesson course with the primary purpose of inspiring boys and girls to know and live the Bible. All lessons are complete . . . carefully and reverently prepared. Fascinating handicraft ideas have been adapted to correlate with the course for further lesson emphasis. A complete, practical and true-to-the-Bible course for the children of today.

TEACHERS' MANUALS

Even the most inexperienced teacher or leader will find all the help needed in these complete manuals. Introductions to each manual explain what to expect of the child, and give many helpful pointers on how to teach. Complete plans for each lesson, plus instructions and patterns for all handwork activities assure a thorough treatment of the course for every age group.

PUPILS' WORKBOOKS

For the first time, pupils' workbooks have full color throughout! Activities have been selected with the primary purpose of emphasizing the lessons. Nursery children will make a crown with jewels, a harp with strings, and many others; Beginners will make a scroll, a mobile of the Twenty-third Psalm, etc.; Primary children will make salt pictures, Bible patrol badges, plus several other fascinating items; Juniors will make gospel bells from can lids, cord pictures, and others; Teen-agers will find such projects as pictures from felt and chicken wire, and bowls from old phonograph records both interesting and rewarding.

ALSO full-color teaching pictures and a Table-Top Pict-O-Graph set are provided for the teacher's use. Visualized lessons are remembered lessons.

A VIRTUOUS WOMAN

In this Mother's Day issue let us turn our thoughts to woman, God's twice refined product of creation. We shall notice in the very beginning that, in perfecting her creation, God did not take some dust of the earth to form her as He did in creating Adam. Instead, He made her from a part of Adam's flesh and bone, "And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof; And the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man" (Genesis 2:21, 22). Women should realize that, by virtue of the particular manner of their creation, they are refined creatures; therefore, they should not degrade themselves by climbing down from the exalted position which God gave them.

The solemn responsibility of every woman is to fill the place for which God created her, just as it is the sacred duty of every man to fulfill his trust from God. Good women of all generations have accepted this challenge and given their best in filling their places in the plan of the ages. Godly women have gone to the Bible to find information and inspiration for the task. They have observed that the highest earthly ambition of Bible heroines was to marry, bear children and rear them in such a manner that they might go forth to serve God and be a blessing to mankind. Multitudes have been inspired by the noble desire and sacrificial heart of Hannah, the mother of Samuel. When the burden of her heart had been lifted in answer to her prayers, she took her precious child and "... lent him to the LORD; ..." (1 Samuel 1:28). They have been inspired by the faith and courage of Jochebed, the mother of Moses, who defied the commandment of Pharaoh of Egypt and, "... hid him three months. And when she could not longer hide him, she took for him an ark of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and she laid it in the flags by the river's brink. And his sister stood afar off, to wit what would be done to him" (Exodus 2:2-4). Among the many other examples of true motherhood, they have thrilled at the purity, faith and obedience of Mary, the mother of Jesus. When she said to the angel, "... Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. ..." (Luke 1:38), she was accepting the stigma of shame in the eyes of the ignorant and uninformed public in order to receive the reward of being the mother of the Son of God.

In Proverbs 31 King Lemuel, believed by some to be Solomon and by others to be an Arabian king, gives a description of a virtuous woman. Concerning this chapter, Clarence E. Macartney, in his book, Great Women of the Bible, says, "I knew of a minister who used to tell me how his father would sometimes read this chapter at family worship, then close the Bible before kneeling in prayer and, looking around the family circle, say, 'Boys, there's your mother.'" In this chapter the Holy Spirit inspired King Lemuel to say some things that every woman should consider. Let us note:

A virtuous woman is a tower of strength in the home. He could not conceive of a good woman apart from marriage, home life and motherhood. Of course, there are some good women who are deprived by providence or some other influence from one or more of these institutions. However, the general rule is that woman is created for participation in all of these noble activities. Let every woman know beyond doubt that if she wilfully refuses these solemn responsibilities, she is denying her God-given heritage and is a sinner in the sight of God.

She is inseparably linked with the success and happiness of her husband for "... The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her, ..." (Vs. 11). In the first place, she is true to the marriage vow. The supreme need of every man, if he is to be happy, secure and successful in his work, is to have implicit faith in God. And next to this is faith in his wife. He needs to be assured that she is not deceiving him and just waiting for the time when she, as a despicable opportunist, may desert him or practice infidelity to him in sexual immorality. Furthermore, she must never stoop beneath his ideal of purity in matters of conversation or activity. Next to God she is his greatest spiritual inspiration on earth.

An understanding wife will listen patiently to her husband as he unfolds the emotions of his heart in words that he would not speak to any other living human being. She will help him as he grapples with his daily problems and pray with him for the triumph of God's will in his undertakings, "She will do him good and not evil all the days of her life" (Vs. 12).

A good woman is an inspiration, a great delight and an abiding influence for good to her children, "Her children shall arise up, and call her blessed; ..." (Vs. 28). What son or daughter might not be justly proud of a mother who stands for everything that is pure, good and spiritual? The son will say, "I want a wife just like the woman who married my father," and the daughter will say, "I want to be the same kind of wife and mother as my mother." What greater tribute could be paid to any woman? These children can look back upon her love and sacrifice for them despite their ungratefulness at the time. They can think of the times she denied herself for their sakes; the times she gave them counsel and advice that was void of any thought of herself and well-being, but was altogether based on what would be good for them; and the times that she had wrestled with God in prayer for their success and happiness. Surely children can call that kind of mother a blessed person.

A virtuous woman is a courageous and industrious person. Of her industry King Lemuel says that she "... worketh willingly with her hands" (Vs. 13); "She riseth also while it is yet night, and giveth meat to her household, and a portion to her maidens" (Vs. 15); "... her candle goeth not out by night" (Vs. 18).

Cragmont Youth Conference

Rev. L. E. Ballard
Bladenboro, North Carolina

TIME for the General Youth Conference, sponsored each June by the North Carolina Free Will Baptist Sunday School Convention, is drawing near. The place, of course, is Cragmont Assembly, in the wonderful mountains of North Carolina, and the date is June 18-23.

All young people over 10 years of age are cordially invited to join the happy group of Cragmonters for a great week of inspiration, instruction and recreation in the mountains. We have tried to make plans this year to be assured of the 1956 conferences being just as great, if not greater, than in the past years. Some of the staff, which will be announced right away, will be new people, but people who love young people and are well qualified to serve them. Also there will be some old ones. Once again "Ma" Ballard, who has perhaps chaperoned more groups going to Cragmont than any other person, will ride the bus, goin', comin', and thereabout, to see that the young people have a good time in the right way. We announce her in advance because, every year, about the first problem the director has is that of answering letters and telephone calls from mothers, with the question, "Who's going to look after my girls and boys on the bus." Well, it will be the same one who has looked after hundreds of others, and gotten them safely back home.

This year, on account of the Nationwide Free Will Baptist League Conference in our state, the state league convention is not planning a conference at Cragmont, so we feel free to urge groups who had planned to go to the league camp to go to the General Youth Conference instead. For the benefit of leaguers, a course in Free Will Baptist league work will be taught by a qualified person. In addition, there will be the regular courses as heretofore—Sunday school work, Bible, music, youth evangelism, etc. Then there will be the sight-seeing trips to places like Cherokee Village, Mt. Mitchell, Linville Caverns, etc., as may be decided upon by the group in the Make Ready meeting Monday night.

The Cost? It's just about the same as last year: Registration fee, $2.00; recreation fee (to cover cost of around $15.00 worth of trips, by local rates), $5.00; board, room, insurance, linens while at Cragmont, $15.00. This will make a total of $22.00 for all actual expenses, not counting transportation. Again this year we will have a special chartered bus, leaving New Bern at 6:00 a. m., Monday, June 18, and returning on Saturday, June 23. We have had to go up slightly on the fares, due to increase in cost of the bus. Fares for round trip from places named will be: New Bern, $12.50; Kinston, $12.00; Goldsboro, $11.50; Smithfield, $11.00; Raleigh, $10.50.

Above is last year's June Conference group. We hope for an even larger group this year.

Bargain Offer: We can save money and work, to say nothing of headaches for the director, if we can get in registrations early. For this reason we are cutting the registration fee to $1.50 for all who register on or before June 1. After that it will be $2.00.

We hope that several Sunday school classes, Free Will Baptist leagues, woman's auxiliaries or other church groups will send one or more young people to the conference, as some did last year. If you know that some are going, register them early and help us, and save money for your group or the individuals going.

How to Register: Registration is simple. Just send names, full mailing addresses, give ages of those who are going, tell us where they plan to get on the bus, or what other plans they may have for going, and enclose the registration fee and a $5.00 deposit on bus fare to reserve seat on bus. A receipt, letter of instruction, and the camper's identification badge, to wear on bus, will be sent promptly. All letters are to be addressed to the director, Rev. L. E. Ballard, Box 381, Bladenboro, North Carolina.

Professing with the Lips

A clock may have an excellent machinery, its weeks may revolve with regularity, but it is of no service unless it has a face and hands to profess the hours of the day. Thus it is necessary that the inward life of the believer should be made manifest in his profession. One says he let his example tell his life—true; but why not let your words and public acts as well tell the story of Jesus?—Selected.

Tell Mother I'll Be There

William Ward Ayer

MOTHER'S DAY gives us a special opportunity to fulfill the Scriptural injunction, "Honour thy mother . . ." How far we have come from the days of honoring "thy father and thy mother"! Today's most deadly attack upon our civilization is made upon the home. It is sad that much of the motherhood of the day is not instilling in the minds and hearts of childhood the Christian ideals of the past. Any time America loses its godly motherhood, Christian America is gone. "My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother: For they shall be an ornament of grace unto thy head, and chains about thy neck" (Proverbs 1:8, 9).

Why is motherhood so important for good or for ill? It is because of divine sanctity of the home. Home is earth's first, foremost, and most fundamental institution. It was established by God in the Garden of Eden. And motherhood is the heart of the home.

Literally millions of people have sung these sentimental words:

"When I was but a little child, how well I recollect
How I would grieve my mother with my folly and neglect;
And now that she has gone to heaven, I miss her tender care:
O Saviour, tell my mother I'll be there!

"Tell mother I'll be there in answer to her prayer;
This message, blessed Saviour, to her bear.
Tell mother I'll be there, heaven's joy with her share
Yes, tell mother I'll be there!"

This song has caused strong men to weep their way to Jesus, remembering as they did the childhood influence of their mothers upon their lives. The power of their mother's prayers and the influence of their mother's lives upon them bore fruit as these people saw their need of the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour.

Memories of mother may truly bring us back home to the simple things. Perhaps it will bring us back to the Kingdom of God. On Mother's Day, a good confession might be:

"O mother, when I think of thee,
'Tis but a step to Calvary.
Thy precious hand upon my brow
Is leading me to Jesus now."

Many will remember their mother's songs. They will feel a mother's influence in the song she sang in their childhood, remembering perhaps her voice in the church choir. Maybe the songs and hymns of the country parlor, sung there by mother and father and all the children, will come back to memory.

Others will remember their mother's prayers. It is surprising how many of the "great" of earth have attributed their greatness to the influence of their mothers. Abraham Lincoln said: "I remember my mother's prayers, and they have followed me; they have clung to me all my life. All that I am and hope to be I owe to my angel mother."

Some will remember their mother's admonition and chastisement. New-fangled mothers may talk a great deal about prohibitions, repressions, and all the rest, but the old-time mother who spanked on occasion, and whipped more severely when it was needed, did not raise a bunch of lawless, lazy, juvenile delinquents without respect for God or man. Many of them raised a group of respectful children who were brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord.

What would you give to be able to obliterate the years, turn back the universe, and live one blessed hour of yesterday? How cheap our present day would appear if we could only do that. Many of the things to which we have become accustomed would nauseate us if we could go back to other days of godliness, purity, and simplicity.

On this Mother's Day, with all the tender memories crowding into consciousness, permeating your whole being with their fragrance, will you not say, "Yes, to Jesus? The word of surrender may go winging its way through this universe to the throne of God. "O Saviour tell my mother I'll be there."—American Tract Society.

THE ROAD TO EMMAUS

Rev. J. B. Narron
Greenville, North Carolina

LUKE'S record of the incident of the two men on the way to Emmaus is another one of the great human dramas in the story of the gospel. These were average men who had been in Jerusalem for the Passover, most likely, and now were on their way home. It was about a seven mile journey and they were talking over the things that had happened during the past few days. Those days to them were days of darkness because they had seen an innocent Man nailed to a Cross. They had been followers of this Man and had thought that this Stranger of Galilee was the One that had come to redeem Israel. He had been buried in a tomb, and therefore their hope had been discouraged. But on this day as they left Jerusalem, they had heard something that was strange to their ears. Some women had told them that the tomb was empty. What had happened to Him? Was the body stolen, or moved to some other place? The men talked with each other trying to find a logical answer to all that had happened.

Suddenly a Stranger drew near and walked with them and broke into their conversation—as how often He does today! We note, in the experience of these men, that they became puzzled by the interruption of the Stranger. It is true in our own experience that we have to come face to face with life's difficulties to really understand that at the deeper level of this story is a transcript of human experience, a history of God's gracious dealings with the human soul.

In the drama of these men we see that God plays the leading part. The Stranger of Galilee, now the resurrected Christ came to minister to the troubled hearts of these honest men. They related to the Stranger their shattered belief that the One crucified had been the promised Messiah whom they thought would set up His throne and rule from Jerusalem. The tragedy of the Cross had robbed these men of all hope.

The resurrected Jesus began to interpret to these men the Scriptures, showing that this Jesus of Nazareth had not come to set up an earthly kingdom, but that the Scriptures had taught that Christ, the anointed One, must suffer. This was God's great redemptive act. It was the plan of God. He was saying to them that His Kingdom is in the lives of men. They were members of His Kingdom because they had believed the event of the Cross and now the resurrection. They now had a new understanding of hope, for they saw that hope had roots in God (Romans 8:24, 25), and God works all things to good to those who love Him (Romans 8:28).

A wonderful thing had happened to them as they had come along the way and as they had taken bread with Him. Their hearts had been strangely warmed by this Stranger of Galilee—their Lord and our Lord.

But this story does not stop here. Moffat translates Vs. 35 as, "They told what had happened. . . ." This is just exactly what they did. They rushed back to Jerusalem and told the disciples that the Christ had been with them. They had moved from discouragement to joy, from despair to hope. They had had an experience with the resurrected Christ and they told it. That the Lord is risen is a great fact, but not just an isolated fact of history. Jesus is alive today.

The risen Christ ministers to the hearts and lives of men today as He did to those men on the road to Emmaus. "God is editing His story, all scribbled over as it has been, and with His own hand!"

Liquor and Drugs

Naaman Borders
Waverly, Ohio

THERE has been a great deal of talk and writing about the liquor problems in America, and the time is overdue now to do something about it. All of our churches should get together and nominate and elect men to the legislature that we can trust when they get to the state capitol. It's not every man that one can trust.

The liquor problem has become frightening to the decent American. One writer says there are more barmaids in America than college girls. Nearly half of our women drink, and one-sixth of our women are alcoholics. Almost $10,000,000,000 are spent each year in our country for liquor. Almost 4,000,000 alcoholics and problem drinkers are now our responsibility. Drinkers who stay off the job because of drinking and hangovers are problems for the employers. People who are called responsible frequently feel that drinking is a private matter and no one has a right to interfere in their business. But the employer must interfere when the effects of that private life drinking cause bad debts to accumulate and dishonesty which affects the employer's workaday transaction.

May I quote from a Chicago daily newspaper, "The owners of the hotel where 26 men lost their lives from fumes or fire say 40 per cent of the residents were habitual drinkers. Of the 26 who died a major proportion were probably in such a drunken stupor they were unable to respond to any alarm. There were ample exits and fire escapes." Hundreds of deaths are caused by smokers' carelessness.

What about dope? Agents of the Federal Narcotics Bureau and the U. S. Customs Service are locked in a constant battle of wits against international dope smugglers, and share the almost impossible task of trying to keep illicit drugs—opium, cocaine, marijuana and morphine—out of this country.

Drug addiction ravages and demoralizes the body and soul, wrecking and perverting the lives of thousands of its victims. The chief of the Federal Narcotics Bureau calls the habit murder on the installment plan. It reduces its victim to the walking dead existence.

Financially, it is a devastating drain on the nation's economy. With 60,000 addicts in the country, the cost adds up to $330,000,000 a year just to buy the drugs. Federal authorities say it costs an addict $15 to $50 a day to satisfy his cravings or a minimum of $5,500 a year. The average drug slave can't pay that much so he resorts to stealing.

A United States customs official states that an ounce of 100 per cent pure heroin (the most habit forming drug) can be purchased in Hongkong for $60. One ounce contains 437 grains, but by the time it reaches the addict it may have been cut to one-twentieth of its original strength. For one grain of diluted heroin the addict pays $1. That means the original ounce of heroin costing $60 will be sold for $8,740, which is a profit of 14,466 per cent.

Crime is alarmingly increasing. A statement taken from a paper of 1954 revealed that a major crime was committed every 22 seconds in our land. A recent article in one of our daily newspapers quoted statistics by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, stating that for the first six months of 1955 major crimes totaled 1,250,000—an average of one every 13 seconds or one crime for each 144 people. The same paper later stated that we had 6,000,000 criminals while only one-fourth of them were in prison. Most crimes were committed by teenagers, while at the turn of the century the age level was around 30-year-olds. Our nation's crime bill has now reached the astounding total of $20,000,000,000. These evils are wrecking our nation financially, physically, morally and spiritually. When Babylon and the Roman Empire and many other great nations became saturated with corruption, graft and licentiousness, they lost their power and protection of God and fell into decay. How shall we escape the wrath of God if we neglect so great salvation? The Federal Bureau of Investigation repeatedly says that the only hope for America is a return to almighty God—a bringing of religion back into the home.

A former boxing champion who was given dope to ease his suffering from wounds received while he was a marine on Guadalcanal said it took eight years to shake off the habit. He said that a dope addict might as well be dead. But does death end it all? Is there not a judgment? Doesn't man have to reap eternal damnation for a misspent life?

There is the claim now that our boys and girls in schools are taking up the habit. Dope and liquor are responsible for half the automobile wrecks. Eighty per cent of our inmates in jails and penitentiaries can be traced back to liquor and dope. Teen-agers will waylay innocent men in back alleys just for the thrill of it. Liquor has wrecked more homes, dug more graves, broken more hearts, and caused more sorrow than all the wars that have ever been fought in this world; yet, our folk will pray for a peaceful world; then turn right around and vote to keep the saloon in. Shall we vote as we pray or still go on making fools out of ourselves?

The Inspiration of a Great Life

"I will place no value on anything I have or may possess except in relation to the Kingdom of Christ. If anything will advance the interests of that Kingdom, it shall be given away or kept, only as by the giving or keeping of it I shall promote the glory of Him to whom I owe all my hopes in time and eternity. May grace and strength sufficient to enable me to adhere faithfully to this resolution be imparted to me, so that, not in name only, all my interests may be identified with His cause."—David Livingstone.

NEWS NOTES

NEW MISSION ORGANIZES SUNDAY SCHOOL

On the first Sunday in January, 1956, Rev. Fred A. Rivenbark, pastor of the Fairmount Park Free Will Baptist Church, Norfolk, Virginia, led in the organization of a Free Will Baptist mission at Princess Anne, Virginia. The first meeting was held in the Princess Anne Grammer School building at 2:30 p. m.

According to the Rev. Rivenbark, all the Free Will Baptist pastors in the area are cooperating beautifully, and members of the neighboring churches are working in cooperation with the pastors. These pastors include: Rev. J. A. Alexander, Rev. E. H. Overman, Rev. J. B. Chism and Rev. Fred A. Rivenbark.

On March 25, Mr. W. H. Dail presided over a session during which a Sunday school was organized by the mission with four classes. The following officers and teachers were elected by the group: Paul Kennedy, superintendent; Jessy Belanga, assistant superintendent; Joyce Gallop, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Alva Harris, assistant secretary-treasurer; K. C. Crawford, adult teacher; D. R. Harris, assistant adult teacher; Mrs. Calvin Barnes, beginners and primary teacher; Vernell Harris, junior and intermediate teacher; and Mrs. D. R. Harris, senior and young peoples teacher.

Rev. Fred A. Rivenbark says, "The Fairmount Park Church has included this mission in its 1956 budget. I would like to ask all Christians to pray for this new work. If you have relatives or friends in the Princess Anne, Virginia, community, write them and urge them to attend the mission."

Revival Services at Faith Church

The Rev. Frank Davenport, missionary of the Central Conference of North Carolina, will conduct revival services, May 13-20, at the Faith Free Will Baptist Church, Route 1, Kinston, North Carolina. The church may be reached by following U. S. Highway 258 north of Kinston for four miles to Mewborn's Crossroads and turning west for two miles to the church. Those traveling from Snow Hill may follow Highway 58 to Mewborn's Crossroads and turn right to the church.

Mr. Davenport urges all people in the general area of the church to support this revival in the new church. He also urges all our people to pray for the meetings and attend as much as possible.

New Church Organized at Ider, Alabama

On Sunday, April 22, 1956, a new Free Will Baptist church was organized in the small town of Ider, Alabama, with 14 charter members. Rev. C. T. Barnes, Free Will Baptist pastor of Trinton, Georgia, contacted Brother W. H. Ryland, superintendent of the Free Will Baptist Children's Home in Alabama, and arrangements were made for Brother Ryland's assistance in organizing the new church.

Also, on April 22, a Sunday school was organized for the new church. Rev. C. T. Barnes was elected pastor of the church, and Mrs. Barnes was elected clerk and treasurer. Deacons for the church were also elected and ordained during an evening service. During an afternoon service, two persons presented themselves for membership. Another service was held on the night of April 22, during which an additional two persons were added to the church roll.

Brother Ryland states, "One of the members of the new church has promised the land on which to erect a church building in the near future. Ider, Alabama, is only one of the prospective towns in this locality which has been inviting the organization of a Free Will

Greenville Church Plans Revival

The Rev. Floyd Cherry, pastor of Black Jack and Rose Hill Free Will Baptist Churches of Pitt County, North Carolina, will be the evangelist for a revival at the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church, Greenville, North Carolina, beginning May 20. Services will begin each evening at 7:45. The pastor, the Rev. R. B. Crawford, invites everyone to prayerfully attend these services and bring unsaved friends.

Ordaining Council of Central Conference to Meet

The Ordaining Council of the North Carolina Central Conference will meet on June 11, 1956, 1:30 p. m., at the Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, North Carolina.

The Rev. D. W. Alexander, chairman of the council, states, "Anyone in the Central Conference desiring examination for license or ordination should meet the council at that time with proper recommendation from his church."

Greenville Church to Celebrate Home-Coming

The Greenville Free Will Baptist Church located at the corner of Eleventh and Forbes Streets, Greenville, North Carolina, will observe home-coming on Sunday, May 27. All members of the church and former pastors of the church are urged to be present for this service. Lunch will be spread at noon, and a program of interest is planned for the afternoon. The Rev. R. B. Crawford is pastor of the Greenville Church.

All We Need to Know

A traveler in Switzerland, uncertain of his way, asked a small lad by the wayside where Kandersteg was, and received, so he remarks, the most significant answer ever given him; "I do not know, sir," said the boy, "where Kandersteg is, but there is the road to it." There are a great many things I cannot tell about the life to come; but I know where lies the road. As I know Christ, the Hope of Glory, I have the certain assurance of immortality.—Herald and Presbyter.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Do you believe in a Trinity, immortality of the human soul and eternal torment? If you do you are on the wrong road and I advise you to get on the right road for the wrong road will lead you to the battle of Armageddon.—A. J. S., Atlanta, Georgia.

If heaven is to be a place of eternal happiness for the redeemed then hell is a place of eternal punishment for those who are lost. "But the wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the LORD shall be as the fat of lambs: they shall consume; into smoke shall they consume away" (Psalm 37:20). "For the wages of sin is death; . . ." (Romans 6:23). "Then said Jesus again unto them, I go my way, and ye shall seek me, and shall die in your sins: whither I go, ye cannot come. . . . I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: for if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins" (John 8:21, 24). Dr. Evans, in his "Great Doctrines of the Bible," says on Page 258, "That it shall be well with the righteous, and woe to the wicked (Isaiah 3:10, 11). That there is to be retribution for sin and a reward for the righteous must be held to be beyond question, and must be recognized as an unchangeable law. One cannot very well meddle with that truth without serious danger. So long as a man persistently, willingly and knowingly continues in his sin he must suffer for it. That suffering the Bible calls eternal death."

"Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels: . . . And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal" (Matthew 25:41, 46). "And to you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, In flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ: Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power" (2 Thessalonians 1:7-9).

Again Evans says on Page 261, "We read of 'eternal' or 'everlasting' punishment, 'everlasting' fire. It is objected that the word 'eternal' or 'everlasting' does not mean 'forever.' This may be true. But we are all willing to admit that when this word qualifies the condition of the righteous it means forever, without end, e. g., the righteous shall go 'into life eternal.' The same word, however, qualifies the punishment of the wicked, e. g., 'these shall go away into everlasting punishment.' Fairness demands that we make the joy of the righteous and the punishment of the wicked—both qualified as they are by the same Greek word—of the same duration. If there is an end to the reward of the righteous, there is also of the penalty of the wicked. The one lasts as long as the other. If 'destruction' means annihilation, then there is no need of the word 'eternal' to qualify it. Further the Scriptures present the punishment of the wicked not only as 'eternal' (or age-long), but as enduring 'for ever and ever,' or 'unto the ages of the ages' (Revelation 19:3; 20:10; 14:11). Here is a picture of ages tumbling upon ages in eternal succession."

" . . . whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire" (Matthew 5:22). Walter R. Martin and Norman H. Klann in a new publication entitled, "Jehovah of the Watchtower," say on Pages 79, 80: "Jehovah's Witnesses claim on page 77 of 'Let God be True' that—'In all places where hell is translated from the Greek word Gehenna, it means everlasting destruction of extinction.'"

"This is indeed a bold-faced misrepresentation of the Greek language and certainly ranks next to the 'a god' fallacy of John 1:1 as an outstanding example of complete falsehood. There is no evidence that Gehenna ever means annihilation in the New Testament but rather abundant evidence to the contrary. In Matthew 5:22 Gehenna is portrayed as literally 'the hell of fire,' in 10:28 coupled with Apollosai 'to be delivered up to eternal misery' (see Thayer, Page 64), it indicates everlasting misery, and in Matthew 18:9 the same words corroborate 5:22, 'the hell of fire.' If we are to follow through with Jehovah's Witnesses' argument, then Gehenna simply means the smoldering furnaces of Hinnon. But is that fire everlasting? No! for today the valley of Hinnon is not burning, so unless Jesus meant the example for just those living at that time, and this not even Jehovah's Witnesses will affirm, then Gehenna must be what it is, the symbol of eternal separation in conscious torment by a flame which is unquenchable (Isaiah 66:24)."

"Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he shall answer and say unto you, I know not whence ye are: then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets. But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and yourselves thrust out" (Luke 13:24-28). One can easily see from this that it is not a matter of personal opinion or belief, but a question as to whether or not we accept God's Word and His teaching on the subject of hell and eternal punishment. When we accept the Bible as God's Word there is no further question for it plainly teaches that there is a hell whose subjects shall be punished in eternal or unquenchable fire.

The purchase and careful reading of the following books recently published by Zondervan Publishing House will be worth any Christian's money and time, especially is this true if you wish to win poor misled souls who have fallen victims to the maze of these diabolical cults. These are by Walter R. Martin and Norman H. Klann: The Rise of Cults, The Christian Science Myth, Jehovah of the Watchtower, The Maze of Mormonism and Unity Christianity Unmasked.

HAPPINESS

Happiness is possible only when one is busy. The body must toil, the mind must be occupied, and the heart must be satisfied. Those who do good as opportunity offers are sowing seed all the time, and they need not doubt the harvest.—The Craftsman.

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNAHOA, N. C.

"Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip" (Hebrews 2:1).

Continuing with the thoughts began last week, which are excerpts from a sermon I recently read, I again quote as follows:

"Let us notice the peculiar dangers to which these Hebrew Christians were exposed.

"It may have a present-day application. What was their real danger? It was the danger of returning from the substance to the shadow. From Christ to ritual. They breathed in a Jewish atmosphere. They felt the appeal of the visible temple with its altar and officiating priesthood. This appealed more strongly to their love of display, rather than the bald, plain, unadorned spiritual worship of the primitive Christian Church. The writer warns them of the danger of returning to those beggarly elements, by saying that in so doing they would be crucifying afresh the Lord of Life and putting Him to an open shame. They were as much as saying that the sacrifice of Calvary was insufficient: that they must return to the sacrifices of the temple. It was the danger of returning to, and depending upon ritual for salvation.

"Is there any real danger in this direction today? We are afraid there is. One of the most astounding facts revealed during the last fifty years is the revival of Romanism. And today we are told that several Protestant churches are adopting and advocating a ritualistic service. This is not a sign of spiritual revival, but of moral decay. To begin with ritual is easier than real religion. It is easier to sacrifice than to obey. It is easier to observe the rites of a church than to give Christ the love of the heart and the allegiance of the life. . . . You see evidence of this drift in the large number of people that are leaving non-conformity for the establishment today.

"Nevertheless it is a drift that is full of deadly peril. For after all religion is not a posture of the body, but an attitude of the soul. The observance of all the rites and ceremonies that a church may prescribe cannot save the soul. Only personal contact with Christ can impart life. The peril of ritualism is that it blinds the soul as to the real nature of God's demands respective of the sinner.

"Another drift that is painfully manifest today is the drift of compromise. The church today is being swayed too much by outside influences, instead of taking a stand for itself and creating public opinion. Instead of lifting the world to its own standards, the world has brought down the church to its own. . . . And I think that it is a shame for any church possessing all the appearances of a social club with its pool table, card parties and dance halls, to take upon itself the dignified name of 'church.' Let it call itself a social club if it will, but hands off the sacred name of 'church.' If Christ paid a visit to earth today, there are churches from which He would keep away. Churches which He would avoid as He would a pool hall. And methinks at times that some recording angel is kept busy writing letters to dead churches. That the Great God is dictating the same, saying: 'Thou hast a name that thou livest and art dead. Behold I come quickly and will remove thy candlestick out of its place, except thou repent.'

"The men that have won the prize of the high calling in Christ Jesus have not been drifters but swimmers—everyone. They did not shout hurrah with the crowd, but dared to take a stand. Back to Christ is the call of God."

BORN FROM ABOVE

(John 3:7)

The word again in this text does not convey the correct meaning. The word used in the message of Jesus (anthen) means above. The same word is translated top in Matthew 27:51. In John 3:31 and 19:11 the word is correctly translated above. The New Birth is a Birth from Above.

I. THE MAN IN NEED OF THIS BIRTH (Vv. 1, 2).

- A. Religious—A Pharisee. (See Luke 18.)
- B. Moral—A Ruler of the Jews. Exemplary.
- C. Intelligent—A master or teacher in Israel.

II. THE MAGNITUDE OF THE SERIOUSNESS OF THE MATTER (Vv. 3-5).

- A. No entering the Kingdom of God without it.
- B. Not even a chance of seeing it.
- C. Note the words except and must. It is imperative.

III. THE MIRACULOUS NATURE OF THIS BIRTH.

- A. The words from above clearly indicate the miraculous.
- B. It is a divine begetting. (See John 1:13; 1 John 5:1, 4.)
- C. It is a spiritual quickening (Ephesians 2:1).
- D. It is a new creation (2 Corinthians 5:17).

Moments to Remember

Mrs. Edwin Roper

Tiny little hands leave smudges on the wall;
Tiny little feet run thither here and yon.

Laughter mixed with tears; problems to be solved;

Mother understands, he thinks she knows it all.

Scattered toys left upon the floor—

A shoe, a sock, here and there.

Fuss and fights, and yells galore;

Dirty little faces, touseled hair.

Fevered brows bring anxious fears,

Moments pass like years and years;

Whimpers cry out from restless sleep,

A kiss is placed on a parched cheek.

Never a moment to rest or think—

From lawn to pasture, stairs and den.

How precious are those fleeing years

When all the children are in.

But alas, too soon they're gone,

And solemn quietness fills the home;

In silent meditation we lean

On God, and know we're not alone.

E. It is the impartation of the divine nature (2 Peter 1:4).

IV. THE MEANS EMPLOYED TO PRODUCE THIS MIRACULOUS BEGETTING (Vv. 5, 6).

A. The Holy Spirit.

B. The Word of God.

These are the divine agents for this mighty work. The Holy Spirit uses the Word of God to bring about conviction of sin (John 16:8-11), and sure and sound conversion to Christ (Psalm 19:7; Acts 3:19). See also John 15:3; Ephesians 5:26; 1 Peter 1:23. Water in these Scriptures is a symbol of The Word.

V. THE MYSTERY OF THIS BIRTH IS READILY ACKNOWLEDGED (Vs. 8).

Read "The Spirit breathed where He willeth," etc. (See ASV.)

VI. THE MESSAGE WHICH MAKES CLEAR THE WAY (Vv. 14-18).

A. The indictment—man is perishing without Christ (Vs. 16).

B. The intervention of God—the gift and death of His Son (Vs. 16).

C. The illustration used—the story of the brazen serpent. (See Numbers 21.) Get all the facts. "Life for a look at the crucified one."

VII. THE MANIFOLD BLESSINGS AT ONCE RECEIVED.

A. Was blind—now sees.

B. Was condemned—now justified.

C. Was lost—now found.

D. Was perishing—now saved.

E. Was dead—now alive.

F. Was hell bound—now heaven bound.

G. Was an unbeliever—now a believer.

Our Saviour's Love

Mrs. Jack Harrell

Snow Hill, North Carolina

When you sit alone at twilight
Viewing the beautiful sky above,
Each little star that shines so bright
Reminds you of your Saviour's love.
County your blessings one by one
And say, "Thank You Lord for all You've done."

Then when you lie down to sleep,
Leave your cares and woes at Jesus' feet.
He'll cleanse you from all your sin,
And make you white as snow within.
Serve Him in the most humble way;
He'll walk beside you each passing day.

God is knocking at your heart's door
To give to you of His best.
Won't you let Him in this very hour
And be your very special guest?
Love Him in the morning and in the night,
And He'll tide you over with all His might.

Then when you are kneeling to pray,
Think of the friends all along the way.
God loves you; He'll never let your fall
If you give to Him your all in all.
Be thankful unto Him and bless His name,
For to neglect Him would be a terrible shame.

How to Test Questionable Amusements

Do they rest and strengthen, or weary and weaken the body?

Do they strengthen and rest, or weary and weaken the brain?

Do they make resistance to temptation easier or harder?

Do they increase or lessen love for virtue, purity, temperance and justice?

Do they give inspiration and quicken enthusiasm, or stupefy the intellectual and harden the moral nature?

Do they increase or diminish respect for manhood and womanhood?

Do they draw one nearer to or remove one further from the Christ?—Hickory Chapel Church Bulletin, Ahoskie, North Carolina.

By J. C. Griffin

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

THE RESURRECTION

The resurrection of Christ cannot be denied by any person who believes the Bible. If a man does not believe the Bible there is no hope for him so long as he continues to disbelieve the Bible. If the Word of God and the fruits of the Gospel do not convince a man that it is true, then there is nothing else that can be done. Those who believe the Bible truly to be the Word of God also believe in the resurrection of Christ and in the resurrection of all men. "But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming" (1 Corinthians 15:20-23). Notice that Christ is the firstfruits. The fact is this: if Christ be not risen, then there is no resurrection of the dead. So our hope of being raised from the dead rests on the fact that Jesus Christ arose from the grave, just as the Scriptures teach.

What Kind of Bodies Do the Risen Have?

"But some man will say, How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come? Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die: And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain: But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body. All flesh is not the same flesh: but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds. There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial: but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another. There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: for one star differeth from another star in glory. So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption: It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power: It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. And so it is written, The first man Adam was made a living soul; the last Adam was made a quickening spirit. Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual. The first man is of the earth, earthy: the second man is the Lord from heaven. As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly. And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly. Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption" (1 Corinthians 15:35-50).

May we notice that this Scripture says that there is a natural body and there is a spiritual body. The resurrection means a different body from that which is sown. It goes back to the grave, or to its resting place a natural body. It comes forth a spiritual body. The body of Christ was a spiritual body after it came forth from the grave. How do we know? We know because it could pass into a room when the doors were shut. Let us quote: "Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you" (John 20:19). A natural body could not have gone into a closed room with the doors shut. Then in Luke 24:31 we read, "And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he vanished out of their sight." As quick as a flash Jesus, with His resurrected body, could vanish. He also could clothe Himself with a body at His will. That has been the way of God through all generations. When He wanted to appear to men, He had a way to clothe Himself. With Moses God talked from a burning bush. He went before the children of Israel in a cloud by day and a pillow of fire by night. He could speak to Elijah by a still small voice, without being seen. He could come to earth as quickly as a flash in whatever form He chose, and could go away as quickly as He came. These examples show that God is a Spirit (John 4:24). The doctrine which teaches that the body of God is tangible falls flat before the holy Scriptures. Yes, "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24). And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: for we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is" (1 John 3:2).

"For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord" (1 Thessalonians 4:14-17).

"And to you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, In flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ: Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power; When he shall come to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day" (2 Thessalonians 1:7-10).

"Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him, That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand. Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition" (2 Thessalonians 2:1-3).

For further study of the resurrection get your Bible and turn to 2 Peter 3:1-10; Matthew 24:32-51; Matthew 25:1-13.

"Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, And shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation" (John 5:28, 29).

On Mother's Day

AFTER breakfast the day before Mother's Day, Marcia hugged her mother tightly.

"I love you, Mother," she whispered, as she kissed her. "I wish I had a really true present to give you, but I have not, so I will help you with your work all day, and every day after this. I am big enough now to do many things."

"That will be fine, dear," Mother told her gratefully. "You know Aunt Mae and Uncle Jim are coming today, so I shall be glad for your help."

Marcia knew just what had to be done without being told. First she washed the breakfast dishes.

When Mother began to prepare dinner for the guests, Marcia ran to find the very best company tablecloth. She was very careful not to rumple any of the linens in the closet, and when the right tablecloth was found, she carried it to the dining room. There she smoothed it on the table just as she had seen Mother do so many times before.

"My, what a big help you are!" Mother said.

"I will get out the best company silverware and will be very careful of your good china, too," Marcia promised as she began to set the table.

First of all she carried the bowl of roses to the dining room and set it in the center of the table. Then she placed knives, forks, spoons, plates, and glasses just where they belonged.

It took a long time to do it just right, but Marcia knew it must be done slowly and carefully. When the table was finished it looked lovely! Then it was almost time for dinner, so Marcia got out the vegetable dishes for Mother, and the meat platter, and carried the bread in for her, and filled the salt and pepper shakers.

"Oh, here they come!" cried Marcia when she saw Aunt Mae and Uncle Jim drive up to the house.

Aunt Mae noticed how pretty the table looked and Marcia felt very good when Mother told her what a fine little helper she had received for a Mother's Day gift.

"I never knew dinner could taste so good!" Marcia smiled as they ate the meal.

"That is because you helped to make it enjoyable for others," Mother smiled back. "It tastes better to me, too, because you helped to get things ready." "Then every day will be happier for you, Mother," Marcia told her, "because every day I shall help you just as I have today."—Sunshine for Little People.

Mother's Busy Day

Florence Isaacson

AREN'T you coming out to play?" Neola asked Emily as she entered the front hall where Emily was wiping down the stairs.

"Well, I can't come out this morning," Emily said. "I have to work as this is Mother's busy day."

Neola thought a second. "Why," she said, "this is just why I came out so early. It is my mother's busy day and she does not like to have me around in the way when she is so busy."

"Well," Emily said, "I have to help on Mother's busy day."

Neola walked slowly home. She had a feeling that it would be nice to have her mother need her in the house on her busy day, instead of wanting to get her out of the way. "I guess I do make more trouble than anything else, but I am going in and see if I can be of some use."

"Mother," she said, taking off her coat, "can't I help you on your busy day? Isn't there something I could do?"

"Well," Mother said, looking a bit surprised, "I would like the front stairs wiped down if you think that you could do it well."

Neola knew that she could do it well if she made up her mind to, and so she went at it with a will. When it was all finished she went to the kitchen. There she saw a great pile of baking dishes in the sink. "May I do those dishes, Mother?" she asked.

"Why, that would be a wonderful help," Mother said.

After that Neola found more jobs and she was busy until afternoon.

"Well," Mother said, when they were finished and ready to sit down, "if I always had help like that I don't think I would have so many extra busy days."

"Then was I really of some use, Mother?" Neola asked. "You see, I was trying to be so useful that you would not want me to go out and play and keep out of your way on your busy days."

"Well, if you had kept out of my way, today," Mother said, "I would still be working."

Neola laughed. "Well," she said, "I'm never going to run out and keep out of the way on your busy day again."—Sunshine for Little People.

Mother's Heart

AVERY pretty story is told by Stuart Robertson. A little girl was sitting on her mother's knee. She was very fond of her mother, and called her her "very own." Like one who was rejoicing over very precious treasures, she was touching, one after the other, the features of her mother's face with her little fingers—her mother's lips, her eyes, her cheeks, her hair. After awhile she said, "Mummy, can I see your heart?" The mother said, "I don't know about that, but you can look into my eyes and see if you can see anything." The child climbed up and peered in and then cried out gleefully, "I can see your heart, mummy, and there is a wee girl away in there, and it's me!"

What is in your heart, Mother? Is it selfishness, hate, envy, unconcern and worldliness? or is it the love of God and love for your own? Remember that there is nothing human so irresistible or so unselfish as Mother's love.—Selected.

A Corpse a Church Member for Twenty Years!

Though the pastor meant to be complimentary in his reference to the deceased deacon, his language was illy chosen. Said he, as he gesticulated toward the casket, "This corpse has been a member of my church for twenty years!" Legion are the spiritual corpses whose names clutter up church rolls. Only Holy Ghost power can breathe the breath of spiritual life into their slumbering souls.—Selected.

KNOWING HOW

"... that thou mayest know how . . .," wrote Paul in 1 Timothy 3:16 to the leaders of the early church, the elders, deacons and their wives. Paul was instructing them that they might know how to become better leaders in the house of God.

In order to realize the most from their efforts, woman's auxiliary workers must know how to accomplish the task that has been given them. Much time, effort and money has been wasted in auxiliaries in the past because of inefficient officers and workers.

We need to know how to win souls.

We need to know how to enlist indifferent women not only in auxiliary membership but in active service. We need to know how to lead and inspire our youth to a high plane of missionary giving and living; to know how to present spiritual, purposeful programs; to conduct interesting study courses; and to lead our women in planned personal service for the spiritually and physically needy in our communities.

Often we fail, not because we do not wish to accomplish great things for the Master, but because we simply do not know how. A good auxiliary officer must be made to realize the importance of her job and then to be shown how to lead others.

Those who know not and know that they know not can be greatly helped to become more efficient leaders by attending their district and state workshops. "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, . . ." (2 Timothy 2:15).

The following is a suggested outline for woman's auxiliary workshops:

Morning Session

- 9:30—Registration
- 10:00—Hymns
- 10:10—Devotions
- 10:20—"Know Them Which Labor Among You," (1 Thessalonians 5:12)
- Recognition of Officers, Speakers and Auxiliaries
- 10:30—"Know How to Plan Challenging Programs"
- 10:45—"Know How to Publicize"
- 10:55—"The Know How of Vacation Bible Schools"
- 11:10—"Know How to Win Souls," Playlet
- 11:30—Special Music with Missionary Message
- 12:00—Benediction

Afternoon Session

- 1:00—"Know Your Publications and Literature," Display Table
- 1:15—Devotions
- Special Music, "Teach Me to Pray, Lord"
- The Lord's Prayer in Unison
- Departmental Sessions, "That thou mayest know how . . ."
- To Lead an Auxiliary
- To Enlist and Promote
- To Foster Youth Auxiliaries
- To Conduct an Interesting Study Course
- To Emphasize Stewardship and Prayer
- To Direct Personal Service
- To Keep Accurate Records and Reports
- 2:15—Assembly
- Announcements
- Adjournment

The suggested theme for the workshop is "Knowing How." The purpose should be "That thou mayest know how . . ." (1 Timothy 3:15).

Convention

Attention N. C. Woman's Auxiliaries of Eastern District

Mrs. Ben Sutton, study course chairman of the North Carolina Eastern District of Woman's Auxiliaries, pleads with all auxiliaries of the Eastern District to remember the project which they adopted at the last convention. This project was the support of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Willey Jr. All auxiliaries are requested to send their pledges in immediately to the district treasurer, Mrs. Rom Mallard, Trenton, North Carolina.

Also at the last convention all auxiliaries represented at the meeting were given a leaflet explaining the work of the executive board in which there was a blank for each auxiliary to fill out. Mrs. Sutton reminds all auxiliaries to complete these blanks and send them also to Mrs. Rom Mallard, Trenton, North Carolina.

Mrs. Sutton makes the following statements: "To carry out our adopted missionary project each auxiliary in our district would have to pledge at least $5 per month. However, we know that some auxiliaries are stronger than others. Therefore we do not expect each auxiliary to make the same pledge, but the stronger auxiliaries should make up for the smaller pledges of the weaker auxiliaries. In Matthew 18:19 we find the following message: 'Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven.' Co-workers, let us make this project of ours a matter of much prayer. We can claim the promises of our Lord just for the asking."

Mrs. Sutton also reminds the youth chairman of the Eastern District that all offerings collected through daily vacation Bible schools should be donated to the missionary project and should be earmarked for the project so the district treasurer will know just where the money should go.

Any auxiliary which has not received a pledge card regarding the support of the missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Willey Jr., may use the blank below to make a pledge:

STATE MISSIONS NEWS INCLUDED AS SUBMITTED FROM THE FIELD

From the Field

Eldridge, Ala.
April 10, 1956

Dear Brother Riggs:

This $15.72 is offering from our Eldridge, Alabama, Free Will Baptist Church. We placed the offering in the home treasury so as to write a check and save a money order fee. We are small but we feel good to do a little for all of our enterprises.

In Him,
W. F. Ryland, Pastor
Free Will Baptist Children's Home

Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find offering of $10.78 from the Woman's Auxiliary of the Oak Ridge Free Will Baptist Church, for the Foreign Mission Board.

Yours truly,
Miss Barbara Beverly

Merrimon, N. C.
April 10, 1956

Dear Mr. Riggs:

During the pre-Easter week of prayer sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary and Young People's Auxiliary an offering was received. We decided to send this offering to the Foreign Mission Board to be used for whatever it is needed most.

Enclosed money order $16.00.

Yours truly,
Marie Cannon

Springdale, Arkansas
April 10, 1956

Rev. Lewis Barker

Dear Brother Barker:

The Phillip's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church of the Old Mount Zion Association is sending a small offering for the foreign mission work.

We received a letter from Brother Riggs telling us that Easter Sunday had been designated as foreign mission Sunday, and the Phillip's Chapel Church wants to help in carrying the gospel to all the world.

I don't know if you are the one that we should send this offering to or not, but we wanted the state to get credit for it and I didn't know anyone else to send it to. So if you aren't the one please send it on.

Tommie Day

Pamplico, South Carolina
April 21, 1956

Dear Mr. Riggs:

Enclosed you will find a check in the amount of $38.70 for foreign missions, which we received as a special offering at the pre-Easter week of prayer from Beulah Free Will Baptist Church Auxiliary. We would like for it to go as follows: $10.00 to Mrs. Josephine Stevens, $6.00 to Miss Laura Belle Barnard and $10.00 to the Hannas. Give the rest the way you see best and give South Carolina credit for this. We are trying to help witness for Him, Jesus, in giving our little.

Yours in His service,
Mrs. G. D. Jones

Charleston Heights, South Carolina
April 21, 1956

Dear Brother Riggs:

Enclosed you will find a money order for five dollars ($5.00) from the Sunday School of the First Free Will Baptist Church, Charleston, South Carolina.

The money was raised through our birthday offering plan. It's not much, but we pray the Lord will use it for His glory. The money is to be applied to the Hersey's fund.

Yours in Christ,
D. J. Granger

Lord, Who Ordainest For Mankind

Lord, who ordainest for mankind
Benignant toils and tender cares,
We thank Thee for the ties that bind
The mother to the child she bears.

We thank Thee for the hopes that rise
Within her heart, as day by day
The dawning soul, from those young eyes,
Looks with a clearer, steadier ray.

And, grateful for the blessing given
With that dear infant on her knee,
She trains the eye to look to heaven,
The voice to lisp a prayer to Thee.

Such thanks the blessed Mary gave
When from her lap the Holy Child,
Sent from on high to seek and save
The lost of earth, looked up and smiled.

All Gracious! grant to those who bear
A mother's charge the strength and light
To guide the feet that own their care
In ways of love and truth and right.

—William Cullen Bryant.

Do—Done

A man in my church was converted from a life of sin and became a deacon. One day, when he was crossing a railway track, a switch engine came along and the engineer called out to him, "John, don't you want a ride?" He said, "Yes," and climbed up into the engine.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Jessie G. Williams

To the family of the late
Mr. Jesse G. Williams:

Dear Friends:

It is difficult for us to write this letter because of the lack of words to express our heart-felt sympathy to you because of the loss of your loving husband, a wonderful father and our friend, the late Mr. Jessie G. Williams.

We cannot understand why God saw fit to take him home when he was loved so much, but we all know that our God is good and perfect and has never made a mistake.

We have enjoyed working with Brother Williams on the board of the Free Will Baptist Home for Children, Turberville, South Carolina. We know he was a man of God and let the Holy Spirit lead him each time he entered into business and discussions while at any board meeting. Brother Williams was an inspiration and a blessing to each one he came into contact with.

While we mourn the loss of our brother in Christ, we know that heaven is made brighter because of his presence there.

May God bless each of you and remember God's grace is sufficient.

The Board Members of the Free Will Baptist Home for Children

The engineer was a young convert, and John tried to draw him out. After talking awhile, John Morrison said to him, "You have got a different religion from mine." "How is that, John?" replied the engineer. "I thought we both had the same religion." "No," he said, "you have a religion of two letters, mine is one of four letters." "How do you make that out?" "Well," said John, "your religion is D-O. You are all the time talking about what to do. My religion is D-O-N-E. I am resting in what Jesus Christ has done when He bore my sins in His own body on the Cross."

Men and women, always rest all of your hope for acceptance before God upon the finished work of Christ upon the Cross.—Rev. A. R. Torrey, in the Manna.

The Church in Antioch

(Lesson for May 20)

Lesson: Acts 11:19-30.

Golden Text: Acts 20:35.

I. INTRODUCTION

God will not be satisfied until He has seen man completely obey the Great Commission. His sovereign will must be done. He was not satisfied, even in the beginning of the Christian Church, with just a partial obedience to Him. He saw to it that some of the believers moved completely outside the borders of Israel with their message of life in Christ.

The gospel goes to other nations and to the islands of the sea. Antioch was the capital of Syria, Cyprus was an island in the Mediterranean Sea, and Cyrene an important Greek city of the northern coast of Africa. The believers were dispersed to these distant places by the same persecution which sent other believers to Samaria, Damascus and places inside Palestine. We should notice, however, that the gospel was preached only to the Jews who lived in these far-away places: no attempt seemed to have been made to bring the gentiles into the Kingdom of God.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. There are many people who still don't know that to persecute the Church is to make it grow (Vs. 19).

2. When the hand of the Lord directs His servants, their efforts are sure to get good results (Vv. 20, 21).

3. A man who has the grace of God in his heart is happy when he sees the work of grace in others (Vv. 22, 23).

4. Nothing will equip a man for God's service like righteousness, faith, and the fullness of the Spirit (Vs. 24).

5. When a consecrated preacher needs a helper in his church, he looks for a man who is on the altar too (Vv. 25, 26).

6. When the Holy Spirit moves a man to speak, it is safe to count on what he says (Vv. 27, 28).

7. Nothing is more evident of brotherly love than willingness to sacrifice for those in need (Vv. 29, 30).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. In the Jerusalem church the apostles had been prominent, Peter apparently being the chief preacher, at least in the beginning. He was in the Lord's plan the apostles to the circumcision; i. e., the Jews (Galatians 2:7, 8). He had been instrumental in the winning of the first gentile convert, Cornelius, but his labors were chiefly among his own people. From this time on Jerusalem and Peter fade into the background as new leaders are raised up for the new advance in missionary activity.—The Bible Illustrator.

2. The church at Jerusalem was concerned enough to send a teacher to edify the saints of God. This church had a heart, that love was expressed in action. As members of the same body the saints at Jerusalem realized their interrelationships with others, their interdependence as members of the body of Christ and graciously sent an ambassador who brought blessing to them and refreshed the saints.

3. Barnabas was a man of concern for the saints even as the church at Jerusalem manifested its love for the people of God. It is not revealed clearly in this section of Scripture but there is no doubt but that Barnabas realized the need for Paul's ministry at Antioch—a teaching, spiritual ministry to these newborn babes and one might surmise also that there was a need for a deeper instruction, of which Paul was quite capable, for the older saints of God. Barnabas was concerned enough to seek out Paul and persuade him to come to Antioch also. Here then is the concern of a church for the saints; also the concern of the individual for the saints of God and this is just as it should be.—Selected.

4. Acts 11:26, where it gives us the origin of the word Christian, marks a rich event in history. Strictly speaking, it means one who aspires to be Christ-like, who follows Jesus, one who is Christ's own. The individual Christian should aspire to a life that will make the outside world think of Jesus. Church history has marked a dividing of the way in some instances, in the fact that there have been ministers and laymen who trained themselves to attract attention to the church; whose discipline and style and proposed ideals were designed to make people think of some cult or religious denomination. Intelligent people from the non-Christian world have come to the Christian countries and made this observation. They have made the remark, that if our missionaries and advocates would present Jesus, rather than the church, there would be more magnetism and success in our methods. The church has its place, but blessed is the church that puts Christ first.—Selected.

5. "... preaching the Lord Jesus" (Acts 11:20).

When Spurgeon was criticized for a sameness in his messages, he admitted, "Perhaps they are right. It is true that no matter where I take my text, whether it be in the Old Testament or the New, I immediately hit across country to Jesus Christ, and preach Him and His saving grace."—Moody Monthly.

6. Eva Stuart Watt describes missionary work in the Belgian Congo, and says, "Even among the enemies of the gospel there was growing a secret admiration for those whose lives were out and out for God. The term, Bakristu ya kweli was often heard on heathen lips. It means 'real Christians.' Far and wide they were known as men of truth, and men whose prayers got answered. One day the paramount chief had a big court case in which a Christian was charged with hiding a Mabudu prisoner. At the tribunal, the chief said to the accused, 'Tell me, did you hide that man?' 'No, Chief, I didn't.' Then, turning to his soldiers, he said, 'You liars, the lot of you! This man is a Bakristu ya kweli: he couldn't tell a lie.'"—The S. S. Times.

7. Dr. W. Leon Tucker tells of a great street demonstration in New York City in which twelve thousand persons marched. In the procession were three sight-seeing motor cars packed full of men, women, and children. In one was a judge of the Court of Appeals, and in the last one was a ragged street boy. On the sides of the cars it said, "These people have all been saved from burning buildings by the New York firemen." Then back of the cars marched the men who had saved them, wearing their medals, while hundreds of thousands of people cheered them. Think of the eternal joy that will thrill the hearts of those who, following their Lord and disregarding the consequences, have spent their lives "pulling men out of the fire."—Every-Member Evangelism.

Every church at its best is a missionary society (not just the women who have special missionary meetings); and the Lord Jesus will show every church where the missionaries are who should be supported by prayer and substance.

Hookerton, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Friendship Church, Greene County, held its regular monthly meeting on Friday afternoon, April 20, with Mrs. Mary Braxton and Mrs. Sallie Stanley as co-hostesses.

Mrs. R. L. Norville, president, presided over the 19 members and 4 visitors present. The devotions was led by Mrs. Lyman Morgan, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Norville.

Following the business session, Mrs. Carl Tyson introduced the program for the afternoon. Those participating on the program were: Mrs. Johnny Halloman, Mrs. R. L. Norville, Mrs. Douglas Norville and Mrs. Zaddock Cobb. Mrs. Bennett Tyson dismissed the group with prayer. Afterwards the group enjoyed refreshments and a social period.

Tulsa, Okla.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Trinity Temple Free Will Baptist Church sponsored an all day season of prayer on April 3, 1956. On April 17 the auxiliary was led in a study of the Yearbook of Programs by Cleo Sawyer. There were 10 ladies present at this meeting.

A business meeting was held on April 24, 1956, with 30 ladies present. At this meeting secret pals were chosen during the business session. The average monthly attendance for the Trinity Woman's Auxiliary for the month of April was 20.

"I've Missed It At Last!"

A young man, who through the years, had neglected "so great salvation," lay dying. Said he to the physician, "Tell me honestly how long I have to live." Said the doctor, "Young man, I am sorry to tell you, but you can't live out the night!" Despairingly, the young man said, "I've missed it at last! I've missed it at last!" The doctor, a Christian, asked, "What have you missed?" "I have missed eternal life!" The doctor did his best to cause the young man to trust himself to the mercy of God, and related to him the story of the dying thief who, with his latest breath, prayed, "Lord remember me," and was forgiven. The doctor seemingly failed, for the young man went out into eternity saying, "I've missed it at last!"

Warningly, God's Word says, "He, that being often reprov'd hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy" (Proverbs 29:1). —Selected.

AYDEN, NORTH CAROLINA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 16, 1956

NEW CHURCH USED FIRST TIME, MAY 6, 1956

Under the directions of the Mission Board of the Central Conference of the Original Free Will Baptists of North Carolina, the Rev. Frank Davenport, missionary, began cottage prayer meetings with the people of Dawson's Station Community in the middle of January of this year. According to Mr. Davenport, there was such a fine group of enthusiastic people in this community that on March 23, 1956, the Faith Free Will Baptist Church was organized with 34 charter members. This service was conducted at Hull Road Free Will Baptist Church near Snow Hill, North Carolina.

On May 6, 1956, the new church building was used for the first time with 82 persons present. The building is a 32 feet by 50 feet brick veneered structure. On the inside the walls are of white plaster and the floor and woodwork are of a natural finish. Plans are in the making to add an educational building which will be joined on the back of the sanctuary.

Revival services began May 13, and will run through the 20 with the Rev. Frank Davenport as the evangelist. The church is located on Route 1, Kinston, North Carolina, and is two miles west of Mewborn's Cross Roads.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services which begin each evening at eight o'clock.

EDITORIAL

WRITERS' CONFERENCE

Are you reserving the time, June 18-21, 1956, for the Free Will Baptist Writers' Conference to be held at Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina? We hope you are planning to attend this third annual Free Will Baptist Writers' Conference. The conference will begin with worship services on Monday evening, June 18. The intervening days through Thursday, June 21, at noon will be scheduled for constructive activities.

The primary purpose of these conferences is to foster and encourage religious writing. This is the time of the annual conference of the editor of Free Will Baptist publications with his staff of writers. These writers of Sunday school and league periodicals are dispersed throughout the nation, and this meeting is the only time of the year at which the editor has personal contact and fellowship with some of them. Therefore, if we are to constantly improve our literature, it is imperative that the writers of manuscript and the editor have these meetings annually to discuss their problems and plan for such improvements as can be made.

The Board of Directors of The Free Will Baptist Press, in underwriting most of the expense of the conference, is making possible, not only this annual meeting of the editorial staff, but also professional counseling and instruction in the field of journalism. Last year we had Dr. Roy E. Carter from the school of journalism of the University of North Carolina as instructor and counselor. He conducted one hour of instruction each morning, and held individual conferences with the writers each afternoon. The same type of service is planned for the conference this year.

In addition to the counselor's service, some of the highlights of the conference will be devotional and worship services conducted by members of the staff, points of doctrine discussed and explained by qualified persons, a study of style in religious writing, sight-seeing and fellowship.

Who should attend the writers' conference? In addition to the members of the staff of writers who are expected to be there, anyone engaged in religious writing or who wishes to receive instruction in this field is urged to attend—ministers, church and auxiliary reporters, all who aspire to do religious writing.

Sleeping quarters in the college dormitory may be secured at a nominal cost and meals will be served in the college cafeteria. Members of the editorial staff will have priority on the college rooms, but some rooms will be available for others. If you plan to come for the conference and desire reservations, please be sure to contact The Editor, The Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, North Carolina.

HOME MISSIONS

The front cover of this issue features a beautiful brick church building which has come into being, together with an enthusiastic group of members, in an almost unbelievably short time. For the benefit of all our readers we should like to explain what made this accomplishment possible.

In its annual session, September, 1955, the Central Conference of North Carolina Free Will Baptists authorized its mission board to employ someone to work in the interest of organizing new churches within its bounds. The conference also endorsed a $5 club whose aim would be to secure money with which to help new church organizations in building houses of worship. The plan, as explained by its sponsors, was to enlist as many people as possible who would give five dollars each as a donation to every new church group when its building program was begun. Furthermore, in addition to this source of finances, the new church group might apply to the Church Finance Association, Incorporated, an organization sponsored by the North Carolina State Convention of Free Will Baptists, for a loan to assist in the building.

Immediately after the conference meeting, its mission board employed the Rev. Frank Davenport as its missionary. Each church was asked to contribute two dollars per week toward his support. In the relatively short time since he began his work this church has been organized and built, a mission point at Pinetops, North Carolina, is about ready for organization into a church, and another mission point at Scotland Neck, North Carolina, is progressing nicely.

This is an example of what can be done when groups of people plan carefully, pray earnestly and work diligently. It is marvelous how God can multiply the efforts of a few to produce such great results! We make this statement because we are informed that only about one third of the churches in the conference have been supporting this program, and the $5 Club has received only a fraction of the support that might have been given it. We certainly do not mean that those directly connected with the program, and those participating in it, have not done a marvelous work. The facts speak for themselves in this instance.

We are aware that this type of activity is being carried on throughout the nation by our people, not only at the local level, but also at the state and national levels. We rejoice to see that the denomination is experiencing an almost phenomenal growth. In some instances the work is carefully planned and prayerfully executed; in others there may be room for improvement; but in all cases, the work could be much better supported. What is your church doing, and what are you doing individually in supporting the programs in your state, and also the program of national home missions?

The world's maxim is: "Business before pleasure." The believer on Christ's maxim is: "Christ before business." If the latter were followed more fully, with many it would be: "Christ first, altogether and always."—Selected.

Cragmont Assembly News

J. E. Wooten, Manager

ANOTHER conference season is drawing near at Cragmont Assembly Inc., Black Mountain, North Carolina, and we are trying to put things in readiness for a happy, prosperous and successful season. It is our desire and prayer that many of our people, both young and adults, will arrange to come with the group of their choice, or if that is not possible, select your own time during an open week and bring a group of your own with you. Let us know in advance when you wish to come and we will make arrangements for you.

The work of repairs and improvements has been done just as fast as funds allowed. The drive by Mrs. L. E. Ballard has not met our hopes, and little has been done that can be seen by passers-by. The work has been confined to urgent needs to meet the health department's requirements. But there is still a blessing waiting for everyone. Won't you come and receive yours?

The following are the scheduled conferences for the season as they are now confirmed:

June 4-8—Ministers' Conference, Directed by Rev. E. E. Edwards, Chocowinity.

June 18-22—First Youth Conference, Directed by Rev. L. E. Ballard, Box 381, Bladenboro.

July 2-6—Audio-Visual Workshop, Directed by Rev. J. A. Evans, Box 203, Wilson.

August 6-10—Bible Conference, Directed by Rev. Wayne Smith, 496-A Lynn Road, Durham.

August 13-18—Second Youth Conference, Directed by Rev. L. E. Ballard, Bladenboro.

August 20-25—Woman's Conference, Directed by Mrs. L. E. Ballard, Box 381, Bladenboro.

August 22-24—Blue Ridge Association.

August 27-31—Fountain Taylor Family Week.

Some conferences have been canceled, for one reason or another, and others have failed to materialize; therefore, we have several open weeks during the summer. Come and enjoy the summer at Cragmont.

Are the Heathens Really Condemned?

It is amazing to learn that there are still many people who doubt whether or not those who have never heard the gospel will be lost. Shall superstitions tend to excuse the sins of unevangelized people? Not so, says the following Scripture: "... he that believeth not is condemned already" (John 3:18); "For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law: ..." (Romans 2:12); "... death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned" (Romans 5:12); "... no man cometh unto the Father, but by me" (John 14:6); "Neither is there salvation in any other: ..." (Acts 4:12). Every human being on earth is doomed by his sin unless he hears the message of God's pardon and yields to Jesus Christ. The Christian who can offer God's pardon to others of the human family and does not do so, will answer for their blood to almighty God.

Missionary Conference in Michigan

The annual session of the Board of Foreign Missions of the National Association of Free Will Baptists was held in the First Free Will Baptist Church in Hazel Park, Michigan. In conjunction with the board meeting, a missionary conference was sponsored by the host church. Several of the board members, Rev. Dan Cronk and Miss Esther Ruehle were speakers at the conference. This indeed was a great time of fellowship. The total offerings amounted to well over $1,200. We praise the Lord for the interest of our Michigan churches to foreign missions.

At this session of the board meeting, definite steps were taken to open a new field in the Ivory Coast on the continent of Africa, and perhaps a field in the Belgian Congo. Also, we hope to soon have missionaries in South America. The board approved a budget of $103,000 to be recommended to the National Association for 1957. Please pray that the Lord may lead in each of these decisions.

Some Startling Facts

We are told by the most recent information that there are 7,062 people born in the United States every day. A baby is born every eight seconds. This would give a population increase of two and one-half million per year or a populace equal to the size of Oklahoma or Tennessee. We are told that in ten years we will have an increase in population of sixty-five million people. If we project these figures on a universal scale we

The Incarnation of Christ

(Editor's Note: This is an adaptation of a message delivered at the Second Union Meeting of the North Carolina Central Conference, held on April 28, 1956.)

THE central doctrine of Christianity is the incarnation. Jesus took our nature upon Him, and knew by experience our happiness, our sorrows, our temptations and our little strength. Assuming our limitations, He showed us how to live. He revealed to us our own possibilities.

Yet the Christian usually studies the supernatural rather than the human character of Jesus. In the face of His clear doctrine, we persuade ourselves that religion has to do with the next world rather than with this. We think of the Kingdom of God as a state to be entered only after death, though He taught us to pray, "Thy kingdom come . . . in earth, . . ." (Matthew 6:10).

It is unfortunate that Christians leave to unbelievers or half believers the privilege of emphasizing the humanity of Jesus. For most of us, apparently, the doctrine of the incarnation is very difficult. We are familiar with human persons, but we decline to believe in a divine person; or we can believe in a divine person, but not in a divine person who is also human. Those who deny the divinity of Christ, yet admire His human character, are half believers if there are such, and so are those who think themselves orthodox, yet base their faith in Jesus on those incidents told of Him which could be true of no other human being. He came among men as one of them, as just another man. He was not introduced as a god, nor were His contemporaries asked to subscribe to a creed before they could meet Him. But when they had met Him and had caught, through His presence and His words, a glimpse of His spirit, they felt He was more than man; and knowing Him still better, they believed He was divine.

At least some of them did. Of all who first heard Him, perhaps only a few were convinced. Others saw at once that He would be dangerous. It would seem that the number of His friends and the number of His foes increased at an equal pace, until the enemies for a moment got the upper hand and killed Him.

The Gospel of John has set out to convince the world that this Jesus was not

(John 1:1-14)

Daniel F. Rivers
Lake Butler, Florida

only God, but that He was also man. He was all God because He was with God in the creation. Even more, it was through Christ that the creating was done. He was all man because He took upon Himself our complete limitations.

Our text is the first 14 verses of John's Gospel. The learned Francis Junius, in an account he gives of his own life, tells how he was infested in his youth with loose notions in religion, and by the grace of God was wonderfully recovered by reading accidentally these verses in a Bible which his father had designedly laid in his way. He says that he observed such an authority and majesty in the style, such divinity in the argument, that his flesh trembled and he was struck with such amazement that he scarcely knew who he was or what he was doing for a whole day. Let us inquire what is in these strong lines.

It is enough to say that Jesus is the Word of God, for this is that of which John speaks. When the learned Jewish philosopher, Philo, traveled to Alexander to preach the Jewish religion to the Greeks, he found in their language no word for God. Words are but packages in which ideas are wrapped when they are exchanged, and it frequently happens that different people use different packages as containers for the same idea. This is certainly true of two people who speak different languages, and it sometimes happens that those who speak one language are familiar with an idea which those who speak another language do not have. Philo had two courses of action before him: Either he could coin another word, define it and use it; or he could take the Greek word used for the principle of reason which was ho logos and explain that this was what he meant when he said God. He chose the latter course. So to the Greeks' ho logos came to mean the principle of reason which is God.

In the first century of the Christian era there appeared among the Greeks a preacher with a profound mind and a deep conviction who believed that God had appeared among men in the form of a man: a Jew named Jesus, who had been born in a Galilean town called Nazareth. In an attempt to explain Jesus this man wrote the book of John. John took the idea Philo had left and began telling the Greeks that this Jesus was the Word. He said, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God" (John 1:1). In these few simple words he said, "What you mean when you say ho logos, I mean when I say Christ."

There are two aspects to the word—that of thought and of utterance. All the operations of the soul are performed through thought, and the thought is one with the soul. And thus the second Person of the Trinity is fitly called the Word; for He is the first begotten of the Father. That essential wisdom which the Lord possessed, as the soul does its thinking, was in the beginning of God's way. "The LORD possessed me in the beginning of his way, before his works of old" (Proverbs 8:22). Then there is the word uttered, which is speech—the chief and natural indication of the mind. And thus Christ is the Word, for by Him God has in these last days spoken to us (Hebrews 1:2). Christ has made known God's mind to us, as a man's word or speech makes known his thoughts, as far as he pleases, and no further.

John tells of the co-existence with God. God made the world by a word (Psalm 33:6), and that Word was Christ. God made the world by Him, not as a subordinate instrument, but as a co-ordinate agent—not as a workman cuts with his axe, but as the body sees with the eye. Christ is not only the medium of God's telling, but is the message that God tells.

Finally John, in the fourteenth verse, says, "And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, . . ." This expresses Christ's incarnation more clearly than that which went before. By His divine presence He always was in the world, and by His prophets He came to His own. But now that the fullness of time had come, He was sent forth after another manner, made of a woman (Galatians 4:4). God was manifest in the flesh according to the expectations of holy Job, ". . . yet in my flesh shall I see God" (Job 19:26). The human nature of Christ with which He veiled Himself is expressed in two ways:

First, the Word became flesh, "Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; . . ." (Hebrews 2:14). The Socinians agree that Christ is both God and man, but they say that He was man and was made God as Moses said (Exodus 7:1). This is directly contrary to John who said He was God and became man—"In the beginning was the Word, . . . and the Word was God. . . . And the Word was made flesh, . . ." (John 1:1-14). He was made flesh, the meanest part of man. Flesh tells us of the weakness of man, and He (Christ) was crucified through weakness, "For though he was crucified through weakness, yet he liveth by the power of God. . . ." (2 Corinthians 13:4). Flesh tells us of man, mortal and dying (Psalm 78:3); and Christ was put to death in the flesh (1 Peter 3:18). Flesh tells us of man tainted with sin (Genesis 6:3), and Christ, though He was perfectly holy and harmless, yet appeared in the likeness of sinful flesh (Romans 8:3), and was made sin for us (2 Corinthians 5:21). When Adam had sinned God said to him, ". . . for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return" (Genesis 3:19). God said this not only because Adam was made out of dust, but because by sin he had sunk completely into dust. His fall turned him, as it were, all into body. Where there had once been something holy, good and compatible with God, now there was nothing but earthliness. Therefore He that was made a curse for us was made flesh, and condemned sin in the flesh (Romans 8:3).

There is perhaps room to wonder at the fact that the eternal Word should be made flesh, when flesh had come into such an ill name and that He who had made all things should Himself be made flesh, one of the meanest things, and submit to that from which He was at the greatest distance. The voice that ushered in the gospel cried, ". . . All flesh is grass, . . ." (Isaiah 40:6), to make the Redeemer's love more wonderful, who, to redeem and save us, was made flesh, and withered as grass; but the Word of the Lord, even though it had been made flesh, endures forever. Even while in the flesh, it never ceased to be the Word of God.

The second expression of the human nature of Christ is seen in the fact that John says we beheld His glory. Having taken upon Himself the nature of man, He put Himself into the place and condition of other men. The Word might have been made flesh and dwelt among angels; but, having taken a body of the same mold with ours, in it He came and resided in the same world with us. He dwelt among us worms of the earth. The Lord God came and dwelt even among the rebellious (Psalm 68:18). He who had dwelt among angels, those excellent and noble creatures, came and dwelt among us, a generation of vipers and sinners. He dwelt among us, not as a wayfaring Man that tarries but for a night and is gone, not as a tourist that is here today and gone tomorrow, but He dwelt among us—made a long residence among us. He came among us in very mean circumstances, as shepherds that dwell in tents. He did not come to dwell among us as in a palace, but in a tent; for He had not where to lay His head, and was constantly on the move. His stay here was that of a military person or soldier. Soldiers live in tents. He had long since declared war with the seed of the serpent. Now He takes the field in person, sets up His standard, and pitches His tent to prosecute the war. His stay, we observe, was not to be a perpetual thing. He dwelt as in a tent, not as in a home. The patriarchs, by dwelling in tents, confessed that they were strangers in the land and sought the better country. And so did Christ, leaving us an example.

Even though He came into the world veiled with the clothing of sinful flesh, still His glory would shine out. We beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth. The sun is still the fountain of light even when eclipsed by clouds, so Christ is still the brightness of His Father's glory, even when He dwelt among us of the lower world. He was observed by those He dwelt among. He was not revealed to the whole world, but to those He dwelt among. Those who would have no fellowship could not behold His glory. It is true today that man cannot see the true glory of God through Christ, not because that glory has faded, but because man will not allow God to dwell with him in his heart. What evidence did they have of this glory? They saw it. John says in 1 John 1:1, "That . . . which we have seen with our eyes, . . . and our hands have handled, . . ." This was their testimony—they saw and they handled. Christ is seen by those who will submit to the will and design of God.

It is this that we declare unto you—Christ, the Son of the living God came and dwelt on the earth. How do we know? They saw Him. They were competent witnesses—twelve of them, a whole jury of witnesses, simple, plain men, full of integrity, and far from anything of design or intrigue.

What is all the advantage of this Christ's coming into the world? The answer is simple. Look at the observation of John—they saw Him to be sure, but let us not stop there. What did they see? They saw him full of grace and truth—grace to save and truth to deliver—grace and truth, the two things that lost, sinful men stand in greatest need of.

When God Laughed

Marie Manire Chapman

Farmers around Pulaski, New York, who may be tempted to rush out on the Lord's Day to gather in a hay crop threatened by rain, usually think twice before they do it. Someone is sure to remind them of what happened to Frank Potter.

Frank's hay was down and raked and the Sunday morning sky was dark and forbidding. It wouldn't be the first time he'd worked on Sunday, and as his Godly neighbors passed on their way to church, they could see his wagon and team out in the field. Frank was hard at it, pitching the hay up on the wagon.

It was thundering and lightning, getting ready for a real storm when Frank pulled into the barn with the last load. Surveying with satisfaction his finished Sunday job, he boasted to his shocked neighbors,

"There! I got the hay all in, and without the Lord's help either!"

The words had hardly escaped his lips when his horrified neighbors saw a bolt of lightning strike the barn and watched as the rescued hay crop, barn and all, went up in flames.

SALINA SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY APRIL 29, 1956

The 21st annual Sunday School Rally of the Saline Association of Arkansas was conducted Sunday, April 29, 1956, with the Pleasant Valley Free Will Baptist Church, with Rev. C. E. Collins as president and Hazel Mann as secretary. Services opened at 9:45 a. m. with the pastor, the Rev. Lloyd Williams, conducting the devotional. The nine schools represented each presented programs and are as follows: Pleasant Valley, Oak Grove, Free Hill, Macedonia, Fair View, Spring Hill, Harmony, Willoughby and Rose Hill. All program committees felt richly rewarded for their efforts when they saw and heard the joy, gladness and eagerness with which even the small children rendered their parts on the program. Let us remember Proverbs 22:6 which reads: "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." May we be more thankful for our youth and keep them keeping on.

PERFECT LOVE

"... perfect love casteth out fear: ..."
1 John 4:18).

A POPULAR saying of the late President F. D. Roosevelt was "There is nothing to fear but fear itself." His saying goes back to the days of Julius Caesar. The truth of the statement holds today. If there is perfect love in our heart, there will be no fear. If you have perfect love for the work you are doing, there will be no need of fear. Undue anxiety for the future will fade out of your life if there is a perfect love for Christ in your heart. Unrest and fear goes with a guilty conscience. When one has satisfied his convictions concerning the deep, eternal things as they apply to the soul, there is no need of fear.

The Lord Himself taught us to take no thought for the things of tomorrow. What He meant was that we should not fear what tomorrow may hold. Let tomorrow take care of itself. Do the best you can today and you will be better prepared to meet tomorrow. How you spend today determines how you will spend tomorrow. If you are ill-tempered, crafty, hard-to-get-along-with and sinful today, no doubt, you will be the same tomorrow. If you repent of your sins today and make restitution for all wrong deeds today, tomorrow will be a brighter day. Live right today and there will be no fear for what tomorrow may hold.

There are some who fear that they will do too much for Christ and the church. What they really fear is that they will do more than the other fellow. I have heard many people say "I'm unwilling to do my share." The share they refer to is the dividing off of the work in equal amounts with all others involved when, as a matter of fact, they are qualified to do much more than the others. Some people are gifted in chopping corn, others are not. Those who can chop more corn and not exert themselves any more than the poor fellow who cannot make good, should be willing to chop more corn.

Christians are aware of the fact that their share is all they can rightly do without comparison to others. My share in the church and for Christ is all that I can possibly do in the work. We should not fear that we will do too much. That is impossible when there is a perfect love for the work in our hearts.

Some people are afraid to testify for Christ in public. A perfect love for Christ will cast out this fear. They seem to think that standing up for Christ is an indication of weakness. To them it is all right for old people, sick people, women and children to testify, but men are big and strong and don't need to be so dependent upon Christ. The devil's desire is to get you to think that Christianity is a sign of weakness. Every real testimony for Christ will make you stronger, and will help you to love Him more. A perfect love for Christ will cast out all fear for what people will say or do.

Perfect love also casts out the fear of death. God's children do not dread to go home. This is born out by the numerous instances of saintly people as they lay upon their deathbeds. Many have prayed earnestly and have asked other Christians to pray that the Lord would take them home immediately. A perfect love for heaven and the presence of the Lord casts out all fear for death and its consequences.

Work Wanted

"I do not want to take someone's job. I only want to help in doing a better job. I am available for supply work or revival meetings, and will expect only my expenses."—Rev. Bertis A. Artman, 11815 Addison Street, North Hollywood, California.

Correction

"I appreciate your publishing my poems in The Free Will Baptist. I am sorry that I did not distinguish clearly that the poem entitled, "The City of the Dead," was not my work, but that it was quoted from memory. This poem was one which I memorized many years ago, and I do not know the author's name. Much as I would like to have the honor, I cannot claim it as my own work. The other poems which I submitted are my very own, and any corrections which are necessary may be made."—Mrs. M. L. Hicks, Manning, South Carolina.

INFORMATION WANTED

"Free Will Baptist families within the state of North Carolina living in any community where there is no Free Will Baptist church are requested to write the North Carolina state missionary, Rev. H. E. Willis, P. O. Box 994, Greensboro, North Carolina. The families in the following cities are especially asked to write: Elkins, Burlington, High Point, Winston-Salem, Reidsville and Greensboro."—Rev. H. E. Willis, P. O. ## Good Advice

(Luke 18:1)

Do not substitute radio or similar services for the regular church service.

Do not live to please other people or the minister, but to please God.

Do not look at the faults of other people without first looking at your own. We always find what we are looking for in life.

Do not criticize other members for not being friendly; it is a sure sign that you are the one at fault. A friendly person is never in want of friends.

Do not be a knocker or a parasite; if you cannot be a booster, stay on the side track.

Do not wear your feelings on your sleeve; if you do, someone will surely hurt them.

Do not criticize the leaders unless you are sure you can do better yourself.

Do not criticize a program before you understand all about it or because it is new. If there were nothing new, progress in the world would cease.

Do not fail to pray, and these things will not happen to you.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Whose faith should be exercised in the healing of a sick person when recovery is prayed for by a Christian worker? Should it be the faith of the one doing the praying or the faith of the one who is sick?—B. H.

Answer: The Christian worker who prays must exercise his faith, otherwise he should not pray for the recovery of the ill person. One who pretends to pray and does not have faith utters empty, powerless, worthless words that in effect are like sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal. I am sure that if we Christians had the faith required that God would delight in performing miracles in answer to our prayers. Jesus said, "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you" (John 15:7); "... If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you" (Matthew 17:20); "Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting" (Matthew 17:21). In John 15:7 the basis of miraculous faith is said to be that of abiding in Christ and Christ's word in the individual. In Matthew 17:20, 21 we are given to understand that a person possessing just a minute bit of faith even that equivalent to a mustard seed renders that man of faith the ability to only speak the commanding word and as great an object as a mountain will move into the place where it is commanded to resort to. In this case the mountain would not need to have faith, but only the man who gives it a commandment to change positions from that which it occupies to that he wishes it to hold. We are told, "And he arose, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm. And he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?" (Mark 4:39, 40). Here the wind had no faith but only Jesus. Jesus' own words indicate that if the disciples had had faith they might have rebuked this same storm with the same results.

When Jesus commissioned the seventy He commanded them, "... heal the sick ..." (Luke 10:9). "And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name. ... Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you. Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven" (Luke 10:17, 19, 20).

No Christian who possesses the gift of healing needs to boast of it as though it was of his own power, but should be humble and submissive, remembering that it with all gifts are from God and to be administered by those whose names are written in heaven. We should all be humbly and eternally grateful because our names are written in the Lamb's book of life. This is far greater riches than having any earthly gift including a personal deed to the whole earth.

Jesus raised Jarius' daughter from the dead, "But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose" (Matthew 9:25). She had no faith. In the same chapter, however, we are told about two blind men whom He healed after He had appealed to them to exercise their faith. "And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, Thou son of David, have mercy on us. And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened; ..." (Matthew 9:27-30). "And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth, ..." (John 11:43, 44). Here Jesus exercises His own faith as He calls Lazarus from the grave. Lazarus' body, being dead four days, had no faith to exercise.

Now let us consider the advantage, value and power in united prayer. Jesus said, "Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them" (Matthew 18:19, 20). "Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: and the prayer of faith shall save the sick, ..." (James 5:14, 15).

Peter and John healed a lame man when there is no evidence given indicating that he had faith or that he even expected them to do more than give him money. "Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk. And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up: and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength. And he leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God" (Acts 3:6-8).

Again, Paul heals a man of Lystra who worked together with Paul in his own healing as both he and Paul exercised faith. "And there sat a certain man at Lystra, impotent in his feet, being a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked: The same heard Paul speak: who steadfastly beholding him, and perceiving that he had faith to be healed, Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped and walked" (Acts 14:8-10).

Many more Scriptures of this type might be sighted, but these are sufficient to prove that it is essential for the man who heals to have faith and that he may heal without his subject having to exercise faith and yet it is to the advantage of both if the Christian worker who does the healing and the person who is to be healed have faith.

The Lighted Pathway

*Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).*

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ" (Colossians 2:8).

The last two weeks you have been reading excerpts from a sermon on the subject, "Unconscious Drifting," from the text found in the first verse of the second chapter of Hebrews. During the next few weeks I want to consider with you some of the teachings of God's Word from which I fear we are surely drifting, some of which are being absolutely forsaken. The text above sounds a warning against this very thing, Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. Now, let us compare these words of warning with the words of Christ as found in the Gospel according to John, "I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive" (John 5:43). Christ here is teaching His followers and would-be followers that in order to have life, nothing more is needed than to come to Him. That one thing only is needed, come to Jesus. A great deal is said in the Bible, both Old and New Testaments, about the absolute necessity of coming to Christ for salvation and continuing with Him in order to be secure in this life and saved for the life to come. It is recorded three times at least in the New Testament that Jesus said, "But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved" (Matthew 10:22; 24:13; Mark 13:13).

It has been, and is more and more becoming so, a great concern to me that so many people are turning from the plain teaching of Christ and going after mere men. He warned us of this very condition, too. In Matthew 24:24 we read in the words of Christ, "For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets; and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect." We are experiencing this very thing right now, but are we heeding the warning?

or are we being deceived by these false Christs and false prophets?

Beware of false lights. Jesus said that He is the light of the world. Many false lights are being held out to us today, but the True Light outshines them all. One morning before light, as we were crossing one of the large rivers in eastern North Carolina, the captain of the boat asked me to steer for awhile as he had some other work that he needed to do. His instructions to me were, "Keep her on the course." Not being able to correctly read the compass, I soon was off course. The captain came into the pilothouse and put the boat on course again, and pointed out a flashing buoy in the far distance, saying, "Do you see that light straight ahead?" When I had assured him that I saw the light, he said, "Head her toward the light. Forget the compass and steer for the light."

We need to forget the lights that are in the world and are of the world, and get sight of the Light of the World and steer the boats of our lives straight toward Him. Then there will be no drifting away from Him or of letting the things which we have heard of the Word of God slip.

In closing let us consider the following very important text, "Thus saith the LORD, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls. . . ." (Jeremiah 6:16).

WILT THOU GO WITH THIS MAN?

(Genesis 24)

I. THE SETTING (Vs. 1)

In an eastern land, the famed land of Israel, we have the background for this most beautiful love story, the union of Isaac and Rebekah. The chapter under consideration is linked with Chapters 22 and 23. In Genesis 22, we have Abraham and Isaac, linked together on Mount Moriah which foreshadows Calvary. In Genesis 23, we have the death of a good helpmeet and devoted mother, Sarah, which presents the passing away of Judaism. In Genesis 24, we have the bridal search, the purpose of the father in sending his servant to woo a bride in a distant land for his only begotten son. The thought of a bride for Isaac originated with the father. It is the outcome of his love for the son, and a desire to bring into blessing one who was as yet a great way off. What a picture of Christ and the Church (Ephesians 5:32)! The purpose was made and the covenant was confirmed before the world was formed. The Church, which is the Bride of Christ, was chosen in Him before the foundation of the world.

II. THE STEPS (Vv. 2-58)

1. Announcement (Vv. 1-9). Abraham selects his most trusted servant to go to Mesopotamia, a journey of 500 miles, to secure a bride for Isaac. Though living in the Land of

2. Arrangements (Vs. 10). What zeal, delight, and promptitude as he commences his journey with supplies, a string of ten camels and the blessing of the patriarch!

3. Arrival (Vv. 11-14). The servant arrives about sundown, and pulls up by a well outside Nahor's city. What does he do? He prays. It was brief, simple, sincere and definite.

4. Assurance (Vv. 15-49). He had hardly finished praying when Rebekah, grandniece of Abraham and second cousin to Isaac, appeared. She gave what was asked and offered what was not asked. Here human desire and divine design meet. The servant knew that his steps had been ordered by the Lord and he related his mission, with dignity and humility. He told about the family history of Isaac (Vv. 35, 36); then he declared his proposal.

5. Acceptance (Vv. 50-58). The servant brings forth jewels of silver, gold and raiment. He presses home the urgency of the mission (Vs. 56). She had heard the story; she had seen the evidences of sincerity and truth that night. Early in the morning the servant is anxious to be on the way and the great question is asked, "Wilt thou go with this man?"—it is the message of God today in the progress of the soul.

III. SEQUEL (Vv. 59-67)

Rebekah said, "Yes!" Another had won her heart. Forgetting the things behind, she was eager to press toward her prize and lover. Her soul thrilled at such a personal, urgent, gracious call. She believed and obeyed; all the way to meet Isaac she had but one song, "Whom having not seen, I love." The scene closes with Isaac's meeting her in the south country, the place of warmth and love. She finds a husband and home; she enters into the blessedness of God's care and thought. Coming to Christ is like a bride coming to a bridegroom—it is for life, forever. Rebekah enters into the atmosphere of love, prayer, meditation and fellowship. So it is with the soul that makes a decision for Christ.

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the original Free Will Baptists)

THE FINAL JUDGMENT AND FINAL RETRIBUTION

"There will be a final judgment, when time and man's probation will close forever."—Treatise.

"Because he hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead" (Acts 17:31).

We have studied the resurrection of the dead in a former article, nevertheless, we will study again the resurrection which leads up to the final judgment. Paul says, "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming" (1 Corinthians 15:22, 23).

Then Comes the End

"Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power. For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death. For he hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith all things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did put all things under him. And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all" (1 Corinthians 15:24-28).

A Message to John and to Us, Delivered By an Angel

John says, "And the angel which I saw stand upon the sea and upon the earth lifted up his hand to heaven, And sware by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things that are therein, that there should be time no longer: But in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets" (Revelation 10:5-7).

The Work of God for Man's Sin Closes

Yes, God is closing out man's probation and delivers the message to John by an angel. "Behold, I come quickly (suddenly): blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book. And I John saw these things, and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which shewed me these things. Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellowservant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God. And he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand. He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according to his work shall be. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last" (Revelation 22:7-13).

The unjust man will have to meet Christ as an unjust criminal. There will be no time to make things right. As he is unjust so will he stand before the Judge of the quick and the dead. So the filthy will remain filthy, as filthiness cannot enter into the city of God. "But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death" (Revelation 21:8).

Certainly, according to the Word of God, the unjust and the filthy cannot have fellowship with God. The very presence of God would be torment to these filthy, lying, unjust, Christ-rejecting, sin-loving followers of Satan. "For he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: Let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is against the mthat do evil" (1 Peter 3:10-12). Remember that God sees and hears what we do and what we say.

"But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, Looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat? Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness. Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless. And account that the longsuffering of our Lord is salvation; even as our beloved brother Paul also according to the wisdom given unto him hath written unto you" (2 Peter 3:10-15). A filthy spot will send us to hell-fire.

"For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad" (2 Corinthians 5:10). "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man. For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good or whether it be evil" (Ecclesiastes 12:13, 14). Jesus said, "But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment" (Matthew 12:36).

"And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened: and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works. And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works. And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire" (Revelation 20:12-15).

We could not study much more convincing Scriptures showing that God is going to wind up the business of this old earth and that the probation of man will close and also showing the fact that those who are not prepared to meet God in peace will have no other chance. The judgment of God will settle the matter forever.

The secret of a bright life is to have brightness in the heart.—Selected.

BOYS and GIRLS

The Twins Go Visiting

Miss Nella Mae Melvin Altha, Florida

CAROL and Harold went to visit Grandfather and Grandmother, who lived in the country, for the weekend. They enjoyed going to visit on the farm very much. Harold liked to help his grandfather feed the cows and horses. This Saturday morning Carol was helping her grandfather with the housework.

"Oh, Grandmother, who lives in the new house on the next farm?" asked Carol.

Grandmother slowly answered, "I have forgotten their name. They are not very friendly people."

"Do they have any children?" questioned Carol again.

"Yes, they have a boy and girl about your size," replied Grandmother.

Carol's eyes brightened as she asked, "May we go over to visit them, Grandmother?"

"Yes, you may if you like," chuckled Grandmother as she smiled down at her little granddaughter.

"Oh, boy!" exclaimed Carol, "I'll go out to the barn and tell Harold!" After she had reached the barn and explained her plans to her twin brother, Carol excitedly remarked, "I'm sure glad we can go and play with them, aren't you, Harold?"

"Sure," shouted Harold, "maybe the boy has a ball and a bat. Then we can really have fun. Oh, say, that must be them there!" he said as they reached the neighbor's front yard.

"Hi, there," called Carol to them as they strolled up the walk.

"Hi," replied the little girl sitting on the steps.

"I'm Carol and this is my twin brother, Harold," Carol explained. "We came over to play with you."

"My name is Judy," the little girl shyly replied as the boy came over and stood behind Harold.

"My name is Jim," he stammered. "We sure are glad you came to play with us."

We are new here and we get quite lonely some all by ourselves."

The twins stayed all morning. Finally they realized it was time for them to go back to Grandmother's before she began to worry about them. As they left, Harold called, "Say, Jim, how about you and Judy going to Sunday school and church with us tomorrow?"

"You mean you go in for that kind of stuff," frowned Jim, "I thought maybe we could play some more in the morning."

"I'll tell you what," said Carol, "you two go with us to Sunday school and then we can play with you again after lunch."

"I don't know about that," Judy said. "You see, we don't ever go to Sunday school. My dad says that Sunday school is for sissies and old folk."

"But," interrupted Jim, "we can ask Mom and Dad about it."

The twins slowly scuffed along the dirt road back to Grandfather's farm. After a moment of silence Carol spoke, "You know, Harold, I sure feel sorry for Jim and Judy. They have never been to Sunday school. That means they don't even know anything about Jesus and His dying to save them or anything."

At lunch the twins told Grandfather and Grandmother all about their visit with Jim and Judy. Then quite sorrowfully they told their grandparents how their neighbors felt about going to Sunday school and church.

"Well," commented Grandfather, "we'll just have to pray that they will somehow learn different." And that is just what the twins did. All afternoon they went about with a prayer in their hearts for their little playmates.

Sunday morning was bright and beautiful. The twins jumped out of bed and after they had eaten breakfast they scurried upstairs to straighten up their rooms. Afterwards they began dressing to go to Sunday school and church. As Harold buttoned up his new blue shirt he said,

"Boy! I hope Jim and Judy can go to Sunday school with us, don't you?"

"I sure do," replied Carol. "Let's go sit on the porch until Grandfather and Grandmother are ready."

"Okay," returned Harold. "Say! Look!" he shouted when he reached the front door. There coming down the road were Jim and Judy.

"Hi," the little neighbors called as they raced up the walk. They explained to the twins that their daddy had given them permission to go to Sunday school and church.

Carol and Judy sat on the front steps. "What do they do in Sunday school?" asked Judy. "We've never been before and I'm all excited!"

Happily Carol answered, "Oh, we sing pretty songs and talk to Jesus by praying. Then the teacher tells us a story from the Bible about Jesus and how He came to save us."

Finally Grandmother and Grandfather came out all dressed up and ready to go. The children hopped in the back seat of Grandfather's car and they were soon well on the way to Sunday school and church.

Jim and Judy listened very carefully to what the teacher told them. When she finished her morning story about Jesus she asked the children if they wanted to ask any questions about the lesson. Jim was the first to speak. "You mean that Jesus really came here on earth and gave His life for me?" he asked.

"That's exactly right," the teacher told him. "All you have to do to let Him save you is to ask Him to come into your heart. Would you like to do that?"

Right then and there Jim and Judy bowed their little heads and asked the Lord Jesus to come into their hearts. The twins, Carol and Harold, too, bowed their heads and thanked Jesus for letting them bring their friends to Sunday school to worship and learn about Him. They knew that now they would have even more fun with Jim and Judy since they loved Jesus too.

Attention All Speech Contestants!

All contestants who are entering the Declamation Contest sponsored by the Woman's National Auxiliary Convention at the National Association of Free Will Baptists at Huntington, West Virginia, are requested to appear before the judges on Monday night, July 9, 1956, at 9:30 in the Huntington Auditorium. Both G. T. A.'s and Y. P. A.'s should appear before the judges at this time.

It is necessary to meet at this time so that the winners and runners-up can appear before the convention body on Tuesday morning. These eliminations are necessary because of the growing interest and the increase in number of the contestants.

We trust that this will not dampen the interest in the contest. It promises to be just as interesting as any we've ever sponsored. Anyone who wishes many attend the eliminations.

Morrisville, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Shady Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Durham County, held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening, May 3, with Mrs. J. L. Clements presiding. Mrs. Joe Haas led the group in the opening prayer, and Mrs. Fred Carpenter read the minutes and called the roll. Mrs. E. P. Hildebran presented the treasurer's report.

Following the business session, the program, "We Need Revival for Such a Time as This," written by Mrs. J. B. Bloss of Columbia, Tennessee, was presented. The meeting was adjourned with prayer by Mrs. J. R. Hildebran. Mrs. Dock Hoyle and Mrs. Buck Carpenter were hostesses to the 12 members and one visitor, Mrs. Kermit Riggs.

Durham, N. C.—The Aileen Calvery Auxiliary of the Shady Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Durham County, met, April 24, with 19 girls present at the meeting. A special guest, Mrs. Ruth Riggs, was also present. Carolyn Clayton took charge of the devotions and Doris and Janice Parrish rendered a special number in song.

The program was given by the following girls: Janice Clayton, Janice Parrish, Mary Knowles and Joyce Clayton. The girls voted to give $5 for missions. Refreshments were served by Sandra Mason and Janice Clayton.

Middlesex, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Friendship Church, Johnston County, conducted its regular monthly meeting on May 4, at the home of Mrs. Polly Ann Congleton. Mrs. Henrietta Strickland led the group in the opening prayer and the Scripture reading. Mrs. Sara Lee Glover took charge of the devotions.

Mrs. Mary Strickland, president, presided over the business session. The program was directed by Mrs. Sara Lee Glover. Others taking part on the program were: Mrs. Marvin Davis, Mrs. Geneva Wilder and Mrs. Lola Hinton.

Mrs. Maybelle Strickland dismissed the ladies with the benediction. The hostess, Mrs. Congleton, then served delicious refreshments.

GOOD ADVICE

Mrs. Jack Harrell, Free Union Church
Greene County, North Carolina

When you sit alone at twilight,
Let all the stars that shine so bright
Up in the beautiful sky above,
Remind you of the Saviour's love.

Count your blessings one by one,
Say, "Thank You, Lord, for all You've done."

And when you lie down to sleep,
Leave all your troubles at His feet.

He'll cleanse you from all sin,
Make you white as snow within.
Serve Him in even the humblest way;
He'll walk beside you each passing day.

Christ is knocking, give Him your best;
Let Him in to be your Guest.
Don't bar the door; don't turn Him aside;
Let Him come in with you to abide.

When you kneel each night to pray,
Remember those along the way
Who may be lost, who struggle along;
Bring them to Christ where they belong.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries, 150 words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this number, one cent for each additional word should be enclosed in Postage Stamps in the letter with the obituary.

Obituaries and in memoriams of persons who have been dead a year or longer are not wanted for publication in THE FREE WILL BAPTIST.

Mr. Ralph Lane

Late in the afternoon of March 22, 1956, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Ralph Lane, Route 3, Timmonsville, South Carolina. He was born September 18, 1862, making his stay on earth 94 years, 6 months and 4 days. He resided in Florence County, South Carolina, all of his life, and obtained his livelihood by farming.

Mr. Lane was a member of the Bethany Free Will Baptist Church for several years. He leaves to mourn her loss his faithful companion of 70 years. There were born to this union 11 children, 46 grandchildren and 60 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted in the Bethany Church by his pastor, the Rev. W. L. Jernigan, and the body was laid to rest in the church cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers to await the great resurrection.

Rev. W. L. Jernigan

Be thankful to Him and bless His name
For keeping us from sin and shame.
He speaks to you in a still, small voice,
Answer the call; make Him your choice.

One of God's Little Ministers

One night when a family were all gathered around the fire a little girl looked up and said: "Father, why does everybody like Eva? She has a weak back and can't play like the rest of us, and isn't often at school; and yet everybody likes her. How is that?"

"Well," said her father, "look at that lamp. It is a very frail thing, and doesn't make any noise, yet it makes this room very bright and pleasant, does it not? The lamp gives light; little Eva gives love, and that is why people love her."

Yes, that was it; Eva was always "ministering before the Lord," for they who love always do that. Won't you try, each one of you, to be one of God's little ministers?—Selected.

MISSIONS

find that the population of the world increases by sixty-eight thousand per day. Twenty-five million per year or a population equivalent to the size of Canada. When we realize that all of these are potential heirs of glory, it behooves us to make ample preparation to reach them with the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ. Also in the face of the opposing powers of evil, we need to seek God's wisdom more perfectly.

Miss Lucy Wisheart Due For Furlough

Miss Lucy Wisheart, our missionary to Cuba, will be due for furlough next month. I am sure she looks with anticipation to returning home and to her many friends in America. You will note that there is a deficit in her account of $185.91. Surely we would like to wipe this out and have sufficient funds to her credit to pay for her passage home. Of course we always resort to the general fund in such cases, but I am sure it would be appreciated if you would make a special offering to the furlough expense of this our representative in Cuba.

*Seventh Nation-wide F. W. B. L.
Conference*

I am sure that many of you are making plans to attend the Nation-Wide League Conference to be held, June 12, through June 14, on the campus of the East Carolina College in Greenville, North Carolina. This promises to be a great convention. Every church should send as many of her leaguers as possible. We are expecting Benito Rodriguez and Estenio Garcio, and of course, Miss Lucy Wisheart to be present for this convention. These Cuban pastors and returned missionaries will thrill your soul. Make plans now to attend. If you cannot attend, please pray for the conference during those days.

Michigan Conference And Itinerate Report

The annual meeting of the Board of Foreign Missions of the National Association of Free Will Baptists, convened with the First Free Will Baptist Church of Hazel Park, Michigan, on Thursday, April 26, 1956

The members of our board consist of: Rev. Mark Lewis, chairman; Rev. J. W.

Alford, vice-chairman; Rev. J. Reford Wilson, recording secretary; Rev. Raymond Riggs, promotional secretary-treasurer; and Rev. Rolla Smith. All members of the board were present and a very harmonious and pleasant session was enjoyed.

The board meetings were held during the day on Thursday and Friday, with a special missionary conference with the First Free Will Baptist Church of Hazel Park, each evening; along with other missionary services in several of the other Free Will Baptist churches in Detroit and Flint, Michigan. Various members of the board, our missionary, Rev. Dan Cronk, and Miss Esther Ruehle were the speakers for these services.

It was a most blessed time to enjoy the fellowship with all the brethren and to observe their increased interest in the cause of foreign missions. All of our churches in Michigan are growing and new ones are being organized for which we are thankful. Unless I am badly mistaken, I predict a wonderful growth and expansion among Free Will Baptists in Michigan. They are on the march!

At this session of the board meeting, definite steps were taken to open a new field in Africa along the Ivory Coast, and perhaps a new field in the Belgian Congo. Also plans are being made to open a field and send missionaries to South America. An overall budget of one hundred and three thousand ($103,000) dollars was approved to be recommended to the National Association for 1957.

We are most grateful to all our people for their splendid cooperation and support to our foreign mission work. Please pray for divine guidance as we endeavor to expand the work to more regions beyond.

Following is a financial report of funds received from Michigan churches during the missionary conference:

River Rouge Church	$ 33.65
Ten Mile Church	192.00
First Church, Hazel Park,
League	7.39
First Church, Hazel Park	274.24
Highland Park Church	500.00

From Colombia

April 13, 1956

Dear Rev. Riggs:

Greetings from Columbia in the wonderful name of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

I have promised to write you a letter about the next decision or the next step I make. After a long time of prayer and waiting upon the Lord I have come to this conclusion. Since I have to wait four to five years in the U. S. A. before I can travel on an American passport; and the countries over there are in a state of war; and I felt of the need of some experience in pastoring and preaching, I have decided to remain in U. S. A. as a pastor until the Lord irons out some of the above problems.

So until a further notice please take my name off of your mission board and use the funds that were sent to me in your general funds.

When the time comes for me to go I am willing to go through a complete investigation and your approval.

In the mean time, if the Lord leads me to apply to another mission board I am going to do so, since from now on I am free from your mission board. Please discontinue my investigation. Now I am pastoring a mission in Charleston, South Carolina, and always open for any question and cooperation.

Yours in His service,
Sam G. Ziady

Note: We appreciate the relationship that we have had with Brother Ziady, as a board, and we are praying for the Lord to lead in his future plans. His decision is wholly his own and the foreign mission board has voted to grant his request. He is still a Free Will Baptist and working with our people in Charleston, South Carolina.

The Church in Asia Minor

(Lesson for May 27)

Lesson: Acts 13:1-4, 44-49.

Golden Text: 2 Corinthians 5:20.

I. INTRODUCTION

Last Sunday we saw the gospel of Christ reach beyond the borders of Israel in that a Christian church was begun in Antioch of Syria. We also saw the leadership in Christian activity shift from Jerusalem to Antioch. Now, we shall see the program of world evangelism possess the hearts and minds of the Christians in Antioch in such measure that they send out a missionary party under their sponsorship. Truly, their vision and hope were to share the gospel with others as the Holy Spirit should lead.

What an aggregation of outstanding talent was concentrated in this church! In addition to Barnabas and Paul, whose ability we have already discussed and will see manifested later, Simeon that was called Niger and Lucius of Cyrene were most probably outstanding Jews who had been converted on the day of Pentecost and who had gone to Antioch to preach the gospel. Manaen, according to historians, was the foster-brother of Herod the tetrarch. This marvelous talent consecrated to Christ could not but produce great results for the Lord.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. There is nothing more important to any church than a good supply of capable, spiritual leaders (Vs. 1).

2. The Holy Spirit will direct any church that will listen to His words and do what He says (Vs. 2).

3. It is the duty of the church to set apart those whom the Holy Spirit has selected for His work (Vs. 3).

4. The Holy Spirit not only calls workers, but He also selects their fields of service (Vs. 4).

5. The forces of Satan never work so hard as when they begin to lose ground to Christ (Vv. 44, 45).

6. Not the preachers but the people who hear the gospel message are responsible for what they do with it (Vs. 46).

7. Since Jesus tasted death for every man, the gospel should be preached to the ends of the earth (Vs. 47).

8. Even the elect must hear the gospel message in order that they may believe and be saved (Vv. 48, 49).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Moses encouraged a kind of democracy in the field of preaching. They called it prophecy, in his day. It is our opinion that this one ruling in favor of lay preaching created a precedent in the congregations of Israel, which they took a pride in maintaining. If a man held regular membership in any temple or synagogue, and felt that he had a message for them, they gave him a chance to speak. This tradition served a good purpose with Paul in most of the towns and cities where a Jewish colony existed. He could go in and introduce himself, and set his wedge by giving a message or testimony. When Moses ruled in favor of Eldad and Medad, who were preaching in the camp, and were challenged, he recorded a classic which has often been quoted by evangelicals who are not in "apostolic succession": "... would God that all the LORD'S people were prophets, and that the LORD would put his spirit upon them!" (Numbers 11:29).—Selected.

Note carefully how many times Paul was given the privilege of addressing the Jews who were gathered in synagogues for worship.

2. It was at Perga they met with one of these new experiences, and it was one of those which must have been a source of trial and grief. It was here John Mark, their assistant, left them and returned to Jerusalem. It must have been a painful trial, since the work had just begun. Without the presence and aid of John Mark, Paul and Barnabas, no doubt, suffered considerable inconvenience.

The suggestion has been made that the difficulties of the work were making themselves felt, and that John Mark lacked the courage and strength to meet and endure them, and for this reason he left the party and returned to Jerusalem. This may have been the case, though we are inclined to believe, that because of his love for Jerusalem and his leaning toward the law and circumcision, he had a considerable dislike to association with the gentiles and for this reason deserted the missionary party and returned home. We should remember that the church at Jerusalem called Peter to account for fraternizing with Cornelius (Acts 11).

3. According to Acts 14:29, a fearful tragedy was perpetrated by the unbelieving Jews. They were losing, for vast numbers of Jews were being born again. This is enough to make Satan angry. They dragged him out, as was supposed, feet first, and because he arose and walked away, no one could decide as to whether he was really dead or just stunned. If the stoning did not kill him, then the dragging out for blocks and perhaps miles probably would. If this was the time of Paul's vision spoken of in 2 Corinthians 12:2-4, Paul himself never knew positively whether he was dead or not, not even fourteen years later. Jewish authorities today yet claim that no one great Christian leader is blamed so much, not even Jesus Christ, for Jewish defections, as is the Apostle Paul. He did their religion more harm than all the rest combined. He coupled up native ability, education, knowledge of Jewish customs with great zeal, tact and wisdom. They were determined to get rid of him once and for all. No one can go any farther in harming God's people than God allows.—Wm. McCarrell.

4. A Moravian missionary named George Smith went to Africa. He had been there but a short time and had only one convert, a poor woman, when he was driven from the country. They found this man dead one day. He died praying for the Dark Continent.

Failure? Yet when they celebrated the one-hundredth anniversary of the founding of that mission, they learned that a company, accidentally stumbling upon a place where he had prayed, had found the copy of the Scriptures he had left. They also found one aged woman who was his convert. They sought to sum up his brief life and reckoned more than thirteen thousand living converts who had sprung from that life which seemed such a failure.—A. J. Gordon.

Are you willing to be known as the friend of the Lord Jesus Christ? Are you ashamed to own Him as your one and only true Friend? What is it that causes your shame, if any? Truly those who are real live wires, in the spiritual realm, need not be ashamed to make it known. No shame nor disgrace will come to those who in reality know what it is to have Christ as Saviour and Friend.—Selected.

Mount Olive Campaign Progressing

"We here at Mount Olive College have been receiving some very good news about the progress of our campaign to raise funds for the five-year expansion program. On May 5, 1956, it was reported that the total amount of pledges turned into campaign headquarters was $156,242.55. Of this amount, Free Will Baptist churches had pledged $35,562.50. The balance of $120,680.05 had been pledged by our friends in Mount Olive and surrounding territories. The reports are that the amount pledged by our friends is increasing and we here at the college know that we are just now beginning to get the reports from our churches. In addition to the amount already turned in by our churches we know of several churches which have about completed their drives and will make their reports during the next few days. We plan to start soon listing each week in this column the churches that have reported and those that report each week. We urge all churches to try to get their reports in by the end of June if possible. If we can be of service in helping you with your drive, please let us know. Watch this column for more news soon."

"I Want to Be Like Old Jim!"

A village carpenter in an Indiana town always started down the main street to church on Sunday morning promptly at 9:15 a. m. He wanted to be on time for Sunday school. This man's name was Jim. The villagers for years had learned that they could set their clocks by his regular trips. Now Jim wasn't an orator. He couldn't sing a solo. He was just a quiet Christian who went to church every Sunday, come rain, blizzard, or shine. One of the "wild" young fellows at the village tavern was once heard to remark, "If I ever become a Christian, I want to be like Old Jim!" During the next Easter season, this same young man did turn from sin to the Saviour, and become an active member of the church. What initiated the change? It was just the faithful example of loyal Old Jim who plodded down the street precisely at 9:15 a. m. each Sunday morning. Old Jim's feet preached a very effective sermon through all those years!—Selected.

Free Will Baptist Churches Rallying to College Support

It was a happy occasion Tuesday afternoon, May 8, in the study of W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, as he received pledges totalling $22,000 from representatives of six churches. It also marked the president's first official action since he was ordered to rest by his physician eight weeks ago.

Shown in the above photo and the churches they represent are, left to right: Raper; M. L. Johnson, administrative assistant to the college president, who represented Daniel's Chapel Church of Wilson County and Howell Swamp Church of Greene County; D. B. Morris, Union Grove Church of near Fremont; A. C. Jackson, Antioch Church of near Pikeville; O. W. Smith, Stoney Creek Church of near Goldsboro; and Hardy Talton, Pleasant Grove Church near Pikeville. This brought the total pledged to the college since a fund-raising campaign was launched three months ago to $178,000, and of this amount the Free Will Baptist denomination has pledged about $57,000.

Representatives of the churches turning in their pledges Tuesday reported they believe there will be more donations later. Officials at the college reported earlier in the week the drive is really just getting into full swing in the Free Will Baptist churches throughout the state.

EDITORIAL

FELLOWSHIP

On the missions page of this issue the Reverend Wesley Calvery, our missionary to Japan, makes a statement of facts as he has observed them relative to the missionary activities of the different denominational groups in that country. Then he asks what appears to us to be an extremely important question. We quote from his letter to the Reverend Raymond Riggs: "Most evangelicals here do not make any consideration at all for the liberals when they go into an area to work. They do their work as if no other Christian work was being done there. What is your thinking on this matter?"

We do not know what Mr. Riggs' answer was, but we are sure that he must have given a great deal of prayer and meditation to the problem before giving the answer. In fact, this is a problem which faces Free Will Baptists in almost every town and community where we have a church in the homeland. How have we answered the question in our communities? And how has our answer compared with traditional Free Will Baptist practices?

In support of Mr. Calvery's observation we shall quote an article recently appearing in The Church Advocate, a publication of one of the branches of the Church of God:

"America's missionary as well as its political efforts in Asia are in danger of complete breakdown unless they are thoroughly revamped, Dean Liston Pope of Yale Divinity School said on his return here (New Haven, Connecticut) from a four-month tour of 16 Asiatic and Near East nations.

"On the political front, Russia is winning nearly everywhere especially since she adopted her new policy of aid-without-strings," he told a convocation of the school's faculty and students. 'American policy, on the other hand, is nearly everywhere mistrusted or misinterpreted.

"Meanwhile, many of America's recent religious exports to Asia might better have been kept at home where we are accustomed to their excesses."

"The theologian made it clear he was referring to the activities of fundamentalist groups.

"All told," he said, 'the quantitative results of 150 years of missionary work have been disappointingly small. Since the end of the Second World War and the liquidation of the missionary enterprise in China, unbelievable confusion has been introduced into several Asian countries by fundamentalist sects from America.

"On Taiwan (Formosa) alone more than 60 religious bodies—most of them representing marginal American sects—are competing with each other. Most are non-cooperative in the extreme, refusing to undertake joint planning of programs with any other group."

When we consider the earnest desire of Wesley Calvery to represent Christ and Free Will Baptists in Japan, in the light of these statements of Dean Pope who is considered by many to be a liberal, we can immediately see the immensity of the problem. Our missionary was, in essence, asking, "Do Free Will Baptists want their work in Japan labeled liberal and ignored by fundamentalists, or labeled radical, among those who run to emotional excesses, by the liberals or modernists?" When we answer this question for Japan, it is hoped that we shall answer it for ourselves at home.

It seems to us that Free Will Baptists need not necessarily be classified in either camp, as each spuriously brands the other, whether in Japan or America or anywhere else. It is true that we are fundamental and evangelical in that we believe the Bible to be the entire, infallible Word of God; we believe that Jesus is the Son of God, begotten of the Holy Ghost in the womb of the virgin, Mary; we believe in His sinless life, His atoning death, His bodily resurrection and His imminent return for the believers at the end of the age. Concerning man, we believe that he is altogether sinful in his natural lost state and must be regenerated by the Holy Spirit, the third Person of the Holy Trinity, to be made a fit subject for heaven. We further believe that a life of obedience to the Word of God is the outward expression of the inner faith after regeneration.

On the other hand, we have little in common with those who call themselves fundamentals or evangelicals, but who hold the belief in a second work of grace which manifests itself in speaking in an unknown tongue and in other highly emotional demonstrations. And, from our fundamental beliefs, surely we cannot be classified as liberals or modernists, for we have very little in common with them.

Since we are neither liberals (as classified by fundamentalists) nor radical fundamentalists (as classified by liberals), why can't we just be Bible believing Christians and join the fight on neither side? We can hold fellowship with both groups up to the point at which we feel that they depart from the faith. Certainly we must not be so gullible as to be maneuvered into competing with, or sitting in judgment upon, others who are endeavoring to serve God, lest haply we be found to fight against God. Perhaps this is a denominational distinctiveness which the Lord would have Free Will Baptists maintain.

We like the answer that G. Campbell Morgan gave to someone who asked him whether he was in the fight on the side of the fundamentals or the modernists. To this question he, in essence, said, "Why should I enter the fight on either side? I have the Bible as my guide; I had much rather use my time preaching positively the marvelous truths of the Bible than to enter a fight with anyone."

"If you would not be forgotten, either write things worth reading or do things worth the writing" (Franklin).

The Power of the Lord Was Present

Naaman Borders
Waverly, Ohio

ONE of the most beautiful stories in the Bible is the story of the men who were so eager to bring in a sick man for our Lord to heal. When they could not get close to Jesus because of the multitude, they took him to the top of the house and let him down through the roof and presented him to Jesus. "And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee" (Luke 5:20). Not only did the sick man have faith, but all who brought him in had faith.

The faith of the worker has much to do with his success. When these men could find no way to bring the sick man in, they made a way. Where there is a will there is a way. They felt that the power of the Lord was present to heal.

There are certain times when we can feel the power of God working in our midst, and there are times when all our prayers seem to get us nowhere. When we do feel the power of God working, that is the time for us to put all our efforts to the best advantage—that is the time for us to work with God. "When the iron is hot it's time to strike." In other words, "When the sun is shining it's time to make hay."

A few years ago it seemed that all the preaching and praying Christians could do was to no avail. It all seemed to fall on deaf ears. But all the Christians kept everlastingly at it until the ice was broken, and today it is much easier to bring in lost souls.

I am reminded of the story of a lady from the backwoods who had never seen a train. She came in town and viewed with astonishment the great, huge monster of a train sitting at the depot. After looking it over she said, "Boys, she'll never start." But when the engineer crawled up in the monster and pulled the throttle, the steam began to hiss and the wheels began to turn faster and faster until the train was sailing down the track. The astonished lady's eyes were like moons, and she slapped her sun-bonnet on her knees and exclaimed, "Boys, she'll never stop!"

So it is with the church. It is coming along mighty fast, but like the train, when the fuel runs out it will stop. What is the fuel of the church? It is our tithes and our prayers combined. The power of the Lord is now present to heal the nations. The fire is burning, and it will go out if we don't constantly increase the fuel. While the church is in motion, it is the time to keep it in motion. When and if it stops, it will be hard to start. When a car stops in the mud and when we have to get out and push, it's mighty hard to start it rolling. When we finally get it started, everyone must push and keep it in motion. So it is with the church. Everyone must keep it in motion.

Many say that they feel something awful is going to happen soon. It may be that the coming of the Lord draweth nigh. It may be the great tribulation. World events today are not very promising. So let us all keep our lamps trimmed and burning. While the fire of the church is burning, let's keep it burning. Let's keep throwing on the fuel and giving of our means. What good will your bank account be to you when the world is on fire? There is no insurance against the fire of God. We may hear, "... Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: ..." (Luke 12:20).

I like the statement of the brother who gave $12,500 to Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, when he said, "All that I have which is lasting and eternal is what I give away." In other words he was saying, "The money I keep for myself will soon perish, but what I give will last forever." Sometimes the money we lay up for our children is equivalent to buying them a ticket to hell. It has been said that 83 per cent of these children just squander the money left to them, or maybe lawyers have to take charge, leaving the children all angry with each other as long as they live. Some who have been left fortunes come to poverty in the end.

Yes, my brother, it seems that at certain intervals the power of God is present to heal. There is the story in the Bible of the man who waited for 38 years for the moving of the waters so he could be healed, but he had no one to put him in the water, and others always were there first. Finally our blessed Lord came upon the scene and gave him all the help he needed.

So there are thousands of poor souls today who are just waiting for someone to come along to help them find the Master. Will you be the one or are you going to pass by on the other side? God told the children of Israel to pull up their stakes, roll up their tents, and begin marching when the pillar of cloud began to move. Suppose they had disobeyed and waited for a more convenient time. Suppose they had waited until they felt like moving. Don't you think they would have been in a predicament?

Yet we sit around and wait for someone else to do something we should do. What will the Lord of the harvest say unto the unprofitable servants? Shall He bind us and cast us into the outer darkness? The doors are open to us in the heathen nations as never before, and now is the time to gather in the sheaves before some false religion beats us to them. They say that the Catholics and the Mohammedans are spending much more money to proselyte the heathen than Christians are to gain converts. Many people ask, "Will the heathen who have never heard the gospel be saved?" But I wonder if we who refuse to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature will be saved.

I'll Do My Best for Him!

When Jesus died upon the Cross
To save my soul from sin,
He opened wide the gates to God
That I might enter in.

And when I sought God's pardoning love
He pled my cause on high,
And pointed to the Lamb of God
Who did for sinners die.

And now I know God's pardoning love
And His sanctifying grace,
And when He calls me up above
I shall see His smiling face.

For when He cleansed my heart from sin,
He filled my soul with love,
And sealed me with His Spirit then
Till He calls me up above.

So while I live upon this earth
I'll do my best for Him,
And point all sinners to the Lamb
Who died to save from sin.

How to Finance My Church

Mrs. B. B. Edwards
Newton, Georgia

(Editor's Note: This article is an adaptation of a speech made by Mrs. Edwards at a meeting of the Midway Association of Georgia which convened on April 27, 1956.)

THE Lord of hosts commanded that the church be financed with tithes and offerings. Early in the history of the world we read of paying the tithe. "And Melchizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine: and he was the priest of the most high God. And he blessed him, and said, Blessed be Abram of the most high God, possessor of heaven and earth: And blessed be the most high God, which hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. And he gave him tithes of all" (Genesis 14:17-20).

"And Jacob vowed a vow, saying, If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on, So that I come again to my father's house in peace; then shall the LORD be my God: And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, shall be God's house: and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee" (Genesis 28:20-22).

Paying tithes was a duty in the olden days, or in Christ's day, as it is today. Jesus built one of his stewardship parables around a man whom history has called a fool (Luke 12:16-21). But don't think that his riches were what made him a fool; they only helped. What made him a fool was his desire to own everything he could get his hands on. Instead of giving thanks to his Creator and giving the tenth unto the Lord, this man said, "... Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat drink, and be merry. But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?" (Luke 12:19, 20). Thus Jesus taught by a vivid parable the eternal truth that God is Owner of all things and that we should be stewards. We owe God a tenth of all we have, and we need to make a gift also.

"For every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills. I know all the fowls of the mountains: and the wild beasts of the field are mine. . . for the world is mine, . . ." (Psalm 50:10-12). "The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the LORD of hosts" (Haggai 2:8).

"And they came to Jerusalem: and Jesus went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves; And would not suffer that any man should carry any vessel through the temple. And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, My house shall be called of all nations the house of prayer? but ye have made it a den of thieves" (Mark 11:15-17). This Scripture proves that Christ does not want us to sell or barter in our churches.

"Now concerning the collection for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye. Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come" (1 Corinthians 16:1, 2). Here Paul tells us to put aside our tithes and offerings on the first day of the week so the offering will be ready to use when it is needed. If every person would give a tenth to the Lord, we would not have to worry about how to finance the church or God's work.

"Every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee" (Deuteronomy 16:17). "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings" (Malachi 3:8). If we are not giving at least a tenth of our material possessions to the Lord we are robbing Him as the Scripture plainly states. There are no exceptions.

No matter how much or how little money we have, we owe at least a tenth to the Lord. The tithe is the minimum that we owe God. Notice that the Scripture also says He had been robbed of offerings. Offerings are that which are given over and above the tithe. Therefore, we are expected, if possible, to give more than the tithe. Many people give more than the tithe and receive blessings untold because of it.

In Malachi 3:10, 11 we are told the results of our faithfulness to God in giving the tithe: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, and there shall not be room enough to receive it. And I will rebuke the devourer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruits of your ground; neither shall your vine cast her fruit before the time in the field, saith the LORD of hosts." Let us try the Lord and prove His glorious promise until we fulfill the conditions He has set for us.

There should by all means be a system to our giving. We should give regularly to God through the church, not just when we feel like it, or when we happen to have a little money left over from paying all the bills. God should have His share first of all. We should keep an account of all the money we receive and give God His share, and whenever possible, we should give God an offering above the tithe.

"The Little Foxes that Spoil the Vines!"

If you are a Christian in small things, you are not a small Christian! The so-called little sins, like the snowflakes, are cumulative in their power. Side-stepping and lowering our standards here, or compromising there, weakens our power of resistance, and we go down in defeat.

A transatlantic liner was wrecked and sank along the Irish coast. There was no apparent reason for the loss of the great vessel. Divers were sent down to the wreckage to discover the cause of the accident. The compass was brought to the surface. Inside the compass box was found the point of a knife blade which had evidently broken off when some careless sailor was cleaning the compass. It was only a little thing, but it threw the ship off its course and caused the vessel to be wrecked!—Selected.

Redemption Through Blood

Rev. Edward E. Morris
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

(Editor's Note: This is an adaptation of Chapter 2 of the book, "Handbook of Free Will Baptist Doctrine," written by Mr. Morris. The book may be purchased from The Free Will Baptist Press, Ayden, North Carolina. The price is $1 per copy.)

ONE who reads the Bible cannot but see the scarlet line of blood atonement running throughout both the Old and New Testaments. Until the death of Christ on the Cross of Calvary the blood of animals without spot or blemish was offered on the altar to God as atonement for sin. These offerings were but a type or shadow which pointed to the offering of the blood of the Lamb of God, once and for all, as the atonement for man's sins. Man's only hope for redemption lies in the efficacy of the blood of Christ which He gave in His death on the Cross as a ransom for the souls of men.

Life is in the blood. "For the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul" (Leviticus 17:11). This Scripture stands out more clearly than before, for we have recently learned that the life of the flesh is in the blood. Blood transfusions have saved many lives in the past few years. The atoning blood of Jesus Christ is that power which cleanses the soul from sin and gives it a new life. It is an essential in becoming a child of God.

There is cleansing in the blood. "... Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood" (Revelation 1:5). "... These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the lamb" (Revelation 7:14). "... wash me and I shall be whiter than snow" (Psalm 51:7). I want you to notice that He washed us from our sins in His own blood—not in water, not by joining the church, but by His blood. If you are ever washed white, it will be in the blood of the Lamb. There is a lot of difference in being whitewashed and washed white. My father used to whitewash the barn and outbuildings in the spring of the year and they were just about as white as anything you ever saw until the first rains came; then they got yellow streaks. That is the way it is with whitewashed church members. But when we are washed white in the blood of the lamb, we will stand a few storms and still be white.

"Come now, and let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool" (Isaiah 1:18).

"For though you wash thee with nitre, and take thee much sope, yet thine iniquity is marked before me, saith the Lord GOD" (Jeremiah 2:22).

"Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard his spots? . . ." (Jeremiah 13:23). Jeremiah is just simply saying that soap and water will not wash away your iniquity. It takes more than that to cleanse you from sin. He repeats that an Ethiopian can't change his skin; neither can a leopard change his spots; nor can a sinner just change his mind and join a church to be a child of God. It takes the cleansing blood of Christ to save a soul from sin. "For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins" (Matthew 26:28).

We are justified by His blood. "Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him" (Romans 5:9).

We are sanctified by His blood. "Wherefore Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, suffered without the gate" (Hebrews 13:12). We are cleansed, justified and sanctified in this cleansing process. In other words, it sets us apart for the service of God. "And, having made peace through the blood of his cross, . . ." (Colossians 1:20). "But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ" (Ephesians 2:13).

We are redeemed by His blood. "In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace" (Ephesians 1:7). "Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son. In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins" (Colossians 1:13, 14). "Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers; But with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot" (1 Peter 1:18, 19). I cannot understand why anyone would turn these Scriptures down.

The blood is the redeeming power. It delivers us from darkness to light and translates us into the Kingdom of His dear Son. No amount of silver and gold can redeem a soul. No act that I can do, or a church, or ritual, or ceremony can save a soul: it takes the blood. There was a man hunt one time in heaven. They searched all over heaven and through the earth and under the earth, but could not find a man that was worthy to open the seals of a book. John wept about this. "And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people and nation" (Revelation 5:9). If you are ever redeemed, washed and cleansed, it will be in the blood of Calvary.

A good conscience comes by His blood. "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?" (Hebrews 9:14).

"In that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for uncleanness" (Zechariah 13:1). When Jesus shed His blood on Calvary, this Scripture was fulfilled. That fountain of life is still open today. It is the fountain of life where those who are dead in trespasses and in sin can be washed as white as snow. Paul sets forth the whole story in 1 Corinthians 6:11, "And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God."

This is not a new plan of redemption. This is the old-time gospel message that has been preached throughout the years. It is still God's message to a lost and dying world. You are saved, you are justified, you are sanctified and filled with the Holy Ghost, all in the washing of regeneration.

Ministers' Conference
To Convene June 4-8

The Rev. E. E. Edwards, president of the North Carolina Ministers' Conference which will convene on June 4-8 at the Cragmont Assembly near Black Mountain, North Carolina, submits the following message to the North Carolina Free Will Baptist churches:

"Again we are nearing the time for the annual North Carolina Ministers' Conference at Cragmont. Your ministers need to go, having labored hard for their respective churches for another twelve months. Now there is an opportunity for a refilling of the Holy Spirit that pastors do not find just any place. We feel that you want your pastors to be greater pastors, and you can help make them that by sponsoring their trips to Cragmont this year."

All ministers are urged to attend this conference if it is humanly possible.

Alumni Association

On May 11, 1956, twelve of the North Carolina alumni of the Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tennessee, met at Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, and organized the North Carolina Alumni Association. The officers elected for this new organization were: Walter Reynolds, Ahsokie, North Carolina, president; Robert Edwards, Arapahoe, North Carolina, vice-president; and Daniel J. Merkh, Durham, North Carolina, secretary-treasurer.

The Alumni Association will hold a fellowship meeting on September 25, at the home of the Rev. Homer Willis in Greensboro, North Carolina, for the alumni and their families. All North Carolina alumni of the Bible College are requested to contact Daniel J. Merkh, 1212 East Main Street, Durham, North Carolina, so that the mailing list may be completed.

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Can you give Biblical support to evangelists and pastors who deal personally with converts that come forward at the close of a meeting to receive Christ as Saviour? Some of our ministers object to this method and especially to the inquiry room in which Christian workers try to teach the Bible to converts in an effort to get them started right in the Christian life. I believe in this method. Does not "Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance" (Matthew 3:8) suggest that we do something more than shaking hands with the minister and placing one's name on the church ledger when he comes forward?—Mack Owens, Farmville, N. C.

Answer: Yes, you surely can find plenty of Biblical evidence to support Christian workers who deal personally with people that come forward to make a public acknowledgment of Christ as Lord and Saviour. "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?" (Romans 10: 13, 14). "And Philip ran thither to him, and heard him read the prophet Esaias, and said, Understandest thou what thou readest? And he said, How can I, except some man should guide me? And he desired Philip that he should come up and sit with him. . . . Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus. And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized? And Philip said, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God" (Acts 8:30, 31, 35-37). Here the Holy Spirit took Philip away from a successful meeting to win and baptize one soul. You may also find much evidence to indicate that new converts need to be taught the Bible and that immediately after conversion is the best time for such instructions. "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Proverbs 22:6); "And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also" (2 Timothy 2:2); "My son, forget not my law; but let thine heart keep my commandments: for length of days, and long life, and peace, shall they add to thee" (Proverbs 3:1, 2).

Not only can you find such evidence in the Bible, but you can find that every successful evangelist and pastor, that I have known of, has employed this method. D. L. Moody, the great evangelist, as well as all pastors of the Moody Memorial Church for the past 30 years have employed that means quite successfully. The late evangelists, Billy Sunday and Gypsy Smith, used this means to determine whether or not those professing Christ were actually saved. If saved, their helpers gave some simple Biblical instructions in Christian living. Billy Graham employed this method while holding his great meeting in Nashville, Tennessee, and I understand from his reports that he has employed it elsewhere. A pastor or an evangelist either is far from carrying out his whole duty when he has prayerfully and diligently studied, prepared and faithfully delivered a good gospel discourse, persuaded converts to come to the front and make a public profession of Christ as Lord. Ninety per cent of those making such decisions are not ready for baptism and church membership. In the first place many who are thus stirred emotionally are not actually saved, neither do they gain enough Biblical truth from the sermon to lead them correctly in making a personal decision for Christ but would if, like the Ethiopian eunuch, they had some one to guide them by the Scriptures into such a decision. Many of these same people who would readily accept Christ at once with a little help right then, would be much harder to reach the next day, while a still larger number would refuse Him a week hence, and very seldom could a personal worker help one of these when such instructions have been postponed a month.

Then in the second place Satan is actively at work these days through false prophets, such agencies as Mormonism, Catholicism, Christian Science, Seventh-Day Adventist, Modernism, and Russellism (Jehovah's Witnesses, Millennial Dawnism) and other false cults. When the apostles of these cults find a person under conviction from a gospel message and not actually saved they may get him so confused that it will be almost impossible to bring him out into the light again so that he may receive the unadulterated gospel truth. If, on the other hand the person were saved when he came forward and were not instructed before these false teachers found and indoctrinated him he would be ten times as hard to teach as he would have been the night or day he decided for Christ. One cannot think clearly through these suggestions and not favor having correct Biblical instruction given as early after an unsaved person steps out for Christ as is possible.

Even though I do not wish to speak disparagingly of mass evangelism, winning souls for Christ through personal evangelism is easier and more effective. Dr. William Evans has the following to say in his book, Personal Soul-Winning, Pages 17 and 18:

"The church at Colosse began not with a great revival under Paul, but as the result of the faithful personal work of one man, Epaphras. The church at Rome was undoubtedly founded in the same way. Pastors acknowledge that the best additions to their churches are those won to Christ by personal effort. Dr. Hughes, recently chosen Bishop in the Methodist Episcopal Church, says, that in a revival in his church covering two years, there were 48 converts, 11 men and 37 women; but that, as a result of personal work during the same period, there were 75 converts, 40 men and 35 women. Is there not a lesson for us to learn from this experience, not only as to numbers, but as to sex? Here is the solution of the pastor's problem, 'How to reach the men.' Dr. J. O. Peck is reported to have said, that if he had the certainty that he was to live only ten years, and as a condition of gaining heaven at the end thereof, he had to win a thousand or ten thousand souls for Christ, and he was given his choice of winning them either by preaching sermons or by individual effort, he would choose the latter method every time."

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path (PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOVA, N. C.

"Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong" (1 Corinthians 16:13).

Rev. A. Purnell Bailey has asked this thought provoking question, "Is there any sight as pitiful as a man who trusts his own righteousness until he sees only the defects of others?"

I have been asking you to consider the seriousness of drifting away from God in your daily living. There are three poems which I want to pass on to you this week with the prayer that they will be of help to you. Some of these poems were written by persons unknown to me, but the lessons to be learned are well worth your consideration.

"We are not here to play, to dream, to drift,
We have hard work to do, and loads to lift,
Shun not the struggle; face it. 'Tis God's gift.

Be strong!

"Say not the days are evil. Who's to blame?
And fold the hands and acquiesce. O shame!
Stand up, speak out bravely, in God's name.

Be strong!

"It matters not how deep entrenched the wrong,
How hard the battle goes; the day how long.
Faint not, fight on! Tomorrow comes the song."

Some of us remember the old song we used to sing entitled, "Drifting Down." It goes in part:
"You are drifting far from shore, leaning on an idle oar,
You are drifting, slowly drifting, drifting down;
You are drifting with the tide, to the ocean wild and wide,
You are drifting, slowly drifting, drifting down."

Then the final poem is filled with warnings and encouragements:

"Don't be a drifter! Burst the stream.
Be one of those with standards high

Who dare to do and dare to try.
Too many merely drift along,
Helpless when danger's wind grows strong;
Tossed by the currents here and there;
Held in the eddies of despair;
Bruised by the rocks they might evade
And struggle for a worthy dream.
Were they not all too lightly swayed.

"Don't be a drifter! Shape a plan
And have some purpose as a man.
Be not content, as many are,
To go without a guiding star,
Swayed by the faithless whims of chance,
Fate's puppets, at her nod to dance,
But in the distance set your goal

And fight for it with all your soul,
Keep some objective worth your while Though fortune frown on you or smile.

"Don't be a drifter! Join the few
Who seek life's real tasks to do.
Strike out where deeper water flows,
And breast the stream with manly blows,
The shallows and the coves beware,
Too many barques are broken there,
The rocks and tagged branches lie
To catch the driftwood floating by,
But he who fights against the stream
Some day shall reach his port of dream."

A man's good-breeding is the best security against another's bad manners.—

PAUL'S THREE MEN

(1 Corinthians 2:14; 3:1)

I. THE NATURAL MAN (1 Corinthians 2:14)

1. He is not a converted man (1 Peter 1:23).
2. He may be a religious man (James 1:26).
3. He may be an educated man (Acts 22:3).
4. He is dead in sins (Ephesians 2:1).
5. He has no spiritual life (Ephesians 4:17, 18).
6. He has no spiritual discernment (1 Corinthians 2:14).
7. He is without God and without hope (Ephesians 2:12).

II. THE CARNAL MAN (1 Corinthians 3:1-4)

1. He may be a Christian (1 Corinthians 1:2; 3:1).
2. He is like a child (1 Corinthians 3:1).
3. He never advances spiritually (1 Corinthians 3:2).
4. He follows the way of the flesh (1 Corinthians 3:3; Romans 8:7).
5. He is conformed to the world (Romans 12:2).
6. He causes division in the church (1 Corinthians 3:4; 1:10-13).
7. He produces the fruit of carnality (Hebrews 5:11-14).

III. THE SPIRITUAL MAN (1 Corinthians 2:9-16)

1. He is led by the Spirit (Romans 8:14).

An Open Letter

Dear Senior of 1956, 57:

I am happy that you will be a senior next year, and I know you are anxiously looking forward to graduation. If your graduation class is an average one, between one third and one half of the graduates will continue their education beyond high school, and I want to encourage you to be one of this number. In 1900 only four per cent of our youth of college age were furthering their education beyond high school. Last year this percentage had increased to 33, and it is estimated that within the next fifteen years 50 per cent of our youth of college age will be in higher education.

2. He is not of the world (John 17:16).
3. He is not understood by the world (1 John 3:1).
4. He has the mind of Christ (Philippians 2:5).
5. He seeks God's deeper things (1 Corinthians 3:1, 2; Psalm 1:2).
6. He is able to overcome the world (1 John 5:4, 5).
7. He is producing the fruit of the Spirit (Galatians 6:16-22).

IV. CONCLUSION

1. We are one of the three classes.
2. We should ask ourselves where are we.
3. We should seek to be out-and-out for Christ.

WHO CARES?

One of the leading newspaper editors in America was one day visited by a minister, who, taking him by the hand, said: "I have come to ask you to be a Christian." He withdrew his hand from the minister's, turned and walked across to one of the windows, and stood looking into the street.

The minister thought he had grieved him. Finally the man returned, his face wet with tears. Taking the minister's hand, he said, "Thank you, sir. With the exception of my mother when I was a bit of a boy at her knee, nobody, not even my wife, or my best friend, or even the minister, has ever put to me such a question." Then, sinking into a chair, he added, "I thought no one cared."—Unknown.

The future belongs to those who prepare for it.

Mount Olive College offers to young people unusual educational opportunities. We have a junior college department which offers the first two years of study that are basic to almost any profession, including teaching, law, medicine, business and the Christian ministry. We also have a department of business education which offers a course of one or two years. Courses of study taken at Mount Olive College can be transferred without loss of credit to other colleges in eastern North Carolina.

Our expenses are very reasonable; day students can attend for $325 per year, boarding students for $650 per year. Work scholarships and loan funds are available to those who need them and apply early.

If you would like further information, please write us. You are welcome to visit our college at any time.

Sincerely yours,

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

SALVATION

The term salvation implies that man is lost. Being saved from sin means directly that the guilty sinner has been made free from the condemnation and the awful sin of death passed upon the sinner because he has transgressed God's holy law. "For the wages of sin is death; . . ." (Romans 6:23). And since all have sinned and come short of the glory of God all men in the natural state are condemned to eternal death. But the love of God caused Him to make a way for the escape of man from the penalty of death. This escape is called salvation. The apostle, Paul, said, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; . . ." (Romans 1:16).

Man's Part in His Salvation

God has provided for the salvation of man, and man's part is to accept that which God has provided. If man chooses to accept God's salvation, this acceptance means that man has been made completely free from the guilt of sin and stands justified before God. Man's acceptance of the salvation clears the guilty sinner from the condemnation caused by sin. But man must accept by faith the Lord Jesus Christ to be saved. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1). When peace is made between God and man through the acceptance of the Lord Jesus Christ, there is no more condemnation. Paul says, "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, . . ." (Romans 8:1). There is no salvation from the guilt of sin so long as man stands off in unbelief. The great question arises, "How may I know that I am saved?"

How Man May Know He Is Saved

Paul says, ". . . The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach; That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. For the scripture saith, Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed. For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him. For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Romans 10: 8-13). How may you know? Because the Bible tells you so. If you do not believe the Bible to be the inspired Word of God, there is no salvation for you. The Bible says that if we call upon the name of the Lord we shall be saved. Then the first evidence of being saved is the Word of God. Jesus Himself said while He was here on earth, "And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up: That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life. For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved" (John 3: 14-17). "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John 3:36). So then if man will not believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and that He came to save sinners from death and hell, there is nothing more for God to do but to condemn the unrepentant sinner to everlasting death.

The second evidence of knowing that you are saved is the experience. John says, "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death" (1 John 3:14). So then our love for the children of God tells us that we have passed from death unto life. Even a child knows the joys of love; a small child knows whom he loves. He wants to be with those whom he loves. He is not afraid to trust the ones whom he loves. Recently I saw a very small child as she looked around the room where several people were sitting. This child went straight to her grandfather and crawled upon his lap. Thus she said by her actions, "I love you, Grandfather." The Bible is very plain on this fact—we know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren.

True Faith Produces Love

There is a special love connected with true faith. Because I had faith in my wife before we came together, I loved her; and having loved her, I wanted to make her my very own. There is no one that can take her place. This is also true in the Christian life as well as in the earthly life. We love to associate with those whom we love. Thus I believe that every truly born again child of God loves to assemble with the children of God. There is an old saying, Birds of a feather flock together. It is also true that children want to associate with children or with those of their own age. This is evidenced by the grouping. Certainly it is an evidence of love for our equals. Then, since we are all saved by grace and placed in one family, everyone is equal in salvation. There is no difference in the children of God—"For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him" (Romans 10:12). We love to assemble with those of our kind. It makes no difference whether we are rich or poor in this world's goods for we are all on a common level in Christ.

Drunkards love to assemble with their kind. Gamblers assemble with their kind. Lovers of worldly pleasures love to assemble with lovers of pleasures. So, as this is true in general with unbelievers, it is absolutely true with the children of God.

We who have been saved feel at home with others who have been saved—they are our kindred. We love to worship together and to associate with each other. "That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ. And these things write we unto you, that your joy may be full" (1 John 1:3, 4).

Almost

To be almost is not to be. How many there are who are almost decided to be Christians, but they are not Christians as long as they remain undecided. Almost to catch the train is to lose it. To be almost saved from a sinking vessel is to be drowned.

Almost a Christian is like Ananias, who brought part, and left a part behind.

Almost a Christian is like the fig tree, which disappointed Christ with leaves; like the virgins, who carried lamps without oil.—Selected.

STORIES

—FOR OUR—

BOYS and GIRLS

A Vacancy for You

Amanda Hull

MOTHER, I saw a 'Vacancy' sign!" exclaimed Duane as he rushed in from school. "Let's go right away."

"I'll get ready at once," answered his mother. "What if this is our day to find a place to rent!" As she said the words, she wondered if it would be as the other times—a disappointment. But she mustn't let Duane know how discouraged she was. Surely we shall find a place before his father returns.

Mrs. Morgan and her three children had gone to live with the children's grandmother when her husband went into the service. Mrs. Morgan wasn't well at the time and needed help with the children, and too, it was less expensive.

"I must be patient a little longer," she told herself. "And God never has failed to help us. He won't fail now." This reassured her as she walked the several blocks with Duane to where he had seen the "Vacancy" sign.

What the landlord showed them was a one-room apartment. Immediately they knew it wouldn't do.

"A cot could be set up in the kitchen at night for the boy," suggested the landlord.

"Oh, but we have three boys," Mrs. Morgan informed him.

"Then, of course, the apartment is too small," he said. "Shall I put your name on our waiting list? I don't know of any family moving out, but if a large apartment becomes vacant, I could phone you."

Mrs. Morgan thanked him politely and he wrote her name and telephone number on a list.

"Mother, with that long list of names ahead of ours, we couldn't get a vacancy here before father comes, could we?" asked Duane with a worried look.

"It is hardly likely," his mother told him. "We left our name on several long lists and haven't been called."

"There is still a vacancy in those apartments that don't take children, but that won't do us any good. And that high priced apartment next door is for rent again but we can't afford it."

"What are we going to do?" Duane enquired anxiously.

"There will be a place, I am sure," his mother answered. "To begin with we will look around again in this neighborhood while we are here."

So they trudged around several blocks. No more "Vacancy" signs appeared.

Then as they were talking of retracing their steps, a moving van turned into a driveway to a house in a little yard of its own. They waited. The driver and his helpers went in and started to carry out furniture.

"Maybe this house will be for rent," they both thought.

"Oh, if it is for rent and if we can afford it!" said Mrs. Morgan hopefully.

"Let's go and find out," said Duane starting for the driveway, his mother following.

The men moving the furniture out the front door couldn't give them any information. They sent them around to the back door to find the owner. She was a pleasant little woman who listened and answered their questions.

Yes, the house would be for rent. She hadn't tried to rent it yet. Her husband died suddenly, so she was going to live with relatives for some months and perhaps permanently. Yes, she would rent to a family with children. Her grandchildren had often stayed with her.

Mrs. Morgan told her what they could pay. She said it would be enough if they would take good care of her house and yard. And Mrs. Morgan could return later with the advance payment and to sign the agreement.

As Mrs. Morgan was preparing supper and thinking again of the tiring searches to find a place to live, she had a happy thought that rested her. When we move to our heavenly home we won't need to look for a "Vacancy" sign. Instead there will be a welcome and a dwelling for all who have received the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour and are in the family of God. Jesus said, "In my Father's house are many mansions (rooms) . . . I go to prepare a place for you."

At bedtime the children were chanting "We found a house—We found a house—Going to live in a house with our daddy." After they became quiet for prayer time, mother told them of the heavenly home Jesus was preparing for them. The three little boys agreed they wanted Jesus in their hearts so they could go there.

"Then we won't be told 'No Vacancy'," said Duane who had helped his mother find a home.—My Pleasure.

Boy with a Conscience

YOU were advertising for a boy?" asked a lad in neatly brushed, threadbare clothes of the manager of Peten's store.

"We did advertise for a boy and hired one this morning," answered the man, rather gruffly. He was exasperated, for he had been disturbed many times that morning by undesirable applicants.

"Couldn't you use one more?" questioned the boy.

"No," snarled the man.

Disappointed and discouraged, Reuben Myrick walked from the office, leaving the door ajar.

"Hello, there," greeted another boy as Reuben stepped from the office into the store. "What are you doing in there? I landed that job an hour ago."

"Oh!" exclaimed Reuben, glancing up and down the boy's stylish clothes, and wondering why he could have such things and still get work that to a boy like himself would mean food and the cheapest of clothes. But, gaining control of his feelings, he extended his hand. "I'm glad you got it, Wayne. It's a good job."

"I guess it's all right," remarked the other without the least enthusiasm. Then resuming his old gay tone: "Come 'long with me. I'm off for the ball game and then for a skiff ride on the lake. Nothing doing there," pointing toward the office.

"I would like to go with you, but I can't. Promised Mother I'd come back as soon as I did a few errands."

"Ah, shucks!" sniffed the boy. "Tell her they kept you waitin'."

"I wish I could come, but I can't," said Reuben. "You'll have a jolly time, I know, but I can't tell Mother a story, because my conscience wouldn't let me."

"You ninny; I wouldn't let my conscience bother me," scoffed the boy, skipping down the aisle.

The manager was not in the habit of listening to conversations outside of his office, but hearing the voice of his new boy outside of the door when he should have been busy in another part of the building had made him pause and listen.

Reuben Myrick turned to purchase some trifles, which his mother had requested him to buy, and so did not hear anyone coming behind him.

"Young man, I want to tell you that I made a mistake a few minutes ago in turning you out," the manager announced. "There's a place for you if you'll take it. There is always a place for boys with consciences like yours."

"Oh thanks," said Reuben, his face flushed with embarrassment.

"Can you report at one o'clock?" asked the man.

"Certainly I can," answered Reuben, his face shining.

"He'll do it too," confided the manager to the clerk, when Reuben had left. "He's a boy that will always do the right thing, and I came near missing him." A smile which the clerk had never seen on his employer's face softened his hard features.—Exchange.

Rules for Daily Living

Begin the day with God:

Kneel down to Him in prayer;
Lift up the heart to His abode,
And seek His love to share.

Open the Book of God,

And read a portion there;
That it may hallow all thy thoughts
And sweeten all thy care.

Go through the day with God:

Whate'er thy work may be,
Where'er thou art—at home, abroad—
He is still near to thee.

Converse in mind with God:

Thy sins to Him confess;
Trust in the Lord's atoning blood,
And plead His righteousness.

Lie down at night with God,

Who gives His servants sleep;
And when thou tread'st the vale of death,
He will thee guard and keep.

Have You Been Praying?

God's promises are always broader than our prayers. Anchor yourself to the throne of God, then shorten the rope. —Highland Park Church Bulletin, Michigan.

Report on Trip to Kyushu

Wesley Calvery

ILLEEN and I have returned from a trip to the southern most island of Japan, Kyushu. We were invited by an Assembly of God friend to investigate the needs of the area where he is working. The time is soon coming when we must decide where the Lord would have us to work. Thus we made the trip, and in the next few months we plan to visit some other places. After we have visited these places we will let the Lord lead us to His place for us. We can't let need direct us because the gospel is needed everywhere here. So we must depend on the Holy Spirit to lead us. We will keep you informed on the fields that we visit so that you can pray with us.

First of all, I am wondering if you have a good map of Japan. Taking it for granted that you don't, I am going to send you one in the near future.

The place that we visited last week is about 30 hours by train from Tokyo. We spent our time in Saga and Nagasaki prefectures. Our friend, Herbert Mil-len, (independent Assembly of God), lives in Karatsu City (50,000). He is the only missionary there. There are four churches in this town, but all of them are liberal and not very active. We traveled by bus over terrible roads through village after village which reminded us very much of Cuba except there were no palm trees. These villages have no witness for Christ except about once a year someone comes through and passes out tracts. The first large town that we visited was Takeo (40,000). It has one liberal Presbyterian church with 25 to 30 active members. It is surrounded by dozens of villages. (It is very hard to count villages here because in every little valley and around every curve in the road there is a village.) Of course these places have no witness since the Presbyterian church only ministers to those who happen to come to service. They make no effort to reach the unevangelized around them. We were impressed more by this location than any of the others.

After this we visited Kashima (35,- 000), about 45 minutes by bus from Takeo. There we found an active Baptist church with 60 to 70 active members, and about 2 or 3 out stations, but they did not feel that they could take care of the area alone. This was the only church in this area. Of course Kashima is surrounded by villages too.

The next day we visited three other places, namely: Imari, Arita and Sasebo.

Imari is a town of 23,000 people and only a Catholic church with an Italian priest. The last Protestant missionary who lived in this town was forced, by the town people, to leave. No doubt they were influenced by the Catholics.

Arita (20,000) has a Presbyterian meeting with 15 or so in attendance, but no church.

Sasebo (200,000) is the only place that looks like a real city in the area. It is a wicked city influenced by the American sailors there. There are six Protestant churches there, but only two of them are considered evangelical. There are three missionaries in Sasebo. Two of them run an orphanage (mostly for half American children), and the other one, an elderly lady, has been working among the sailors.

In order to get a true picture of this area you must visualize the fact that each of these towns are connected by a chain of villages, one after the other, where out stations, Sunday school and tract work could be done. It is a lonesome area for the foreigner because very few foreigners live in this area except for the sailors at Sasebo. There is an American missionary and Italian priest in Karatsu, an Italian priest in Imari and three American missionaries in Sasebo. This would mean that choosing this area would eliminate the possibility of fellowship with other foreigners. Fellowship, we have learned from others already on the field, is a very important aspect of the missionaries' lives. But the Herseys would soon be joining us and the Lord can give us grace.

Next month we are planning a trip up north to Hokkaido. Pray with us that God's will may be done.

I think you understand that Japan is strictly divided in two groups: the liberals and the evangelicals. This must be taken into consideration when we survey these fields. Most evangelicals here do not make any consideration at all for the liberals when they go into an area to work. They do their work as if no other Christian work was being done there. What is your thinking on this matter? Would you please give me a statement on this. I do not mean to say that we should agree with them but how far should we go in making a break with them? Should we counsel with them concerning the area where we both are working?

Frankly we did not want to return to Tokyo. Tokyo is modern and almost like living in the states, but when we saw all of the towns and villages without the knowledge of Christ we wanted to stay; but we must follow the Lord and we still feel that we should be in language school for a while longer yet. The next three months we plan to study Bible in Japanese which will prepare us to present the message that we have come to Japan to preach. In God's time we will go to some of the villages where Christ is not known and tell them of Him who can give them real Life.

Lesson: Acts 16:6-10; 18:5-11.

Golden Text: 1 Corinthians 1:23, 24.

I. INTRODUCTION

A great many eventful things happened to Paul between his preaching at Antioch of Pisidia, the place we left him in last Sunday's lesson, and the place we find him today. He had completed his first missionary journey, having been stoned and left for dead in one place; but, having been strengthened by the Spirit, he continued his journey and reported back to the church in Antioch in Syria.

Now he has begun his second journey with Silas as his companion instead of Barnabas. He has visited the churches of Asia which he organized on the first journey. At Lystra, where he was stoned on his first journey, he has paused on this second trip to ordain Timothy and add him to the party.

We see him now at a point of the second journey at which his plans are being revised. Although the subject of this lesson is Claiming the Cities for Christ, we choose to interpret it in terms of the work of the Holy Spirit in the life of Paul. We may learn here that victories for Christ can only be won as His servants are willing to let the Holy Spirit lead them.—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. When the Holy Spirit blocks our path, we can then be sure that our plans are wrong (16:6, 7).

2. One way or another the Lord will reveal His plans for those who strive to do His will (16:8, 9).

3. Those who are in the will of the Lord are ready to go when He shows them the way (Vs. 10).

4. The presence of his buddies is always a boost to the man who is fighting the battle alone (18:5).

5. Those who oppose the Word of the Lord really oppose themselves in the end (18:6).

6. When a door is closed to the gospel of Christ, the Lord is able to open another (18:7).

7. Those who are hungry for the bread of life will flock to God's table wherever it is spread (18:8).

8. Men are impotent to dispense with God's man before his work for the Lord is done (18:9, 10).

9. A revival that lasts for eighteen months will always get surprising results (18:11).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Our Lord, among many other titles, wears the name of "Captain" of those who possess salvation (Hebrews 2:10). The last of the standing orders He delivered to the church is the commission to preach the gospel to every nation, tribe and kindred of men on the surface of the whole, round globe. Suppose the earlier Christians had not obeyed that order? It is highly probable that we English-speaking peoples would still be in the bondage of savagery and darkness. In the days of our Lord, the British Isles were peopled with wild, heathen tribes. So fierce were these men of an animalistic culture, that even mighty Rome was never able to subdue them. When the Roman Legions won a precarious foothold on the island, they built a great wall at the extreme limit of their conquered strip, to hold back the savage hordes which incessantly swept against them. Behind that wall they fought again and again, until they finally gave up the idea of conquest.

2. The famed Tenth Legion, often called "Caesar's Own," was the spearhead of this fighting force. Their annals tell much of the manner of men the native tribesmen were. The Roman records state that the wild men of Britain fought naked, with their bodies decked in blue paint. We are told that when they slew an enemy they drank his blood, and used his skill for a drinking cup. They had a primitive religion, and lived by pillage and by the chase.

3. One generation fitted that picture, and then a change was wrought with such startling suddenness that the following generation found itself treading a pathway which led to culture and civilization. What wrought this amazing change? The gospel of Jesus Christ!

To those wild peoples a missionary went, and Anglo-Saxon culture and civilization is the present result. Barbarism, brutality, and the Christian message cannot live together in the same race of men. If the gospel had not reached Britain, by means of a great missionary, there is no reason to suppose that a change would have been made.—Dr. Harry Rimmer.

4. Now it is noticeable that the first Christian churches were established in cities. There may have been one in the village of Emmaus, but nothing is said about it. The churches in the Bible were located in Jerusalem and Antioch and the cities of Galatia and of Asia Minor, Philippi, Thessalonica, Athens and Corinth: to say nothing about Rome. After all, the gospel is for sinners, and it is commonly understood that the people in cities are greater sinners than those who live in the villages. If I were a healer, I would go to the hospitals where I would find sick people. As a missionary, I would go to the city, not only on account of the sinners, but on account of the children. But I certainly would not forget about the people who live in the rural areas and in the villages, and who come to the city on many occasions.—The Bible Illustrator.

The generalship of the Holy Spirit is apparent. He had Paul establish a church in large cities such as Philippi, Corinth and Ephesus, and then go elsewhere, leaving these churches to evangelize the rural areas and smaller towns near them.

5. Not all closed doors are of Satan. Do we not read in Revelation 3:7, "... he that hath the key of David, He that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth"; and is not this a statement of the fact that Jesus Christ moves sovereignly in the proclamation of His Gospel? Our Lord either directs or permits a door to close or open; all is according to His eternal plan. And the servant of God might experience some grievous disappointment in the matter of closed doors, blame it on Satan, and in due time learn that it was entirely of the Lord.—Selected.

6. After World War I, Russia was open to gospel preaching, but the church failed to seize the opportunity. As a result Communism moved in and Russia became a menace to world peace.

Set your goal high. You may not reach it, but you'll put on muscle climbing toward it.—Edgemont F. W. B. Chalmenger, Durham, N. C.

THE MAIL BOX

Position Wanted

"Miss Sara Willoughby, a young lady in our church, is interested in full time Christian work. I would like to know of any church which desires someone such as Miss Willoughby for full time work. Miss Willoughby attended our Bible College in Nashville, Tennessee, for three semesters and has completed her secretarial course at Coastal Business College, Norfolk, Virginia. She is qualified to work both as a church secretary and a youth director.

"I would recommend Miss Willoughby as a devout Christian of unquestionable integrity and dependability. She enjoys a splendid reputation in our church, Hickory Chapel, Ahoskie, North Carolina, and in our community. I would appreciate any helpful information you could give me."—Rev. Walter Reynolds, Ahoskie, North Carolina.

Commendation for Paper

"Greetings in the precious name of Jesus Christ, our Redeemer, Saviour and King. I am well as common in body, happy in spirit, and enjoying the good things that our heavenly Father gives His children. I am enjoying the sweet fellowship of the born-again, blood-bought, blood-washed, Spirit-filled people of God. Hope you are the same.

"I first began taking The Free Will Baptist in 1919, and I think it is a great paper. I began writing for it in 1935. I think you are doing a good job on it now. I thank God for you. May He ever bless and keep you true. . . . May you ever be able to publish the great doctrines of Free Will Baptists—free will, free grace, free salvation and free and open communion, which I hold so dear to my heart.

"I beg to be your humble brother in Christ."
Elder Colonel Pendleton, 127 University Court, Nashville 10, Tennessee.

Card of Thanks

"I want to take this opportunity to thank my many friends and relatives for the nice gifts and cards I received on my recent birthday. May the Lord bless you all is my prayer."—Rev. W. B. Nobles, Winterville, North Carolina.

Faithfulness

"He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much." If you were going to employ a man to do a piece of work which you considered very important you would want to secure a man who had done less important jobs well. In the business world many a young man has risen from office boy to a "higher-up," or even to partnership in the firm because of his faithfulness in the little things, or his ability to follow orders without arguing the subject. God is looking for men and women who will do faithfully the "little" things that come their way. When they have done this He can trust them with greater duties. "Them that honour Me, I will honour." If a child's mother would tell it to bring an armload of wood in for the kitchen fire and it would run away to play and not obey the command, could she safely trust it to carry ten dollars to the bank for deposit? How would she know that the bank would be reached by the child? We are God's children and if we do not obey, or are not faithful in the least, how could we expect Him to trust us with much?—Herald of Light.

NATION-WIDE LEAGUE CONFERENCE

The cover picture on this issue and that of next week will show scenes on the campus of East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina, the site of the Seventh Nation-wide Free Will Baptist League Conference. It will be held June 12-14, 1956. The Free Will Baptist extends a hearty welcome to leaguers throughout the nation who may attend the conference.

The Free Will Baptist Press has extended an invitation, through the National League Board, to all who attend the conference to visit this institution which prints the league and Sunday school literature. As a result, the authorities are planning a tour of the Press for people attending the conference. We are looking forward with joyous anticipation to this visit from the youth of the denomination and others who may be in attendance. We are planning to have guides conduct our visitors through the institution, giving detailed information and showing samples of work in every stage of processing from the time the manuscript reaches the desk of the editor until the finished quarterlies are packed for mailing. Will you plan to attend the conference, and will you be sure to visit us while in this area?

The National League Board is planning a program for the conference around the keynote, Faith Is the Victory, which will offer information and inspiration to those in attendance. The first session will open on Tuesday evening, June 12, at 7:30. The closing session will be held on the following Thursday evening at 7:30. We are expecting hundreds of young people to come from all over the nation.

For the benefit of those who will want accommodations, we offer the following information which we are adapting from the publicity folder arranged by the league board:

"You will, of course, be responsible for the cost of your own room and meals while here; however, we have arranged with East Carolina College for 600 rooms—300 for men and 300 for women. The rates are $4 per person for the three days, linens included. For reservations write Nation-Wide Free Will Baptist League Conference, Box 468, Greenville, North Carolina.

"Reservations may be secured from hotels and motels as follows:

"Hotel Proctor—single rooms without bath, $2.84; single room with bath, $3.87; double with bath, $5.67.

"Smith's Motel—single, $4; double, $6; family rooms accommodating four persons, $7.

"Kenland Motel—single, $5; double $7; family rooms accommodating four persons, $10.

"All motel rooms have private baths and are air-conditioned. Hotel and motel rates are daily. For hotel or motel reservations, communicate directly with the hotel or motel which you prefer. Your letter will reach them if you just address it to them at Greenville, North Carolina. You should make your reservations immediately, asking for confirmation.

"The following arrangements have been made for meals: East Carolina College will operate one of its larger cafeterias for our convenience at regular student prices. It will be possible to purchase three meals daily for $2; however, as in any cafeteria, you can determine the cost by the amount of your selections. Upon arrival, you will be furnished a list of public eating establishments which you may patronize if you prefer to do so."

Finally, will you consider this as an urgent invitation from the editor for you to attend the Seventh Nation-Wide Free Will Baptist League Conference, and for you to visit The Free Will Baptist Press while you are just ten miles away?

WRITERS' CONFERENCE PROGRAM

The program for the Free Will Baptist Writers' Conference at Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, June 18-21, is shaping up nicely in that acceptances of invitations for special contributions to the program are beginning to come to the editor's desk.

We feel that we are extremely fortunate in that we have been able to secure the services of Mr. Walter Spearman of the School of Journalism, the University of North Carolina, during the conference. Mr. Spearman will serve as instructor in journalism throughout the conference, and as counselor to the members of the editorial staff. He is well qualified to give some valuable assistance to all of us who write. His training at the University of North Carolina plus one year's study in France is complemented by his wide experience in writing and editing.

Mr. Spearman worked with The Charlotte News for five years. During the war he wrote training textbooks for the United States Quartermaster Corps. He has edited the Alumni Review of the University of North Carolina and served as managing editor of Christian Frontiers, a Baptist magazine. He writes a weekly book review column, The Literary Lantern, for five state newspapers, a book column for The State Magazine, and five or six editorials each week for The Greensboro Daily News. These services are in addition to his position on the journalism staff of the university, a post which he has held since 1935. He is also a member of the board of deacons of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church.

The services of Mr. Spearman will be only one feature of the conference. We are also planning periods of worship, doctrinal discussion and a study of style peculiar to our publications. We hope to have reports from denominational leaders who may attend the conference.

If you have a desire to do religious writing, particularly for our publications, be sure to attend this conference if you can possibly do so.

Progress at Cedar Grove Church

Rev. J. Albert Harris
234 Sycamore Avenue
Newport News, Virginia

WE began our work with the Cedar Grove Free Will Baptist Church near Hamilton, North Carolina, in October, 1945. The Rev. Allen Bryan, being the former pastor, had begun shaping the membership into a planned program. His plans ran along the same direction as ours, and the year 1955 proved to be a very successful one. During the year we had two successful evangelistic campaigns: in the spring, the Rev. Charlie Hamilton, and in the fall, the Rev. Billy Jackson.

Last fall the Sunday school enrollment grew to 75 with an average attendance of from 40 to 55. The pastor and the Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Clifton Hollis, worked hand in hand encouraging the increase of attendance.

The church group decided that services once a month were not enough to interest and encourage the church and Sunday school into growth. It was voted to go on half-time for the church year of 1955-56 with services being changed from second Sundays to first and third Sundays each month. A church calendar was then set up and officers of the entire organization were instructed in their duties. I must say that this has been a very cooperative group this entire year.

We promised to take a picture when the attendance reached 100% of the enrollment. The attendance began to slowly increase until the third Sunday in February, 1956, we had 75 present. There were 75 present with four visitors. Pictures were taken of each class and of the entire school and placed on the bulletin board. Since then the attendance has been 75 or more except on Easter when we had 91 present. How we praise the Lord for this increased interest!

Easter week the Rev. Billy Jackson of New Bern, North Carolina, was with us as evangelist for a mighty revival. Many have mentioned to me of having a deeper experience and a closer walk with God by having attended the revival. Two souls came forward that week, one accepting Christ and the other renewing her vows to God. The revival fires are still continuing to burn. On April 15 two others came to the altar, one to accept Christ and the other to renew his vows and unite with the church by statement. We praise God for these who have taken this stand.

Our goal for the Sunday school by June 1 is one hundred. Everyone is working toward reaching this goal. When it happens we plan a big Sunday school rally. Last quarter our school was represented at the quarterly Sunday school convention for the first time.

We also have a good woman's auxiliary and brotherhood; both are doing a wonderful work in a wonderful, spiritual way. Their fellowship is wonderful. The brotherhood laid a new floor in the church a year ago, and this year they painted the building outside and landscaped the grounds.

May I ask that our praying Christian friends remember us in your prayers. There are wonderful possibilities in this church for there is a large group of young people. The young people of the church today are the active church of tomorrow. Their strength depends upon the encouragement and instruction given them today while growing in the Christian life. We are doing all that is within our power to do just this.

We shall be happy to have any of our friends worship with us at any time. Visitors are always welcome in our services.

Now, It Is Too Late!

The little girl's face was all aglow! Her eyes were shining! "Daddy, it's almost time for Sunday school. Let's go! They teach us there of Jesus' love. They teach us how He died for our sin!" Said Daddy to his little girl, "Oh, no, not today. I've worked hard all week. I'm going out today to fish and rest. I must have one day of rest, and fishing is fine, they say. So run along. Don't bother me. We'll go to church some other day!" Years have glided by. Daddy hears no more the plea, "Let's go to Sunday school!" Daddy is now in the late afternoon of life. He has time now to go to God's house. But what does daughter do? She says, "Oh, Daddy, not today. I stayed up almost all night last night. I've just got to get some sleep!"

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: 'It might have been'"—Selected.

I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes

Naaman Borders
Waverly, Ohio

DAVID said, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help" (Psalm 121:1). There is something about the hills and mountains that gives us strength and inspiration. We know that on many occasions Christ went up into the mountains to pray. He gave His first great sermon on a mountain. He took Peter, James and John up on a mountain and was transfigured before them. He went through the greatest of temptations on top of a mountain where He was shown all the kingdoms of the earth by the devil. (The devil himself knew the inspiration that the mountains gave and used it to enhance his nefarious purposes.)

When the Lord gave Moses the law, He took him up into the mountains. When Moses had finished his life's work, he was taken up into a high mountain to have a talk with God before his death. When Abraham was commanded to offer his son, Isaac, upon the altar, he was directed to go upon a mountain to perform the task; but God, seeing his willingness to obey, gave him a lamb to offer instead. When John, the Revelator, gave his beautiful description of the New Jerusalem he was on a mountain. We could give many more stories in which the mountains were a place for meditation, worship or inspiration. Somehow the awe-inspiring mountains furnish us with a frame of worship and adoration that can be found nowhere else. Somehow the charm of the sky seems to hallow us there as nowhere else. In the mountains a holy hush envelops our soul, and we feel as David did when he said, "Let every thing that hath breath praise the LORD. . . ." (Psalm 150:6).

When I think of the mountains, I am reminded of Cragmont Assembly near Black Mountain, North Carolina. When I first began reading about the work of the Free Will Baptists there, I said, "Thank the Lord, I like it very much!" Of course Cragmont is primarily for our young folk, I suppose; and that makes me feel young again. You parents who have children should by all means avail yourselves of the great opportunity of sending them there. If they are not Christians, Cragmont is a place where they can be drawn to Christ. The cost in money is very small indeed when compared to the worth of a soul. So don't let any frivolous thing hinder you from sending your children to Cragmont. The young people of today will be our church of tomorrow.

Some people try to argue that children don't know what they are doing when they accept Christ and religion. Jesus said, ". . . Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven" (Matthew 19:14). Jesus not only said children, He said little children. If children don't come into the church, pray tell us what we will do. Some older people are so set in their ways that you can't touch them. Some will scarcely come to church to hear the gospel message, and when they do happen to come they can't be moved. Some are afraid to attend a red-hot revival for fear of getting under conviction. They feel that it's an open season on sinners, so they abscond to what they call safe ground. But alas! it's to their own damnation.

Some of our churches are waking up to the value of outdoor worship. A group of people in my home town are repairing to a mountain lake for worship next Sunday, and we surely do approve of it. Somehow it seems that we can get closer to God in the mountains. I have been trying to get our brethren to see the worth of building a tabernacle in the hills here so we could hold revivals. We could sponsor gatherings there and could get better acquainted with other Christians. Such meetings would increase the love in our hearts for our fellow Christians. Jesus said, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another" (John 13:35).

In speaking of bringing the young people to Christ, it is ten times easier to bring them now than it will be ten years from now. Billy Graham says that not one in ten thousand will turn to Christ after he passes 35 years of age. Anyway we know that it is harder to reach them when they get older. The following poem explains how much easier it is for the Master to mold a young life than it is an older one:

PLASTIC YOUTH

I took a piece of plastic clay
And idly fashioned it one day;
And as my fingers pressed it still
It moved and yielded to my will.

I came again when days were passed,
The bit of clay was hard at last;
The form I gave it still it bore,
But I could change that form no more.

I took a piece of living clay
And gently formed it day by day;
And moulded with my power and art
A young child's soft and yielding heart.

I came again when years were gone,
It was a man I looked upon;
He still that early impress bore,
And I could change that form no more.

—McLead.

Twelve Views of the Cross

The soldiers saw in Christ a criminal with cruelty.

The woman saw in Christ a benefactor, or, with sorrow.

His mother saw in Christ a son, with anguish.

The disciples saw in Christ blighted hopes with perplexity.

The first thief saw in Christ a malefactor, with hardness.

The second thief saw in Christ a king with patience.

The centurian saw in Christ divinity with conviction.

The priest saw in Christ an imposter with mockery.

Angels saw in Christ love, with wonder.

Devils saw in Christ "the Seed of the woman," with dismay.

Jehovah saw in Christ obedience, with affection.

The passers-by saw in Christ nothing with indifference.—D. L. Moody.

June Is Cragmont Emphasis Month

The Repair Fund Drive for Cragmont Assembly near Black Mountain, North Carolina, is making an S O S call to all Free Will Baptists in North Carolina. Conference time is during the month of June, and the beloved assembly still needs quite a few repairs such as plumbing fixtures, added kitchen equipment and other facilities.

All Free Will Baptist organizations are urged to make the first Sunday in June Repair Fund Sunday and to make special offerings for the assembly. Mrs. L. E. Ballard, field representative, will be glad to assist in any project launched in behalf of Cragmont Assembly. The approved goals are as follows: churches, $30; Sunday schools, $6; leagues, $3; and woman's auxiliaries, $25 (through apron fund).

Send all funds to Cragmont Assembly, Black Mountain, North Carolina, and be sure to earmark them for the repair fund. All woman's auxiliaries should send their offerings to Mrs. M. A. Woodard, Winterville, North Carolina, and they should be earmarked for the Cragmont Apron Fund.

Oak Ridge Church Gets New Pastor

The Oak Ridge Free Will Baptist Church, Oak Ridge, Tennessee, which was organized a year ago under the leadership of the Rev. J. M. Crowson, was recently left without a pastor when Mr. Crowson resigned to take a position in Nashville, Tennessee, where he expects to enter the Free Will Baptist Bible College this fall to complete his education for the ministry.

This church recently elected the Rev. Fred B. Wiseman of Sweetwater, Tennessee, to fill this vacancy. Mr. Wiseman is a native Tennessean. He was born in Monroe County and has spent most of his life in and around Sweetwater. He is the founder and former pastor of Burl's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church of Sweetwater. Mr. Wiseman has been a preacher for 31 years, beginning at the age of 15 years. For 21 years he has been a member of the Western Quarterly Meeting of Tennessee. In addition to that he is now also a member of the ordaining council. He is a very capable leader and able speaker and the public is cordially invited to hear him.

At the present services are being held in Room 142 of the Jefferson Junior High School. The congregation is planning to soon build a church plant on a site which they recently purchased near Calvary lina, will be the evangelist in revival services at Walnut Creek Church near La Grange, North Carolina, June 3-9, 1956.

Services will begin each evening at 7:30. The public is invited and urged to attend these services.

Home-Coming Program at N. C. Free Will Baptist Orphanage

The North Carolina Free Will Baptist Orphanage, Middlesex, North Carolina, will hold its annual home-coming, Sunday, June 10, 1956, beginning at 10:30 a. m. The Rev. R. H. Jackson, superintendent of the home, announces the following program for the day:

Rev. C. E. Keith Has Faith Radio Program

The Rev. C. E. Keith, pastor of the Washington, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church, is conducting a radio program over Station WRRF, Washington, North Carolina, every Sunday afternoon, 1:35-2:00 p. m.

The program, consisting of gospel singing and gospel preaching, is financed by freewill offerings. Mr. Keith urges all who are within range of the station to tune in for these services. He further urges that contribution to pay for the time be mailed to The Shut-In Hour, Station WRRF, Washington, North Carolina.

Modesto, California, Church News

The Modesto, California, Free Will Baptist Church, under the direction of the pastor, the Rev. O. H. Doss, reports that its income for the 1955-56 fiscal year was $11,305.90. The church's expenses totaled $10,827.56, leaving a cash balance of $478.35 in the bank.

The average attendance in the Modesto Sunday School for the month of April was 153, the league 59 and the woman's auxiliary 14.

Forty-Year-Old Minister Graduates from High School

A 40-year-old Free Will Baptist minister graduated recently from the Princeton, North Carolina, High School as salutatorian of his class.

The Rev. Leonard Woodall, pastor of Casey's Chapel Church near Goldsboro, North Carolina, and Corinth Church in Sampson County, enrolled as a freshman four years ago when he came to the conclusion that a man can't tell someone else something he doesn't know himself.

The pastor was 35 years old when he entered school, the father of three children. His older daughter, Barbara, was a junior at the Princeton School at that time and graduated two years ago with honors. She attended Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, and served as secretary at the Free Will Baptist Orphanage, Middlesex, North Carolina, the past year. Another daughter, Faye, is in the ninth grade this year, and a son, Hal, is a third grade student at Brodgen School in Johnston County. "The children," he said, "were glad to have me come back to school, but they've always had a democratic part in the home anyhow."

A farmer, as well as a minister and a student, Mr. Woodall commuted to school daily from the Brodgen section of Johnston County. It was rough sometimes, he admits wryly, to sit still in class when he'd always led such an active life. The first year was the worst. By special permission he carried two English classes, requiring 12 book reports.

To get everything accomplished meant staying on a set schedule. He made pastoral calls one afternoon every other week in each of the two communities he served, driving to the community at the close of the school day. The first and third Sundays of each month he preaches at Casey's Chapel and at Corinth on the second and fourth Sundays. This is his fourth year at the Corinth Church. When he went there, there were 28 students enrolled in the Sunday school. The enrollment now is 90. The church has spent $7,000 on the church in the last few years, and has raised the pastor's salary from $225 to $900 a year.

Mr. Woodall began preaching in 1951 after taking an ecclesiastical examination of church doctrine, and was ordained in 1952. Before then he had farmed and worked during the fall months with a tobacco warehouse in Smithfield, North Carolina.

"Frankly, I don't see how I managed it," Mr. Woodall says candidly. All the same, he has already registered for the fall semester at Mount Olive College to begin work on a bachelor of arts degree.

New Association Organized in Texas

On May 11, 12, 1956, the Fellowship Association was organized at the Trinity Free Will Baptist Church, Fort Worth, Texas. Churches in this new organization are as follows: Trinity, Love Temple, Bethel, First Church of Fort Worth, First Church of Denton and First Church of Weatherford.

At this meeting a request was also made for help in organizing a new Free Will Baptist church in Arlington, Texas. The officers of the Fellowship Association of Texas are as follows: Rev. C. J. Hearron, moderator; Rev. M. L. Sutton, assistant moderator; Rev. C. J. Turrentine, clerk-treasurer; Mrs. Jerry Schick, assistant clerk; and Rev. J. B. Estes Jr., parliamentarian.

Folkstone Church Reports Church Activities

Mrs. C. G. Summerlin, reporter for the Folkstone, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church of which the Rev. L. L. Parker is pastor, reports the activities of the church.

The Rev. Sam Kennedy of Greenville, North Carolina, conducted a revival at the church the week of May 20.

The church has services each third Sunday morning and each fourth weekend with the Rev. L. L. Parker as pastor. Sunday school is held each Sunday morning at ten o'clock with Mr. M. F. Duff as superintendent. League services are held each Sunday evening at seven o'clock with Mrs. Virginia Hardison and Mrs. Virginia Gurganus as supervisors. Mr. Parker conducts prayer services each Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. The church has a wonderful auxiliary with Circle No. 1 meeting every first Tuesday night and Circle No. 2 meeting every first Monday night. A young people's auxiliary has been organized which meets each first Tuesday night of the month.

The vacation Bible school for Folks-tone Church will open Monday morning, June 4, at nine o'clock, and continue for two weeks. Mrs. O. B. Everett will service the school as superintendent.

Attention North Carolina Vacation Bible Schools

The Rev. W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive College, Mount Olive, North Carolina, submits the following message to all North Carolina vacation Bible schools requesting them to donate their offerings toward the purpose of a large institutional type stove for the kitchen of the college cafeteria:

"You can help us obtain our stove by sending the offerings from your vacation Bible school to the college. In this manner our young people will be having a personal part in helping to build a college where they can continue their education beyond high school.

"I am sure we can depend on your support and I will be looking forward to receiving a contribution from your vacation Bible school with a note that it is for our stove fund. We will appreciate your helping the college in this manner."

Washington Church Completes Revival

The Washington, North Carolina, Free Will Baptist Church completed its spring revival on May 13, 1956. The Rev. Clyde Cox of Saratoga, North Carolina, was the evangelist during the revival, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. Charles Keith.

The revival was preceded by a week of prayer sponsored by the woman's auxiliary of the church. Mrs. Earl Gaskins makes the following statement: "The revival was a great success. Biblical and powerful gospel messages were delivered each night along with beautiful singing by Rev. Cox, the church choir and groups from neighboring Free Will Baptist churches. One person was converted during the revival and one other person rededicated his life to the Lord."

Rev. C. L. Patrick to Conduct Macedonia Revival

The Rev. C. L. Patrick of Walstonburg, North Carolina, will be the evangelist for revival services at the Macedonia Free Will Baptist Church, Ernul, North Carolina, June 3-17, 1956. The Rev. D. W. Alexander of Bethel, North Carolina, is pastor of the church. A cordial invitation is extended everyone to attend these services.

cause of the location of the Institute on the West coast, many in the eastern part of the United States and Canada, although interested in the program, have been unable to attend. Repeated requests have been made for opening a branch of the Institute in the East.

To meet this demand the National Committee, in cooperation with the Methodist Board of Temperance, has voted to launch an eastern section of the Institution to convene on the campus of the American University in Washington, D. C., from July 30 to August 10, 1956.

As the trend in modern medicine is toward preventive medicine rather than mere curative procedures, the emphasis will be focused on effective educational discussion of measures that will prevent the rise and spread of alcoholism.

The Institute of Scientific Studies is conducted under the auspices of the National Committee for the Prevention of Alcoholism. Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, chairman, Dr. Haven Emerson, vice-chairman, and other distinguished physicians and educators will participate in the Institute.

The course of study will give school administrators, teachers, physicians, clergymen, editors, temperance and social welfare workers scientific facts and basic information that will qualify them to work more effectively in solving the alcohol problem in their respective communities.

Those in the eastern part of the United States and Canada who are interested in attending this Institute may secure application forms and announcements from the National Committee for the Prevention of Alcoholism, 6804 Eastern Avenue, Northwest, Washington 12, D. C.

Revival Completed at Columbia, South Carolina

The revival held by the Original Free Will Baptist Church of 33 Bluff Road, Columbia, South Carolina, was completed on May 6, 1956. The young people of the church took charge of the opening services, while the brethren of the church were assisted throughout the revival by the local young ministers.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. J. A. Frier, says, "During our revival nine people gave their hearts to the Lord. We thank God for the many blessings He bestowed upon us during these services. We request the prayers of the people that we may continue to grow in the work of the Lord."

Questions and Answers ON THE BIBLE

Conducted by J. F. BARROW

3824 Richland Avenue, Nashville 5, Tennessee

Question: Were believers who accepted Christ's invitations, such as the one given in Matthew 11:28, born again? Were those in Moses' or Isaiah's day? Or could one be born again as Jesus requested of Nicodemus before the day of Pentecost? Will it be possible for one to be born of the Spirit after he is gone as is suggested in 2 Thessalonians 2:7? —G. Thompson, Woodbine, Tennessee.

Answer: There is a sense in which God made provision for fallen man before He created our first parents. In this sense God the Father offered Jesus Christ as the Lamb slain before the foundation of the world. "And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world" (Revelation 13:8). The Scriptures tell us that this offering was made through the everlasting covenant (agreement between God the Father and God the only begotten Son). In this agreement or according to it God the Father resurrected God the Son. "Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant" (Hebrews 13:20); also, "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?" (Hebrews 9:14). There is also a definite sense in which "... the blood of Jesus Christ his (God's) Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7). This cleansing of Jesus' blood includes all the saints of the past, present and future, from Abel, whom Cain slew, until the last person is saved. Read the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. Abel made his offering by faith; because of this it was accepted; Cain offered his without faith and it was not accepted. Evidently Cain was lost, but Abel was saved.

Dr. K. S. Wuest, professor of New Testament Greek at the Moody Bible Institute, says in his book, Hebrews in the Greek New Testament, "When the Old Testament saint offered his sacrifice his faith leaped the centuries where he beheld Jesus dying on the Cross." Jesus Himself says, "Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day: and he saw it, and was glad" (John 8:56). Again, we read in the Bible, "For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sins" (Hebrews 10:4); "... and without shedding of blood is no remission" (Hebrews 9:22). Since this is true there is only one logical conclusion viz., Christ's blood and it alone cleanses from sin. In each dispensation God provided sufficient instructions so that any who desired might come for cleansing and this applies alike to those of every generation from the time the first sin was committed until and including the last saint that comes into a right relationship with God. When Abel brought of the firstlings of his flock (Genesis 4:4), he did it by faith. See Hebrews 11:4. In other words he did what God had told him to do to atone for his sin, believing that what God had said would happen and it did happen. He was saved. Abraham, likewise, exercised his faith, both in believing what God said and in doing what He required of him. In this he was saved. "... Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness" (Romans 4:3). "By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went" (Hebrews 11:8). Read 11:8-14. "Was not Abraham our father justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar? Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect? And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God" (James 2:21-23).

In this day we are not called upon to offer sheep or other animals, but our own bodies. "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service" (Romans 12:1). If you will follow the events in Elijah's life, one after another, you will find him praying and getting answers to his prayers, but that is not all; you will find him obeying God as he subjected himself to many dangers, humanly speaking; therefore it is rightly said of him "Elias was a man subject to like passions as we are, and he prayed earnestly that it might not rain: and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six months. And he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit" (James 5:17, 18).

It seems that Jesus meant to teach that men of His day might be saved. See Luke 16:19-31. Another example to bear this out may be found in what He says of John the Baptist, "... Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist: ..." (Matthew 11:11). It is also quite evident that the thief on the cross was saved. Consider here the prayer of the thief and the promise or answer of Jesus. "And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom. And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To day shalt thou be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:42, 43).

That there has been a difference in the manner by which the believer acts in becoming identified with God and in being equipped for service in the kingdom could hardly be denied. "And, being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me. ... But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth" (Acts 1:4, 8). Jesus told Nicodemus what must happen to him and I feel sure that sometime after the discourse in John 3 was given, he became a believer since he was listed among the disciples and since he helped in the burial of Jesus' body. But in the sense that Jesus spoke of the Holy Spirit in John 14 and 16, He did not come until the day of Pentecost and therefore in that sense men were not born of the Spirit prior to that occasion. Jesus was led of the Spirit, He breathed on the disciples and they were enabled by the Spirit to fulfill their duty even to the casting out of demons, healing the sick, etc., but they had not experienced what they did after the Holy Spirit came to abide throughout this whole age as He is here now.

The Lighted Pathway

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path
(PSALM 119:105).

REV. WILLET L. MORETZ
SWANNANOA, N. C.

"The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God"
(PSALM 9:17).

I have been trying to direct your thinking for the last several weeks to the fact that we might neglect the teachings of God, and the dangers of doing so. Beginning with this article, and continuing for an indefinite period, I want to point out some of the things we are letting slip. You have already observed that my subject this week is "Hell."

Several months ago George W. Cornell, writing on the general subject, "Religion Today," had an article in the larger daily papers with a two-line three column headline in big, black, bold letters, MOST CHURCHES NOW HOLD THERE'S NO REAL HELL FIRE. Mr. Cornell went on to point out some of the views held by the major denominations. In his opening paragraph he says, "Much church opinion today holds there is no real fire in hell." How then, pray tell, is there smoke coming from hell? How was the rich man tormented in this flame?

"You'll find," he continues, "various concepts of hell described in the pulpits and in the learned religious academies, but there won't be nearly as much talk as there used to be about scorching flames and brimstone." However, the rich man begged that Lazarus might be sent "... that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame" (Luke 16: 24). And in Verses 27 and 28 he prayed that Lazarus might be sent to his father's house to testify unto his five brothers "... lest they also come to this place of torment."

Mr. Cornell quoted from leading preachers and educators to give the modern views our people are asked to accept. One pastor from White Plains, New York, referring to the idea that hell is a place of fire for the punishment of the wicked, said, "That's mostly a thing of the past." From one of the leading theological seminaries comes the following, according to Mr. Cornell, "The great view in the more established churches today is that the punishment will be redemptive, not vindictive."

"If the church frightens people into being good, it only holds them so long as they are afraid." Do many of the foregoing bespeak learned ideas? They are to me ideas of those who are trying to escape the plain teaching of God's Word. They are ideas that show conclusively that we are letting them slip—we are drifting.

"What, then, is hell?" asks Mr. Cornell, and answers in the following summary, "Among major viewpoints are these:

"1. Hell is spiritual (not physical) suffering after death, which still offers a chance of eventual, perhaps gradual redemption.

"2. Hell is an endless state of self-made spiritual suffering, from which there is no escape after death.

"3. Hell is simply to perish—the complete annihilation of the decadent soul—everlasting destruction.

"4. Hell is both physical and spiritual suffering that never ceases, and with real fire—either of an earthly or unknown kind."

But in order to be fair to the article from which I have been quoting I must give part of the closing paragraph which says, "While many Lutherans (also individual Baptists, Methodists and small marginal denominations) retain the classic idea of a physical burning hell."

Regeneration—Ye Must Be Born Again

Ezekiel 37:1-14

John 3:1-7

I. THE CONDITION OF DEATH (Ezekiel 37:1, 2)

What a scene of death and desolation was that valley of dry bones! It was most likely an ancient battleground where the dead were left unburied.

What a gruesome scene, the harvest of sin! Yet how like this world in a spiritual sense for it is a vast cemetery in which are the dead in trespasses and sin. The dead are unable to do anything for themselves.

II. THE QUESTION OF LIFE (Ezekiel 37:3)

No one looks for movement or life in the field of death, so what a test for faith was the question, "Can these bones live?" Reason would emphatically answer "No." Faith leaves the matter with God. What is impossible to nature is possible to God. There are cases that seem hopeless to us, but nothing is impossible to God.

III. THE WORD OF LIFE (Ezekiel 37:4)

There is life-giving power in the Word of the living God. To preach to dry bones seems utter folly, but the "I will" of

Count Your Wealth

You are rich indeed—if square dealing has brought you that priceless thing, a clear conscience—if good health is your portion—if your measure of cheerfulness, generosity, and forgiveness is enough to overflow for the benefit of others—if you have earned friendship by showing yourself friendly—if you have the gift of appreciation for “life’s extras,” stars, flowers, sunsets; or for a fellow being’s efforts—if you have the inward peace which makes for calm in the midst of storm—if you have the grace of gratitude with which to warm the heart of man and God.

These things money cannot buy, but they make character, and constitute wealth untold—the riches that cannot pass away.—Selected.

the Lord gives power to the preaching. It has pleased God through the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.

IV. THE PROMISE OF LIFE (Ezekiel 37:5-7)

God promised that the power of the Spirit would accompany the preaching of the Word. The breath of life would enter the dry bones. These bones coming to life are a symbol of the new birth or what takes place when a person is saved by the grace of God.

V. THE FACT OF LIFE (Ezekiel 37:7-10)

- A. The operation of the Spirit—breath came.
- B. The impartation of life—they lived.
- C. The evidence of life—they stood.
- D. The fellowship of life—a great army.

VI. THE PARABLE OF LIFE (Ezekiel 37:11-14)

In the interpretation of this scene, Ezekiel is told that the dry bones refer to the house of Israel. However, what God will do for Israel in a future day, He is doing by the grace of God for lost sinners today.

NOTES — AND — QUOTES

By J. C. Griffin

WHAT FREE WILL BAPTISTS BELIEVE AND WHY

(Based on the Treatise of the Faith and Practices of the Original Free Will Baptists)

ALARMING STATISTICS

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reveals some shocking facts about conditions in the United States: "People spend 8 times more time at the movies than at Sunday school; only 1 out of 12 persons attend church; 7 out of 8 children quit church and Sunday school attendance before they reach 15; 15,000,000 sex magazines are printed monthly and read by one third of the people; 1,000,000 girls have venereal diseases; 1,000,000 illegitimate babies are born annually; . . . our nation harbors 3 times as many criminals as college students; of the 40,000,000 children, less than one third have had any religious training whatever; the crime rate has been increasing 4 times faster than the growth of the population."—The Convert.

The Last Days

Upon the authority of God's Word we believe that we are living in the last days. When we read of such conditions as given by Mr. Hoover and compare them with the prophecy as given to us in the Word of God, we are forced to believe that we are in the very last days of the probation of man. Since the rate of crime is increasing 4 times faster than the population, we certainly should ask ourselves, "How much longer can this go on?" Paul said, "But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived" (2 Timothy 3:13). Paul also tells us about perilous times. He says, "This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come" (2 Timothy 3:1). What is the result? "For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, Without natural affection, trucebreakers, false despisers of those that are good, Traitors, heady, highminded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away" (2 Timothy 3:2-5).

Just let us think for a little while of the kind of world Paul predicted for the last days. From what we see published in newspapers, the things we see with our own eyes and hear with our own ears, we are forced to believe that Paul knew what he was talking about. We do not have time nor space to mention and describe every one of the characteristics mentioned by this apostle, but we will discuss disobedience to parents.

Why Are Children Disobedient to Parents?

Children are disobedient sometimes because their parents are lovers of their own selves. Some parents think so much of self and self gratification that they stay out gadding about seeking the pleasures of sinful activities to the extent that their children are neglected. We hear a lot of talk about juvenile delinquency, but let us be honest and say, "If we had better fathers and mothers we would have better children." There are exceptions, of course, to the old adage which says, "There is a black sheep in every flock." We could say there are black sheep in some good families, but this is an exception. What can we expect from the child who sees his mother and father drunk and staggering around using profanity? As father so is son, and as mother so is daughter. A child who never hears a word of Scripture read or a prayer offered in the home does well if he keeps away from crime.

I am getting along in years now, and I have been here long enough to observe that, in nearly all the cases of failures in children, there is trouble in the home. Drunkenness, cursing, fussing, fighting, card playing, theatergoing, worldly, ungodly, pleasure-seeking mothers and fathers cannot produce God-fearing, Christ-loving, obedient children of God. Some of these children may become fine citizens, yes, even Christian boys and girls. But the cause of their Christianity does not lie at the door of the ungodly parent as described beforehand. It is the result of some God-fearing, Christ-loving man or woman who has the interest of children at heart, and by some means has obtained the confidence of these children, leading them to Sunday school and church; thus winning their souls for the Lord Jesus. I have known this very thing to take place. I have seen miracles wrought by real Christians who have the love of God shed abroad in their hearts and who go out of their way to reach and help a child get out of sinful surroundings and to instruct him to seek and to serve the Lord Jesus.

We often hear of children killing their parents. Maybe a small girl kills her father; a boy kills his mother to get the car keys. Back of all this is a cause. Every instance can be traced to a cause. We are not able to give the cause in every case; but if we are willing to search, very often we discover the trouble.

There is a story of a minister who was visiting in a home of a man who was supposed to be a Christian. The host took the preacher out and showed him his kennels and fine breed of dogs. This man knew where every dog belonged and his whereabouts. But when the preacher asked about his own son, the man did not know his whereabouts; he had no trace of him at all. Many fathers take up more time with their dogs than they do with their boys. There are mothers who spend more time in the things of the world than they do in the training of their children. They do not stay with them when they can; they leave them with a maid, often a sinful maid, and go out seeking the pleasures of the world. These are plain facts. It is hard to place such an indictment against parents, but it is the truth.

I have had the opportunity of searching for the cause of failures among youth, and I have found that many of these cases come from broken homes. A large number of children are sent to reformatories every year. These children are products of broken homes—homes where the mother was untrue to her husband or the father untrue to his wife and family. Our liquor stores and gambling dens are producing prostitutes and libertines who bring children into the world, diseased in mind and body, who many times turn out to be criminals.

False Teachers

Another reason for so much crime among youth is the damnable false religions that are being heralded in the faces of children by both parents and false teachers who spread their deadly poison in the homes where these children abound.

"Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils" (1 Timothy 4:1).

"Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1).

Yes, false doctrines in the homes lead children to sin, failure and untimely deaths. Let us pray for the many mothers and fathers who live in sin and death.

BOYS and GIRLS

THE LONE WOLF

Billie Avisttoy

JOHNNY was down on all fours looking under the back porch. Someone said, "Hello. Ready for Sunday school?"

Johnny looked over a shoulder. Ruth, the little girl who lived on the next farm, was standing there.

"I'm not going," Johnny informed her. "I am too busy helping my mother."

Ruth put her hands on her knees and looked at him. "How can you help your mother when you are crawling around under the porch?"

"I am hunting for The Lone Wolf's nest," Johnny said.

Ruth backed away. "Do you have wolves under your porch?"

"Of course not. The Lone Wolf is a chicken." Johnny came from under the porch. "We call her The Lone Wolf 'cause she never lays her eggs in the hen house like the rest of the chickens. She always hides her nest."

Ruth gave her blond curls a toss. "I think Sunday school is more important than eggs. If you don't come we won't have a perfect attendance and then we won't get the 'all present' banner, and you won't get a gold star after your name." She had to stop talking for breath.

The whole Sunday school was having a contest to see which classes could have every member present. Every class that had all its members present got a purple banner with the words 'all present' in gold letters.

Johnny shrugged his shoulders. "I'm going to study my Sunday school lesson this afternoon," he defended himself. "That is almost as good as going to Sunday school. Besides, I don't care about a gold star. And the 'all present' banner is no good."

"It is good too," Ruth declared. "It is an honor."

"I'm going to hunt for The Lone Wolf's nest," Johnny said and started off in the direction of the fence.

"I wish you didn't belong in my class," Ruth stormed. "You always spoil everything by not coming. Besides, you are a bad example. Teacher says people who do not come to Sunday school are bad examples."

"I don't care," Johnny flung over a shoulder.

It was fun hunting for The Lone Wolf's nest. Johnny wanted to find it so he could help Mother win the egg contest.

Johnny looked along the fence. He looked down by the creek. He looked in the meadow. At last he had to give up and go to the house. He told Mother where he had looked.

"I wish I didn't have The Lone Wolf," Mother sighed. "Then I would be sure of winning the contest."

Johnny was a little surprised. He had thought the eggs were all that were necessary.

MOTHER had lost the keys of her trunk and was trying to find a new one to fit the lock. Theodore stood by watching her, as she tried different keys in turn, until finally one was found that opened it like magic. Soon after, Theodore was trying to button his coat in a great hurry to go out to play. But the top button seemed hard to fasten, and, though he tugged, fretted and pulled, he could not manage it. "You haven't tried the right key, Theodore," said Mother. "Why, what key could work this?" exclaimed the little fellow, stopping in surprise. "Suppose you try how the 'patience' key would work there," suggested Mother. And, sure enough, with just a little quiet patience the button was fastened.

Later in the afternoon Theodore came running in again, looking quite vexed. He hardly liked to tell his mother the trouble, but at last it came out that he and some other boys had disagreed over what they should play. Mother was quiet for a little while, then she said,

"How would it help not to have one more hen?" he wanted to know.

Mother explained, "I take all the eggs, divide them by the number of days in the contest, and divide that answer by the number of hens. That way I have the average number of eggs each hen lays. If I do not find The Lone Wolf's eggs she will cut down on the average. I will have to count her in the flock. The other hens will have to make up for her loss of eggs." Mother sighed. "I'm glad the other hens don't follow her bad example and hide their eggs."

"She is a selfish hen," Daddy laughed. Johnny laughed too. "I never heard of a selfish hen before," he said. "I just heard of selfish people."

"Selfish people are like The Lone Wolf," Daddy told him. "They do what they want to. They don't care about other people's feelings."

Johnny laughed. "They don't care about contests either, I guess." Then he sobered. Ruth had said she wished he didn't belong in her class because he spoiled everything. He was a bad example for the other children.

"After this I am going to Sunday school every Sunday," he decided. "I don't especially care about gold stars and 'all present' banners. I like to study my Sunday school lesson out under the cherry tree in the garden. But I don't want to be a selfish lone wolf and keep other people from winning contests and banners."—Selected.

A Bunch of Keys

thoughtfully: "I wonder how the key of 'unselfishness' would work there." Theodore was puzzled for a moment, and then a bright look of understanding came into his face, and with a smile he went out to play again. He was beginning to understand about these wonderful keys with which God provides us.

Before bedtime Theodore found another chance to try the powers of one of Mother's useful keys. It was just about his little brother Ted's sleepy time, and the wee man was inclined to be rather cross and unreasonable. But Theodore remembered what a small boy Ted was, and didn't answer him back. So, as it always "takes two to make a quarrel," of course there could not be one that time. When nurse came to carry Ted off to bed, Mother said softly to Theodore: "The key of 'silence' was useful that time, wasn't it, dear? You will soon have quite a bunch of keys to carry with you, and you will often find them useful."

We may all have a bunch, if we will ask for them in prayer. They will open many a difficult door for us, until at length we enter in at that heavenly door, from whence we shall return no more.—Herald of Mercy, London.

Georgia Woman's Auxiliary Workshop

Mrs. B. W. Clenney, Georgia State Woman's Auxiliary president, submits the following message to the woman's auxiliaries of Georgia concerning the state workshop:

"We are counting on each local auxiliary over the state of Georgia to be well represented at Camp Mount Bethel, Ashburn, Georgia, on June 14, when the Georgia State Woman's Auxiliary Workshop will be held. We are fortunate in being able to obtain Mrs. L. D. Miley, W. N. A. C. president, to be our instructor for the day, and we especially urge every auxiliary member over the state to make a special effort to attend the workshop.

"We are asking the usual fee of $5 from each auxiliary so that we may pay our speaker for the day. Each auxiliary is asked to send the names and addresses of the local and district presidents to Mrs. B. W. Clenney, Route 3, Colquitt, Georgia, so that they may be contacted before the workshop is held. I would also like to ask that the auxiliaries send all offerings such as mission offerings, Bible College offerings, Dot Harvey Loan Fund, orphanage offerings, Co-Laborer Fund and unified program to the state treasurer, Mrs. S. T. Shutes, Colquitt, Georgia. By doing this we will be able to keep an accurate record of what our women are doing for the promotion of the Lord's work."

Below is the program which has been submitted for the Georgia Workshop:

Tarboro, N. C.—The woman's auxiliary of the church held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, May 15, with Mrs. Allen Deal as hostess. The meeting opened with the group singing "Revive Us Again." Mrs. Homer Webb read the Scripture which was taken from Esther 4:14-17, followed with prayer by Mrs. Nathan Eason. Those taking part on the program were: Mrs. Tyndall, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Williamson. There were eleven members and one visitor present. It was reported that two cottage prayer meetings had been held during the past month. The meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Homer Webb, after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

Spring Hope, N. C.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Flood's Chapel Church held its regular monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Elijah Bissette on May 19 at 8:00 p. m. with 12 members and 3 visitors present.

Mrs. Bert Brantley held the opening devotions which were followed with prayer by Miss Peggy Brantley. The ladies present answered the roll call with Bible verses as each name was called. Following the business session Mrs. Brantley presented the program for the evening. Mrs. Robie Lamm dismissed the meeting with prayer, and the hostess then served refreshments.

Moultrie, Ga.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Midway Free Will Baptist Church met Thursday night, May 17, at the home of Mrs. W. L. Purvis with 17 present. Following the business session, the program, "We Need Revival for Such a Time as This," was presented.

Hanna Writes from North India!

We are now preparing for our summer Bible school. We had hoped to wait until Dan and Trula got here, but the boys will all be back in school so we are going to have it from May 23—June 6. That should get us through and give us about a week before the rains really come, although the last ten days have been almost like the real monsoon. Please pray with us that the Word may grip the hearts of these young men, and that they may be able to make all their decisions accordingly. Pray for us as we try to teach them the Word, realizing that we cannot take them further than we ourselves have gone. Pray for David as he will be with us now for two months after his first year in Bible College in Calcutta. He has worked hard in Calcutta and is a real soul winner, so the president of the Bible College told me. We trust that he will not lose his zeal when he leaves the city and comes back to the village.

We are building a temporary building here in Sonapurhat for our little school boys. We will have about eight to ten next school term—from July. Some of these are from our little Mission School out at Digabond and Chuticore, and some are from other villages where they have no opportunity for education. Some of these boys will not keep on going to school and try for the high school matric, but will read here for a year or two and return to their own villages and farm work. All we trust will be able to serve the Lord and be of help to others in their villages.

Our church is almost finished. We are waiting for cement for the floors, that is all we lack now. I applied for cement in December but haven't received permit for one bag as yet. Do hope we receive it soon as we would so like to have the church ready to use for our Bible school.

The old blind man from our church here in Sonapurhat passed away about two weeks ago, and Bongo's mother passed away four days later. The blind man's wife said her husband longed more than anything to see the church finished and worship in it. He expected to, but fell ill and died after only one day's illness. Bongo's mother had suffered so much, we are glad she is at rest.

sented for the first time by letter and by delegates. There were 11 out of 19 ministers present, 14 out of 39 deacons, 7 out of 14 church clerks, and 27 delegates, making a record delegation of 59 as a voting body. There was only one visitor, Brother Dean, of Oklahoma. Only one church in the conference does not have a Sunday school. The average attendance of all the 13 Sunday schools was 709. The 14 churches have a resident membership of 711, having received 20 new members during the last quarter, dismissing 10 by letter, and losing 2 by death.

Brother D. W. Pinkston of Hoxie, Arkansas, was ordained to preach during the conference. The next meeting will be held with the New Home Church, Gid, Arkansas, on July 27, 28, with the Elders D. W. Pinkston and Austin Mulen in charge of the messages.

Hillview Church Celebrates Anniversary

The Hillview Free Will Baptist Church of Bastrop, Louisiana, celebrated its second anniversary on April 21, 22, 1956. The Elder Hurshel Sharpton delivered the message on Saturday night. Following the message those present engaged in a communion service and in washing feet. On the following day the members of the Hillview Church joined in singing praises to the Lord to thank Him for the many blessings which had been showered upon the church. Those present at the service enjoyed a bountiful picnic lunch together.

Since April 28, 1954, the church has bought 6 acres of land and built a church valued at $10,000, redeeming it in full on Thanksgiving Day of 1955.

The church also announces its revival which will begin August 12, 1956, with the Elder R. G. Webb of Russellville, Arkansas, as the evangelist.

Mrs. Bertha Chappell, a member of

We plan to baptize three more people in the Santal village where we baptized four in March. We were going on Friday, but because of storms, we were unable to go. We also hope to baptize about twelve men and women out near the border on Friday of this week. Pray that the Lord may strengthen these day by day, and that many more may come to know Him soon.

Sincerely in Him,

I Met God One Night

Ronnie Rolison
Beaufort, North Carolina

The story I'm about to tell,
Has turned my soul to heav'n from hell.
It was dark, there was no light;
And then I met God one night.

He didn't speak like you and I
He didn't brag; He didn't lie;
He spoke of heaven up above,
He spoke of His Son; He spoke of love.

He told of the ways of this world,
He told of the sins of boy and girl;
He told of salvation for you and me,
Look in your Bible—it's there; it's free!

He spoke of the way we live this life,
We drink, we curse, we hate, we fight.
But we can be saved—yes, you and I,
That's why on the Tree He had to die.

I asked Him what we had to do,
He said, "Believe on My Son and you,
Must live by grace and faith and love,
Then you will have a home above."

Have you met the Man in the sky?
Have you read that the time is nigh?
Learn to believe with all your might,
He's coming back like a thief in the night.

This is the story God told to me,
Life can be yours for eternity,
For you'll never be lost in His sight;
Then you can say, "I met God one night."

The Gospel Overcomes Paganism

(Lesson for June 10)

Lesson: Acts 19:8-10, 18-20; Ephesians 5:15-18.

Golden Text: Ephesians 5:8.

I. INTRODUCTION

The people who are engaged in sinful businesses and enterprises are aware that the gospel of Christ can put them out of business. It is for that reason that they put forth so much effort against the Church. Let us see what happened in Ephesus.

Demetrius and his craft saw the gospel destroy their business. Demetrius was the head of a group of silversmiths who had a thriving business making and selling little silver images of the goddess, Diana, patterned after the large image erected in the city. They would sell these images to people to be set up in their homes and worshiped. This was idolatry and in violation of the commandment of God. The image had no power to help the one who prayed to it. But, worst of all in this pagan worship, the creed which Diana was supposed to have dictated for man's conduct sanctioned indulgence of the animal appetites of man as his right and proper conduct.

We cannot but compare the paganism of Ephesus with that which is among us today. The liquor industry is flourishing in our land, making the United States a nation of drunkards. We cannot close our eyes to the tragic effect which intoxicating beverages are having upon the morality and manhood of the nation. Review the case histories of delinquent girls and see how liquor played a major role in their downfall. Find out how many boys started on the road to hardened criminals by becoming pals with the bottle. Hear the traffic officers tell you that the majority of highway accidents are caused by strong drink. Go to the divorce courts and find what is one of the major reasons why 4 out of every 10 marriages failed last year. Look on our city streets and in mental and detention institutions to see men and women who were endowed by God with sound physical bodies and keen minds, but who are now deplorably broken and wretched. Why do we worship at the shrine of intoxicating liquor when it is such a curse upon us?—The Bible Student (F. W. B.).

II. HELPFUL HINTS

1. Plain gospel preaching is sure to incur the resentment of those who are hardened in sin (Vv. 8, 9).

2. Better preach with freedom in a lecture hall than to be handicapped in the finest church (Vv. 9, 10).

3. Faith that saves a man from his sins will manifest itself through a transformed life (Vv. 18-20).

4. Evil men will always howl when the gospel interferes with their source of wealth (Vv. 23-25).

5. The forces of evil, whether gods or men, are all in danger where the gospel is preached (Vv. 26, 27).

6. Those who walk as Christians should be careful how they use their precious time (Ephesians 5:15, 16).

7. Those who know and do the will of God are the wisest of men in the sight of the Lord (Vs. 17).

8. The incompatibility of the Spirit and of wine makes it impossible to be full of both (Vs. 18).—The Bible Teacher (F. W. B.).

III. ADDITIONAL TRUTHS

1. Paul had a great and lengthy ministry in Ephesus which was the outstanding city of Asia, the center of idolatrous worship, a city of great beauty and wealth, a center of business and the deepest pagan culture. Here was a challenge par excellence, and in the name of Christ the apostle accepted it.

Note the division which comes when Christ is preached. Many believed and confessed Christ by both word and deed. Others continued, yea, and waxed strong in their unbelief and hardness of heart. It is always so. Christ Himself said it would be so. Read Matthew 10:34-39 and press home this truth as you teach its importance.

2. The first experience of Paul at Ephesus; that of meeting certain disciples (Acts 19:2-7). The number of them was about twelve men (Vs. 7). Who they were, we are not informed, but they were Jewish men, as the incident clearly indicates, when we consider the fact that they were disciples of John the Baptist.

Have you time to read Matthew 28:11-14? It is likely that Apollos (18:24) and the twelve disciples had heard this falsehood and believed it to be true. As a result they were still looking for the coming of the Messiah.

Paul could tell these men that Jesus had actually risen from the tomb and been seen on many occasions by His disciples, and best of all, that He had appeared personally to him (Paul) on the road to Damascus. These men were not Christians when Paul first met them for they had not yet believed on the Lord Jesus Christ.

3. The intervening verses (Acts 19:11-17) present the record of special miracles wrought by the hands of Paul, and also of a particular miracle that was performed, which caused the triumph of the gospel.

The shame and punishment which befell the sons of Sceva also had a wholesome effect upon many that were already believers. "And many that believed came, and confessed, and shewed their deeds." These did not become believers through this incident, but according to the A. S. V. they had already been believers. "Many also of them that had believed came, confessing, and declaring their deeds." It is obvious that these had believed the gospel, but had not altogether broken away from their evil practices. They were still secretly attached to the curious arts—that is, magical things. They were now deeply convicted of the wrong of these things and confessed their evil deeds of darkness. There was genuine repentance and turning away from the practiced evil. There are multitudes of believers these days who secretly tolerate and practice evil, and who should confess their sins and in honest repentance turn away from them.—The Bible Illustrator.

4. The term "walk" is a figurative expression employed by the apostle to symbolize Christian living. His use of this figure is quite systematic in the epistle to the Ephesians. In Chapter 2:10 he informs them that a regenerate soul, a new creature in Christ, is created "unto good works," and lined up to "walk in them." In Chapter 4:1 he counsels them to walk worthy of their vocation. A vocation differs from an avocation in the fact that you cannot have but one vocation. In Chapter 5:2 he counsels them to walk in love.

Resolutions of Respect

LUCY LINTON DAUGHERTY

Whereas, it has pleased our heavenly Father in His wisdom to call our friend and co-worker, of former years, Mrs. Lucy Linton Daugherty, to her eternal rest, we, the members of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Woman's Auxiliary Convention submit the following tribute of respect:

(1) That we bow in humble submission to our Father's will in calling her from a life of service rendered untiringly to her friends, her church and her God.

(2) That we express our sympathy to those who loved her.

(3) That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her nearest of kin, a copy of The Free Will Baptist for publication, and a copy be placed on the minutes of our State Woman's Auxiliary Convention.

Respectfully submitted,
Executive Committee,
N. C. Woman's Auxiliary
Convention

Mr. Allen Willis

Mr. Allen Willis succumbed to a heart attack which attending services at the Davis Free Will Baptist Church, Davis, North Carolina, on Sunday, May 6, 1956. He died in the pew he had occupied for many years, and had often said he wanted to die in church when his appointed time came.

Brother Willis was converted as a young man and joined the Free Will Baptist church soon after his marriage. He had been faithful to his Lord and to his church down through the years, and was eighty years of age at the time of his departure. His name will be found in many of the minutes of both the State Association of North Carolina and the Eastern Conference of North Carolina as he often served his church as a delegate to these bodies.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, Melissa; three sons, Guy, Monnie and Gordon; one daughter, Irene; and many friends and relatives.

The Best from the Word

Study it through. Never begin a day without mastering a verse from its pages.

Pray it in. Never lay aside your Bible until the verse or passage you have studied has become a part of your being.

Put it down. The thoughts that God gives you put down in the margin of your Bible or in your notebook.

Work it out. Live the truth you get in the morning through each hour of the day.

Pass it on. Seek to tell somebody else what you have learned.—J. Wilbur Chapman.

Peace

With eager heart and will on fire,
I strove to win my great desire.
"Peace shall be mine," I said; but life
Grew bitter in the barren strife.
My soul was weary, and my pride
Was wounded deep; to Heaven I cried,
"God grant me peace or I must die";
The dumb stars glittered no reply.
Broken at last, I bowed my head,
Forgetting all myself, and said,
"Whatever comes, His will be done";
And in that moment peace was won.

ENLISTING YOUTH

Let us challenge you to think seriously with us about one of the most pressing problems facing the Church today: the program of enlisting and holding children and young people in the service of Christ and the church program. Let us attack the problem by asking and seeking the answers to three questions. How many unenlisted children and young people are there in my church community? Why are they unenlisted? What can be done to enlist them?

To begin with, we must assume that, unless you are living in an exceptional community with an exceedingly fine church program planned and administered to hold the youth, there is a high percentage of the young people who show very little interest in service to Christ through the church. If your community is small and you know all the people, you can sit right where you are and make a list which will astound you. If you are living in an urban community, there are several means by which you may determine the extent of this unenlistment: you may examine the cards of the last church census; during the hour of Sunday school or worship services you may check the stores, filling stations and other places where people gather; you may check the church roll against that of the Sunday school and league; you may observe the number of young people who leave the church after Sunday school and do not attend the worship services; you may talk with the young people themselves to see where their interest lies. Please do not dismiss this problem as not acute in your community until you have made a thorough investigation.

When you have the facts before you, your next reaction will be that of trying to find the cause. In May, 1955, Mr. Leland H. Waters of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board spent four days in a North Carolina church community bringing messages and leading discussions on the problems involved in broken homes and juvenile delinquency. It is interesting to note that the causes of delinquency as listed by the group in that study might well include most of the elements of the problem in any community. They were: lack of adult leadership for youth programs, bad literature, bad influence of adults, lack of training for acceptance of responsibility, beverage alcohol and drugs, poor handling of income, broken homes, undeveloped spiritual life, places of bad influence, lack of parental control, supervision and discipline.

Please be reminded that the root of these causes lies, not in the children and young people, but in the adults of the community. We are not exonerating young people of their sins of omission or commission; neither are we overlooking the fact that, by nature, they are depraved and in need of regeneration by the Holy Spirit. On the other hand, they are no less or more depraved by nature than adults; nor are they less or more accountable to God for their sins after they reach the age of accountability than adults. However, we cannot but recognize that environmental factors play an extremely important role in shaping the pattern of life of every individual. There is a great deal of truth in the old proverb, "As the twig is bent, so the tree will grow."

We, as a denomination, believe that the church has a mandate from Christ to foster the kind of spiritual environment which will induce men to accept Christ and maintain continuous growth in Him. Therefore, we must administer our Sunday schools, leagues, prayer services, daily vacation

Bible schools, young people's auxiliaries and other activities in such a manner as to reach and hold our youth.

We quote from The Biblical Recorder five things which C. C. Warren, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, urged his people to do immediately:

"(1) Determine to pay the price. Valuable things do not come cheap. There is no easy way or painless method to reach young people. Here is a field where success is spelled out with capitals, WORK. Persistent, loving understanding, continuous effort will melt indifferent attitudes. Young people can be reached—dare to pay the price and enlist them.

"(2) Select the right leaders. We should be very careful in the selection of every worker in our Sunday school, but in no age group should our officers and teachers be more thoroughly screened than when we select them to lead our young people. Characteristics, like characters, should be above reproach. Profound convictions, understanding of, and love for young people, attractive personality, energetic resourcefulness, etc., should mark the leader of young people.

"(3) Provide adequate space and attractive facilities. Commercial amusements and worldly entertainers are our chief competitors for the loyalties of our young people. They invest large sums of money to provide facilities that are most attractive. Thousands of our churches should wake up and make attractive rooms for our young people. They deserve the best; give it to them and we will win and keep them.

"(4) Organize to reach young people. Any Sunday school that has twice as many intermediate classes as it has for young people simply encourage intermediates to quit Sunday school upon arriving at the young people's age. Get back to that basic law of Sunday school growth and provide an organization that will reach young people and keep them in our Sunday school and church services.

"(5) Don't sell them short. Some church groups have apparently settled for programs that seek to parallel as closely as possible the attractions of the world. They feel that unless our churches make this type of appeal, we cannot reach young people. I believe that modern youth is serious minded and can be won with greater success through programs which hold high the ideals of our Christian faith. Recreation and entertainment, yes, but Christian recreation at its best—if you please!

"Fellow pastors and Christian leaders, there is nothing new in what I have written here, but if you will dare to do these things, there will be something new about your church—new young people for a better tomorrow."

Meet Terry Rose

I looked and I realized I was a twig on a raging ocean."

KOREA seems a long ways off now. But things happened there that changed my life. I found that when the knocks fell—rather hard ones—God took them and softened them. And that's about all a fellow can ask for.

I was born on a ranch near Healdsburg, California, on January 14, 1932. I have four brothers and six sisters and each Sunday, as regular as milking time, Mom packed us up in the old family car and drove us twelve miles to church. The road was sort of twisty and each Sunday I'd get car sickness. During the same trip on a Saturday I'd feel wonderful! It was during a special series of messages by our pastor when I was a high school sophomore that I accepted Jesus Christ as my own personal Saviour.

After graduation I went to San Francisco and got a job as a file clerk with Southern Pacific. I was saving my money so I could go to college and in the summer of 1952, I entered one in "Frisco." Then I was drafted. I took infantry training at Fort Ord and on March 30 sailed for Korea on the U.S.S. Mitchell.

I was assigned to the 7th Division and moved up with a machine gun squad near the main line of resistance. There had just been a big attack, and that's all the old outfit talked about. It was enough to scare us new guys to death. I was assigned to an outpost called "Snooks." Around each outpost we had listening posts with telephones and radios to warn us of any sneak night attack by the Chinese Communists. That night an attack came and three of the lookouts were killed. About 100 Chinese swarmed into our trenches and bunkers. There were only six of us left, and each fighting to hold his own. All that night we held them off. For this action, we all got bronze stars.

After a short period of leadership raining behind the lines, I was again sent to the front. This time to Pork Chop Hill. It was the first of July and raining hard. Everyone was on edge. We knew the Communists liked to attack in the rain. On the night of July 6 I pulled listening post duty. This time it was my turn! It was raining, and by 10 p. m., I was soaked to the skin. It was a dark eerie night and I could hardly see my buddy next to me. At 10:20 artillery and mortar fire began exploding at the base of our hill. I watched the explosions steadily drawing on, and I realized I was a twig on a raging ocean. Soon the whole hill was like a bursting volcano. To make it worse, down in the valley the Chinese were waiting for the command to attack.

The Sarge screamed over the phone, commanding us to return to the trenches. And head for the trenches I did, with a Korean on my left and a kid from Tennessee on my right! The others stayed out there. Amid the flying shrapnel we'd run unto we'd fall and pray with all our hearts that God would deliver us from this raging inferno. The Korean was killed by fire from one of our own bunkers and for a while I became tangled in barbed wire, but finally made it to our trenches unharmed. By now the Chinese foot soldiers were streaming up the hill using burp guns, rifles, flame throwers, etc. We were over-run. A Chinese grenade hit a lieutenant standing beside me, and blew his head off. I only lost my little finger, but my helmet was ripped to shreds.

By morning I was so cold and wet and tired, I wanted to die. I had no weapon and most of our men around me were dead. Everything was still. I crept to an opening in the bunker and looked out. The rain had stopped and the sun was coming up. For a minute the world looked warm and happy. Then I saw a Chinese with a rifle not thirty feet away. Then another Chinese spotted me and tossed a grenade down on me. I picked it up and heaved it out of the bunker, but just as I did, the Communist soldier threw another. It exploded near my face. I grabbed my face, took two steps and then fell unconscious in the cold mud. Every once in a while I'd come to and I'd think of God.

Later the heat of a flame thrower aroused me. Our troops had retaken the hill. I staggered down the trench calling out to our men.

Well, that's about all there was to it. I was taken by tank, jeep, and then helicopter to a hospital ship that brought me to Japan. I was flown back to the States, and a year later I was home. I'm now a student at the Bible Institute of Los Angeles. I shall never cease to thank God for the way He softened the knocks. That last grenade blinded me, and when the Army doctors gave me a cane it felt like a snake. Then one night I had a long talk with my Lord and I thanked Him for what had happened. I knew it was in His plan for me. Others have come to know Christ as their Saviour because of what happened to me in Korea. And this is enough. I know the Lord can heal me any time He wants, but if He does not in this life, I'll see Him face to face someday. A fellow could not ask for anything more.

Perhaps you have been stirred as you read this true story, and your heart of compassion has been moved toward Terry Rose. Have you wondered how, under the circumstances, he could be rejoicing? It would not be possible unless he had experienced the joy of finding an answer to life's problems and sorrows.

Has that same tranquility and faith in God's promise that ". . . all things work together for good to them that love God, . . ." (Romans 8:28) been displayed in your own life? Or are you still groping for an answer to the complexities and frustrations of present-day living? The peace of mind and zest for life which Terry displays can only be discovered in its fullest measure when you follow the advice found in the Holy Bible, God's "letter" to you. Read carefully the following verses and seriously consider letting God tune the discordant notes of your life to the perfect pitch which He requires of those who desire to lead life on a higher plane.

"The Lord is . . . longsuffering to us-ward . . . not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance" (2 Peter 3:9).

"As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up: That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life. For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:14-16).

"Commit thy way unto the LORD; trust also in him; . . . (Psalm 37:5).

" . . . reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans 6:11).

" . . . he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ" (Philippians 1:6).—American Tract Society.

A Spiritual House

Thomas H. Dixon
Checotah, Oklahoma

THEREFORE laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings, As newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby: If so be ye have tasted that the Lord is gracious. To whom coming, as unto a living stone, disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious, Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ" (1 Peter 2:1-5).

A spiritual house is made up of those who have laid aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings. It would be impossible to offer spiritual sacrifices unless the ones making up the spiritual house were spiritual themselves. The redeemed of all nations, kindred and tongues constitute this spiritual house. This house is God's house; and He, through the operation of the Spirit, baptizes individuals into this spiritual body. "For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have been all made to drink into one Spirit (1 Corinthians 12:13).

We have been all made to drink into one Spirit. There is one spiritual body, and this body is the Church, the saved of all nations, kindreds and tongues. Within this Church are saved men who once were lost. This Church has two aspects, the visible and the invisible. "Praising God, and having favour with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved" (Acts 2:47). The Lord added to the church daily. Man is unable to add to this Church. Why is man unable? Man cannot baptize anyone in the body of Christ, which is the Church.

There are no hypocrites in this true Church of God. No unsaved person can enter into this spiritual house. God adds to this house. In this house men are saved, and out of it they are lost. No congregation or denomination has a spiritual right to claim it is the Church of God exclusively of all others. There are Christians in all denominations, but not one of them is the Church of God. Let us notice the beginning of a letter to the church at Corinth from the apostle, Paul: "Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, both theirs and ours" (1 Corinthians 1:2).

The apostle did not write to the unsaved at Corinth, but to those who were sanctified in Christ; and there are no hypocrites in Christ Jesus. The Church of God is purchased by the blood of Christ (Acts 20:28). Hypocrites are not purchased; they are lost in the devil's kingdom. The Church of God is the greatest institution on earth. Jesus Christ gave Himself for the Church (Ephesians 5:25). "This is he, that was in the church in the wilderness . . ." (Acts 7:38). "Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen" (Ephesians 3:21).

If men must be in the Church to be saved, then we know that the church has been prevalent in every age. The fam-
